INVESTIGATORS NEARING CLOSE OF SUGAR PROBE

Attorney General is Called in Conference by Telephone as Assistant Submits Supplemental Report to President

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 18. (AP)—Attorney General Daugherty... The department of justice had asserted that he has been in communication with the office regarding the inquiry and said that important developments would be announced within 24 hours...

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—The department of justice investigation of the sugar price advance... several weeks ago, reached the point today where officials were able to promise a statement of results within 24 hours.

Acting Attorney General Seymour, after presenting a report on the inquiry to President Harding... decided to show at least a part of the government's hand tomorrow.

Despite the alleged indifference with which Baron von Rosenberg's speech was received in Paris and London, parliamentary circles... believe that the government's latest utterance was nothing but a negative manifestation...

The fact that the acting attorney general had found it necessary to present a report today, supplemental to that of the previous day... was generally construed as indicating additional developments in the inquiry.

Mr. Seymour declined, however, to discuss this phase of the matter, meeting all inquiries with the assertion that he would withhold his statement until tomorrow.

The president also received information on the sugar situation during the day from Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, who has just returned.

Coué's Formula Ineffective in Preventing War

Mars is Not Disciple of Proponent of Auto-Suggestion, the War Department Decides

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—War department staff officials have passed judgment on the formula advanced by Dr. Emile Coué, famous French proponent of auto-suggestion... and have agreed unanimously that it is a failure when applied to world evils that lead to war.

Announcement of this verdict was made today by Dwight Davis, assistant secretary of war, in an address before the twelfth annual meeting of the American Drug Manufacturers' association here. One of the surest means of preventing war, he said, is for the nation to prepare in peace and mobilize its industries as well as its man power.

Referring to Dr. Coué's prescription, Secretary Davis said: "We may hate, fear and loathe war, but merely repeating this phrase will not prevent war. It is, unfortunately, not a follower of Dr. Coué. x x x" "The true patriot seeks by every honorable means to prevent war but keeps his powder dry. That is what we are trying to do in the plan for the preparedness of industry for the national defense. If it is known to the world that we, like our glorious ancestors, are ready to pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor to provide for the common defense, it will indeed be a hardly or feebly national will that will attack us. The national preparedness of a peace-loving but red-blooded people for the defense of their national institutions and ideals will go far to prevent the necessity of war."

Milwaukee Records First Conviction of Woman Incendiary

Miss Bodenhausen Collapses when Verdict Carrying Long Jail Term is Read

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 18. (AP)—Miss Amelia Bodenhausen, convicted by a jury of arson in municipal court here today, collapsed when the verdict was read. She was charged with having set fire to her home on April 25, 1921. The conviction carries a penalty of from 3 to 14 years in jail. It is said to be the only case on record in this city in which a woman has been convicted of arson.

GERMAN MARK TAKES TUMBLE

Berlin Political Circles See Signs of Reopened Reparations Parley in Slump

BERLIN, April 18. (AP)—Today's spectacular slump in the mark temporarily overshadowed interest in the reichstag debate on Baron von Rosenberg's speech, and while financial experts assert that the mark for a long time has been due for another drop "on general principles," political circles profess to see in the sudden rise of the dollar the first harbinger of an early resumption of reparations negotiations.

Despite the alleged indifference with which Baron von Rosenberg's speech was received in Paris and London, parliamentary circles... believe that the government's latest utterance was nothing but a negative manifestation and that "Coué's hat is in the ring" by virtue of both the tenor and contents of that speech.

The fact that the acting attorney general had found it necessary to present a report today, supplemental to that of the previous day... was generally construed as indicating additional developments in the inquiry.

Mr. Seymour declined, however, to discuss this phase of the matter, meeting all inquiries with the assertion that he would withhold his statement until tomorrow.

The president also received information on the sugar situation during the day from Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, who has just returned.

Raw Product Quotations Advance Twice During Day's Trading While Granulated at Wholesale Goes to $9.60

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—Heavy purchases of raw sugars by big refining interests today caused an advance in price of all classes of sugar to the highest levels since 1920. The demand of housewives throughout the country for granulated and other refined sugars forced the refiners into the market. It was reported around the sugar exchange.

The price of raw sugar advanced twice during the day's trading, the last sale of Cuban raw being at 6 1/4 cents. The refiners at the same time advanced the wholesale price for fine granulated to 9.60 cents a pound, the highest price in nearly three years. Brokers estimated the refiners' purchases today at about 500,000 bags for prompt and future delivery with the price ranging from 6 1/8 to 6 1/4 for Cuban sugars. Sales of Porto Rican and Philippine sugars were also reported.

A large buying movement from England reported in the past few days was caused, it was said, by the failure of the British government to make any change in the duty rate. Acting Attorney General Seymour, in charge of the department of justice's investigation of the high price of sugar, conferred with President Harding today. While it was intimated that some official announcement might be expected soon as the result of the investigation going on here, local officials were silent on the subject. They refused to comment on the situation in any way.

Cubans Holding Off Cuban holders of raw sugars are withholding offers until satisfied with the price, it was reported, as they are impressed with the possibility of a reduction in the final crop figures. Senator Wadsworth of New York, in a discussion of the conference in Washington today, said he believed the Cuban production might not be more than 5,000,000 tons, said to be the lowest estimate made this year. A reduction of the Himely estimate of 4,102,000 tons for Cuban production was reported likely to be made at any time.

LEAGUE INVITES IRELAND GENEVA, April 18. (AP)—The Irish Free State having established a customs regime, the council of the league of nations today voted to add Ireland to the non-members of the league who will be invited to the international customs conference which opens here October 15.

ITINERARY FOR HARDING'S TRIP IS MAPPED OUT

Dozen Cities in Central and Western States on List of Places where President Expects to Make Addresses

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—Plans for President Harding's western trip this summer have developed to a point where a detailed itinerary is under consideration at the White House.

