Authorities Hold A. L. Phillips Whose Wife, Convicted Murderer, Escapes From Los Angeles County Jail

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5. (AP)—Arguer Lee Phillips, husband of Mrs. Clara Phillips, convicted "hanging murderer," who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail early today, was held in technical custody pending further developments tonight, according to announcements from the sheriff's office.

Officials said some time after talking with Phillips, that he had obtained information, which could be used as a part of his "escape" attempt, to them. His movements last night.

Phillips appeared at the office of the attorney late today and sent word to the sheriff's office he was ready to be interviewed about the escape.

Professing Ignorance Phillips later made a statement in which he said he knew nothing about the escape or where his wife had gone. He gave a detailed account of his movements for the past 24 hours.

Phillips was under sentence to serve from 10 years to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows. The escape was so well planned and so completely successful that it is known for more than six hours. Mrs. Phillips, after effecting her escape with the aid of three or four persons outside the jail, apparently was in a automobile, with those who aided her, and disappeared "at night."

Three steel bars guarding the window in her cell were sawed through and she escaped by jumping out of the heavy metal netting was cut out, and through the two-foot opening thus formed, the young woman climbed and made her way over adjacent roofs to the street.

The sheriff's department reported to the state penitentiary.

NATION FINDS PROSPERITY IN ITS RESOURCES

Secretary of Interior Points Out Important Part Played by Use and Development of Lands and Minerals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Use and development of the country's natural resources under control of the Interior Department—have contributed in great measure to national prosperity, Secretary Fall declared today in his annual report. The Secretary listed the more outstanding of these contributions as follows: the opening up of public lands by returned soldiers and other citizens; the discovery of new oil fields; development of existing fields and increasing production of oil and gas; the exploitation of coal deposits, and the opening of mines in the Western States.

Obviously, the Interior Secretary declared, these developments have resulted in very substantial cash returns to the Federal treasury and to the States. In fact, he added, these mineral resources have been developed under leading laws.

Office Workers Catch Up

The outstanding administrative accomplishment of the department during the fiscal year ended last June 30, was declared to be the reaching almost of current work in both the Land office and the Pension office. The examination of final homestead proofs is current in the former office, a task which has not been completed in many years, the Secretary said. This, he added, has already resulted in placing in the hands of the people nearly half of more than $100,000,000 and has been done without increase in force of that office and in the face of the greatly increasing work.

Urges Extension of Reclamation Policy

Urges extension of the reclamation policy of former Secretary Fall, the west was recommended in the report, which showed that while funds were restricted for that work the achievement of the Bureau has not only justified the continuation of the reclamation policy, one new irrigation project was started, despite lack of funds, and the total value of crops raised on the reclamation work is estimated at more than $476,000,000. The benefits in the way of making farms, the increase of food production and the creation of new jobs, he stated, by the reclamation of lands make that work of great value in return to properly, the report asserted.

Many Pension Claims

More than 350,000 claims were disposed of during the year by the Bureau of Pensions, and 99,000 applications for pensions, the accumulation in March 1921, were handled, the report stated. This has caused a need of increased office force, and if the increase in the work continues at the rate of the past three years, the Director reported, he will be necessary further to augment the number of employees. The Patent Office is a self supporting institution, Mr. Fall pointed out, adding that last year the receipts of the office were $172,000 greater than expense.

Parks Draw Record Crowds

The playgrounds of the nation, its National parks and monuments, were visited by a record breaking number of persons. More than 1,516,000 visited the parks every state and territory in the union, its possessions and many foreign countries viewed the wonders of nature preserved in these parks. The report stated that the law derived from government oil wells in the west, to allow for keeping greater quantities of crude oil, was recommended in the report. This is the government, which is forced to sell its oil royalties monthly, may take advantage of better markets by holding back its stocks. Provision for more storage capacity, such as private companies, have in the field, is absolutely necessary, Mr. Fall said. Under this system, Mr. Fall stated, the government will tend to beat down the price in periods of depression, to the injury to the consumer to the extent that the government is obliged to take the business to the courts through its influence toward stabilization.

Oil Lands Yield Revenue

Pointing out the government takes its royalties from oil land leases in the form of crude oil, Mr. Fall said returns from this source during the year amounted to $7,800,000, while the total amount of oil produced from the oil produced from Indian owned land.

Reports of the Governors of Alaska and Hawaii, summarized in the Interior report review the progress of the two territories during the year.

