FILIBUSTER ON CAPE COD BILL LOOMS IN HOUSE

Ford's Offer for Muscle Shoals Figures in Background of Obstructionists

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A movement having all the earmarks of a filibuster against the bill proposing government purchase of the Cape Cod canal developed late today in the house. The vehicle used by the obstructionists was the conference report on the army appropriation bill, which was under consideration.

The offer of Henry Ford for the Muscle Shoals, Ala., project also was under consideration. The background of the movement, which was in full swing on both the democratic side and in some republican delegations from the north, was the conference report on the conference report.

Majority leaders said the time spent by the house in disposing of the matter had threatened the legislative program for the remainder of this session of congress. It was their plan to bring up the Cape Cod bill tomorrow with a special rule, which they believed would stop the filibuster.

Strong opposition to the Cape Cod bill, both the democratic and republican sides was forecast, but under the rule it would be disposed of in a single day. It then would go to the senate, but some members believed that there had been sufficient delay in its consideration by the house to make very improbable senate action before March.

Article from the Cape Cod measure the rules committee has voted rules for ten other bills including the farm credits legislation. In addition, the British debt agreement remains to be acted upon. The managers hope to carry out their program despite the two days spent on the army bill, but some night sessions are regarded as necessary if this is to be done.

Some of the more important measures which they hope to put through are the navy omnibus bill, the post-office bill, the farm credit bill, the river flood control bill, an amendment to the China trade act urged by Secretary Hoover, the measure for return of the property of enemy aliens seized during the war and a number of relief measures from the military committee, as well as the resolution authorizing government purchase and resale of the farm credit bill.

Chairman Campbell of the rules committee will move to suspend the rules to dispose of anything on the house calendar on Saturday. The banking committee continued today the drafting of this measure, which is to be based on the conference report.

Some provisions of the Lenroot-Anderson measure, both of which have been passed by the senate. Managers said they hoped to finish the measure today, but the measure ready for consideration Saturday.

Borah Contributes Words in Effort to Talk Bill to Death

Idaho Senator Plays Part in Shipping Measure Filibuster With Plea for Recognition of Soviet Russia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—By agreement among senate Republicans, the shipping bill was temporarily laid aside tonight in the senate to allow consideration of conference reports of the army and districts of Columbia appropriation bills. Adoption of these reports was followed by a motion to take up again the shipping bill and this was left pending when a recess was taken at 9 o'clock tonight.

Filibusters against the administration shipping bill continued today to rule the senate and the flood of oratory flowed on into the third successive night in the body.

Indications of exhaustion were lacking and those composing the group determined to kill the ship measure by talking it to death, so long as they were strong. They found new subjects for discussion and an address of nearly two hours by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, on recognition of Russia drew the attention of the chamber during the day but nothing concrete developed. Opponents of the bill, while not compiling material for speeches, worked on a roll to develop strength they thought they could muster in opposition to their camp to send the legislation back to the committee and thereby to its death. They claimed they had nearly enough votes, but administration leaders who heard of the plan challenged it.

Governor's Axe Falls on Bill to Extend Scope of Direct Primary in Idaho

Sees Tendency to Destroy Representative Government and Increased Burden Upon Taxpayers in Measure Returned to Legislature Without Executive Approval

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Charles C. Moore of Idaho vetoed late today the statewide direct primary bill, for the passage of which Senator William E. Borah made a spectacular campaign last fall. The bill had been passed by a combination of democrats, progressives and insurgent republicans who have held up necessary legislation, including the appropriation bill, for 45 days in order to force its passage and approval by the governor. There is said to be no possibility of passing over the veto.

Explaining his reasons for withholding approval from the bill, Governor Moore, in a message addressed to the house of representatives, said: "My principal and most vital objection is that it is based upon a theory and tends to destroy our representative form of government. Primary elections are largely determined by the personality of the candidate rather than the things for which he stands, and we must not forget that this government was created because it has been a government of laws and not of individuals. I object to the bill on account of its form, on account of the great expense of its operation, because it centers power and patronage in populous centers, because it permits manipulation by multiplying candidates to defeat the real desires of the voters, and in increasing the number of candidates to a choice of officials from among men of wealth or wide reputation."

Senator Borah made the primary an issue in the campaign when he called upon Mr. Moore to "kick his platform into the discard" and "elect a legislature of independent head-quarters, independent organization in the state and insisted the people should support only candidates pledged to a statewide direct primary. Notwithstanding this, the republican nominee was elected by a safe plurality on a platform supporting the present system of elections, which provides for the nomination in the case of county and legislative officials, but for convention nominations when the electing unit is the whole state.

FRENCH TO QUIT GELSENKIRCHEN LONDON IS TOLD

Reported Evacuation of Bochum is Preceded by Seizure of Rolling Stock; List of Expulsions and Sentences Given

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A dispatch through French sources reports that 20,000 unemployed as far from the town of Munchen Gladbach, Rhineland, as far as from Dusseldorf, demanding work. They were dispersed by a large force of security police armed with machine guns. Some of the demonstrators were wounded.

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A dispatch to the Times from Dortmund says the French partly evacuated Gelsenkirchen today, and it is reported they will completely evacuate the town tomorrow. Also, after seizing the rolling stock, they closed the Bochum and neighboring stations today.

French troops with tanks arrived before the opera house in Bochum yesterday in a performance of "Wagner" which was beginning and drew out the audience, who departed singing patriotic songs.

Offenders Lie Incur. Today there was a rather longer list of expulsions and court-martial sentences than usual. A large number of military officials were sentenced to short terms by the Maveure court martial for having been instrumental in the payment of the wages of the railway men on strike. Herr Tholl, president of the district court, was sentenced to a fortnight's imprisonment for having refused to admit to 100 prison persons sentenced there by the French.

Belgians Occupy Mines. It is reported the Belgians have occupied two important coal-mines north of Dortmund.