Thus far a dozen cities in the central and western states have been given more or less definite position on the list of places where important addresses are to be delivered. Named in the order in which the president expects to visit them, they are: St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Helena, Minneapolis, Chicago and Detroit.

Others may be added later when it becomes possible to select exact dates and make up precise schedules of travel. Originally Mr. Harding had planned to deliver in the neighborhood of 20 speeches, but he still believes he could carry that program without overtaxing his physical strength. Some of his advisers have urged that he confine himself to the lesser number, however, particularly in view of the fact that he expects to extend the trip to Alaska for an inspection of the detailed problems of administration there.

Sea Trip Scheduled The sea trip to the northern territory will be made, under the present plan, between the president's visit to Seattle and that to Portland. Just how long it will take still is a question.

INCENDIARISM SUSPECTED

Sacramento Authorities to Investigate Fires in Rooming House and School in Japanese Quarter

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 18. (AP)—An apparent attempt last night to burn a Japanese rooming house in the Japanese quarter of this city, and continued expressions of belief that the Japanese school fire two blocks away which cost the lives of 10 children at midnight last Sunday, was caused by an incendiary today prompted Fire Chief Dunphy to begin an investigation. The authorities are working on the theory that a feud may exist between a certain group of Japanese and some other persons, Japanese or otherwise, and that the two fires were set for revenge.

BERKLEY, Cal., April 18. (AP)—Mrs. Charles E. Boynton, an athletic club woman, dropped a purse containing jewelry and several hundred dollars as she boarded a street car here today. Manuel F. Alegre, passerby, picked up the purse and fled. Mrs. Boynton jumped from the car, chased Alegre five blocks and recovered her purse. Alegre was booked on a charge of attempted robbery.

CHICAGO LOSES ITS LABEL SUIT

Illinois Supreme Court Holds City Cannot Sue Newspaper for Its Statements

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18. (AP)—Fundamental principles of freedom of speech and freedom of the press were asserted by the Illinois supreme court in holding that a city cannot sue a newspaper for libel in the $100,000 suit brought by the city of Chicago against the Chicago Tribune.

An opinion written by Chief Justice Floyd Thompson of Rock Island, reiterates the opinion that a free American citizen may lambast his government to his heart's content as long as he does not advocate destruction of that government by violence or the violation of any established government.

The city asked $100,000 from the newspaper, which is charged with the material damages done the municipality by certain alleged libelous statements appearing in the Tribune in the gubernatorial campaign of 1920, in which the Chicago Tribune supported John Oglesby and the city administration supported Len Small. It was charged, resulting in injury to the credit of the city and loss of many persons to believe it could be dangerous to invest in city bonds.

Delves Into History The court did not pass upon the truth or falsity of the statements published, but delved into the history and tradition of freedom of speech finally concluding that the "American system of government is founded upon the fundamental principle of government that the citizen is the fountain of all authority." In conclusion, the court said: "It is better that an occasional individual or newspaper that is so personified in justice and so absorbed in his or its civic duty should go free than that all citizens should be kept in jeopardy or imprisonment or economic subjugation if they venture to criticize an efficient or corrupt government."

"We do not pass upon the truth or falsity of the publication, nor the merits of the political controversy between the parties," concluded the question solely from the standpoint of public policy and fundamental principles of government. For the same reason that members of the legislature, judges of the courts and other persons engaged in certain fields of the public service or in the administration of justice are absolutely immune from actions, civil or criminal, for libelous words published in the discharge of such public duties, the individual citizen must be given a like privilege when he is acting in his sovereign capacity. This action by the city of Chicago, therefore, in spirit and in law has no place in American jurisprudence."

LEGISLATORS COMMAND DEBS MADISON, Wis., April 18. (AP)—Eugene V. Debs, socialist, was commended for "his long life of unselfish service in the interest of humanity," in a joint resolution adopted by the Wisconsin assembly today.

BURNS CREDITS WILSON'S STORY OF DYNAMITING

Interview with Former Evangelist and Convicted Murderer Changes Secret Service Chief's Opinion

LOS ANGELES, April 18. (AP)—The statement by Herbert Wilson, former evangelist, alleged mail robber and convicted murderer, that he provided the explosive for the dynamiting of Wall Street, New York city, September 16, 1920, is logical and may be true, William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, declared today following a conference with Wilson.

Wilson tells a straightforward and logical story, Burns said. While it is true that the department of justice has closed the investigation of the Wall Street bombing, having learned that the parties responsible for it are now in Russia, Wilson's story could well fit in with the facts as we already know them. We will start immediately checking up on what he has given them to us. If our investigation discloses Wilson's story to be true, and I know of no reason why it should not, we will know the source of the explosive that went into the bomb.

Burns Reverses Opinion. Burns, who came here from Florida to interview Wilson, declined to make known any of the information Wilson gave him. Before going into the conference, Burns had stated that he had no reason to believe that Wilson's story was "talking for his own benefit." Following the interview, Burns said he had changed that opinion and believed Wilson was sincere in telling his story and not making the statements to gain favors.

Wilson made statements to Sheriff William S. Street about two weeks ago that he had furnished the explosive and manufactured the bomb which was used in the Wall Street bombing. Wilson, he declared, was expelled from his home here in August, 1920, and was sold for the purpose, he thought, of being used as a snafu in covering up the Wall Street bombing. He later learned that the bomb had been used for the Wall Street bombing.

Will Check Statement. Wilson and his partner, Herbert Cox, were financially ruined by losing a mail truck of approximately $1,000,000 in securities. While awaiting trial they attempted a jail break, and Cox was shot and killed while in prison. Wilson was later convicted of the murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. He made a successful escape from the county jail on October 17, 1920, but was recaptured after two days of freedom. Wilson's conviction was recently affirmed by the appellate court.

Burns said that he expected to return in Los Angeles several days, during which time Wilson's statements will be checked.

