BOMB PLOT SUSPECT IS IN CUSTODY

Information Given by Former Colonists in Russia Leads to Arrest of Lerner in the Wall Street Explosion Case

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—The Wall street bomb explosion was recalled again tonight when police arrested Noah Lerner, 23, an electrician, on a charge of homicide in connection with the disaster which killed more than 30 persons on September 16, 1919.

Lerner is charged with having hired the wagon that carried the explosives to Wall street, the police announced.

— Increases Excuse. Orino Lark.

The information that brought his arrest was said to have been given to the district attorney by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyce of Baton Rouge, La. They returned recently from a Kuzbas colony in Russia where they had found conditions entirely different from what had been represented to them by its New York agents. Several officers of the Kuzbas were indicted on the strength of their accusations.

Lerner was a resident of the Kuzbas colony in Russia to which the Boyces and their two children were sent from New York, it was said, and they were reported to have told the district attorney that he had been the driver of his part in the Wall street tragedy.

— Eludes Immigration Bars.

Lerner, it was said, slipped into the United States on the Homeric, which arrived on May 3, last, despite the vigilance of detectives both here and in various European ports, despite his sailing in a "little red wagon," but refused to say anything further about the explosion.

WOMAN'S NUDE BODY FOUND.

ST. LOUIS, May 12 (AP)—The nude body of an unidentified woman about 40 years old was found floating in the Mississippi river here today. The body was admitted to the morgue and it is expressed the belief that the woman had been murdered.

One Man Severely Hurt and Two Others Injured by Wind-storm in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 12 (AP)—One man may die, two are less seriously injured, it was said, as a result of a tornado which struck Edenwold, a small town five miles from here this afternoon and evening with such force to the former Old Hickory Federal plant, two miles ahead. The total damage is estimated at $100,000.

SOVIET MAKES EXCUSES FOR SEIZURE OF BOAT

Reply to British Note Maintains Legal Right to Establish 12-Mile Territorial Zone.

LONDON, May 21, (AP)—The note from soviet Russia in reply to the British protest against the seizure of the trawler James Johnson, was given out in textual form today by the British News Agency's London office.

The note which is signed by Maxim Litvinoff, assistant soviet commissar for foreign affairs, maintains that Russia has a legal right to establish the twelve mile zone of territorial waters, which the trawler was alleged to have violated. It asserts that Great Britain herself in practice recognizes various zones exceeding three miles and declares that the principle of wider limits is gaining ground in international practice, instancing the establishment of a four-mile limit by all the Scandinavian countries. Fishing around Iceland, it adds, is protected by even wider zones.

Mr. Litvinoff recalls that as far back as 1883, the institute of international law proposed adopting six miles as the limit, but that the principle of wider limits is gaining ground in international practice, instancing the establishment of a four-mile limit by all the Scandinavian countries. Fishing around Iceland, it adds, is protected by even wider zones.

In summing up, the note insists that Russia is in no wise infringing international law by adopting the twelve-mile limit, but that she will not refuse to join in a conference of all the interested states to draft international regulations binding upon all.

AMERICANS HELD CAPTIVE BY BANDITS

MAJOR ROBERT A. ALLEN, of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., and J. R. Powell, correspondent for a Chicago newspaper and editor of the Far East Review, of Shanghai, were among the eight Americans captured by Chinese bandits, near Tientsin, and held for ransom.

PROCLAIMS SUGARLESS DAY.

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Mayor Hylan issued a proclamation today, urging the public to observe Monday of each week as "sugarless Monday" until the price of sugar has been reduced within reason. Proprietors of restaurants, hotels and other public places of refreshment were asked to induce their patrons to forego the use of sugar on the specified day.

BRIGANDS HOLD CAPTIVES WHILE POWERS STORM

Expiration of Diplomats' Ultimatum to Peking Government Brings Bandits' Hostages No Nearer Liberation

PEKING, May 12 (AP)—In the Shantung hills back of Lincheng are, according to the latest available information, 14 men and two women—foreigners—along with an unknown number of Chinese, who have been held almost a week by Chinese bandits who raided the Shang Hai-Peking express early last Sunday morning and kidnapped the passengers.

Herein Peking a federal government, admittedly almost powerless in the face of wholesale brigandage throughout the province, has been striving for a week to meet the demands of the diplomatic representatives of the powers for the release of their nationals, but so far without result.

Tonight at 12 o'clock the ultimatum of the diplomats to the Peking government expired and the bandits still are holding many of their captives. Each day from now on until they are freed Peking with its empty treasury, faces an increasing indemnity and added penalties for its failure to protect the lives, safety and property of foreigners.

— Fatality Confirmed. One man died in the bandit raid on the night express at Sushow. He was Joseph Rathman, a British subject of Roumanian parentage, and a reckoning still is to come on that score.

Upwards of 30 other foreigners were dragged from their homes and marched off into the hills in the thin night clothing in which they lay when the express struck the right of way that had been torn up by the marauders.

Two of these are American army officers, Majors Roland Finger and Robert Allen of Manila; other Americans are J. B. Powell, publisher of Shang Hai; Leon Friedman and L. E. Solomon, business men of Shang Hai.

Despite the embarrassment of Peking the stern demands of the diplomats' camps and the rage of the foreign communities the bandits hold firm in their hill retreat, a plateau back of Lincheng. For days government troops surrounded the place and the bandits threatened dire consequences to the prisoners if government hounds continued to sing over their heads.

Land owners of the Snake river valley, by their authorization of the American Falls irrigation district's $2,750,000 bond issue for purchase of storage water rights, at an election Saturday made certain the construction by the United States reclamation service of the American Falls reservoir, at American Falls, Idaho, to be built at an estimated cost of $10,000,000 and to impound 1,500,000 acre feet of Snake river waters.

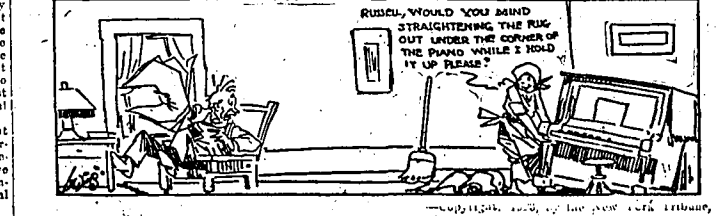

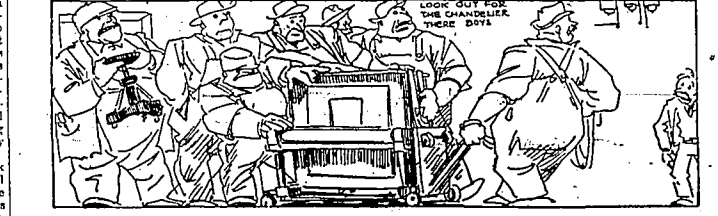

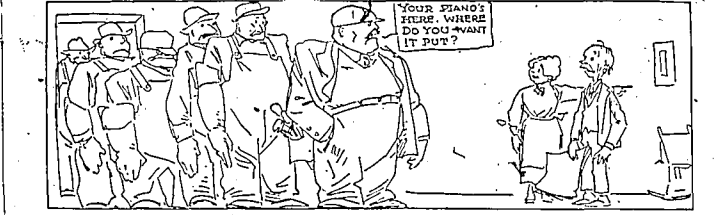

POLICE ROUND UP REDS

Twenty Alleged Members of T. W. W. Taken in Los Angeles Harbor District Raid

LOS ANGELES, May 12 (AP)—Twenty alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World were arrested today in a harbor district police raid, conducted, according to chief of Police Louis D. Tarkenton, in conformity with the announced determination of authorities to hunt radical activities in connection with the T. W. W. maritime strike.

Among the men arrested, all of whom were being held without bail tonight, were P. Gordon, reputed general chairman of the strike committee at the harbor, and H. C. Duke, said to have been arrested four times under the criminal syndicalism act and Vit Liberty under $10,000 bail at the time of his arrest today.

IF WE EVER GET RICH WE'RE GOING TO ESTABLISH A GYMNASIUM WHERE SEDENTARY PIANO MOVERS CAN GET SOME EXERCISE

Results Signal Jubilation

Announcement of the election result was the signal for a community celebration, in the course of which there was raised by popular subscription more than $1,000 toward the $2,750,000 fund for purchase of terminals and right of way for a railroad to connect Twin Falls with transcontinental lines at Wells, Nevada, which the United States reclamation service announced its purpose to build. Delegations of citizens from Boise, Jerome, Buhl and other Idaho cities participated in the celebration here, and the spirit of jubilation found a vent in open air dancing with accompaniment of hand music. Promotion of the railroad and reservoir projects have been closely inter-related.

Removes Last Barrier

Construction of the American Falls reservoir has been held in abeyance by the reclamation service for almost three years, pending the working out of a plan by which the established irrigation projects might meet their payments for impounded water. Reclamation service representatives have announced that there is available for immediate expenditure on the project federal funds amounting to $1,000,000, and that additional appropriations have been made by congress for the undertaking.

One of World's Wonders

The reservoir will inundate 83,000 acres including the entire town of American Falls, necessitating its removal to higher ground. There will be only three comparable reservoirs when completed to its full capacity of 2,000,000 acre feet, one at the Ephraim, one on the Nile and the one created by the Gatun dam at Panama.

PAKERS INCREASE WAGES.

PORTLAND Ore., May 12 (AP)—Increases in wages amounting to from 7 to 15 per cent for all plant employees were announced today by Swift & Co., Portland packers, through the company manager, B. S. Barnes. The company announced also that all male employees who have been with the company continuously for five years and all women employees for three years would be given an annual vacation of one week with pay.

RAILROAD FUND IS GIVEN BOOST AT CELEBRATION

Citizens Jubilating Over Success of Road and Reservoir Projects, Subscribe $16,900 in an Hour

The sum of $16,900 was raised by subscription at Twin Falls open air celebration meeting at Main and Telephone Saturday night as the first step in the drive for $50,000 with which to clear the way for the beginning of construction by the Union Pacific of the Hagerman-Wells railroad.

