IDAHO MAN CAPTURED IN DANDIT RAID

Lloyd Lehrbas of Pocatello, Tells of Chinese Outlaws' Attack and Own Escape After Forced Barefoot March

PEKIN, May 7. (AP)—Approximately 25 foreigners, many of them American, including four American Army majors, tonight are in the hands of a daring gang of Chinese brigands, who raided the Peking express early Sunday morning at Suchow, province of Kiang, about 200 miles from the seaport named Rotterdam, and drove scores of others, while some natives, off like a herd of cattle in their misadventure.

Advices received here from several sources indicate that the women among the white passengers later were released, but only after they had been beaten and spat upon by their brutal captors in an effort to make them keep up with the fast moving cavalcade as it traveled through the darkness away from the scene of the holdup.

Several of the women are said to have dropped from exhaustion, and the bandits left them where they fell, refusing to permit their husbands to stop and render any assistance.

Hits Rockefeller Family

One of the women was Miss Lucy C. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of New York. Late today it was definitely established that she had been released and was unharmed in a small village 15 miles from the main line of the railroad where the holdup was staged.

Among the prisoners still believed to be held by the brigands are: Perry Scripps, prominent American newspaper publisher, who is making a tour of the far east in his private yacht; Other captives are Major Roland Pinger of the United States army in the Philippines, and his elder son Roland, Jr., aged 8, and Major Robert Allen, also of the American army in the Philippines, and his son Robert. Lloyd Lehrbas of Pocatello, Idaho, newspaperman, who was one of the captives, escaped after traveling under guard for three hours, clad only in his pajamas and a pair of slippers, through the rough countryside. In narrating his experience, Lehrbas said he first knew something was wrong when he heard a rifle fired, and then he was dumped on the stretch of track which had been torn up by the brigands. Then followed a volley of shots that broke the windows in the coaches along the entire train.

The newspaperman said he wedged himself under the berth and remained there while, one after another, five

GRAND JURY TO PROBE MYSTERY

Finding of Principal in Class Rush Deemed Important in Baffling Death of Student

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—A grand jury today began an investigation of the mystery surrounding the death of Leigh Mount, Northwestern University student, who disappeared following a clash with a Socialist, 1921, and whose skeleton was found under a pier at Evanston a week ago.

With State's Attorney Robert E. Cross and nearly all his assistants working on the case, much importance was attached to the finding at Akron, Ohio, of J. Allen Mills, a former Northwestern student, who was said to have been in the class rush the night Mount disappeared, and who, students have claimed, knew most of the circumstances in connection with the rush. An assistant state's attorney left tonight for Akron to question Mills.

Chief Justice Michael McKinley instructed the grand jury to make a thorough investigation of Mount's disappearance and death. If the jury finds evidence of violence, he asked that it notify him, adding that he wished to give further instructions in such an event.

First witnesses will be called before the jury tomorrow.

Hole of Recent Origin.

Robert Jamar, a student who was on bench patrol duty at Evanston in the summer of 1922, told an assistant state's attorney today that there was no hole in the pier under which Mount's body was found when he was on duty. The pier is of solid masonry on the lake side and there was a hole nearly two feet square in the floor, plankless, nearly above the place where the body was discovered last Monday.

One theory had been that Mount was accidentally killed by students during the class rush and his body scattered under the pier by lowering it through the hole in the flooring. Jamar's story indicated to the authorities that if the hole were put under the pier by lowering it through the hole, it must have been long after the night of the rush.

Claim of Lodge to Buhl School Funds Allowed by Court

Federal Circuit Court Upholds Decision in Favor of Neighbors of Woodcraft

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7. (AP)—A judgment of the United States district court of Idaho allowing the Neighbors of Woodcraft, a corporation to recover $78,000 from the Buhl independent school district No. 3, Twin Falls county, was affirmed today by the United States circuit court of appeals here. The amount represented bonds of the school district, which had been purchased by the corporation. After the purchase the corporation started suit to recover on the ground that the bonds were improperly signed and defective otherwise.

STATE TO PROBE WITNESS DEATH

Sudden Demise of Accuser in Florida Convict Camp Case Arouses Suspicion

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 7. (AP)—The state's executive department will see that a thorough investigation, if warranted, is conducted into the death of Jerry Poppell, former jailer, and star witness in the legislative investigation of the death of Martin Tubert of North Dakota, it was determined today after a conference between Representative Davis, the governor and the attorney general.

Mr. Davis carried the executive file, news of Poppell's death, it is understood. Previously he had considered the advisability with Representative Kinney of asking that the legislative committee be directed to have an autopsy performed on Poppell's body. Poppell died at Quincy Saturday while enroute by motor with his family to appear before a federal grand jury in connection with a perjury case growing out of the inquiry into Tubert's death. The immediate cause of the former jailer's death was given as apoplexy.

