ALIENISTS DISAGREE BUT ACCORD BURCH FREEDOM

Insanity Board Fulfills Promise of Justice in Holds Murder Trials; Majority Thinks Burch Guilty

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—Arthur C. Burch, former convict of Frelinton, Ill., had his freedom tonight after standing trial three times for murder and once for insanity. The juries on the murder charge all disagreed, and the alienists at the insanity hearing did likewise, but the weight of expressed belief of the latter was that Burch was sane, or harmless if insane, so his freedom was restored to him.

Burch said he did not know what he would do.

The action today completed a long chapter of trial all based on the report of J. Bolton Kennedy, a young broker, who was shot down on the steps of his summer home in Burch was 17 months ago. Burch and Mrs. Madeline Obenehan were indicted for the crime. Burch was tried three times, the state to win twice, all of the juries disagreeing.

Mrs. Obenehan recently was freed when the district attorney dismissed the charges against her. Burch was held for an insanity hearing, on the petition of his attorney, Paul W. Schenck. Schenck and the Rev. W. A. Burch, father of Arthur, both testified today they believed he was insane and gave instances of what they said was unusual conduct. The alienist who examined Burch, Dr. J. W. Burch, said that the question seemed to resolve itself in Burch's favor, and directed that he be freed.

MICHIGAN MAN HELD FRIEND OF DEATH OF BEST FRIEND

Unidentified Woman's Hint to Investigate Case Leads to Murder Charge Against Suspect

BAY CITY, Mich., Dec. 9.—Arrangement of Harold H. Mendell, 46, charged with the slaying of his close friend, Rollie Morgan, Burch was today recovered from the Keweenaw in late August of last, was postponed late today until Monday. Mendell is being held incommunicado at the county jail.

An admonition to investigate Morgan's death, received at the sheriff's office from an unidentified woman, led to the charge against Mendell, according to Sheriff Theodore Trimble. The sheriff said the woman called while he was in jail and told Mrs. Trimble that Morgan's death might not have been accidental.

Morgan's body was disinterred, Physicians said he had been drowned but that a blow on the temple had rendered Morgan unconscious and that he had died from suffocation.

That Mendell was in line with Morgan's wife is an angle of the case, the prosecutor's office is investigating. It was announced. The Morgan and Mendell families are said to have been much together. Mrs. Morgan left here shortly after her husband's funeral and is said to have joined her parents in Alpena, Mich.

Morgan was the father of three children, the oldest 7 years old.

WOMEN CALL FOR NEW PEACE PLAN

International Conference Proposes World Congress for Agreements of Nations

THE HAGUE, Dec. 9.—The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom today adopted resolutions demanding a new peace based upon new international agreements, and charging its members to work for the convening of a world congress for this purpose, either through the instrumentality of the league of nations, a single nation or any group of nations.

The resolutions were moved by the British and French delegations and were adopted unanimously. They provided that the world's present plight resulted from existing treaties, laws, being contrary to the armistice terms, inconsistent with the preamble of the league of nations covenant, and dangerous from political, economic and military aspects.

The women issued a solemn warning to the world against occupation of the Ruhr district of Germany, and decided to organize mass demonstrations in cooperation with other pacifist bodies, pending a campaign to make a new peace a burning issue. The congress also endorsed the principle of disarmament.

Mrs. Jane Adams of Chicago, president of the league, was appointed to draft a Christmas message to be addressed to all peoples suffering from the peace treaties.

PREWAR LIVING COSTS RETURN FOR CANADIANS

Government Statistics Show Average Weekly Family Budget Now $10.28 as Against $15.95 in 1915

MONTREAL, P. Q., Dec. 9 (AP)—Living costs are nearing pre-war levels, the average cost of the weekly family budget, according to government statistics, now being $10.28 as compared with $15.95 last year and $15.95 in 1915.