The meeting began immediately after the receipt of reports that the American Falls bond issue of $2,750,000 had been carried by a vote of about 10 to 1, and hundreds of persons, including delegations from Boise and Jerome, and several surrounding towns, were present anxiously awaiting the outcome of the first part of the drive.

The affair was opened by John W. Graham, chairman, who announced that $25,000 is to be raised with which to obtain the certificate of convenience and necessity and $25,000 more which, it is estimated, will cover the cost of obtaining the right of way for the new road. Mr. Graham was followed by Mayor Shad L. Hodgkin, M. J. Sweeney, Guy Flesher, R. E. Shupler and Milo Thompson, editor of the Boise Statesman, each speaker making brief remarks on behalf of the drive.

Crowds Interested. When Mr. Graham marshalled his forces for the beginning of the drive the old time Twin Falls spirit came to the fore, and the raising of the certificate amount mentioned required but little over an hour.

Subscriptions of $500 were first requested. The First National bank was the first to pledge this amount and the other two local banks and eight firms or individuals followed with like amounts. The limit then dropped to (Continued on Page Twelve.)

Fort Worth City Commissioner and Two Firemen Injured when Flames Destroy Block

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 12 (AP)—Fire and Police Commissioner J. H. Alderman and two firemen were injured tonight when flames wiped out an entire block in the business district, the main buildings of which were occupied by the Galbert garage. The loss is estimated at $150,000 to $200,000.

HARDING CONGRATULATES BOY SCOUTS ON SUCCESS

President Commends Attainment of 600,000 Membership and Urges Setting New Goal at 1,000,000

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, today made public a letter from President Harding congratulating the organization on having reached the 600,000 membership mark and urging continuation of the campaign for 1,000,000 members, more than 70,000 of whom already have been recruited.

The president, it was stated, has sent personal letters and "annual roundups" to members of each of the 259 local councils, which already have obtained a net increase of 25 per cent in their membership.

"I am keenly anxious," said the president, "to do all in my power to extend the influence of the Scout program, and you have worked out your program in such a way that have actually learned by doing" and in a natural manner acquire that attitude of mind which makes a Scoutmaster a leader, not a mere manager, but one who is not only a participant but also a contributor to the well-being of the organization.

RUSSIANS HEAR CALL TO STAND FIRM IN CRISIS

Soviet Foreign Minister Puts Blame on Allies for Lausanne Tragedy; Waits for Expected Armed Attack

MOSCOW, May 12, (AP)—M. Tchitcherin, the soviet foreign minister, dressed in the uniform of a member of the red army and wearing a red decoration, was the chief speaker at a great meeting held in a theatre here today.

The theatre was crowded to the doors, while in the streets thousands who had taken part in a great demonstration listened to speakers from motor trucks and balconies, all of whom made reference to what they termed the scar threat against Russia in the British note; in the assassination of Vorovsky at Lausanne and in other recent national developments.

Referring to Vorovsky, M. Tchitcherin said:

"This is a symptom of the general European situation. The direct responsibility rests with the Swiss government which took no preventive measures, while the moral responsibility is on England, France and Italy, who originally invited the Russian delegation in Lausanne."

Calls British Note Insolent

"We are getting telegrams that British warships are already in the White sea; perhaps by now they have opened hostilities against our ships."

The note contains false facts and messages improperly deciphered, but the chief point must be considered the eastern question. We must reply calmly and firmly. Russia will not go back a single step before the demand; we therefore offer a compromise. We are ready to discuss the losses sustained by British citizens in 1920, but we will render a bill to England for all claims England had during the intervention in the North. We desire peace, and do not want a break, but we will wait until the enemy attacks us."

Red Army Ready

The foreign minister was followed by War Minister Fruntze who told the cheering throng that Russia wanted peace, but the red army was ready, if necessary.

"If war comes, it will be a long one; it will delay the building up of our country for many years, but the red army, which wants peace, will carry out its duty until the end."

He stated that perhaps that more than non-writing was going on in the border states, while the border atmosphere was thickening. These states would be the first to feel the brunt if war came.

Leo Kameneff, the acting premier and president of the Moscow soviet government, paid tribute to Vorovsky. The bullet which killed him, he said, was affected not only by Vorovsky, but against the soviet government, the communist party and the entire labor movement.

Interprets Soviet Stand

M. Bucharin, head of the left wing of the soviet central committee, in more intelligent tone, said that the capitalist powers constituted a barbarous civilization. "We are telling them to go to hell," he shouted. "We will not sell our proletariat even if they send more warships."

The meeting adopted a resolution to send a letter to J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the labor opposition in the house of commons, declaring that Russia would not yield in a situation, but was ready to come to an agreement if England was ready to negotiate, and also a letter to Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the league of nations relief in Russia, asking him to use his influence against a break and possible war.

The radio dropped sharply today, particularly in private trading. Some stabilization in trading set in later.

KILAUEA IN TURMOIL

HILO, Island of Hawaii, T. H., May 11, (AP)—Thomas Heles, superintendent of the Hawaii National Park, today reported ceaseless activity of the Kilauea volcano. The floor of the fire pit, he said, is a sea of seething fire, the lava pouring in at the rate of a million cubic yards a day. The superintendent declared that the present activity indicated a large eruption.

FORGES GRAVE CHARGE

NEW YORK, May 11, (AP)—Arrested at a chorus girls' booking office, Henry Freeman, who said he was formerly a director for a film corporation, was held in $10,000 bail today charged with securing women for immoral purposes. Florence Bussey, a film actress, preferred the charges.

Projected Airship Service

The project for an airship service between Spain and Arrention has progressed so far that airship stations are being erected at Seville and Buenos Aires. The stations are enormous circular sheds revolving under electric power so that an air liner may be housed safely no matter how hard the wind is blowing, or from what direction.

The ships to be used will have nine motors and carry 40 passengers, in addition to the officers and crew, and will accommodate also 11 tons of baggage and mail.

A trip is contemplated each day weekly, the westward trip occupying three days and the eastward four days and six hours.

Ruth Will Prosecute Accuser

Mrs. Ruth Dolores Dixon

When Dolores Dixon, a pretty New York girl, entered suit for $50,000, alleging Babe Ruth, home-run king of the New York Yankees, was the father of her unborn child, Ruth, backed by his loyal wife, denied the charge, asserting he had never even seen the girl and that he was the victim of blackmail.

When the suit was about to come to trial Ruth's attorney learned that a man who had formerly lived in an apartment where the girl had a room could bar the blackmail plot. When the attorney got an order from the court to examine the man before trial the girl hastily withdrew her suit. Ruth has placed the matter in the hands of the district attorney of New York, asking prosecution of all involved.

SHIPPING BOARD INCREASES WAGE

Marine Workers to Receive 12 to 20 per cent Advance to Meet Inland Situation

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Increases of from 12 to 20 per cent in the wages of seamen were announced by the shipping board today, effective May 14, to meet the labor situation created by the continued surge of industrial activity ashore.

While not meeting entirely the demands of the men as presented by the International Seamen's Union, the new scales with changes in working conditions announced at the same time were said to be acceptable to representatives of that organization and to remove whatever probability there may have been of concerted coercive action.

The board acted on the report of a special committee headed by Commissioner O'Connor, which was appointed May 2 after the union filed a summary of the association asserting the present scale was out of line with present economic conditions.

Members of the board were informed at the same time that the constant decrease in percentage of American citizens among the crews could be traced to dissatisfaction as to compensation.

That the board's committee recognized that factor was seen in its statement that increased wages would be expected to solidify the support of "real American seamen," which was declared to be essential to the maintenance of an efficient force.

Moroccan Girls Marry Early

In Morocco, as in most Mohammedan countries, the native girls are married at an extremely early age, often before they are fifteen, and it is not uncommon for them to have been divorced at twenty.

Divorce proceedings in Morocco merely consist of a friendly talk between the woman's husband and her father.

An arrangement is made by which he returns to her parents, the husband often paying compensation to the father. The same woman will probably soon be married again to another Moor, and will take it all as a matter of course.

Moorish weddings are very interesting affairs. The actual ceremony takes place at midnight, but the celebration lasts for some days, particularly in the case of the better class of Moors. The festivities take the form of much feasting, dancing, music and the firing of salutes from the long native rifles. Friends come from all the surrounding districts, rigged out in their brightest and best attire.

FISH PLANTING ENDANGERED BY FOREST FIRES

Expensive Work is Undone by Flames That Reduce the Naturally Excellent Fishing Streams to Barren Waters

OGDEN, May 12.—A vigorous program of fish planting in national forest waters has been in effect for several years, states District Forester R. H. Rutledge. Last year for example in the intermountain region over four and one-half million fish were put out. Work on this scale requires the expenditure of much time and money, and it is neither fair to the sportsman or to the taxpayer that it should be undone. Forest fires are perhaps the quickest and surest means of ruining this labor and also of reducing naturally excellent fishing streams to barren waters. After a forest fire the character of the mountain streams is entirely changed from a stream of clear cold water to a shallow muddy wash running with dirty warm water. Not only is the fishing ruined but the stream becomes unplantable until years of natural re-vegetation restore the original conditions. In some parts of this intermountain region the process of destruction has gone so far that it seems impossible to restore these conditions for scores of years. Fires in this region are due very largely to human carelessness, especially those that occur near streams for lightning as a rule hits the ridge tops.

Greater care is needed. Nearly 300 fires were caused by human carelessness last year, most of them in the rich hunting and fishing land of southern Idaho and western Wyoming. Far too often the sportsman himself was to blame. "Safe" fires and fires that were "out" were frequent offenders, as were the smokers with their cigars, cigarettes and pipes. All forest users must learn the most particular care with fires in dry woods, as there is an ever present danger that they will destroy the fishing and hunting that attracts them to the forest, to say nothing of the destruction of timber itself and the watershed cover that means so much to the irrigated farms in the valleys below.