Cleveland Man Sets Endurance Dancing Record

"Masked Man of Mystery" Steps 80 Hours Without Stop and Keeps On Going

CLEVELAND, April 18. (AP)—World's endurance dancing records were made and fell fast here tonight, the championship for both men and women being held tonight by Arthur Klein, 28, who until he won the title late today, has danced at a local academy as the "masked man of mystery." As 10 hours of dancing had been completed and he had fasted for 80 hours and was still at it, declaring he intended to continue until midnight.

Klein was still dancing. He said he felt fine and would not stop so long as any competitors were left here. At this hour he had been going continuously for 82 hours. Klein wiped out the record of 73 hours at a local club earlier in the day and the new record made for men established several hours before by James M. Casey of Milwaukee, who quit after he had danced 67 hours and seven minutes.

As Klein danced on, Miss Margaret Gorkic stepped over the title floor of the club until 10:10 tonight, establishing a new record for women of 75 hours and 10 minutes. She started at 10:10.

Air Service Chief Sighs for New Records to Take

DAYTON, Ohio, April 18. (AP)—That the records made by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly here this week only precede greater achievements of the United States air service, was announced by Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the service, at a reception given for the two fliers.

"Providing the ship and the Lieutenants Kelly and MacReady will start their non-stop transcontinental flight from New York to San Francisco within a month, the flight which ended last night proves that such an undertaking is entirely feasible," he said. "In May of 1924, we plan to send six aeroplanes of a type not yet determined upon, on a cruise around the world," General Mitchell said. He indicated that Kelly and MacReady would be among the pilots to undertake this trip. "We hold every aeroplane record that was ever known, and if there is one more that I don't know of, I'll be glad if someone will tell us of it; we'll proceed to take it," the air service assistant head declared. "General Mitchell, who was the first to greet the fliers upon landing, said he was pleased beyond expression and they deserved high commendation."

BRITAIN DELAYS COMPLETION OF DEBT CONTRACT

American Commissioners at a Loss to Understand Failure to Enforce Consummation of Settlement

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Despite renewed assurances of prompt action, members of the American debt funding commission still are at a loss to understand the delay in enforcing final consummation of the long debt settlement agreed on here early in February.

It was said at the British embassy today that various factors had been responsible for the failure of the British government thus far to authorize final signature of the agreement and that one of the contributing causes had been the failure of Edward Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the treasury, to go to London for conferences with British officials. Mr. Wadsworth is secretary of the American commission, but is detained in Paris by the negotiations over payment of the costs of the American army on the Rhine.

Exonerates Americans. Senator Smoot of Utah, a member of the American commission, said today that in his opinion no blame for the delay could be attached to any American official.

The absence from London of Assistant Secretary Wadsworth, Senator Smoot said, "is no reason whatever for delay on the part of Great Britain in signing and forwarding the papers. Settlement terms for the payment of the debt satisfactory to both countries were approved by congress which provided for a bond Great Britain must give, binding it in carrying out the deferred payments covering a period of 62 years. "This government has fully communicated to Great Britain the agreement between the two countries as this country understands it. Now it remains for Great Britain to prepare the bond prescribed by the act and then to deliver the document. Should it be that Great Britain does not approve the form of agreement which this country has submitted, it should think, communicate any modifications it desired to have made.

"It certainly is true that Assistant Secretary Wadsworth has not official relations whatever to the cancellation of the debt settlement."

SIGNATURES LACKING IN FORD PRIMARY PETITION

Nebraska Secretary of State Points Out Failure to Meet Law's Requirements for Candidates

LINCOLN, Neb., April 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Charles W. Pool said Tuesday he had found that the petition placing Henry Ford as a candidate for president did not have the requisite number of signatures in the first and fifth congressional districts. To be legal the petition must have the requisite number of signatures in each district, the secretary held. He found it necessary to reject a number of signatures among the petitioners. The number of the legal signatures from the first district was said to be 72 and from the fifth 50.

The petition, containing 1,500 signatures, was filed April 11. Mr. M. Harrop, president of the American Economic League of Omaha, and requested that Ford's name be placed on the primary ballot of the legal signatures. Mr. Harrop at that time declared that Mr. Ford had been consulted, but that the American Economic League, which was sponsoring Ford for presidential movement, had drafted Mr. Ford as a candidate for the presidency.

The Screen

"MOONSHINE VALLEY" WITH FARNUM COMING SOON

William Farnum, the noted Fox star, will be seen at the Idaho theatre, beginning today in a story of the foothills called "Moonshine Valley" from the pen of Mary Murrell. It is said to be a picture with many thrilling incidents and striking photography.

During the picture Farnum stages two thrilling fights with Holmes Herbert, an old screen favorite, who is a member of the excellent supporting cast.

Dawn O'Day, a tiny three-year-old comedienne, and Sadie Mullen, who is playing her first leading role, are prominent members of the cast. Jean, the famous moving picture dog, shows off to good advantage.

The fact that Herbert Bronson directed the picture is no better assurance that "Moonshine Valley" is a photoplay out of the ordinary run by moving pictures, this director being noted for his human touches and startling effects.

RACE ONE FEATURE OF "THE EAST MAIL"

At the Orpheum today. The story is laid in the South and the action opens with the Dixieland Steeplechase. Of course, there is a hero and his fair lady love and the villain scorned. And this immediately leads us to the crooked work afoot at the race. They're off! Horses plunge and riders fall. But ever the hero races, still pursued by the dark-hued villain. Neck and neck they race, and then at the turn—

As a further complication the villain escapes, taking with him the hero's picture. There is no other than the rejected suitor. And now, in hot pursuit come the fast horses, the speeding automobile, the churning river boats and last of all, The East Mail. Through all this storm and strife our hero wins through to success and in the nick of time saves the fair heroine, not only from the base villain, but from the flames of the burning hotel.

The picture is a melodrama pure and simple, but very well produced. It offers more thrills per foot than any other picture shown here this season.