The index of wholesale prices is lower than it has been in years. Financial experts point out that the decline in commodity prices has been accompanied by a remarkably revival of business throughout the Dominion.

Unemployment virtually has disappeared. The harvest in the west drained the east of workers and created a temporary labor shortage in several lines of industry. The increase in construction industries is furnishing work for thousands.

Improved foreign trade has been a big factor in the revival, says the report. "The first six months of this year show a favorable trade balance of approximately $32,000,000, as compared with an adverse trade balance of about $200,000 a year ago. Since the war, the Dominion has risen from ninth to fourth place among the exporting nations of the world and now leads the continent in the per capita volume of exported goods."

SEEK FORMER GOVERNOR AS ACCUSOR'S WITNESS

Trial of Mississippi State Executive is Halted while Search for His Predecessor in Office is Pressed

OXFORD, Miss., Dec. 9 (AP)—Interest in the damage suit instituted by Miss Frances Birkhead against Leo M. Russell, governor of Mississippi, centered tonight in efforts being made to locate Theodore G. Bilbo, former governor, wanted as a witness by the plaintiff.

The case was halted today when attorneys for Miss Birkhead exhausted available witnesses to be called in rebuttal and asked a continuance until Monday to permit a eleven-hour search to locate Mr. Bilbo for whom an attachment has been issued.

The defense completed the presentation of its case at the morning session of court, and the plaintiff exhorted its witnesses after an hour of the planned afternoon session.

Mrs. Russell, wife of the governor and E. Schaefer, campaign manager for Mr. Russell in his contest for the governorship, were the last defense witnesses, while less than a dozen witnesses testified in rebuttal for the plaintiff. Miss Birkhead was on the witness stand as the last witness of the day.

MISERY IN MATRIMONY TO BE WOMAN'S DEFENSE

Michigan Woman Charged With Murder of Husband, Says Empty From Seat Disappeared Her Mind

DEBOIT, Mich., Dec. 9 (AP)—Charges that she had been tricked into marriage by a man of great wealth and generosity and that she had been driven to nearly frantic by the actions of her husband, that at times she suffered loss of memory and responsibility, will be the defense of Mrs. May Bienn Ford when she goes on trial here charged with plotting the death of her husband, Roy J. Ford of Deborna.

Mrs. Ford, held in jail here because she cannot obtain $25,000 bail, is charged with offering a local detective, who posed as a gunman, $20,000 to kill her husband and burn the body.

The women told newspapermen today she intended to tell the jury "everything about my unhappy married life, and let that story be my defense."

Mrs. Ford, who said she was a former Toledo clubwoman, declared she first met Ford when she was employed as a masseuse in a Toledo beauty parlor.

Mrs. Zimmerman carries a pistol and a pair of handcuffs dangling at her side. Mrs. Zimmerman wears knickerbockers while on duty.

NEW JERSEY SENATOR AND BRIDE ON WEDDING TRIP

Visit to Canada to be Followed by Tour of England Over Christmas Holiday Season

BATH, Maine, Dec. 9 (AP)—United States Senator Walter B. Edge of New Jersey and his bride, formerly Miss Camilla Sewall, daughter of Harold M. Sewall, of this city, left today for Canada on their honeymoon. Their plans, so far as known here tonight, provided for spending a few days in Quebec before sailing from New York next Saturday for England. Their stay in Europe, it was said, would be during the Christmas holidays, but the length of the tour would depend upon the course of the weather in Washington.

Grace Episcopal church was filled to capacity at noon for the wedding, the guests including men and women prominent in the official life of the state and nation. ## ASKS DIFFICULT QUESTIONS

Correspondent Declares Idaho Falls Sleuths Staid March on Twin Falls in Real Detective Work

Editor Twin Falls News: Dear Sir—Why, O why, I ask you, must the good people of Twin Falls be so humiliated? Why should our Chief Sleuth be so neglected? Will Chief Carlson, at Idaho Falls get the best of us? Have our sleuths no imagination? Couldn't they have seen Clara stealing down Sibley street in the wee hours of the morn'g just as well as the Idaho Falls chief—I ask you, couldn't they? When we all went to Idaho Falls and beat 'em at football, they said to us, "Just you wait, we'll get even," and Mr. Editor, they did. They got even and more, even way ahead of us.