SUNDERLIN ORGANIZES IDAHO'S BORAH VOTERS

Burley Attorney Launches League to Support Senator Either for Re-election or for Presidency

BURLEY, May 12.—Attorney Charles A. Sunderlin of Burley, has launched the Idaho League of Borah Voters. More than 1000 letters have been sent to prominent men and women of Idaho—Republicans, progressives, and many democrats, inviting them to join the Borah league, and actively participate in its organization. State, county and precinct organizations will be perfected. Organization work, it is suggested, will be vigorously instituted in every county of the state. County campaign managers and precinct captains will be selected. Every voter in the state will be solicited to become a member of the Borah league.

The letter from Attorney Sunderlin, which has been sent broadcast over the state, in part reads:

"The inspiration (for the league) is the faultless leadership of Idaho's distinguished senator and international statesman, and our belief that the people of Idaho are desirous of manifesting in some unusual way their devotion to their great champion who has so unswervingly represented their greater interests, and so fearlessly pointed the way for national realization.

"We want you to join us as one of the charter members of the Idaho League of Borah Voters, and hope you will assume a position of influence in the league's affairs. And when our organization is complete, we want as members all voters of the state who favor the re-election of William E. Borah to the United States senate, or for that matter, his election as president. We want all voters to stand together who believe in the principles of American government represented by Senator Borah.

"The necessities for the Borah league should be obviously apparent to all citizens of the state who believe in American principles of government, and who have a reasonable appreciation of the value of Senator Borah to the state and nation.

"Senator Borah is more than a political asset to the people of the state of Idaho, more than a political asset to the republican party. His is a personality that electrifies the nation with the brilliancy of his statesmanship, and his character is a tower of strength to vitalize the moral fiber of our people. His grasp of political problems is so fundamental that his leadership points the way for national greatness—the preservation of the constitutional government, freedom from foreign political alliances and a vitalized Americanism."

WESTERN PACIFIC REPORTS REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Annual Statement Shows 5.6 Per Cent Gain in Freight Traffic but Decline in Passenger Revenue

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12, (AP)—The seventh annual report of the Western Pacific Railroad company was made public at its general office here Friday. It showed an increase in freight revenue for 1922 of $392,323, or 5.50 per cent and a decrease in passenger revenue of $174,330 or 7.50 per cent. The loss in passenger business and the fact that freight traffic did not increase in a much larger ratio is account for in the report in the interrupted service due to strike conditions during July, August and September of last year.

Again the Twin Falls country has vindicated its claim to the right to be regarded as a favored section of one of the most enterprising and potentially important states in the West.

Some years ago the strip of Utah in point of population and today there are wholesale houses in Satt Lake which do a larger volume of business in Idaho than in Utah.

Southern Idaho has added dollars per acre to every acre of her rich farm lands overnight by reason of the action of her people with respect to the American Falls Dam and as a result of the decision of the Oregon Short Line to construct for this particular section an outlet to the Coast via the markets of Nevada for the product of Twin Falls country farms.

The American Falls dam, together with the new railroad, will lift the Twin Falls country out of the rut and the effect is already beginning to make itself felt.

There is nothing extraordinary about the fact, nothing over which to grow unreasonably excited. Yet the conviction that all is well is being accepted and a note of warm thanksgiving is not out of place as we view the prospect.

CRIME WAVE REEDES

Where is the gunman, whose deeds lately were filling the front pages of the newspapers? Where are the bank robbers, the pay-roll robbers, the hold-ups and murders? There is still one occasionally, but other and more peaceful events crowd the news columns.

A city that has been particularly cursed by crimes of violence reports that the "crime wave" has been gradually receding for the last two years, and is now at low ebb. The decrease in major felonies such as burglary, robbery and automobile stealing is startling. It is so almost everywhere.

Greater alertness of the police and severity of the courts have something to do with it. It may be, also, that the crime wave was a sort of hold-over from the war, and dies out as the war passions die. But the new wave of prosperity, coming after a period of depression, is certainly a big factor.

THE AIR FLIVVER

More important to the ordinary citizen, perhaps, than the record-breaking flight of American aviators across the continent without a stop is the flight of a French aviator across the English channel.

He made the round trip in a tiny airplane weighing less than 400 pounds—almost light enough for a strong man to carry—on two gallons of gasoline. The time going and coming was six hour and three-quarters.

At the price of gasoline and oil in this country, the cost of that trip from England to France and back, across the stormy and historic channel, was about 60 cents.

There is a hint of what flying may hereafter, with everybody who cares about it keeping his own little plane in his own little hangar, and going where he pleases at will, with less expense than he is put to now for automobile travel.

There is a hint, too, that somebody else may beat Henry Ford in seizing the biggest manufacturing opportunity of the future.

MOTHERS' DAY

By JAMES N. FLOYD.

Today is Mother's Day. It is a day that can be sacredly observed by old and young—a day when we should turn our thoughts backward down the pathway of years and step by step retraced them thinking of the love, devotion, protecting care and sacrifices she made for us in life's journey.

No, you can't count them, you can't measure them, you can't even understand them, but you know there never was a time, from your childhood to the present or until the great world-wide death took the most precious gift of the world from you, that mother did not share your joys, your sorrows, your successes, your failures, and at all times that sympathetic understanding that none but she could give.

When you were a baby she nurtured you tenderly, she taught you the first letters that she might give you the care and rest necessary to make you strong and healthy. In your childhood days she shared your little joys, played games with you, kissed the hurts, mended your toys and made your days happy.

When you were a mother who went with you when you trudged to school for the first time and it was she who helped you read the little lessons. Her hand joined the fingers that sought to write and encouraged your efforts. And on up through the grades it was mother to whom you went with your problems and she always understood. In your high school days she showed the deepest interest in your studies and your progress and her love inspired you to better efforts.

When you were leaving for college it was mother who walked arm in arm with you up and down the depot platform telling you of her expectations and how proud she would be when you had won success and then she bade you a cheerful good-bye, leaving only her sweet smile in your memory while she went home and wept sad tears because she had lost you.

And in the years that have passed, from home to friends, Mother's love has followed you out in the world, shedding its helpful influence in your life, rejoicing in your successes, sympathizing in your failures and all the while believing, in it has been other than ever believe, her letters have encouraged you, her remembrances on your birthday breathed forth her love and within her heart she ever clung to the thought that you were a part of her life and would succeed.

No matter how far from home you have gone, no matter even if you have strayed, that love only a mother can give has followed you. Her prayers are a fervent petition for your guidance and her love radiates forth like a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night along your path. The world may judge you quickly, harshly and unjustly but the one who will judge you only through the light of love, is Mother.

Even though her soul may have been called into the great beyond and you can no longer see her letters and voice; her earthly love and caresses, is it too much to believe that from a higher throne she is looking down, watching over you, still praying for you and through that unmeasurable space sending forth her love to touch your life and make it better.

Mother may not be old but if you will remember her today you will make her happy. It may be she is in the sunset of life, her hair white, her eyes growing a little dimmer each day, her strength failing, but as she sits in the gloaming her thoughts are with you, her love surges stronger as she thinks of the little things you have done to make her life brighter and easier and today she will be thinking of you all the day, yearning for you and calling for your thoughts with all her soul.

For this is Mother's Day.

REVELATIONS OF MR. CONOCO —the most contented motorist in six states!

"Far be it from me— To boast about the quick pick-up and mileage I'm getting these days. Naturally, I think pretty well of my car but candor compels me to hand a fair share of credit to the gas I'm using. "If you haven't tried Conoco—well, your car hasn't had the chance to show itself, that's all! "Conoco has a constant horsepower equivalent that you can rely on. It gets the full power your motor was designed to give. What's more, it does all the other things you expect of a good gasoline— instant start, quick pick-up and the full quota of miles per gallon. "No fancy frills about Conoco, either—just clean, dependable, nicely balanced fuel that keeps the carburetor happy even on a thin mixture. "One point, particularly, that I appreciate about Conoco is that it's available in practically every town and city in these mountain states."

NO NEW FACTS COME TO LIGHT IN MOUNT CASE

Investigators Seek 41 Former Students Who Left North- western University South- after Missing Man Disappeared

CHICAGO, May 12. (AP)—Investigation of the supposed death of Leighton Mount, freshman student at Northwestern university, who disappeared after the 1921 class rush, turned today to hunt for 41 former students who left the university within four months after Mount disappeared.

Three of the forty-one and a member of the present sophomore class were brought to the state's attorney's office for questioning and subpoena servers dispatched to hunt the others. With the grand jury in recess until Monday, the chief development today was a statement by State's Attorney Crowe that some one is "covering up" and that the inquiry is far from over.

There were no signs of fractures on the skeleton, physicians said, and a white substance at first believed to have been lime used in destroying the flesh turned out to be adipocere, a natural product of decomposition. The remains fixed the age of the skeleton at around 18 years. Mount was over 18.

Girl's Story Falsely Alarm.

Belief that Axel Elinqvist, wealthy Evanston lumberman, whose daughter eloped some months ago with Fred Scott, nephew of Walker Hill Scott, president of Northwestern University, might shed some light on the events connected with Mount's death, was shattered today when he was questioned by assistants from the state's attorney's office.

Mr. Lonnquist, who brought his daughter back from Detroit and now is suing to annul her marriage, was reported to have said that if he told all he knew "it would rock Evanston."

"That is not just what I said," Lonnquist told the state's attorney. "What I did say was that if I told what I knew it would rock the thrones of the kings of Evanston. I meant the Scott's and others."

"What do you mean by that?" he was asked.

"I mean liquor parties, joy rides and delectable parties," Mr. Lonnquist replied.

Will Tell Story

Mr. Lonnquist promised to send his daughter to the state's attorney's office Monday to tell about a telephone conversation with Fred Scott a week ago.

"Fred Scott called at my home in connection with the Mount case," Mr. Lonnquist told the state attorney. "He asked for me, but I did not wish to speak to him. Audrey answered the telephone. He told her to tell me 'to keep my mouth shut and not to talk about the Scotts or the Mount case.'"