$480,000 ON FAIRBANKS

While "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," which is the weighty title of Douglas Fairbanks' new film-play, a United Artists release, coming soon to the Orpheum theatre, was in the making, this master of rebelling thrills carried nearly half a million dollars in life insurance, all of which was in addition to the usual amount of protection of this kind that has been written for him.

The exact amount of the insurance carried during the filming of the Robin Hood picture was $476,000, written in two policies by Lloyds. The first policy of $300,000 was for death from any cause, accident, and all sickness from the first day of April to the thirty-first of July. The second policy of $180,000 was for accidental death and covered the same period of time.

The reason for this large amount of insurance said to be one of the biggest sums ever placed against an individual, was due to the danger and risk attendant to the filming of this extravagant picture. That a portion of it was collected is a tribute to the skill of the magnetic and agile Douglas.

How Franklin proved his Saying

"MONEY makes MONEY"

IN 1791 Benjamin Franklin bequeathed to the City of Boston $1000 to be put out at 5 per cent interest for 100 years. At the end of that time 31-131 of the fund was to be let out at interest for another 100 years, when it was to be divided between the inhabitants of Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It will astonish you to learn what happened to that $1000. At the end of the first 100 years the

$1000 grew to $431,383.62

This was divided in accordance with Franklin's will—$329,300.48 devoted to "public work" and $102,085.15 put out at interest for another century. By January, 1918, the

$102,085.15 grew to $267,805.15

At this rate of interest, when second period is completed, it will amount to at least

$6,000,000.00

RUTH IS GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Yankee Slugger's Home Run Drive in the Opening Game Brings Huge Crowd to Feet

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Babe Ruth came back into his own today.

When the mighty Yankee slugger cracked his first home run of the season far into the right field bleachers of the massive new Yankee stadium, 74,200 howling fans—the largest throng that ever attended a baseball game—rose to accord their idol a thunderous ovation.

Ruth's circuit clout, slushing victory for the American league champions in their opening game with the Boston Red Sox, added the one touch M. Landis, Governor Alfred E. Smith, needed to complete the most picturesque drama in diamond annals, other notables, but the real thrill—

The Babe, these thousands agreed, had come back.

A super-world's series atmosphere pervaded the formal dedication of the huge new home of the Yankees. The record crowd, which jammed every nook and corner of the huge triple-decked grand stand and packed all but a few corners of the bleachers sections, far exceeded expectations.

The attendance bettered by more than 20,000 the previous high mark of 42,620 set at Braves' field, Boston, 1916, in a world's series game between the Red Sox and Brooklyn.

The reserved bleacher sections, accommodating 20,000, were sold out 24 hours before opening time but lines of the faithful formed early in the day to await the opening at noon of the sale of more than 50,000 unreserved grandstand and bleacher seats. By one o'clock more than two hours before the game was scheduled to start, it was estimated that about 40,000 had passed through the turnstiles.

Formal ceremonies of the occasion included raising the 1923 Yankee pennant by Managers Miller Huggins and Frank Chance, and a parade about the field, headed by Commissioner H. P. Boston Red Sox, added the one touch M. Landis, Governor Alfred E. Smith, needed to complete the most picturesque drama in diamond annals, other notables, but the real thrill—the kind that comes only to the heart of the dyed-in-the-wool fan of opening day—was provided by Babe Ruth.

Firestone Prices on Fabric and Cord Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, also Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires Will Advance May 1st

The postponement of this price revision is possible only because of our realization of the price danger in the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act which became effective November 1, 1922. We were fortunate in our rubber purchases before the Restriction Act increased the price of crude rubber 150%.

We have always endeavored to champion the cause of better made tires delivered at lowest cost to the tire user by economic manufacturing and distribution. And we are glad of the opportunity to give the car-owner the additional saving at this time.

Firestone Cords embody certain special processes which result in their producing mileage records, heretofore unheard-of in the industry. Among the more important of these superior methods are bleaching, tempering, air-hard cure and double gum-dipping.

Firestone Dealers are co-operating with us in our movement to supply your needs at present prices as long as their stock lasts and we have advised our dealers that we will supply them with additional tires this month only so far as our output will permit.

BRUINS DEFEAT FILER, 21 TO 3
Outfielders' Catches and the Heavy Hitting by Selck and Nye Feature Game
Filer's baseball team went down to defeat Wednesday afternoon at the hands of the Twin Falls team, 21 to 3, the game being played at the Filer grounds.
Hodgin, on the mound for the winners, pitched good consistent ball, allowing the Filers but four hits during his stay of seven innings.
Jake Schaeffer, who opposed him, started out in nice fashion, but in the third inning he was bumped for three hits which netted five runs and from then on Twin Falls had things its own way.
In the first inning, Twin Falls managed to get two men on base, but the necessary punch was missing. Filer in its turn also got two runners on, but were unable to get the men over the rubber.
The second inning showed Twin Falls scoring a run without a hit, Hammond being passed, moved to second on a passed ball, went to third on a fielder's choice, and home when Hodgin struck out and Timm dropped the ball, allowing both runners to advance.
Three hits and three errors accounted for five more in the third, and in the fifth four hits, one a two-base swat by Nye, a sacrifice hit, and an error paved the way for four more.
Martin Takes Mound.
"Whitey" Martin took the mound in the sixth, Schaeffer going to third. Martin was greeted with a fusillade of hits and when the inning ended five more runs had been chalked up.
Schaeffer went back in the box in the seventh, and two more runs were added to the blue and white string. Nye opened this inning with a two-bagger to center, his second of the game, a walk and two more hits did the rest of the damage.
Two more in the eighth on three hits and two stolen bases, and two more in the ninth on an error and a hit and a hit ended the scoring for the Evans tribe.
Filer's first run came in the seventh. With two out, Charles Diehl sent a single to right, stole second, and scored on Herb Deal's timely swat to right field. Deal stole second, went to third on Hodgin's error and scored when Jerry Jarman juggled Satterlee's roller. The last Filer run came in the eighth with Garrity in the box. Schaeffer struck to center, stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice, and scored when Garrity threw to first on Aman's roller instead of to the plate.

