ODDS FAVOR DEFEAT OF BORAH PLAN

Advocates of Idaho Senator's Proposal Spar for Time for Recruiting Administration Opponents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Senator Borah's proposal for a general economic conference reached a dramatic turning point today when President Harding threw the full force of the administration against Senator Borah's plan as contained in an amendment to the tariff re-protection bill and in a letter read in the senate, virtually asked for its defeat.

"Another day's general debate followed but action was not taken. Plans were made for a vote tomorrow but many senators desired to speak in favor of the Borah plan. The time is an effort at recruiting delay over the New Year's holiday appeared possible. Defeat of the amendment was predicted positively by administration leaders and succeeded, upon the presentation of the bill, by its opponents.

State Investigators Confirm Suspicions of Ruined Town's Officials; Data Gathered Expected to Lead to Arrests

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 28 (AP)—Investigation by officials from the state fire marshal's office investigating the fire which wiped out the business district of Astoria December 8, has resulted in finding that the fire was of incendiary origin. It was announced today that the investigation has been found which would lead to the arrest of the person or persons who set the fire.

Early on the morning of the fire, E. N. Bunting, field superintendent of the Astoria water department, was awakened and when he was informed of the performance of the investigation, he went to his telephone to order the cutting off of the water service from all the residence districts in order to allow a concentration of water pressure in the fire stricken area. He found his telephone had been cut, so he efforts to connect with the water department were futile.

Bunting thereupon discovered that his house had been entered and the telephone wires had been cut. He reported this to the police and a search of his entry had been made but other wires which may lead to the arrest of the man who cut the connections.

Bunting gave his information to the state fire marshal's office the next day and special investigators, since have been at work on the case. Suspects are under surveillance, but no arrests have been made.

Credits Consumers Boycott in Decline in Price of Eggs

OHIOHO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Russell J. Poole, secretary of the city council high cost of living committee, announced today that the price of eggs in Chicago had dropped 17 cents in four days as a result of what he termed a "consumers' boycott." Strictly fresh eggs now are retailing at 35 cents a dozen, he said.

ISMET FAILS TO INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

Turkish Insistence on Abolishment of Foreign Courts in Ottoman Domain Endangers Lausanne Conference

LAUSANNE, Dec. 28 (AP)—Ismet Pasha has failed to give confidence to the United States and the European powers that Turkish laws and Turkish courts afford adequate protection to the life and property of foreigners residing in Turkey, and the "East" conference stands in grave danger of breaking up on this question.

Europe and America insist that special courts upon which foreign judges sit, must administer justice to foreigners in Mesopotamia, Syria and the Lebanon. He declares that such courts would be an infringement on Turkish sovereignty. In fact, he reiterated this declaration so often at today's stormy meeting of the commission on capitulations that Lord Curzon relented.

"I beg that Ismet Pasha wrap up and place carefully away in a cupboard this question of Turkish sovereignty, which nobody wishes in the least to offend. Turkey is not the only country which enjoys sovereignty; many other powers have it, and frequently greater powers than Turkey submit questions to international tribunals without fear of impugning their sovereignty rights."

Ismet had declared that Turkish laws and Turkish courts were the equal of any in Europe so often, Lord Curzon continued, that he actually had come to believe it.

"That the important thing is not what the Turkish delegation thinks about Turkish justice," added Curzon, "but what the rest of the world thinks about it. England's King George IV. once visited himself that he led the guards to the battle of Waterloo, but nobody else ever believed it and history does not record it."

"The plain truth is, Turkish laws are based on Muslim law and were drawn by Muslim jurists and theologians. The judges are uneducated, poorly paid and dishonest. The same is true of the police and the whole mechanism of Turkish justice is defective. Under Turkish courts foreigners cannot conduct business in Turkey and it will be impossible for Turkey alone to feed the machinery, transport and food necessary for her reconstruction and development."

Marquis Di Geronzi, M. Barres, M. Bonpari, Ambassador Ohil and Baron Hayashi all spoke in support of the proposed courts for foreigners upon which foreign judges designated by the international tribunal at The Hague shall sit. Under this plan, Turkey would be permitted to select judges from the list submitted by The Hague tribunal.

Deserted Husband Sues for Alimony in Chicago Court

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP)—What is said to be the first case in Illinois courts in which a wife has been sued for alimony was filed here today when Emily Burns charged, his wife with desertion and asked that she be compelled to contribute to his support and that of her child. Mrs. Burns, who has the child at present, maintained that she left her husband after he had been cruel to her and after he had tried her to leave.

45 MEN NAMED IN CONFESSION ON KIDNAPING

Louisiana State Officials Decline to Comment on Reported Disclosures; Troops Foreshadow Activity

BASTROP, La., Dec. 28 (AP)—Forty-five names were implanted in the Morehouse kidnaping and murders of last August, according to two congressmen reported today to have been delivered by department of justice men to state authorities at New Orleans.

The state's legal office at New Orleans declined to comment on the subject, stating they would neither deny nor affirm it.

The confessions will not be made public, it was reported here, until the gun hearing begins at Bastrop in January. It was stated the signs of the confessions have been granted in the past and were being secured along with other witnesses and would be called upon as testify. However, it is regarded here as probable the arrests of some of the men named will occur before the gun hearing begins.

Troops Ready to Move—One indication that the state is prepared for some activity in soon in the order issued today to the National Guard company at Mer Rouge to be prepared to move at short notice. These troops were stationed here to hold down a possible outbreak among the citizens of this community when in a hostile camp and also were assigned to assist the civil authorities in making arrests.

