

FORD CAMPAIGN NEW FACTOR IN SPY'S QUIZZING

Accuser of Detective Agencies Declined to Tell Whether He Furnished Data for the Anti- Jewish Articles

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP)—Efforts of the state of Michigan to prove today that Albert Balanow, alias Balanow, confessed spy and agent provocateur, had "betrayed" his own people—the Jewish race—by gathering the material on which Henry Ford's magazine, the Dearborn Independent, based its anti-Jewish articles, failed when Balanow refused to answer questions. The cross examination was completed today. Tomorrow Allen O. Myers, assistant general manager of the Bureau detective agency, will be examined.

Balanow steadfastly declared it was no business of O. J. Fink, assistant attorney general of Michigan, whether he had or had not worked for Ford, and also that the subject was not covered in the subpoena under which he appeared to give a deposition for use by Frank T. Walsh in the defense of 23 alleged communists at St. Joseph, Mich., February 22.

Involves Hoar's Articles.

He also refused to answer when Mr. Smith asked if it was not a fact that after going to work for C. G. Daniels, New York detective, and brother of Joseph Daniels, former secretary of the navy, to collect Jewish material, he had not sold duplicates reports to Norman Hayswood, who used them as the basis for articles on "Jewmania," published in William Randolph Hearst's "International Magazine."

Balanow denied undue questioning by Mr. Smith, that he had "framed" four cousins, Charles, Ben, Abe and Ida Zacharow of Chicago—and caused their arrest as suspects in the bombing of the Chicago federal building in 1918. He denied that the Zacharows are cousins, declared he had no recollection of making the alleged report accusing them, from which Mr. Smith was reading, and denied having made a statement in New York at the father of the four Zacharows was his uncle, and that he had caused their arrest to get even with his uncle for having caused the banishment of Balanow's father to Siberia under the czar's regime.

Hearing in Uproar.

The effort of the state to connect Balanow with the sensation of the day. During Mr. Smith's examination of the hearing room was in a continual uproar, with Balanow excitedly demanding the right to insert a long statement in the record, and finally appealing to Mr. Walsh to hold the assistant attorney general of Michigan in "contempt" for pressing his questions about the reports.

Failing in that, the witness announced that he would stand mute and answer no questions, but soon broke his resolution to interject more heated refusals.

Both Mr. Walsh and Dan Utecht, Balanow's personal attorney, attempted to soothe his ruffled feelings without success, and Mr. Walsh washed his hands of the matter and said that as far as he was concerned Balanow could answer any question Mr. Smith asked.

ADMISSION OF INCOME TAX EVASION IS MADE PUBLIC

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Failure to file the federal income tax returns for 1919, 1920 and 1921 has been admitted by O. Bertall Phillips, former solicitor of the Anti-Saloon league of New York, according to announcement by John T. Rafferty, internal revenue collector in Brooklyn.

It was the charge of financial irregularities preferred by Phillips against Wm. H. Anderson, state superintendent of the league that led to the present investigation by the district attorney's office of Anderson's activities.

Habitues of the Brooklyn federal building recalled that Mr. Anderson within the last ten days had paid it a visit.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 16 (AP)—E. Mont Reily this afternoon cabled to President Harding his resignation as governor of Porto Rico to take effect April 1. His health, he said, demanded a complete change and rest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—The resignation of Governor Reily, it was said today, had not reached the White House and pending its receipt, comment was withheld.

ELK CALVES FALL VICTIM TO BEARS AND COUGARS

ABERDEEN, Wash., Feb. 16 (AP)—Black bear, cougars and wild cats are causing a noticeable decrease in the herds of elk in the Olympic peninsula, E. C. Hunter of the United States Geological Survey reports. Mr. Hunter, who has spent the last two years in the Olympic mountains, said that the wild animals prey upon the elk calves, although adult elk were not attacked. Mr. Hunter favors a bounty on black bears and year-round open season to annihilate them.

