YOUTH HELD FOR KILLING RABBI LAFAEE

Diary in Possession of Young Man Arrested in Arizona for Murder of San Francisco Man, Considered Damaging

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 23, (AP)—A 19 year old youth giving his name as G. G. Richardson, arrested here early today for investigation, has confessed to the killing of Rabbi Alfred G. Lafeef, at San Francisco about three weeks ago, police said today. A diary found in his possession, police said, definitely connected him with the crime.

Notations in the diary found on Richardson's person led officers to question him regarding the attack on the San Francisco rabbi. At first, the youth denied any knowledge of the crime, but later admitted that he had the death blow, J. J. McGrath, chief of detectives, said. Richardson told the police, they said, that he was a deserter from the Coast Island naval station.

Oldsm Self-Defense
In the diary taken from Richardson's person and later made public by the police, a long entry under the date of April 4, 1923, headed "Abroad U. S. S. Vigilant," tells of the meeting the previous day with a stranger referred to as "the Jew," the subsequent fight in a room at the Gates hotel in which the writer says he struck "the Jew" with a cuspidor in defending himself from assault and then washing the blood from his hands, went out through the hotel lobby, asking the porter "something about the weather."

Newspaper clippings telling of the slaying of Rabbi Lafeef were found folded in the diary.

Traces Movements

The following are passages from the diary:
"Wednesday, April 4, 1923, aboard U. S. S. Vigilant.
Went ashore yesterday. Went out to Golden Gate. A man offered me a cigar. He seemed kind of nervous from some unknown cause. He walked around for a while. He asked me to meet him at the hotel. He came at 9 o'clock and we would go to a show."
"Went down to George's and went to a show. At 9 o'clock went out to Filbert and Quincy. The Jew and I went to the New Fillmore. As we walked through the lobby, a friend of the Jew's spoke to him. Didn't hear what they said."
"After that we went to the Gates hotel. I wanted to go near"

Motorboat Steered by Dead Man Halted on Way to Open Sea

FARM CREDIT OPERATIONS STRIKE SNAG

Loan Board and Comptroller Clash Over Proposed Adjustments Under State Laws for National Banks

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Doubtful administrative provisions of the agricultural credit act have brought about a clash as to policy between federal agencies charged with erecting the new farm credit system. The situation has reached the stage, it was said today, where Secretary Mellon proposes to attempt to "straighten out" differences which have arisen between the federal farm loan board and the officers of the comptroller of the currency.

Disagreement between the two units of the treasury arose first, it was said, when the loan board issued a circular suggesting that national banks might organize adjunct loan corporations under state laws as an added facility for those seeking to use the new credit system.

Secs Supervision Weakened.
This suggestion, it appeared, was thoroughly disapproved by Comptroller Crissinger, who was said to have vetoed the action as a move by the loan board to upset a long established policy of the comptroller's office which had discouraged organization by national banks of any adjunct corporation which would not be subject to the supervision under the national banking laws.

Board Stands on Law

Mr. Crissinger was said to have maintained that the farm loan board's suggestion that the adjunct corporations be organized under state laws, offered to national banks a means of building up institutions where the problems of ascertaining exact financial conditions would be difficult.

The farm loan board has backed its stand with the assertion that such corporations were contemplated in the law and that its duty was to point the way to those desiring to affiliate with or participate in the operation of the new credit plan. It claimed, too, it was said, that the law gave it control for examination purposes as complete as that now held by the comptroller over the national banks.

Child Brides Witnesses in Probe of Cult

Investigation Opens With 14 Young Couples on Hand to Explain Hasty Weddings

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 23, (AP)—Michigan's grand jury investigation of charges of immorality at Benjamin Parrell's Isrealite colony of the Haps' of David opened today with 14 young brides and 14 by grooms on hand to explain their sudden decision to be married in two group weddings last week.

The first witness—a girl bride—was on the witness stand before Judge Harry Dingeman of Detroit, when the time was opportune for more than three hours undergoing a grueling examination by Attorney-General Andrew Daugherty, Assistant Attorney-General Quay and Governor Bowdler, assistant prosecutor of Berrien county.

