STAGE SET FOR OPENING OF KIDNAPING CASE

State Troops to Guard Morehouse Parish Court House Where State Will Seek Facts in Masked Mob Action

BASTROP, La., Jan. 4 (AP)—The open hearing in the Morehouse kidnaping and murder cases begins at the parish court house tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Preparations were completed by the state today in the proceedings by which an effort will be made to indict those persons believed responsible for the masked and robed mob action August 24 in which five men kidnaped were killed and their bodies cast into a lake.

One Prisoner at Bar.

One prisoner will face the bar at tomorrow's hearing unless the state acts into motion its dragnet to scoop up 45 or 46 more. The state believes, were members of the mob.

State officials remained silent tonight as to when additional arrests would occur. It was understood they were in possession of a list of those implicated, named by two men who were said to have confessed under the promise of immunity.

Adjutant Thomas failed to promulgate the martial law order he was said to have in his possession. He declined to put off such action as long as possible, he said.

Bans Arms in Court.

Those entering the court house to tomorrow will be searched for firearms. It was learned the court house will be protected by two companies of state troops now encamped on the court house and jail grounds.

A squadron of state cavalry was moved today from Mer Rouge to Bastrop, leaving the remainder of the troop at Mer Rouge where a company of infantry is encamped. The mounted soldiers are expected to be used in serving subpoenas and making arrests. The condition of the roads required the use of such troops. It was learned that the subpoenas were served in preparation today for the summoning of witnesses for the hearing. In addition to those summoned, all persons are privileged to enter the court house and ask to be permitted to testify. It was believed there would be more than 100 witnesses. The witnesses will be examined by the district attorney but not cross examined and the testimony taken down in shorthand. The hearings will be before the district judge. At the conclusion of the state, if it thinks the evidence justifies, will ask for a grand jury to return indictments.

State Troops Encamped.

This is the third time in the history of the state such proceedings have been invoked.

J. T. Burnett, former deputy sheriff, flanked by some of Louisiana's finest legal talent, will meet the charges against him at the hearing. He expects to prove an alibi. He expects to prove he was working at the Southern Carbon plant at the time the kidnaping occurred. The timekeeper by whom he was charged to enter the court house last Friday night and has disappeared.

COAL MEETING FACES FAILURE

Miners Reject All Proposals on Working Rules and Wages Submitted by Operators

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (AP)—Failure to find any common ground upon which to base future negotiations for working rules and wages loomed as the first probability here tonight as the conference of operators and miners from 15 bituminous districts adjourned after two days which no real progress has been made.

With the failure of a special joint committee of 12 operators and miners, appointed to consider the operators' proposal of district or group settlements to agree, the conference will be resumed tomorrow at 10 a. m., probably the last day of the season, no nearer the object of the meeting than when it opened in Cleveland in October, 1922.

The proposal made by the operators that each district nominate a separate wage scale making body with the privilege of grouping with any other district or districts as might be agreed upon, was rejected in committee by the miners on the ground that this method had been fought and rejected in the strike. A similar resolution carrying with it arbitration and a sliding scale, was rejected by the miner representatives of the conference.

Miners place the blame for failure to reach an understanding to the divergence of opinions among the operators. Operators declare they are hesitant about entering any agreements similar to the old central competitive field because of federal indictments now pending.

Harding's Name Is Hissed by Women Foes of Dry Law

Molly Pitcher Club Manifests Displeasure at President's Refusal to Meet Delegation Opposing Prohibition

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—Members of the Molly Pitcher club, some of them prominent society and club women, indulged in a period of hissing when it was announced at a club luncheon that President Harding had declined to meet a delegation named to lay before him the club's demand for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The storm burst when Ramsay H. Gillette, counsel for the New York division of the Association Opposed to the Repeal Amendment, read excerpts from a letter from the president, giving as grounds for his refusal to meet the women his belief that "it is a futile thing to expect the repeal of the amendment," and that such an interview could only "result in controversial publicity and create a suspicion that the federal government is not in good faith endeavoring to enforce the prohibition laws."

The club made public a part of the president's letter and by a vote adopted a resolution, arguing against the validity of his objections to the interview and renewing the request that the delegation be received. The resolution, also sent to the president, said he recently had received a church delegation "to discuss prohibition."

