Farm Bureau Federation President Heads Newly Formed Institute to Make Wide Survey of Moving Problems

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—A world-wide survey of transportation in all its phases was announced by the National Transportation Institute, the organization of which was completed here today. The announcement said:

"James R. Howard, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is the president of the institute in charge of the work. Edward Clark, former chairman of the interstate commerce commission, has been elected chairman of the research council. Congressman Sydney Anderson of Minnesota, vice chairman.

"The institute will today a complete and impartial inquiry into every question connected with transportation on railroads, inland waterways, lakes, highways and the seas. It will investigate all branches of transportation in the United States in relation to each other and to industry and commerce as a whole and will send representatives abroad to examine into the transportation systems of other countries. The institute will be financed by American business interests throughout the country. Labor as well as capital will have a voice in its councils.

Farm Conference Result.

"The American institute grew out of a recommendation by the speakers at a conference called by President Harding in the early part of last year. This representative agricultural body arrived at the conclusion that the lack of prospective suffered by the farmers was due in large measure to something wrong in the nation's transportation service.

DEFERS FLEET'S
MODERNIZATION

Secretary to Abandon $6,500,000 Because of Possible Misapprehension by Congress

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Modernization of the older ships of the American fleet will await specific authority of congress, Secretary Denby announced today, and the navy department will abandon for the time being the program which it considers may have been approved under a misapprehension of the situation.

The secretary's decision, which was said to have the approval of President Harding, was regarded as closing the incident created through the protest of the British cabinet against statements made before congressional committees when the department was seeking appropriations for installing post-war improvements in the battleships.

Navy officials there asserted that no criticism of the work could be made as contravening the five power naval treaty since Great Britain had committed similar alterations. This was denied by the embassy.

As a result of today's decision the $6,500,000 appropriated by the last congress for gun elevation will be left in the treasury and refunded at the end of the fiscal year as "unexpended money."

Application to Be Renewed.

With official opinion in the navy holding unanimously that the modernization program is permissible under the treaty drawn up at the Washington arms conference and essential to the American naval standing, it was regarded as certain that the matter would be presented anew to congress during the December session. The department's recommendations, however, then is expected to be based exclusively on the technical necessities of the situation.

While the immediate problem was removed by Secretary Denby's statement, naval officials declared that a larger question of treaty interpretation remained which ultimately would have to be answered. Among the five signatories of the Washington naval convention, Great Britain indicated specifically she considered changes in gun elevation to come within the provision prohibiting alteration of the design of main batteries. France has taken the opposite view, several French battleships now being in drydock for such improvements.

Precautions Advocated.

Some officials here have suggested that, while the actual work is being held in abeyance, precautions could be taken which would lessen the danger of the American fleet being caught unaware by an enemy of superior battle rating.

They would have master dies and patterns of the more intricate parts necessary to gun elevation manufactured and stored in the various bases for use in an emergency so that the period of tie-up might be reduced. It has been estimated three months would be required under normal conditions to complete the modernization of a battleship.

The state department is studying provisions of the treaty to determine whether the work on American ships can be executed without violating the naval convention either in letter or spirit.

BORAH ATTACKS
WORLD TRIBUNAL

Senator Sees Proposal for Adhesion to Court Prompted by Political Expediency

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the public irreconcilables in the senate fight over the treaty of Versailles and its league of nations covenant, tonight inaugurated his campaign of opposition to the administration proposal that the United States accept membership in the permanent court of international justice, the world arbitration tribunal set up under the league.

In a statement setting forth his views, the Idaho senator declared that "the republican party in asserting that the United States can go into the league court and stay out of the league is taking a position which will bring down upon it the moral condemnation of everyone."

"I think the proposition that you can go into the league court and still continue to be against the league, or stay out of the league, is the most remarkable proposition ever presented to the public," Mr. Borah added. "It is an impossible proposition. It would never be suggested in a political exigency did not seem to require it."

Senators in Conference.

Issuance of the statement was the foremost development today in the world court discussions which continued to engage many of the members of the senate who are in Washington. Several senators today conferred on the mat-

SEES ONLY ONE FEASIBLE
METHOD FOR ENDING WARS

"War cannot be outlawed by proclamation or by resolution or by mere agreement, or by mere force. War can be outlawed only by arraying the moral force of the civilized world in support of definite rules of conduct which exclude war, and by giving to that moral force institutions through which that force may be applied to specific cases of an attempted violation. One of those necessary institutions is a court by whose judgment the great multitude who desire the peace of justice, may know what is just."—Elihu Root in his address before the American Society of International Law.

WASHINGTON, April 26, (AP)—Supporting President Harding in his contention that the United States should participate in the permanent court of international justice, Elihu Root tonight told the American Society of International Law that the question presented by the president's message to the senate was really only a question of moral support.

"The amount of contrition towards the support of the court to be determined by our own congress would be negligible," asserted Mr. Root. "We undertake to do nothing and to give nobody authority or power to do anything to us. The question is merely whether we shall give our moral approval to the establishment of the same kind of court which our government has been urging for a generation."

In addressing the society, of which he is president, at its recent annual meeting, Mr. Root described at length the genesis and nature of the world court, his reasons for believing it superior to the old Hague tribunal, the clear distinction of which he said should be made between it and the league of nations, the development of international law despite the world war and what he held to be the fallacy in the advanced view of this

Charges of Fraud Among Dry Law Agents Cause Orders for Investigations by Three Federal Agencies

WASHINGTON, April 26, (AP)—Prohibition troubles from bootlegging to allegations of bribery in several states accumulated here today and engaged the attention of high officials of at least three federal agencies, the treasury and justice departments and prohibition enforcement headquarters. There were indications that facts developed from the several investigations in progress might ultimately come before President Harding.

"Charges of fraud among former and possibly present prohibition agents caused orders for an investigation by the bureau of internal revenue. Another investigation along similar lines, involving alleged tenders of bribes for 'protection,' to former prohibition officers already is under way by the department of justice whose agents are seeking inquiries among 'bootleg' circles of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh and other cities.

The internal revenue bureau's investigation also was said to extend into several states, involving the personal of several state prohibition agents.

Treasury Secretary Aroused.

The incidence of the several prohibition cases was said to be unusual although personnel difficulties in the prohibition unit are under investigation almost constantly. It was said, however, that Secretary Mellon of the treasury department was concerned over some of the methods being employed in prohibition enforcement. There also was a revival of reports of difficulties between Secretary Mellon, Commissioner Blair and Commissioner Haynes. The latter, however, insisted no serious disputes exist although there naturally have been disagreements in federal administrative work.