The girl, whose age was given in the marriage license as 17, is actually only 15 years old, according to court records, it was reported. Among those waiting their turn to be questioned was a little girl who appeared no older, and beside her a youthful husband who appeared to be not more than 14 or 15 at the most.

The spectacle outside the council chamber of the St. Joseph city hall, where the investigation is being held, is unique. In the dimly lighted corridor, three long rows of folding seats held the 28 young married people and a half dozen older members of the cult, who gave up their seats to reporters and photographers.

Countess Drake, who was married to Emil Kowalski last Saturday, testified that she was 16 years old, although the marriage license gave her age as 17.

Michigan law provides that a girl must be at least 16 before she can marry.

United States Seeks to Guard National Interests and Further Open Door at Lausanne

LAUSANNE, April 23 (AP)—Safe guarding of the legitimate national interests of the United States and of the principle of commercial opportunity for all nations was officially set forth today as the guiding principle of the American representatives when the Near East peace conference resumed its labors in an endeavor to restore peace between the allied powers and Turkey and between Turkey and Greece.

Joseph C. Grew, American minister to Switzerland, and head of the delegation made the statement in a brief address following similar addresses by leaders of the other delegations.

The conference then divided itself into three committees each of which will take up disputes, and tomorrow active discussions on concrete topics will be begun.

Chester Concession Figures

No mention was made at today's meeting of the concession granted to Americans, but the Chester concession continues to be the great topic of private discussion.

The Turkish delegation, through its spokesman, stated that the Chester concession was entirely valid and was granted not because Chester was an American or Turkey wished to favor the United States, but because Americans knew how to do business on a business basis without appealing to the government for help or seeking to exercise any "economic pressure" against Turkey.

BRITAIN SEEKS INFORMATION

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—The foreign office spokesman, Ronald McNeill, today in a question today that she was being taken to ascertain the precise terms of the concession granted by the Turkish government to the American syndicate headed by Bear Stearns & Co., refused and that until the terms were known it would be impossible to say whether the concession affected British interests in Turkey in any way.

PRESIDENT TO OUTLINE AIMS AT PRESS MEET

Address Before the Associated Press Luncheon in New York Marks Opening of Chief Executive's Speaking Trips

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Departure of President Harding from Washington tonight for New York, where he will speak tomorrow at the annual luncheon of the members of the Associated Press, marked the real beginning of a speaking trip to be made by the executive during the spring and summer to various parts of the country.

Through these addresses, of which about 15 will be made during a transcontinental tour starting in June, the chief executive expects to account for his stewardship of administrative affairs, to restore and reaffirm the purposes of his administration and to announce and explain the policies he plans to pursue during the remainder of his tenure of office.

White House officials, as is customary, have given no inkling of the nature of the address. Harding will make at the Associated Press luncheon, which will be attended by a large proportion of the newspaper editors and publishers of the country. The president has been at work on his speech for several days and today went over it with several members of his cabinet, including Secretary Hughes, indicating that he considers it of extreme importance.

Features Day's Program

The luncheon at which the president will speak is to be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, and is the principal event on the executive's plan for the day in New York.

He plans to spend only about 20 hours in the metropolis, arriving in the city early tomorrow by special train, and leaving tomorrow midnight on the return trip.

The president will be accompanied by Mrs. Harding, George B. Christian, Jr., his secretary, Brigadier General Charles S. Sawyer, his chief physician, and Chairman Lasker of the shipping board.

The visit to New York will be the first the president has made in the city since September, 1921, when he spent a few hours there in the course of a vacation trip to visit the May flower. The address at the Associated Press luncheon will be the first he has made in New York since early in his administration.

RAILROADS SCORE POINT

Eastern Lines Wage Successful Fight in Federal Court Against Order Requiring Script Mileage Books

BOSTON, April 23, (AP)—The railroads of the east were successful in their joint attack upon the order of the interstate commerce commission, March 5, requiring the issue of non-transferable interchangeable script coupon mileage books at a discount of 20 per cent from their face value.