The fact that he had just concluded his testimony here and was on his way to give more accusations, coupled with a statement that his death attributed to him by his widow, that he had been poisoned, prompted officials to decide upon an inquiry.

LINKS QUESTION OF REPARATIONS WITH WAR DEBTS

Franco-Belgian Reply to German Proposal Holds Out for Payment of Entire Claim Unless Creditors Cancel

PARIS, May 7. (AP)—Franco and Belgium have again served notice on Germany that they intend the reparations bill shall be paid in full and that there will be no consideration of any German proposal as long as passive resistance in the Ruhr continues to be the reich's watchword.

Replying in a joint note to the German offer of last week, the Ruhr allies said that the sum of thirty billion gold marks represents less than one-fourth of the total which both the reparation commission and Germany recognized as the amount of her debt.

PARIS, May 7. (AP)—The Franco-Belgian reply to the German note, one of the highest spokesmen for the French government said tonight, links the question of reparations with that of the inter-allied debts.

This is in the sense that France, out of the total 130,000,000,000 gold marks fixed in 1921 by the allies as Germany's indebtedness, demands her share of the scheduled payments of 50,000,000,000 gold marks, or 23,000,000,000 marks to begin with as a minimum, and in addition such part of her share of the remaining 80,000,000,000 marks as will correspond to the same offer of her in payment of the war debts to the United States and Great Britain.

All this means that, if the United States or Great Britain exact any part of her debts owing them by France, the latter is ready to reduce to that extent her share of the 80,000,000,000 gold marks due from Germany in addition to the 50,000,000,000 provided for in the scheduled payments, or in other words she feels obliged to claim from Germany as much of the 80,000,000,000 mark balance as may be necessary to pay the allies.

This unquestionable authority did not say that France would not pay if Germany does not, but he made it plain that, if France pays, so Germany must.

Pocatello Sees Flaming Cross of Invisible Empire

Many Witness Silent March of 150 Hooded Klansmen to Scene of Ceremonial

POCATELLO, May 7. (AP)—Approximately 150 men, robed in the full garb of the Ku Klux Klan, marched silently down the principal thoroughfares here tonight and held a ceremonial on a hillside at the outskirts of the city. A huge flaming cross, which had been constructed on the hillside, burned for several hours. Many persons witnessed the scene on the streets.

The demonstration was the first of import to be held in connection with the operations of the Pocatello chapter of the Klan. After burning down Arthur Avenue, the Klansmen marched down a side street, where they hoisted automobiles and drove to the cross.

BOARD TO STUDY TARIFF'S RATES

Searching Investigation to Determine Whether Schedules are Equitable

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—The tariff commission gave evidence today of its intention to go ahead as rapidly as its personnel and equipment will permit with an investigation to determine whether rates carried in the new tariff law are equitable. Announcement was made that orders had been issued for the inauguration of four new inquiries including examination under flexible provisions of the law of the rates on resin, phenol, creosylic acid and pipes and smokers' articles.

Members of the commission declined to comment on reports that the investigations ordered today and the inquiry recently ordered into the duties on linseed or flaxseed oil constituted the first of an important series of such studies. It appeared well established, however, that other announcements of investigation might be expected within a few days and that those now pending are as fully as the agency's physical situation permits the procedure recently enunciated with respect to the flexible provisions.

BRIGADIER GENERAL W. D. CONNOR, commander of American troops in China, whose use in concerted military action against Chinese bandits is being considered by the war office at Washington.

GENERAL W. D. CONNOR

BRIGANDS WANT BIG RANSOM AND PARDON FOR ALL

Latest Available Reports Indicate 19 Foreigners, Principally Americans, Still in the Clutches of Outlaws

(By The Associated Press.)

At 10 o'clock tonight (Monday) Pacific Standard Time, in connection with the Chinese bandit raid on the Peking express near Suchow, indicated that 10 foreigners, principally Americans, were still in the hands of the brigands. The list included one woman, Senora Ancira of Guadalupe, Mexico, whose release has been announced, but not been definitely confirmed. Although general statements had been received from two or three points that all women captured had been released.

Those believed to be Americans contained in the list are: Major Roland Pinger, Manila; Roland Pinger, Jr., son of Major Pinger; Major Robert Allen, Manila; Major Robert Allen, Jr., son of Major Allen; F. F. Milnor, Los Angeles; J. A. Hinely, Shang Hai; G. Jacobson, Shang Hai; J. B. Powell, Shang Hai; Leo C. Solomon, Shang Hai; D. The remaining names on the list are: Senor Ancira, Guadalupe, Mexico; Senora Ancira, wife of Senor Ancira; Theodoros Sophos, Shang Hai; Emilia Guadalupe, (French); Shang Hai; G. D. Musso, (Italian); Shang Hai; and V. Halvovitch, Shang Hai.

