SOVIET RAGES AT BRITISH CALL FOR SHOWDOWN

Russian Propaganda Chief Declares English Propaganda Responsible for Murder of Vorovsky at Lausanne

BERLIN, May 11 (AP)—"Vorovsky's assassination is England's bloody answer to Soviet Russia's stand on the Straits question," was the declaration of Karl Reisk, the Soviet chief of publicity, who arrived here today from Moscow.

"English propaganda against Russia," Reisk asserted, "was responsible for the Lausanne murder." "England contends that Russia is spreading bolshevik propaganda in Europe which is damaging and destructive to the world peace. It has yet been proved through our propaganda. Disrespectful English propaganda. The propaganda of Lord Curzon at Lausanne—has, however, produced Vorovsky's death."

SEES FOES IN COLLUSION.

MOSCOW, May 11 (AP)—The assassination of M. Vorovsky, the Soviet representative at Lausanne, on the basis of the British note and the feeling in Russia that Marshal Poch's visit to Poland might mean another international combine against the Soviet republic, created a profound impression in Russian official circles. The public was notified of the death of Vorovsky and the wounding of his colleagues by news items, which are rarely issued in Moscow.

Awaits Tchitcherina's Word.

Russia's reply to the British ultimatum, it was learned today, probably will be delayed until after Foreign Minister Tchitcherina's address before the Soviet congress which has been summoned in special session for Saturday afternoon.

A number of workmen's meetings were held in various cities as a demonstration against the British note. The sentiment as expressed at these meetings is that "England is trying on a war which she does not want."

Forecasts Russian Refusal.

The Soviet government does not desire a break with Great Britain and is willing to confer with the country, but it cannot accept such an ultimatum as that contained in Lord Curzon's recent note, said M. Ganevsky, a deputy minister of foreign affairs, in a speech at a meeting here today.

The meeting passed a resolution protesting against the British note and declaring that Russia is ready, if necessary to meet with any force, any nation, which endeavors to infringe upon its independence.

Ganevsky was speaking at a meeting of the Moscow conference, the members of which had been specially summoned to discuss the British note.

TREATY MAKERS SPEED WORK.

LAUSANNE, May 11 (AP)—The Vorovsky tragedy has not retarded the firm or the delegates to the Near East conference that the conference is dragging out too long and that the delay is paying the price for complications instead of tending toward peace.

The announced conference to Lausanne of M. Alexander, the Greek minister of foreign affairs, in a day or two to serve notice on the conference that it must make a separate peace with Turkey has acted as a stimulant and the word has gone forth that the conference committee must be ready to report early next week. Everybody seems nervous and desirous that the conference continue.

Grand Jury to Make Probe of Deals in Sugar

New Federal Investigation Forecast by Serving of Subpoenas on Several Operators

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Investigation by a federal grand jury of the dealing in raw sugar futures on the New York coffee and sugar exchanges was forecast today when several operators in raw sugar were served with subpoenas by agents of the department of justice.

Federal attorneys investigating the high cost of sugar are expected to affirm to the grand jury that the firm or the appearance before the grand jury. While one of the sugar men subpoenaed would disclose the nature of the summer, the news spread through the exchange and caused a general liquidation of raw sugar futures, prices closing 20 to 25 points lower than yesterday's close.

Spot sugar declined 1 1/2¢ as the news spread and large offerings at 6-8 cents per pound, cost and freight, were made with no takers at the close. The sugar traders had believed the government would not continue its investigation of sugar prices after the federal circuit court had denied its application to enjoin trade in raw sugar on the exchange.

In information could be gained at the office of the federal attorney regarding the nature of the investigation for which subpoenas had been issued. Government attorneys are expected to regard to the government's next move.

Pupils Walk Out Because No Flag Flies Over School

Five Hundred Students Parade Streets of Trinidad, Colorado, in Protest

DENVER, May 11 (AP)—A special to the Post from Trinidad, Colo., says 500 high school students of that city struck today and paraded the downtown section in a demonstration because the school did not fly the American flag every day.

The demonstration followed an address in students yesterday by Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion. According to the Post, Owsley told the students:

"If I were you boys and girls I would not attend a school where they failed to fly the American flag every day."

The flag, according to the Post, was not flying yesterday and the student strike followed. As a result of the demonstration flags today were flying on all the schools in Trinidad and on the court house.