Mr. Gillette, speaking of the president's letter and the club's action, declared that "when the chief executive of this republic cannot receive any delegation to discuss any topic as provided in the constitution, then the republic is in danger."

He then quoted from the president's letter:

"Ordinarily I would receive any delegation on your suggestion and I try to make it a rule to find time for an audience with any delegation whose members desire to present to the president a pressing problem of government. Frankly, however, I do not believe it would be an opportune time just now to receive a delegation which aims to give expression to a widely held sentiment which is in such a futile thing to expect the repeal of the amendment that I doubt the wisdom of giving an interview which can only result in controversial publicity and create a suspicion that the federal government is not in good faith endeavoring to enforce the prohibition laws."

CHARGE GUARDS STRUCK FIRST

Defense Witnesses in Herrin Murder Trial Lay Blame for Trouble at Door of Victims

MARIETTA, Ill., Jan. 4 (AP)—Declaring that the first shot fired in the Herrin riots were poured from the machine gun at the "strip" mine where the trouble started, upon a possible alibi, the defense witnesses at the trial of five men charged with murder today slowly unfolded the defense's version of the tragedy which cost the lives of three union miners and 20 non-union workers.

The armed guards stationed at the mine when it was reopened during the miners' strike last June were pictured by witnesses as dauntless in their attitude toward persons approaching the mine and as swaggering about armed with high powered rifles, steel jacketed bullets by the hundreds, handfuls of deadly hand grenades, pistols and a machine gun.

Dovered by one witness as "rough-necked" and "bullies," the guards were declared to have deliberately sought to intimidate every one who came in contact either by threats, boasts of their prowess with firearms or stories of what they would do if attacked. Other witnesses asserted the guards were fearful of being attacked and seemed to be trying to avert it by instilling a reign of terror over the peaceful countryside.

Toll of Hidden Gun.

Three of the 18 witnesses heard today, John C. Baker, Grover Kelly and Nelson Meadows, all of whom are union miners, testified that they had seen a gun placed in position on top of the mine dump early in the afternoon of June 20 and concealed behind a clump of bushes. They agreed that the first shots fired from the mine that afternoon came from this gun, which was in position to rake the surrounding country.

Pines Crain, a farmer, exhibited two .38 Smith & Wesson caliber pistols which he testified he had found in the mine after the non-union men had been taken out the next morning and 20 of them killed, and the defense indicated that would try to prove they were the kind used in a machine gun.

NORTH SIDE HOOPSTERS FIGHT DRY LAW

Come Here for Games

Both Boys and Girls on Bill for Basketball Contests on Local Floor

Coach Evans will bring out his trained troops of basket shooters this evening for their game with the Jerome stars at the local floor.

The North Side lads have been playing a fine grade of basketball since the season started, and are in prime condition for the fray. They have won one and lost one with both Bull and Filer, which means that they are to be reckoned with.

With the girls' team, under the coaching of Mr. Standish, ready for action in the opening tilt of the evening against the North Side fair sex, the fans will be treated to two real games of basketball.

The boys' team will have Scott, Jonkin and Cole for forwards; M. Jamison and Cole for centers, and Captain and a few guards. The possibilities are that there will be several substitutes before the game is over. Cling King, the hard working guard, has been ill off week, and will not be able to play, while Walton Swain is also on the sick list nursing a lame back.

Miss Standish announces the following lineups for tonight's game: North Side: Neal and Lucille Wynn, forwards; Ruth McCracken and Margaret Hilley, centers; Besie Dunning and Harold Brown, guards.

The girls game will start at 7:30 sharp.

WILL NOT LEAVE YANKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—Colonel R. T. Heston has decided to retain his part ownership of the New York American league baseball club, which it was announced some time ago he would renounce. He said he would not leave the club until the negotiations with Colonel Ruppert had broken down. He asserted he would retain his part ownership indefinitely, although his stock is for sale at "any reputable person."

He declared that the deal failed over the purchase price, reported to be $1,125,000.

POLO GROUNDS CHOSEN FOR ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME

Auto Suggestion Exponent Arrives on Lecture Tour

Come Comes to America on Invitation of Former Patients to Set Americans Right

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—Emile Coue, exponent of auto suggestion, whose sole prescription for his patients—the phrase, "Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better"—has swept every land, either seriously or in jest, arrived here tonight to deliver a lecture on the subject of auto suggestion on the subject of auto suggestion, expecting to deliver in the morning.