PEKING, May 8. (AP)—Chinese bandits who perpetrated the daring holdup of the Peking express train near Suchow Sunday, kidnapping the passengers, many of the Americans, had demanded a ransom of $1,000,000, in addition to a pardon for all involved, according to privately received reports. The diplomatic representatives of the American governments are conferring on what action is to be taken.

United States Minister Schurman will depart for Peking in an official report to Secretary Hughes received today, characterized the developments as "serious" and was immediately instructed by the state department to press his inquiry report the facts to Washington and make strong representations to the Chinese government.

BANDIT ATTACK STIRS CAPITAL

Washington Makes Representation to China Government; Military Action Possibility

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Action of Chinese bandits of Shantung province yesterday in holding up an express train and capturing a number of foreigners, including 10 Americans, has created a situation regarded as seriously affecting the continuance of friendly relations between the United States and China. The situation is held by some officials as containing elements of still broader scope, possibility involving other governments in a similar entanglement with China.

Minister Schurman at Peking, in an official report to Secretary Hughes received today, characterized the developments as "serious" and was immediately instructed by the state department to press his inquiry report the facts to Washington and make strong representations to the Chinese government.

Some officials here said to be in progress but officials here declined to throw any further light on the course taken by Minister Schurman.

One possibility was understood to be the question of initiating a concerted military action against the bandits, in co-operation with the Peking government in the event the Chinese authorities prove impotent and no other effective way of attaining the early release of the prisoners was found.

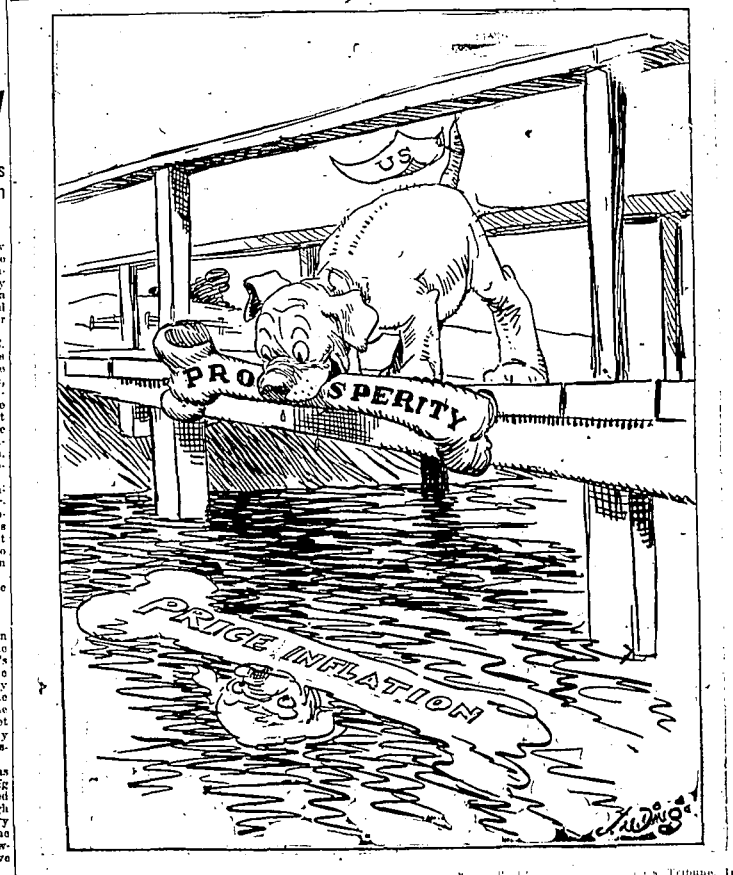

The council of ministers of the various governments represented in Peking is expected to meet tomorrow to discuss course of action.

Acting Secretary of War Davis after a conference with Secretary Hughes announced that the war department was being informed of the situation and was ready to "back up" any plan approved by the council of ministers and the state department.

Urges Agency to Avert Wars on Club Women

General Federation President Concludes Her Address with Reading Harding's Letter

ATLANTA, Ga., May 7. (AP)—In an address which she concluded by reading a letter from President Harding in which he discussed proposed American adherence to the world court of international justice, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs told the federation mid-annual council meeting tonight that "if we believe in the principle of American leadership we must justify an agency to meet far more difficulties before they come to the point of war."

Urging the club women to place discussion of creation of agencies that make laws enforce laws on the highest planes between nations, Mrs. Winter counseled the delegates to "never let politics or personalities interfere."

"We must have a law to outlaw war and the means of carrying out that law," she said.

SUBWAY STAMPEDE SCENE

Short Circuit Starts Fire in Underground Thoroughfare Overpowering 50 Persons by Fumes

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Fifty persons were overcome by smoke during tonight's rush hour when a short circuit started a fire in the east side subway of the Interborough company at sixty-eighth street and Lexington avenue. Fire of this number were made seriously ill and were taken to hospitals. The others were able to go home after emergency treatment.