HIGH WINDS HIT MID-WEST TOWN

Galena, Kansas, and Grand Island, Nebraska, Swept by Devastating Storms

GLENA, Kansas, May 11 (AP)—Dunage estimated at several thousand dollars was done by a windstorm which hit Galena tonight. Power lines are down and the city is in darkness. So far as reported no one was injured.

Several houses were unroofed, some business houses in the center section damaged, trees uprooted, the lumber yards virtually razed and telephone poles blown down.

Motor cars standing on Main street were blown up on the sidewalk, and plate glass windows in a dozen or more store fronts shattered by the high winds. The entire front of one building was blown away.

A funnel-shaped cloud appeared from the west, observers said, and swept over the main part of the business district. It did not reach the proportions of a

CAPTIVE URGES ACCEPTANCE OF BANDITS TERMS

Major Pinger Implores Removal of Troops Surrounding the Suchow Brigands' Stronghold; Parleys Proceeding

LONDON, May 11 (AP)—A movement is under way in Peking, says the Daily Mail's correspondent to obtain a loan from the Indian government of 50,000 gurba troops, "to make a clean sweep of the bandit ridden provinces." It is thought in Peking, the correspondent adds, that Indian troops would be less likely to frighten the villagers than white troops.

TIENTSIN, China, May 12 (AP)—Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A., one of the captive passengers of the Suihwan bandit train rail, has sent out a letter from the brigands' stronghold urging "recommending compliance with the outlaws' terms and imploring that government troops be withdrawn."

It is declared the bandits have refused to treat with the commander of the troops surrounding the stronghold because the chief of the outlaws and the army officers have a blood enmity. The commander is said to have executed the brother of the bandit chief, who himself was a bandit leader.

Negotiations are declared to be proceeding somewhat haltingly with Kinghsu general, and if the brigands' demands for troop withdrawal are carried out, it is believed the prisoners soon will be freed.

Americans' Slayers Recognized

Chinese prisoners who have escaped are said to have recognized among the bandit leaders former officers of General Chang Ching-Yao, governor of the province of Hunan in 1920 when he was murdered by 40,000 Chinese. At that time the American

Twin Falls Will Celebrate Epoch-Making Achievements In Southern Idaho's Annals

Short Line's Announcement of Purpose to Build Rogerson-Wells Railroad and Anticipated Endorsement by Voters of Reservoir Project Motif for Community Jollification

EVERYBODY IS INCLUDED IN TWIN FALLS' INVITATION

We want everybody from one end of the Twin Falls county to the other to join with us Saturday night in celebrating the biggest occasion in the history of the tract.

The building of the Rogerson-Wells railroad and the endorsement of the American Falls dam project taken together mark the beginning of a new epoch in the annals of the Twin Falls country.

A hearty invitation to everybody, everywhere to join with us in the celebrating of these two accomplishments is hereby extended.

ARTHUR H. SWIM, President, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

By way of celebration of the successful outcome of the railroad negotiations and the decision of the Oregon Short Line to construct the Rogerson-Wells cut-off and in anticipation of the carrying of the American Falls bond election by a heavy majority the people of Twin Falls and surrounding towns are asked to take part in a general jollification here tonight.

Railroad Bonus to Be Returned

Definite action looking to the return of all checks and pledges in the possession of the Idaho Nevada Holding company, was taken at a special meeting of the directors held Friday night when the following resolution was offered, and a motion adopted:

Resolution offered by Guy H. Shauer, seconded by J. A. Keufer.

Whereas, it appears that the Union Pacific Railroad company have offered to construct the cut-off between Rogerson, Idaho, and Wells, Nevada; and whereas, committees are now at work securing funds with which to purchase the capital stock and assets of the Idaho Central Railroad company to the end that the offer of the Union Pacific Railroad company may be accepted;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that when said committee has successfully negotiated the purchase and transfer of the stock and assets of the Idaho Central Railroad company, that the secretary and treasurer be directed, and he is hereby authorized to return all notes and contributions made to this organization for the purpose of procuring said railroad, to the donors.

Mayor Gives Permission

Special permission has been secured from Mayor Hugin for the use of the necessary street space and its coping off during the program and the dancing to follow. By special arrangements the vote upon the American Falls project will be announced to the crowds as received.

"This is the essence of the contract," said Arthur Swim, president of the chamber yesterday, "and we want everybody to have a full and complete understanding of the entire railroad situation. Our option on the stock of the Idaho Central Railroad, which stock carries with it the corporate control of the American Falls project, which we must gain possession of before May 21. Before that time, and the sooner the better, we must be prepared to deposit the sum of $25,000 with Mr. J. S. Stevens of San Francisco in order to take over the assets covered by the option.