The noted Frenchman plans a two-weeks' tour of the United States, during which he will give two lectures in New York and eight in other cities. He also will conduct several clinics.

Come came to America at the invitation of several Americans, former patients of his, who seek, they declare, to have him dispel the idea that he is a "miracle worker" or anything other than a simple earnest man inspired by the desire to assist his fellowmen to a higher and better life.

Profits from the trip, it was announced, will be devoted to the foundation of a Coue clinic in Paris. He will accept no remuneration for his lectures and efforts are being made to prevent any commercialization of his work.

Constipation.

Constipation of the bowels is a stoppage of the digestive system that moves waste matter from the body. It is as necessary that your bowels move regularly as it is that you carry off this waste, as it is that the waste pipes of your home be kept open and carry off the waste from your house. If you have enjoyed good health, keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed.—adv.

Supreme Court Hears Arguments for and Against Prohibition at Sea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Oral argument in the cases involving the question whether foreign ships are prohibited by the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement act from bringing intoxicating liquors into the United States in their sea stores, was concluded in the supreme court today.

Solicitor General Reck in behalf of the government, urged the court to construe the amendments and the enforcement act as prohibiting the possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors in all cases except where Congress specifically provided that exceptions should be made, adding that it had not done so with reference to sea stores.

Sees Gap in Law.

Former Attorney General George W. Wickersham of counsel for the foreign steamship companies, contended that the constitutional amendment and the enforcement act should be interpreted with regard to the country among nations, and that since Congress had not legislated on the subject of intoxicating liquors as a part of the sea stores, the bringing of such liquors into the ports of the United States by foreign ships did not constitute either "possession" or "transportation" as forbidden by the constitutional amendment and the enforcement act.

COUNTING THE COST

One point should be thoroughly understood in connection with the coming election upon the formation of the American Falls irrigation district, namely, that once in, withdrawal will be impossible until such time as the obligation of the new district are satisfied in full.

If the proposed district is voted bonds issued by it are an obligation of each component part until paid. Any idea that, if dissatisfied with the outcome, this or any other project may withdraw from the district should not, and must not, be entertained seriously.

The main point in the whole matter appears to be as to whether or not the farmers can afford to pay for the water after they have bought it and this is a matter upon which no one should permit his own good judgment to be swayed in the slightest. One half acre foot of water, per acre, or approximately one hundred thousand acre feet in all, will probably cost about six hundred thousand dollars, or at the rate of three dollars per acre for the two hundred thousand acres embraced within the area of the Twin Falls canal system. If this is payable over a period of twenty years the cost per acre including interest charges will approximate five dollars and a half per acre of land or the equivalent of a little less than one ton of six dollar hay.

Recent irrigation projects, including the famous Arrowrock dam, were built well within the basis of estimate employed in compiling the cost as quoted. It is reasonable to suppose, therefore, that the cost of construction will not exceed the estimate in the case of the American Falls project.

Based upon the records of the past it would appear that every five years or so, on an average, the farmers in this section pay the bill for the American Falls water in the shape of short crops due to water shortage. This may not be strictly true, but it is approximately true, and the fact should be seriously considered.

Storage water at American Falls available for use on this tract during short water years would eliminate the loss due to shortage of water under present conditions, but the obligation, if voted, must be lived up to and the contract, if entered into, must be carried out.

COSTLY PROCEDURE

It seems incredible that the Irish people as a whole should be so utterly blinded to their own interests as to fly in the face of public sympathy by a continuance of their program of rioting and violence. To transfer their activities to an American city and hold Irish demonstrations before New York's city hall is simply to bid goodbye to the last shreds of respect on the part of the rank and file of American citizenry.

The problem of Ireland is not and never can become an American problem and any attempt to make it an American problem is to estrange a large part of the general good will of America. There can be no sympathy for either element in the New York City Hall embroglio but only resentment against the men responsible for its staging.

Past Year Proves Coldest Since 1905, Records Show

Average Temperature Was 45.8 Degrees—Precipitation Under Normal, Twin Falls Weather Observer Reports

With an average temperature of 45.8 degrees 1922 was the coldest year on record here since the local weather bureau was established in September 1905, according to the annual report of Marion Hammons, local observer.

