

BABSON SEES DANGER IN "SHORT" SELLING

Statistician Warns Speculators; Declares Millions of Dollars Threatened in Present Market

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., May 19.—(Special to The News)—The recent bear raids in the stock market have had a large number of small speculators to believe that good stock market days are over. Popular fancy in this quarter is turning to short selling. Since the technical position of the market is being undermined by this move, Roger W. Babson, warning against this practice issued today is particularly timely.

"I do not pretend to be able to forecast the short swings of the stock market," says Mr. Babson, "but I do know that the short interest developed since the recent bear raids—probably the largest in recent years—has reached a point where it is very dangerous. This is largely due to the fact that speculators all over the country have been carried away by the prevailing bearish propaganda and have gone 'short' just as they buy stocks when surface conditions look optimistic. It looks as easy to sell as to buy and it is my guess that the majority of the speculators do not understand the position that short selling places them in.

Wiggly line illustrated once more the extremely weak position of the speculator who is short. This stock had been trading between 40 and 64. The majority of the short interest probably sold it around 50. When the stock was called for there was none to be had. Prices soared and it was taken off the exchange. Settlement was finally made at the rate of $100 a share.

These spectacular cases illustrate our point, but do not represent the great losses resulting from short selling. Millions of dollars are endangered today on the short side of the present market, a growing accumulation that gets shakier as it piles higher. A rise of three to five points would start the drive that would practically wipe this interest out. However, fundamental conditions do not indicate that business has gone to pot. Business is still good. Conditions are against the short sellers and their chances to win dwindle as the short interest grows.

"In fact, general business, as reflected in the Babson-chart is still above normal by 4 per cent," concluded Mr. Babson, "and will doubtless continue into 1924. There is nothing in one fundamental situation to indicate that the stock market has reached its top. Short selling at best is dangerous—short selling against fundamental conditions is apt to be suicidal." (All publications rights strictly reserved.)

SOLDER LEAD ON ALIEN SOIL TO BE HONORED

Overseas Memorial Day Association and American Legion Work Out Plans for Consecration of Graves Overseas.

PARIS, May 19 (AP)—Memorial Day this year, according to plans now being developed by the Overseas Memorial Day association and the American Legion, will be the occasion for the final consecration of the graves of the 30,587 American soldiers whose bodies will rest forever in foreign soil.

To carry out this plan arrangements have been made to have Lt. Gen. Gutzburg address read, at the ceremonies at all of the eight military cemeteries abroad. This announcement is made by Colonel Frank E. Drake, president of the Memorial Day association.

The chief service of the day will be a solemn memorial ceremony in Paris on the morning of May 30, when the memorial tablets of the cluster of the American Pro-Cathedral of the Holy Trinity to the memory of the American divisions; the American ambulance corps and the American medical units, together with the statue of Columbia, are to be unveiled.

War Chiefs Attend.

This ceremony will be under the presidency of Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, and it is expected that the great allied war chiefs will attend. Invitations have been sent to Marshal Poch, representing France; Field Marshal Haig and Earl Beatty, representing the army and navy of Great Britain; General Baron Jacques, commander-in-chief of the Belgian army; General Diaz, Italian minister of war; General John J. Pershing and Alvin W. Cuyler, national commander of the American Legion.

As in previous years, the French government will cooperate in all the ceremonies with official representatives and troops at those burying places where it is possible to have them.

In the afternoon of May 30 impressive services will be held at the overseas military cemetery, just outside of Paris. It is hoped that the allied commanders will attend these services as well as those of the Pro-Cathedral. Similar services will take place at all the other cemeteries and these will be in the form of delegations from the Memorial Day association and the American Legion.

Flowers on Every Grave.

The plans provide, as in the past, for the placing of flowers on every soldier's grave in France, Belgium and Great Britain. The London post of the American Legion has assumed the responsibility for decorating all the graves at the Brookwood cemetery, the only place in England where American soldiers are buried. Similar plans have been made to decorate the graves of American soldiers at Wareghem, Belgium.