Taking No Chances

"Probably there will be some other expense in connection with the matter of carrying out our part of the arrangement with the Oregon Short Line. Right of way must be secured and a greater or lesser sum must be employed for this purpose. There will be other expenses and it is my opinion that a fund of $50,000 should be raised as a fund with which to meet all requirements. If the entire sum is not used the balance will be returned to the donors but it would be a mistake to take any chances and so far as it is possible to guard against this, none will be taken."

A special meeting of the Idaho Nevada Holding company, at which Asher B. Wilson, a president and C. N. Beatty, treasurer, was held at the chamber of commerce Friday evening and arrangements made looking to the return of all checks and pledges collected in connection with the drive for funds of two years ago.

Neighbors Invited

Invitations to take part in the celebration were sent to Piler, Buhl, Kimberley and all other towns on the tract. Arrangements for heavy attendance have been made.

FLENNER SEES BIG MAJORITY FOR RESERVOIR

Optimism Prevails Throughout Twin Falls Country on Eve of Election on the American Falls Project

Polls open from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m.

Voting places on the Twin Falls south side tract: Buhl, City Hall, Piler, City Hall; Twin Falls, Court House.

The general committee requests that people in the city vote as early in the day as possible so voters from the country will not be delayed.

Those in the city wanting to be hauled to the polls are requested to call phone 540 or 275 and cars will be sent out.

Guy Flenner, manager of the campaign in the Snake river valley for the American Falls project, today received word that the New Sweden irrigation district had paid in $25,000 to apply on its contract for storage at American Falls. The New Sweden district authorized and sold bonds some time ago, said Mr. Flenner, to buy American Falls project and the developments are confident the people in the big district would put it over, has made its first payment. If the project should fail, however, this money will be refunded.

The spirit of optimism in Twin Falls and all over the tract, manifested Friday, on account of the anticipated success of the American Falls reservoir project and the developments as the project moves forward, are a large vote today and a most favorable one for the project.

In response to wires from a number of local newspapers Chairman Flenner Friday sent the following:

"Based on reports from all parts of the big district received during the day, I predict that the big district will vote for the American Falls project a majority of 80 per cent."

"The people in the big district are thoroughly determined to put this project across, the best and surest means of stabilizing conditions and bringing about permanent prosperity. This feeling is especially pronounced on the Twin Falls south side tract where a heavy favorable vote will be recorded."

"There is little question my forecast will be borne out by the count if for these favorable for the polls."

"The Twin Falls spirit is on the job; and when it is, it can't be beat."

Vote on Two Subjects.

Chairman Swim of the general committee, and John W. Graham, head of the Twin Falls committee, urge voters not to forget that they must vote on two propositions today, one the American Falls project, the other the reservoir must be carried by two-thirds majority.

Chairman T. J. Woods, in charge of the transportation arrangements in Twin Falls, has arranged for the voters to take voters to the polls who desire that service. The transportation committee's headquarters, at Magel Bros., can be reached by phone 540 or 275.

A special line of cars, donated by Trask Bros and Magel Bros., will run between Hansen and Twin Falls during the day. Any car cannot be used unless otherwise will be charged to the polls and back free of charge. This service will be in charge of Jack Persson of Trask Bros.

Women Endorse Adjudication of World Ills

General Federation Goes on Record by Unanimous Vote for International Tribunal

ATLANTA, Ga., May 11 (AP)—The resolution endorsing adjudication by orderly judicial procedure of international controversies was adopted today by the general federation of women's clubs, in mid-biennial council session here, without opposition. The convention took this action after a speech by Mrs. Percy V. Penneybacker of Austin, Texas, urging that the whole matter be placed under partnership.

The convention, by this action, carried out the wishes of Mrs. Thomas C. Winter, president, and Mrs. J. C. Winter, vice president, in their specific proposal for American adherence to an international court of justice.

Twelve other resolutions dealing with a variety of subjects related to activities of the federation were adopted unanimously. One, concerning preparation of a plan for working and living conditions for all prisoners.

The proposal to convert the federation into a foundation with a five million dollar endowment which was scheduled to come before the assembly, will be first referred to directors for recommendations, leaders said.