The second coldest year was 1911 with an average of 46.1 degrees and 1916 with an average of 46.3 was the warmest year since 1905. Mr. Hammons' report shows. The past year was below normal in precipitation, 24.1 inches having been recorded for the entire year. The driest year was 1914 with a total of 8.62 inches and the wettest year was 1907 with a total precipitation of 18.35.

Give Annual Totals.

Comparing 1922 with the other years, since the establishment of the bureau here Mr. Hammons' report is as follows:

January 1922 and the lowest mean temperature, 16 degrees, since the records have been kept. The previous low January was in 1917 with an average of 19 degrees and the highest was January 1918 with an average of 34.1 degrees. With a total precipitation of 1.43 inches last January was the wettest January since 1914, when 2.13 inches were recorded for the first month of the year.

Last February was the coldest, with an average of 25.9 degrees, since 1911. Precipitation was .88 of an inch. The least precipitation for the month was .10 of an inch in 1908 and the greatest was 2.90 in 1907.

Low Record

Last March with an average temperature of 33.1 degrees was also a low record month. The previous low record for March was in 1905 with an average of 31.7 degrees. The warmest March was in 1910 with an average of 47.2 degrees. March precipitation totaled .91 of an inch. The greatest was 4.80 in 1907.

April 1922 was also the coldest for the month, with an average of 41.8 degrees. The previous coldest April was in 1920 with an average of 42.8 degrees. We find only two monthly records for April with a greater precipitation, 1921 with 1.44 inches and 1920, the greatest on record with 1.75 inches. Least precipitation for the month was in 1908 with a total of 12 inches.

May Normal Month

May of last year was about normal with an average of 53.4 degrees. The warmest May was in 1914 and the coldest in 1908. In May we received next to the highest monthly precipitation for 1922 with a total of 1.35 inches, January being the highest precipitation month of the year.

On record with a mean of 65.8 degrees, June of 1921 was the next highest with a mean of 64.5 degrees. June in 1907 was the coldest, with a total precipitation of .84 inches. Last June was the wettest since 1913, with a mean of 69.6 degrees was about the average. The hottest July was in 1900, the average being 73.8 degrees. July 1914 was the coolest with an average of 60.0 degrees. Last July was the wettest for five years. The wettest July on record was in 1913 and the driest was in 1911.

August Records Shown

August with an average temperature of 69.1 degrees, seems about normal. The hottest August was in 1915 with a 73.7 degree average. August, 1918 was the coldest. The precipitation last August totaled .88 inches, the second wettest month on record. In August of 1910 and 1914 no precipitation was recorded.

September with an average of 61.6 degrees was the warmest since 1918, when the average was the same. September, 1905, was the hottest with an average of 63.6 degrees, while September, 1921, with an average of 54.1 was the coldest. Last September, with only .01 precipitation, was the driest September on record. In 1910 no precipitation occurred in September. September, 1913, was the wettest.

Above Normal.

"October, with an average of 51 degrees seems a little above normal. October, 1916, was the hottest with an average of 62.6 degrees, while October, 1912, was the coldest with a record of 40.7 degrees. October was next to the warmest last year. The wettest October occurred in 1920, while no precipitation was recorded for the month in 1905, 1915 and 1917.

"November, with a mean of 34.8 degrees was the coldest November since 1910, when the low record for the month of 30.2 degrees was established. November, 1917, was the warmest. The total precipitation last November was 67 inches. November, 1909, there was 3.05 inches of precipitation.

Coldest December.

"Last December was the coldest for four years. The mean was 27.9 degrees. December, 1914, was the coldest December on record, the average being 20.6 degrees, while December, 1917, was the warmest. There was .65 inches of precipitation last December.

Mr. Hammons' monthly report for December shows a total snowfall of 5.9 inches with three inches on the ground on December 15. There were seven clear days, 12 partly cloudy and 18 cloudy. The lowest temperature of the month was six degrees below zero on December 15, and the highest was 56 degrees on December 6.

BRITISH BEGIN DISCUSSION OF DEBT PAYMENT

Agreement on Terms of Funding Four Billion Dollar Obligation to Be Sought in Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—The British debt commission, headed by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and Montague C. Norman, governor of the Bank of England, arrived in Washington tonight prepared to take up with the American debt commission the subject of funding Great Britain's war time debt of more than $14,000,000,000.