Passengers of a 2-car train became excited when smoke from the short circuit filled the cars. Many of them smashed windows and fought their way to emergency exits. Although the majority waited until the station at Sixty-eighth street was reached, where 30 were removed by ambulance surgeons and nurses, at Eighty-eighth street 20 more were found overcome by the smoke and then, too, were taken into the air.

LOS ANGELES, May 7. (AP)—A complaint charging Richard Walton Tully, playwright, with driving an automobile while intoxicated, a felony, was issued at the district attorney's office today. Tully surrendered himself when he learned officers were searching for him. He was arraigned in a township justice court and released on his own recognizance until his preliminary hearing set for May 25. The complaint was based on the sworn statement of John S. Filby, who charged his automobile had been struck by one driven by Tully on March 11.

SWINDLERS USE BAD CHECKS TO UPSET MARKET

Authorities Spread Elaborate Net for Operators Back of Plot to Bend Stock Exchange Prices to Own Ends

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Postoffice inspectors, police and private detectives joined hands today to run down and shut a widespread plot to upset the stock market by dumping on it hundreds of orders to buy, backed by worthless checks running into the millions.

Wall street generally attributed the scheme to unscrupulous traders seeking to influence prices for their own ends, although the possibility was not without a certain amount of ground. Some disgruntled person might have thrown the monkey wrench into the gears of the New York stock exchange.

It was obvious, however, that those who worked out the plot had a wide knowledge of Wall street and its ways. Although not a single one of the checks was cashed, their dumping on brokers had a marked effect on today's market. Several brokers, rushing into the exchange with their orders, were bona fide buying orders "at the market" for New York Central, Corn Products and Chile Copper shares, with a sprinkling of other stocks, sent prices sharply up.

Disclosure Turns Tide.

In the meantime, however, New York correspondents for banks on which the forged checks were drawn began to turn down the worthless paper. The brokers who had bought, promptly began to unload and the market stopped. Already uneasy under the recent attack of bear traders and further depressed by acute weakness that developed in the grain and cotton markets, the entire list took the toboggan and most of the shares listed by the big board made new low records for the year before the closing.

The decline did not end until a few minutes before the closing, when a covering movement by bear traders checked the drop. Some shares reacted 1 to 2 points, but practically the entire list closed below Saturday's high, the losses ranging from 1 to 10 1/2 points.

The operators of the swindle, if they took full advantage of their opportunity, made a killing both on the rise and fall, selling short on the brief peak touched before the forgeries were disclosed and then covered and buying for the rise.

The scheme, in which it was sought to involve brokers in Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago as well as in New York, was worked out with meticulous detail, although the forged names attached to the checks were crude. They apparently had been prepared by the same hand, but the conspirator evidently figured on a quick return before the forgeries were discovered.

Nearly 300 of the orders, neatly typed and accompanied in every instance by a cashier's check, have been reported received by brokers here and in other cities.

Exchange officials, however, expressed the belief that many others had been suppressed by brokers who shied to admit they had been victimized.

I. W. W. STRIKE IS CALLED OFF FOR TIME BEING

Leaders of Walkout in Northwestern Lumber Camps Lift Ban and Avid Hunt for Jobs Begins

SEATTLE, May 7 (AP)—Loggers in the state of Washington, called out on strike April 25 by the I. W. W., have been directed to return to work with the further instruction that the re-employment will be only temporary. I. W. W. leaders said today. Approximately 10,000 men were affected by the walkout, which forced the closing of a number of lumber camps and caused others to operate at a greatly curtailed production.

Employment agencies that had been virtually closed down since the strike began, were notified by I. W. W. headquarters that the organization's ban on posting jobs for lumber workers had been lifted. They were doing a thriving business today. Hundreds of men who came to Seattle when the strike was called began leaving for the woods Saturday and the outflow continued today.

A number of the larger employers expressed their intention of refusing re-employment to men known to be members of the I. W. W. The smaller camps, however, hiring men freely, according to information here. Frank B. Baker, chairman of the strike committee for eastern Washington and northern Idaho said the men would return to the woods and strike on the 15th.

It was understood that by this time means would be taken to stop up production of the camps and mills.

GENERAL STRIKE END SEEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7 (AP)—The general strike called by the Industrial Workers of the World April 25 is about at an end in the western states, according to reports received tonight.

The loggers and longshoremen in Washington voted to return to work at San Pedro, Cal., 1200 longshoremen went to work on 50 stevedores.

Shipowners reported the men were returning to work rapidly and the plan to insert workers left to be held up. A leader of the I. W. W. in eastern Washington was quoted as saying the men have been ordered to return to work and "strike on the job" by slowing up production.

Pocatello Students to Play Series Here

Gate City Nine Coming Here for Three Games with Bruins—Close Contests Expected

Arrangements were completed Monday afternoon for the Pocatello high school baseball team to play a three game series with the local high school stars at Lincoln field starting Friday afternoon with a game Saturday morning and one Saturday afternoon. Pocatello was here last year and gave the locals a real battle, and those who know say the team is faster this year than last. Big Erickson, the elongated southpaw of the railroad city team, is still the mainstay in the box, which means that Coach Evans will have his hands full.