But say, listen, let me whisper what I saw yesterday. I went down to see the train start for Rogerson, as I sometimes do just for pasture, and what do you think I saw? A man, yes, a man, and he had on leather puttees and he might have been—well, he might have been anyone, and there was a woman, and that woman looked just like I know Clara Phillips must look.

Now, I asked them where they were going, in our jolly, free western manner, and this is what they answered: "We're we are going to look for a railroad."

Now, I ask you, wasn't that suspicious? Yours, J. W. F.

RETAINS BUSINESS TAX

Traders Protest Against Japanese Levy on Commerce Marks Brought at Hand of Finance Minister

TOKYO, Dec. 9 (AP)—The business tax, new measure, against which traders have been protesting, will continue for some time. Replying to a deputation from the National Federation of Chambers of Commerce who asked for abolition, Mr. Tschiki, finance minister, said "the complete abolition of the business tax is impossible at present. The government has no adequate means to meet the revenue deficiency that would accrue therefrom."

The business tax is a complicated one, the tax being levied on sales wholesale and retail, and on the number of persons engaged. Banks, insurance and loan companies pay on their capital, rent and number of persons engaged and manufacturers on their rent and number of employees.

THE GUMPS—KIDDING ON THE SQUARE

COACHES ADOPT PLANS FOR YEAR OF BASKETBALL

Twenty-Five Schools Are in Running in South Central District, Divided Into Four Groups

Taking in of 25 schools to represent the south central division and dividing them into four groups, and the arranging of a schedule for the coming basketball season, were the high lights of the meeting of the high school Saturday afternoon of the coaches of the high schools of this section.

The final elimination games will be played at the local gym on March 3 and 5, the contestants comprising the two winners of each sub-elimination tournament which will be held in the four groups.

Grouping of Schools.
The sub-elimination games for group 1, which comprises Twin Falls, Piler, Fair, Hollister and Kimberly, will be held at Duhi on February 23 and 24. The places for the other sub-elimination contests have not been decided upon yet, although all sub-eliminations will be held on the same dates.

Non-Competitive Games.
The games that will be played prior to the sub-elimination contests will have no bearing whatever on the status of the teams entering the elimination contests. The schedules have been arranged by the district coaches in order to have the teams in fine fettle for the final games.

A tentative schedule and working plan has been submitted to the state board of athletic control by superintendent M. C. Mitchell of the local high school.

Although final plans have not been drawn for the method of handling the elimination games, it is thought that a double elimination will prevail. This method will give all teams in each group two losses before being eliminated.

Twin Falls Schedule.
The following is the schedule as mapped out by Coach Evans for the local fans, and it would be a good idea for you cut it out and paste it in your hat for future reference:

- December 21—Jerome at Twin Falls.
- December 22—Kimberly at Twin Falls.
- January 17—Twin Falls at Piler.
- January 18—Twin Falls at Jerome.
- January 19—Twin Falls at Durley.
- January 20—Twin Falls at Rupert.
- February 3—Durley at Twin Falls.
- February 4—Rupert at Twin Falls.
- February 10—Piler at Twin Falls.

LOOKING UP

In a general way, purchases today are being made on a rising market. Twin Falls Merchants are called upon to pay a little more month by month for the goods they sell. The same tendency is apparent in the automobile accessory trade. Paper of all kinds has risen from a quarter to a half cent per pound during the past thirty days. In hardware, canvas, lumber, twine and a hundred and one other things which men buy and sell the same general advance or indication of advance is beginning to make itself felt.