Reports from Essen say that further drastic measures by the French there are expected, including the seizure of the railway station, and that great anxiety prevails.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM AGREE ON JOINT RAILWAY OPERATION. PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Ruhr and Rhineland railways are to be joined, with approval military and civil organs, this was decided upon today at a conference between Premier Thomsen of Belgium and Premier Poincare.

General Degoutte will continue in control of the Ruhr administration, but will be directly under Franco-Belgian experts.

It will begin to function as soon as the discussions between the French and Belgians relative to the Cologne are concluded.

The effect of preventing Germany from securing Ruhr metallurgical products is being studied at this time, but that without the possibility of exporting such products Germany would find herself unable to obtain foreign money at least from that source.

IRISH IRREGULARS Carry Fighting to Heart of Capital. Dublin Streets Scene of Heavy Firing Incident to Daring Attack; Casualties are Placed at Ten Wounded.

DUBLIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—There was heavy firing in the streets of Dublin today. An attack carried out by irregulars in the heart of the city, the most daring for a long time, it evidently had been carefully planned and was aimed at embarrassing the government by destroying the income tax records.

Irregulars and riot were discovered in an automobile abandoned by the riders. Riots in the neighborhood were systematically crushed. Seven arrests have been made, three of which were in St. Stephen's Green many women were searched and two sisters, 16 and 14 years of age, were arrested for having in their possession cans of petrol, revolvers and ammunition.

Leaders of International Gang of Counterfeiters Are Captured in Roundup

Secret Service Operatives in Nation-Wide Hunt, Arrest 64—Persons Involved in Organization Responsible for Between $1,000,000 and $10,000,000 in Bogus Money

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Secret service operatives today rounded up international scope through which 64 counterfeiters involved in a plot of between $1,000,000 and $10,000,000 in spurious money has been circulated.

A nation-wide hunt is being carried on, it was discovered, for the capture of 1,000 members of a gang which maintained its headquarters in a basement in the Italian quarter of New York.

Government operatives in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities are prepared to raid counterfeiters' dens in the foreign quarters of their cities. Police of South and Central America and western European nations have been informed of the plot and foreign agents of the gigantic crime ring.

Ends Eight Months' Search. The plot was hatched after the capture last night of three men, alleged by the authorities to be the leaders of the organization, and the discovery of the printing presses which turned out hundreds of thousands of United States one-cent, two-cent and five-cent silver quarters, gold pieces, Austrian kronen, Italian lire, internal revenue stamps and certificates, postage stamps, water-marked prohibition papers, whiskey and champagne bottle labels and bogus drug and liquor permits.

Raid in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Long Island City and New Jersey resulted in the arrest of 64 men, 24 of whom and ended successfully an eight months' search for the international gang leaders. Joseph A. Palma, chief of the special service squad of the internal revenue department, said that 16 prisoners had been taken in secret raids during the last two weeks, bringing the total to 64.

Large Stocks Seized. The seized pieces, Palma said, were stocked with bundles of $10,000 in counterfeit American money, some thousands dollars' worth of postage stamps, whiskey labels, revenue stamps and bogus coins, as well as piles of memoranda, press moulds and dies and a number of engraving boards.

Twenty-four of yesterday's roundup victims were arraigned before Federal Commissioner Hitchcock today and held in jail ranging from $2,000 to $5,000. Three were sent to Newark, N. J., for arraignment.

The counterfeiters, Palma asserted, were closely associated with traffickers in drugs and illicit rum. They bought huge quantities of liquor from New York smugglers and re-sold the counterfeit brand in American cities while they paid the smugglers with the counterfeit money.

Palma declared thousands of dollars in bogus money found its way into foreign ports, especially in Cuba and the West Indies, through members of the boat crews in the rum fleet from alien ports which journeyed to the New Jersey coast for nearly a month.

CHILD SLIGHTLY INJURED. Little Girl Cut by Glass when Two Automobiles Collide Near Southeastern Limits of City.

One person was slightly injured in an auto accident last night, according to a report to the police. The accident was said to have been caused by the driver of a light car being unable to stop for a car in front of it. The two automobiles were damaged, the smaller one being put out of running order.

Occupants of the cars were thrown about and held riding in one of them was cut by glass from the windshield. The names of the persons were not reported.

PAWS ADDITIONAL TERM. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 21 (AP)—George Williams, alias Frank Wilson, was sentenced to 50 years in prison for a charge of conspiracy to collect on a $2000 promissory note. He was represented by Attorney Walters, Bailey and Barry. Mr. Heller was represented by Attorney J. W. Taylor.

WANTED BANKER TAKEN. CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Frank L. Taylor, president of the First National bank of Warren, Mass., which closed its doors while examiners investigated a reported $212,000 shortage, was arrested here tonight and held for the eastern authorities on a charge of embezzlement.

A resolution which would direct the federal trade commission to investigate the radio industry to determine whether the anti-trust laws are being violated was reported by the house merchant marine committee.

Senator Garaway, democrat, Arkansas, said he had been informed some of the 28 Bureau of engraving employees, dismissed nearly year ago by order of President Harding had decided to bring suit against the president for defamation of character.

Secretary Weeks ordered an investigation of charges by Major Hagan that some of the most important official documents dealing with the death of his son, Major A. P. Cronkite, who was killed in the Camp Lewis, Wash., had been tampered with.

MONTANA HEARS DISCUSSION OF RAILWAY PLANS

Formation of Company to Build 250 Miles to Salt Creek Oil Field Starts Stories of Other Projects

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 21 (AP)—The Montana Railway Co., incorporated in order to construct a railroad line east and west of Miles City, Mont., into the Salt Creek oil field of Wyoming, is collecting a survey crew which is already working south from Miles City. The proposed route, approximately 250 miles long, will follow either the Tongue or Powder rivers to a connection with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at Sheridan, Wyo., or at some point east of it.