The Caldwell series just ended closed the regular schedule of games for the year and from now on all inter-sectional games the season tickets will be void.

The railroad city team has been holding for a series of games with the blue and white team all season, and no doubt are going to try and wipe out the defeats of last year. The closest games of the entire season was with the Pocatello teams at Pocatello, and this year should prove to be about the same.

The Friday game will start at 3:30.

Stairways and Ill-Health

Many women suffer from too many trips up and down stairways.

Ordinary housework taxes their strength with its constant trips to the bed rooms, the upper hallways, etc.

An extension telephone saves steps, averts illness and stops that eternal drain upon vitality which comes from frequent hurrying trips upstairs or down to answer the ringing of the telephone bell.

The cost is small—less than two cents a day in residences. Call the telephone company now and learn how little this step-saving device will add to your monthly bill.

RAILROADS. All in all there is very little ground for the belief that President Gray of the Union Pacific System and H. V. Platt, vice-president of the Oregon Short Line...

At that time Mr. Gray gave definite assurance that the Union Pacific System, of which the Short Line is a part, would build a road from Rogers to Wells...

There has been much talk in Twin Falls over what many persons are pleased to describe as the amount of "bank" offered this city in the matter of railroad construction. There is some ground for such notion...

No business man today regards any project as completed until it is completed and it is a question if the written promise of President Gray of the Union Pacific would add any ounce of strength to the promise already given.

The prospects of a railroad from Rogers to Wells look more promising now than at any time in the history of the Twin Falls country. No single accomplishment has yet come up anything like its equal in importance...

That there may be no hitch of any kind in the matter is devoutly to be hoped, yet it is well at all times to keep in mind that there is some distance still to go between the most honest of intentions and the actual accomplishment of the same.

THE HOUSE OF DAVID. A customer in a neighborhood store was rather enjoying the latest scandal. "Isn't it dreadful?" she asked. Her acquaintance was a busy woman with no leaning for that sort of thing. "Nothing very new about it," she remarked. "I heard rumors of it when I lived in Chicago ten years ago. This apparatus looks alike. Isn't it pleasant to see the spring vegetable?"

"Ten years!" exclaimed the woman, refusing to be diverted. "I wonder why they let it go on so long." "It was told," said the other, "by an evil-minded woman whose conversation I did not care to encourage, and as I know most of such gossip is untrustworthy, I did not believe the little I did hear, and had forgotten about it until this came out. Many people, doubtless, felt that it could not be true. Those tomatoes are really ripe."

It is very easy to creak the knowing eye, to roll the morsel under an anaesthetized tongue. But the continuance of such an evil situation is not alone the fault of one shrewd and vicious man, or of his half-dozen "cowed and superstitious hangers-on."

It is decidedly the fault of the authorities who did not care to investigate too closely the religious community scandal in Michigan, because of the control by the leader of 700 votes. It is the fault of those in the town who did not force the authorities to do their plain duty.

The clean, decent and responsible citizenship of almost any town, if it asserted itself, would soon clean out the rotten spots with the power of the surgeon's knife.

The Light of Western Stars: A Romance by Zane Grey. Illustrations by Irwin Myers.

CHAPTER IX. The New Foreman. Toward the end of the week Stillwell informed Madeline that Stewart had arrived at the ranch and had taken up quarters with Nick Steele.

"Gene's sick. He looks bad," said the old cattleman. "He's so weak an old fellow. He can't lift a cup. Nels says that Gene has had some bad spells. A little liquor would strengthen him up now. But Nels can't force him to drink anything, and he's got to eat some flour in his coffee. Gene's losing his mind, or he's got something powerful strange on it."

Stewart was really ill. It became necessary to send for a physician. Then Stewart began slowly to mend and presently was able to get up and about. Stillwell said the cowboy looked interested and seemed to be a broken man.

Madeline smiled her amusement. It had been impossible for her to fail to observe the more singular behavior. She never went out to take her customary walks and rides without seeing him somewhere in the distance. She was aware that he watched for her and avoided meeting her.

That Stewart loved her Madeline could not help but see. When she discovered this she felt a little surprise and annoyance. Then she interrogated him, and concluded that it was not that Stewart was so different from the comrades, but that circumstances made him stand out from them.

range. They've got to go. Don Carlos is breaking the law of the United States, an' don't it on our property an' with our horses. Hey! I your permission to handle that horse!" "Why, assuredly you have! Stillwell, you know what to do. Alfred, what do you think best?"

"I'll make trouble, Majesty, but it's got to be done," replied Alfred. "Here you have a crowd of eastern friends due next month. We want the range to ourselves then. But Stillwell, if you drive those vaqueros off, won't they hang around in the foothills? I declare they are a bad lot."