A finding by Judges Mack, Browster and Morris, who on April 12 heard the case of the railroads and the government, enjoins the commission from enforcement of its order and relieves the railroads from the obligation of placing interchangeable mileage tickets of a face value of $50 and good for 2,500 miles on sale at $72.

Commercial travelers have been especially interested in the interchangeable mileage privilege, which under a recent amendment of the transportation act by congress, the interstate commerce commission believed it was authorized and required to put into effect on May 1.

Forty-seven railroads joined in the petition for an injunction to restrain the commission from carrying out its order.

GOMPERS WANTS IMMIGRANT BAR

Union Labor Executive Declares Against Removal of Existing Restrictions

ALBANY, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, addressing the annual legislative conference of the New York State Federation of Labor here today, declared emphatically against removal of the existing restrictions on immigration.

Mr. Gompers had been discussing the strikes of 1922, which, he said, were a part of a battle of the organized workers against the efforts of employers and business men to destroy the labor movement. Such an endeavor, he said, was bound to fail.

"Nor," he added, "is the policy of Elbert H. Gary going to prevail to throw our ports open to all the immigrants who may wish to come here. The countries from which the desirable immigrants come have not sent the quotas to which they are entitled, and we do not want the undesirable class to come here and lower the standards of living."

GARY EXPLAINS POSITION.

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, denied today that he was in favor of unrestricted immigration.

"On the contrary," he said, in a statement to newspaper men, "I believe there should be restrictions. I do not think our immigration laws should permit immigration that could reasonably be considered as inimical to industrial labor of any kind, to our government, or to the public welfare."

"If the public should believe generally that I favor an unlimited immigration it might be harmful to the steel industry," to the "misuse of workmen and to the general public." The reason for this statement, he said, was that some newspapers had assumed that he had expressed an opinion in favor of unrestricted immigration at the stockholders' meeting of the United States Steel corporation last week.

A similar announcement was said to be prepared for issuance in Mexico City by director of President Obregon. A Campaign of Falsehood

The supporters of the Klan, in their desperation to place the control of this city in the power of that secret organization have circulated malicious falsehoods concerning Mr. Keel and Mr. Leslie, who are opposed to the intolerance and hidden methods of the Klan and who will work in harmony with Mayor Hodgkin. We call attention to the scurrilous campaign methods of these self-styled "Christian" political workers as showing their desperation in this campaign.

It has been circulated that Mr. Leslie is an atheist. THIS IS AN UNMITIGATED FALSEHOOD. The only person caught in the act of circulating it has admitted that he knows nothing of its truth or its falsity: It was circulated for political effect.

It has been told that the "King of the Bootleggers" has donated $1,000.00 to our campaign fund and that he is harbored by Mr. Leslie. THIS IS A BALD FACED LIE. We haven't known that Twin Falls was a bootleggers' kingdom, or that there was a "King of Bootleggers" here. We do know that no donations have been made by bootleggers and that our total contributions have not approximated $1,000.00. If a bootlegger has been permitted to prosper and flourish in this community until he could donate $1,000.00 or any other sum to a campaign fund it is surely high time to have a new deal in the personnel and conduct of our police commissioner and police department.

It has also been circulated that Mr. Keel and Mr. Leslie favor an open town and open Sunday. They have publicly stated that they favor a strict enforcement of the law and oppose any change in the present Sunday regulations. The statements to the contrary concerning them are BALD FACED LIES and known to be such by the persons carrying them about. They are also circulated for political effect.

The purveyors of these falsehoods pretend to be members of Christian organizations. They believe the end justifies the means. They are not guided by the divine injunction "THOU SHALT NOT BEAR FALSE WITNESS AGAINST THY NEIGHBOR." We cannot believe that the good people of Twin Falls will sanction by their votes such contemptible methods.

