SOUTH LINE SURVEY TO BEGIN SOON

Preliminary Work to be Completed to Permit Building Operations Within the Next Sixty Days

In accordance with the purposes of the Union Pacific to carry out construction of the Bogerson-Wells railroad as soon as possible, contract engineers have been engaged with a view of starting the survey of the road within 10 days and persons in close touch with the developments of the project anticipate that actual construction work will be started in 60 days or sooner, assuming that the certificate of convenience and necessity will be granted by the Pacific in the meantime as expected.

Plans for beginning the survey of the terminal site at Wells on Monday and for the beginning of survey work on the right of way immediately after the completion of work on the terminal site were announced by W. Armstrong, chief engineer of the Oregon Short Line, who participated with E. P. Gray and J. S. Keel in the selection of the site for the southern terminal early this week.

Contact Building Reserved

A building has been selected at Contact as headquarters for the surveying work working from that point and arrangements have been made all along the line of the proposed road to care for the workmen, according to Mr. Keel.

J. D. Johnson, who had charge of survey work for the Idaho Central, will take charge of the survey at Wells and will conduct that work until Mr. Stacey, the man who made the original survey for the Union Pacific, can arrive.

Three Crews to be Employed

It was announced that Mr. Armstrong has selected a St. Louis engineer to have charge of the work on the upper end of the right of way. It is understood that the beginning of work has three crews at work on the survey, one of 15 men working north on the unsurveyed stretch from Wells, another of four men working south from the place done, and a third working toward Rogerson from Contact. The Union Pacific's original survey which extended south from Rogerson will be followed and none of the work done by the Idaho Central will be utilized, it is said. According to facts brought out during the negotiations at Wells the survey work should be completed within 60 days from the time it is started.

Further evidence that the long dreamed of project is soon to be a realization is contained in the firm belief that the company expects to let the contract for construction of the line from Contact first, without waiting for the completion of the survey from Wells to Contact. The fact that the Union Pacific has already surveyed the upper portion of the line paves the way for a quick completion of this part of the survey and consequently the beginning of the first construction at an early date is expected.

Although no option was obtained on the terminal site at Wells Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Keel met with the essential details of the southern terminal and that body, after making (Continued on Page Eight)

MOUNT CASE SOLUTION HANGS ON BIT OF PAPER

Discovery of Watersoaked Card, Believed Order for Fraternity Pin, Bartz Officials on New Search

CHICAGO, May 30 (AP)—Finding a water-soaked cardboard card believed to be an order ticket for a fraternity pin, which was found in the sand under the Evanston pier near the Leighton Mount's body, Northwestern university student, was found, has started authorities again on a search that they hope will solve the mystery surrounding Mount's death.

After weeks of investigation which ended without clearing the mystery that began when Mount disappeared years ago, men from the state's attorney's office began a search through the sand about the spot where the skeleton was found more than a month ago.

The piece of cardboard bearing the name of "The Crest company" and an undecipherable number, was found after several toms missing from the Leighton Mount's body. The text was later identified by a dentist as those of Mount. Authorities believe the cardboard was dropped by the person or persons who buried Mount's body. After he had been fatally injured in the class rush. The condition of the cardboard indicates that it was left there for a short time ago. Some would hold on to the theory of some that the body had been taken to the pier from another hiding place.

VICTIMS DETAIL OIL SWINDLES

Witnesses in "General" Lee Trial Tell of Brave Hopes and Disappointment

PORT WORTH, Tex., May 30 (AP)—That he had invested approximately $10,000 in the three promotion companies of the General Lee interests, expecting to receive a check for $30,000, but for which he received nothing, was the testimony of L. C. Smith of Williamsport, Pa., in the trial of the Lee interests today.

Numerous other witnesses put on the stand by the government testified how they had invested lesser amounts in the General Lee company on promises of big dividends and for which they received nothing. These witnesses included: Roy M. H. Clifford, of Millstead, Ill., also told the witness stand how he invested $1,100 in the third Lee company, the General Lee Development interests, and how he had invested $30,000 in the Lee interests in 30 days, but for which he received nothing.

Testimony Draws Picture Through the testimony of these witnesses, David Cahill, United States assistant attorney general, conducting the government's case, pictured the operations of the three defendants, Charles Schwartz, H. H. Schwarz, and "General" Robert A. Lee, in their alleged conspiracy to defraud the public through the mail.