Where Do Young Men's Styles Originate?

Exclusive tailors in eastern college towns design many of them. The loose fitting, four-button sack came from the two old English colleges, Oxford and Cambridge.

Figures for Season Show Laval Jarman as Leader

Pitching Ace of High School Team Leads Teammates with the Willow with An Average of .437.

Final "official" averages for the high school baseball team, both in batting and fielding show a slight drop over the work at the half way mark, with some of the topnotchers slipping considerably.

Laval Jarman, pitching ace of the team, and general utility man, leads the field with an average in batting of .437. Cornell Jarman, Laval's brother, was up to the plate once and sent out a clean bingle, which gives him an average of 1.000, but of the 14 regulars, Laval is far ahead of the rest of his teammates.

This stellar performer has been the main cog in the batting department, never failing to deliver a clean hit when the hit was on, beside being the best hunter on the team. Laval is a junior and will be with the team next year.

Len Scott, utility outfielder, was at bat 10 times and was successful for an average of .400. This diminutive player, out for the first time in his four years at the school in this branch of sport, made a creditable showing. Len graduated last week and will have to do his pulling from the bleachers from now on, although it is rumored Len is headed for California to enter a college in the summer time.

Siggins Hits 400. Siggins, utility man, surprised his fondest admirers by making two hits out of five trips to the plate during the season for an average of .400. Siggins was used most of the season in the coaching box and did satisfactory work in this department. Siggins leaves us after having been on the baseball team for three seasons.

"Moose" Moroni, the elongated checker, who has endeared himself to the hundreds of fans who have followed the team throughout the season, clipped off an average of .375. "Moose" went out as a catcher, but after five minutes behind the bat during the class games, Coach Evans decided that he was a pitcher, and after weeks of hard work, the "Moose" has taught the art of controlling the ball, and pitching where his catcher wanted it. "Moose" is a junior, and will be with the team next year, and great things are expected of this speed maul.

Gerald Jarman, the team's flashy shortstop, comes next with an average of .337. Jerry has been a consistent hitter throughout the season and like his brother, Laval, has always delivered in the pinches. Jerry is a junior, and in all probability will be with the team next year. He was this year's captain, and was well thought of by all his teammates.

Moroni Jamison, ended the season with an average of .255, which is good considering that Moroni was shifted from pitcher's box to the outfield. Moroni bats from the portside. This was his last year at school and the fans will miss his long wallpops. Hammond Boosts Average. Hammond, commonly known as "Slim," ploughed through the season just finished with an average of .328. "Slim" had a poor start with the willow, being below .250 at the half way mark. Constant plugging put the lanky first baseman in the select class and "Slim," who is a sophomore, predicts an average close to .300 when the 1924 season ends.

John Nye, the southpaw right fielder, finished with an average of .327. John, although not the best fielder in the world, took a better cut at the ball than any member on the team, and he was his mighty wallop over the right field fence on Friday that won the game for the Twin Falls team. John leaves us this year, but his tree hitting will linger for a long time to come.

Kenny Atkinson, who tried for a backstop position last year, was shifted to center field this year on account of his hitting, and that Coach Evans made no mistake, is evidenced in Kenny's batting average of .327. This chunky outfielder, won one of the games atampa with his hitting and his hitting in the first Rosebelle game was responsible for the Blue and White victory. He graduated last week, and his services will be missed in the outfield next year.

Mussell Is Some Backstop. Edgar Mussell, dean of high school backstops, hit the apple to the tune of .273. This in a trial under his regular gait, but Ed is an outfielder, and was shifted behind the plate, when Evans failed to locate a backstop. Mussell's work behind the bat during the season puts him in a class by himself when it comes to taking care of pitchers, and his work at making men who were endeavoring to puffer bases, was the best ever seen for a high school player. Mussell who is a junior was elected captain of the team and ball team, and a better choice could not have been made.