No Promises Made by Leslie and Keel

The same group of opponents of Keel and Leslie have stated that certain promises have been made relative to the appointive offices in this city, namely, street superintendent, city clerk, treasurer and attorney. These statements are brazen lies. Messrs. Hodgkin, Keel and Leslie have made NO PROMISES, nor have their campaign committee.

George Lavigne, San Francisco welterweight, had the best of Al Studly of New York in the eight round semifinal.

Will Meet Willard Johnson kept on top of Fulton throughout 11 rounds and pummeled him almost at will, but weakened in the final round and appeared on the verge of being knocked out.

Fulton's showing in the last round was not considered enough, however, to overcome the lead his young opponent had piled up in the early rounds.

As a result of the newspaper men's decision, Johnson will be the opponent of Jess Willard, the former heavyweight champion, in a 16-round match at Yankee Stadium on May 12.

Round One—Johnson rushed at Fulton, landing several light blows to stomach and the giant wrestler retaliated with right and left hooks to the chin.

Round Three—Johnson landed in an exchange of rights to stomach in close quarters. The crowd boomed, Johnson brought a grant from Fulton with a left to the ribs.

Round Four—Johnson ran across the ring and Fulton laughed as he held out at stabs when Emilio Spulla of Italy, and M. Vandevor of Holland, meet in the arena here on May 13.

Round Five—After a minute of light tapping both men started whirling break before he got home with it. With tears in his eyes, and a foible "I thank you," he resumed his occupation of trying to hit the birds.

ing away with lefts and rights, Fulton appearing to have the better of the exchange. Johnson sent a left to the face that Fulton laughed at.

Round Six—A sharp left brought blood to Johnson's mouth. Johnson sent heavy rights to the jaw. Fulton's long left swings fell into the youngster's jaw and stomach.

Round Seven—Johnson drove Fulton into a neutral corner with a hard right to the jaw, but Fulton only smiled at the blow. He seemed to be left, however.

Round Eight—Both were tired and they hugged to great extent. Fulton shook Johnson with lefts and rights to the jaw.

Round Nine—Johnson pummeled Fulton around the ring with a head and trunk and Fulton made no attempt to protect himself from Johnson's blows and seemed content to seal his right or left on occasional jaunts to Johnson's head and body.

Round Ten—Johnson landed on Fulton as he pleased, but few of his blows appeared to hurt. Fulton sent heavy lefts to stomach.

Round Eleven—Johnson pummeled Fulton on the jaw and Fulton began to sag. Fulton was blowing heavily and slipped and fell on the ropes, but was up immediately.

The sudden cancellation of the Johnny Wilson-Italian Joe Gans match evidently hurt the attendance as there were plenty of vacant seats in the Coliseum when the first bout was started.

Although the early history of the microscope is obscure, the first microscope is generally believed to have been made by Zacharias Jansen, a Dutchman in 1590. The invention is also attributed to Galileo about 1610.

"HAVOC" PROVOKES THOUGHT Just supposing—ever, take it for granted—that you loved your wife—and of course you do—but we are supposing, and you were "head over heels" in business, with little or no time "to put in" your business called you away, and unexpectedly you returned home late at night, the same night—and found her—your wife—locked in a room with another man, under conditions that were to say the least, embarrassing, would you blow the top of his head off?

This situation does confront a man, by name Miss Blythe, and the way he handles it will give you room for thought. You want a surprising, thrilling drama at its best. "The Havoc" will be the evening theater Wednesday, April 25, and it's a real one. Kept New York talking for one whole year.

Betty Blythe, star of Pyramid Pictures' "His Husband's Wife," produced from Anna Katherine Green's society novel "The Mayor's Wife," under direction of Kenneth Webb, was recently seen as star of "The Queen of Sheba." She also was featured in two of Rex Beach's big pictures, "The Silver Horde" and "Fair Lady." Besides being an actress of superior ability, Miss Blythe is an entrancing beauty who has won extraordinary personal popularity from the critics ever since her first screen appearance in an important role in Guy Regny's patriotic production, "Over the Top," in which she played the part of a Belgian noblewoman who sheltered American girls from her German abductors. ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS COUNTY IN GOOD SHAPE

Annual Financial Statement Gives Figures Proving Cash Basis Operation; Debts and Taxation are Decreased

Twin Falls county is in an enviable financial position, as compared with other counties in the state, being on a strictly cash basis as shown in the annual financial statement of the county for the fiscal year ending January 6, according to F. C. Lynch, deputy county auditor.