Governor Bone, of Alaska, noted that the Governor submitted a bill, and imports forswore returning prosperity, and said that with encouragement a strong tide of immigration into the Territory is expected, however, until mining was inaugurated on a large scale and industries started the population could not be expected to increase greatly. The Governor also recommended that jurisdiction over the whole of Alaska excepting the fisheries be vested in the Interior Department; that branch lines and spur be built to the Alaska Railroad; that all law-enforcing agencies be consolidated under the Department of Justice; that control of the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce, and the formulation of a colonization plan.

Hawaii Passes Crisis

Governor Farrington, of Hawaii, reported that during the twelve months ended last June 30, the Territory passed through one of the most critical financial periods in its history and that while general business conditions had improved the agricultural labor situation still was serious. One of the foremost of his recommendations was passage by Congress of the Hawaii emergency law, re-organizing the Territory, and some similar legislation to protect workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance. Production of some similar legislation to protect workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance. Production of some similar legislation to protect workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance.

Low Salaries Problem

The most serious situation facing the Department is the low scale of salaries, the Secretary asserted. One of the foremost of his recommendations was passage by Congress of the Hawaii emergency law, re-organizing the Territory, and some similar legislation to protect workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance. WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Return by President Harding today to the Senate of the nomination of Pierce Butler, St. Paul attorney and a democrat, to be an associate justice of the supreme court, met with immediate opposition, followed by immediate preparations of Senate forces to fight for and against his confirmation. ## OPERATORS AGREE UPON WAGE SETTLEMENT PLAN

Mine Owners from 15 Bituminous States Reach Accord on Wage and Working Conditions Representations. CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—A plan of settlement between mine operators and 15 bituminous states here today, will pave the way, they predicted, for an understanding on a wage settlement when they meet with the miners' representatives tomorrow.

While the details of the plan would not be given, operators intimated that they had made enough concessions to make the plan attractive to John L. Lewis, mine union president. The plan was first drafted by a committee composed of Charles O'Neill and J. H. Sanford, representing Pennsylvania operators; James S. Miller, Illinois; Rice Miller, Illinois; Harry Taylor, southwest, and E. S. Brooks, Wyoming.

This committee first reported a plan, operators said, based on district settlement, with the privilege of states grouping for any group settlement they might agree to. The plan, after arbitration and a sliding scale of wages based on the market price of competing coal fields. Following the submission of this, the committee was ordered to rephrase part of it, but operators said little objection was voiced against the essential features of the plan, and it is expected a plan along these lines will be submitted to Lewis and the miners' representatives tomorrow.

SESSION WAITS FOR WORD FROM NATION'S CHIEF

President Harding Breaks Long Established Precedent by Failure to Deliver Message Early; New Issues Develop

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A precedent established only in the history of the republic was broken by President Harding today when he failed to deliver his annual message to Congress, which was convened in regular session yesterday. It has been the custom for the chief executives to deliver their messages in person or in writing on either the first or second day of a session, and, according to officials at the capital, the only time this practice has been broken heretofore was in 1915 when President Pierce deferred his message until the last day in December, because of the inability of the house to organize. At that session he required a hallote for the house to elect its speaker.

Pressure of public business was believed to be in part responsible for the delay, but there were also indications that the president, because of recent official discussions, felt it would be the part of wisdom to give a few more days' study to his message.

There was a suggestion that among these questions was a plan for legislation to aid the farmers. The president's message last week was filled with republican concerns and it was believed possible that this program had not been worked out in all its details. It was expected that the session be put in a final form.

Clemenceau Visits White House and Tells President of Conditions in Europe, But Asks No Assurances

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Georges Clemenceau visited the White House today and talked with President Harding for 40 minutes. But the subject nearest his heart—American participation in European affairs—did not come up.

The visit was described at the White House as merely a social call of courtesy, at which it was said serious portions of state were not discussed. The Tiger said tonight it was "a delightful visit" during which he gave the president his views about European conditions in general. He emphasized that he did not ask the president for any assurances, pointing out that he was merely a private citizen of France, and asserting he had not come to "press to the president, but to pay my regards."

No Political Effect Seen—If Clemenceau's picture of conditions abroad had any effect on the administration's foreign policy, it was not indicated in comment at the White House later on other subjects. With respect to the Lusitania conference on the Near-East, full participation in which has been suggested by Clemenceau, the president said to feel that every proper influence of this government—and this influence was described as greatly increased by being exerted in a manner believed to be in harmony with the best judgment of the world statesmen who were fully in touch with the situation.

