

FOSTER DESIRES SOVIET RULE IN UNITED STATES

Admissions of Alleged Violator of Syndicalism Law on Witness Stand Strengthen Prosecution's Case

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 30 (AP)—Both sides in the trial of William Z. Foster, under the Michigan syndicalism law, rested their case late this afternoon and court was adjourned until next Tuesday morning, when arguments to the jury will begin.

The state prosecutors felt satisfied as to the outcome when they obtained the frank admission from Foster on the witness stand today that he wished to see the government of the United States supplanted by a workers' dictatorship in accordance with the communistic philosophy which he is advocating. The transaction, he said, probably would result in a soviet form of government similar to that in Russia, although he would not regard this as necessary or altogether advisable.

Admits Book on Communism.

At the close of the case Judge Charles E. White stated that he would permit in the evidence the book entitled "The A. H. C. of Communism," which was offered by the state and which had previously been rejected. In this book there are statements of communistic philosophy which are interpreted by the state to advocate force and violence in overthrowing the government. Foster was examined at length this afternoon from a red covered book entitled "Socialism," of which he is the author. T. Ford were the joint authors. This book was published 12 years ago in Chicago and was withdrawn from circulation after a few months. Foster declared that he had since publicly repudiated it and in his speeches and writings he had never since that time advocated any of the incendiary methods which he predicted while he was a syndicalist. The book figured extensively in the United States government investigation of the steel strike.

Tells of Former Acts.

Under examination by the attorney Walsh the witness testified to efforts he had made to adjust differences in the packing house trade, efforts which led him before President Wilson and ended with the appointment of Judge Alshuler as arbitrator in Chicago. In the steel strike he said he had never advocated violence or any of the methods described in his old syndicalist days.

RESORTS TO REJUVENATION.

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Colonel Edward H. R. Green, son of the late Mrs. Lillian Green, underwent the Steinhach "rejuvenation" operation last month, according to the New York Times, and after a week in a hospital went south where he is now cruising in Florida waters.

Before embarking in the house boat Pioneer, the newspaper says he wrote a friend in New York that he felt better than he had in 15 years.

SETS BROADCASTING RECORD.

CHICAGO, March 30 (AP)—Radio entertainment broadcast from the Brazilian centennial exhibition at Rio de Janeiro was heard by one of the United States government stations at Honolulu, 8000 miles away, setting up a new record for broadcasting. It was announced here today at the Western Electric company's offices.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcels post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—adv.

The Hodgkin, Keel, Leslie Ticket

SHAD L. HODGIN, candidate for Mayor, is a native of the state of Missouri. As a young man he came to Idaho and has spent many years in this state. In his young manhood he "rode the range" and "tilled the soil." His eager interest in public questions soon gained him political recognition. He served several years as deputy sheriff of Ada County and later as sheriff of that county. During his incumbency in this office he had the custody of Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and Harry Orchard, who were accused and tried for the infamous murder of Governor Frank Steunenberg. Later Mr. Hodgkin was twice appointed U. S. Marshal by Roosevelt for Idaho. He has had many years of active experience in the enforcement of the law. Upon retiring from the marshalship Mr. Hodgkin entered the active practice of the law in which he is now engaged. He has been married 27 years and this union has been blessed with one son, a product of Idaho, who was in the service of his country during the late war. This son is married and Mr. and Mrs. Hodgkin have one grand-child.

JAMES S. KEEL. Mr. Keel has lived many years in Twin Falls and has done much toward the upbuilding and advancement of this community. He is an experienced and careful business man. He has the courage of his convictions on all subjects. Mr. Keel has a wife and two children. He has been identified with every activity during the many years of his residence here, having to do with the development of this city. He has never held nor before been a candidate for a public office.

WILLIAM T. LESLIE. Mr. Leslie has been a resident of this city for the past fifteen years and has been actively and successfully engaged in business during that time. He is the active manager of Darrow Bros. Seed & Supply Company and is considered one of the conservative men of this city on all public matters in which he has taken a deep interest. He is a man of strong convictions and with the courage to fight for them which is so rare in most public men. He has never held a public office, but as a good citizen has always lent his influence and aid to every move for good government. As a married man with a family of young children he is vitally concerned with all that will make Twin Falls a city in which to rear his family in safety. Not one single mean or sordid act has ever marred his record during his long residence here. His influence has always been on the side of good government and his record is one of which he can well be proud. A calm and unprejudiced view and a tolerant attitude toward others makes Mr. Leslie one of the natural leaders of this community.