Foreigners Become American Citizens

Naturalization Hearing Conducted in District Court; Committee Women Assist

Six men of foreign birth were admitted to citizenship Saturday at the naturalization hearing conducted in district court under the supervision of Del L. Sullivan, naturalization examiner.

Those admitted and the countries to which they formerly owed allegiance were: Henry Scott, England; Emil Martens, Germany; Paul William Miller, Switzerland; Rudolph Zach and Frank Holensky, Czechoslovakia; and George Eliopoulos, Greece. The petition of Walter Freeman was dismissed on grounds of his claim to deferred classification during the war on account of being an alien.

Representatives of the joint Americanization committee, which has a program of Americanization outlined for this community, were present at the hearing and assisted the applicants in every way possible. In the future the committee will be notified in advance of the hearings in order that the members may lend their assistance to the prospective American citizens in solving the numerous problems concerning their naturalization.

Get Inquiries From Every State in U. S.

Letters Received Daily From Far Distance Asking About Local Conditions

Residents in every state in the union are asking for information concerning the Twin Falls tract.

This is proven by the letters received every day by Nevell Wight, secretary of the chamber of commerce. A few days ago Mr. Wight took 100 letters just as they came from the mail, and classified them as to the nature of the inquiries and as to the state from which they came. The result is both unusually interesting and significant.

The information requested concerned nearly everything, from the price of eggs to the nature of the Twin Falls climate.

Out of the 100 inquiries which were from 28 states, 31 were requests for general information on the Twin Falls tract. Nine persons wanted to know something about land in this vicinity. Seven asked for information concerning the city of Twin Falls and six inquiries requested write-up material. Climate, imports, dairying, employment, real estate dealers, produce and the American Falls reservoir drew five inquiries. Three persons wanted to know what the scenery is like around Twin Falls. Two asked about the new railroad south and two more wanted information concerning local newspapers.

One man wanted to know the scale of land rentals, another inquired about investments, and five other persons asked Mr. Wight to tell them about manufacturing, auto parks, mines, business locations and a dehydrating plant, respectively.

The spell of Twin Falls is spreading to California, as indicated by letters received from 10 persons in that state. The same number of inquiries were received from Washington and Idaho. Eight were from Oregon, six from Canada, five each from Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Montana and Colorado, while the remainder of the 100 were divided as follows:

- Pennsylvania, three; Nebraska, four; New York, two; New Mexico, two; Texas, two; Utah, three; Iowa, two; Wyoming, two; Maine, one; Michigan, two; Indiana, two; South Dakota, one; North Carolina, one; Manila, one; Virginia, one; Minnesota, one; Arkansas, three; and Nevada, one.

EIGHT GIVEN SENTENCES

Judgment Pronounced by Judge Babcock on Liquor and Statutory Charges; Three Fined to Pay Fines of $100

Sentences were pronounced on seven defendants on liquor charges in district court Saturday by Judge W. A. Babcock.

They were: Andrew Allen, two months and $100 fine; Marvin Mink, two months and $100 fine; Anthony Pina, 30 days and $100 fine; paroled; Edwin Hanson, 30 days and $50, fine paid and defendant paroled; Samuel B. Miller, 30 days and $100 fine; Wayne Grover, judgment withheld and defendant paroled; Fred Calico, 30 days and $100 fine. Allen, Mink and Miller failed to pay their fines and were remanded to the county jail to work out their fines at the rate of $2 a day.

Virgil Walker was sentenced to not less than five nor more than 10 years in the penitentiary on a statutory charge and he was paroled to Sheriff

Finck on condition that he maintain a permanent home for his bride and baby and that he take up employment immediately.

THREE STRAIGHT GAMES ARE WON BY TWIN FALLS

Locals Make Clean Sweep of Series with Pocatello, Taking Two in One Day; Blue and White Hurlers in Great Form

Winning the afternoon game by a score of 8 to 4, Twin Falls high school baseball team made a clean sweep of the three game series with the Pocatello ball tossers, after having won the morning tilt 22 to 5.

Erickson, the big southpaw from the railroad city, essayed a comeback Saturday afternoon and for five innings pitched a beautiful game allowing the local sluggers but one hit, that being a fluke infield swat by Laval Jarman, in the opening cast.

In the sixth he weakened, allowing the locals to gather three hits and three errors, gave the Twin Falls bats 6 runs and virtually checked the game.

Ray Hodgkin, who opposed Erickson on the mound, pitched a masterly game, allowing eight scattered hits and tightening up in the pinches.

The outstanding feature of the game was the catch of a foul ball by Mussell off Jackson's bat in the first inning, when he leaped far into the stands to make the catch. It was the greatest catch of a foul ever seen on Lincoln field.

In the third inning, Pocatello drew first blood when Cron juggled Donat's roller, who went to second on a passed ball. The next batter, Atkinson, was a victim, his Leute delivered the necessary swat, sending Donat across the platter.

From the third to the seventh, Pocatello failed to get a run off the ground. In the seventh Erickson picked one to his liking and sent it over the right field fence.

The ninth brought two more for the visitors, when Donat was allowed life on Laval Jarman's error of G. Jarman's thrown ball. Erickson again picked one on the nose to center for two bases, scoring Donat. Lamb followed but Leute singled to left scoring Donat who ran for Erickson. This was Leute's fourth hit of the game.

Twin Falls scored one in the third. Hodgkin waited for four bad ones, went to second on a wild pitch, took a crook on Cron's fielders' choice, and scored on a squeezeplay when Laval Jarman laid down a perfect bunt, which Lamb zipped up and then threw wild to first.

The big inning for the locals was the sixth. Laval Jarman was safe when Sorgatz booted his roller, Jerry Jarman singled infield down the third base line, Lamb again throwing the ball away with the Jarman brothers advancing a base. Mussell made a beautiful hit to right scoring the two Jarman boys, and went to second when Ball hit the ball get away. Atkinson was safe on Erickson's error, Mussell tying up at third. Atkinson stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch, Mussell scoring. Nye kissed the breast, and then Erickson made an other wild pitch scoring Atkinson. Chief Jamison looked 'em over and was granted free transportation to first. Solek walked, Hodgkin whiffed, but from sent a clean single to right. Jamison and Solek scoring when Ball again erred. L. Jarman ended the agony by lining out to Erickson.

The last Twin Falls run came in the seventh. Jerry Jarman singled to left on a solo second, and scored on Atkinson's single to center.

THREE BASEBALL GAMES TO BE PLAYED FOR TITLE

Caldwell and Twin Falls to Clash on Diamond Here for State Championship on Wednesday

Caldwell will send its high school baseball team here on Wednesday for a three-game series to determine the state baseball title.

Coch Evans, fearing that the three straight wins over the Pocatello team might cause his tribe to take life too easy, has promised them two days of the hardest hitting of the year on Monday and Tuesday.

Caldwell and Twin Falls broke even on their two-game sets at Caldwell. The Canyon county lads winning the first game, 11 to 8, after scoring 11 runs in one inning. The second game went to Twin Falls, 3 to 0.

Last year Caldwell took the title home with them after winning the old game here, but this year Twin Falls is set on having two championships dangling from its belt. The football team closed the season with a decisive victory over Boise, and what would be more fitting end to the school year than a baseball championship won from Caldwell.

Jarman in 2 1/2 innings; charge defeat to Ball; credit victory to L. Jarman; time of game: 2 hours 40 minutes; umpires: L. Whitelid behind the bat, Oliver on bases.

The morning game was a landslide, and after the first inning lacked interest. The box score:

EIGHT STILL IN TOURNAY

Three Cushion Billiard Matches Enter Second Week with Goldwater and Bracken Opening

Starting the second week of the three-cushion billiard double elimination tournament, eight players are still eligible to combat for the prizes.

Monday evening "Noisy" Goldwater and "White Hope" Bracken will play the opening game and a hard fought battle is looked for as Bracken has lost one game so far and must win to stay in the tournament. Goldwater hasn't lost a game and stated that he didn't want to, although he thought that perhaps he would if someone beat him.

The second game of the evening will be between Rocky Mountain Eagle Epler, who went down to defeat Friday night, and Charley Larsen, who lost to Epler Thursday evening. This game promises to be one of the best of the tournament, as both players are confident of victory, and a loss means elimination.

The first game will start at 7:30. (Additional Sports News on Page 7.)

SOUTH IDAHO'S LEAGUE FORMED BY SIX TOWNS

Twin Falls Joins with Kimberly, Hansen and Three Northside Towns for Sunday and Holiday Baseball

Twin Falls will have Sunday baseball and will be represented in the Southern Idaho Baseball league, which was formed at a meeting held at the Rogerson Hotel Friday evening.

Jerome, Shoshone and Eden will represent the league on the North Side, with Kimberly, Hansen and Twin Falls being the teams to hold up the honor of the south side of the league.

Ora McVey of Hansen, was elected chairman of the newly formed league, and L. R. Bills of Jerome was elected permanent secretary.

The season will open Sunday, May 20, with Kimberly playing Twin Falls at Twin Falls, Shoshone playing Jerome at Jerome, and Eden playing Hansen at Hansen.

The season will end August 19. A short schedule was arranged to give the towns a chance to play foreign teams at the end of the season before the cold winter sets in.

The Southern Idaho Baseball league will not interfere with the local Twilight league, which will get into action inside of the next week, as the grounds are being leveled and the right field fence will be completed during that week.

Twin Falls will be represented by a much stronger team this year than at any time heretofore, as there is plenty of good material within our gates, and all are willing to give their services.