At Lewistown, Mont., opening of the office and collection of a surveying crew has revived rumors that the Great Northern railroad contemplated further work on the route east from Lewistown surveyed before the war. From Lewistown the old survey runs east through a stretch of country approximately 300 miles long and ends at the Salt Creek oil field. At the eastern end of the proposed route about fifty miles of track was built several years ago, which is already in operation from Sidney to Hickey. On the survey are two country seats which have no railroad. Circle and Jordan, and the Cat Creek oil field of Montana, now only tapped by a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad branch out of Lewistown.

In connection with reports of intended activity on the part of the Great Northern is a report that a survey is partly made for another line which would leave the Lewistown line at right angles at Jordan and strike south to Miles City, on the Milwaukee and St. Paul lines. Western Montana newspapers publish reports that the Northern Pacific railroad is preparing to seek new route through central Idaho to Lewistown, Idaho, and down the Snake river to connect with the present Northern Pacific line at Lewistown, Idaho, Washington. Such a line, if built would constitute a "cut-off" which would save several hundred miles of line and many heavy grades on the present transcontinental line.

CATTLEMEN TO GATHER AT HEREFORD ROUNDUP

Annual Event for Persons Engaged in Producing Nation's Beef Supply to Be Held in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 21 (AP)—Cattlemen from all parts of the United States will gather here March 10-22 for the sixth annual Hereford round-up. The event is an annual assembly of men engaged in producing the nation's beef supply. A four-day auction of registered Herefords is the featured attraction. It is held under auspices of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' association.

In the round-up crews will be summoned from Texas and Uruguay; picturesque "cow men" from plains and mountains of the United States; and rugged stockmen from corn belt farms. In 1918, when the first sale was held, the hard-working auctioneers disposed of 292 Herefords in ten hours, or one every two minutes. Last year 471 head were sold with the same speed.

Spectacular sales have featured the auctions at past round-ups. Last year a Hereford bull calf raised by a Hampshire of Ohio was bought for $1,025, by a South American ranchman. The top price paid at the 1920 sale was $7,000 for a sire, "Maples Lad," bought by "The Great" of the Cattle man of Owatonna, Minn. From J. C. Robinson and Sons of Evansville, Wis.

CROSS YIELDS FINE FUR

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 21 (AP)—A cross between a cat and a pine marten is the latest fur freak to make its appearance in Alaska. Incidentally it has opened a new field for propagators of fur. "Shorty" Hunter, who has a ranch twelve miles from here, is the possessor of the martens. Last year Hunter captured two baby martens and domesticated them. He allowed the female to run at large in the cabin where he also had as a pet a large tom cat. The result was a peculiar triangle scandal wherein "Shorty" became the possessor of a martens that promise to grow to the dimensions of a cat, and which would give a pelt in excess of the standard 24-inch skin.

STONE AGE MAN'S BONES DISCOVERED IN SWEDEN

Archaeologist Finds Skeleton of Human Being Who Lived Five-Thousand Years Ago

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 21 (AP)—The well-preserved skeleton of a man who lived in the stone age, 5000 years ago, has just been found on the west coast of Sweden by a commission of archaeologists, which has been combing the countryside for ancient relics to be placed on exhibition at the exposition in Gothenburg this summer. The Swedish experts, fifteen in number, have been working for about seven years, and have succeeded in collecting 20,000 relics of antiquity. The results of their labor has been an accumulation of objects from the North Sea coast of Sweden was inhabited as early as 8000 B. C.

The stone age skeleton, which is now being preserved in Stockholm in America, was found during excavations at Kungälv, a few miles south of this city. The ancient site of Kungälv has been chosen by some writers as the probable site of Beowulf, the hero of the oldest epic poem in English literature; but Beowulf was a newcomer compared with the stone age man, who lived about 4000 years before him. The relics now brought to light include flint tools and weapons, ornaments, etc. One of the graves about 2000 years old, and the remains of a woman and her equipment, consisting of an amber necklace, weaver's reeds and distaff.

GOODING AND GONZAGA TO MEET IN FORENSICS

Idaho and Washington Schools to Debate Open Shop Principle in American Industry

GOODING, Idaho, Feb. 21 (AP)—The debate team of Gooding college will meet at the university of Washington at Pullman, Wash., according to Manager Ray Sanders. The question to be debated is, "The open shop is the principle of the future." The school shop should prevail in American industry. According to Mr. Sanders, the Gooding debate team will travel approximately 2000 miles during the year. Their itinerary includes Washington state colleges at Salt Lake City; Montana State Normal at Billings, Montana; Washington at Olympia; and the University of Idaho and the College of Idaho at Caldwell. Gooding college will also be represented in the debate competition for the southern Idaho which takes place February 23. Other schools entered in the competition include Idaho Normal college, Idaho Technical Institute, Albion State Normal and the College of Idaho.

VACCINATION ISSUE IS PRESENTED IN EL PASO

Commissioners Postpone Decision on Proposed Compulsory Legislation Until After Municipal Election

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 21 (AP)—El Paso commission will take a vote shortly after February 24 on an ordinance which requires all children in the public schools to be vaccinated. The ordinance has been pending for a month, and three public hearings on it have been held. If the ordinance passes, the city health department will vaccinate all children in the schools regardless of protests of parents. There are about 17,000 pupils in the city schools. The vote on the issue was postponed because of a council election, February 24, of a mayor and four councilmen. Considerable opposition to the ordinance has arisen, and the mayor and the council desire to keep it out of politics. Only one of the four councilmen is running for re-election. The mayor, Charles Davis, will not run for office again.

Spontaneity. The bad poems are spun out of the writers' heads. But let a man see three white ducks waddle across the village green in the sunshine, and unselfishly delight in the sight, and express his delight in the first words that come, and it will not be a bad poem, very likely a triumphantly good one. The great mark of bad poetry is effort. The bad poets strive and cry, they toll and spin, they take thought. Good poetry comes without observation.—H. L. Gates.