Members of the American commission said today they were ready to enter into negotiations, but would have no proffers to take beyond the limitations established by law. They had no intention of their declining to discuss in advance of their receipt of the reported British proposals.

Await British Proposal.

Treasury officials denied today that any thought was being given to changing the debt funding act to give the American commission the latitude in the negotiations. Some other members of the commission, however, including Secretary Hughes and Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, have taken the view that certain changes should be made. Questions concerning suggested changes, however, when put to American commissioners today were met generally with the statement that nothing could be said or should be said in advance of the actual presentation by the British of any proposition they have to make.

It is believed formal discussion of the funding question would be delayed until early next week, although members of the commission are expected to make calls of courtesy on government officials and members of the commission with which they will deal in advance of that time.

Would Establish Capability.

Although there were no official statements on the subject and American commissioners declared they had no intention of the British program, reports persisted that the first step by the foreign delegation would be to attempt to establish to the satisfaction of the American the approximate annual amount that Great Britain can pay. The British delegation was declared to feel that without first reaching such a basis for calculation, the negotiations might be expected to come to naught.

High treasury officials on the other hand, said today that they expected to see an early settlement of the British debt question, and indicated the belief that no serious difficulties would arise between the two delegations.

CHAPTER X

Publicity Not Wanted.

"Baill Santonio dying ill on blind millionaire lawyer taking ill on blind." The alarm of the cry came to answer Eaton's question early the next morning. He threw up the curtain and saw a vagrant nobody, evidently passing through the railroad yards to sell to the trainmen, Eaton, hailing the boy put out his hand for a paper. He spread the news-sheet before him and read that Santonio's condition was very low and becoming rapidly worse. But below, under a Montana dateline, Eaton saw it proclaimed that the blind millionaire was merely sick; there was no suggestion anywhere of an attack. The paper stated only that Baill Santonio, returning from Seattle with his daughter and his secretary, Donald Avery, had been taken seriously ill upon a train which had been stalled for two days in the snow in Montana. The column ended with the statement that Mr. Santonio had passed through Minneapolis and gone on to Chicago under care of Dr. Douglas Sinclair.

Eaton stared at the newspaper without reading, after he saw that he had not realized, until now that he was told that Harriet Santonio had gone—for if her father had gone on, of course she was with him—the fact to which he had felt her fairness, almost her friendship to him. At least, he knew now that, since she had spoken to him after he was first accused of the attack on her father, he had not felt entirely deserted or friendless till now.

But why, if Santonio had been taken away, or was dead or dying, had they left Eaton all night in the car in the yard? Since Santonio was dying, would there be any longer an object in concealing the fact that he had been murdered?

He dressed and then paced back and forth the two or three steps his compartment allowed him. He stopped now and then to listen; from outside he heard the rattle of the yard, but he made out no sound within the car. If it had been occupied as on the days previous, he must have heard some one coming to the washroom at his end. "Was he alone in the car now, or had the customary moving about been placed before he awoke?"

Finally, to free himself from his nervous listening for sounds which never came, he picked up the paper again. He read:

"The news of Mr. Santonio's visit of a week on the Coast, if not known already in great financial circles, is likely to prove interesting there. For years he has been the chief agent in keeping peace among some of the great conflicting interests, and more than once he has advised the declaration of financial war when war seemed to him the correct solution. Thus, five years ago, when the violent death of Matthew Latron threatened to precipitate a trouble among western capitalists, Santonio kept order in what might very well become financial chaos. If his recent visit to the Pacific coast was not purely for personal reasons but was also to adjust antagonisms such as charged by Gabriel Warder before his death, the loss of Santonio at this time may precipitate troubles which, living, his advice and information might have been able to prevent."

Having read and reread this long paragraph, Eaton thrust the sheet out the window. As he sat thinking with tips tight closed, he heard for the first time that morning foot steps at his end of the car. The door of his compartment was unlocked and opened, and he saw Doctor Sinclair. Santonio wants to speak to you," the surgeon announced quietly. This startling negation of all he imagined, unnerved Eaton. He started up, then sank back for better composure.

"Mr. Santonio is here, then?" "Here! Of course he's here!" "And he's conscious?"