The suspects were reported as under constant surveillance of secret service men, and no difficulty was anticipated in locating those who are designated for arrest.

At New Orleans today, the governor of the state, the attorney-general, his staff of legal assistants and four department of justice men were mapping out the future course in the investigation into the deaths of the two men believed to have been victims of a robed and masked mob. What occurred at the session was not disclosed.

TURK ADMITS DEFEAT FOR OTTOMAN CAUSE AT LAUSANNE PARLEY

Riza Nur Day Pasha Refuses to Avow any Peace Terms Wholly on Shoulders of Allied Powers

LAUSANNE, Dec. 28 (AP)—Not a single important question on the agenda of the Near East conference has been settled, despite many weeks of negotiations, Riza Nur Day of the Turkish delegation informed the Associated Press tonight and if there were no question all the delegates deemed that a crisis had arrived. But Turkey had come to Lausanne for peace and if peace was not obtained and a rupture came, it would not be the fault of Turkey, but of the allies.

"I do not say that things are hopeless," added Riza Nur, "but we certainly are in a state of tension." Turkey never would yield on the question of special courts for foreigners, he said. The Anglo assembly never would accept conditions under which Turkey would be treated as an inferior nation.

POSTAL CLERK HELD AS LITTLE GIRL'S SLAYER

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Benjamin Prenderiville, a clerk in the Brooklyn general postoffice, tonight was arrested on a charge of homicide in the slaying of a 10-year-old Theresa McCarthy, whose body with the heart pierced by a small calibre revolver bullet, was found in her Brooklyn home last Tuesday.

Prenderiville had been taken in custody earlier in the day on the strength of an affidavit by Mrs. Anna Wall, the little girl's aunt, that the postoffice clerk, who boarded at the McCarthy home, possessed several weapons, one of them a small calibre pistol.

The postal clerk is said by the police to have admitted that he kept three pistols at the McCarthy home; that he attended a Christmas party there at which he brought out his gun; and that he threatened to slay little Theresa when she asked him for the "pretty" pearl handled one, the small calibre gun.

The Day in Washington

(By The Associated Press) The annual postal supply bill, carrying $384,641,121, was reported to the house.

The senate adopted a resolution expressing "pleasure and joy" over the improvement in former President Wilson's health.

Senate federal circuit court judge was under the presidency of Chief Justice Taft to consider steps to expedite litigation pending in districts and circuit courts throughout the country.

President Harding wrote a letter to Senator Lodge opposing the Borah international conference plan and saying that its adoption would embarrass the administration in its efforts "to be helpful" already under way.

A delegation representing the Woodrow Wilson foundation called on the former president to felicitate him on his 66th birthday and inform him that the $1,000,000 fund to advance ideas he advocated was assured of completion.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced the receipt from German business men for an American commission to advise Germany's capacity to pay reparations. The chamber deferred decision pending the meeting of the allied plenipotentiaries week.

WIDE AREA IS SWEEPED BY GALE

Storms Along North Atlantic Coast Pile Up Smaller Vessels; Blizzard in Ohio

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—The north Atlantic seaboard tonight was deluged by gales which have been raging off the shores of England and France and sweeping mid-ocean.

As the cables brought more stories of death and suffering overseas small vessels began piling up on the Verney and Long Islets, and the number of craft actually entering New York harbor was reduced by nearly one half, at least two outbound steamers dropped anchor in Graves End bay after passing out and sea was entertained for the safety of at least one steamer—the German freighter Heinrich Kayser, bound from Savannah for Bremen, which was last reported in distress 500 miles off Cape May.

ROCHESTER IS ENROUTE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—The heaviest snowstorm in many years visited this section today, greatly delaying traffic, practically halting bus lines in many lines and causing widespread inconvenience and loss. There was a half inch of snow had fallen up to 8 o'clock tonight.

OLIO SUPPER CASUALTIES

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 28 (AP)—Eight persons were injured and damage to the Ohio telephone company estimated by officials at more than $300,000 was done today by a heavy sleet and snowstorm which swept over northeastern Ohio. At times the gale reached the velocity of 45 miles an hour, according to the weather bureau.

NEW ENGLAND IN STORM'S GRIP

BOSTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—All New England was swept by northwest gales and is thickly mantled with snow today. The snowfall in some cases 24 hours range from six inches in Boston to feet in Portland, Maine. Dingy storm warnings minimized the danger to shipping off the New England coast. In Greater Boston two fatalities were attributed to the snowstorm.

WIOLENT BLAST SHAKES DUBLIN

Explosion in a Muehl Shop Wrecks Building and Breaks Windows Along Street

DUBLIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—The violence which started tonight by a violent explosion, far exceeding the killing explosion of a bomb. The explosion occurred in a shop occupied by a dealer in musical instruments in O'Connell by name.

The front of the shop was blown into the street and the story above demolished. Shattered plates and other instruments were scattered all over the street; numerous plates, glass windows were smashed and the street was littered with glass for 200 yards. The shop had been closed on Monday, only and as far as known nobody was on the premises. The door of the shop was nearly empty, but three civilians who were passing were wounded.

McClough, who was not regarded as a political prisoner, recently was unharmed for the bombing, but was not elected. Troops hastened to the scene and searched the neighborhood in vain.