HEAVIEST LOAD IS CARRIED BY FOOT SOLDIERS

Heaviest Laden Pack Animal of Army is Doughboy; Experts Rack Brains for Ways to Reduce Burden

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The heaviest laden pack animal of the army is the doughboy himself. Each foot soldier carries on his back into battle double the burden handled by horses or mules or motor trucks. And he is expected to jog cheerfully along through the ooze beside the road, leaving the good going to the gas and animal transport. Army experts are racking their brains for ways to cut down the doughboy's load. Exhaustive study has been given to new experiences for that purpose. Though the American Legion and similar organizations, efforts have been made to get the men who carried the infantry packs in France to suggest changes. But as yet it has been possible, it was said today at the war department, to get only a few ounces of weight off the backs of the trudging infantry.

Experts figure that the average load for a foot soldier should not exceed 60 pounds. Yet under the present organization of the army, the average load is 115 to 125 pounds per man; and the men are no fonder of the strength of an infantryman. The bulk of the doughboy's load is fighting equipment. What he carries for his own bodily comfort has always been stripped down to the absolute necessities. His blanket, overcoat, extra shoes, mess kit, canteen and his few essential toilet articles, the weapons and the necessary pack for a grim purpose. The whole intricate business of his revolves around the doughboy and his rifle and bayonet. The American rifle is still about the best in the world. There is no prospect that its weight can be further reduced. So the experts are pondering over other articles the infantry pack to see what can be eliminated or sent back to the wagon trains until needed.

Since the winter plans have been worked out for the emergency rations, the two days' supply each hiking soldier carries with him. Several ounces can be taken out of the container and sent back to the wagon train. The men and officers feel like tons toward the end of a forced march. It now seems probable, also, that the "put" tents carried by motor force may be abandoned or at least greatly reduced in weight, and that the extra shoes will go back to the resort wagon. Still another development is in experiment with new water proofing methods to make raincoats and, perhaps, overcoats, unnecessary and also to save the doughboy from having to carry the gear in his soaking equipment after a march in the rain. If all of the individual fighting and defensive equipment that is provided for him is packed on the doughboy's lift his feet off the ground and if he did succeed in moving, he would clog and rattle like an old cook stove. In addition to his arms, ammunition, food and clothing, modern war requires that the infantryman should have available as he comes to grips with the enemy, hand grenades, rifle bombs, trench knife, day and night fireworks for signaling his position, sandbags for quick entrenching, picks and shovels for digging his line, and a dozen other things he might need. But there is no possibility that he could carry it all; the probabilities are against it.

reasoning out just now far back it would be safe to send it along the supply line, so that it could be brought up when needed. An army mule is a mighty weight carrier and in rough going cross country, the long-eared friend of the soldier probably always will be a necessary element of the army. But the maximum load for an 800 pound pack mule is 250 pounds and the lighter the mule, the lighter the load under army regulations. Loads for wagons and artillery teams are similarly distributed according to the weight and capacity of the animals. There is no such adjustment of burden possible for the doughboy, however. He carries the same weight whether he is a six-foot 100 pounder from the first squad or a five-foot-four 140-pound runt from the "pickaninny" squad at the left of the company. And that weight will more often than not be more than his own weight.

There has been a lot of experimenting, both in the army and the marine corps since the war, with types of hand carts to carry part of the doughboy's load. They are still at it, but results thus far are not promising except where the march is over good roads. Off the roads, the doughboys, after due trial, show a tendency to prefer taking the load on their own shoulders.

Down at Fort Benning, the infantry school of the army, the carts were tried out scientifically. Student officers volunteered for the tests, trading all days cross country hauling carts after those which had been subjected to minute physical examination in comparison with comrades who had packed similar loads on their shoulders over the same route. In each of the dozen tests, the carts were found to be of greater degree of exhaustion among the men who hauled the carts.

Filer's Basket Shooters Cinch Place in District Tourney's Final Rounds

Pearson's Men Follow Up Easy Victory Over Buhl With an Overwhelming Score Against Kimberley

Filer's basketball team won two games Wednesday in the semi-finals which are being played here at the high school gym. This gives them a cinch on being one of the two teams that will represent this sub-district in the finals which are scheduled here for the first week in March.

Camp Pearson's men took an easy game in the afternoon walloping Buhl 41 to 20, and then came back in the evening, playing 50 per cent better basketball, and humbled the Kimberley quintet by a score of 22 to 15. Filer's total for the day was 93 points in the two contests.

In the Kimberley game, the east enders failed to stop the Filer lads, who had considerable advantage in height, and also in all around team work. Time and again Kimberley had chances to score, only to lose them trying to shoot baskets from the center of the floor instead of feeding to one another.

Filer's Best Game

Filer on the other hand played the best game they have shown thus far this season, particularly "Whitney" Martin and Ralph Love. These two players were the whole show in the second game of the evening's entertainment.

The opening game of the evening, between Buhl and Hollister brought about the elimination of the newly organized school district.

The final roading in this game was Buhl 29, Hollister 19. The first half ended with Buhl leading by two points, Hollister being on the short end of a 13 to 11 score at this stage of the game. The second half found the westwinners with lots of speed, while Hollister seemed to lose heart. The work of Mullins of Buhl, and Behnen of Hollister featured this game.

Twin Falls Scheduled

This evening, the Filer and Buhl teams will meet again, and should Buhl lose they will be eliminated. The final game of the evening, and should Twin Falls win, it will mean Filer and Twin Falls to represent this sub-district in the semi-finals.

The box score of the Filer-Kimberley game:

Shoe Men Defeat I. D. Store Team

Footfitters Take Second and Third Games in Bowling Contest Against Merchants

The Shoe Market bowlers walloped the I. D. Store men in the old game at the Twin Falls bowling alleys on Wednesday evening, losing the first and winning the next two.