Commissioner Haynes has often declared that fees of prohibition have endeavored frequently to "make trouble" with his superiors. In this connection, prohibition headquarters officials pointed out that his office was without authority to conduct in-

Bankers Consider
Plans to Improve
Farmers' Condition

RYE, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Plans to bring bankers, farmers and educators closer together to stimulate and improve agricultural conditions throughout the country were outlined to the executive council of the American Bankers' association today by D. H. Otis, director of its agricultural commission.

A banker-farmer conference in each of the federal reserve districts is being considered for the near future, he said.

Walter W. Head of Omaha, vice president of the association, said the bankers always were willing to help the farmers because they realize what affects the farmers will eventually affect the bankers.

CULT SECRETS
ARE DISCLOSED

Former Followers of "King Benjamin" Purnell Take the Witness Stand in Probe

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 26, (AP)—Secrets of the life in "King Benjamin Purnell's" House of David were revealed today to the grand jury investigating alleged immorality in the colony with Benjamin Hill, 31, and Mrs. Lillian Hanford, 32, took the witness stand.

The couple were intercepted early today at Stevensville, 12 miles south of St. Joseph, after they had eloped from the colony, leaving William Hanford, Mrs. Hanford's elderly husband, behind.

They told Judge Harry Dingeman, the one man grand jury, that members of the cult did not know Purnell's whereabouts.

Early today the couple motored in a hired car to Stevensville and purchased railroad tickets to Chicago.

The station agent, talking over the wire to a brother operator here, reported two followers of Purnell in flight, carrying two trunks and two suitcases.

The local operator told newspapermen; they told the sheriff and subcommittee served on Hill and Purnell just as they were ready to board a train.

Mated by Chance

The pair told the grand jury they had been childhood sweethearts in the colony, but when the time came to marry, the elders of the Purnell cult told them their love was out of the forbidden lust of the flesh. Hill's name was placed in a hat at one of the group marriage lotteries, and was drawn by Cletta Ward, a 15 year old girl, sixteen years ago.

Hill, renouncing his own desires, married Cletta, while Lillian married Hanford, old enough to be her father.

In 1913, Mrs. Hill left the colony, Hill said, and the same year obtained a divorce from him. He testified that before her departure she had told him that "King" Benjamin had had improper relations with her prior to their marriage.

Six years ago Hill's mother died, despite Purnell's claim that his followers would live forever if they kept faith.

The testimony of gross immorality on the part of Benjamin, presented at Grand Rapids in a civil suit last month, was the last straw, according to Hill and Mrs. Hanford. They decided to quit the colony, left Hanford obtain a divorce and then marry.

No Jews in Court

The frequent reference to the followers of Purnell as "Israelites" has caused some people to believe the members of the cult were Jews, it was discovered today when leading Jews protested against the idea.

There are no Jews in the House of David. The official name of the organization, however, is the "Israelite House of David."

Purnell who calls himself the "seventh messenger angel" of the "son of man," and "the younger brother of Jesus Christ," teaches his converts that they are to inherit the legacy of the 12 lost tribes of Israel and in accordance with St. John's prophecy in the Book of Revelations, that they will inherit the earth and live forever. The name "Israelite" comes from that teaching.

I. W. W. Circulators Found in Possession of Some of 100 "Shovel Men" who Quit Jobs on Short Line at Hammett

BOISE, April 26, (AP)—Recently announced labor disturbances struck southern Idaho today when approximately 100 "shovel men" working for the Utah Construction company at Hammett failed to go to work on the double track project near there for the Oregon Short Line, according to J. G. Moyes, purchasing agent for the company stationed at Hammett.

He said I. W. W. circulars were found in possession of some of the men who "walked out."

There were no disturbances, Mr. Moyes declared, the men starting the walk off at the "lump camp," one and a half miles west of Hammett when the shift went to work this morning. They were all of the "shovel men," mostly local, and numbered between 35 and 40.

After working all morning, the shovel welders in Camp No. 1, in the Shaw cut walked out and were off. There were 50 or 60 of these, Moyes asserted. Reports also came into Hammett that a subcontractor's camp five miles from Hammett had been deplored by the strike of several alleged I. W. W. today.

STATE REQUIRES
WIDOW'S STORY

Court Grants Continuance in Brownings' Hearing on Murder Charge

SALT LAKE, April 26, (AP)—Over the objection of counsel for the defendants, City Judge Noel S. Pratt today granted the state's motion for a continuance of four days in the preliminary hearing of the case against Marjorie and John Browning, Jr., of Ogden, Utah, accused of murder in the first degree for the fatal shooting of Benjamin F. Ballantyne here April 9.

The motion was made on the ground as set forth in an accompanying affidavit, that the state could not proceed with the hearing without the presence of a witness of Mrs. Ballantyne, the widow, and sister of John Browning, Jr. Mrs. Ballantyne is ill at the home of her parents at Ogden, according to sworn statements of Ezra C. Rich, who appeared in response to a subpoena.

Touches Marital Relations

The state's affidavit declared that Mrs. Ballantyne's testimony is necessary before the case can be resumed. The affidavit, which was sworn to by Assistant County Attorney Ray S. McCarty, stated that the widow would be asked to testify concerning the marital relations with her husband.

Her testimony, it was said in the affidavit, was important as the defense contends that the shooting was the outgrowth of the attempt by the state to take the case from Ballantyne to her parents' home after a disagreement with her husband. Marjorie Browning confessed to the shooting in self-defense, according to the police.

Defense attorneys held that the state had not shown that Mrs. Ballantyne's testimony was material to the case, but Judge Pratt overruled the objection and granted the continuance until next Monday. Counsel for the state indicated that if Mrs. Ballantyne was not able to appear in court on that day, a further continuance would be requested.

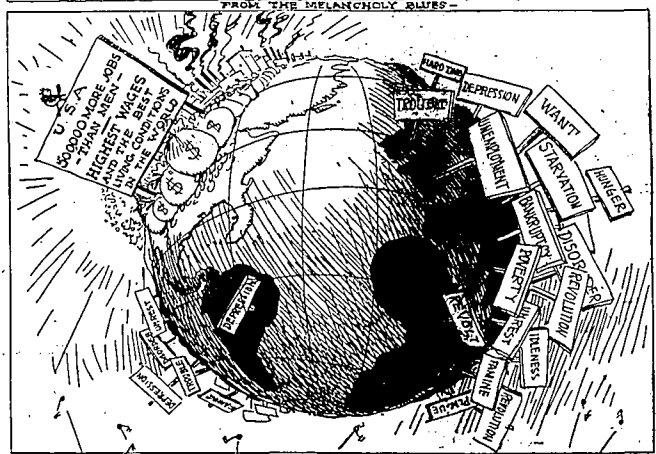

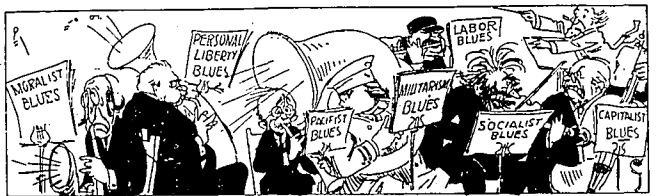

Mother and Wife Called

Among other witnesses who have been subpoenaed as witnesses in the case is Mrs. John M. Browning, mother of Mrs. Ballantyne, and wife of John W. Browning, hotel fire alarm investigator.