Unknown Assaults From Rain of Lead on Auto Outfitted with Shields and Protection Gears

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Dec. 28 (AP)—Recklessness at prohibition enforcement in Central Wisconsin today hit into open violence for the second time within 24 hours when 700 men from a mob of 1,000 men, armed with rifles and containing many shotguns, a state dry agent, today was returning from a series of raids, is attributed by officials to the same motive which prompted the same mob's attack on the state dry agent, Dr. Chas. A. Anderson, a board of supervisors of Stevens Point was attacked and killed by a mob of 1,000 men, armed with rifles and shotguns, and through the mob's actions Anderson was killed.

INDICT SELLER AND PURCHASER IN BOSCH DEAL

Perjury and Embezzlement Charged Against "Dummy" Purchaser and Former Sales Director for Custodian

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Martin E. Kern, alleged "dummy" purchaser of the Bosch Magneto company's assets in an alien property custodian's sale in 1919, and Joseph F. Guffey, former sales director of the property custodian's New York office, today were indicted by a federal grand jury which has been investigating for several weeks complaints of irregularities in connection with the Bosch sale.

Kern was indicted for perjury and Guffey for embezzlement, but federal officials admitted the indictments were supplementary today to the Bosch inquiry and did not concern the alleged irregularities.

Outside Bosch Deal

The charge against Kern was that he took a false oath to get an American passport last January. A series of embezzlements totalling $400,000 were charged against Guffey, but it was made clear that these sums were received by the alien property custodian's office in sales other than the Bosch transaction.

Counsel for Mr. Guffey tonight asserted: "By this indictment he is charged with misappropriating $400,000 of the government's money. It is a fact that the money was paid into the treasury of the United States in March, 1921, and he holds the government's receipt."

See Technically

The $400,000, the attorney said, was a fund of interest which Mr. Guffey collected from banks where he deposited monies realized on sales of enemy property collected by him in a device of his full duty although he was not authorized or required by law to do it."

CALLS BUSINESS COURSE NARROW

Official Says High Schools Commercial Education Purpose is Too Restricted

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP)—The purpose of public high school commercial education has been too restricted, it has concerned itself too narrowly with courses in business technique and has neglected to give students the background and understanding of business conditions and relations, declared Hon. Levin Swigert, of the U. S. Bureau of Education, speaking before the National Commercial Teachers' Association here today.

"The problem in business education today is to coordinate skill and information, method and knowledge," he stated.

"Business education is not easy to define," Mr. Swigert said. "That condition will prevail until it becomes more than a mere technical profession. Recent years have seen much done to give scientific character to the professional aspect of business. Its conduct and procedure, colleges and universities have instituted research departments for the study of production processes, marketing methods and distribution in their studies in business procedure. As a result, the theory if economics is now applied in many directions by these institutions in preparation for well defined business careers."

"For example many universities are offering accounting courses, advertising, a merchandising, banking and finance, insurance, foreign trade and consular service, organization and management and transportation. The scientific study of business problems involved will lead to a definite fund of information governing new business procedure which will bring new subjects for study in the field of business education."

Kaw Indians Choose Woman for Chief of Their Tribe

Chief Lucy Revives Barbecue Custom at Election and Herself Makes and Serves "Squaw Bread" at Festival

PONCA CITY, Okla., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Kaw Indians not only gave the woman the right to vote, but have elevated one of their number to the highest office in the tribe, that of elective chief. The woman is Mrs. Lucy Taylah Eads, now chief Lucy to all her tribesmen.

Chief Lucy is the first head of the tribe. She is about 1908 when Chills Buchanan Eads, who she married, was the first white man to settle in the Kaw reservation. She is the wife of John R. Eads, a white man. She and her children live on the new chief's settlement, an inheritance of eight hundred acres. They are among the few who have not disposed of any of their property. They raise livestock and grow crops.

After the feast Chief Lucy called her council together. She made her maiden speech, thanked her people for the great honor they had given her, the first woman to occupy so high a position in her tribe, and assured the Kaw that she would work for their interests.

The new chief spoke in English and some of the younger generation interpreted her speech for the older Indians. So-Jim-We, who is about seventy-three years old and the only member of the tribe now living who came from the Kansas reservation, replied for them. His remarks were also interpreted for those who did not understand the Kaw language.

Taking Desperate Chances

It is true that many contract feverish and add to their troubles without taking any precaution or treatment and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their cold the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that even cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding attack and paves the way for the more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cure of colds and coughs may be had for a trifle?

FRIENDS GREET WAR PRESIDENT ON NATAL DAY

Collectors of $1,000,000 Fund to Perpetuate Wilson Ideals Promise Success; Senate Sends Its Felicitations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Friends of Woodrow Wilson, who are raising a $1,000,000 fund for the perpetuation of his ideals, celebrated his 60th birthday today by sending him word through a delegation which called at his home, that the success of the movement was assured.

Spends Day Quietly

Mr. Wilson spent his birthday quietly. For an hour or more a group of men and women stood in the rain in front of his home, hoping that he might appear to greet them, but all they saw of the war-time president was the gleam of his eye as he drove off by his limousine late in the day for his daily ride.

During the day messages of felicitation came to Mr. Wilson from all parts of the world. A few choice friends called to extend greetings, the delegation representing the Woodrow Wilson foundation arriving at 3 o'clock, for a 40-minute visit. In the group were Hamilton Holt and Mrs. Charles E. Shuman of New York; city Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes of Boston, and Miss Caroline Jeter-Bees of Greenwich, Conn. all members of the foundation's executive committee.