In the opener the I. D. stars knocked over 819 pins while the shoe fitters failed to pass 700. Jake Yochum went wild in this game and rolled 187 for high game.

Knowing the result of losing another, the Shoe Market men went into the second game with a determination to do or die, and they are still alive, as they won the second game with 850 to 810. Arslip, substituting for Buchanan, rolled high in this game with 189.

The last game was the rubber, and as every one knows rubber is an essential on most every heel, so the Shoe Market having an eye for business decided to take on a little more rubber, and this they did, winning the last stanza by the score of 853 to 787. "Hook Ball" Salmon was high in this game with 196.

Vandal's Baseball Lineup is Strong

Ostrander and Kieffner of Twin Falls, Two of Last Year's Men Who Will Return

MOSCOW, Idaho, Feb. 21 (CP)—University of Idaho's prospects for a winning baseball team this season look mighty ray according to Athletic Director H. L. Mathews. David MacMillan, who coached the Idaho nine last year, will have charge of the Vandal baseball squad again this season. MacMillan is at present coaching the basketball squad, but will take up his work with the baseball men as soon as the cage season is over.

Idaho is particularly fortunate in the baseball coaching staff it has this season. In addition to MacMillan, the Vandals have in Athletic Director Mathews the man who coached the University of Washington nine last season when Washington won the Northwest conference championship. Mathews will be busy with spring football practice during the greater part of the baseball season but he will be able to give time to the baseball squad when necessary.

Members of last year's squad who will be back this year include Fitzke, Snow and Marinese; pitchers; Kinnison, catcher and third baseman; Silvers, shortstop; and Edwards, Ostrander, Colby and Al Fox, outfielders.

Fitzke is also a first baseman. Kieffner, star freshman infielder last season, is considered the best prospect from last year's freshman team.

"Indoor practice for the batteries will start March 1," said Mathews.

"and an intensive daily workout will be required of all aspirants for these positions. This will give the battery men more than a month and a half of good practice before the conference season opens.

Idaho opens the season with a two-game series against the University of Oregon at Eugene, April 23 and 24. The Vandals play their last series against Whitman College at Walla Walla, June and 5. Altogether Idaho plays 22 games, 12 at Moscow and 10 on other diamonds.

The complete schedule follows: April 23-24, University of Oregon at Eugene; April 25 and 26, O. A. C. at Corvallis; April 27 and 28, University of Washington at Seattle; May 3 and 4, O. A. C. at Moscow; May 9 and 10, Whitman College at Moscow; May 11, Washington State College at Pullman; May 15, Washington State College at Moscow.

May 14 and 15, University of Montana at Moscow; May 25 and 26, University of Oregon at Moscow; May 29 and 30, University of Washington at Moscow; June 1, Washington State College at Pullman; June 2, Washington State College at Moscow; June 4 and 5, Whitman College at Walla Walla.

QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER

Lon Chaney appears as the leader of the musical quartet of Mason's Corner in "Quincy Adams Sawyer," the Metro-SL production of Charles Felton Pigg's famous story of rural life in New England, now at the Orpheum theater. Mr. Chaney gives a good characterization of a man laboring under the delusion that he knows much about music as he waves a baton under the noses of the members of his quartet, Hank Mann, Elmo Lincoln, Billy Franey and Victor Potel.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Chaney has a perfect right to play any part calling for expert technical knowledge of vocal music. In the days before he became a distinguished character actor on the screen, he first before he graduated from the legitimate stage he learned that he could sing.

The Screen RAGS AND RICHES.

Wesley Barry, who has endeavored himself to the hearts of every lover of clean comedy and good fun, will be seen in "Rags and Riches" at the Idaho theater beginning today. This picture was adapted from the celebrated stage play of the same name which scored such a decided success.

The theme of the picture is universal in appeal. Wesley is the same prankster who led us always through you into unrestrained gales of laughter. The action is fast and furious from the word go to the finish, and the fun is delicious throughout.

To See The Delightful Photo Play "Quincy Adams Sawyer"

A powerful production from this noted novel. It has thrills, romance, comedy, heart interest and a wonderful cast, portraying a wonderful story. Prominent critics all declare it's as big as "Way Down East."

Country-Wide Newspaper Commendation:

IN BOSTON

Journal: "Clean, sweet, and with more than a modicum of humor."

IN LOUISVILLE

Courier Journal: "pleasing diversion... and thoroughly entertaining..."

Post: "Better than 'Way Down East.'"

Times: "Plenty of fun... a pleasing picture..."

IN BROOKLYN

Times: "Scored a success..."

Standard Union: "humor, with touches of genuine pathos..."

Filer's Best Game

In the second game of the afternoon the Twin Hoopsters had an easy time with the Hollister five, winning with a lopsided score of 74 to 32.

Too much team work, coupled with fast floor work by Jenkins is the cause given by experts.

The Hollister leaders did the heavy work for the losers, while Jenkins, Cole and Strickling starred for the home team.

The work of Clix King was also worthy of mention.

VANDALS DEFEAT AGGIES

MOSCOW, Idaho, Feb. 21 (CP)—The University of Idaho basketball team closed its coast conference season here tonight by defeating Oregon Agricultural college, 36 to 21, in a closely guarded, rough game. The game eliminated O. A. C. from any chance for the coast title.

The Aggies held the lead the first 17 minutes of the game, but Idaho fought to the front, taking the first half 15 to 10. Thompson, Idaho center, kept Hjelte, O. A. C. center and foundation of the Oregonians' offensive, to one field goal.

Edwards and Thompson, both of Idaho, were put out of the game on personal fouls.