Following the adjournment in city court this morning, the two defendants met scores of friends who crowded within the court enclosure to shake hands with them, which was sworn to by the men have been confined in the county jail since the day of the shooting.

STRENGTHENED KWANGSI ARMY MAKES STAND

Battle Rages Short Distance from Canton Between Sun's Forces and Opponents Hitherto Worst

Peking, April 26 (AP)—War, attended by general political and social unrest, is following close on the trail of the opening of spring in China.

Already in the south, whose capital Canton, recently witnessed the return of Sun Yat Sen from his Shanghai exile, the struggle appears to be well under way. There, a combination of Yunnanese and Kwangtung interests calling themselves the constitutionalists and supporting Sun, drove their Kwangsi opponents from Canton up the North and West rivers.

Until noon today the retreat of the Kwangsi army was reported as a rout, but today reinforcements from Shukwan came to their relief, turned on the constitutionalists and, according to one report, drove them back. The fighting is said to be still in progress above Sunlat, a few miles north of Canton, with the issue in doubt. Constitutional reinforcements are being rushed to the battle line.

Reports of piracy along the Canton river between Canton and Hong Kong, also are adding to the unrest in the south and increasing the disruption of traffic and communications.

From Amoy, in the province of Fukien, comes the prediction of an early struggle for control of China between two great combinations of interests. On one side, it is reported, there will be arrayed the Chi Li party, now in control at Peking, and headed by Wu Pei Fu, the man who last year sprang to the front as the leading military genius of China. Opposed to him the political forecasters present the following lineup: Sun Yat Sen at the head of a union of the southern provinces; Chang Tso Ling, dictator of Manchuria, with the power of the three eastern provinces; Shen Kiang, Kwin and Holung, Kiang, at his back; and the provinces of Chekiang and Fukien.

Campaign of Telegrams.

Over the whole chaotic situation there now is being sent another sort of war, one peculiar to China, a campaign of telegrams.

Following the custom that has been in vogue ever since telegraph wires gave China the means of rapid communication, leaders on both sides are seeking to justify their past acts and future movements by a continuous stream of telegraphic messages. Such a preliminary barrage of facts and dashes ushered in last year's struggle in which Wu Pei Fu was victorious. This year's campaign appears to be starting true to form.

SLAYER ELUDES POSSEMEN

Nebraska Bootlegger Suspect, Who Killed Patrolman, Makes Good His Escape; Leaves Car Behind

SCOTT'S BLUFF, Neb., April 26 (AP)—Harold Randall, alleged bootlegger and slayer of Policeman Albert Peterson at Mitchell, Neb., last night, today eluded possemes searching the countryside for him. His abandoned automobile was discovered on a country road near Mitchell and possemes found a large stall at the farm home of Milo Randall, who was arrested. He is not related to the fugitive.

An inquest was ordered for Friday morning by County Attorney Heiss, who declared that the shooting was the result of the activities of an organized gang of bootleggers operating in this county.

Peterson was shot and killed and Guy Carlson, a deputy sheriff, was dangerously wounded by Randall, when they sought to arrest him on a charge of bootlegging. They had traced him to a house in Mitchell, but as they approached, Randall fled to a small building on the property and opened fire on the officers.

FREAKISH GAME GOES TO GIANTS

McGraw's Men Take Opening Tilt on Home Grounds from the Braves

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—The New York Nationals opened their home season here today with a hard fought victory, 7 to 3, over the Boston club. The game was a freakish affair and full of unusual incidents. Boston made only one fluke hit off Nohr and Ryan, a boundary by Boeckel through Groh's legs in the fourth inning. All three Boston runs resulted from errors.

Marquard was backed with remarkable support, five double plays being made behind him. His club led until two were out in the eighth, when New York started a rally in which the Giants bunched six hits for 10 bases.

and scored six runs. First Baseman Kelly of New York handled 21 putouts. Mayor John P. Hylan threw out the first ball, while the game was presided by the usual parade and flag-raising. Before the game Commissioner of Baseball Landis presented diamond rings to all the New York players, trophies of their world's championship victory of last October. Before the flag raising the crowd called on Commissioner Landis to bring Christy Mathewson, the new Boston president, to the plate. Landis escorted Mathewson from his box near the Boston dugout and the former New York idol was tendered one of the greatest ovations ever given a New York player.

The enlarged grandstands, pavilions and bleachers were jammed to capacity with hundreds sitting or standing around the field. The Tigers were off to a three-run lead in the third on consecutive hits by Haney, Cobb, Veach and Hellman, coupled with a poor throw by Gerber to the plate. St. Louis was hitless until the fifth when doubles by Severel and Gerber and a batter hit by a pitched ball gave them two runs. Ken Williams' third home run of the season added another marker in the sixth, while Gerber's second double of the day, followed by Robertson's single brought in the deciding run in the seventh.

Really that's true, for if you do not have the proper model the size does not make a proper-fitted figure. Our expert corsetiere takes care of that. The styles demand corsets—the proper kind—they should be fitted. You wouldn't buy a shoe without fitting—why a corset?

BRAUINS DEFEAT JEROME, 9 TO 4

Northsiders Drop Tights Game to Evans' Play When Pitcher Plays Out

Twin Falls high school baseball team made it two straight from Jerome Thursday afternoon at Jerome, the final score reading 9 to 4.

For eight innings was anybody's game, both teams fighting hard, with little to choose between them. In the ninth Merv Lee, star pitcher for the north siders, weakened, and before the inning had ended the blue and white lads had chased four runs over the platter.

Ray Hodgkin, starting on the mound for the Twin Falls team, failed to puzzle the Jerome artillery, giving way in the fourth inning to Laval Jarman, with a man on first and no one out.