Ray Hodgins, known to his admirers as "Spivie," batted .259. "Spivie" had considerable trouble with his arm during the season and couldn't get the old time zip on the ball while in the box but when it came to putting Texas leaguers over the third baseman's head, "Spivie" stood in a class without a competitor. Ray goes into the senior class next semester and will be out trying for a place on the team.

Walter Solek clipped off an average of .250 for the season. During the Twilight league of two years ago, "Slick" did some nice work with the willow, but he failed to get started throughout the season just closed. Solek is a graduate, and will try and give the local fans some thrills during the summer as he is listed on one of the Twilight teams.

Chet Jamison, utility outfielder batted .250 during the few times he was allowed to step to the plate. Chet takes a nice cut at the ball, and next year will find Chet right up with the rest of them when the batting averages are compiled. Chet is a junior.

Crom Slips. Stanley Crom, the topnotch third baseman of this section fell down in his hitting during the last half of the season and ended with .208. Crom hit the ball often enough but it went into someone's waiting mitt most of the time. Crom has one more year at school.

So that ends the list of the regulars and looking over the following table, it is found that Jerry Jarman led the team in runs scored with a total of 37. Laval Jarman was second with 27. Jerry Jarman was also high man with two-base hits with six to his credit. John Nye made four three-base hits during the season, and led in three baggers. Laval Jarman made three home runs which was one more than any of the other players could

SNOOK AND GOLDWATER TO PLAY FINAL MATCH

Logan and Bailey Aro Eliminated in Billiard Bounds of Three Cushion Billiard Tournament.

Goldwater continued on his way to the three cushion championship in the three cushion double elimination billiard tournament as Macauley's billiard parlor when he eliminated Logan Saturday evening, 25 to 15 in 67 innings.

Snook, in the second game of the evening, eliminated Bailey, 25 to 18 in 57 innings, leaving Goldwater and Snook to play for the title Monday evening at 8 o'clock, this game being 50 points.

In the first game Saturday evening, Goldwater took the lead at the outset, leading his opponent 10 to 2 in the seventh frame. Logan was off color, missing many easy errors, and playing wide open, while "Foxy" Goldwater continued throughout the game to play his usual safety game.

The score in the sixty-first frame showed Goldwater playing for one while Logan had tied up at the 11 mark. Logan, however, made the next four innings bringing his total to 13 before Goldwater went out in the sixty-seventh.

Snook took a commanding lead in the second game of the evening, marking 11 victories in the first 15 innings of play. Bailey registered six up to this time.

From the sixteenth to the thirty-fifth frame Snook gathered only three markers while Bailey tallied 11 up to the thirty-fourth. In the thirty-fifth Snook fooled the natives by clipping off a run of three and added another in the thirty-sixth. The forty-sixth and forty-seventh brought three more to the one and only, with Bailey trailing at 15, with Snook totalling 21. The rest was merely a matter of time, as they say in the "pen," and in the fifty-seventh Snook took himself into a clash with Goldwater.

MAKING UP WITH MEXICO.

The foreign business with which the United States is most concerned just now is being conducted in the Escudero palace in Mexico City. There two American commissioners are negotiating with Mexican commissioners, the former under the direction of Secretary Hughes and the latter under the direction of President Olvera. They are trying to remove the last difficulties that stand in the way of resuming diplomatic relations.

That means resuming business relations, and renewal business relations on a safe and friendly basis would mean much to both countries. It would mean more to Mexico than to the United States, however, because without recognition from Washington neither the Mexican government nor Mexican enterprise can obtain the capital it needs.

The outlook is better than it has been for many years. Conditions in Mexico are favorable. Bad prejudices have cooled on both sides. The Mexican administration is eager to get back into the family of nations, and our government is ready to welcome it.

Unimportant details are ignored. It is a question of broad principles, and seems to boil down to one principle.
That is, protection of foreign rights.

The American commissioners insist that Mexico as a nation shall respect property rights just as individuals, in any nation, are required to do. There can be no detraction to Mexico, even in this matter, but it is essential if Mexico is to re-enter the international family, where such a moral code prevails. It means that American property rights acquired in Mexico in the past, if acquired legally, must be honored now and hereafter.