It will not do to take a shortsighted view of this movement. At first blush the initial impression is one of disappointment verging upon despair but it is only necessary to go back a few years to figure out quite a different view of the matter. To begin with a rising market invariably means higher prices to all the sellers, and not merely to a few. It means more business, heavier turnover, wider margins of profit and a more healthful financial and business situation.

If the market of today is really on the rise clear down the line it is a matter not of regret but of hearty gratification because it means that business as a whole has definitely turned the corner and that the coming year will be a better year, not only over the country as a whole, but right here in Twin Falls.

SPORT?

The Twin Falls High School Football team has closed a remarkably successful season and there is perhaps no reasonable excuse for introducing a single word in any other vein than that of sincere congratulation.

But there is a fly in the ointment somewhere when the proposition of competitive sports as a whole can give rise to as many ugly thoughts as have been expressed between teams and towns as has been the case in school football this year in southern Idaho. Team members, fans and newspapers appear to have approached the matter of the games in a spirit which has little in common with sportsmanship. No losing team has ever congratulated a winner. The rub-tin variety of comment has been constantly in the ascendency. The satisfaction which comes of victory has been marred by the many evidences of "downright hatred in the hearts of the loss successful. The old ideas with relation to sport have been shattered. This isn't sport at all.

It's a pity, but the trouble isn't half as much with the game or the men who play it as it is with the bunch of us on the sidelines. We have become better haters than sportsmen.

It's a rotten spirit, but football is not the cause, merely the expression.

BABSON SEES CONTINUED BUILDING ACTIVITY AHEAD

Business Statistician Sees No Prospect for Decline of Boom Before 1924; Warns Against Prices Advance

(Special to The News.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—There has been much discussion of late as to whether the building boom has spent itself. Mr. Babson, however, evidently doesn't think it has. In commenting today on the building outlook he called attention to several building factors.

"New buildings," says Mr. Babson, "is the outstanding feature of our business recovery. It is what started us on the road to better times before in the history of the country have so many new houses been built as in the first ten months of 1922. For every house built in 1921, two have been built this year. Last year in 27 northeastern states of the country we spent $438,000,000 for homes; this year we have already spent $1,500,000,000, and when the going rings on December 31, the total will very likely show 100 per cent increase over 1921."

"This building revival is not confined to houses, either. Hotels, buildings have been the most spectacular, but we have also built new schools, factories, schools, hospitals, churches, amusement halls, public roads, bridges, reservoirs, memorials. In fact all kinds of construction. What we have built total is about $3,000,000,000, the end of this year we shall have built to the extent of $2,000,000,000."

Forecasting still inadequate. When asked if he did not think that we have already overdone this building boom, Mr. Babson replied: "I do not think so. You look for continued building activity, both residential and business building for the greater part of 1923. Beyond that time I expect a decline. The National Association of Real Estate Boards shows that, out of a total of 184 cities scattered over the country, 121 will report a shortage of housing. Of the remaining 63 cities, 53 report no shortage and only 10 a moderate shortage. This indicates a building outlook that may still much residential building to be done, although the peak may have been passed."

"What about rents?" Mr. Babson was asked. "Rents have probably passed their peak. As long as there is a question of supply and demand. The coming decline in rents will not be abrupt; at least not until this building boom has supplied more of the shortage. Rental advances for the present are slightly more numerous than declines, but in the latter it is likely to be more numerous either up or down. Gradually, of course, the trend will turn downward. The demand is more fully supplied, surplus and business rents show a pricing stiffness due to business recovery, but these do not indicate any long continued advance."

"I am particularly optimistic with regard to suburban building development. The best in city building will probably not last more than a year, but suburban building is different. Auto traffic is so congested in the big cities that shoppers had rather trade in suburban stores than drive into the heart of our great cities. City dwellers are looking for homes in the country, cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of this tendency toward suburban expansion."