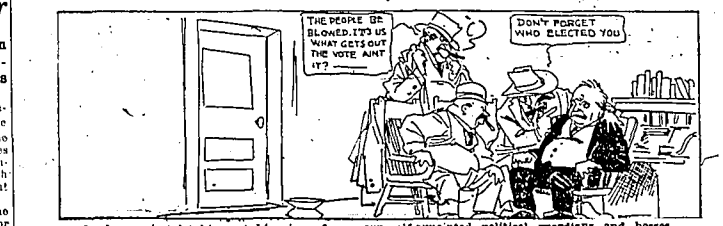

WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH YOUR CONGRESSMAN WHILE HE'S HOME THIS SUMMER?

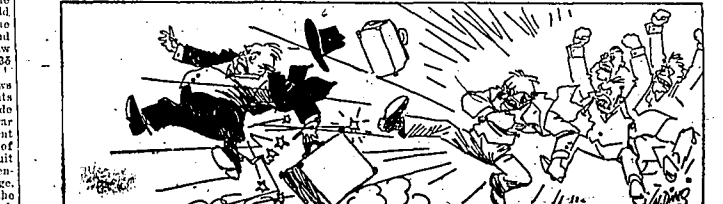

Do you just do nothing at all, as though you and he and the U. S. A. had nothing in common?

Do you and the neighbors ever try getting acquainted with him and talking over your problems?

ACTIVITIES OF BLACKMAIL GANG COME TO LIGHT

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Existence in this city of a vicious band of well-to-do children who have specialized for years in sending to wealthy and socially prominent persons scurrilous letters attacking their relatives and friends was disclosed by District Attorney Banton today, after the fact of the indictment of George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers had leaked out.

Witnesses Take Flight
The district attorney's office already has obtained possession of 17 of the scurrilous letters and more than 100 persons have been questioned by the grand jury which indicted Maxwell, and which still is holding hearings on the developments. A number of witnesses whose stories Mr. Banton was eager to lay before the grand jury, have departed for the Bermuda or other foreign places, unwilling to answer the publicity their connection with the case would be sure to bring.

Use False Addresses
Some of the letters bore fake return addresses, giving the names of such persons as Charles M. Billings, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, and William Butler Duncan. Steps Mr. Banton had already have been taken to obtain the extradition of Maxwell, who is now in Europe.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY

Saturday, May 12th, is the third annual Hospital Day, when some 5,000 hospitals throughout the United States and Canada will join in throwing open their doors to the public and inviting their neighbors to come in and see for themselves how hospitals care for the sick and injured. This is a national movement, having been endorsed by President Harding, Governor Moore of Idaho, and Mayor Hodgkin of Twin Falls.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S LETTER

Mr. Mathew O. Foley, Executive Secretary, National Hospital Day Committee, Chicago, Ill.
My Dear Mr. Foley:
I most heartily extend my good wishes for the most useful results from your efforts. It is especially a pleasure to express my interest in the work of National Hospital Day, which seeks to arouse the largest possible public interest in the work of the country's hospitals and similar institutions.

Mr. Paul Davis, Executive Secretary, Public Health League, Boise, Idaho.
My Dear Mr. Davis:
It is with real pleasure I recommend to the people of Idaho "Hospital Day," May 12th, the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale. The day selected for this celebration is very appropriate.

Chairman of Local Hospital Day Committee, Twin Falls, Idaho.
Dear Sir:
I am happy to recommend to the people of Idaho the observance of Hospital Day as designated and recommended by President Harding and Governor Moore. This is in commemoration and celebration of the birth of Florence Nightingale. As I understand it, the object of the day is to bring the hospitals and the public to a more thorough understanding and appreciation of the work of these institutions for humanity.

THE HOSPITAL AS AN EDUCATOR
When we think of a hospital it seems a long stretch of the imagination to associate it with the idea of a school. It is, however, largely an educational institution.
If one stops to think a moment we realize that hospital work is education in a number of ways. Doctors, nurses, technical workers, patients and the public receive instructions or training in one way or another, directly or indirectly, from the work carried on in a hospital.

Williams Accounts for Three of Ten Home Runs Scored in Philadelphia-St. Louis Game

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (AP)—Several records were broken or equaled at the National league park today when Philadelphia defeated St. Louis, 20 to 14, in a hard hitting contest.

Williams now has 12 circuit clouts for the season and leads both major leagues in this respect. His third home run today was in the left field bleachers, the only time he has ever performed this feat.

St. Louis made 22 hits, which gave the visitors 79 hits for the four game series, beating the record of 59 hits for four contests, made by Boston here recently. The 14 runs made by the Cardinals gives them 47 for the series, beating Boston's mark by one run.

MAN, THE CREATOR

George Pullman's first Pullman sleeper car was so crude that hatchet and nails had to be used in making up the berths.