Lee showed up for eight innings with the best assortment of curves and speed put out by a high school pitcher this season. At times his control was a little off, but during the first eight innings he had the Twin Falls ball players breaking their necks reaching for his wild curve.

Jerome Features Doubles.

The game was featured by two fast double plays by the Jerome team, the first coming in the first inning, when Lee snapped Mussel's line drive, doubling up L. Jarman at second. The second came in the second inning. Nye hit a hot one to Lee, who threw to Pyron, getting Hammond, and then to Morris in time to nip Nye. It was a fast piece of work and was executed in big league fashion.

Twice during the double plays the fielding and hitting of Lee is worthy of mention. Lee accepted seven chances without an error, several of them being hard ones.

Jerome Jarman did nice work at short for Twin Falls, having eight chances without a mishap. He made several dandy catches of the balls that looked like hits.

Twin Falls started the scoring in the second inning, when Jarman caught one on the nose and sent the ball down the first base line for a triple. Hammond scored him a moment later with a clean single to right field.

Jerome came back in its half of the scoring with Pyron sent a scorching to right for one base. Emmett sent a slow roller to short that went for a hit, sending Pyron to second. Morris sent a slow roller to right, which Nye grabbed, and while Nye counted the stitches on the ball, Pyron smoked to third. Avery hit to Crom, who shot the ball to Mussel. It was a perfect throw and Pyron was out a mile, but in sliding into the base he forced Mussel to drop the ball and the score was tied.

In the third inning Twin Falls sent another man across. Hodgkin opened the inning with a neat single to left, and went to second when Weyerhaeuser let the ball roll through his shins. Crom fanned, but Laval Jarman sent Hodgkin home with a sweet to left.

Jerome Ties Score Again. With two men out in its third inning Jerome tied the blue and white boys, when Gorman sent a long double to the right field fence. Lee chased him home with a timely single to left.

Not to be denied, Twin Falls sent one more home in the fourth. With one out, Hammond sent a double to right field. Nye walked, and Selek popped to Lawrence, but Hodgkin delivered with a neat single to right field.

Feeling that they were the home club and entitled to win, the Jerome boys came back in their half of the fourth and tied up matters again. Hardwick, who had taken Emmett's place at third sent a single to left. At this juncture Evans yanked Hodgkin, called Laval Jarman to the mound and sent Atkinson to center field.

Laval walked Morris and Avery, filling the bases. Ottler singled to right, sending Hardwick in. Lawrence popped to Crom, and Jamison picked Weyerhaeuser's drive, holding Morris at third. Gorman sent an easy roller to Jerry Jarman, who tossed to Selek, forcing Ottler at second.

Things went along in fine style from then on to the seventh, when Twin Falls scored two more. Atkinson grounded out, Ottler to Morris. Pyron erred on Crom's easy roller. Crom pilfered the keystone sack and went to third when Gorman threw the ball to center field. Laval Jarman shot a single between third and short, scoring Crom. Maxwell was hit amidships and meandered to a double steal, and Jerry scored when Gorman threw the ball to left field. Jerome came back in its half, but fell one short of tying the score. Lawrence opened up with a clean single to left. Weyerhaeuser paid close attention, what Laval Jarman was trying to do and was rewarded by being passed to first. Gorman flew to Atkinson, but Lee's fast ahead of one of Jarman's choicest offerings and sent it to the right field fence for a double, scoring Lawrence. Nye made a perfect pop to Selek, who in turn made a beautiful throw to Mussel catching Weyerhaeuser at the plate.

Pitcher Plays Out.

Lee fell to pieces in the ninth, when the Twin Falls boys put the game on its edge. Atkinson singled to left, and went to second when Weyerhaeuser let the ball get away from him. Crom waited for four wild ones, the first one being wild enough to let Atkinson move to third. Crom stole second.

Laval Jarman sent a rip-roaring to left field, scoring Atkinson and Crom. Jerry Jarman walked. This was too much for Coach Weston, and Lee went to short and Lawrence to the box. Mussel, in an effort to sacrifice, popped to Gorman. Jarman sent a short fly to left, Weyerhaeuser making a beautiful running catch. The Jarman brothers got away with a double steal, and both scored a moment later on Hammond's third hit of the game. Nye ended the inning with a long fly to Avery, who made a nice running catch.

The Jerome boys couldn't do much with Jarman in the last inning. Evans' pitching ace showing more speed than ever, he kept the game on its feet. Gorman, Lawrence popped to Hammond, who made a clever catch. Weyerhaeuser sent one to Jerry Jarman and the game was over.

HUNGER STRIKERS FREED

Free State Government Releases Two Young Women who Have Abstained from Food for More Than Month

DUBLIN, April 26, (P)—Miss Nellie Ryan and Miss Annie O'Neill, released from prison by the Free State government today after hunger strikes lasting more than a month, were in actual danger of death by starvation, according to medical evidence, it was announced tonight. Miss Ryan is a sister-in-law of Richard Mulcahy, the minister of defense.

In announcing the release of the two women, a government communique says the decision was taken after the discussion in the Dail Eireann last night, when Dr. Patrick McGarran gave notice that he would move a resolution next Wednesday providing that "in the opinion of the dail, any prisoners who decide after the passing of this resolution, to go on hunger strike in order to secure their release should be allowed to take the full consequences of their act."

It is expected the dail will adopt the resolution. Nevertheless it is believed, other hunger strikers will be released, including Miss Mary MacSwiney, and Mrs. Kate O'Callaghan, widow of the late lord mayor of Limerick.

Qualifying heats in the different events will be run off this morning, with the finals to start at 1:30. One of the rules set forth, which condition and, weather permitting, no less than five records should be broken. Word from Rupert states that Stone, the 100-yard man for that school, ran the 100 on Tuesday in 10 seconds flat. If such be the case, then Turley of Jerome, Timm of Plover, and Alvord of Plover, will be in for the hard-est race of their careers.

Ample seating accommodations are promised by the committee in charge of this part of the program, and the Twin Falls big school band, second to none in the state, will entertain the crowd between the different events.

One of the rules set forth, which should prove popular is the one prohibiting of newspaper men and officials, including coaches, to appear on the field, with the exception of newspaper men and officials.

Lockyer Gooding will act as referee, with Bear of Hildister as starter. The stop watches will be taken care of by men who were timers during the state fair horse races, which guarantees accuracy in this department.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS REJECT UNION PROPOSAL

"Sympathetic Strike Provision" Is Seen in Printers' Bailing; Training Schools to be Established

NEW YORK, April 26, (P)—The thirty-seventh convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association, adjourned today after taking two important steps in connection with its labor policy and re-electing all the old officers for the ensuing year.