STIR PROMISED BY CRONKHITE

Commander Forced to Retire from Services Promises to Make Shocking Revelations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Revelations which "will shock the conscience of the country" were promised tonight by Major General Adelbert Cronkhite, war commander of the Eightieth division, in his first public statement regarding the circumstances surrounding his recent enforced retirement from the active roll of the army.

Repeating his charge that he was taken out of active service because of the attention he was giving to investigation of the death of his son, Major Alexander P. Cronkhite, mysteriously killed in 1918 at Camp Lewis, Wash., the general asserted that "performing the duty to which I was assigned by the president." He had been given no opportunity, he added, to place the true facts before the authorities, and contrary to established regulations, had been denied the right even of appearing before a retiring board.

"The facts in this whole unfortunate affair, which they seem to light," he said, "will shock the conscience of the country, and unless something happens to me, they surely will come to light."

No Decision Reached

A senate investigation into the case already has been requested by Jennings C. Wise, who served in the Eightieth division as a lieutenant colonel, and by other of General Cronkhite's friends. Tonight no decision on the request had been reached by the senators interested, although action on the nomination of a successor to General Cronkhite still was being withheld at the request of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, in whose state the Eightieth division trained.

During the day, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, to whom Colonel Wise addressed his request for an investigation, replied to the colonel's letter with a promise that the case would receive careful consideration. Senator Reed added, however, that he had not yet decided whether to present a resolution of inquiry.

Believes President Mistled

In his statement tonight, General Cronkhite emphasized that he believed President Harding had been "mistled" into signing the retirement order, and that the "grave irregularities" he charged in connection with the case of Major Cronkhite had taken place before Secretary Weeks took office.

ALASKA INDIANS ORIGINATE WORD "HOOTCH" FOR LIQUOR

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 16 (AP)—The word "hooch" widely used as the name of the hottest variety of whiskey that prevails in the land, among the Alaska Indians, is the belief of F. S. Hall, director of the museum of the University of Washington. Mr. Hall says that a government report from Alaska in 1869 says that the natives there called moonshine liquor "hoohenoo." The old report said that "hoehenoo" had an abominable smell and an atrocious taste, and that a quart of it would erase ten Indians. The Indians were said to have learned to make moonshine from American soldiers sent to Alaska after the purchase.

SMALL TAX UNIT LAUNCHED BIG ROAD BUILDING PLANS

BRIDGEPORT, Calif., Feb. 16 (AP)—Mono county with a population of less than 1,000 and an annual tax revenue of only $33,000, has undertaken to build 35 miles of highway, which is believed to have set a new record. The route is from the Mono-Inyo line to the Nevada state line and forms a link in the Inter-State highway, also known as the Montgomery route.

Railroad Earnings Touch High Record for Several Years

Income During December, if Continued Over Year, Would Return 8.5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Railroad earnings during December came close to setting a new high record for several years, according to complete returns of the class on earnings compiled from interstate-commerce-commission records. The total revenues from operation were $313,575,000 during the month, or 20 per cent more than in December of 1921 and the net income was $70,154,000 as compared with $78,800,000 during the same month a year ago. This earnings gain, if maintained for the year, would give an annual return of 8.15 per cent on the value of all property used for transportation, according to a statement of the association of railway executives commenting upon the returns.

For the entire year of 1922, the net income of class one railroads the association estimated was $776,421,000, which actually represented a return of 4.14 per cent on railroad capital.

ELIMINATES SNOWSHEDS IN SIERRA NEVADA AREA

Southern Pacific Makes Successful Tests with Heavier Type of Locomo- tives in Combatting Drifts

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 16 (AP)—A large proportion of the snowshed in the Sierra Nevada have been eliminated by the Southern Pacific railroad, with the probability that more will be discarded in the near future, as the result of the use of heavier types of locomotives on the mountain routes, according to Thomas Aherm, general superintendent of the Sacramento division.

As a test, the railroad recently tried out six rotary plow locomotives as sixteen of the pilot plow type over a 6,000-foot stretch of snow covered track near Soda Springs, California. The new type of engine, equipped with a fire-plow attachment, cleaned out the snow that lodged tightly against the inner portion of the rails, thus affording protection for traffic and making a journey through the unprotected areas safe.