Following is the schedule of the Southern Idaho Baseball league:

- May 20. Shoshone at Jerome. Eden at Hansen. Kimberly at Twin Falls. May 27. Hansen at Jerome. Twin Falls at Shoshone. Eden at Kimberly. June 3. Shoshone at Eden. Kimberly at Hansen. Jerome at Twin Falls. June 10. Twin Falls at Kimberly. Hansen at Shoshone. Eden at Jerome. June 17. Kimberly at Eden. Jerome at Hansen. Shoshone at Twin Falls. June 24. Twin Falls at Jerome. Eden at Shoshone. Hansen at Kimberly. July 1. Jerome at Eden. Hansen at Twin Falls. Shoshone at Kimberly. July 8. Twin Falls at Hansen. Eden at Shoshone. Jerome at Kimberly. July 15. Kimberly at Jerome. Hansen at Eden. Shoshone at Twin Falls. July 22. Jerome at Hansen. Eden at Twin Falls. Kimberly at Shoshone. July 29. Twin Falls at Jerome. Shoshone at Eden. Hansen at Kimberly. August 5. Eden at Hansen. Kimberly at Twin Falls. Jerome at Shoshone. August 12. Kimberly at Eden. Shoshone at Hansen. Jerome at Twin Falls. August 19. Hansen at Jerome. Twin Falls at Shoshone. Eden at Kimberly.

SHOOT AGREEMENT STANDS

Boise Team Approves Arrangements for Settling Claims by Best Four Out of Seven

Holding that the telegraphic shoot with Twin Falls was for the best four out of seven contests, and not the score at the end of seven shoots, the Boise Gun club voted today to the original agreement and today's shoot will have a direct bearing on the shoot between the two clubs.

With the games starting three won for Boise and two won for Twin Falls, with two tied up, the seven shoots were over, but the decision rendered by the capital city marksmen gives the local club another chance in case of a win today, there will be another shoot the following week to determine the winner.

Several members of the Twin Falls club have been out during the week, and report good scores, which means that Boise will have to keep moving to take today's shoot.

Only two weeks remain before the state shoot will be held here, and it behooves members to be out today as well as next week to get into condition, and give their eye a workout.

Shooting will start today at 10 o'clock.

BRIGANDS HOLD (Continued From Page One.) by notes sent out by some of the captives, one from Major Pinger, believing that the brigands' demands be met, to the prisoners their case appears desperate.

In the foothills is a colony of foreign consuls, American Red Cross workers and representatives of foreign organizations, standing by, hoping to be of use in helping the captives, send them food, clothing and medical supplies, but apparently hampered by the maze of political and other undercurrents that wash the underpinning of every national and international problem in China.

Anxiety Mingles With Hope. Negotiations for the release of the sixteen prisoners have been going on for days, hope is held out for their early freedom, but anxiety prevails in many quarters, especially when they turn to that hole from Major Pinger, a fighting man from a fighting country, who knows what he talks about when he hopes that the bandits' terms be met.

And Washington has declared that for their lives and safety the Chinese government must answer the Chevalier's Musso, an Italian of Shang Hai, is still another held in the bandits' lair in the hills, and Italy has satisfaction to demand from Peking.

One French Captive. At least one Frenchman, Emile Gensburger, is a captive and France has made representations to the central administration.

Manuel Yeres and his wife, Mexicans, also are among those who are waiting their release from the stronghold back of Lincheng.

The foreign communities throughout China, shocked by this latest outrage, have risen in protest against the condition of affairs that culminated near Suchow last Sunday morning. Chambers of commerce and other organizations have passed resolutions demanding guarantees for the protection of foreign travelers in the future and caustically criticizing the Peking government.

Similar reports have been afloat in Peking for several days that unauthorized landings were not altogether responsible for the raid on the night express. It is freely charged in some quarters that a political plot came to a head when the train was attacked at Suchow, its authors hoping that the kidnapping of the foreign passengers would embarrass the present regime at the capital.

PUBLIC FAVORS SWISS ASSASSIN

Movement for Acquittal of Slayer of Bolshevik Envoy is Seen in Switzerland

LAUSANNE, May 12 (AP)—A strong popular movement in favor of the acquittal of Maurice Châtrai, assassin of the bolshevik envoy, Vorovsky, seems to be taking shape throughout Switzerland. Numerous letters charging harshness toward the prisoner are being received by the conservative newspapers whose editorials condemned Châtrai, although admitting extenuating circumstances.

As for Châtrai himself, he can scarcely complain of the treatment he is receiving from the authorities. After his preliminary examination, he was taken, unharmed and accompanied by only one detective, through the streets to the jail. On the way he stopped in a bakery and bought bread and cakes for his supper. He seemed not in the least downcast, chatting and occasionally laughing.

Communists Rago. The socialist and communist newspapers continue to attack the federal authorities, charging that the soviet delegates were not sufficiently protected. They also print an announcement of mass meetings to be held in protest, but these have been forbidden by the municipal authorities. A strong force of gendarmes arrived tonight to reinforce the police, in view of a big workmen's meeting planned here.

At a communist meeting in Zurich, speakers declared the assassination was connected with the Swiss fascist movement and announced that the communists would answer violence with violence.

Forbidden Mass Meetings. The authorities of the canton of Vaud at which this city is the capital, are taking measures to suppress any demonstrations by the extremists in consequence of the assassination of the soviet envoy, Vorovsky.

A proclamation has been issued indicating all mass meetings in the streets or public square and forbidding and professions organized with political significance.

Rumors of possible attempts on the lives of the Turkish delegates by discontented Armenians and Greeks today caused the Geneva representatives to request additional police protection.

Idea Will Not Be Popular. It is claimed that one meal a day in summer and two in winter, of properly selected food, should suffice the normal person.

FIRPO-WILLARD BOUT WINNER TO TRY FOR TITLE

Victors in Star Matches of the Milk Fund Boxing Carnival Will Be Matched in Elimination Contest

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Jess Willard and Luis Firpo, victors in the two star bouts of the milk fund boxing carnival at the Yankee stadium, will be matched in a 15-round contest to decide a championship opponent for Jack Dempsey. Promoter Tex Rickard announced at the conclusion of the show.

The fight, he said, probably would be held in the Yankee stadium June 30.

"I intend to match Willard and Firpo just as soon as possible," Rickard asserted, "and the winner probably will get a crack at Dempsey on Labor day, either at the Yankee stadium or Bayly's Thirty Acres. Both are ready and anxious to sign and I hope to arrange the contest for the Saturday before the Fourth."

Rickard said that in his opinion Willard had staged a remarkable comeback, considering the odds he was against. Firpo, he said, had proved beyond a doubt that he is one of the greatest natural fighters uncovered in years.

TWO CHALLENGERS EMERGE.

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Two giants of the prize ring, Luis Angel Firpo, pride of the Argentine, and Jess Willard, Kansas mountain, stood out tonight as challengers for the flinty throne occupied by Jack Dempsey, after scoring knockout victories in the two main bouts of the milk fund carnival before a crowd of nearly 70,000 at the Yankee stadium.

Firpo demonstrated once more he is one of the most terrific hitters who has climbed to pugilistic prominence in recent years, by knocking out Jack McLaughlin, II, of Detroit in the third round.

Willard, while none too impressive in his comeback after years of ill-health, proved himself the master of his young Iowa antagonist, Floyd Johnson, and was awarded a technical knockout after 11 rounds of the most spectacular battling on the card.

Thousands See Bout.

These two bouts, both scheduled for 15 rounds, were headliners of a card of five heavyweight contests, one of the most spectacular fight programs ever staged in this country, and a magnet for a picturesque throng that all but filled the great Yankee hall park. Official figures were lacking tonight, but it is estimated that the throng was at least 5000 less than the crowd of 74,000 which packed the stadium at the opening of the American league baseball season recently. It was a record for a boxing show in this state, but far behind the attendance figure of 90,000 at the Carpenter-Dempsey bout two years ago.

Gate receipts were announced unofficially by Tex Rickard, promoter of the show for the municipal milk fund benefit, as approximately $300,000.

Renault Wins on Foul.

Two of the three other bouts on the card besides the main fights also were terminated before the limit, Jack Renault of Chatham, Quebec, Canadian heavyweight champion, was declared victor over Fred Fulton, Minnesota, plastered on a foul blow in the fourth round, after the Canadian had piled up a substantial lead on points.

In the other preliminary matches Harry Tucker of England was awarded the judges' decision over Joe McCann of Newark, N. J., in a 4-round encounter, while "Tiny Tim" Herman of Omaha, Neb., knocked out Al Birch of New York in the sixth round.

Firpo Wins Decisively.

Firpo's quick victory over McLaughlin, a highly touted westerner, who wilted in the second round and collapsed in the third under the south American's terrific barrage of rights and lefts to the head and body, was the most decisive bit of ring work of the afternoon, but the triumph of the 40-year old Willard over a youngster half his age in a hammer-and-tongs struggle from start to finish, was the high spot of the show.

Most of the experts were skeptical of the Potawatomi giant's ability to come back after his long lay-off, but while he was at times unimpressive and an easy mark for his aggressive opponent, he proved beyond doubt that he has regained much of his old stamina while retaining his powerful punching ability.

Willard fought coolly and cautiously against Johnson's plucky attack and in the end his tremendous advantage in height, weight and reach were the undoing of his opponent, who was out-weighted 53 pounds.

Johnson Fights Gamely.

Johnson stood up under a terrific battering from the fifth round to the end. Reeling and groggy from Willard's smashing uppercuts and straight lefts to the head, he was several times on the verge of a knockout before the eleventh. Three times, in the fifth, eighth and sixth rounds he was saved by the bell from probably a final count, while at other stages he weathered the storm by his defensive tactics.

Ponderous in his movements, slow about and at times an easy mark for Johnson's blows, Willard, however, was never in distress. The Iowa stung Willard occasionally about the head and body but his punches lacked effectiveness. At one juncture in the tenth round Willard brought a roar from the crowd by dropping his guard for a few moments and smiling as he permitted Johnson to punch his jaw unmoored.

Stone Ink Slabs.

The Chinese schoolboy and the Chinese scholar must have their ink slabs for the making of their Chinese ink. These are made from a stone found at Nankangfu, are very artistic and represent fish swimming in ponds, flowers growing in water gardens, and buffaloes lying in cooling, refreshing pools. They are also made in square, oblong and round shapes and varying in size, weight and height. One particular kind of stone supposed to have been discovered in the Sung dynasty, will yield the ink wet and moist for a whole month.

An Announcement

15 years ago May 15th I started in business in Twin Falls.