The first labor measure adopted was a measure refusing to negotiate with the International Typographical Union under the terms of an amendment to the union's constitution, which provided that union printers and mailers employees in the same plants should negotiate jointly, that all agreements so reached should expire concurrently and that abrogation of an agreement by a strike or lock-out in one department should terminate the agreement affecting the other.

This provision, the publishers announced as a "sympathetic strike provision."

The other labor measure adopted was a resolution to broaden the association's support of printing trades schools. A report of the Macdon, (Ga.) printing school declared students have been discouraged by union printers, who waged "vicious" assaults on the plant.

Today's resolution provided for the establishment of regional schools in several sections of the United States and Canada, the schools to be supported primarily by newspapers in the various regions.

Appointments of a committee to take up the question of establishing a bureau of audit was authorized, the committee receiving power to establish such a bureau if it was found advisable.

The officers re-elected were: President, Paul Patterson, Baltimore, (Md.) Sec. vice-president, S. E. Thomson, Chicago, (Ill.) Tribune; Secretary, John Stewart Bryan, Richmond, (Va.) News-Leader; treasurer, Howard Davis, New York, (N. Y.) Tribune.

Resolutions of respect were adopted for 28 members of the association who have died since the last convention.

BRITAIN POURS BLESSINGS ON ROYAL COUPLE

Empire Rejoices While Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon are United at Westminster Abbey

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—The Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon joined hands and hearts before the golden altar of Westminster abbey today, while all Britain poured out its blessing.

The magnificent church service that elevated the modest Scotch girl from the common ranks to a place in the crown of the empire would have exalted a king or queen.

The great edifice in parliament square which enshrines within its hallowed walls the mortal remains of kings, queens, martyrs, saints and heroes, has been the scene of a thousand national ceremonies of transcending interest, but it has witnessed few that surpassed in beauty and solemnity today's romantic event.

All the members of the royal family, all that are greatest in the life of the empire and a brilliant array of foreign princes, nobles, ambassadors and ministers with their ladies were there in the midst of this glittering and historic state. The American ambassador, in a sombre court suit of black, sat among his gorgeously attired European colleagues a symbol of democracy.

Lends Human Touch.
The entire service was conducted with the traditional precision of British state events. (What the bride was called upon by the Bishop of Canterbury to repeat the solemn ritual beginning: "I take thee to be my wedded husband," did her manner betoken any sign of nervousness. Her voice was scarcely audible to the vast congregation.)

The bridegroom gave the impression of a man at happy ease. Queen Mary was a solemn, severely dignified expression and kept her eyes upon the bride. The Duke of York, however, gave the regal ceremony a human touch by moving out of her place and bestowing kisses upon the members of the party as they came within the church.

Next to the bride and groom, Princess Mary and the Prince of Wales were the objects of most attention. Wales appeared to be the calmest man in the abbey, and he toyed with the plume of his three-cornered military hat during the ceremony. At one point Alexandria leaned toward him and whispered in his ear what some in the audience declared must have been good advice to a bachelor.

Music Fills Halls.
The wedding ceremony began promptly at 11:30 o'clock. After the king and queen and other royalties and clergy had taken their places in the choir, the soft, melodious tones of the invisible male choir, accompanied by the sonorous booming of the great organ, flowed over the gathering, filling the vast abbey with moving cadences.

As the duke and bride joined hands, the sun, which had not revealed itself for several days, suddenly emerged from behind the mist and its light, coming through the high vaulted windows of the abbey, cast an effulgence upon the gallant duke and his lovely bride and brought into bold relief the features of the brilliant assemblage of spectators.

After the Archbishop of Canterbury had recited the usual ritual the duke placed the ring on the fourth finger of his bride's left hand, and in a resolute voice said: "With this ring I thee wed, with my body I thee worship, and with all my worldly goods I thee endow."

Thousands Cheer Fair.
The archbishop then offered prayer, pronounced the couple man and wife and proclaimed to the vast congregation: "Those whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." He added his blessing to the newly married pair advanced inside the sanctuary and knelt at the altar while the choir sang "Wedding Chant."

After the signing of the register, the duke and duchess were escorted by the clergy through the nave to the familiar accompaniment of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and passed on to receive the plaudits of the waiting multitudes. Their return to Buckingham palace through miles of cheering humanity was like a procession of triumph.

A wedding breakfast presided over by the king and queen, was served in the state dining room, and shortly after 4 o'clock the happy couple left for their honeymoon in Surrey.

ter, among them Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader, and Watson of Indiana, but for these conferences nothing developed to indicate definitely the trend of sentiment.

In addition to Senator Borah's statement, views on the proposal were set forth by Senators McKellar, Demorest, and McKinley, republican, Illinois. Senator McKellar endorsed the step proposed by President Harding, who, he said, like Saul of Tarsus, has at last seen a light.

Senator McKellar's statement merely supplemented his endorsement given personally to the president yesterday and added that he had been told by Lord Robert Cecil and the president of the French senate while in Geneva last September, that the British and French governments would be satisfied with a reorganization of the court and a selection of judges in a way that would be satisfactory to the United States.

country should not support the court.

Then, in closing his address, he said:

"I wish to express my warm agreement with what Senator Borah has recently said about outlawry of war. To that end I sincerely hope that the approval of the United States may be given to this international court which represents the highest point yet reached by agreement of the nations in affording the same substitute for war by judicial decision of international cases that have proved effective in doing away with private war among individuals."

"I hope also that following upon the approval, the influence of the United States will be employed in bringing about a new conference of all the nations entitled to take part in the making of international law, to formulate and agree upon the amendments and additions, which should now be made, to reconcile divergent views and to extend the law to subjects not now adequately regulated, but as to which the interests of international justice require that rules of law shall be declared and accepted."

Persecutes Ban on Wars

"I look forward with confidence to the time when the rules so formulated and accepted as universal law, will declare all wars of aggression to be criminal violations of the law of nations. I look forward to the time when the refusal of any nation proposing war, to submit to an impartial court the decision of the question whether facts exist to justify it in war upon defensive grounds, will be deemed a confession of guilt; and I look forward to the time when the universal opinion of civilization having such a clear and certain basis for the formation of judgment will visit upon the aggressor its swift and heavy condemnation against which no nation may prevail."

"War cannot be outlawed by proclamation or by resolution or by mere agreement, or by mere force. War can be outlawed only by arraying the moral force of the civilized world in support of definite rules of conduct which exclude war, and by giving to that moral force, institutions through which that force may be applied to specific cases of attempted violation. One of those necessary institutions is a court by whose judgment the great multitudes of mankind, peace or justice, may know what is just."