"He has been conscious for the better part of two days. Didn't they tell you?"

Eaton looked toward the window, breathing hard. "I heard the news boys."

Sinclair shrugged. "The papers print what they can get and in the way which seems most effective to them," was his only comment.

The surgeon led Eaton to the door of the drawing room, showed him in and left him alone.

Harriet Santonio was sitting on the little lounge opposite the berth where her father lay. She was watching the face of her father, and as Eaton stood in the door he saw her lean forward and gently touch her father's hand, then she turned and saw Eaton.

"Here is Mr. Eaton, Father," she said.

"Sit down," Santonio directed. The blind man was very weak and must stay quite still; and he recognized it; but he knew too that his strength was more than equal to the task of recovery, and he showed that he knew it. His mind and will were obviously, at their full activity, and he had fully his sense of hearing.

Harriet's lips trembled as she turned to Eaton; but she did not speak directly to him yet; it was Baill Santonio who suddenly inquired: "What is it they tell you?"

"My name is Philip D. Eaton," Eaton realized as soon as he had spoken that both question and answer had been unnecessary, and Santonio had asked only to hear Eaton's voice.

The blind man was silent for a moment, as he seemed to consider the voice, and try again vainly to place it in his memories. Then he spoke to his daughter.

"Describe him, Harriet."

Harriet paled and flushed.

"About thirty," she said, "under rather than over that. Six feet or a little more in height. Slender, but muscular and athletic. Skin and eyes clear and with a look of health. Complexion naturally rather fair, but darkened by being outdoors too good deal. Hair dark brown, straight and parted at the side. Smooth shaven. Eyes blue-gray, with straight lashes. Eyebrows straight and dark. Forehead smooth, broad and intelligent. Nose straight and neither short nor long; nostrils delicate. Mouth straight, with lips neither thin nor full. Chin neither square nor pointed, and with a clear, firm, and healthy line in general, of oval Anglo-American type."

"Go on," said Santonio. Harriet was breathing quickly. "Hands well shaped, strong but without sign of manual labor; nails cared for but not polished. Gray business suit, neat. Well-kempt hair of black design with soft curls. Medium height turn-down white linen collar. Four-hand tie, tied by himself. Black shoes. No jewelry except watch-chain."

"In general," Santonio suggested. "a general, apparently well educated; well-bred, intelligent young American. Expression frank. Manner self-controlled and reserved. Seems sometimes younger than he must be, sometimes older. [Something has happened at some time which has had a great effect and can't be forgotten.]"

True to Type.

Six men, sole survivors of a wreck, were cast upon a desert isle, where they abode for some months, till a gun-of-war took them off. In his log the captain of the warship noted the racial characteristics of the six thus: The two Irishmen had fought every day for the whole time of their sojourn. The two Englishmen, who spoke to each other because they had not been properly introduced. The two Scots had started a Caledonian society.

GRAIN TRADE REFLECTS EUROPEAN MISGIVINGS

Traders Flock to Selling Side in Wheat Pit; Foreign Holders Are Reported Unloading

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (AP)—Misgivings over the breakdown of the reparations conference at Paris had an evident bearing on the grain market here today. Prices of wheat, 7.5 to 21.4c net lower, with May $1.13 1/4 to 1.13 3/4, and July $1.10 5/8 to 1.10 7/8. Corn lost 1/8 to 1 1/8c, oats 1/4 to 1 1/8c, and provisions 7 to 20 to 22c.

Traders flocked to the selling side throughout the day in the wheat pit. Foreign holders in particular were said to be unloading, and this circumstance, together with uncertainties of foreign exchanges and with a succession of disturbing reports regarding the Paris conference, kept most buyers wary. The bulk of purchasing being apparently to even up open accounts that showed a profit.

Big receipts of wheat at primary points, about three times as large as a year ago, tended further to discourage bulls and to nullify rallies based on progress of farm credits legislation measures at Washington. Coupled as to the possible appointment of an American representative on the reparations commission was practically ignored and estimated that 300,000 bushels of wheat had been bought today for shipment to Europe failed also to give the market any important upturn as the day drew to an end.

Despite lessening of arrivals and notwithstanding liberal export business, the corn market gave way with wheat. Oats followed suit.

Provisions were weakened by the decline of hog values and of grain as well.