Fifteen years mean something more to me, however, than a mere period of time. It is more or less of a recommendation in itself. If my policies had not been fundamentally honest, if my merchandise was not as I claimed, if our service was not satisfactory to our customers, in short, if we had not given one hundred cents in value for every dollar we would not be in business today.

I take pleasure indeed, at this time to thank our many friends and extend my deepest appreciation for their confidence. However hard we have labored to achieve our reputation, we are working harder than ever to hold and enhance it.

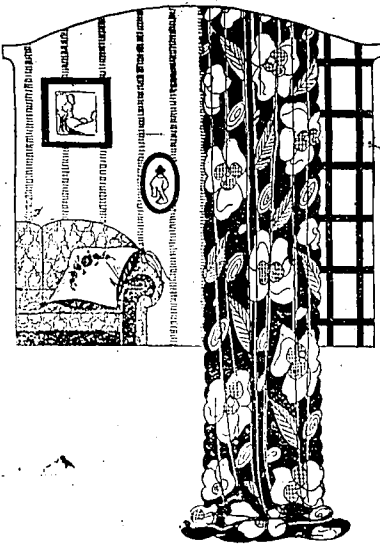

Tuesday, the 15th, we are going to celebrate our 15th anniversary, holding open house all day, with a dainty little gift for the ladies.

WINTER KILLS SMALL PART OF IDAHO'S WHEAT

Abandonment This Year Below Average and the Prospective Crop Exceeds Last Year's with Country Shorter

BOISE, May 12.—Idaho has a prospective winter wheat crop of $8,699,000 bushels based on conditions existing May 1 says the department of agriculture today. This is 41,000 bushels more than produced last year and 87,000 bushels more than the average of the preceding five years. The acreage abandoned because of winter killing, poor germination, etc., amounts to 1 per cent, or 16,300 acres, so that this year's crop is now averaging on 333,000 acres. For the past five years annual abandonment has averaged 5.8 per cent. The present crop's May 1 condition was 92 per cent of normal, which is 4 points higher than reported a year ago but 2 points below the ten year average. In the important north Idaho section, the crop is developing rather slowly because of the backward spring. Only 2 per cent of the acreage was abandoned and condition averages 94 per cent. Southeastern counties abandoned 6 per cent and eastern counties 5 per cent of their planted acreage, and condition averages 95 per cent of normal.

Winter wheat forecasts for the United States is 75,257,000 bushels, which is 7,917,000 bushels less than last year's crop and 11,711,000 bushels less than the five year average crop. Average abandonment was particularly heavy, it being about 14 per cent, compared with the 10 year average of 9.8 per cent.

Hay Acreage Increased.
Tama hay acreage increased 3 per cent and wild hay remains the same as last year, so that the 1923 crop is growing on 1,192,000 acres. A condition of 95 per cent of normal forecasts a production of 3,248,000 tons. Last year's crop totaled 2,749,000 tons and the average for the previous five years is 2,719,000 tons. Northern counties are materially increasing their alfalfa acreage. The crop did well last year, even with deficient precipitation. Then again, hay up there has been averaging from $18 to $20 per ton in the stock most of the winter. Ben Bonners Perry a large acreage of reclaimed land has been seeded to timothy. In the southern part of the state some acreage has been plowed-up because of alfalfa weevil, but with satisfactory prices the past season and present activity in the dairy industry there is little disposition to decrease hay acreage. Hay stocks remaining on farms total 218,000 tons, or 8 per cent of last year's crop. This compares with 256,000 tons, or 9 per cent of the 1921 hay crop, reported on hand a year ago. Hay stocks are well cleaned up in the north and southwest but elsewhere there is from 8 per cent to 12 per cent.

Farm Work Well In Hand.
Reports from over the state indicate that 68 per cent of the plowing for spring planting and 64 per cent of spring seeding has been completed compared with 45 per cent and 45 per cent, respectively, reported a year ago. On the Camas prairie in Blaine county, April was reported the most favorable for seeding in six or seven years. In the southwest farm work is considerably ahead of last year, but in the upper Snake river valley the season is backward and comparatively little spring work done.

Livestock Mortality and Condition.
The generally mild winter with ample feed supplies, except in the north, has kept down livestock losses. It is estimated that out of every one thousand horses and mules, 12 died from disease this past year, compared with 14 for the previous years; cattle of all ages from diseases and exposure, 25 compared with 20 reported a year ago; sheep from disease and exposure, 25 compared with 50 a year ago; swine of all ages, from disease 20 out of every 1000 are reported to have died in both years. Stock are rather thin in northern counties on account of the hay shortage and the delayed growth of grass. The lower ranges in the southwest are getting dry since the precipitation shortage this year to date is approximately 3 inches. The higher ranges, however, are still reported in good condition.

STANDARD OIL REPORTS INCREASE IN PROFITS

Net Earnings of $10,434,734. In 1922 Double That of Preceding Year and Much Less Than in 1920

NEW YORK, May 12, (AP)—The Standard Oil company of New York earned net profits in 1922 of $10,434,734 as compared with $9,098,972 in 1921, and $59,405,631 in 1920, it was announced last night.

The corporation increased its capitalization from $75,000,000 to $225,000,000 in November, 1922, by issuance of a 200 per cent stock dividend and closed the year with a surplus of $105,987,408 as compared with a balance on hand January 1 of $107,205,389. The net appreciation of capital assets and investments during the year is placed at $70,179,345.

In addition to the capital stock distribution of $150,000,000 the corporation paid cash dividends of $12,000,000.

PRICES OF COMMODITIES DECLARED HIGH ENOUGH

Babson Discusses Existing Situation in Relation to Bonds; Predicts Lower Costs of Living

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., May 12 (AP)—(Special to The News)—The radical recovery of commodity prices from August, 1921, to date, has brought general business above average and is the foundation for the reasoning of a good many who have predicted increasing prices through 1923. Therefore Roger W. Babson's statement on the situation issued today, is of unusual interest.

"There have been five major movements in commodity prices, since the beginning of the world war," says Mr. Babson. "First, we had a great rise from early 1915 to the peak in August, 1918. Immediately at the close of the war prices suffered a sentimental decline. The post-war inflation caused a steady rise from the spring of 1919 to the middle of 1920.

"An depression set in the worst commodity panic in economic history carried us over the middle of 1920 to the low of August, 1921. The fifth phase of the movement has been a 10 months' rise during which commodity prices have climbed over 30 per cent—an abnormal development.

The reasons for this recent upswing give us some indication as to its probable development. It was caused by an increase of physical production, and has continued until today it is above the normal growth line. Total volume of business has increased until it is also slightly above normal. Monetary conditions have been and are very good with large volume of circulation, strong volume of federal reserve statistics, good turn over and sound credit conditions.

"A shortage of transportation has stimulated buying. Wages have increased substantially. Purchasing power of the industrial community has been reflected in better business. Even the farmer, who was hard hit has gradually climbed out of his financial chaos.

The upward trend of the stock market and new construction figures add two more arguments on the bullish side of the ledger. "The present technical position of the commodity market, however, is very similar to that of 1920. Production has reached a point where we cannot hope to consume at such a rate indefinitely. Many commodities are being made so fast that they must of necessity pile up surplus stocks by 1924. The present administration is also adverse to further inflation. Car mileage has been reduced to a minimum of what it was and more favorable weather conditions and seasonal changes in business cannot help but clear up the traffic situation. Living Costs' Near Peak.

"Since the present market is being adequately supplied there is little justification that increasing prices of commodities can long continue. The cost of living fundamentally is still too high and is destined during the next few years to recede to a lower level. Even so conditions are still unfavorable, and until a constructive program is announced we cannot reasonably expect a further radical stimulation of business.

"The growing reluctance on the part of the buyer to stock up on high priced merchandise is an indication of the end of the upward rise by 1924 at the latest. The underlying structure is probably strong enough to justify moderate advance in some lines and a high average commodity price level for some months longer, but it is probable that prices by or before 1924 will turn for a reaction. As the advance slows up, such transportation difficulties are solved, buying will ease off and general business should fall back to a level below normal. This shakedown will cause money rates and should cause bonds to again take up their long swing rise."

FOUR OUT OF 13 I. W. W. SUSPECTS FOUND GUILTY

Los Angeles Jury Brings In Verdicts After Trial of Many Weeks' Duration; Recommends Deportations

LOS ANGELES, May 11 (AP)—Four members of the Industrial Workers of the World were found guilty of felony today and nine others acquitted by a jury in the superior court which deliberated since yesterday, closing a trial which started January 31.

Those convicted were Alfred John, criminal syndicalism; John Nolan, Herbert White and Paul Ware on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal syndicalism. The nine acquitted were B. Johansen, Peter Lustica, George Anderson, A. Braithwaite, A. Nelson, Alfred Olson, Ray Guthrie, A. Ross and J. L. DeLoach.

The men acquitted made the statement in court that they were no less guilty than the four convicted and that while they did not wish to plead guilty they felt an injustice had been done and announced themselves ready to accept the same penalty that was meted out to their co-defendants.

With their verdict the jurors brought into court a written recommendation that the four men found guilty be deported. The court set Tuesday as the time for passing sentence. Classified advertising is the cheapest thing you can buy—measured by the profits it may bring you.

HAROLD LLOYD AT RIALTO.

"Safety Last," coming to the Rialto next week promises to be the best comedy picture ever shown here. W. H. Bart, manager of the Rialto, received communication for the picture when "Safety Last" has been shown, highly commending the picture and strong recommending that he request everybody to see it.

BROKEN CHAINS.

The motion picture that won the $10,000 prize in the recent contest conducted by the Chicago Daily News, in which there were 32,000 entries, will be seen in Twin Falls at the Idaho theater for two days beginning Monday. It is called "Broken Chains" and was written by a previously unknown screen author, Miss Winifred Kinshad of Appleton, Wis., and has been produced by Goldwyn, under the direction and personal supervision of Allen Holubar, one of the best known directors in the business.