Mrs. J. E. Madison entertained the Harmony club and several guests at the home of Mrs. Ernest White on Wednesday afternoon. The decorations carried out the patriotic colors and flags, hatchets and cherries in honor of Washington's birthday were in evidence. Bridge was played, the club prize being won by Mrs. A. E. Siffer and the guest prize by Mrs. Strango. Following the card games a most delicious two-course luncheon was served carrying out the Washington birthday idea. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Strango, Mrs. J. B. Williams, Mrs. A. Lavin, Mrs. A. Alexander, Mrs. C. F. Wurrer and Mrs. Arthur W. Ostrom, of Buhl. Club members present were Mrs. H. P. Barger, Mrs. Thomas Rowberry, Mrs. R. E. Robier, Mrs. Ernest White, Mrs. A. W. Husted, Mrs. J. C. Moore, Mrs. E. R. Van Cott, Mrs. A. E. Siffer, Mrs. C. H. Stevens and the hostess.

The Wednesday Bridge club met this week with Mrs. W. H. Greenhow with ten members in attendance. The favor for high score was won by Mrs. Alan P. Saylor and the consolation by Mrs. J. G. Thorp.

Mrs. El Tolbert was hostess to the Ninth avenue club Wednesday afternoon at her home on Seventh avenue east. Ten members were present and the program was in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Hibbard and was on George Washington. An interesting guessing contest was also enjoyed for which two prizes were given, the first being won by Mrs. L. E. Shueberger and second by Mrs. H. M. Sutherland. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served daily refreshments which carried out the colors and symbols denoting the celebration of Washington's birthday.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. C. E. Booth, Mrs. Roy A. Reed and Mrs. E. S. Larrimore entertained at the home of Mrs. Booth's lovely bridge parties at the Booth home on Blue Lakes boulevard. Nine tables of players were present. First prize was won by Mrs. Leonard Vincent, and second by Mrs. W. E. McFarland. At the conclusion of the games delicious refreshments were served.

The men's and women's Bible class of the Christian church held their regular monthly business and social meeting in the church parlors Tuesday evening. After the transaction of business, the Blue Triangle Girls presented the play entitled "The Old Maid's Convention," which proved most clever and amusing, the characters being splendidly played and the costumes delightfully ludicrous. The program closed with a piano duet by the Misses Helen and Esther Brown. A social hour followed during which refreshments were served by Mrs. C. H. Brown, who was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Denny, Mrs. Robert Nair, Mrs. F. B. Carson, Mrs. E. D. Hopkins, Mrs. Cawood, Mrs. M. Bowen and Mrs. G. H. Taylor, these ladies being the hostesses for the evening.

Mrs. Morgan G. Hoop and Mrs. W. H. Greenhow entertained for Chapter 17, P. O. sisterhood at the home of Mrs. Hoop on Tuesday evening. The affair was scheduled as a Colonial party and many gowns of that period were worn and many others which had been worn by mothers and grandmothers of members. Several beautiful Paisley shawls were worn, and one of elegant black lace. Mrs. Wilton Peck sang a solo and an encore, after which the community singing was enjoyed. The usual business was transacted and the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Carl Hahn served delightful refreshments.

DENIES MENNONITES IN MEXICO SEEK TO LEAVE

Former Canadian Members of Sect Found Flourishing Colony in Chihuahua, Railroad Man Asserts

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 21 (AP)—Reports that Mennonites, now numbering 5,000 in Chihuahua, Mexico, are dissatisfied and are figuring on trying to get back to their homes in Canada, are on moving to other parts of Mexico because crops were bad last year, are without foundation, according to Fred Clark general freight and passenger agent of the Mexico North-Western railroad, who has just returned from visiting the colonists.

The movement of the Mennonites from Canada to Mexico started less than a year ago, and the first colonists arrived there last March, so they had no chance to give the soil a fair trial but pointed out. As it was, though some crops were planted, and the yield was satisfactory.

The movement has been fairly steady, a train load of colonists numbering more than 100 has gone from Canada to Chihuahua frequently. If their brethren were dissatisfied, Mr. Clark said, train after train load of colonists would not have left their old homes to join the pilgrims.

John F. D. Wiebe, colonization agent for the Mexico North-Western railroad, said he had addressed a number of Mennonites in Kansas to migrate. He expects them to start moving to Chihuahua lands soon.

There are two separate colonies in Chihuahua now. One is at San Antonio on the Bustillos tract and the other is in the Santa Clara valley on the Ruseok tract. Each is about 80 miles from Chihuahua City.

WASHINGTON AS A CITIZEN.

George Washington's birthday is always an occasion for reminding men in his station of life of their duties. Familiar as the outstanding facts of his life may be, they merit retelling.

General Washington's contributions to the country he "fathered" were many and varied, but the lesson best learned by many men of this day is that neither his wealth nor the aristocracy of birth and breeding dissuaded him from taking a man's part in public affairs.

Like too many men of the present Washington might have chosen the cloistered life of his great estates, living upon their revenue and leading the life of a country gentleman.

A great many persons of this day, both men and women, need to learn that lesson. Many of them in that time would have been social centerpieces of Washington, but they would not long have been social intimates.

Dispute it as you will, there is an obligation of holding to high civic standards on the part of a person, blessed by education and opportunity.

THE RIGHT OF BUNK ASSAILED.

Professional bunk artists will find occasion for resentment and alarm in a daring attempt now being made to curtail their inalienable rights to free and unlimited speech.

For decades, the second Monday in September has been a biennial red letter day, dedicated to the phrase, "as Maine goes, so goes the nation."

Around this political theme, in the affirmative and negative, there has been spilled a quantity of bunk, pure and blend, which, if placed end to end, would reach from Tutankhamen to the place where Woodrow Wilson and Henry Cabot Lodge shake hands.

After the election of congressmen in Maine every two years, it has been the unquestioned right of Republican and Democratic prognosticators in the Senate, the House, the National Committee headquarters, and on the crackerbox in front of the door at Pike's Corner, to point out the inevitable logic of the Maine election.