Danger Lies in Prices. The statistician was asked what effect building material prices and labor cost will be likely to have on the building boom. "That's where the danger lies," he replied. "Unless prices of building materials are kept down at least some extent, the people will stop building, just as they did in 1922. Fact: I do not think we will see so much building as we do unless we start in to local prices next summer they will choke off their business. A same warning applies to labor. Wages are already as high as they can be and still allow much building. Both labor and material men should realize that it is better for them to have steady building at moderate prices than to have a short spurt of building high profits, followed by a long spell of idleness."

However, what interests me as much as anything is the necessity of eliminating the waste in time, labor and materials in the building business. I firmly believe that a saving of $100,000,000 per cent in the cost of building could be made by cutting out this waste. The country is literally throwing away $1,000,000,000 annually to insure per cent in the cost of building and help to reduce the cost of construction. Over half a billion dollars' loss occurs from lack of employment in the dull seasons, strikes, poor labor management, etc. I am glad to see that wide awake men in the contracting business are experimenting with methods to facilitate building in winter time. The use of canvas protection for bricklaying, salamanders, and other methods of preventing concrete, and other methods of combating bad weather are being more generally adopted.

Winter Building Advantages. "But isn't winter building more expensive?" queried the interviewer. "Yes, but even if the cost is ten or twelve per cent greater, the contractor (as has been estimated) could afford to save ten per cent in the workmen's low wages, rather than do nothing all winter," Mr. Babson replied. "Moreover, the man who builds in the winter time has the pick of the labor market. Often the greater efficiency of winter labor completely offsets the other added costs."

"Other things that make building so expensive are high labor turnover, poor and inadequate equipment, careless handling of material, failure to save, and the waste of the industry. There are wasteful regulations and restrictions, requiring skilled men to do the work of unskilled, prohibiting the saving of labor by the use of apprentices, and so forth."

"All these things combine to make the high cost of building. When the cost of building goes up, the industry learns to cut these wastes out then we shall have more building at lower cost to the people, and more profit to the industry."

OCTOBER

Oh, how I wish that stained-window, everybody-kneeling feeling would last! But it never does. Just the next morning, when I woke up, it rained. And I didn't feel pleased a bit. Still I remembered what had happened the night before, and a real glow came over me at the beautiful idea I had gone to sleep with.

I wanted to tell Mother, and ask her if it couldn't be, and wouldn't she let it be, if Father would. So, without waiting to dress me, I hurried across the hall to her room and told her all about it—my idea, and everything.

But she said, "Nonsense," and, "Hush, hush," when I asked her if she and Father couldn't fall in love all over again and get married. And she said not to get silly notions into my head. And she wasn't a bit fussed and teary, as she had been the night before, and she didn't talk at all as she had then, either. And it's been that way ever since. Things have gone along in just the usual humdrum way, and she's never been the same as she was that night I came.

Something—a little different—did happen yesterday, though. There's going to be another big astronomy meeting here in Boston this month, just as there was when Father found Mother years ago; and Grandfather brought home word that Father was going to be one of the chief speakers. And he told Mother he supposed she'd go and hear him.

"Well, yes, I am thinking of going," she said, just as calm and cool as could be. "What does he speak, Father?"

And when Aunt Hattie pook-pooked, and asked how could she do such a thing, Mother answered: "Because Charles Anderson is the father of my little girl, and I think she should hear him speak. Therefore, Hattie, I intend to take her."

And then she asked Grandfather again when Father was going to speak. I'm so excited! Only think of seeing my father up on a big platform to a lot of big men, and hearing him speak! And he'll be the very smartest and handsomest one there, too. You see if he isn't!

TWO WEEKS AND ONE DAY LATER

Father's here—right here in Boston. I don't know when he came. But the first day of the meeting was day before yesterday, and he was here then. The paper said he was, and his picture was there, too. There were a lot of pictures, but his was away ahead of the others. It was the very best one on the page. (I told you it would be that way.)