Pullman's friends, who took the first trip, awakened next morning, fagged out and aching as they had been prize-fighting all night.

After that first trip, which still is remembered vividly by many now living, Pullman's idea was a source of merriment.

All inventions and ideas are crude when they are born. No matter how brilliant your new idea, infinite patience is needed, along with much burning of midnight oil before the crude idea is evolved into polished near-perfection.

The rounded corners of Pullman car vestibules were conceived by a porter. He had wearied of being the target for the wrath of passengers who had struck violently on the former sharp corners when the train rounded a curve.

Porters for many years patiently took the kicks of passengers who had their clothes splashed with water that lured out of Pullman car wash-basins. Then a porter got the idea of projecting the top edges of the wash-basins inward, so that the water was not apt to lurch out no matter how roughly the train rode.

In an almost infinite number of details the Pullman car was improved by the porters until today it is probably that porters have had more to do with giving us the Pullman palace car than the original inventor. The man who uses a device knows more about it than the man who originated it.

Nearly every contrivance that we use in civilization is the result of combined effort of thousands of menials. All humans have the creative instinct, the desire to build and improve. Man is the tool of a great creative force that is at work all through the universe.

The only life that really is worth while is the one that contributes to the progress of humanity. That is the real success.

ANCIENT FEMINISM

Maybe feminism is not so modern, after all. Dr. David Moore Robinson of Johns Hopkins University, a noted archeologist, says that excavations in Asia Minor prove women to have played a leading role in very distant times. He speaks especially of discoveries at Sardis, in ancient Lydia, the realm made famous by King Croesus, who was the Rockefeller or Ford of his time. Many inscriptions have been found in the Lydian language, hitherto unknown, and many works of sculpture and painting have been unearthed. From the testimony of these Dr. Robinson concludes:

"Women were very important in public life in those days as they were in the home. They held public offices. Children took the name of the mother, and not of the father. Women fought in the armies. When we read of modern Turkish women going into parliament, we know they are merely reverting to type."

Thus from one of the oldest of lands, in a region supposed to have been backward as far as women are concerned from the beginning of time, comes a challenge to American feminism.

FOR LACK OF TREES

Says the head of a state forestry association: "Farmers are paying millions of dollars annually for posts that could be raised on the idle acres of their farms." They are paying millions, too, for fuel and for building lumber, that should be grown, with little cost or care, on their own land.

man. "They always were a thrifty lot."

And perhaps this same city man, just because he will not take the trouble to plant shade trees on his lawn, is paying good money unnecessarily for porch and window awnings. Also, he may be buying his children expensive lawn swings instead of raising a tree and a rope swing in the back yard, and he is probably buying large quantities of fruit that he would get for nothing if he would put in a few fruit trees or berry bushes?

The Light of Western Stars A Romance

Madeline ran her head to the extent of forgetting her own name and the nature of the ground in front of her. Presently, she turned again to watch Florence, uncertainty ceased in her mind. The strange fire of the night, the clatter of the branch of her cowboys. There would be fighting—blood—men injured, perhaps killed. Even the thought of violence of any kind hurt her. But perhaps the guerrillas would run in time to avoid a clash with her men. She drew a breath, prayed that she might see his mind flash what she knew of Nels, of Monty, of Nick Steele; and she experienced a sensation that left her somewhat chilled and sick. Then she thought of the dark-browed, freckled Stewart. She felt a thrill drive away the cold nausea. And her excitement augmented.

Madeline's eyes, and it was not all owing to the sting of that raw, burning fire, as she saw Florence—a flying dot in a strange blur. What a daring, intrepid girl! This kind of strength—and age, splendid thought for a weaker sister—was what the West needed in a woman.

The next time Madeline looked back at Florence, she was standing in the open, and going out of sight behind a low knoll. Assured of Florence's safe flight, Madeline put her mind to her own ride and the possibilities awaiting at the ranch. She remembered the fall in getting any of her servants or cowboys on the telephone. To be sure, a window had once broken the wire. But she had little real hope of such being the case in this instance. She rode on, pulling the black as she neared the ranch.

It was perhaps fortunate for her, she thought, that she found the black's speed so she could manage him. She was not very hard to stop. The moment she dismounted, however, he jumped and trotted off. At the edge of the slope, facing the corral, he halted to lift his head and snuff the air. She was sure, as she placed her foot on the ground, that she was being watched and dashed down the lane.