PIONEER MANAGER DYING
Charles Harvey of New York, Prominent Figure in Plistic Circles, Suffered Fractured Skull in Auto Wreck
CHICAGO, April 18 (AP)—Charles Harvey of New York, pioneer manager of boxers, was reported to be dying in a hospital here tonight as the result of an automobile accident in which three others were injured. He suffered a triangular fracture of the skull over the left eye and has not regained consciousness.
Harvey has been identified with boxing for 40 years and made a business of importing English champions to box in American rings. He brought Owen Moran, Ted ("Kid") Lewis, Johnny Summers, Jim Driscoll, Billy Wells, the present British welterweight champion, and others to this country.
Harvey was riding in a car driven by Howard Carr, owner of a gymnasium for professional boxers, when the accident occurred. The police charge Carr violated a boulevard traffic sign and a car coming in the opposite direction crashed into the machine. The car was wrecked and overturned, Harvey being pinned under the wreckage.
The veteran manager was secretary of the New York athletic commission, under the Prawley law, and is about 60 years old.

ORDERS LARKIN DEPORTED

Labor Department Requires Irish Agent to be Convicted of Criminal Anarchy to Leave
WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—Deportation of James J. Larkin, the Irish agitator, who was paroled several months ago by Governor Smith of New York, after serving two years of a five year prison sentence, imposed as a result of conviction on a criminal anarchy charge, was ordered today by the labor department. The order was signed by Assistant Secretary White, in charge of immigration.
Mr. White said it had been determined a month ago to send Larkin out of the country on the ground that his conviction as an anarchist showed him to be an undesirable alien. The deportation order, he said, was held in abeyance, however, and Larkin was paroled in the custody of his attorney.
Decision to proceed with the deportation was reached today, Mr. White said, adding that he did not know Larkin's present whereabouts. His lawyer has been instructed to produce him to government authorities.

CHICAGO, April 18, (AP)—A recount of all votes cast last November for the 20 candidates for the office of municipal judge for the six year term was ordered today by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. The order was issued after two ballot boxes had been opened at the request of Philip Finnegan, a candidate, revealing discrepancies between the count today and the canvass last fall.
Mr. Finnegan was declared defeated and placed in tenth position by the election board. According to the canvass, Judge Edmund Eller had received a majority of 548 votes over Mr. Finnegan. The count of his votes in the boxes opened today showed a net gain estimated at 367.

WARM CAMPAIGN AT CLEVELAND D. A. R. SESSION

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York, one of the three avowed candidates for election as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, suddenly announced her withdrawal from the race while nominations were being made tonight at the annual congress of the society.

Announcing that she was withdrawing in favor of Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Story told the delegates she did so "in repudiation of a campaign based upon defamations from the race while nominations were being made tonight at the annual congress of the society."

Mrs. Story announced her decision from the floor, immediately after the announcement in nomination. Her action left two nominees for the post of president general, now held by Mrs. George Maynard Minor, in the field. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. B. Wallace W. Hanger of Washington, Mrs. Cook had been nominated just before Mrs. Story's name was presented, while Mrs. Hanger was nominated afterward.

Would Share Votes. As soon as Mrs. Story had made her brief statement, Mrs. Cook rushed to the platform and declared she saw no reason why a withdrawal should be made in her favor.

"I am perfectly willing," she added, "to share the votes with my opponents."

Mrs. Story's allusion to defamations of character was declared by her friends to have been directed at the circularization among members of the organization of a letter said to have reflected on the was record of Mrs. Cook's name.

The letter had been denounced by Mrs. Cook as untrue, members of the Pennsylvania delegation backing her up with the announcement that party officials in that state were held at the Pennsylvania headquarters.

Intensifies Politics. Tonight's incident served to intensify the political atmosphere of the congress. Balloting for president general and other officers will begin tomorrow morning, the opinion being held that the event a deadlock develops between Mrs. Hanger and Mrs. Cook, a "dark horse" candidate will be entered. The new president general will serve for three years.

After Mrs. Story's withdrawal, announcement was made by her campaign managers that her entire campaign would be withdrawn. A candidate for each office had been drawn up by her supporters.

Mrs. Story is a former president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, that capacity from 1913 to 1917. Mrs. Cook, whose home is in Conoksville, is vice president general of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Hanger is the vice chairman of the United States railroad labor board.

house financial circles, that is thought to be responsible for almost 50 per cent of the improvement in the dollar, which temporarily touched 34,000.

In this connection, it was reported that the sudden change in the reichsbank's program for steadying the mark was due to difficulties between Herr Henrich, the finance minister, and Herr Haberstein, director of the reichsbank, with respect to the bank's policies. It is impossible, however, to establish whether the reported reports that the reichsbank had decided to abandon its supporting action, which has been carried on for the past 10 weeks with the aid of its reserves of foreign monies.

Writers Sound Warning

Whether these have reached a low ebb, or Herr Haberstein has decided to keep his reserves locked up, awaiting possible resumption of reparations payments was also a topic of speculation around the bourse and reichsbank. Interest also centered on the report that the reichsbank has deposited 300,000,000 of its gold reserve with English, Dutch and Swiss banks. This fund, it was stated, was sent abroad where it could be instantly mobilized for stabilization purposes.

Financial editors are already warning industrial and commercial interests against precipitate or heedless buying of dollars in the market. They assert that the reichsbank is still possessed of sufficient metal resources to intervene in case another period of hectic fluctuations is threatened.