Mexico is expected to agree, thus ending an uneasy chapter in North American history and paving the way for something like Pan-American unity.

AMERICAN DOLLARS ABROAD.

Europe is said to be hoarding American money. Not American gold, which is almost impossible for Europeans to obtain, but American paper. There are hints that our paper dollar may come into general use on the other side of the ocean as it has already in Cuba, where there is said to be one hundred million dollars of American money in circulation. This is considered important for two reasons.

It shows European confidence in our paper money abroad as what a financial writer calls "international currency," which enables the United States to continue holding its vast share of the world's store of gold, and even to continue increasing that store, without upsetting international finance and trade.
America then will be simply holding the gold reserve for the world's medium of exchange.

There are vast possibilities in that,
for financial power and trade extension.

The Light of Western Stars
A Romance
By Zane Grey
Illustrations by Irwin Myers

The hour was late when she rose from the table and told her guests to go to their rooms, don their riding clothes, pack what they needed for the long and adventurous camping trip that she hoped would be the climax of their western experience, and to snatch a little sleep before the cowboys roused them for the early start.

Madeline went immediately to her room, and was getting out her camping apparatus when a knock interrupted her.
"Who's there?" she questioned.
"Stewart," came the reply.

She opened the door. He stood on the threshold.

"May I speak to you?" he asked.
"Certainly," she hesitated a moment, then asked him in and closed the door. "Is—everything all right?"

"No. These lunatics stick to cover pretty close. They must have found out we're on the watch. But I'm sure we'll get you and your friends away before anything starts."

"Do you have any idea who is hiding in the house?"

"I was worried some at first. That Hawke acted queer. I imagined he'd discovered he was trailing bandits who might turn out to be smuggling guerrilla crews. But talking with your servants, finding a bunch of horses hidden down in the mesquite behind the pond—several things have changed my mind. My idea is that a cowardly handful of ruffian outcasts from the border have hidden in your house, more by accident than design. We'll let them cover their tracks without even a shot. If I didn't think so—well, I'd be considerably worried. It would make a different state of affairs."

"Stewart, you are wrong. I saw one of those bandits. I distinctly recognized him."

"One long step brought him close to her.
"Who was he?" demanded Stewart.
"Don Carlos."

He muttered low and deep, then said, "Are you sure?"

"Absolutely. I saw his figure twice in the hall, then his face in the light.
It could never mistake his eyes."

Madeline was tremblingly conscious that Stewart underwent a transformation. She saw as well as felt the leaping passion that changed him.

"Call your friends—get them in here!" he ordered, tersely, and wheeled toward the door.

"Stewart, wait!" she said.
He turned. His white face, his burning eyes, his presence now charged with definite, fearful meaning, influenced her strangely, weakened her.

"What will you do?" she asked.

"That needn't concern you. Get your party in here. Bar the windows and lock the doors. You'll be safe."

"Stewart! Tell me what you intend to do."

"I won't tell you," he replied, and turned away again.

"But I will know," she said. With a hand on his arm she detained him. She saw how he hesitated—felt the shock in him as she touched him. "Oh, I do know. You mean to fight!"

"Well, Miss Hammond, isn't it about time?" he asked. There was weariness, dignity, even reproach in his expression. "The fact of that Mexican's presence here in your house ought to prove to you the nature of the case. These vagueros, these guerrillas, have found out you won't stand for any fighting on the part of your men. Don Carlos is a sneak, a coward, yet he's not afraid to hide in your own house. He has to teach you won't let your cowboys hurt anybody. He's taking advantage of it. He'll rob, burn, and make off with you. He'll murder, too.
If it falls his way. These Greasers use knives in the dark. So I ask—isn't it about time we stop him?"

"Stewart, I forbid you to fight, unless in self-defense. I forbid you."

"What I mean to do is self-defense.
Haven't I tried to explain to you that just now we've wild times along this stretch of border? Must I tell you again that Don Carlos is hand and glove with the revolution? The rebels are crazy to stir up the United States.