These candidates are big, broad-minded, level-headed, upstanding, active men. They are men of varied experience and are energetic and aggressive in the conduct of their own business and have at heart the welfare of this community. They are men of fine moral caliber; they are sober and law-abiding citizens who stand for the strict enforcement of all laws and favor rigid economy in the affairs of the city. They are not the candidates of any organization, group, clan or interests; they will owe and recognize allegiance and responsibility only to the people of this city. The city business will be transacted by them in the open; the wishes or grievances of any citizen—regardless of his race, nationality, religion, church connections, or political affiliations—will receive a fair and open hearing, unprejudiced consideration and prompt and fearless action at their hands. They respect and honor every man in his religious beliefs; they are tolerant of his views and do not wish to regulate his mode of living, so long as he does not run counter to the law.

Mr. Lambing and his supporters have attempted to create prejudice against Mr. Hodgkin because he is not a property owner and taxpayer. The constitution of Idaho expressly provides that the owning of property can never be a qualification for the holding of any office in this state. Mr. Lambing proudly boasts of his possessions of this world's goods. He advocates that only the financially successful—the owners of houses, the possessors and changers of moneys, the holders of bonds and mortgages, the collectors of rents and interest, and the payers of taxes—are the only fit and qualified persons to vote or hold office in this free country of equal opportunities and equal rights to all. We must be content for all who, like Mr. Lambing, have succeeded in possessing themselves of an abundance of wealth and who believe with him that they alone are the chosen ones to rule and govern, to cast their votes for Mr. Lambing.

We deserve and expect the votes of the less fortunate—the poor and humble who are industriously striving to better their conditions by exerting a proper influence in the selection and conduct of their public officials and civic affairs, and who may themselves, rightfully, sometimes aspire to such preferment. We also deserve and expect the support of those who have been successful, even as Mr. Lambing, but who have not been warped and spoiled by prosperity so as to forget that the acquiring of money has made no change in their brains or their hearts or conferred upon them any superior public rights or privileges. We do not solicit the votes of those who believe that "money makes the man."

KEENAN ADMITS MAKING DEMAND ON DAUGHERTY

Brother of Slain Model is Named by Prosecuting Attorney as Person who Threatened Attorney General's Son

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Renewing his examination of the relatives of Dorothy Keenan, slain model, late today, Assistant District Attorney Pecora announced that Francis Keenan, her brother, had admitted he was the man who telephoned Draper M. Daugherty, son of Attorney General Daugherty, after the girl's death and asked him to make good a promise to get him a job in the United States department of justice.

Francis Keenan, who was the first witness called, was questioned for more than an hour and a half by Mr. Pecora and Police Captain Carey of the homicide bureau. For the first time since the beginning of the investigation of the murder, an official stenographic record of the cross-examination was taken. Mr. Pecora announced he would continue his examination for into the night if necessary and that he would devote an hour at least to questioning each member of the Keenan family, all of whom were present in the criminal court building this afternoon.

Blind Interviewers. Francis Keenan was accompanied by his mother, his brother, John, his sister, Mrs. Helen Whitson, and by the family attorney, Deacon Murphy, all of whom succeeded in entering the private office of the district attorney without the knowledge of scores of reporters and photographers who had been awaiting their arrival since morning. Shortly after the examination began Mr. Pecora announced he would re-examine J. Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia, the girl's wealthy admirer, and John H. Jackson, confidential counsel to Mitchell, tomorrow.

The detailed examination of the Keenans today and the announcement of the re-examination tomorrow of Mitchell and Jackson are taken as a possible indication that the district attorney is testing the theory that the girl was slain by a ring of blackmailers refused to aid them in blackmailing her "angels."

Refers to Blackmail. The blackmail theory was referred to by the announcement made today by Mitchell's counsel, that the wealthy Philadelphia had never worried about being blackmailed because of the letters he had written Dorothy Keenan.

Mr. O'Leet made the statement after a conference with District Attorney Danton and after a police announcement to the effect that examination of the letters left by Miss Keenan in her safe deposit box, while indicating that she had many wealthy admirers, were not of a nature to afford a basis for blackmail.