STOCK PRICES TUMBLE WHEN PREMIERS SPLIT

News from Paris Wipes Out Day's Early Gains and Several Active Issues Drop From One to Three Points

Day's total sales, 1,376,000 shares. Twenty industries averaged 95.57; net loss, .56. High, 1922, 101.43; low, 78.59. Twenty rails averaged 85.69; net loss .39; High, 1922, 93.97; low, 73.13.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP)—Stock

prices pursued an even course during most of today's session and then yielded materially in the final hour on a heavy selling movement which followed announcement of a breakdown of the reparations conference at Paris and repatriations. A number of the early gains were wiped out and several active issues closed one to three points below yesterday's final quotations.

Speculators for the decline offered a liberal supply of stocks at the opening, and these were well absorbed and the market appeared to be turning upward under the leadership of United States Steel which touched 108 3/4, but retreated at the close to 104 3/4 for a small loss. Some of the buying in this stock, approximately 125,000 shares of which changed hands during the day, was said to be for the account of the steel corporation, which announced tonight that the finance committee had decided to offer to the employees of the corporation the privilege of subscribing during this month for 60,000 shares of common stock at $107 per share.

Short selling continued in spots, despite the rally in the steel being particularly effective against some of the oil shares, which were again liberally on publication of reports that the Royal Dutch company was closing its refinery because of lack of oil resulting from the financial crisis in its fields. Losses of a point or more were sustained by Royal Dutch, General Asphalt, Cordon, Pacific Oil, Phillips Petroleum and Producers and Refiners. California Petroleum continued its rise to higher ground, despite denials of reports by the financial committee that the company was seeking control of the California oil company.

Revelation of rumors, often denied, that the Baldwin Locomotive and Pullman companies were both conducting to acquire Lima Locomotive was attributed for the early activity and strength of those stocks. Baldwin was run up to 153 1/2, a new high on the movement, but reacted later to 135 1/2 and closed at 137, where it was off more than 2 points on the day. Pullman got to 153 1/2 but closed at 148 1/2, a fractional gain at 131 1/2. Lima closed 11 1/8 lower.

Automotive stocks also enjoyed a brief period of strength but yielded with the rest at the close. Call money opened at 4 per cent but eased off later to 3 1/2, where it closed.

Foreign exchanges eased off materially after a brief advance, but the allied premier's conference had broken up without an agreement. Demand sterling, which closed last night at 165 1/2, fell to 164 1/2, while French francs dropped 24 points to 7.63 1/2; Belgian francs 11 points, to 6.57; and Italian lira 7 points to 5.10 1/2. German marks were quoted at just under 14 cents a hundred.

PRESENT FACTS ON RESERVOIR IN LAST DRIVE

Points of Interest in Regard to American Falls Project to be Outlined at Series of Public Meetings

With the American Falls project election two weeks away the local organization interested in the building of the big reservoir is planning on a somewhat more intensive campaign of education. The opposition organization has not given up the idea of opposing the project, although it has no public meetings scheduled, it was announced Thursday by E. J. Malone, chairman of the general committee. A few weeks ago to make public the objections to the inclusion of the Twin Falls tract in the bond issue.

E. A. Banks, reclamation service engineer, is the principal speaker in a number of public meetings scheduled by the supporting organization. Mr. Banks speaks at the Star theatre at Kimberly on Friday afternoon, Saturday at the Bull Chalmers of Commerce rooms, Monday at Filer at 2 p. m. at the Tanager theatre.

Banks to Speak.
The organization plans for holding meetings practically every night from the date of election, with the exception of next Tuesday, when the canal board election is to be held. Several of the meetings will be held here with Mr. Banks and local speakers. The program was announced Thursday by A. L. Swin.

Explains Project.
The following points of information are offered by Mr. Swin:
"The Twin Falls North and South side projects comprise nearly the whole of the proposed big irrigation district. The remainder of the area is in the vicinity of Aberdeen and Springfield. The two Twin Falls projects will have six of the seven directors in the big district and will purchase about the same proportion of the storage water.

undevoted territory will be included. All of the lands in the big district now possess water rights and are using irrigation systems. While it is not true that various projects are included in the big district, it is not true that they are losing their water rights. Each will retain all the rights it now possesses. The purchase through the big district, such additional water as it deems necessary to perfect its right.