The delegation told Mr. Wilson that contributions to the fund already raised $850,000, probably now accumulated $900,000, and in the near future undoubtedly would reach the $1,000,000 mark. The former president was reported to have expressed satisfaction over the success of the movement and its purposes.

Keep Topics Secret

These in the delegation declined to disclose the nature of their conversation with Mr. Wilson aside from saying that they had chatted informally on a number of topics. He was in excellent spirits, they said, and apparently was in better health than at any time since he was stricken with illness.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret Wilson, the former president's daughter, joined him in receiving the visitors in the library.

An engraved copy of the resolution adopted by the senate was sent to Mr. Wilson by Vice President Coolidge, with the following letter of felicitation:

My Dear Mr. Wilson: "It gives me great pleasure to be the medium of transmitting the enclosed resolution to you. It was unanimously adopted. To it I wish to add my own felicitations on your recovery and health, and my congratulations on the return of another anniversary of your natal day."

AMERICAN BUILDERS IN JAPAN LAND MUCH WORK

Construction of Office Buildings and Other Structures Awarded to United States Firm

TOKYO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Construction work under way in Japan by American contracting firms represents several millions of yen, with prospects of a much larger volume.

The George A. Fuller company already has completed several office buildings in Tokio, Yokohama and Kobe and has started on others in the capital. Stone & Webster, Inc., of Boston, have in hand the construction of a high dam hydro-electric plant on the Rio river in Toyama.

The most important of the new work for which the American firms will be the building of a small industrial city at Kurumi, between Tokio and Yokohama; for the building of a street car system to be installed as soon as other public utilities that do make up a modern town.

HARVARD SEEKS VALUABLE DATA OF WORLD WAR

University Library Makes Effective Progress in Accumulating Records for Guidance of Future Historian

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Harvard University Library has made effective progress in accumulating data of the World War, which will enable the historian of the future to determine the exact disposition of the opposing military forces at all times throughout the period of active fighting. Detailed maps, aerial photographs form an important part of the collection.

"An official of the library explaining the collection recently, pointed out that the fighting in France was in a region of which the French government had prepared detailed maps, showing houses, woods, fields, brooks, contours and every other feature of the terrain. "For the most part," he continued, "the French maps were sufficiently detailed to make it possible for the intelligence department of each army to prepare exact maps revealing the precise layout of enemy trenches, and to a great extent the disposition of machine guns, artillery, etc. The machine guns were usually making such maps from aerial views taken from day to day, reached during the war, a perfection hitherto unknown.

"The historians of the future will be able to take the French maps of their own and of the enemy's lines in a certain sector, and compare them with the maps of their own and of the French lines, all of which were prepared at frequent intervals, and by comparing them will be able to see exactly how the warfare in that sector progressed. He will not have to depend on the historian of former wars as depended, partly on personal recollections and impressions, and partly on such such a charge took place, and where the lines ran during such a week.

"We already have a large collection of such maps, including a number of books and documents relating to military, economic and political conditions in the warring countries, compiled from the German, British, and American official casualty lists and files of airplane photographs, to collections of war posters and official memoranda. "We are especially interested in the official proclamations issued by the German government from June, 1914, to the Armistice, and are now acquiring the German confidential review of the foreign press.

"German Land Aid. "In getting material from Germany we have been greatly assisted by Ellis Drexel, former American commissioner at Berlin, who is now a Ph.D. graduate. "We are trying, with the assistance of friends of the university and others who have valuable material at their disposal, to build up a library of war documents, but a working collection of source material which will be of positive value to the student of the war.

Basic Structure of United States Founded On Individualism, Declares Herbert Hoover In New Book Treating International Ills

This is the first of a series of three excerpts this paper will present through the courtesy of Doubleday, Page & Co. from "American Individualism," the new book in which Herbert Hoover, now Secretary of Commerce, and well beloved for his many services to humanity by Americans of all political beliefs, seeks to define the treasures of American citizenship and civilization.

By Herbert Hoover

(U. I. V.)

Five or six groups are at work in the backwash and misery of war. Seven years of contending with economic degeneration, with social dislocation, with loss of position and of all its soothing and formation, with individual and class conflict, could not inspire me with the primary motivation of social forces, and the necessity for broader thought upon their great issue to humanity. And from it all I emerge an individual—an unambitious individual. But let me say also that I am an American individual. The American has been steadily developing the ideals that constitute progressive individualism.

No doubt, individualism runs riot, with our untamed and unbridled, provides a long catalog of inequalities, of tyrannies, dominations and injustices. America, however, has tempered the whole conception of individualism by the injection of a definite principle, and from this principle it follows that attempts at domination, whether in government or in the processes of industry and commerce, are under an instant veto. If we would have the values of individualism, their stimulation

HALF MILLION EXILES FACING ANNIHILATION

Greek and Armenian Refugees in Thrace and Macedonia Are Half-Naked, Starving and Diseased

DEDEAGATCH, Western Thrace, Dec. 28 (AP)—Heavy snow, icy winds and intermittent rains have wrought great misery and suffering among the half million shelterless refugees over Thrace and Macedonia. Clothes help is prompt and generous, the Greek and Armenian exiles in these areas will perish in large numbers. Already the major are half naked, starving and diseased. All the elementary needs are lacking. Food stocks in the towns are growing low. Famine must ensue this winter unless food is sent in.