Mother saw it first. That is, I think she did. She had the paper in her hand, looking at it when I came into the room; but as soon as she saw me she laid it right down quick on the table. If she hadn't been quite so quick about it, and if she hadn't looked quite so queer when she did it, I wouldn't have thought anything at all. But when I went over to the table after she had gone, and saw the paper with Father's picture right on the first page—and the biggest picture there—I knew then, of course, what she'd been looking at.

I looked at it then, and I read what it said, too. It was lovely. Why, I hadn't any idea Father was so big. I was prouder than ever of him. It told all about the stars and planets he'd discovered, and the books he'd written on astronomy, and how he was president of the college at Andersonville, and that he was going to give an address the next day. And I read it all—very, very, and I made up my mind right then and then that I'd cut out that piece and save it.

But that night, when I went to the library cupboard to get the paper, I couldn't do it, after all. Oh, the paper was all right, but that page was gone. There wasn't a bit of it left. Somebody had taken it right out. I never thought then of Mother. But I believe now that it was Mother, for—

But I wouldn't tell you that part now. Stories are just like meals. You have to eat them—I mean tell them—in regular order, and not put the ice cream in where the soup ought to be. So I'm not going to tell yet why I suspect it was Mother that cut out that page of the paper with Father's picture in it.

Well, the next morning was Father's lecture, and I went with Mother. Of course Grandfather was there, too, but he was with the other astronomers. I guess. Anyhow, he didn't sit with us. And Aunt Hattie didn't go at all. So Mother and I were alone.

We sat back—a long ways back. I wanted to go up front, real far front—the front seat, if I could get it, and I told Mother so. But she said, "Mercy, no!" and abberded, and went back two more rows from where she was, and sat behind a big post.

I guess she was afraid Father would see us, but that's what I wanted. I wanted him to see me. If I wanted him to be right in the middle of his lecture and look down and see right there before him his little girl Mary, and she that had been the wife of his bosom. Now that would have been what I called thrilling, and thrilling, especially if he jumped, or growled, or whiffed, or stammered, or stopped short, or anything to show that he'd seen us—and cared.

I'd have loved that. But we sat back where Mother wanted to, behind the post. And, of course, Father never saw us at all.

It was a lovely lecture. Oh, of course, I don't mean to say that I understood it. I didn't. But his voice was fine, and he looked just too grand for anything, with the light on his noble brow, and he used the loveliest big words that I ever heard. And folks clapped, and looked at each other, and nodded, and nice or twice they laughed. And when he was all through they clapped again, harder than ever.

Another man spoke then, a little (not near so good as Father), and then it was all over, and everybody got up to go; and I saw that a lot of folks were crowding down the aisle, and I looked and there was Father right in front of the platform, shaking hands with folks.

I looked at Mother then. Her face was all pinky-white, and her eyes were shining. I guess she thought I spoke, for all of a sudden she shook her head and said:

"No, no, I couldn't, I couldn't! But you may, dear. Run along and speak to him; but don't stay. Remember, Mother is waiting, and come right back."

I knew then that it must have been just my eyes that spoke, for I did want to go down there and speak to Father. Oh, I did want to go! And I went then, of course.

He saw me. And, oh, how I did love the look that came to his face; it was so surprised and glad, and said, "Oh! You! In such a perfectly lovely way that I choked all up and wanted to cry. (The idea!—cry when I was so glad to see him!)" The next minute he had drawn me out of the line, and we were both talking.

ing at once, and telling each other how glad we were to see each other. But he was looking for Mother—I know he was; for the next minute after he saw me, he looked right over my head at the woman back of me. And all the while he was talking with me, his eyes would look at me and then leap as swift as lightning first here, and then there, all over the hall. But he didn't see her. I know he didn't see her, by the look on his face. And pretty quick I said I'd have to go. And then he said:

"Your mother—perhaps she didn't—did she come?" And his face grew all red and rosy as he asked the question. And I said yes, and she was waiting, and that was why I had to go back right away.