Goldwyn gave the director a great cast in winsome Colleen Moore, Malcolm McGregor, the New Jersey youth who renounced a million to become a film actor, Ernest Torrence, Chas. Winidor, Beryl Mercer, James Marcus, William Orlamond, Gerald Pemp, Edward Peil and Leo Willis.

"Broken Chains" is a story of regeneration of an eastern youth who proves a coward when suddenly confronted by a danger in his long Island home.

The picture is said to be most realistic and at the same time inspiring—in a photoplay that appeals irresistibly to the heart and ranks high in the year's achievements on the screen.

"LOVE IN THE DARK."

One of the attractions booked to be shown at the Orpheum is "Love in the Dark," the new Metro photoplay starring the vivacious Viola Dana. Those who have seen the photoplay pronounce it an extraordinary production and one of the most enjoyable comedy-dramas of the present season. It is certainly a highly exciting motion picture, and in it the interest never lags. Miss Dana fits into the part of the leading character excellently. Throughout the acting is of a high order.

The cast supporting Miss Dana includes Colton Landis, Arline Proby, Edward Connelly, John Harroun, Bruce Guerin, Margaret Mann and Charles West.

A Romance

They gazed at each other with the envy of ravenous appetites and a vigilant watching down the forest aisles. They expected some one, Madeline thought, and, manifestly, if it were a pursuing posse, they did not show anxiety. She could not understand more than a word here and there that they had uttered. Presently however, the name of Don Carlos revived keen curiosity in her and realization of her situation, and then once more dread possessed her breast.

A low exclamation and a sweep of arm from one of the guerrillas caused the whole band to wheel and concentrate their attention in the opposite direction. They heard something. They saw some one. Grimy hands sought weapons, and then every man stiffened. Madeline saw what hunted men looked like at the moment of discovery, and the sight was terrible. She closed her eyes, sick with what she saw, fearful of the moment when the guns would leap out.

There were muttered curses, a short period of silence followed by whisprings, and then a clear voice rang out, "Captain!"

A strong shock vibrated through Madeline, and her eyelids swept open. Instantly she associated the name "Captain" with Stewart and experienced a sensation of strange regret. "It was not pursuit or rescue she thought of then, but death. These men would kill Stewart. But surely he had not come alone. She heard the slow, heavy thump of hoofs. Soon into the wide aisle between the trees moved the form of a man, arms flung high over his head. Then Madeline saw the horse, and she recognized Majesty, and she knew it was really Stewart who rode the route. When doubt was no longer possible she felt a suffocating sense of gladness and fear and wonder.

Many of the guerrillas leaped up with drawn weapons. Still Stewart approached with his hands high, and he rode right into the campfire circle. Then a guerrilla, evidently the chief, waded down the threatening men and strode up to Stewart. He greeted him. There was amaze and pleasure and respect in the greeting. Madeline could tell that, though she did not know what was said. At the moment, Stewart appeared to her as cool and careless as if he were dismounting at her porch steps. But when he got down she saw that his face was white. He shook hands with the guerrilla, and then his glittering eyes roved over the men and around the glade until they rested upon Madeline. Without moving from his tracks he seemed to leap, as if a powerful current had shocked him. Madeline tried to smile to assure him she was alive and well; but the latent in his eyes, the power of his controlled spirit telling her of her peril and his own, saw the smile on her lips.

With that he faced the chief and spoke rapidly in the Mexican jargon Madeline had always found so difficult to translate. The chief answered, spreading wide his hands, one of which indicated Madeline and the other the name of Don Carlos. There was a brief muttering protest which the chief thundered down. Madeline guessed her release had been given by this guerrilla and bought from the others of the band.

Stewart strode to her side, leading the roan. Majesty came to her side when she saw his mistress prostrate. Stewart knelt, still holding the bridle. "Are you all right?" he asked.

"I think so," she replied, essaying a laugh that was rather a failure. "My feet are tired."

Dark blood blotted out all the white from his eyes, and lightning shot from his eyes. She felt his hands, like steel grips, loosening the bonds round her ankles. Without a word he lifted her upright and then upon Majesty. Madeline reeled a little in the saddle, held hard to the pommel with one hand, and then she leaned on Stewart's shoulder with the other.

"Don't give up," he said.

She saw him gaze furtively into the forest on all sides. And it surprised her to see the guerrilla riding away. Putting the two facts together, Madeline tried to see neither Stewart nor the others desired to meet with some one evidently due shortly in the glade. Stewart guided the roan off to the right and walked beside Madeline, standing her in the saddle. At first Madeline was so weak and dizzy that she could scarcely retain her seat. Next she made an effort to ride without help. Her weakness, however, and a pain in her wrenched arm made the task laborious.

Stewart had struck off the trail, if there were one, and was keeping to denser parts of the forest. Majesty's hoofs made no sound on the soft ground, and Stewart strode on without speaking. Neither his hurry nor vigilance relaxed until at least two miles had been covered. The soft ground gave place to bare, rocky soil. The horse snorted and tossed his head. A sound of splashing water broke the silence. The hollow opened into a wider one through which a little brook murmured its way over the stones. Majesty snorted again and stopped and beat his head.

"He wants a drink," said Madeline. "I'm thirsty, too, and very tired."

Stewart lifted one of the mad-dogs and their hands pruned the felt something moist and warm. Blood was running down her arm and into the palm of her hand.

"I'm—bleeding," she said, a little unsteadily. "Oh, I remember. My arm was here."

She held it out, the blood making her conscious of her weakness. Stewart's fingers felt so firm and sure. Swiftly he ripped the wet sleeve. Her forearm had been cut or scratched. He washed off the blood.

"Why, Stewart, it's nothing. I was only a little nervous. I guess that the first time I ever saw my own blood."

He made no reply as he tore her handkerchief into strips and bound her arm. His swift motions and loud voice gave her a hint of how he might meet a more serious emergency. She felt safe. And because of that impression, when he lifted his head and she saw that he was pale and shaking, she was surprised. He stood before her folding his scarf, which was still wet, and from which he made no effort to remove the red stains.

"It was a man's hands—a Greaser's fingers—that cut your arm. I know who he was. I could have killed him. But I mightn't have got your freedom. You understand? I didn't dare."

Madeline gazed at Stewart, astonished more by his speech than his excessive emotion.

"My dear boy!" she exclaimed. And then she paused. She could not find words.

He was making an apology to her for not killing a man who had led a rough hand upon her person. His was ashamed and seemed to be in a torture that she would not understand why he had not killed the man. There seemed to be something of passionate scorn in him that he had not been able to avenge her as well as free her.

"Stewart, I understand. You're being my kind of cowboy. I thank you."

But she did not understand so much as she implied. She had heard many stories of this man's cool indifference to peril and death. He had always seemed as hard as granite. Why should the sight of a little blood upon her own pale lips check and shake his hand and thicken his voice? What was there in his nature to make him implore her to see the only reason he could not kill an outlaw? The answer to the first question was that he loved her. It was beyond her to answer the second. But the secret of it lay in the same strength from which his love was possible for such a man as Stewart to love her. The thought came to her in all its singular power. All her eastern lovers who had the graces that made them her equals in the thought of the world were without the only great essential that a lonely, hard life had given Stewart. Nature here struck a just balance. Something deep and dim in the future, an unknown voice, called to Madeline and disturbed her. And because it was not a voice to her intelligence she denuded the ears of her warm but throbbing life and decided never to listen.

"Is it safe to rest a little?" she asked. "I am so tired. Perhaps I'll be stronger if I rest."

"We're all right now," he said. "I can get you home by midnight. They'll be some worried down there."

"What happened?"

"Nothing much to any one but you. That's the—hard luck of it. Florence caught us out on the slope. We were returning from the fire. We were dead beat. But we got to the ranch before any damage was done. We sure had trouble in finding a trace of you. Nick spotted the prints of your heels under the window. And then we knew. I had to fight the boys. If they'd come after you you'd never have gotten you without a fight. I didn't want that. I had to rope Mount. He sure had trouble in finding a trace of you. Nick promised to stay and hold him till morning. That was the best I could do. I was sure lucky to come up with the band so soon. I had figured right. I knew that guerrilla chief. He's a brute in Mexico. It's a business with him. But he fought for Madero, and I was with him a good deal. He may be a Greaser, but he's white."

"How did you effect my release?"

"I offered them money. That's what the rebels all want. They need money. They've a lot of good hungry folks."

"I gathered that you offered to pay ransom. How much?"

"Two thousand dollars Mex. I gave my word. I'll have to take the money. I told them when and where I'd meet them."

"Certainly. I'm glad I've got the money." Madeline laughed. "What a strange thing to happen to me! I wonder what did you say to that? Stewart, I'm afraid he'd say two thousand dollars is more than I'm worth. But tell me. That rebel chieftain did not demand money?"

"No. The money is for his men. We were couraged before Juarez. One day I dragged him out of a ditch. I reminded him. Then I—I told him something. I—I thought—"

"I know from the way he looked at me that you spoke of me. I heard Don Carlos name several times. That interests me. What have Don Carlos and his vagabonds to do with this?"

"That Greaser has all to do with it," replied Stewart grimly. "We burned his ranch and corral to keep us from getting them. But he also did it to draw all the boys away from your home. They had a deep plot, all right. I left orders for some one to stay with you. But Al and Stillwell, who were both headed west of this morning. Then the guerrillas came down."

"Well, what was the idea—the plot—as you call it?"

"To get you," he said, bluntly.

"No! Stewart, you do not mean my capture—whatever you call it—was anything more than mere accident?"

"It do mean that. But Stillwell and your brother think the guerrillas wanted money and arms, and they just happened to make off with you because you ran under a horse's nose."

"You do not incline to that point of view?"

"I do not. Neither does Nels nor Nick Steele. And we know Don Carlos and the Greasers. Look how the vagabonds chased Flo for you!"

"What do you think, then?"

"I'd rather not say. Once I heard Nels say he'd seen the Greaser look at you, and if he ever saw him do it again he'd shoot him."

"Why, Stewart, that is ridiculous. To shoot a man for looking at a woman! This is a civilized country."