White Gives Credit for Winning of War to Women and Labor

Kansas Editor Cites Improved Economic and Social Conditions as Outcome of Conflict

WASHINGTON, April 18, (AP)—Labor and women, not the allies or Germany, won the war. William Allen Gazeley, editor of the Emporia Kansas Gazette, lectured here today in an address at a luncheon given in his honor by the National Popular Government League. He recounted impressions gained on a cruise to the Mediterranean countries and England from which he returned last week.

Labor's victory is in its present vastly improved economic condition, Mr. White said, while woman's victory is in her advanced social and political condition. Labor's advance in the scale of living is noticeable everywhere, the speaker asserted, adding that the attainment of this condition was one of the factors in the present unsettled state of Europe and the world.

Likewise Europe to a house on fire, Mr. White said the Europeans were clamoring for the American fire department, but in the meantime were doing little themselves toward extinguishing the blaze.

The United States could aid Europe in some way and suggested a conference of representatives of all classes in the various nations in an effort to arrive at some solution of the world problems.

tion which makes the selection of exact speaking dates impossible. It has been established definitely, however, that the trip westward will begin about mid-June, probably on Saturday, June 16.

The president is understood to have decided to make his first speech west of the Mississippi which he has not given since he entered the White House more than two years ago. In St. Louis and Kansas City it is expected he will sound the keynote of his message to the west.

Later addresses are to develop individual topics of discussion such as the administration proposal to enter the international court, the railroad problem, and the results of the new tariff.

In his four speeches on the coast it is likely he will emphasize what the arms conference agreements have amounted to that section, while at Minneapolis he is expected to explain to the farmer what has been done to carry out the program of agricultural relief.

Would Avoid Politics

The president's friends, however, say he will take great care to avoid making his trip into a political swing round the circuit. He has let it be known he would prefer that for the period of his tour the questions he touches on be regarded as non-partisan. Regarding himself as accountable to the nation as a whole, it is said, he will endeavor to explain as fully as possible the things he has done as president and to seek from the whole people advice and guidance for the future.

An attempt will be made, in view of the length of the trip, to avoid impromptu speeches from the rear platform. It is expected, however, that such an effort cannot be wholly successful because of the crowds which gather at way stations along the route of a presidential journey.

BISHOP TUTTLE WIDELY MOURNED

Plans for Nation-Wide Funeral Services for Veteran Prelate Taking Shape

ST. LOUIS, April 18 (AP)—Plans for nation-wide funeral services for the Right Rev. Daniel Scriver Tuttle, senior bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in this country, who died yesterday afternoon, after a lingering illness, began to take form tonight, local church officials announced.

Telegrams from various parts of the United States stated that services will be held in many Episcopal churches of the United States Friday at 2 p. m., the hour of the funeral in St. Louis.

It was announced that "Lead Kindly Light" will be sung at the funeral. From "Their Labors Rest," the favorite hymns of Bishop Tuttle, would be sung.

Hundreds of messages expressing sorrow and regret over the bishop's death, were received. Among them was one from Archbishop Alexander of the Greek church of North and South America, written by another from the Right Rev. C. H. Brent, D. D., bishop of western New York, saying, "Our momentary loss is his everlasting gain."

Telegrams from Episcopal bishops included the following from Bishop Frank Luke Tournt of Idaho: "The dear presiding bishop has blazed a great trail for us. His surles and acts he carries with him. His example leaves to use who can attain unto it. As he passed over surely all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side."

GERMANY'S UNEMPLOYED CLASH WITH AUTHORITIES

Crowds Attack Police Stations in Meuelheim and Other Towns and Leave Dead and Wounded

ESSEN, April 18, (AP)—Clashes between unemployed and the police were reported today from various parts of the occupied area. The most serious disturbance was at Meuelheim, where a crowd attacked the town magistrate's office. One German was killed and 17 wounded in a clash with the security police.

The unemployed at Meuelheim, Reinhausen and nearby towns, marched in the town hall to prevent their demands for increased allowances. Admittance to the town hall was refused the men, where upon the crowd began a violent demonstration. The firemen and police turned the hose on the multitude, which only served to increase the anger of the mob. The workmen then attacked the police who retaliated with revolvers and bayonets. Two of the men wounded probably will die.

In Essen and Duesseldorf unemployed men on parade had minor clashes with the police and firemen but there were no fatalities. Discontent among the unemployed also is reported from Elberfeld and Barmen, in unoccupied territory.

MUSICIANS LEAVE SHOW

Entire Orchestra Goes Out on Strike in Midst of Performance of "Lady Butterfly" in New York Theatre

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The entire orchestra in the Astor theatre walked out tonight during the performance of "Lady Butterfly." The walk out followed the resignation of a member of the orchestra from the American Federation of Musicians.

The performance was continued when Warren Janssen, composer of the play, hurried to the piano and supplied the only music.

The strike again resumed the war between the American Federation of Musicians and the Musicians' Mutual Protective Union.

RECALLS FRISCO DISASTER

California Metropolis Celebrates Sixteenth Anniversary of Fire and Earthquake with Parade

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18, (AP)—Memories of the days when San Francisco was shaken by an overly rough seismic hand and swept by a sea of flames from the dolphins of the old East street docks to the minarets of Chinatown and the mansions of Nob Hill, were vividly revived today, the 17th anniversary of the disaster.

A parade that started from the wrecked East street, now known as The Embarcadero, passed through the heart of the city, which was also the heart of the great fire area, with its desert of dead walls, brick heaps and ashes.

The crowning event of the day was the burning of the old schooner Minion in the bay, as an exposition of fire's muck destructiveness and an argument for fire prevention.

Sugar Production Decreases. The controversy over responsibility and the justification of the increase in sugar prices, which broke in the senate shortly before the adjournment of congress, led Senator Woodworth to make a study of the matter while in Cuba, with the result, he told the president, that he was convinced there actually had been a decrease in production in Cuba, the chief source of the American sugar supply.

The tariff commission continued its study of the situation today, endeavoring to complete its preliminary report to the president as to the responsibility of the new tariff rates for the advance in prices.