NEW AUTOMOBILE ENGINE PROMISES CHEAP POWER

Tests of Motor Invented at Stockholm are Reported to Indicate Possible Reduction of Four-Fifths of Expense

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16 (AP)—Automobile owners in Sweden are interested in the statement that a motor has been invented and tried out here which brings down the cost of power to one-fifth of the present figure.

The new motor is light, compact, has very few parts, can be operated by any one, and is the invention of Arthur Wronnerby, a Swedish engineer. It burns crude oil and develops speeds ranging all the way from 70 to 1,800 revolutions per minute. This is a remarkable accomplishment, in view of the fact that ordinary crude oil-motors develop only 500-600 revolutions. The new motor is fire-proof, and since it uses no carburetor, backfires are impossible.

The experiments are being made with a 40 horse power, two cylinder two cycle engine, which is no larger than an ordinary seven horse power crude oil engine. The cylinders are water-cooled outside, and air-cooled inside and, in spite of the high speed, no overheating takes place. A feature of the machine is the simplicity of construction, the complicated devices one usually sees on motors having been eliminated. The engine is primed with gasoline.

Attention Farmers

Sugar advanced one dollar and twenty-five cents per hundred pounds.

According to statistics there is a sugar shortage of two million tons. At the present price of sugar, beets are worth eight dollars and thirty-seven cents per ton, which would make one hundred and thirty dollars and eighty cents per acre for a fifteen ton per acre crop. Many of our growers produce twenty tons per acre, which would bring returns of one hundred seventy-four dollars and forty cents per acre.

We are at the present time contracting beet acreage, and we ask all farmers to consider seriously the putting of a part of your farms into beets as sugar beets is the safest crop you can grow, and will give better returns than any crop we know of.

The larger the acreage the better price we can pay for beets.

HOME BUILDING BREAKS RECORD IN MIDDLEWEST

Preliminary Reports of Year's Activities Indicate New Mark Set Throughout the Country Generally

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP)—Building of homes in the midwest in 1922 surpassed all previous history for the section, according to available preliminary reports on the year. A few sections reported no increase as compared with previous records, but generally all indicated building boom under way.

In Chicago building permits were issued for a value of $226,742,000, an increase of $44,000 over the previous year. The peak of January permits pointed the possibility of an even greater building year in 1923. In 1922 Chicago built 6,200 residences and 2,653 apartments, a factor in keeping up building in much of the northwest.

Kentucky reported a new high peak in building estimated at $45,000,000 for the year, while preliminary Louisville figures estimated building at about 100 per cent more than ever before. Demand for homes was reported keeping ahead of construction.

Chicago and eight large cities in Indiana gave $57,500,000 as the value of building permits, compared with $36,200,000 the previous year.

Omahla reported slightly fewer building permits in 1922, but a larger number of homes erected, these numbering 1552 compared with 988 for 1921.

Kansas reports gave a 15 to 20 per cent increase in construction over 1921.

Missouri gave an estimate of about $53,000,000 for the year, with St. Louis at $25,000,000 compared with $14,500,000 in 1921. Chicago at $23,000,000 compared with $10,000,000. These estimates came from St. Louis contracting firms.

Oklahoma City reported that the building in that state was not extraordinary, but that the construction on small houses led.

Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth noted increases in home building and estimated a new construction of about the state of Minnesota in home construction in 1922. P. W. Dodge and Company estimated that notwithstanding the increase in the home front, the value of building in that section of all classes for the state was about six per cent less than in 1921, due in part to agricultural conditions.

FLOUR MILLING HAS GOOD YEAR

Favorable Prospects for Northwest's Crop Presage Increasing Prosperity

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 16 (AP)—The milling industry was better in 1922 than in the preceding year, and the prospects for 1923 are favorably dependent on the crop of wheat in the Northwest, millers here declare.

These declarations followed statistical reports which showed that 17,444,892 barrels of flour were shipped from the 26 mills here in 1922 as compared to 16,843,196 barrels the year previous. Mill stuffs also showed an increase in shipments, 679,840 tons being forwarded from here last year compared with 642,383 in 1921.