"The question presented by the president's message is really only a question of moral support. The amount of contribution towards the support of the court to be determined by our own congress would be negligible. We undertake to do nothing and to give nobody authority or power to do anything to us. The question is merely whether we shall give our moral approval to the establishment of the same kind of court which our government has been urging for a generation. It is less than three years since both political parties in the United States practically agreed upon the American attitude, expressed by one of those parties in its platform in these words: 'Stand for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by the development of law and the decision of impartial courts.'

Only Practical Proposal

"Since that time the only proposal of any practical step towards giving effect to the belief expressed in the words which I have just quoted is the proposal contained in this message of the president. No one has proposed any alternative method to give effect to that belief."

Mr. Root at the outset of his speech described the composition of the court and how it worked.

"This court does not supersede but is in addition to the old so-called permanent court of arbitration at The Hague," he said. "The old court of arbitration was not, properly speaking, a court. It was merely a panel of persons available to act as judges."

Solid-Hoofed Hogs

There are exceptional hogs with this peculiarity of a solid hoof. The Riverside National History states: "A curious anomaly of the foot structure of the pig has been frequently recorded from the time of Aristotle downward, which consists in the condensation of the last joint and the hoofs of the middle toes, a single solid hoof resulting. Such solid-hoofed pigs breed singularly true. Dr. Cones met with a breed in Texas which exemplified this in a marked degree, so much so as to indicate that it would not be difficult to form a race of solid-hoofed pigs, just as we have races of the domestic fowl with deformed skulls. Their flesh is as good to eat as that of the ordinary hog."

SOUTHERN VETERANS HAVE NEW LEADER

MR. W. McDONALD LEE has been elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, at their convention in New Orleans.

A colored parson, calling upon one of his flock, found the object of his visit out in the back yard working among his hen coops. He noticed with surprise that there were no chickens.

"Why, Bradder Brown," he asked, "what's all yo' chickens?"

"Huh," grunted Brother Brown without looking up. "same fool nigger let 'em do open an' dey all went home."—Drew's Imprint.

"Have you saved up anything for a rainy day?"

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "A pair of silk stockings."

A GOOD SCOTCH STORY.

A Scotchman was strolling through the market place in Glasgow one day and close to his heels followed his colts. Attracted by a fine display of shell and other fish the Scot stopped to admire, perhaps to purchase. The dog stood by, gently wagging his tail, while its master engaged the fishmonger in conversation.

Unfortunately for the beastie its tail dropped for a moment over a big basketful of fine, live lobsters. Instantly one of the largest lobsters snapped its claws on the tail, and the surprised colts dashed off through the market, yelping with pain, while the lobster lunged on grimly, though not obviously from side to side. The fishmonger for a moment was speechless with indignation; then, turning to his prospective customer, he bowed.

"Aye, mon! wha'st to yer dog; wha'st to yer dog?"

"Hoots, mon," returned the other complacently, "wha'st to yer lobster?"—New York World.

BUY STAMPS AND SAVE MONEY

The fact that revenue stamps must be attached to the stubs of stock certificates has just been brought to the attention of Twin Falls business men, in some cases in a manner which will serve to drive home the lesson in excellent shape.

Promissory notes must, of course, bear revenue stamps. The fact that such instruments are in common use makes the stamp requirements easy to remember but in the case of stock certificates there is a difference.

There should be no fault found with the law in the case; as a means of collecting revenue it is a good deal better proposition than the stamp requirement with respect to checks.

Responsibility in the matter of the stamps on stock runs to the issuing company, not to the individual to whom the stock is issued. Recollection of this fact may be the means of saving a good many fines in years to come.

THE HOUSE OF DAVID

It is a fact to be regretted that religion so frequently constitutes the guise in which the most reprehensible acts are clothed for presentation to the unwary by soundbore of various kinds.

From time immemorial strange sects have arisen among men and apparently no matter how wild the theories, how foolish the practice and how criminal the teachings a following can always be obtained.

Human beings by nature are prone to follow after strange gods.

An institution known as the House of David flourishes for years in Michigan with results which can better be imagined than described, while at the same time honorable and honest men by the thousands are laboring in the various church organizations of the country intent upon the salvation of humanity, actuated by the highest motives, content to take their pay principally in the consciousness of great and useful work well performed.

There are empty pews in most churches at times, perhaps most of the time, in which all mankind is welcome. But there is apparently no way of protecting man against himself when the urge toward the spiritual is used as the bait with which to lure him from the path of common sense in matters religious.

THE END

Subsidence of the continents beneath the seas and the drowning of the races is the latest scientific guess as to the end of the world—some 25,000,000 years hence. For this last, much thanks.

There still remains to man plenty of time in which to enjoy himself and to get something out of life. In the meantime, he will doubtless be treated to many variations of theory as to the end-all. Only a few weeks ago scientists solemnly gave warning of an ending by drought, with seas receding and land becoming too arid and torrid for existence.

Between being dried out and being drowned there may not be much choice, but there is wide range of difference. In between there is room for innumerable variations, and beyond there is room for even wilder fancies and guesses. It seems that scientific alarmists cannot long remain silent on this subject. Very often prophets rise up to forecast the end. Many have been so rash as to cast their disaster for an early date, and accordingly have been discredited by failure.

Later prophets have generally adopted the safer role of fixing the end-all at some remote time. Now that this warning has been issued, the world public may get set for the next guess, which will not be long in coming if scientific alarmists keep up their prophetic gait.

CHAPTER II

A Secret Kept.

Because of that singular reply Madeline found fault to go farther with the cowboy. But at the moment she really did not think about what he said. Any answer to her would have served if it had been kind. As she walked on into the windy darkness, much relieved that he had answered as he had, reflecting that he had yet to prove his words true, she began to grasp the deeper significance of them. And she was so proud to find that she felt that she ought to scorn to think at all about such a man.

Presently Madeline's guide turned off the walk and rapped at a door of a low-roofed house.

"Hullo—who's there?" a deep voice answered.

"Gene Stewart," said the cowboy. "Call Florence—quick!"

Thump of footsteps followed, a tap on a door, and voices. Madeline heard a woman exclaim: "Gene! here when the doctor is here! What's the matter?"

"A light," said the cowboy. "A light flared up and shone brightly through a window. In another moment there came a patter of soft steps, and the door opened to disclose a woman holding a lamp.

"Gene! A's not—"

"A's all right," interrupted the cowboy.

Madeline had two sensations then—one of wonder at the note of alarm and love in the woman's voice, and the other of unutterable relief to be safe with a friend of her brother's.