And now comes a group of the Maine legislators suggesting a change in the state constitution whereby the Maine election will be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

"It'll be h-1 for Jake!" she said thickly. "To know they've got me!" She looked at Almee. "If I could go with him—if they'd put us both in the same jug—I wouldn't care. But they don't do that."

"I'd give me life to get him out of it. But he's done, and he'll know they've got me. It'll be h-1 for him, my man!"

An unrequiting flood of tears came into Almee's eyes. She looked once more towards the group. The police were spreading out across the pits, moving in her direction.

"My man!" sobbed Kate. "You love him?" said Almee haltingly.

"He's my husband!" said the woman. She flung herself face downwards on the sand, and wept.

Suddenly Almee stooped and caught her by the shoulder.

"Come with me!" she said swiftly, and, turning, crept in through the screen of brambles into the cave.

Kate looked up comprehendingly. Then, with the instinct of the hunted animal she dived through the bushes and went to ground. The girls found themselves together in the cool gloom of the cave.

Kate stared at Almee with wondering eyes.

"I'm sorry for you!" said Almee unsteadily.

"I never thought," said Kate, "to find any woman sorry for me."

"They'll find me here—just the same!"

"Why may not?" Almee, very pale, looked at the fugitive. "Don't you think," she said, "that if you got clear this time, you might—drop it all? Try—something different?"

"I might," said Kate slowly. "But—they'll get me."

"Can't you anything with an engine to it?" said Kate desperately. There was a gleam of hope in the hunted eyes; already her hands were busy with the levers; searching, examining. But she stopped, baffled. The controls of the Sphinx were too much for her.

The next moment Almee was beside her.

"That's the throttle!" said Almee swiftly. "Here's the starter—this changes the gear—you have to be careful with the intake. On the second speed she goes over the roughest ground like a bird—on the level road she'll do eighty. If you could get her out clear of the bushes—but you'd never get away with it."

The woman turned to her, gasping.

"Will you let me try?" she exclaimed.

It was then that a shock of revulsion came over Almee. This was the female battleship who had nearly killed Billy; and caused all the trouble. Why should Almee feel pity? The broken man in the hands of the police.

A rustle among the bushes at the cave's mouth made the two women turn quickly. De Jussac, stepping inside, halted, and stared blankly at them both.

"Ten thousand devils!" exclaimed Bertrand, momentarily startled out of politeness.

"You needn't be frightened for me," said Almee quickly. "She'll do me no harm."

"Are you certain?" he said, coming forward again.

"I have proved it," said Bertrand. "at much expense to my skin. Curse these brains!"

"All right," said Arkwright, turning away. "push on and search the other end, Panke. No use wasting time here. I think we're on a fool's errand after all."

The three police passed out of sight round the bend of the pits. There was a long pause. Almee's face paled cautiously through the brambles.

"What's that?" she asked, eyeing De Jussac, who was standing there, eyeing her and admiration.

Bertrand, without turning bowed gravely.

"I do my best," he murmured, "in defense of a lady with such a genius for getting into difficulties. But let me beg of you to remain where you are."

"Are the police out of sight?" said Almee eagerly.

"For the present, yes. They are away round the corner—all three. But they may come back."

"All right," Almee followed the warning. Then the brambles parted, and the Flying Sphinx came thrusting through. Kate was beside it, her hands gripping the bars—her face white and strained, her teeth tight set. She gave a swift glance to either side, and began to run the machine down the slope.

De Jussac, with an amazed exclamation, turned to intercept her. He found a hand detaining him; Almee had gripped him by the arm.

"Let her go!" said Almee breathlessly. "Let her go!"

"Name of a name!" said Bertrand thickly. But he obeyed. There was little choice. Already Catherine Kate was well down the slope, running beside the free-wheeling Sphinx that gathered more and more impetus by its own weight. The deftness with which the woman steered it between the clumps of bushes was astounding.

"She hasn't a dog's chance," said Almee with a gulp. "But what chance there is—let her take it!"

"A nation of sportsmen—quoth!" murmured Bertrand with a paralyzed air. He glanced to the left, where the police had disappeared round the shoulder of the bluff. There was still no sign of them. Kate, reaching the end of the cave, turned sharply to the right and swung herself into the middle.

"It is one's duty to stop her," said Bertrand, twisting his mustache in perplexity. "But—one does not hunt a woman."

"She'll never get started on that ground," said Almee.

The engine fired, stopped, fired again—the wheels threw up splints of sand, then getting into harder ground the machine ran swiftly ahead with the faint pulsing whirr that was the Sphinx's cry of triumphant progress. She shot forward much too fast, and was only just controlled in time.

No other cycle than the Sphinx could have made good over such ground; no other could have sailed so efficiently and noiselessly up the steep path through the gap towards the higher ground at the far end. It was a wonderful exhibition of timing.

As the fugitive met Mr. Billy, standing on guard beside the captive Jake, turned and stared in petrified amazement.

Jake raised himself to a sitting position on the gate, and stared, too.

The Sphinx and its rider breasted the crest of the rise, staggered, and sailed away out of view.

CHAPTER XXV

Two of a Kind. Almee gave a little gasp of excitement as the Sphinx vanished.

"She's away! And I don't believe they've seen her! If she can stick to it over the field to the gate, there's open road before her and she's clear!"

"A stupely foolish—act, mattemollie!" said Bertrand.

He climbed quickly onto the shoulder of high ground that divided them from the end of the pit, and returned in a few moments.

"Obviously our industrious police did not see her," he said; "they are now searching the last of the caves."

"Then it's time to get back into mine," said Almee turning to dive back into her retreat.

"Not so!" exclaimed Bertrand quickly, catching her by the hand. "That is no place for you."

"Why?"

"The gentleman from Spottland Yard will search it before he leaves the cave, and my word for the moment, but he will make sure. It was merely that he was in a hurry. You must get out of this while you can; like your friend, the lady burglar. Come along!"