"With the Northwest sustaining three crop failures out of five seasons it is impossible to predict the prospects for the coming year, but with a good average wheat crop again this year, millers should enjoy a better business in 1923 than the preceding year," P. M. Crosby of the Washburn Crosby Company declared.

Officials of other milling companies here held similar views, one stating that "milling situation is healthier now than at the same time a year ago."

Local mills ran at capacity only a few weeks of the year, averaging about 70 per cent for the twelve months.

It was pointed out by Mr. Crosby that economic conditions have little or no effect upon the milling industry, the crop being the only factor. A crop failure in the Northwest brings the mills to face with a shortage of wheat and puts them at a disadvantage with mills in other portions of the country, Mr. Crosby declared.

Hope for relief from part in the crops through the barley cultivation campaign was held out by Mr. Crosby. "We should feel the effect of the several years destruction of these bushes in better crops this year," he added.

PETRELS FLEE GERMAN COAST

Ornithologist Thinks Disturbances Caused by War Conditions Induced—Birds to Abandon Places.

The petrel has completely vanished from the German coasts. Not many years ago petrels' breeding grounds were to be found on the island of Heugen, on the mainland opposite that island, and on the North Frisian island of Sylt.

The first two were gradually abandoned by these birds, which appeared in April and again in September, but even last year some of them still made Sylt their summer residence.

This year, however, not a single bird has put in an appearance at that former petrels' home, the long, low-lying peninsula of Ellenbogen, at the north of the island.

Professor Dietrich, the well-known German ornithologist, thinks that the disturbance caused in the North Frisian islands by war conditions have had much to do with causing the petrels finally to abandon their last home.

Ship's Mascot Lost at Sea

Nigger, the mascot-bear of the freighter Ponce, has gone to whatever vauldunk may be reserved for heroic bullies but sacrifice their lives for twanging friends. Captain and crew of the freighter vouch for the story. It was on the last trip up from the tropics that Nigger passed out. In the middle of the night, while the Ponce was off the Florida coast, a Gulf stern hit her broadside. One of the two men on deck was knocked unconscious by a wave which headed him against a stanchion. The other could not make his way to the companionway against the blow. Deciding that something ought to be done about it, Nigger seized the man, who was unconscious, and dragged him to the shelter of a deckhouse. Then the black bear, suitably soothed and wise in the ways of the sea, made his way below and went from cabin to cabin arousing officers and men. When all hands were at their posts Nigger returned to his favorite spot on the deck to take a look at the scene, and that was the last that was seen of Nigger. He went over the side. It is supposed.

The Boy Knew!

Much of the success of Clarence Depew, the veteran humorist, springs from the fact that many of his best jokes are told against himself.

During a recent after-dinner speech, he related the story of a boy on whose father he, Mr. Depew, once paid a call. After his departure the father turned to the boy and said, reverentially: "Do you know who that man is? He is Clarence Depew, the world's greatest story-teller."

The result was that when Mr. Depew called again he was met enthusiastically by the boy, who exclaimed joyously, as soon as the visitor entered the room:

"Hallo! I know all about you!" "Really?" remarked Mr. Depew, slightly taken back by the voracious nature of the welcome. "And pray, what do you know about me?"

"Why, you're the world's biggest liar—father says so!"

GERMAN CARP OVERRUN UTAH LAKE FISH GROUND

Fishermen Take Hundreds of Tons Weekly from Waters Without Apparent Effect Upon Supply

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 16 (AP)—Utah Lake, to the south of here, is over-run with German carp, varying in length from six inches to two feet, and state game officials declare they would be happy if the people of the Truited States would eat fish every day and thus create a market for the finny creatures.

In 1888 the government furnished a four-gallon container of carp minnows and near Utah lake fishermen catch hundreds of tons of fish weekly with no apparent effect on the supply. Approximately 50,000 pounds of carp are fed each week to Utah chickens and a large amount is consumed by Utah residents, or shipped out of the state. Fishermen hesitate to make an estimate of the number of carp in Utah lake, but ninety ton catches result from only a few hours work.