You are a woman of prominence. Don Carlos would make off with you. If he got you, what little matter to cross the border with you? Well, where would the hue and cry go? Through the troops along the border? To New York? To Washington? Why, it would mean what the rebels are working for—United States intervention. In other words, war!"

"Oh, surely you exaggerate!" she cried.

"Maybe so. But I'm beginning to see the Don's game. And, Miss Hammond, it's awful for me to think what you'd suffer if Don Carlos got you over the line. I know these low-caste Mexicans.
I've been among the peons—the slaves."

"Stewart, don't let Don Carlos get me," replied Madeline, in sweet direct-ness.

She saw him shake, saw his throat as well as he swallowed hard, saw the hard fierceness return to his face.

"I won't. That's why I'm going after him."

"But I forbade you to start a fight deliberately."

"Then I'll go ahead and start one without your permission." He shook off her hand and strode forward.

"Please, don't go!" she called, beseechingly. But he kept on. "Stewart—"

A Growing Country Needs a Growing Power Company
Every year new homes, new industries, new churches, new schools and new commercial enterprises in this fast growing country must be supplied with electricity. This means new equipment—power plants, transmission lines, sub-stations, distribution lines, transformers and meters. New equipment calls for new capital. Shall this money be furnished by people living in the territory we serve, or by those living in other states who are seeking good investments?
The Idaho Power Company believes that its securities should be owned by those who use its service, thereby keeping the dividends earned at home, where they will further contribute to the upbuilding of this country. This company's operations have continued to expand constantly during the past few years. In 1916, 19,000 customers were being served as compared with more than 38,000 in December, 1922.
925 Idaho Power Customers Have Invested in IDAHO POWER COMPANY 7% PREFERRED STOCK
More than 100 customers and employes have bought Preferred Stock since our last announcement on May 1st, when we paid our twenty-sixth consecutive quarterly dividend. These people are investing their savings in this stock for the same reason that nearly two million other people in the United States have invested their money in Electric Light & Power securities.
No industry occupies a more substantial position today than Electric Light & Power Companies. Electricity is a servant without which there would be no telephone, no time-saving household servants, no street lights or other such modern conveniences.
The Idaho Power Company is under the direct jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commissions in the states in which it operates. The company's management and personnel are of the highest integrity and their ability has been convincingly proven by years of successful operation. Your money is SAFE in Preferred Stock and your dividends regular.

CLAIM MURTAUGH PERMIT GRANTED

Receive News from Washington of Action by Federal Body on Pumping Project.

Although no word has yet been received locally it has been announced in Washington, D. C., that the Federal power commission has granted the Murtaugh irrigation district its permit to construct a pumping unit at Auger falls to pump irrigation water for the district.

The granting of the permit is undoubtedly reported authentically and it removes the last big difficulty confronting the district, according to J. W. Porter, attorney for the district.

The next procedure will be the sale of bonds, the district having voted a $3,700,000 bond issue some time ago. The bonds cannot be sold until the routine legal process is completed with and it will be some time yet before work can be started on the pumping plant. It is understood that San Francisco financial interests has been desirous of taking up the permit of the district as soon as the permit was issued.

Chamber of Commerce Bureau Receives First Copy to Be Placed at Disposal of Public.

The first copy of a new map of the Twin Falls country, issued by the road bureau of the chamber of commerce, has been received and is now available at the office of the secretary.

A smaller map is included in which is shown the important highways across southern Idaho.

The road bureau has received word from W. E. Meacham of Baker, Ore., president of the Oregon Trail association, that the association is progressing with its interesting program in which is included the Twin Falls district and urging continued cooperation of the trail association's work by the Twin Falls district.

Lacking the required detailed estimate of the cost to be met by the Twin Falls highway district in the construction of the state highway graveling project running east from this city, the local highway board took no action on the district's appropriation at the meeting Saturday.

The directors confined their action at the meeting Saturday to consideration of routine business, including allowance of bills and discussion was principally on local road work.