Human woe and wretchedness seldom have reached such levels. Large numbers are dying daily of exposure and inanition. The condition of the children and babies is pitiful. Infectious diseases are rampant. Typhus is gaining such headway that it is feared the great epidemic of 1918-1919, which began at Cavalla, will recur. Life in the East has always been cheap, but never so cheap as in this corner of Europe. Had the population been permitted to remain in Eastern Thrace and faced the Turkish invader, their lot could have been little worse.

When the Associated Press correspondent crossed the little river near Drama where Paul baptized the first Christian, he was assailed by a band of hunger-maddened Greek women and children who begged piteously for crust of bread. They said they had been on the march for 24 days and were subsisting on beetroot. Although there was a foot of snow on the ground, many wore shoes, coats, hats and belts. The blistered, bleeding feet of the children left red sloughs in the snow.

In spite of many promises of help from the outside, little has been done to assuage the misery of these helpless exiles. Most of them are women and children. They are sadly in need of help.

NEW WAY OF OBTAINING SUGAR COMES TO LIGHT

Scientists Use Common Overlooked Method of Producing Sweetening

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Sugar may be obtained from soda water, the so-called beverage which flows from nickel plated fountains in thousands of drug and candy stores throughout the country, according to two English scientists who for nearly three years have been conducting laboratory experiments with the idea of producing artificially the work done by plants in self-nourishment.

It always has been a scientific mystery how living plants build up the sugar, necessary for their growth, from the carbon dioxide or carbolic acid, a component part of the atmosphere which they absorb, by mixing it with carbonhydrate and the starch universally found in plants. Their experiments convinced the scientists Professor E. O. Daly and Professor H. G. Wood, that it is possible to produce formaldehyde from soda water by the action of very short wave length light, but that it is also possible to produce formaldehyde with ordinary sunlight in the presence of malachite green, or other appropriate coloring matter.

During their investigation a little farther they succeeded by adding soda water with ultra-violet rays, in building up sugar. They found that formaldehyde turns directly into sugar. The yield of sugar may be increased by heightening the concentration of carbon dioxide with sodium carbonate.

Seek Reason for Europeans' Preference for Flint Corn

Bureau of Chemistry Endeavors by Analyses to Determine if Fundamental Differences in Composition Exist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—In an effort to determine the reason for the preference of European countries for Argentinian flint corn the Bureau of Chemistry in the United States, the Department of Agriculture through its bureau of chemistry is undertaking an extensive investigation. According to the bureau, the flint corn, which the chemist the investigation will be conducted through a laboratory on "crop chemistry" recently established, which will determine the exact chemical composition of flint or hard corn and the dent corn largely produced in the United States.

"The bureau will undertake studies on the composition of agricultural crops in a fundamental way. Additional work will be carried on concerning the influence of environment on crop production in the United States, including certain features of fertilization, such as the relation of chemical composition and food value of crops to the extent of fertilization. Previous work has been directed chiefly toward the quantity viewpoint. The new work will be directed to quality.

RABBIT HUNTERS' BAGS ARE DISTRIBUTED AMONG NEEDY

DENVER, Dec. 28 (AP)—More than 3000 rabbits have been distributed to the needy in Denver as a result of a campaign stepped by a local paper. The game was killed by hunters in the vicinity of Holyoke, Colorado. Another rabbit hunt is to be held in Moffat county after rabbits which will be shipped to Denver free of charge through the cooperation of railroad officials, for distribution to needy families.

Birds and Trapping Wires. The Biologist survey says that small birds are seldom killed by slighting on a trap wire, even though it carries a heavy current of electricity. This is because there is not a complete circuit. If a larger bird were touched another wire, it would be apt to cause death. Eagles have often been killed in this way.

SCHOOL BOYS ORGANIZE TO HALT AUTO ACCIDENTS

Volunteer Assistants to Police Traffic Squads Will Help Protect San Francisco School House Premises

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—School boys of San Francisco are to be organized into police traffic squads to help curb automobile drivers who speed through an entire square of residential streets crowded with children. Older boys of each school will be grouped into companies under command of the school principal, who will appoint captains and sergeants to have charge of the squads. Duties will be taken upon the streets near school houses before and after school hours. Lanes through which children pass are to be marked and the boys will regulate automobile traffic, stopping it when children are crossing and letting it pass when the streets are clear. Violators will be reported.

MOSCOW, Dec. 28 (AP)—Reductions in the American personnel of the American Relief Administration in Russia have reached a minimum, for the time at least, there now being 116 men on the staff. The force has been cut nearly in half since last summer, when the organization was feeding more than 10,000,000 persons. The Russian personnel has also been reduced from 150,000 to 100,000 going to various parts of the feeding program. The American Relief Administration work is now confined largely to children and hospital patients.

PUTS GUARDS IN MINNESOTA JAIL

Sheriff Takes Precautions When Threats Are Made Against Wife Slayer

FAYMONT, Minn., Dec. 28 (AP)—Sheriff W. S. Carver tonight placed guards in the Marlin county jail following threats of violence made against Clarence Hamblen, who according to his sheriff, confessed that he poisoned his wife as she lay in a bed bed at Ceylon, October 9, last.

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Hamblen, whose family is prominent, were reported to have made threats against the life of Hamblen. A statement was largely instrumental in starting the investigation, which resulted in the exoneration of Mrs. Hamblen's body, is said to have occurred that he would shoot the prisoner on sight.