Leaves With Broad Smile—Clemenceau apparently enjoyed his talk with the president, which was the first event of a full day. He was smiling broadly when he emerged from the executive offices, where he had been received, and chatted so volubly with Jules J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, who had presented him that he forgot his hat and had to return for it.

It had been expected that the French premier would drive to Woodrow Wilson's home from the White House, but the visit was postponed until tomorrow afternoon to serve the former president's convenience. So the Tiger went sightseeing. Ambassador Jusserand took him first to the Lincoln memorial, where he stood for several minutes in silence before the heroic figure of Lincoln. Then he walked over and read the Gettysburg address on the marble wall. Ignoring workmen who were holding buckets of paint to the roof, he also paused to read Lincoln's last inaugural address, which is down into the opposite wall.

Emerging, M. Jusserand pointed out the reflecting pool under process of construction between the memorial and the Washington monument, and explained that in the morning it would mirror the tall Washington shaft, and

Commerce Commission Draws Hearing of Public's Views in Central Pacific to Close

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Rules similar to those of the Washington conference on limitation of armaments were approved at the first business sessions today of the general committee of the Central American conference and will be drafted and presented to the states tomorrow. Chief of interest at tomorrow's session is expected to center in the question of inclusion in the conference agenda of the proposal for a union of Central American countries. The principal questions considered at today's meeting, over which Secretary Hughes presided, were whether unanimity was required for the general committee to submit to the conference new matters or proposals under the terms of the American invitation, by which the agenda may be extended by the delegates. No decision was reached but it was widely reported that the United States and Salvadoran delegates argued that a requirement of unanimity would prevent discussion by the conference of the proposed Central American union, which they contended should receive first consideration. The Costa Rican delegation is known to oppose consideration of the Union proposal, which, it is said, will be brought up at tomorrow's session of the committee by the delegation from Honduras, seconded by that from Salvador.

STOCK DIVIDENDS TOTAL MORE THAN $1,500,000

Seven Large Industrial Corporations Announce Apportionment of $61,600,000 Worth of New Shares.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Stock dividends totaling $61,600,000 were announced today by seven large industrial corporations and banks, bringing the total stock dividends declared in the last few months to more than $1,500,000,000. These sums in virtually all cases have been provided for out of undistributed surplus, apparently in anticipation of unfavorable tax legislation in the next congress.

The Bank of Manhattan, one of the oldest in the country, increased its capital from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 by declaring a stock dividend of 10 per cent.

The Equitable Trust company announced plans to increase its capital from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, one half of which will be provided for out of stock dividend and the remainder a new issue of stock to which holders of the bank stock might subscribe.

The Whitman Mills of New Bedford, Mass., declared a stock dividend of 50 per cent by increasing the capitalization from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

gress does not meet for more than a year after it selection as one of the wisest steps taken by the nation's founding fathers, as it always remains to cool.

The agriculture committee, in its report, however, took an opposite view, declaring "the present condition of affairs is not only unwise to the citizenship at large, who have expressed their will as to what legislation they desire, but it is likewise unfair to their servants who they have elected to carry out this will."

With respect to abolition of the electoral college, the committee declared its amendment would make it possible for an independent candidate to run for president without establishing an elaborate political machine in every state, which "means the expenditure of a vast sum of money."

"When the amendment and report were laid before the senate some members informally expressed surprise at such a resolution being reported out by the agriculture committee, but committee members said that they regarded the course as proper, inasmuch as the resolution was a substitute for one recently offered in the senate by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas."

The Caraway resolution would have declared it the sense of congress that defeated members should not vote on other than routine legislation at the session following the election and was referred to the agriculture committee by request of its author, who said that reference to any other committee would bring about its death.

At the same time the agriculture committee was in session, a judiciary subcommittee heard an endorsement from William Lowell Putnam of Boston, representing the American Bar association, for the pending Aburrut resolution amending the Constitution so that the terms of president and congress would begin soon after the elections. No action was taken by the subcommittee on the resolution.

LANDIS' PLANS ARE UNCHANGED

Joint Meeting of Major Leagues to Be Held Regardless of Americans' Attitude

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 5 (AP)—There is no possibility of Commissioner Landis' reconsidering his plans to hold a joint meeting on the major leagues in New York December 14, as originally scheduled, regardless of whether there is American league participation in the season. (The American league club owners are scheduled to hold their annual meeting in Chicago December 13.

Commissioner Landis made his decision plain tonight when he telegraphed a statement as to his intentions. His reply was that the joint meeting would be held as announced. He explained that he had issued his call for the meeting three weeks ago; that every club owner and official of the two leagues had been informed and that the call had been issued on assurance given during the world series that both the American and National leagues would hold their annual meetings in New York.