"It's A's coming on tonight's train," the cowboy was saying. "I happened to be at the station, and I've fetched her up to you."

Madeline came forward out of the shadow.

"Not—not really Majesty Hammond?" exclaimed the Kingsley. She nearly dropped the lamp, and she looked, astounded beyond belief.

"Yes, I am really she," replied Madeline. "My train was late and for some reason Alfred did not meet me. Mr. Stewart saw fit to bring me to you instead of taking me to a hotel."

"Oh, I'm so glad to meet you," replied Florence, warmly. "Do come in. I'm so surprised. I forget my manners. Why, you are white as a sheet. You must be tired. What a long wait you had at the station! If I had known you were coming! Indeed, you are very pale. Are you ill?"

"No. Only I am very tired. Traveling so far by rail is harder than I imagined. I did have rather a long wait after arriving at the station, but I can't say that it was lonely."

Florence Kingsley searched Madeline's face with keen eyes, and then took a long, significant look at the silent Stewart. With that she deliberately and quietly closed a door leading into another room.

"Miss Hammond, what has happened?" She had lowered her voice.

"I do not wish to recall all that happened," replied Madeline. "I shall tell Alfred, however, that I would rather have met a hostile Apache than a cowboy."

"Please don't tell Al that!" cried Florence. Then she grasped Stewart and pulled him close to the light.

"Gene, you're drunk!"

"Now, see here, Flo, I only—"

"I don't want to know. I'd tell it. Gene, aren't you ever going to learn decency? Aren't you ever going to stop drinking? You'll lose all your friends. Molly and I have pleaded with you, and now you've gone and done—God knows what!"

"What do women want to wear veils for?" he growled. "I'd have known her but for that veil!"

"And you wouldn't have insulted her. But you would the next girl who came along. Gene, you are hopeless. Now, you get out of here and don't ever come back."

"Flo!" he entreated.

"I mean it."

"I reckon then I'll come back tomorrow and take my medicine," he replied.

"Don't you dare!" she cried. Stewart went out and closed the door.

Miss Hammond, you—you don't know how this hurt me," said Florence. "What you must think of it! It's so unlucky that you should have had this happen right at first. Now, maybe you won't have the heart to stay. Oh, I've known more than one eastern girl to go home without ever learning what she really was out here. Miss Hammond, Gene Stewart is a dead when he's drunk. All the same I know, whatever he did, he meant no shame to you. Come now, don't think about it again tonight. She took up the lamp and led Madeline into a little room. "Won't you let me help you undress—can't I do anything for you?"

"You are very kind, thank you, but I can manage," replied Madeline. "Well, then, good night. The sooner I go to bed, the sooner I'll rest. Just forget what happened and think how fine a surprise you're to give your brother tomorrow."

With that she slipped out and softly shut the door.

As Madeline laid her watch on the bureau she noticed that the time was past two o'clock. It seemed long since she had gotten off the train. When she had turned out the lamp and crept wearily into bed she knew what it was to be utterly spent. She was too tired to move a finger.

When she awakened the room was bright with sunlight. She was lazily and dreamily contemplating the mud walls of this little room when she remembered where she was and how she had come there.

How great a shock she had been subjected to was manifest in a sensation of disgust that overwhelmed her. She even shut her eyes to try and blot out the recollection. She felt that she had been contaminated.

Presently Madeline Hammond again awoke to the fact she had learned the preceding night—that there were emotions to which she had hitherto been a stranger. She scarcely remembered when she had found it necessary to control her emotions. There had been no trouble, no excitement, no unpleasantness in her life. It had been ordered for her—tranquil, luxurious, brilliant, varied, yet always the same.

Then Madeline heard Florence rap on the door and call softly: "Miss Hammond. Are you awake?"

"Awake and dressed, Miss Kingsley."

Presently there were slow, reluctant steps outside the front door, then a pause, and the door opened. Stewart stood bareheaded in the sunlight. Madeline's glance ran over him with a flash of lightning. But as she saw his face now she did not recognize it. The man's presence roused in her a revolt. Yet something in her, the inconspicuous side of her nature, thrilled in the look of this splendid dark-faced barbarian.

"Mr. Stewart, will you please come in?" she asked, after that long pause.

"I reckon not," he said. The hopelessness of his tone meant that he was not going to enter a room with her, and did not care to care too much.

Madeline went to the door. The man's face was hard, yet it was sad, too. And it touched her.

"I shall not tell my brother of your presence to me," she began. "It was impossible for her to keep the chill out of her voice, to speak with other than the pride and aloofness of her class. Nevertheless, despite her loathing, when she had spoken so far in accused that kindness and pity followed involuntarily. "I choose to overlook what you did because you were not wholly accountable, and because there must be no trouble between Alfred and you. May I rely on you to keep silence and to seal the lips of that priest? You will spare me further distress, will you not, please?"

This hoarse reply was incoherent, but she needed only to see his working face to know his remorse and gratitude.

Madeline went back to her room; and presently Florence came for her, and directly they were sitting at breakfast. Madeline Hammond's impression of her brother's friend had to be reconstructed in the morning light.

She felt a wholesome, frank, sweet nature. She liked the slow southern drawl. And she was puzzled to know whether Florence Kingsley was pretty or striking or unusual. She had a youthful glow and flush, the clear tan of outdoors, a face that lacked the soft curves and lines of eastern women, and her eyes were light gray, like crystal, steady, almost piercing, and her hair was a beautiful bright waving mass.

A sharp knock on the parlor door interrupted conversation. Florence's sister went to open it. She returned presently and said:

"It's Gene. He's been dawdling out there on the front porch, and he knocked on the door. Miss Hammond's brother is coming."

Florence hurried into the parlor, followed by Madeline. The door stood open, and disclosed Stewart sitting on the porch steps. From down the road came a clatter of hoofs. Madeline looked out over Florence's shoulder and saw a cloud of dust approaching and in it she distinguished outlines of horses and riders. A warpath spread over her, a little tangle of gladness, and the feeling recalled her girlish love for her brother. What would be like after long years?

Looking out, Madeline saw a bunch of dusty, wiry horses pawing the gravel and tossing lean heads. Her swift glance ran over the little horsemen, trying to pick out the one who was her brother. But she could not. Her glance, however, caught the same rough dress and hard aspect that characterized the cowboy Stewart. Then one rider threw his reins, leaped from the saddle, and came bounding up the porch steps. Florence met him at the door.

Preventative Medicine

The tendency of modern science to toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is fully to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifling sum.