During the winter months Utah lake is frozen over and it is at this time of the year that most of the carp fishing is done while an easy through hole chopped in the ice. Fishing during the summer is dangerous because the slightest wind makes the lake waters very rough.

BEETS TO BE GROWN ON WEST SIDE OF CASCADES

Idaho and Montana Sugar Interests to Follow Up Tests Made in Lewis County Quarter of Century Ago

CHIEHALIS, Wash., Feb. 16 (AP)—Experiments in growing sugar beets on the west side of the Cascades will shortly be made in Lewis county, according to an announcement of the local commercial club. The experiment will continue for two or three years and will be undertaken by Idaho and Montana sugar beet interests.

Tests made in Lewis county a quarter of a century ago had indicated that sugar beets could be made a profitable crop in this section.

Should a Bank Loan Money for Advertising?

By FESTUS J. WADE,
President, Mercantile Trust Company, of St. Louis.

WHEN we strike at advertising, meaning of course, efficiently applied advertising, we strike at salesmanship, and the heart of business. For the banker to do anything to retard business right now is suicide.

When the merchant pulls down his shingle and waits for business to come to him in a buyers' market, we laugh at him, and call him a poor business man.

When he is forced to cut down one of his best methods of selling because his banker considers advertising an unnecessary item of expense and refuses an otherwise deserved loan purely on that principle, it is my humble opinion that we should laugh at the banker and feel sorry for the merchant.

Don't mistake my meaning. It is a basic banking principle that a loan must be well secured, and a firm cannot borrow merely because it is a big and successful advertiser. But the fact that it is a believer in advertising and wants to use a portion of the money for that purpose should never stand in its way when it calls on the Bank's credit department.

Hardy, when asked if he was a good bowler, said that the answer could be found by putting an "L" between the d and y of his name.

The game yesterday afternoon had two morals. The first is: When playing a bunch that adds figures all day, hire an auditor to find out whether the scores have been added correctly.

DOUGH AND SUGAR

Owing to the fact that the pinsetters were tired, the two teams decided to keep the scores down as low as possible.

Bill Seilley took a hand and clicked off 235 for the two games. Carlos Linville had a great time trying to reach 140. At that he only missed it by two pins.

growth, strikes and evils of misgovernment under a lapsed national administration, added by the uncertainties and wastes of war, led the nation almost to nihilism.

Building activity is increasing everywhere. The present acute building shortage is a double-barreled evil because of the inconvenience and hardship it imposes through increased rents for poor accommodations, and because it prevents factory and office expansion which would increase employment and production.

The basic industries, such as the production of coal, steel, copper, petroleum, timber and foodstuffs, are thriving at a remarkable rate, and yet they have not reached the stage where they meet the nation's necessities.

The growth of the United States and the prosperity of its people constitute a market here which far exceeds the entire remainder of the world, so far as American producers are concerned.

Another factor of great importance in encouraging American industry is the improvement in the world situation. Gloomy reports are numerous, as usual, but nevertheless the world is working out of its worst difficulties.

Finally, and not least, the adjustment of European debts to the United States has been given a powerful stimulus by the British debt agreement, now successfully running the gauntlet of congress.

Supporters of the League of Nations fallacy still remain as silent as the Sphinx in all known languages in placing the blame for present conditions in Europe where it belongs—at the door of political greed and grasping diplomacy.

Let the Turk follow his beat in playing fast and loose with his commitments, let European nations mock justice, as they please, in their dealings with each other, and these leagues can apparently see no wrong.

It is significant that already nations which did join the league are raising questions about article ten, the center of America's opposition to the whole scheme.

FINE EXAMPLE OF BRAVERY. French Fortitude and Courage Praised in Really Splendid Example of Word Painting.

John Buchan's "History of the Great War" contains certain descriptions which the London Times believes should be excused by no living writer of history and by few of the past.