"I'll have to be forced off," replied Stillwell, quietly. "The Don Carlos men, but his vaqueros are bad actors. It's just this way: Don Carlos has vaqueros coming and going all the time. They're getting uglier. There have been several blood-scrapes lately. It's only a matter of time till something stirs up the boys here. Stillwell, you know Nels and Monty and Nick."

"Sure I know 'em, an' you're not mentionin' one more particular cowboy in my outfit," said Stillwell, with a dry chuckle and a glance at Stewart. Madeline divined the covert meaning. "Stewart, I see you carry a gun," she said, pointing to a black handle protruding from a sheath swinging low along his leather chaps.

"Why do you carry it?" she asked. "Well," he said, "it's not a pretty gun—an' it's heavy." She caught the inference. The gun was not an ornament. It kept, steady, dark gaze caused her vague idea of what she had seemed cool and unobtrusive about this cowboy changed and the steel floor of the man's nature. As she was his employer, she had the right to demand that he should not do what would be dangerous to that might do. But Madeline could not demand. She felt curiously young and weak, and the five months of western life were as if they had never been. She now had to do with a question involving human life.

"Stewart, do not fully understand what you hint that Nels and his comrades might do. Please be frank with me. Do you mean Nels would shoot upon little provocation?" "Miss Hammond, as far as Nels is concerned, shooting is now just a matter of his meeting Don Carlos vaqueros. As for Nick Steele and Monty, they're just bad men, and looking for trouble."

"How about yourself, Stewart? Stillwell's remark was not lost upon me," said Madeline, prompted by curiosity. "Stewart, I have come to love my ranch, and I care a great deal for my cowboys. It would be dreadful if they were to kill anybody, or especially if one of them should be killed."

"Miss Hammond, you've changed things considerable out here, but you can't change these men. All that's new here is that there is a little trouble. And this Mexican revolution is bound to make rough times along some of the wider passes across the border. We're in line, that's all. And the boys are getting stirred up."

"Very well, then, I must accept the inevitable. I am facing a rough time. And some of my cowboys cannot be checked much longer. But human life is for not any man to sacrifice unless in self-defense or in protecting those dependent upon him. What Stillwell and you hinted makes me afraid of Nels and Nick Steele and Monty. Cannot they be controlled? I want to feel that they will not go gunning for Don Carlos men. I want to avoid all violence. And yet when my guests come I want to feel that they will be safe from danger or fright or even annoyance. May I not rely wholly upon you, Stewart?"

"I want to send Stewart over to fire Don Carlos an' his vaqueros off the range." "I'll make trouble, Majesty, but it's got to be done," replied Alfred. "Here you have a crowd of eastern friends due next month. We want the range to ourselves then."

"What's Pat want here, anyhow?" growled Alfred. "I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her. "I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"What's Pat want here, anyhow?" growled Alfred. "I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

Stewart. It was an instant response, but none the less fraught with consciousness of responsibility. He waited a moment, and then, as neither speech, he bowed and turned down the path, his long spurs clinking in the gravel. "Wal, wal," exclaimed Stillwell, "there's no little job you give him, Miss Majesty."

"It was a woman's cunning," Stillwell said Alfred. "Majesty, what ever actuated you. It was a stroke of diplomacy. Stewart has got good stuff in him. He was down and out. Well, he's made a game fight, and it looks as if he'd win. Trusting him, giving him responsibility, relying upon him, was the surest way to strengthen his hold upon himself. But, Majesty, remember, he's a composite of deer breed and forked lightning, and don't imagine he has fallen you if he gets into a fight."

CHAPTER X. Don Carlos Vaqueros. Early the following morning Stewart, with a company of cowboys, departed for Don Carlos' rancho. As the day wore on without any report from him, Stillwell appeared to grow more uneasy and at nightfall he told Madeline that he guessed there was now no reason for concern.

"Wal, though it's sure amazin' strange," he continued, "I've been 'worried' some about how we was got to fire Don Carlos. But Gene has a way o' doin' things." Next day Stillwell and Alfred decided to ride over to Don Carlos' place, taking Madeline and Florence with them, and upon the return to stop at Alfred's rancho. They started in the cool, gray dawn, and after three hours' riding, as the sun began to get bright, they entered a mesquite grove, surrounding corrals and barns, and a number of low, squat buildings and a huge, rambling structure all built of adobe and mostly crumbling to ruin.

Only one green spot relieved the bald red of grounds and walls; and this evidently was made by the spring which had given both value and fame to Don Carlos' rancho. The approach to the house was through a wide courtyard, bare, stony, hard packed, with bit-ter-berns and watering-troughs in front of a long porch. Several dusty, tired horses stood with drooping heads and bridles down, their wet flanks attesting to travel just ended.