Although confident that no violence could be done his prisoner, Sheriff Carver took cognizance of the reports and stationed the guard.

Another Woman Figure. Hamblen, who also is charged with setting fire to his home after his wife's death, was arraigned here today on a charge of arson and was ordered held by the sheriff. He will be charged with murder, officials said.

It is planned to call a special grand jury to indict the prisoner for murder. According to Sheriff Carver, the motive for the crime was infatuation with another woman who formerly lived near Ceylon. She was loved there the sheriff said, and later moved to California. Last summer she visited Ceylon.

Shortly after the woman left, the sheriff said, Hamblen collected insurance on his furniture, which was damaged by fire, and a week later also collected insurance on his automobile which was burned.

Then, the sheriff continued, he had his life and that of his wife insured for $1000 each. A month later Mrs. Hamblen became ill, and four days later on October 13—she died in Ceylon.

Nothing was inspected until representatives of the state fire marshal's office were asked by insurance companies to investigate the furniture and automobile losses.

After Mrs. Hamblen died her husband left town and County Attorney Paul C. Cooper ordered the body of the woman exhumed November 24. The contents of the stomach were sent to the University of Minnesota for analysis which revealed the presence of poison. Then search for Hamblen was begun and he was arrested in Stockton, Cal., December 15.

Blame Financial Trouble. According to Sheriff Becker of Stockton, Hamblen wrote the former Ceylon woman that he was con-

National Association Delegates Decide Organization Has Exceeded Its Powers

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Amendment of the constitution of the National Collegiate Athletic association, eliminating the clause regarding general supervision of amateur athletics was adopted today at the association's annual meeting. The amended clause provides only for "supervisory control over collegiate athletics."

The delegates decided, it was said, that under the original provision for supervision, the organization exceeded its actual powers. The association also voted to join the American Olympic association and the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Cecil Leitch Praises American Woman Golfer

Former British Champion Gives Impressions of Visit to Canada and United States

LONDON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Miss Cecil Leitch, the former British woman golf champion, is at present in the hands of a specialist for treatment of her arm and she has said recently that she could not define her prospects in the matter of playing in the next ladies' championship game.

Regarding her tour last summer in Canada and the United States, Miss Leitch declared it was purely of a private nature. She was particularly impressed with women's golf in the Dominion.

Of the outstanding players in Canada, Miss Ada Mackenzie and Miss Fowler were probably the greatest. Miss Alice Sterling was undoubtedly the greatest exponent of women's golf in the United States, in spite of the fact that she curtailed her play during 1922. She was the finest "shot maker" of her time. She had more shots almost than any other player.

Miss Leitch considers that the majority of women's golf courses in the United States and Canada are easier than those in England. There is no comparison there as in England, and virtually no such courses in Canada, however, are very much better kept than in this country.

TWIN FALLS DAILY NEWS

Published every morning except Monday... Twin Falls News Publishing Co., Inc.

Entered as second class mail matter... October 24, 1911, at Twin Falls, Idaho.

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS... The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches...

Subscription Rates... One month... Three months... Six months... One year.

Eastern Representative... George B. Ford Co., Inc., 171 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

AN IMPORTANT TOPIC... Because of the extreme importance of the matter the columns of The News are open for full discussion of the entire subject.

Letters bearing upon the project, no matter on what side, will be cheerfully published provided their primary purpose is to shed light upon the proposition as a whole and the points sought to be made is held within a reasonable space.

Because of its importance discussion should be frank and free. Whatever action is finally taken, it will not do to make a mistake.

It is with this idea in mind the attention is called to the forthcoming election and its consequences, and the necessity for a full and complete understanding of the subject on the part of all.

HOLIDAY BRAGGERS TO HAPPENERS

The radiant holiday season, warm and cheering with the contentful bliss of home and affection, impresses us most genuinely, most convincingly, most solemnly, most simply, with the ordinary sanctity of everyday existence. The peace and happiness that love and good will instill in us expose the flimsy sham of worldly endeavor.

There can be no doubt, not the least doubt, that the treasures which really are worth while are the intangibles. The proof is in our hearts and in our minds that true happiness and the secret key to content lies in the spiritual motives and ends, and that nothing is solid, even the most substantial, unless it derives vitality, strength and content from spiritual sentiment.

In the whole year we find no joy, no pleasure, no delight, no entertainment, no diversion, no calm, which compares with this captivating, ennobling, inspiring, inexpressible and soothing certainty of faith, love, faith and friends. By contrast, the material is revealed as unreliable and ephemeral. Nothing lasts, nothing abides, except the spiritual.

This idea is the one which the New Year should be entered. It should broaden our view of life. It should give us a wider and higher vision. It should fill us with charity. It should make us kindly, just and tolerant. It should enable us to determine the values in all of our thoughts, plans and deeds.

We are living for our country, for our nation. As fellow-citizens, we are brothers. We are living for our families, for those dear to us, and our homes are the units which compose our country and our families the units which form our nation.

It is not in money, property and business, not in petty objectives, not in hate and suspicion, not in malice and rancor, that prosperity and happiness are found, but in charity and justice. Material things pass away. Only the spiritual, though intangible, endures.

Thought for the Day... Some people think they are conservative when they are really liars.

the busy scientists of the department of agriculture have gone to work and produced a super-cow that gives enough milk to feed 30 children a day, just five times what the average cow gives.