In 1922 county Lynch alone decreased 26 1/2 per cent as compared with the preceding year, or $100,000, while the current expenses of the county decreased 19 1/2 per cent, or slightly over $30,000, notwithstanding an additional expense of $6750, the cost of 1922 elections. Part of this decrease was due to the heavy cost of the bond and trial in 1921, and the balance by the reduction of expenses in nearly all county activities and in the operation and maintenance of various county offices, Mr. Lynch stated.

Reduces Bonded Debt.

"Since the year 1919, the county has reduced its bonded debt from $250,000 to $220,000, and beginning this year and each year thereafter it will pay $20,000 per year of its present bonded debt, which should leave the county free from bonded debt in the year 1937, an objective that is rarely attained by any governmental divisions," he said.

"The county's bonded debt, including $100,000 expended for roads and bridges in the year 1919, and which is in reality a capital outlay, yet can hardly be considered as a tangible asset. It represents the amount the sum of $20,000 has already been set aside from motor vehicle license fees in a sinking fund, and the balance will be provided from the same source to provide for redemption upon maturity.

Conservative Estimate of Value.

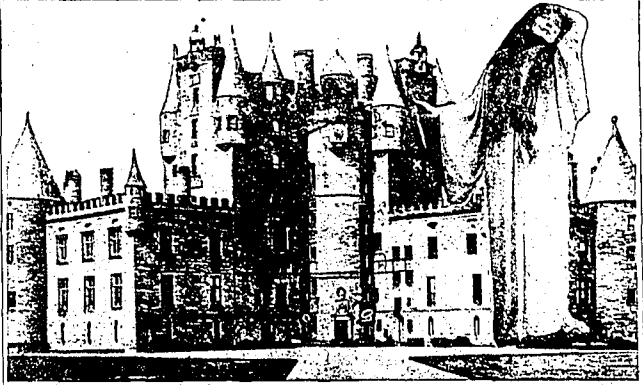

"A conservative estimate of the value of county property which includes court house and grounds, hospital and grounds, nurses' home, fair buildings and grounds, furniture, fixtures, resources, automobiles, law books, etc., as at the close of the fiscal year 1922, is nearly $800,000, and with the bonded debt, exclusive of road and bridge bonds, which by reason of the fact that they are paid from motor vehicle license fees, are not in reality a liability, only $120,000, it will be noted that the capital account assets exceed liabilities by $250,000.

"Twin Falls county is one of the few counties that has not lost a dollar through bank failures, although three banks have closed within the past two years, with county deposits in each one, yet they have been at all times protected against loss by surety bonds and other negotiable collateral.

Compare Finances.

"In Caspian county the finances are in such shape that it is either necessary for them to make a prohibitive levy for the next two or three years or issue bonds to fund outstanding warrants in order to be able to exist, and in Cassia county the finances are in a critical condition owing to bank failures and insufficient security to protect deposits, so it will be generally noted that our county's financial condition is as good as any and far better than most other counties in the state of Idaho.

Royal Murder Scene Once Becomes Scene of Honeymoon

Does Homicide Run in Families?

Glamis Castle, Scotland, where the Duke of York, second son of King George, and his bride will honeymoon. This is the castle referred to in Shakespeare's "Macbeth." Eight hundred years ago Macbeth murdered Duncan, King of Scotland, in the room marked by the cross. His lineal descendant seems to have inherited the family weakness for she is murdering husbands in grand opera today with remarkable success. notwithstanding the fact that it maintains and operates a county hospital and county fair on a non profit basis, that most other counties do not include in their activities, from which each taxpayer reaps in benefits by service or otherwise, their portion of what it costs them individually to assist in maintaining and operating the same.