A COMPLICATION

Everybody is in favor of minimum wage laws for women—on the face of it. Without going into detail at all, it is generally recognized that, in the past, unscrupulous employers have habitually taken advantage of the needs of workers, male and female, to buy labor in the cheapest market.

CHAPTER XXI

A Challenge for Another.

"Miss Penfield?"

"Yes, come right in, Mrs. Wopple. I only got to finish washing up this—"

"Oh, I can't stop, Miss Penfield. I just heard this here story 'bout your boy!"

"Yes," said Mrs. Penfield happily.

"I'm going to move tomorrow into Mrs. Sanders' flat. Ain't it fine?"

Mrs. Wopple shook her head in bewilderment. "I don't know. Seems like you're playin' a trick on us somehow."

"You been so kinder poor and low-down and everything, Josiah says he don't think it's fair for folks that've been poor to suddenly come into money."

"Stead of lookin' down on 'em, he's got to all of a sudden look up and—"

"Oh," laughed Mrs. Penfield, "tell him not to twist his neck on 'em. I ain't coming up very far."

"It's quite a change," sniffed Mrs. Wopple. "Why, you're goin' to be as good as any of us, ain't you?"

Mrs. Penfield's brown eyes danced. "I wouldn't go so far as to claim that, but I'm glad to have more rooms for the children, and things more home-like. It's wonderful to have an income. Didn't seem as if there was any way for it to happen."

"Folks say it's from a laundry," suggested Mrs. Wopple.

"Yes—a formula I'd worked out for washing colored clothes and silks and—"

"I put starch in the water," insinuated Mrs. Wopple eagerly.

Mrs. Penfield smiled. "That's starch. It's a mixture I never heard of anybody using."

"It's strange how smart you was, and didn't say of us 'spect it," remarked Mrs. Wopple tartly. "Me, I think of lots of things, but of course I never tried to do 'em. Josiah couldn't say the way he does, I don't have to."

"No, surely not," agreed Mrs. Penfield, genially.

Mrs. Wopple turned to go. "Well, I'll run in just as soon's you get your apple boxes moved. I'll want to see how you're gettin' on. And say, Miss Penfield, even if you're stuck goes up you've never forget what close neighbors we been, will you?"

"No, Mrs. Wopple, never," promised Mrs. Penfield warmly.

Amusedly she admitted to herself that Mrs. Wopple had not been far wrong about the apple boxes, which had served the family for so many purposes during the months that were past. It was different now—or would be tomorrow. Mrs. Penfield had decided to purchase a few pieces of furniture, to be paid for in installments, and to form the nucleus of a real home, real in appearance as well as in spirit.

She was about to set forth on this errand when a man in livery turned the crank in the ornate hall-door at Number 47 and delivered a letter to Mrs. Penfield. She opened the envelope and read the note before she could comprehend its meaning. It was written on heavy white paper, with Mrs. Weatherstone's address engraved.

"Dear Mrs. Penfield," it ran. "Will you do me the honor to accept a few articles which I have gathered up around the house in the course of our refurbishing and shall send to you tomorrow? Think of them, please, as the co-operation of one mother with another for those who have no mother. If at any time you should hear of anyone else who is doing for forlorn children a service similar to your own, will you kindly let me know?"

"Sincerely yours,"

"ANNETTE WEATHERSTONE." Mrs. Penfield dropped the letter and sat for a long time, thinking. "Mrs. Weatherstone's got real, tallness," was Tabert complained to his boss because his shoes were too small. Ninety-six lashes was his punishment. He contracted malaria and died. For more than a year his body lay in an unmarked grave in one of the convict camps. Then came the belated inquiry.

Leasing of convicts by states is a relic of slavery which most states have discarded. The Florida system of county leasing is one of the few survivals. That it will be abolished in the wake of the Tabert investigation seems unquestioned. More than 1,000 men, white and black, are said to have felt the overseer's lash in Florida prison camps during the past year. That state is too proud of her virtues to permit for long such a barbaric institution to continue.

She thought uppermost in her mind. "She knows I wouldn't accept anything for myself, and she knows I can't refuse things for children that ain't my own. Between the two, I don't see I can do anything—except to thank her best I know how."

Mrs. Penfield would never forget the lean days between Christmas and New Year's. As never before she had realized by how frail a shield she was protecting three children from want and suffering. A slight disturbance in the established routine could reduce them to immediate distress, and as rapidly as feasible she must accumulate an emergency fund which would make a recurrence of those days impossible.

She was realizing, too, that with every year now, the children would legitimately require a greater outlay, if they were to have the equipment to which they were entitled—the ordinary advantages, the training for some particular work, the clothing which could not always be homemade. Both in her own home and here in the Custard Cup she had dealt with young children; she had not by experience struggled with the increasing demands with increasing years.

Mrs. Penfield gave up her shopping plan and took off her hat. She must wait till the nature of the "few articles" was disclosed before she could select the things which would be most needed. She had, however, taken the letter so literally that she was wholly unprepared for the arrival of a small note the following morning. It was evident that Mrs. Weatherstone's courteous eye had taken in the outfit of apple boxes as thoroughly as had the more critical gaze of Mrs. Wopple. It was also evident that she had made her selections with more discrimination than had occurred with the assignment previously bestowed upon Number 47.

The four beds and the bedding—also the four mattresses, so comfortable that they logically necessitated the alarm clock which was found ticking in a small box—were suspiciously new, but very clean and free evidence of having been used. A fact which made the gift the pleasanter.

It was astonishing how quickly and adequately these furnishings were fitted into the flat which had been Mrs. Sanders'. The two large plain rugs in the living-room and dining-room, the new chairs, the new table, the plain chairs, rocking chairs, to say nothing of a set of blue dishes and a box of plated silver! There were curtains that could be changed to fit; dresses and coats that could be remade; there were pictures in plain frames. When Mrs. Penfield had unwrapped them, she stood back with her finger pressing out the smile on her lips.