"Wal, dog-gone it, Al, if there ain't Pat Haws's boss Pat out here," exclaimed Stillwell. "What's Pat want here, anyhow?" growled Alfred.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her. "I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

"I'll have you, Miss Hammond," replied Stewart, looking at her.

No one was in sight; but Madeline heard loud voices coming from the house. Stillwell dismounted at the porch and stalked in at the door. Alfred, Fred looked out of his horse, helped Florence and Madeline down, and bidding them rest and wait on the porch, he followed Stillwell.

From the corridor came the rattling of spurs, tramping of boots, and loud voices. Madeline detected Alfred's quick glances. She was annoyed; "Wal, rustle back home, then," he said. The answer came, "No!" Madeline recognized Stewart's voice, and she quickly straightened up. "I won't have them in here," went on Alfred.

"Outdoors or in, they've got to be with us!" replied Stewart, sharply. In the background behind Stillwell and Alfred stood Nick Steele, head and shoulders over a number of vaqueros and cowboys.

"Miss Hammond, I'm sorry you came," said Stewart, bluntly. "We're in a middle here. I've insisted that you and Flo be kept close to us. I'll explain. If you can't stop your ears I beg you to overlook rough talk."

With that he turned to the men behind him: "Nick, take Betty, go back to Monty and the boys. Fetch out that stuff. All of it. Rustle now!"

Grain Trade Reflects Weakness of Stock and Cotton Markets and Bullish Factors Pushed to Background

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—Influenced chiefly by weakness of stocks and cotton, the wheat market today underwent a material new setback in price.

Although an increase of dry weather complaints from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio tended to rally the wheat market at various times, such bullish factors were lost sight of largely in the last part of the day.

Speculators who bought wheat in the early dealings found it difficult to unload at the last, particularly as there was nothing to indicate much demand at the seaboard.

Despite a falling off of 2,200,000 bushels in the visible supply of corn, the price both of corn and oats receded with wheat.

Provisions went decidedly lower as a result of continued big receipts of hog and because of the decline of grain.

GIVE STEPS IN NEGOTIATIONS FOR RAILROAD

Judge Walters and M. J. Swee- ley Tell Kiwanians Whole Story of the Union Pacific's Moves Toward South Line

Successful steps in negotiations that culminated Sunday in the announcement of the purchase of the Union Pacific railway system to build the rail- way line from Rogerson of Wells, Ne- vada, were traced Monday at a meet- ing of the Kiwanis club by Judge A. Walters, a guest, and M. J. Swee- ley, former president of the club. Both Judge Walters and Mr. Swee- ley are identified with the group of Twin Falls citizens through which these negotiations have been carried on during the past several months. Judge Walters, in Salt Lake Saturday, reported to from H. V. Platt, vice president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line, success attending his efforts to bring to the attention of the Kiwanis club the certificate of necessity and convenience for the line issued to the Idaho Central Railroad company, and received ac- ceptance from the Board of the Union Pacific is ready to begin active operat- ions on the undertaking in the im- mediate future.

"Mr. Platt dictated and I later read it out," Judge Walters said. "The Kiwanians," letter addressed to A. L. Swin as president of the chamber of commerce, setting forth a number of suggestions and reasons for the undertaking in the im- mediate future. Mr. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, that his company would build the road from Salt Lake, has been dispatched to Mr. Gray, and we are momentarily expecting his approval of it. It is a plain promise to build the road." Negotiations up to this time have been carried on in secret, both speakers told the Kiwanians, because of the role of the railway officials to avoid general publicity that they would "put out" their own "G" needed rights of way. "The proposition from this point forward," Judge Walters said, is not a matter to be handled by any com- mittee or group of citizens. It is a community affair. It will take hard work, no doubt, to raise the $25,000 needed to take up the option on the Idaho Central's certificate, but it can and will be done. "Twin Falls citizens will not be called upon to raise any money to donate to the project." Purchase of the certificate is the only thing expected of the people here." Mr. Sweeley reviewed the progress in these negotiations since his departure in- creption some months ago when Mr. Platt expressed a desire through D. L. Sullivan, Short Line agent here, to con- sult with a group of citizens relative to the Rogerson-South Line.

PUTS VALUE ON SALMON RIGHTS

Judge Dietrich Decides Settler Must Pay 76 Per Cent of Original Price Plus Interest

Salmon River irrigation project origi- nally water rights, thousands of which were sold in 1902 under contract for $10 each, are worth 76 per cent of the original price, or $39.40 each, plus in- terest at 8 per cent from the date of the last installment of the contract. It has been decided by Judge F. S. Dietrich in federal district court at Boise in the case of the Commonwealth Trust com- pany against Richard Glavin, resident here, in the decision of the commis- sioned Monday by telephone to repre- sentatives of the Salmon River Canal company and to Attorney John W. Gra- ham, counsel for the defendant. In this case, which has been in court for some years, the Commonwealth com- pany, as trustee for the project bond- holders, institute foreclosure action against Glavin, a settler, claiming prin- cipal and interest due in the amount of approximately $65 per acre. Glavin sought cancellation of the entire inter- est charge. The court, fixing the value of the water right at $29.40, added in- terest unpaid since 1912, to bring the total of the award of the Commonwealth company up to $42.50. The decision, un- derstood, does not take into con- sideration the $3 per share that figures in the transaction as the initial pay- ment on each share. The amount of the award is some- what greater than the amount paid by approximately 62 per cent of the pro- ject's settlers under the original settle- ment plan worked out some two years ago. Under the settlement plan, settlers paid for their water rights $12 less the $3 initial payment.