That estimate figures a quart of milk-per day per kid, a high average. If every youngster in the country consumed a quart of milk a day, we should soon have a rice of surplus as well as of super-cow. Milk has so often been proved the best all-round food that we marvel more at youngsters aren't kept on a steady diet of it.

Good breeding and good feeding—that is how the department of agriculture produced the super-cow. And there again we have the human parallel. Good breeding and good feeding are what make the best boys and girls, men and women. In too many homes good feeding is interpreted as meaning expensive food. That isn't right. You take the housekeeper who knows how to economize, and you'll find almost out of 10 that she is averaging pretty close to the proper scale of calories, proteins and all the other mysterious things of dietetics.

THE INCREASING USE OF CANDLES

Most everyone has the idea that the use of candles is diminishing. But such is not the case. It is increasing. It is supposed that when oil lamps, and later, electric lights, came into use, candles were thrown in the discard. It may be true that candles are not being used as much as they were, but the fact is that candles are growing every year.

BERLIN WILL IMPOSE TAX ON KIBBLER-FOOD CONSUMPTION

BERLIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—A tax on gluttony is the latest method of raising funds for Berlin. The tax is levied by the municipal council of Berlin.

Gluttony is defined in the regulations as excessive consumption of food of drink and the fact of excess is determined by the amount of meat. The figure in marks at which the gluttony begins is to be fixed and announced monthly. The cost of eating in excess of this amount will be taxed at the rate of 25 per cent.

The BLIND MAN'S EYES

By William Mackay Edwin Palmer

CHAPTER IV

Are You, Hillward? The bell in the washroom at the end of the car was ringing violently, and the passengers were roused by the ring with a stenorian call for "Porter's Porter!"

Eston realized that it was very cold in his berth—also that the train, which was standing still, had been in the maintenance condition for some time. He threw up the window curtain as he appreciated that, and, looking out, found that he faced a great unbroken bank of gleaming white snow as high as the top of the car at this point.

"Porter, where are you?" "Between Fracrot and Simons, sir." "Yes, yit!" "That foolin' snow still!" "Yes, and snow some more, sir." "Dat haven't we the plow still ahead?"

"Yes, yes; the plow's ahead. We still got it; but that's all, sub. It ain't doin' much; it's busted."

Eston started at the first call of the name; he sat up and faced about. The conductor was opposite Section Three; Eaton saw waded tensely and delayed until the conductor was past; then putting his head out of his curtain he called back to the conductor who was going through the door.

"What name? Who is that telegram for?" "Mr. Lawrence Hillward."

"Oh, thank you; then that mine." Connelly held back. "I thought your name was Eaton."

"It is—Mr. Hillward—Lawrence Hillward—is an associate of mine who expected to make this trip with me but could not. So I should have telegrams to inform communications addressed to him. Is there anything to sign?"

Eaton drew his curtains close again and ripped the envelope open; but before reading the message, he observed with alarm that the envelope had opened across the chest, and a small round scar, such as that left by a high-powered bullet penetrating, was exposed. He gaped almost stupidly, reading this, and clapped his hand to his chest and buttoned his jacket. The message—nine words without signature—lay before him:

"Thicket knot youngster o'clockmate! Issue folks lecture train instigation!"

As some code which Eaton recognized, but could not decipher at once. The conductor was still standing in the aisle.

"When did you get this?" Eaton asked, looking out. "That message came through yesterday some time and was waiting for you at Simons; when we got them this morning they sent it on."

"I see; thanks," Eaton assured that if the conductor had seen anything he suspected no significance in what was said, closed his curtains and buttoned them carefully. The conductor moved on. Eaton took a small English-Chinese pocket dictionary from his vest pocket and opened it under cover of Eaton's coat; consulting the words "from" and "to" he found "from" was "you"; six down from "omniscient" was "one"; seven up from "issue" was "it"; and so continuing, he translated the words to:

"You know you. One is following. Leave train instantly." Eaton, nervous and jerky, as he contemplated the first six words, laughed at the nonsense and said "The message is instantly!"

"The humor of that advice in his present situation, as he looked out the window at the solid bank of snow, appealed to him. A waiter from the dining car came back, announcing the first call for breakfast, and escorted him into a room. The passenger from the Pullman at the rear passed Eaton's section for the diner. He heard Harriet Dorn's voice in some quiet conventional remark to the man who followed him. Eaton started at it; then he dressed swiftly and hurried into the now deserted washroom and then on to breakfast.

Harriet Dorn was sitting facing the door at the second of the larger tables in the dining car, and with his back to Eaton, sat Donald Avery. A third place was laid beside the girl, as though they expected Dorn to join them; but they had begun their fruit without waiting.

The girl glanced up as Eaton halted in the doorway, but she rose hurriedly with a look of pert friendliness, partly purpose. "Oh, Mr. Eaton, she smiled, 'wouldn't you like to sit with us?' "Yes, yit!" "That foolin' snow still!" "Yes, and snow some more, sir." "Dat haven't we the plow still ahead?" "Yes, yes; the plow's ahead. We still got it; but that's all, sub. It ain't doin' much; it's busted."

"Which is him?" the man with Connelly demanded loudly. Connelly checked him, but pointed at the same time to Eaton.

"That's him, is it?" the other man said. "That's good." "That's good," said Avery, who had turned on his seat, was watching his diversion on the part of the conductor with interest. Connelly stopped beside Eaton's seat.