The following paragraph, for instance, shows Mr. Buchan in a characteristic vein: "What shall be said of the soldiers themselves, who for these two months rolled back the invader? Not the Xpress salient or the nightmare Labrynth was more dreadful than those shattered Mousie uplands, churned into gray mud by the gusty shells, till they seemed like some lunar desert where life was forbidden.

"It was a struggle on the defensive, a contest of stark endurance waged with the knowledge that ground must some time be ceded, but with the resolve that the cession should be dearly bought.

Not did the long doggedness of the defence impair the spirit of the offensive; when a counter-attack was needed it came as if from fresh troops who had never in their lives done anything but move forward."

Lady Erythea beamed. It seems an impossible term to apply to that austere countenance. But it was so. When Georgina entered the drawing room at noon—after nearly twenty-four hours exile in her bedroom—she found her alleged aunt as near to bounding as her manners permitted.

"Indeed! What is it?" "Your cousin Diana and Monsieur de Jussac are about to contract an alliance. They became engaged this morning."

thing that had happened—that your sister had discovered her and was going to let it be known to the world. Almee explained that with terror, Almee explained that it was all right, and Lady Diana wouldn't say a word about it. Oh, what a relief it was!

Almee's Mr. Lambie almost exploded. "It is nothing but Almee! It is you I am concerned about, Georgina—no Almee! It brings my heart, the position you are placed in through a quilt whatever of your own. It cannot go on—it is bound to be known very soon now. And when that happens—"

"Yes," said Georgina, forlornly. "It will be dreadful. I shall have to face it. They won't defend me."

"Give me the right!" he said. Georgina caught her breath. She looked up at him. There was a wonderful tenderness in his eyes; his face was the face of a man inspired.

"You are the woman I love!" "Oh, let me go!" she said wildly. "You are not yourself—you have no right to say this to me," sobbed Georgina. "You believe that a priest in orders may not marry?"

"I love you!" sobbed Georgina. "I love you!" sobbed Georgina. "I love you!" sobbed Georgina.

"I never hoped to hear you say it," he said. She felt his heart beating strongly. "You are my girl, Georgina, my girl, my girl!"

"I never hoped to hear you say it," he said. She felt his heart beating strongly. "You are my girl, Georgina, my girl, my girl!"

She stooped and recovered the ear trumpet. "Would you mind not telling anybody for just a day or two?" she said desperately. "We have told you, but we—I feel—"

Lady Erythea smiled. "Foolish, romantic child!" she said, patting Georgina's cheek. "Well, well—we shall see."

"What on earth will happen now?" said Georgina faintly. Alexander's reply was practical. He lifted her suddenly off her feet and kissed her.

"I don't care what happens!" announced Alexander. And he kissed her again.

CHAPTER XXI. A New Partnership. "It rains all the time in this country," said Billy, discontentedly, "except when you want it to."

"You're right," Billy exclaimed. "Almee!" he exclaimed. "Almee!" he exclaimed.

"I'm sorry," panted Billy. "Come as quick as I could."

"I hate to talk about it now. It's ugly."

He Kissed Her Again.

CHAPTER XXI

A New Partnership.

"Here's my back's pretty, dear," said Billy. "And here's the other." "That girl was a big Indian, by what Little I saw of it. And likely it was half crippled when it got away. And here it got on the high road, and headed straight on past Jervaux again. That's mighty queer. I always reckoned they'd have gone the other way. Something must have turned them."

"I was right!" ejaculated Billy. "Here they crashed again—or the engine gave out for good. And they came the way I did myself. And one of the two was lame—dead lame. One sure thing—they couldn't have got far that night. And if they weren't able to run the thing, what did they do with it?"

"What should I have done myself—if I hadn't known the ground?" he thought. "I'll try here first."

"When at last he emerged and stood on the brink, Billy's face was rather pale, and his eyes troubled."

"What are you looking excited about?" she said, eyeing him suspiciously.

"That isn't true. I've never seen you look excited before. You've found out something. What is it?"

"I'm sorry," panted Billy. "Come as quick as I could."

"I hate to talk about it now. It's ugly."

Billy Stared Before Him Gloomily.

By tonight we shall have either won or lost—but we'll win! Will you trust me?"