And he said, "Yes, yes, to be sure," and, "good-by." But he still held my hand tight, and his eyes were still roving all over the house. And I had to tell him again that I really had to go; and I had to pull real determined at my hand, before I could break away.

I went back to Mother then. The hall was almost empty, and she wasn't anywhere in sight at all; but I found her just outside the door. I knew then why Father's face showed that he hadn't found her. She wasn't there to find. I suspect she had looked out for that.

Her face was still pinky-white, and her eyes were shining, and she wanted to know everything we had said—everything. So she found out, of course, that he had asked if she was there, but she didn't say anything herself, not anything. In the afternoon I went to walk with one of the girls; and when I came in I couldn't find Mother. She wasn't anywhere downstairs, nor in her room, nor mine, nor anywhere else on that floor. Aunt Hattie said no, she wasn't out, but that she was sure she didn't know where she was. She must be somewhere in the house. I went upstairs then, another flight. There wasn't anywhere else to go, and Mother must be somewhere, of course. And it seemed suddenly to me as if I'd just got to find her. I wanted her so.

RECORDS SHOW BUSINESS HERE ON SOLID BASIS

Aggregate of Bank Debits Increase Over Total for Corresponding Period Last Year; Reports Favorable

Twin Falls individual bank debits for November were $3,055,122.42 compared to the bank clearings for November, 1921, of $2,814,007.70. Further evidence of improved conditions is contained in the Babson report, under date of November 23 which puts Twin Falls in a rating of "fair" in respect to sales conditions.

Twin Falls and Boise are the only two cities in Idaho shown in this classification and there were only about 25 cities in the entire west thus classified. None were given a first class rating, while several cities in the west dropped out of their standing of the previous month, the report shows. Twin Falls has remained "in the first class" practically unchanged since January, 1, a record said to be unequalled by any other city in the state.

Boise was rated in the fair class in October for the first time in several months.

The November individual bank debits were eleven under the total of October, October, however, showing a 15 per cent gain over the previous month and was larger than the total of any month since last June.

J. Lloyd, state representative-elect. It was announced Saturday evening by T. O. Landers, Twin Falls district ranchman who has taken the lead in the plans for the meeting.

It is also alleged the court failed to properly instruct the jury and a long list of instructions given in the case are cited as improper. The verdict, the motion states, was contrary to law and the evidence in the case and the evidence was insufficient to show that Dunlap discharged the gun with intent to kill or intent to do otherwise than to protect himself and wife from great bodily harm.

Red Cross Roll Call Falls Under Minimum for Winter Work; Officers Elected; Mrs. Edwards Resigns

A total of 775 enrolled in the annual Red Cross roll call, just closed, according to the report read at the meeting of the executive board Thursday night. The board elected Dr. George Caldwell chairman, Dr. E. S. Milford, vice-chairman; Mrs. Adda Thompson, secretary; A. Darnan Johnson, treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Shotwell was reappointed chairman of the Junior Red Cross.

The roll call report showed $37 donated to local chapter work and $2.65 to the Near East relief fund. One-half of the amount received for membership dues kept by the local chapter, will not be turned over to headquarters to be used in the general work of the Red Cross. Executives were disappointed in the results of the roll call which, they said, resulted in the smallest enrollment since the organization of the Twin Falls chapter.

Mrs. Edwards has resigned an expected to leave Twin Falls, it was announced. She was a volunteer worker during the war and has been secretary four years.

TAKES OPTIMISTIC VIEW

F. F. Johnson of Boise, president of the First National bank of Twin Falls spent Saturday in town on business connected with his Twin Falls interests.

Mr. Johnson expresses himself in optimistic vein with respect to present business conditions and future prospects. Liquidation in the Twin Falls section has been much greater than was believed likely a few months ago and as a result of this outside money in use by local banks has been practically eliminated in Twin Falls. Mr. Johnson left Saturday night for Boise.