Mr. Smith testified that he had come in contact with the Lee interests through circulars and letters sent him through the mails and he invested $100 in the General Lee interests, number one. The circulars and letters were in glowing terms "General" Robert A. Lee as successful geologist and holding him up as a descendant of the famous general. He was going to take the Lee interests into the glowing terms "General" Robert A. Lee as successful geologist and holding him up as a descendant of the famous general. Jones Sees Delay in Securing Funds for Basin Project

Education of Easterners to the Arid Land Problems Takes Time, Senator Says

SEATTLE, May 30, (AP)—A prediction that no large appropriation for the Columbia Basin irrigation project to water 1,750,000 acres in this state would be made by the 69th congress, meeting next December, was made today by Senator W. S. Jones, one of a party of senators and congressmen that arrived here last night on the army transport Cambria, and will leave Friday night for a tour of Alaska.

"I believe that the 69th congress will be in the right frame of mind to provide the funds for reclamation of many west coast areas," said Senator Jones. "It has taken some time to educate eastern representatives and senators to the arid land problems of the west."

The party, consisting of 54 persons, including four senators and 27 congressmen, passed the day in education and sight-seeing on their way to Alaska.

KIDNAPED, SAYS CLARA PHILLIPS

Los Angeles Hammer Murderer Declares Carsen Forced Her to Leave Jail

HOUSTON, May 30 (AP)—I did not kidnap him in Los Angeles, I was kidnaped and I can prove it to the satisfaction of District Attorney Woodfin.

Clara Phillips, tiger woman, made this statement to newspaper men tonight as the Southern Pacific Sunset limited was on its way between Beaumont and Houston. It was evoked by a telegram from Mr. Woodfin saying Mrs. Phillips, by breaking jail following her sentence for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, automatically shut herself out of further appeal.

According to the prisoner's story, Jess Carsen came to her cell in the Los Angeles jail and saved the bars. She was in a position to do so, but he pointed a revolver at her and told her she had to leave with him that it was the only way to "right an injustice."

Husband in Texas. Armour Phillips, husband of the woman, surprised her in the morning and told her to leave. He left, planning to board the train at Beaumont, but a search by officers failed to locate him in any of the coaches.

"If the worst comes and Clara is not granted a new trial, I am going to ask the authorities to let me serve her sentence, even if it means death," she said today. Her mother, Mrs. Dan W. Phillips, at Galveston.

"Let people criticize me as they wish," she letter continued. "I am not feeling any animosity to doctors and I feel she is the victim of unfortunate circumstances, and we know that she is innocent. She has always been a wonderful wife and I am proud that I have been faithful to her during her trouble. I love her all the more because she has been so brave."

Silence Betrays Worry. Throughout the two hour trip, from Beaumont to Houston, Mrs. Phillips refused to answer questions of newspaper men. Only in periods of silence did she give signs of worry, forcing a slight quiver from her lips with a set smile.

President Adds Pledge to Prayer for Lasting Peace

Declares for Draft of Every Resource, and Activity and All Wealth if War Comes Again to America

WASHINGTON, MAY 30 (AP)—Standing in Arlington memorial amphitheater and facing the wooded slopes where rest thousands of the war dead of this nation, President Harding today uttered a prayer that the United States "do its full part toward making war unlikely, if not impossible."

"We have already proven that we can have less of armament," the president declared. "Let us strive for the assurance that we shall have none of war."

Sincerely had the applause from those assembled in the great national cemetery for the Memorial Day exercises died away when the chief executive coupled with his prayer the hope that should war come again to America, "we will not abstain from the service of the youth of the land."

Several minutes passed before the applause which greeted this pronouncement allowed Mr. Harding to continue and he then uttered the prayer.

"I will draft every resource, every activity, all of wealth and make common cause of the nation's preservation."

FRANCE JOINS WITH AMERICA IN MEMORIAL

Poincare Bows Head in Tribute at Dedication while Marshal Foyolle Eulogizes the "Doughboys" at Cemetery

PARIS, May 30, (AP)—The emblems of France and America were unveiled today as, throughout the nation, homage was paid the soldiers from overseas who lie in the soil of the land in which they fell during the great war.

Whether sleeping their last sleep in the burial grounds of northern France, or standing in the solemn fields, from which the sombre vestiges of war have not yet completely disappeared or resting in the luxuriant gardens of the American cemeteries on the slopes of Mount Valerien overlooking Paris, not one of the brave dead who gave up their lives in France was forgotten.

Flowers bloomed tonight over their mortal remains after the prayers said for the repose of their souls.

Premier Poincare's head was bowed in tribute to the American dead at the dedication of the memorial in the American church of the Holy Trinity here and the eyes of Marshal Foyolle were dimmed with tears as he eulogized the service in Suresnes cemetery. At Lens, Tours, Romagne, the cemeteries in which American dead are buried—Memorial Day exercises were held.