"All right," she acknowledged under her breath. "As Lettie would say, I got you, Mrs. Weatherstone."

The pictures went up, and the tin and chrome set in the bedrooms, the lifelike bunnans and the vigorous old man who advocated cigarettes.

The installation of Bonnie Geraldine was one of the first ceremonies to take place. She and her winter quarters were transferred in toto, and so skillfully that she seemed not to know that she had moved at all, while the greatest tribute any man can pay to a change of abode, it was far otherwise with the young Fillibuster Caesar Penfield. He was wild with excitement and had to be forcibly detained in the new back yard until he had absorbed the least active view of the life of luxury about to unfold around him.

"Lucky thing we've got him, though," observed Crink. "I couldn't never hold up my head in a stylish place like this 'less we had us a nice dog."

"I ain't so howled over," declared Lettie, with an assumption of great carelessness. "It's dandy, but we been living like ever since I froze on to this family."

"Children," said Mrs. Penfield briskly, "you're in the world a step or two, and therefore your responsibilities connected with it. Higher up the ladder you go, the more you got to stretch your moral nature. Now there's one thing you plumb sure got to do from now on. You got to give up pouting."

"Oh," scoffed Crink, vastly relieved, "I 'bout gave that up when I got a steady job a couple hours a day."

"I don't pout," contributed Thad, his soft eyelashes raising out from his widened eyes.

Lettie was silent.

"I mean you, too, Lettie," continued Mrs. Penfield. "You know you can't pout; you can't be draggin' in stuff; you can't scramble over dumps."

"Why, Penzie," cried the child in dismay, "all my life—I've had to—and I got the habit—and—"

"You've got to give it up," repeated Mrs. Penfield firmly. "You'll have to stop pouting, but I couldn't hold to it."

against Mrs. Penfield's brain, but she refused to let them enter. Like Miss Haggood, she would live in the present.

The pudding was made. Lettie was heating the white of the egg for the frosting.

"Jimmy, ain't this fun!" she exclaimed. "I've always wondered how it felt to be an egg. I could keep at it till kingdom come."

"Oh, Uncle Jerry," she called.

tentally. Her thin chest heaved. She threw out her arm in a gesture of utter renunciation.

"All right," she gasped. "If it do it'll kill me. I gotta stay with you, Penzie."

It was while Mrs. Penfield was exulting with Crink over the possession of a front window, which gave a charming view of the driveway and the pepper tree, that she saw Uncle Jerry coming rapidly into The Custard Cup, in his arms an enormous sheaf of long-stemmed roses, glowing red through the plain paper covering. She lifted the window.

"Oh, Uncle Jerry," she called, "come right in and see everything. It's just—"

"Well—oh—well, Carline," stammered Uncle Jerry, "I'm in kind of a hurry. I—I'll come in later. I—I got some news for you."

She looked into his genial face, ruddy with embarrassment, and under the tan. "Oh, I know," she said softly. "You've fixed it up with—"

He nodded happily. "Say, ain't I lucky? Cause she's the real thing—and so—so fine! I didn't scarcely believe 'sle'd take a rough old lumberman like me."

"I'm delighted she did," responded Mrs. Penfield warmly. "I'll be glad to see both of you having a home."

She watched him go on up Miss Haggood's steps, carrying his shoulders proudly, bearing flowers to the lady who had put aside her dreams to live the life of the present. Then she closed the window and went back to her work.

There was to be a supper that in itself would be a house-warming. With her usual forethought Mrs. Penfield had told the members of her family that it would be a fine spread—this time with supplementary details that added overwhelmingly to the weight of her statement. There were to be mullins and honey for the first course; and for the second, a tureen pudding.

It was only the middle of the afternoon, but preparations were already under way. Crink had been dispatched to the store to get the honey. Mrs. Penfield was setting the table in the dining-room. From the window she could catch a glimpse of the hills, kissed green by the recent rains. Last week it had been winter; today it was spring. With the charming caprice that is California's, January had said: "I was trying to give you some winter, but I couldn't hold to it."

Mrs. Penfield's heart was full of thankfulness as she set out the dishes and placed the silver. She even arranged a centerpiece, a small vase containing a tea rose from a bush that Mrs. Sanders had raised. At last the children were to have the surroundings that help to nurture the home feeling, a feeling which persists if it is incorporated in one's childhood, but which is never built up in exactly the same way that childhood passes without it. Thoughts of other days, thoughts of the other home that this one called up, knocked persistently Confident of an approaching period of general improvement in the Twin Falls district that will necessitate larger quarters with which to handle prospective business, Alvin Harboure of the Idaho Lettuce company, has completed arrangements for the leasing of the big warehouse under construction at Shoshone street and by E. H. Benoit, according to Mr. Harboure's announcement Wednesday.

The Idaho Lettuce company will occupy the entire building, which will be 115 by 125 feet, single story and basement, and of brick and concrete construction. The cost of the structure is reported to be in the neighborhood of $25,000, and it is understood Mr. Benoit intends to begin immediately the completion of the building with the expectation of having it ready for occupancy on August 5. Excavation work has been completed. A spur from the Oregon Short Line tracks runs immediately in front of the building. The new building will have a capacity of 30,000 square feet of floor space and it is one of the largest buildings to be erected here in recent years.

In moving to the new location the Idaho Lettuce company, which is now located in the Warburg building, at 405 Shoshone street, are incurring considerable expenditure for new equipment and the entire plant will be made strictly up to date as the latest machinery installed, Mr. Harboure said. "The reason for our move is simply this," said Mr. Harboure, "facts and figures do not lie, and they point beyond a doubt to the fact that Twin Falls is entering a period of better times. There is absolutely no doubt but what this locality is improving steadily and if there is any question it is merely psychological and a matter of a frame of mind. Prospects point toward bigger and better crops in the fruit and vegetable lines and we believe are obtaining larger quarters is amply justified."