"A comparison of the 1922 report with the one for the preceding year shows an enormous reduction in county expenses and county taxation, and by comparing with reports of other counties with like activities and valuations, such as Canyon and Blaine, it will be noted that Twin Falls county officers and employees have endeavored at all times to operate the county affairs in an economical, efficient and business-like manner.

Explains Surplus.

"Uninformed persons," said Mr. Lynch, "upon examination of this report, ask the question: 'Why is it necessary for the county to maintain a surplus in each current fund?' All of which is explained as follows:

"The state, county or other local subdivision, such as cities, villages, school districts, highway districts, etc., and employees have endeavored at all times to operate the county affairs in an economical, efficient and business-like manner.

town but he objected. I went to the hotel to find out just what this Jew had up his sleeve. He paid for the room and registered under the name of A. Lane. I wrote on the register H. B. Hickman. At 10 o'clock or 11 o'clock the Jew called the clerk and asked for a call at 12 o'clock.

Describe Fight.

"About 7:30 I was suddenly awakened by the Jew. My hand fell off the bed, coming in contact with a cuspidor. I turned it on the side and emptied it. I swung the cuspidor and struck the Jew on the head. The Jew swung his fist and hit me on the jaw. I then swung the cuspidor twice in rapid succession. The bed and my hands were all bloody. I got up and turned the lights on. As I did so my left hand left a print on the wall. The Jew was unconscious and at first I thought he was dead. He was breathing heavily and his head was between the bars of the head of the bedstead.

"I washed his blood from my arms and hands, put on my clothes, opened the door and walked out. The clerk was in the lobby so I lit a cigarette and asked him something about the weather. My voice sounded kind of queer; that was the only emotion I had."

Are Screech Owls Ominous?

In some sections of the country people believe that when a screech owl lights and begins to send out its diverging ray into the night it is a sign of some ill luck which is soon to befall them. Particularly do ignorant people not fall in this sign. Many have been heard to say that it betokened the early death of a loved one. No more utterly false specter of the imagination was ever created. A screech owl is quite harmless. In fact, they are quite valuable, pretty little night birds.—Our Dumb Animals.

Depew Shares Own Formula for Longevity

Good Wife and Sensible Diet, and Not Much of It, Figures in Prescription

NEW YORK, April 23, (AP)—Birth-day greetings from President and Mrs. Harding, King George of England, and scores of other friends found their way to Chauncey M. Depew's flower-banked office today as he celebrated the eighty-ninth anniversary of his birth with a good hard day's work.

"The eighties are a wonderful decade, but I look for calmer times in the nineties," said the famous octogenarian as he stood at the threshold of the heterogeneous class with the assertion that he expected to pass the century mark.

His formula for longevity was simple.

"No cures, no fads, no medicine, no monkey glands, no dead rose life-giving essences of any kind; a good wife and a sensible diet and not much of it. That is the important thing—much of it. I have very little time for exercise, but I believe the real secret of recreation is not 18 holes of golf, but being able to change from your daily vocation to your hobby."

"My great recreation in life—because it employs cells of my brain other than those I use for business, is making speeches. I used to make one every night and I have 20 volumes of my published speeches."

The venerable chairman of the board of the New York Central railroad and former plutocrat, predicted that President Harding would come to be known as "the advocate of prosperity."

"I think Harding has made good," he said. "His only misfortune has been in having a congress that was not properly led. His recognition depends on a great deal of prosperity and prosperity in my opinion is here to stay and grow."

The message from President and Mrs. Harding, which came with a great bouquet of roses, read: "With birthday greetings and all good wishes."

"That from King George read: 'The king, having learned that today is the anniversary of your birthday, offers you his hearty congratulations and trusts you are enjoying your usual health.'"

BOY FOUND IN CHAINS; MISSING FATHER SOUGHT

Charges of Torturing Minor Child are Preferred Against Parent Who Made Prisoner of Law

LORAINE, Ohio, April 23 (AP)—Police are searching tonight for the father of 12-year-old Joseph Czajka, who after two years in lock and chains in an upstairs room at his home, was rescued by police last Saturday.