Everywhere the feeling prevailed that a misunderstanding had resulted, and that President Johnson probably would rescind his call for a Chicago meeting and gather his forces in New York next week.

After a brief session, the club owners of the American association adjourned tonight without adopting a schedule for the 1923 campaign. The starting date will be dependent upon the date selected by the majors for the opening.

CONSTITUTION OF IRELAND IS ACCEPTED LAW

Appointment of Timothy Healy as First Governor-General is Announced Following Ancient Ceremony of Approval

LONDON, Dec. 5. (AP)—The Irish constitution became law of the land this afternoon when, following the ancient ceremony of responding to the summons from "The Black Rod," the speaker of the house of commons presided over a procession of the members of the lower house to the upper chamber of parliament to hear the king's assent to the new Irish constitution and the consequential provisions bills—read by a royal commission. Immediately after the ceremony, an announcement was made of the appointment of Timothy Healy, a native-born Irishman, famous as a parliamentarian and lawyer, as the first governor-general of the Irish free state.

King Plans Special Trip
The entire ceremony took only a few minutes. The constitution bill had passed both houses of parliament unanimously and unamended. The consequential provisions bill had been subjected to minor amendments in the upper chamber, but those were agreed to by the lower house.

King George will make a special journey from Sandringham tomorrow to hold a private council at Sandringham palace, at which he will sign a proclamation declaring the adoption of the Irish constitution by the British and Irish parliaments. The constitution will come into operation immediately on the issuing of the proclamation.

DALL BECOMES PARLIAMENT.
DUBLIN, Dec. 5. (AP)—With the announcement from London that the Irish constitution had been given to the Irish parliament and that Timothy Healy had been appointed governor-general, all formalities have been concluded for the inauguration of the free state government. The Dail Eireann meets as the free state parliament tomorrow night to elect a speaker, swear in the members and proceed with the election of a senate.

HUSBAND IS FUGITIVE

all ports along the western portion of the north boundary between Idaho and California to be guarded, placed guards at every depot to scrutinize outgoing passengers, telegraphed detectives at the coast and her husband to nearby peace officers and personally led a search of those places to which it was believed the woman might have fled.

Footprints Tell Story
Investigation at the jail indicated that at least three persons had aided the woman. Her quarters were on the third floor of the old jail building and she occupied a tank cell overlooking the roof of an auxiliary structure, a story lower. Footprints and other marks on this roof led the deputies who investigated that angle of the escape to announce that at least two persons aided her on the roof, and that one or two more awaited them in an automobile at the street level.
The Los Angeles county jail stands in the main business section of the city. It is within a block of the federal building, where postal activities are continuing. "Street" cars pass along one side, even in the quiet hours of the night; taxicabs and automobiles ply over the street. There are always jailers and matrons on duty and a glare of street lamps surrounds it.

The sheriff announced that a number of persons who were connected with the trial of Mrs. Phillips would be sought to throw what light they could on the escape.

Matron's Account Given
The matron on duty at the time of the escape was Mrs. L. D. Fisher, long a member of the jail staff. She said she visited Mrs. Phillips in her cell at about 9:30 o'clock last night, found her in bed and complaining of illness. Mrs. Fisher said she then returned to the matron's quarters, about 25 feet from the door of Mrs. Phillips' cell. She said during the night she heard nothing unusual.

Mrs. Fisher said she knocked on all the cell doors at 6:30 o'clock this morning and they awoke the women in the dormitory. Women assigned to cells have their breakfast in their cells. Mrs. Phillips' cell was put on a shelf in her door as usual, later the cells were unlocked and when Mrs. Fisher noticed that Mrs. Phillips had not appeared, she asked other prisoners concerning her, and they said she was "around here some place." Still unable to locate her, the matron resumed her routine work and then she said a woman who occupies a cell adjoining that of Mrs. Phillips told her that Mrs. Phillips had escaped. Cells in the women's wards have inside curtains. The curtain in Mrs. Phillips' cell was down and this delayed discovery of the escape.

DECLINES TO INTERFERE WITH BURLEY BANK TRIAL
Supreme Court Refuses Former Official's Under Indictment Must Answer to Charges Preferred

NOISE—Dec. 5.—Trial of S. Grover Rich, former president, and other officers of the defunct Burley State Bank, will be resumed following the refusal of the state supreme court, announced Monday, to issue an order against further proceedings. The defendants were indicted by a grand jury in April, 1922, and Judge B. S. Varian, of the seventh district, called in to hear the case, was temporarily restrained from proceeding with it, the grounds that the trial was being in the eleventh district when that court was not in session, and that one juror had not been substituted for another.