MAYOR GIVES PRAISE TO BOY SCOUT WEEK SCHEME

Idea is One of Greatest Importance and Gives Boys Opportunity of Meeting Practical Problems

That the idea of permitting the Boy Scouts to operate the city for a day is one that is of the greatest importance to the city of Twin Falls, has a practical insight into the affairs of the city at a time when such an education is of the greatest impor- tance, in the opinion of Mayor Shad H. Ingling. Mr. Ingling authorized the following statement Monday night relative to the Scout election and ad- ministration of the city last Saturday: "It is one of the greatest things that has happened in the world for a city in the world for a time when it will be of most value to them and it means that the boys have learned something in a practical way, and they have met some of their own problems. It is something that should be encouraged and I am sure that the Scouts and all those who aided and planned the event are deserving of congratulations and thanks." The Boy Scout week ended Sunday night when the members of the local Scout troops attended church. Statements having special bearing on the Scout movement and its importance formed a part of the sermons.

Whoooping Cough. This is a very dangerous disease, particularly when it strikes under five years of age, but when no pargoric, codine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Take it as directed. If it must run its course, not knowing that it can be cured so quickly, it is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many instances of whooping cough with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.—adv.

COMMISSIONERS GET ACTION ON CITY BUDGET

Will Confine Appropriations to $56,000.00 Figure if People Decide to Oppose Increase in the Tax Levy

As a means of getting the city on an operating basis as quickly as possible the city commission at its regular meeting Monday night decided to begin immediate publication of a budget of about the same size as that of last year, with the expectation of reducing ap- propriations to within the $56,000 re- presented expected revenue, in case the people decide against an increase in the tax levy. The publication of the budget will require four weeks, and in the mean- time the city is left without the ability or authority to issue warrants in pay- ment of ordinary running ex- penses, according to the legal opinion given the commission by City Attorney A. J. Myers. This situation, it was pointed out, is the result of the fact that the new administration was held back a month on account of the second elec- tion. The greater part of the session was occupied with a discussion of the legal- ity of warrants issued last year and an effort to devise a way of paying 1922 warrants held by workmen and others who performed labor or rendered service to the city in other forms.

Discuss Warrants.

For a time it looked as though the city had already issued legal warrants last year, this conclusion being arrived at by a study of the statute providing that the city can not pay more in warrants than its anticipated revenue for any one year. An interpretation by City Attorney Myers of another section of the statu- tes, however, in connection with warrants from a fund not specified for that partic- ular purpose placed the subject in a more favorable light. J. E. Roberts, former commissioner, and who attended the meeting as a spectator, explained that the last administration paid up a $22,000 indebtedness to the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company contract- ed in 1922. Mr. Myers gave it as his opinion that this payment was wrong- fully made and should be deducted, to- gether with $7000 paid in refunding 1923 warrants, from the total of $95,000 of 1923 warrants.

Foreman Appointed.

The request of the highway district for the removal of an irrigation ditch alongside the road near the highway, was granted to Commissioner A. S. All for investigation. On recom- mendation of Commissioner All, Harley Rayburn, who was released from the street car department, was appointed to succeed J. A. Carlson, an employe, at the filtering plant. The city treasurer's report for April was received and approved. A bal- ance of about $6000 cash on hand was shown in the report. The bonds of the newly appointed heads of the various departments were approved. A building permit was granted for the addition to a residence at 451 Fifth avenue north. Routine licenses were granted or refused.

Considerable complaint of railroad car shortage, he said, is still coming from the eastern producing districts but in the main demand for coal is slow nearly everywhere. In various localities mines were reported to be closing down because of lack of mar- ket. Mr. Wadleigh's survey also touched on consuming conditions, declaring that prices in New England for coal were decreasing and congestion in transportation causing. The Great Lakes coal trade, he added, has been delayed in getting under way.

(AP)—Minne- sota's tax of 6 per cent of the value of iron ore mined each year in that state is an occupation tax, the supreme court held today, and therefore valid. Thirty-seven companies controlling substantially the entire output, which constitutes two-thirds of all the iron ore mined in the United States, in- dicated that the tax was imposed upon property, and therefore unlawful. They also attacked the tax as a burden upon interstate commerce, as lacking in uniformity, and as depriving those engaged in the industry of the equal protection of the law.