Young Czajka told authorities his father placed him in the chains each night after school and held him prisoner under lock and key from Friday afternoon until Monday morning of each week.

The heavy chain was cut from the boy's wrist in police headquarters as he swore to an affidavit charging his parent with torturing a minor child.

Figures in Scottish History.

"Black Douglas" was James Douglas, fourth and last out of one branch of the Douglas family in Scotland. He was early in life engaged in sciences against James II, and then fled to England, where he had a pension from the crown, and was made Knight of the Garter. In 1381 he bequeathed himself with the earldom of Albany, which included Scotland, when he was taken prisoner at Lullaburn. On being brought before the court he turned his back upon the king. The compassionate King James III spared his life on condition of his taking the oath. He then entered the monastic seclusion at Lindores, where he died.

GINGHAM SUMMER PREDICTED BRIGHT WITH ALL COLORS OF THE RAINBOW

CHICAGO—Ginghams will be in evidence through every hour of the summer day as the new gingham weaves for 1923 offers good reason for their increasing popularity. There is a striking array of new color combinations and patterns. Both the imported gingham and the high quality domestic weaves come in new bright shades favored for sports' wear in pastel tones for dainty afternoon, gowns, and in bewildering color combinations in fascinating checks and plaids. All the new patterns in imported tissues and in high grade domestic gingham, such as MFC, Highland, and Clarlock and others—make possible striking sports' costumes and charming frocks, suitable for every summertime occasion. Stylish checks and neat fancies are fast as popular as ever for simple morning frocks and children's dresses. It looks decidedly like a gingham summer.

THE MAIN POINT

Everybody should vote in today's election. The man or woman who does not take the trouble to do so has no right to kick about the result. This is the main point now. The public mind is probably pretty well made up. The thing is to record the verdict.

VACATION LAND BEKONS

Just at the moment when father is meditating his prospective bank balance, while mother and the children discuss eagerly vacation possibilities, the secretary of the interior announces the formal opening of the 19 parks owned by the people.

The mere review of their names is enough to bring spring fever to its crisis, while meditation on the possibilities contained in those wonderful names is sufficient to make any man ask himself whether Europe is worth the sea-sickness, to say nothing of the expense.

Seven of these parks, including the Grand Canyon, the Yosemite and Lafayette Park in Maine, are open all the year. Most of the other well-known national parks are in our own west.

Paradise Valley, with its flowers blooming amid the snow; the gorgeous colors of Colorado and Arizona, the amazing grandeur of Glacier Park in Montana and Yellowstone Park, these offer something to the American he cannot surpass elsewhere. And they are his own property, as are the great forest reserves, such as the unpopulated Olympics or the beautiful ranges within a two-day drive of Twin Falls.

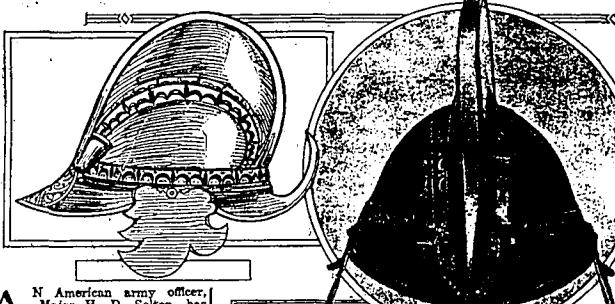

EATING ONE'S CAKE

A great many people got into the habit during the period of big profits and high wages, of spending money freely. They bought a great many things they had done without all their lives. They indulged in a great many luxuries that they could do without, taking no thought of the morrow.

Legally, these people had a perfect right to spend their money as they pleased. They came by their money honestly, and if they wanted to gratify a wish or indulge in things they had never been able to afford, it was nobody's business if they did so. Indeed, some of them were justified in obtaining some good things of life, and even if they have spent their money for them, they are undoubtedly better off than they were before. The "dough" may be lacking, but if expended judiciously, those who spent it have gained wider experiences and obtained broader views of life.