U. S. TO SELL HUGE TIMBER

BOISE, March 30 (AP)—Sale of approximately 890,000,000 feet of yellow pine in the Malheur national forest in Oregon is planned by the government, according to Archie McGowan of Burns, Ore., who was a visitor here recently. Bids are to be opened at Portland, Ore., on April 1, he said. Sale of this timber, Mr. Burns stated, would necessitate the erection of a large saw mill at Burns and expenditure of several millions of dollars for logging equipment. The city of Burns is in one of the best wooded sections of the United States and it is estimated in the near vicinity of the town there is more than 7,000,000,000 feet of standing timber.

EXPLOSION KILLS TWO

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 30 (AP)—Two men were killed and another was injured in an explosion which destroyed the locomotive of a Lehigh Valley freight train near North Leroy last night. The explosion was due to low water in the boiler, it is believed. Four freight cars were derailed by the explosion.

HOME RUN WINS FOR TWIN FALLS

Hammond's Long Drive in the Seventh Inning Turns Tide Against Jerome

A home run by "Slim" Hammond in the seventh inning with the bases full gave the Twin Falls high school baseball team a hard earned victory, 8 to 6, over the Jerome team, Friday afternoon at Lincoln field in the opening game of the season. Leading up to this inning the local side played rings around the locals, working in mid-scoring form, while the locals failed to do much more than that characterized their work of last year. Opening up the 1923 baseball season for Twin Falls, Slim Crom hit the first ball pitched in the first inning for a circuit over the right field fence. Fairly went to the mound for the Evans clan, and although wild, pitched a fair brand of ball, but the hard hitting visitors to one hit in the first three innings. In the fourth he took an airplane trip and when he hit the ground four of the enemy had spiked the rubber. Laval Jarman went in in this inning with two men out, and stopped further damage. "Merv" Lee opened the game in the box for Jerome, and did splendid work until the fatal seventh. Lee's one trouble was throwing too fast, and by the time the seventh rolled around he was all in, the result being that he lost a game that he should have had an easy time with. After Crom posted the ball over the fence in the opening inning, the locals failed to do anything in the next two innings, the visitors being held to a goose egg in the first three innings also. Jerome Starts Scoring. In the fourth inning Lee opened up for Jerome by waiting for four wide ones. Pyron was also granted free transportation to the bench. Emmett met the old apple on the nose and sent it over Atkinson's head for a triple, chasing in Lee and Pyron. Gorman pitched out to Atkinson, and Morris fanned. Weyerhauser singled to right for his second hit of the day, sending in Emmett. Ostler walked Weyerhauser, and Ostler got away with a double steal and Weyerhauser walked. Later on a wild pitch, Ostler stole third and Nimo walked. At this stage of the game Laval Jarman took the mound and fanned Lawrence for the third out. The locals got two runs back in their half of the fourth, after Lee and Morris had taken care of Sheehan, Selck was hit on the back, Jarman walked. Crom walked and Jerry Jarman sent a single to center, scoring L. Jarman and Selck. Jerome greeted Laval with two more runs in the fifth. Lee started with an infield hit to Crom. Jerry Jarman bobbled Pyron's roller and both hands were safe, Lee going around to third on the play. Jarman walked. Emmett's fielder's choice to G. Jarman. Gorman hit a hot one to Selck who threw Pyron out at the plate with a nice throw. Weyerhauser singled, Gorman going to third, Weyerhauser singled over second, scoring Gorman. This was Weyerhauser's third straight hit of the game. Four Costly Walks. Twin Falls was unable to do anything until the seventh, when four walks in a row forced in a man, and then Hammond sent his circuit far over the center field fence. For the north riders the fielding of

Lee and Lawrence featured as did the stick work of Weyerhauser. Walter Selck's fielding and Ed Mussel's stellar back-stopping, along with Hammond's and Crom's long hits were the outstanding points for the locals. The box score:

CENTRAL MARKET WINS FROM INDEPENDENT FIVE

Vogel's Crew, in Absence of Leader, Makes Clean Sweep of Three Games With Competitors