"Well, maybe it would be ridiculous in a civilized country. There's some things about civilization I don't care for."

"What, for instance?"

"For one thing, I can't stand for the way men let other men treat women."

"But, Stewart, this is strange talk from you, who, that night I came—"

Meaning of Picnic. Most people know what it is to enjoy a picnic; not all can tell how the name of this form of entertainment originated. The explanation according to one derivation, is simple. When a picnic was being arranged it was the custom for those who were to be present to promise to supply food and drink. A list of the things necessary was drawn up and passed round, each person picking out the articles he or she would supply. The name of the article was "nicked" on the list—that is to say, a mark was placed against it. The open-air entertainment thus came to be known as "Picn and nick." The custom is said to date from 1802.

Studebaker

THE BIG-SIX SPEEDSTER, COMPLETELY EQUIPPED AS ILLUSTRATED. $1835

$45,000,000 Worth of Studebaker Big-Sixes in 1922

The public paid more than forty-five million dollars for new Studebaker Big-Six automobiles in 1922, buying more of this model than of any other car selling in the same price field.

In the entire world there were only eleven other automobile manufacturers whose total sale of all models equaled the sale of Studebaker Big-Sixes for 1922, and no other manufacturer sold as many cars of the Big-Six class. In addition to the Big-Six, Studebaker builds the Special-Six and the Light-Six in large volume.

For the first quarter of 1923, Big-Six sales showed an increase of 70 per cent over the same period of 1922, evidencing the growing popularity of this model. Big-Six popularity is the result of Big-Six superiority. Materials and workmanship are unexcelled in any car at any price, and unequalled in any car at the Big-Six price.

With its long 126-inch wheel base, big 4 1/2-inch tires, heavy frame, scientifically distributed load, long Studebaker-made springs, the Big-Six Speedster rides more comfortably than most cars selling at much more money. Its 3 3/4 x 5 motor delivers a world of power, plenty of speed and a quickness of getaway hard to equal.

The price is the result of quantity production.

The name STUDEBAKER is assurance of quality. It has stood for high grade transportation for seventy-one years.

Hoaglin Speaks. Mayor Hoaglin, the first speaker, said: "We are to celebrate the greatest event that has ever happened in the past 10 years. It was community spirit that built this city and it is that same spirit that is now building the American dam and this railroad to the south."

Mayor Hoaglin was followed by M. J. Sweeley, who outlined the advancement made by the Twin Falls district in the last 16 years and stressed the importance of aiding the drive on behalf of the proposed railroad. Guy Plomer, managing director of the Idaho Recreation association, who has been working continuously for several months in support of the American Falls project, delivered a brief but spirited address that brought hearty applause.

R. E. Shepherd of Jerome, chairman of the board of directors of the American Falls district, said: "The north side of the dam and the railroad to the south is not far away when the north side will ask for a bridge across the Snake river, and we will both work toward making this district the market place of Idaho."

"I have faith in the Twin Falls district," said M. J. Thompson. "These projects are tremendously big, but Twin Falls has never put her heart in anything but what it 'went over' and I am confident of her success in these things."

Besides Mr. Thompson a considerable delegation from Boise was on hand to help Twin Falls celebrate the success of the American Falls bond election and to boost the railroad project. Among them were E. G. Gallert, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bird, H. W. Anderson, R. W. York, W. D. Kautman, Mr. and Mrs. George Graff, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Imhoff, Leo J. Falk and Max Maymyl.

The Jerome band played several selections during the meeting. Checks or cash for the subscribed amounts were handed over to the committee at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company immediately after the meeting.

Foreign Population Is Shown in Census

Close to 150 Local Residents Born in Other Lands, Committee Reports Show

The foreign census taken recently by the committee on the joint Americanization committee, resulted in the listing of names of close to 150 local residents of foreign birth. The committee expects to follow up the census shortly and several more names will probably be added.

The committee is outlining a program which will probably include a picnic and various kinds of gatherings for the entertainment of those of foreign birth and later this year it is planned to establish some means of educating foreigners in Americanism.

The foreign census is divided, according to countries and number of local residents, as follows:

- Canada, 18; England, 10; Germany, 21; Sweden, 12; Norway, 12; Spain, 10; Netherlands, 8; Holland, 4; France, 3; Switzerland, 1; Russia, 1; Ireland, 2; Greece, 2; China, 2; Japan, 8; Poland, 1; Denmark 10; and Austria, 5.

CHILDREN GIVE PROGRAM

Exceptional Talent Shown by Pupils of Catholic Parochial School in Entertainment at Parish Hall

The pupils of the Catholic parochial school presented a most interesting program and played at the Parish hall Friday night before an audience that filled the hall. The children ranged from six and 12 years of age and they showed exceptionally fine talent.

The program consisted of piano solos, duets, recitations and a playlet, "Dottie's Dream." Among the features were recitation by Harry Hazel and music number consisting of four violin and piano played by children not over 10 years of age. A posing tableau was the closing event on the program and the noted artist, Kent S. Keyser delivered a short address.

BROWNING'S ARE FREE ON BOND

Judge Rules Slaying of Ballantyne Not Premeditated and Orders Charge Modified

SALT LAKE, May 12 (AP)—Marriner A. and John M. Browning, Jr., cousins, were at liberty tonight under $50,000 bond to answer to charges of murder in the second degree, the crime being the killing of Benjamin F. Ballantyne, ex-bank teller, at his home here April 9.

City Judge Noel S. Pratt ruled today that the slaying of Ballantyne was not committed with premeditation, nor could it be attributed to self-defense. The brothers previously had been charged with first degree murder.

Bond for the defendants was fixed at $25,000 each. Thirty minutes later the brothers were taken to the court home in Ogden, Utah, the bonds having been signed by the fathers of the accused men, M. H. Browning, father of Marriner, and John M. Browning, Sr., the noted inventor, father of John Browning.

The decision of the court was made shortly before noon and the case had not been under advisement since last yesterday by Judge Pratt, who presided at the preliminary hearing.

The defense attempted during the hearing to bring out that the killing of Ballantyne was "justifiable homicide," while the prosecution endeavored to show that Ballantyne was killed with malice aforethought and hence the defendants should be bound over on a first degree murder charge.

Takes Medial View

Judge Pratt declared that from the evidence he could not justify either of these views. That Ballantyne was killed by a shot fired by Marriner Browning was not disputed, the court pointed out. Continuing, Judge Pratt said that if the killing of the former bank teller was in self-defense it would constitute a justifiable homicide, but that the court found there was not sufficient evidence to hold the killing of Ballantyne justifiable.

The judge declared that Marriner was not a trespasser in the Ballantyne home because Ballantyne directed his order of not to enter to John Browning alone. There was no doubt, the court ruled, that Marriner "intentionally and willfully fired the shot that killed Ballantyne," and that "nothing was found in the record to show self-defense, nor, on the other hand, premeditation."

Asks Immediate Liberation

As soon as the decision of the court was announced, defense counsel asked that the bond be fixed. The court asked County Attorney Arthur E. Moreton, chief prosecutor, if he had any recommendation to make to which the latter replied that he would make no recommendation.

SKELTONS OF AVIATORS FOUND

Bodies Discovered in Hills Believed Hise of Army Flyers Missing Since Last December

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 12 (AP)—Two bodies, supposed to be those of Colonel Francis Marshall, former chief of cavalry, and Lieutenant Charles Webber, aviator, who disappeared while flying from San Diego toward Tucson, Arizona, December 7 of last year, were found today in the Cuyamaca mountains of this county.

As soon as the report reached this city, Major Henry Arnold, commanding Rockwell field, from which Webber took his last flight, having Colonel Marshall as a passenger, organized a party to visit the scene and try to identify the bodies and the machine, in whose wreckage the bodies lay. He expressed little doubt that the bodies were those of Colonel Marshall and Lieutenant Webber.

The machine in which the two dead aviators were found had been burned. Nothing was left but the skeletons of the two men.

Finding of the bodies was reported to this city evening by George W. McCain, a cattleman who was riding in the Cuyamaca mountains. He made his report to Joseph Peterson, caretaker of the Cuyamaca dam, who telephoned the news to this city.

Buried Under Snow

McCain said that he went out with one of his cattlemen on the mountain which is called the south peak of Cuyamaca range, practically at the summit of the mountains between San Diego county and Imperial county, where was little left of the airplane except the motor, stator of the fuselage and parts of the frame work. McCain, however, found a small strip of canvas on which appeared to be some letters or numbers, or both, and he took the strip of cloth to Oak Grove, a small settlement in the mountains, to serve as a possible aid to identification.

The place where the bodies were found had been covered nearly all winter by from four to five feet of snow. The elevation is about 6300 feet.

Story of Tragedy Told

DENVER, May 12 (AP)—Colonel Francis C. Marshall, attached to the staff of the chief of cavalry at Washington and Lieutenant Charles L. Webber, of the air service, left San Diego at 9:15 o'clock Thursday, December 7, for a flight to Fort Huachuca, near Tucson, Ariz.

Colonel Marshall had been on an inspection tour of cavalry camps in the country and had used airplanes extensively on this mission. He commanded a brigade of the First division in France during the war.

Lieutenant Webber was an experienced cross-country pilot and was instructed to report by wire on his arrival at Fort Huachuca. Webber was 27 years old and a native of Denver, Colo., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Webber, were residing. Webber entered the aviation school at Berkeley, Cal. in 1917, and was commissioned at Mount Clemens, Mich. in 1918. He served two years in the Philippines.

Two days after the departure from San Diego five airplanes of the Twelfth observation squadron located at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, started an intensive search for the missing aviators. These planes were in charge of Major L. G. Heffernan. The planes carried emergency rations and water containers so attached that they could be dropped at any point on the desert if the lost officers were sighted and a landing was impossible. For many weeks after the disappearance of the Army officers search for them was continued, not alone by airplanes but by searchers afoot as well. There were frequent reports that Indians had seen a wrecked airplane in western Arizona, but subsequent efforts to locate the missing craft were not successful. It was announced recently in Washington that the government had abandoned search for the missing men.