Only people who "blew their money in" assumed a responsibility which they morally had no right to assume. And such people are generally the ones who today are putting up the "holer" because they no longer have "big profits and high wages." They have created for themselves and those dependent on them habits and tastes which they can no longer pursue and gratify, and, in their discontent, are blaming everybody but themselves for having to readjust themselves to normal conditions of life. Brass Helmet of Explorer Magellan, 400 Years Old, Found in Philippines

An American army officer, Major E. D. Seaton, has purchased from a Moro dato, or chief, the brass helmet worn by the explorer Magellan in 1521 when he was killed in the Philippines after realizing only a part of his ambition to be the first to encircle the globe. The helmet has been handed down from generation to generation in the families of the Moro chieftains, and its authenticity is vouched for by priests in the Illigan and Parang districts.

The old brass helmet is entirely unaltered by more than 400 years of exposure to the moist climate of the Philippines, retaining its original smooth and polished surface. The tooling and ornamentation is still intact, as is even the frail brass hinge used to fasten the helmet under the chin of the "doughty old warrior."

Soldier of fortune and adventurer Magellan was spared the fate of Columbus, Vasco da Gama and the other heroes of that early age of discovery. A Portuguese he enlisted under the crimson and gold banner of Spain, and set out in 1519 to reach the Indies by the long voyage around South America.

Counting to the south of South America he discovered the dark and forbidding Straits which now bear his name. Passing through to the Pacific he sailed northward until he reached the Philippines. Here, during a battle with the natives, he was wounded and died. After a voyage far surpassing even the heroic accomplishments of Columbus, the remnant of Magellan's party returned up the Atlantic to Seville, in July, 1522—the first ship to circumnavigate the globe.

This bit of brass, surviving through centuries the onslaught of rust and corrosion which has destroyed all traces of the short lived metals, is a fitting reminder of the qualities of endurance in the age of discovery that made it possible to open up whole continents.

"HUNCH" WON FOR GAMBLERS

Fly's Alighting on Particular Number Surely Was Unfortunate for Monte Carlo Casino.

Salitors have always been considered superstitious, and miners come close second, but neither of them are more sensitive to trifling omens than the deep-deep-in-the-wood gambler.

A Monte Carlo paper tells that a fly alighted on No. 13 on the roulette table recently at a time when the players had suffered a persistent run of bad luck. The superstitious gamblers exchanged covert glances and searched their pockets for money with which to stake.

In a few moments the "middle dozen," that is to say, the numbers 13 to 24, was liberally covered with stakes. Then an elderly gambler arose and piled Napoleons round the square on which the fly had alighted, thus backing the numbers from 10 to 17.

Less confident players staked small amounts on the "transverses." The ivory marble was sent spinning round the roulette wheel, there was a moment of suspense, and then the croupier announced the winning number, 13. What result is for more extraordinary, the same number came up three times in succession. That fly cost the Casino $25,000.

Different Estimates of Pie. A business man, forced to take many of his meals downtown and, as a result, inclined to be favorably impressed with his wife's cooking, invited one of his youngsters to take lunch with him at the chamber of commerce. This was a treat to the youngsters who were in the habit of eating at home all the time.

When the pie was served the young father said to the children: "This pie isn't anything like the kind that mother makes, is it?" And to the father's horror and the amusement of the others at the table one of the children replied: "No, father, it's much better."—Indianapolis News.

Godness Increases Wisdom

Sir Henry Taylor three generations ago wrote "The Statesman." It remains a classic of English literature.

"The correspondence of wisdom and goodness are manifold; and that they will accompany each other is to be inferred, not only because men's wisdom makes them good, but also because their goodness makes them wise. Questions of right and wrong are a perpetual exercise of the faculties of those who are solicitous as to the right and the wrong of what they do and see; and a deep interest in the heart in these questions carries with it a deeper cultivation of the understanding than can be easily affected by any other incitement to intellectual activity.