COMMISSIONERS SKEPTICAL OF ELECTION TALK

City Administration Delays Issuance of Certificates at Instance of Candidate Defeated on Face of Returns

Actuated by reports that some doubt exists as to the correctness of the number of votes cast, the city commissioners Tuesday, the city commissioners at its meeting Thursday night adjourned at 10 o'clock Friday morning to check over the results of the second election.

A desire for more time in which to canvass the vote was given as the grounds for calling the adjourned meeting Friday.

The action was taken on the motion of Commissioner J. E. Roberts, one of the candidates in the election, and who was defeated for re-election, according to the unofficial returns. Some discussion took place regarding the advisability of adjourning for more extended session and Commissioner S. S. All urged that the matter be disposed of at the Thursday evening meeting.

"It has come to me that there is some doubt," said Mayor J. D. Tucker, "as to the correctness of the number of votes given the various candidates and in fairness to all concerned I do not know but what it would be well to adjourn. I understand there is some doubt about the vote given the defeated candidates, and, according to gossip, there are some 90 votes in question." In answer to an inquiry by the mayor, Commissioner J. E. Roberts said that he, Aubrey and J. E. Roberts signified that they had heard reports on the streets that unofficial returns were not correct.

Grant Oil Permits.

The Independent Gas and Oil company was granted a permit to erect its oil tanks on lots at Third avenue south and Fourth street, following a rather pointed discussion. Commissioner A. T. Krivanek, his former position on the subject, stating that the tanks should be forced further from the center of the city and that the city might be started against the city by the action of the commissioners Thursday night.

Mr. All asked that the matter be left to the discretion of the new administration.

"I am not in favor of that," said Mr. Krivanek. "I think it would be better to grant this permit and leave a clean bill for the incoming officials."

"It won't be very clean," rejoined Mr. All.

"I move the permit be granted," said Mr. Roberts.

"We gave everybody ten days' notice and there have been no protests," said Mr. Krivanek.

"The protests should be made by the city officials," said Mr. All. Mr. Roberts' motion was carried.

The independent company's application has been the subject of much discussion before the city commission in the past three weeks.

Discuss Budget System.

The budget system under the commission form of government was made the basis of a lengthy discussion in which Mayor Tucker explained at some length his views on the subject.

Mr. All. The discussion revolved about the question of charging the sum of $1500 for the sprinkling fund against the street fund.

Mr. Krivanek, street superintendent, mentioned that about $1600 should come under the water works fund.

Urge Organization of Berry Growers

Profits of Side-Line Crop Brings Farmers Together on County Association

The nucleus of a county association of berry growers was formed Thursday night when a group of farmers interested in advancing the industry in this county gathered at the office of R. E. Brown, county farm agent, and appointed a committee to assist Mr. Brown in the work of organizing.

The committee members are W. D. Averitt, C. E. Henderson and J. W. Waters. The primary purpose of the committee will be to determine as far as possible the general needs of the farmers toward an association of berry growers and to be in charge of such meetings as may be arranged in the near future at the proposed organization.

Mr. Brown expects to sound out the opinion throughout the county in a preliminary way and if conditions warrant he will arrange for meetings at several points.

The general opinion prevailing among the farmers present Thursday night was that there is ample opportunity for the growers of this county to realize greater profits by growing a few berries in addition to their regular crops and that an association is the best means of getting the best results for the growers.

Due to the lateness of the season the committee does not expect to complete the working organization before the next fall but in the meantime the members and Mr. Brown will go about with their work and confer from time to time in the interests of the organization.

OREGON HIGHWAY IS GIVEN BOOST

Business Men From Surrounding Towns Unite to Aid Trail Association

Enthusiasm of the kind that signifies progressiveness and a determination to put the Old Oregon Trail on the map with the tourists of the country was in evidence at a meeting in the chamber of commerce room Tuesday night.

The meeting was called for the purpose of planning a new and better highway, the pioneer highway and the Old Oregon Trail association and after a thorough discussion about 900 membership in the trail association.

"There is no doubt but what tourist travel is going to increase greatly this year," said Walter Mendenhall, president of the trail association. "The people of the north have reason to be proud of the Old Oregon Trail. The trail has the longest continuous strip of gravelled surface in Idaho and Oregon, being 1100 miles long, something of which go other two states can boast."

"Last year we were somewhat handicapped by road work which was under construction, but this has been completely overcome by the trail association. We have now increased tourist travel. A number of tourists have already been over the trail and they have expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the trail route."

The trail association is a non-profit organization, and its purpose is to promote the development of the trail route. It is a non-profit organization, and its purpose is to promote the development of the trail route.

JUNIOR REGISTRATIONS SHOW GAIN IN MEMBERS

Total of 250 Boys and Girls Sign Books for City Election; Women's Club Will Supervise Executives

Registration on Thursday for the junior citizens' city election to be held during Boy Scout week, May 3 to 6, resulted in a total of 250 with several scores of the junior voters expected to be added to the list before the end of the week, according to Mrs. E. M. Wolfe, in charge of the work, which is being supervised by the community service department of the Twentieth Century club.

In view of the fact that a number of voters could not arrange to register Thursday the time has been extended until Saturday, Mrs. Wolfe stated. Registration books will not be available at the high school the remainder of the week and registrations must be sent to Mrs. Wolfe or to Donald McLean of the Scout council.

The registration this year shows a gain of about 100 over the total registration last year, indicating that both boys and girls are becoming more interested in civic life.

The successful candidates will take office on Saturday, May 5, and they will be supervised and aided in the discharge of their "official" duties by the members of the women's club.

Urges Treatment of Seed Potatoes

Faculty Member of Idaho Technical Institute Gives Hints on Planting

Care in selecting and treating seed potatoes may mean the difference between a good yield of clean, marketable potatoes and a low yield of diseased ones or the difference between profit or loss on the crop, according to H. R. Poulton, head of the agricultural department at the Idaho Technical Institute.

"Potatoes badly infected with deep pitted black spots should be thrown out as the disease is not likely to be killed by the treatment. The end should be cut off from several hundred of the tubers and if a circle of brown or discolored spots are found these potatoes should be carefully sorted out and not planted, as they will carry the disease into the ground."

To treat seed potatoes before planting dissolve four ounces of corrosive sublimate in hot water in a earthenware vessel. Add this to thirty gallons of water. Potatoes should be left in this solution for 30 minutes.

One ounce of the mercuric chloride should be added for each 500 pounds of seed treated, keeping the volume of water constant. Corrosive sublimate is very poisonous.

"This treatment will not prevent disease already in the soil or diseases found inside the potato. Allowing the treated seed to become infested with disease will become a practical waste of course make the treatment useless."