Share Expense.
"Each will pay for its own share of the storage as purchased and neither of the tracts will be required to pay for storage purchased for the other tract. The proposed big district will simply act as the agent for each of the projects included. The principal benefit of acting through the big district are two, namely, its action will involve the purchase of sufficient storage to insure the building of the dam without waiting for other districts to act, and the financing of the cost can be accomplished at least cost through the large district."

With the North Side project reported to be practically unanimously in favor of the project, as expressed by sentiment at the annual stockholders' meeting at Jerome this week, the plan would be defeated only by a heavy opposition on the Twin Falls tract, it is believed.

Pick Candidates.
The North Side stockholders have already named their candidates for directors in the proposed district. Their nominees from this tract will probably be named at the stockholders' meeting Tuesday.

W. H. Spence, who was endorsed by the East End stockholders Wednesday, is the only man publicly announced as a nominee from the Twin Falls tract. The other district is entitled to a representative on the board and in this regard, Mr. Lincoln mentioned. The Bull district, including Castelford, will also probably name a candidate for the board of the big district. The seventh director is to be chosen from the Aberdeen and Springfield section.

PREDICT BIGGER VEGETABLE CROP

Lettuce Growers to Make Industry Permanent, Says President After Annual Meet

"There is no doubt but what lettuce growing is a permanent industry in Idaho and I anticipate a large growth in the business this year," said President L. S. Otto of the Twin Falls County Vegetable Growers' association after the annual meeting of the Parish hall Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was featured by business discussions, the re-election of the entire staff of officers and the defeat of a resolution criticizing the marketing system of the California Vegetable Union.

The re-election of officers results in Mr. Otto being maintained as president and the following: Harry Parks of Buhl, vice-president; E. B. Wood of Kimberly, secretary-treasurer; and W. D. Averis, E. A. Boone and R. S. Shaw, board of directors.

Mr. Otto, who was introduced by Mr. Wood, was debated at length. It charged that the California organization has failed to live up to its agreements in marketing the southern Idaho crop. On putting it to a final vote the resolution failed of adoption.

The work of the Idaho Producers' Union, of which Mr. Otto is vice-president, was considered and approved and the work of the board of directors of the local association was fully endorsed.

"The lettuce growers of the county will go forward under practically the same program as last year," said Mr. Otto. "It is true that last year was unprofitable for many of the growers but those who lost seem to be the ones who are the most determined to make good this year."

The business program for the meeting was arranged at an executive committee meeting in the office of R. E. Broadhead, county agricultural leader, Thursday morning.

under the jurisdiction of the county, not the state.

"The bridge during the past six months has carried twenty times its normal traffic," said Mr. Andrew.

"The old four-inch plank with which the floor was covered wore down and some time ago another layer of plank three inches thick was added. It has been soaked the boards through the seven inches adding much to the weight of the bridge. A watchman was placed on the bridge to keep the traffic some feet apart. It was just an old structure which from some cause yet to be determined gave way when the last straw was placed upon it."

"It was the upstream cable of the old bridge that parted first yesterday. The cable snapped at the anchorage. The downstream cable held. This allowed the upstream side of the suspended span to fall in the river. The current caught the floor of the bridge and pulled it down. The downstream cable. The next morning it toppled over downstream. This was immediately followed by the west tower of the channel span. The east tower went next and the bridge was in the river."

ROBINSON BILL UP

which he said was not designed to embarrass the administration, but to "show" the president's hands because of the reservation of the Borden peace treaty prohibiting appointment of Americans on foreign commissions without congressional authorization.

Arguing for official representation on the reparations commission, Senator Robinson said that President Harding was forced, because of the treaty prohibition requiring the consent of congress to follow.

President Wilson's plan of unofficial representation.

Johnson Leads Attack
Senator Johnson, of California, a prominent "irreconcilable," immediately opposed the Robinson proposal and Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, another republican "irreconcilable," indicated his opposition to official representation. Again denouncing the reparations commission as "a puppet government" Senator Johnson said military occupation of Europe might flow from enforcement of his decisions. He said he was opposed to any action which might embolden America in Europe's political maneuvering.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, whose recent proposal for a world's economic conference agitated the senate for several days, followed the discussion closely, but did not make known his position on the Robinson bill.