Climate changes. Every old timer will tell you that we don't have winters now like those in the old days. When the boys and girls thought a bobbed party was the apogee of fun—and they were right—and when nobody thought a thing of having to go out on a howl-ero morning to thaw out the pump.

One week later. Things are awfully funny here this time of year. Father and Cousin Grace make it no. Anyhow, she's just as different as a different can be from Aunt Jane. And things are different, everywhere.

Two weeks later. I understand it all now—everything: why the house is different, and Father, and everything. And it is Cousin Grace, and it is a love story.

MARY MARIE. By Eleanor H. Porter. Illustrations by R. H. Livingston.

Well, of all the topsy-turvy worlds, this is the topsy-turvy world. What do they want me to do, and which do they want me to be? Oh, I wish I was just a plain Susie or Beulah, and not a cross-curd and a contradiction, with a father that wants me to be one thing and a mother that wants me to be another!

Well, to begin at the beginning. It's all over—the love story, I mean. And I know now why it's been so hard for me to remember to be Mary and why everything is different, and all. They don't want me to be Marie. They want me to be Marie.

But let me tell you what happened. It was last night. We were on the piazza. Father and Cousin Grace got up and went into the house for something—Cousin Grace, I mean—and all of a sudden I determined to tell Father how glad I was, about him and Cousin Grace; and how I hoped it would last—having him out there with me, and all that. And I told him: "I don't remember what I said exactly. But I hadn't anywhere near said what I wanted to when he dear old man. Why, he almost jumped out of his chair."

"Why, Father, I was telling you," I explained. And I tried to be so cool and calm that it would make him calm and cool, too. (But it didn't calm him or cool him one bit.) "I'd about when you're married and—"

"I do not expect to," I fell back in my chair, and I know I looked grieved and hurt and disappointed, as I almost sobbed: "Oh, Father, and when I thought you were going to—"

"There, there, child! He spoke stern and almost cross now. 'This absurd sentimental idea has gone quite enough. Let us think no more about it!'"

"I don't abrupt and nonsensical!" I cried. And I could hardly say the words, I was choking up so. "Everybody said you were going to, and I wrote to Mother, and—"

"You wrote that to your mother?" He jumped from his chair this time. "Yes; and she was glad."

"Oh, she was!" He sat down sort of limp-like and queer.

"Yes, she said she was glad you'd found a suitable woman to make a home for you."

"Oh, she did." He said this, too, in that queer, funny, quiet kind of way. "Yes, I spoke, decided and firm. I'd been to think, night of an accident, that maybe he didn't appreciate Mother as much as she did him; and I determined right then and there to make him, if I could, when I remember all the lovely things she'd said about him—"

"Father, I began; and I spoke this time, even more decided and firm. 'Oh, don't believe you appreciate Mother.'"

He made me jump this time, he turned around with such a jerk, and spoke so sharply. But in spite of the fact, I still held on to my subject, firm and decided.

"I don't believe you appreciate my mother. You acted right now as if you didn't believe she meant it when I told you she was glad you had found an admirable woman to make a home for you. But she did mean it, I know, because she said it before, once, last year, that she hoped you would do so. Yes, and that isn't all. There's another reason why I know Mother always has—has you best interest at heart. She's—she's tried to make me over into Mary before I came, so as to please you."

"She did mean it? Once more he made me jump, he turned so suddenly, and spoke with such a start, sharp snap, and in spite of the fact, I still held on to my subject, firm and decided. I told him everything—all about the cooking lessons, and the astronomy book we read an hour every day, and the pink silk dress I couldn't have, and the soft-felted shoes, and how she said, if she'd had self-discipline when she was a girl, her life would have been very different."

AIRPLANES DESTINED FOR CHINESE FORCES SEIZED

Commander of American Warships on Yangtze Confiscates Equipment for Aerial War. Hankow, China, Dec. 5 (AP)—Admiral Phelps, commander of the American warships on the Yangtze, has seized six airplanes destined for the Peiyu military forces, which arrived from Shanghai. The seizure is based on the grounds, first, that they were consigned to Fuh Chow, in the province of Szechuan, one of the treaty ports, on a state department permit and were diverted to Hankow; and second, that the planes had been seized contraband by the Shanghai customs.