Even with Captain Harry Vogel being out of the lineup, the Central market won three straight games from the Independents last night at the Twin Falls bowling alley. In the opener the clique led by Carl Jungst rolled hot 610 while the Centrals clipped off 608. "Henry" Ford substituting for Vogel tickled the wood for 170 and won ten cents in trade. Going crazy in the second game the Centrals completely smothered their younger (er) opponents, winning 772 to 619. Once more Ford clattered the pins for high game, this time 202 being his mark. It is too bad that some of Ford's exhibition games can't count in the league averages. The last game was the closest of the evening, although the Independents led that one too, they got within 29 points of their opponents. The final reading was 684 for the Centrals and 664 for the other meat cutters. Mc-Millan took the cast iron mattress with 176 in this game. The clean sweep last night means that there will be another match game next week between the same two teams.

Steel Construction Saves Lives The occupants of the automobile were instantly killed. That more persons were not killed was attributed to the fact that the Pullman coaches were of steel construction and did not crumple up, despite the fact that the tires were torn away and they were piled against the overturned locomotive.

on the way to Los Angeles, and "due soon."

Motive to Aid Criminals The bomb which caused the Wall street explosion was designed by Wilson at his home at 1008 West Santa Barbara avenue in Los Angeles, according to the details of the confession credited to him, the Times will state.

Wilson was said to have stated he thought the bomb was wanted by a criminal mob for a "cover up" job on a bank vault. He was quoted as stating that the means was often employed by criminals to destroy by an explosion, evidence by using the combination.

Wilson went east in August before the explosion and near New York City met the man who employed him to construct the bomb, according to postal inspectors who have heard the prisoner's purported confession.

He did not know at that time that the purchaser represented a group of railfans, he said. In small groups he met all of the men he believed implicated—most of whom are now thought to be in jail in various parts of the country on varying charges, it was said.

Mr. Burns' reports from Los Angeles to the effect that Herbert Wilson, convicted murderer and former evangelist, had confessed he helped to make the bomb, characterized the reports as "bunk."

A PSEUDO CHICAGO: The statement of American policy toward soviet Russia, enunciated by Secretary Hughes, is very important, not only because it comes at a time when there is much vague talk of the necessity of trade exchanges, but because, in a few words, it sets forth the fundamental and traditional attitude of the United States toward all revolutionary movements.

The answer is simply that a government that the United States can consider on a sound basis for international intercourse must rest on the will of the people. The "sound basis" is nothing other than a general election with an uninterfered electorate expressing themselves frankly on what form of government they wish and what character of men they choose to give that government expression.

The present government of Russia, whatever its parts and however sincere may be its professions resulted from a coup and its seizure of power has never been submitted to the Russian people. Perhaps they would endorse it; in that case, the "sound basis" would exist. But until the Russian people is permitted to say what it does say it is quite clear that the United States can not and will not recognize a self-constituted and self-perpetuating government.

WICKED WASHINGTON: The report of wholesale law violations in Washington has led to a general demand that the national capital be cleaned up.

It would be a fine, inspiring thing if the Capital of the nation could set a model for good behavior for all the country. It is highly desirable that men who accept public office should carry trustworthiness into their private lives. If the furor raised by alleged discoveries of misconduct speeds this result, it will not be entirely fruitless.

A Busy Day for the Gong. "Fill Caesar, be still!" commanded Lettie severely. "You can't have this chicken, 'cause I'm going to raise it for Penzie. Poor little fellow!" she crooned.

Her hands being fully occupied with the injured chicken, she emphasized her attitude toward Fill by vigorous thrusts of her foot. She was sitting on the back steps, bending up a long yellow leg, the accidental bruising of which had been the basis of this gift.

And Lettie had accepted it eagerly. The half of a person's kingdom was as much as she ever expected, and that half considerably buttered and salted. The time had not yet come when Lettie would wonder why she was living; so far her brief years had been filled with a desperate struggle to keep that life existent without regard to its purpose, and until recently there had never been anything but the merest scraps to do it with.

"Woof! Woof!" worried the dog. "Shut up, both of you," advised Lettie sharply. "My lady's business, and you both the limit? Keep still, hen, can't you? Don't you never want two legs again?"