"You took a telegram for Lawrence Hillward this morning," he asserted. "Yes." "Why?" "Because it was mine, or meant for me as I said at the time. My name is Eaton; but Mr. Hillward expected to take this trip with me. The train started with the conductor forced himself forward."

"That's pretty good, but not quite good enough!" he charged. "Conductor got that telegram for me?" Eaton got up, snuffing himself under the eye of the conductor.

"What business is it of yours?" "The Lawrence Hillward—that's all my friend! I want to say up to you, anyway." Lawrence Hillward, twisting with you! I never set eyes on you until I saw you on this train; and you take my telegram?" The charge was made loudly and distinctly; every one in the dining car—Eaton could not see or hear—had to have seen or heard had put down fork or cup or spoon and was staring at him. "What did you do for?" "What did you want with it?" the stout man blared on. "Did you think I wasn't on the train?"

Eaton felt he was being as he faced the blistering smaller man. He realized that the passenger he could see—those at the smaller table—already had judged his explanation and that the man who had spoken unquestionably had done the same. Avery was gazing up at him with a sort of contented triumph.

"The telegram was for me, Conductor," he reported. "The telegram, Conductor?" the stout man demanded again. "I suppose," Connelly suggested, "you have letters or a card or something." Mr. Eaton, to show your relationship to Lawrence Hillward.

"I have a card." "Connelly gave you one claimant to the other." "Will you give this gentleman the telegram?" he asked Eaton. "I will not." "Then I shall furnish him another copy," he received from the other passenger. "You are not a passenger, I'll go forward and get him another copy."

"That's for you to decide," Eaton said; and as though the matter was ended for him, he resumed his seat. He was aware that, throughout the car, the passengers were watching him curiously.

"Are you ready to go back to our car now, Harriet?" Avery laughed, and then he turned to Eaton and said: "Surely there's no hurry about anything today; the girl returned; they waited until Eaton had finished."

"Shall we all go back to the observation car and see if there's any snow on the track?" "Well, no, I suppose," he said impartially to the girl. They went toward the Pullmans together.

The first Pullman contained four or five passengers; the next, in which Eaton had been seated, was empty as they passed through. The third Pullman also, at first glance, seemed to have been deserted in favor of the other forward of the club-car; but their backs had been made in the dining car, and Eaton, except Eaton, but someone was still sitting under the curtains of Section Three, for a man's hand hung over the aisle. It was a gentleman's hand, with long, well-formed fingers, sensitive and at once strong.

"That was the berth of Harriet Dorn, was it?" Eaton was the last of the three to pass on, and so the others did not notice his start; but so strong was the fascination of the hand in the aisle that he turned back and gazed at it before going on into the last car. Eight or ten passengers—men and women—were lounging in the chairs of the observation room; a couple, clustered and fur-capped, were standing on the platform gazing back over their shoulders.

The canyon through the snowdrift, bored by the giant rotary plow, the light before was almost filled with drifts of snow eight or ten feet high and in places, piling still higher, came to the rear of the train; the end of the platform itself was buried under three feet of snow; the man standing on the platform could barely look over the higher drifts.

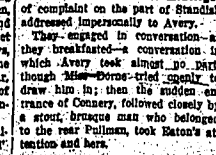

"There's no way from the train in that direction now, Harriet; some lumbered as she said. "What shall we do with ourselves?" "Chinbag, Harriet! You and I!" Avery laughed.

He shook his head. "If we have to play the fourth and make it action; but you say that's not there some way we can get out for a walk."

"There's the top of the cars, Miss Dorn," Eaton suggested. "If we could get up these, we'd get a fairly decent walk and see everything."

"Good!" the girl applauded. "How do we get up?" "I'll see the conductor, about it." Eaton offered; and before Avery could object, he started back through the train.

Mr. Eaton, she smiled, "Wouldn't you like to sit with us?"

PACKERS PLAN BIG PROJECT, REPORTS SHOW

Swift & Co. Buy Vast Quantities of Alfalfa and May Establish Feeding Yards at Barrymore, Rumors Indicate

Reports to the effect that Swift & Co., Chicago packers, have acquired alfalfa mills at Barrymore, Wendell and Kimberly, and are buying big quantities of hay in this district for feeding purposes...

Plan Big Yards. Persons acquainted with the situation believe that the company plans to establish a large alfalfa feeding yard at Barrymore, for the purpose of feeding sheep loaded at points farther to the northwest and billed to Omaha.

Sheep buyers stated Thursday that they viewed the land and acreage well in this district and to ship both alfalfa and baled alfalfa to the yards at Ogden. If the rumored plans are carried out it will mean the stabilization of the alfalfa hay, it is said, at a price that will be attractive to the farmers of Twin Falls and adjacent counties.

Acquire Big Yonnage. Estimates of the amount of hay already purchased vary from 3,000 to 11,000 tons and the price paid is said to have been from 40 to 45 cents.

LOCAL CONCERN IS ROBBED

Wells Lake Retail Station of Allen Oil Company Robbed of Cash on Hand by LEO SADDY

Unmasked and smiling, a lone man walked into the Sandford station of the Allen Oil company at Wells Lake, on the corner of 21st and 22nd streets, Saturday afternoon.

His victims described the bandit as about 25 years of age, of medium build, with a mustache like a veteran. They were so taken unaware that no attempt was made to follow the gunman until he had covered his tracks.

His auditors would not have believed his story for the long, black, muslin clothing on his midriff. He ranged up against the back wall. Outside automobiles were honking along the busy highways which intersected this point.