"Then it's time to get back into mine," said Almee turning to dive back into her retreat.

"You're right!" ejaculated Almee. With long strides they sped round the clump of bushes, Almee in tow of Bertrand, and, turning sharp to the right, scurried up one of the steep paths that led out of the pits.

Billy suffered yet one more shock as the pair of them came into his field of vision. He gaped at them, hardly able to believe his eyes. In a few moments they had passed; Almee reached the top of the pit, and Bertrand glanced apprehensively back in the direction of the police.

"All clear!" he gasped, utterly out of breath. "Got to the top—got out of sight. Back to the abbey, dear lady, and for very sake stay there, for you are very wearing. Go!"

"Thanks, awfully!" panted Almee, and departed as fast as her legs would carry her. De Jussac retreated into the bush, mopping his brow. Taking no notice of the frantic signals of Billy he returned to the cave, dived into it took a hurried look round and kicked plenty of loose sand over a pool of oil that was the sole legacy of the Sphinx. He left the place with a sigh of relief and, encountering the search party of police, permitted himself to smile.

"Nothing doing!" said Inspector Arkwright. "Punkie, will you go back? Bring the car down over the meadow; we'll set the man on it, clear the pits, and set a watch in the cave where we found him." He moved towards the stable of the Sphinx. "But I'm going to look through this place and make sure."

"By all means, Inspector," said Bertrand gravely. "I am a mere amateur. All caves look alike to me. Mind the briars; they prick most acutely."

Arkwright's inspection of the cave was brief.

"It is empty, but the place has been used, and recently," he reported. "Strange they should not have chosen it as the best hiding place in the pit."

"Perhaps they only recently discovered this desirable residence, and were about to shift their quarters," suggested de Jussac. "No, doubt, if a few watchful policemen ambush themselves efficiently during the dark hours, they will catch the amiable consort of that catfaced wretch. One hopes so. It is painful to the law-abiding to know that manufacturers are in large. Particularly when they are females."

Inspector Arkwright looked at him dubiously, and made no reply. Billy, also, when the two rejoined him, eyed de Jussac with an accepted silence.

"I think," said Inspector Arkwright, "I'll call on you two gentlemen to assist me and we'll get him out of this. I want the place cleared."

It was not an easy matter to carry the gate and its burden out of the pits. By the time they had achieved this, the car, arrived from Jervaux and wound its way over the flat turf. Jake was lifted into it.

"I must trouble you to accompany me, Mr. Spencer," said Arkwright.

"Anything to oblige the police," said Billy, equanimously accepted silently.

"I think," said Inspector Arkwright, "I'll call on you two gentlemen to assist me and we'll get him out of this. I want the place cleared."

"The journey to Stanhoov was made almost in silence. When the car arrived at the police station Jake was duly disposed of, while Billy cooled his heels in a dingy waiting room that had been whitewashed some time during the period when Sir Robert Peel was reorganizing the force. Presently Inspector Arkwright joined him. The inspector closed the door, and regarded Billy with a sphinx-like but faintly humorous eye.

"I think Mr. Spencer," he said quietly. "that you have no very high opinion of my intelligence?"

"Wrong there," said Billy, politely. "I don't know that I'd class the Strahoov staff with the world's great thinkers. But I've heard a lot about Scotland Yard, and, if I may say so, you come fully up to scratch."

"There is no harm now in my telling you that I know precisely what your movements have been, Mr. Spencer. I know that it is you, and not the prisoner, who stayed at Ivy cottage as the tenant of Mrs. Sanning. I know that you were in the house, and that you stayed next door. I have also a fairly accurate comprehension of the reasons which led you to accept temporary employment in the Jervaux abbey household. I did not, till now, know who you were. But the papers you gave me enabled me to find out. And that makes all the difference."

Several Forms of Sugar. Many varieties of sugars exist, cane sugar, maple and beet. Failing these we have corn sugar under the name of glucose or dextrose, and the same in vegetables, fruits and honey. In a brownish powder we find it on prunes or raisins. Lactose or milk sugar is another principal sugar, although it will never fill an important place in commerce. It exists in cow's milk, and plays an important part in nutrition.

Washington—A vision of the fulfilled promise of this land was the inspiration of Washington. Sustained by his inspired will and leadership the depleted ranks of a little Colonial army withstood the horrors of Valley Forge—its bitter cold, its gnawing hunger, its sting of wind-whipped snow. To Washington and his unconquerable troops we owe our opportunities of today. Back of that unyielding line there has since grown up our prosperous country—our comfortable homes, our thriving farms, our unrivalled industries and trade. The stalwart men and women who work and sacrifice and save for America's homes, farms, and business have in large degree the vision and will of Washington. They look into the future and are not turned aside from their determination to achieve a worthy purpose through steadfast thrift. Washington was the Father—They are the builders of Our Country. Claim Mexican Had Two Gallons of Moonshine; Shot is Fired by Deputy Sheriff

Joe Bondez, who recently served a jail sentence here on a liquor charge, was arrested by J. E. Cross, chief of police, and Deputy Sheriff Mann, at and near the residence of a man named Galbraith, about 9 o'clock Wednesday night on a charge of having liquor in his possession. Bondez, according to the officers, was walking down the alley track near the foundry with two gallons of moonshine in a sack on his back. As he approached the officers a shot was fired into the ground by Deputy Prater, and although badly frightened the prisoner clung to his property until it was taken from him, according to the officers. He was placed in jail and the gallon jug full of alleged liquor are held as evidence.

Investigation of the activities of the gang, Palma explained, began late in August, when the treasury department was first to suppress reported traffic in bogus money. Guarded by Gunman Palma said that when the supposed sources of supply were traced to New York it was discovered that each place was guarded by a score of gunmen, most of them ex-convicts. Agents surreptitiously bought bogus money at their agents, retailers and their agents, hired gunmen and liaison officers.