"Hello, spitfire. Where's your Uncle Jerry?" The child's black eyes flashed as she looked up. Instinctively she dis-

"Hello, spitfire!" liked Frank Bosley, and the feeling was constantly being strengthened by his treatment of her as a superstitious thread in the fabric of humanity. "Where's your Uncle Jerry?" he repeated. "I don't know," declared Lettie briefly, tying the bandage into a hard knot. "Is he at home?"

tion had told her that Penzie disappeared of the friendship between the two men. Now here was a chance to show Frank Bosley how the family felt toward him. Then perhaps he would let Uncle Jerry alone. Penzie would be delighted.

"You'd better go home," began Lettie directly. She tied a string to the well leg of the chicken and fastened the other end to a nail on the outside wall of the kitchen. Frank Bosley laughed—not so much in amusement as in lazy defiance. "Winston!" he called, with his eyes on the top of "Foolish Winston!"

"You did not," denied Bosley coolly, leaning against one of the clothes-line poles and smiling at her scornfully. "You said you didn't know where he was." If he was here, I'd know it, wouldn't I? she returned, with equal scorn. "He ain't to home. Do you get it now?"

Looking up, he gave a shrill whistle. "Hoo-hee, there! Winston!" Lettie, tying Fill Caesar to the new fence to forestall further interest in the injured chicken, tightened the knot with a jerk and wheeled around. Her lean brown fingers were working. "Don't you believe what I say? When I say he ain't here, don't you b'lieve me?"

He gave her an impudent look from his prominent, heavy-lidded eyes. "No, I don't. If you want to know, what do you think you are, anyhow? You ain't anybody. And stop sassing me, darn you?"

A flush rose in Lettie's pale cheeks. She stamped her foot. "I am somebody, too," she stormed. "I'm going to be a fine woman sometime. Penzie says I'm to be. So!"

Frank Bosley threw back his head and laughed. Straightening to catch his breath, he suddenly bent forward, as if limp from merriment. Lettie, watching, felt her rage turn to fear, to cold terror. Was it possible that Penzie's love had held up a false hope to encourage her and that everybody else looked down on her? "Oh, gee!" he gasped, recovering himself. "Who'd think Penzie'd string you like that?"

At the words, the child's face was awfully pale, her staring eyes. "Who'd think Penzie had been criticized," she flashed. "Get outa here, you lily stiff! Get outa—" She dashed toward him with outflung arms, as one might to frighten a small animal; then stopping so abruptly that she swayed dizzily for a moment. "Excuse me," she muttered, "O Lord!" She turned and flew into the house, banging the kitchen door behind her. The minutes that supervened were troubled by a thuddy thumping, as of a drum gone wrong.

When Lettie reappeared she was carrying an armful of boards, a tomato can of old rescued nails, and a hatchet with a notched blade. The household did not possess a hammer, an implement too highly specialized to be afforded; the hatchet had succeeded in by its diversity of service. Frank Bosley was still there, sitting on a small stump, smoking a cigarette. He watched lazily while Lettie spread her materials down on the walk. "What's the nifty notion?" he drawled. She gave him a brief glance. "You here yet?"

"Sure, and talking. I asked, what you making?" "I'm going to make a coop for—" She broke off and sat back on her heels, considering. "For the pepper-and-salt shipwreck?" he put in helpfully. "Tain't a shipwreck," defended Lettie. "It's a Plymouth Rock, guaranteed, and it's going to be a good one. I gotta name her." She reflected deeply, trying out names soundlessly, with lips moving. "I'll call her Bonnie Geraldine," she said aloud.

This declaration, honoring the two daughters of Mrs. Weatherstone, was the highest kind of tribute, being spontaneous and given without intention of flattery. The young ladies were only names to Lettie, who had no more thought of ever seeing a Weatherstone than she had of glimpsing the North pole, rising out of its cake of ice and bearing aloft the flags of the various nations that have discovered it. "Better call it the Calico Curiosity," he suggested between slow puffs. Lettie bit her lips till the color left them. Taking up two pieces of board, she propped them together to see if they would form the conventional gable roof of a chicken coop. They would not. With a sigh she discarded one and took up another. "You can't do it," observed the man. "You don't know how."

"Why don't you help me, then?" "I? Child, I have better things to do." "I've you have!" she retorted. "Such as slinking in the basement door to see the cross-eyed man!" With his finger on the clasp of his cigarette case, he paused. Lettie, watching him calmly, was quick to see that her shot had told. (Continued in next issue.)