Madeline, prepared by that warbling whistle, tried to fortify herself for a new and unexpected situation; but as she espied an unfamiliar company of men, she never saw any more of the men leading from the foothills she felt the return of fears gripping at her like cold hands, and she fled precipitously into the house.

CHAPTER XI

A Band of Guerrillas

Madeline bolted the door, and, flying into the kitchen, she told the scared servants to shut themselves in. Then she ran to her own rooms. It was only a matter of a few moments for her to close and lock her door. She had even as she was fastening the last one in the room she used as an office a clattering roar of hoofs seemed to swell up to the front of the house. She caught a glimpse of wild, shaggy horses and ragged, dusky men. She had never seen any creature that resembled these horsemen. Vaguely, had grace and style; they were fond of lace and glitter and fringe; they dressed their horses in silvered, trappings. But the riders now tramping into the driveway were uncouth, lean, savage. They wore guerrilla's band of the raiders who had been harassing the border since the beginning of the revolution. A second glimpse assured Madeline that they were not all Mexicans.

The presence of outlaws in that band brought home to Madeline her real danger. She remembered what she had seen at the Rio Grande. These flying bands, operating under the excitement of the revolution, appeared here and there, everywhere, in remote places, and were gone as quickly as they came. Mostly they wanted money, but they were also interested in things, and unscrupulous women had suffered at their hands.

Madeline, hurriedly collecting her securities and the considerable money she had in her desk, ran out, closed and locked the door, crossed the pass to the opposite side of the house, and entering again, went down a long corridor, trying to decide which of the many unused rooms would be best to hide in. And before she made up her mind she came to the last room. Just then a clattering of hoofs or window in the direction of the kitchen and shrill screams from the servant women in the house.

She entered the last room. There was no lock or bar upon the door. But the room was large and dark, and it was half full of piles of alfalfa hay. Probably it was the safest place in the house; at least, it was the only one that was not a hiding place. She dropped her valuables in a dark corner and covered them with loose hay. That done, she felt her way down a narrow aisle between the piled-up bales and presently crouched in a niche.

With the necessity of action over for the immediate present, Madeline became conscious that she was quivering and almost breathless. Her skin felt tight and cold. There was a weight on her chest; her mouth was dry, and she had a strange tendency to swallow. She heard the clatter of the horse's hooves from her. In the intervals of silence between these sounds she heard the squeaking and rustling of mice in the hay. A mouse ran over her hand.

She listened, waiting, hoping, yet unwilling to hear the clatter of the branch of her cowboys. There would be fighting—blood—men injured, perhaps killed. Even the thought of violence of any kind hurt her. But perhaps the guerrillas would run in time to avoid a clash with her men. She drew a breath, prayed that she might see his mind flash what she knew of Nels, of Monty, of Nick Steele; and she experienced a sensation that left her somewhat chilled and sick. A second glimpse assured Madeline that they were not all Mexicans.

The presence of outlaws in that band brought home to Madeline her to another, finding too late that she had chosen with poor judgment. The position of the bushes had drawn her closer to the front of the house rather than away from it, and just before her were horses, and beyond a group of excited men. With her heart in her throat Madeline crouched down.

A shrill yell, followed by running and mounting guerrillas, roused her hope. They had sighted the cowboys and were in flight. Rapid thumping of boots on the porch told of men hurrying from the house. Several horses dashed past her, not ten feet distant. One rider saw her, for he turned to shout back. This drove Madeline into a panic. Hardly knowing what she did, she began to run away from the house. Her feet seemed leaden. She felt the same horrible powerlessness that sometimes came over her when she dreamed of being pursued. Horses with shouting riders streaked past her in the shrubbery. There was a thunder of hoofs behind her. She turned aside, but the thundering grew nearer. She was being run down.

But she did not become unconscious to the extent that she lost the sense of being rapidly borne away. She turned to look at the guerrillas when her faculties began to return. The motion of the horse was no longer violent. For a few moments she could not determine her position. Apparently she was upside down. Then she saw that she was facing the ground, and that she had her head buried in a pile of alfalfa hay. She could not move a hand; she could not tell where her hands were. Then she felt the touch of soft leather. She saw a high-topped Mexican boot, wearing a blue-silver spur, and the reeking flank and legs of a horse, and a dusting of straw. Her eyes were shut, and she felt motion and pain only dully.

After what seemed a thousand weary hours some one lifted her from the ground and laid her upon the ground. She was gradually, as the blood left her head and her arms, and a dusting of straw, she felt the touch of soft leather.