Pays Tribute for France. Standing on a little mound in Suresnes cemetery, where the two plain wooden crosses which mark the graves of Howard Richard Lines of the American field service, and Barton Morrison of the American Red Cross, Marshal Foyolle, by great emotion, paid tribute to the brave American boys who reposed within sight of the city they assisted in keeping outside the reach of the enemy's bullets.

Following the old soldier of France, Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, paid tribute of America to her fallen sons. "We are assembled," he said, "to honor the great soldiers who in the years before, and as will others be in all the years to come, to do honor to the men who died in France in defense of our honor and the world's liberty."

They ask the living to be ever mindful of the cause which impelled these brave men to cross the ocean in all the flush of hope and youth and lay down their lives in a distant land. They were noble and they know why they came."

"This anniversary brings vividly home to us the fact that the first phase of this war was won on the battlefields by great valor, energy and simultaneously there began the second phase, the struggle for peace, the winning of which has become, (Continued on Page Five)

SEEKS TURKEY'S PLEDGE TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS

American Persists in Fight for Judicial Safeguards Lost by Allies by Capitulation to Immet

LAUSANNE, May 30 (AP)—The fight for judicial safeguards for foreign residents in Turkey, which was lost by the allies, who accepted Immet Pasha's proposal, is being carried on by the American minister in Ankara. The American minister is seeking additional Turkish assurances for the protection of foreigners, among many Americans.

The allies had long contended that foreign legal advisers should have a veto power over arrests and domiciliary searches, but that while they may have lost their main point, Turkey has agreed to concessionary safeguards, which makes the settlement a compromise. The allies say their only concession was an agreement to notify the advisors of arrests, but they remark that there is a distinct provision that the advisors must not seek to interfere with trials. The agreement to notify the advisors will be applied by Turkey to hold office for five years, to replace the old consular courts and judicial capitulations, some of which were found in a half year evening for eight weeks under way at the Chamber of Commerce rooms here. Officials of Oakland stores are supporting the school.

Further investigation by the police led them to believe that the boy may have ended his own life because he had been left at home with other members of his family went to the theater.

NATION CANNOT BUILD HOPES ON TIMBER IMPORTS

Forest Service Points Out Need for Regarding the Country's Woodlands as Crop Areas Rather Than Mining Fields

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(Special to the News)—Any idea that the United States can depend upon the forests of other countries to supply its timber needs for its own forests have been mined out must be abandoned, declares the forest service, in an article in the 1922 yearbook of the United States department of agriculture, entitled, "Timber: Mine or Crop?" in which the necessity for regarding the country's forests as crop lands rather than as timber mines is emphasized.

"This country's present imports and exports of timber and other forest products nearly balance," says the article. "It may be expected that as local shortages develop within the next few years, as has already been the case with pulp wood in the northwest, they will be covered in some part by importation, particularly from Canada. Our imports will probably soon exceed our exports. Any hope, however, that we may depend upon importations from abroad when our reserves are exhausted must be abandoned."

Soft Woods Form Bulk of Supply.

The forest service points out that two-thirds of all lumber consumed in the United States is soft wood—pine, fir, spruce and hemlock. It is further stated that there are only three great bodies of coniferous timber in the world outside of the United States. One is in Canada, a second extends from Scandinavia eastward through Finland and European and Asiatic Russia to the Pacific ocean, and the third, of relatively minor importance, is in central and southern Europe, chiefly in the rear Austria-Hungary.

The article, which is the most comprehensive publication on the timber situation in the United States ever put out by the department of agriculture, states:

Europe Cannot Supply Own Needs.

"In Europe the few countries still having large reserves of timber do not supply the needs of the rest of the European nations. The area formerly embraced in Austria-Hungary was overcutting its forests. It is further in order to export about 322 million cubic feet year. To maintain their exports at the former amounts these countries will have to limit their own consumption to very low levels seriously deplete their forests. They will probably do both for the next decade or two in order to rehabilitate their economic status with the result that eventually domestic needs will absorb all that their forests can produce."

Scandinavia has but a small surplus of structural timber. Her exports consist mainly of pulp wood and pulp. Finland and Russia are therefore the only countries in Europe which can be counted on as important sources of structural timber to meet the large needs of their nearby neighbors.

Orient Needs Siberia's Timber.

"China, with her hundreds of millions of people, is likely to develop industrially and needs her timber needs must be supplied from the Siberian forests. Japan, although still an exporter of certain species of timber, already imports large quantities from Siberia. Even if all the Siberian timber were at the undisputed call of the United States and timber could stand the season of transportation from Siberia to the interior and eastern states, the quantity available for annual export would amount to but a small part of our present consumption.

"The timber needs of the United States are so enormous, amounting to nearly half of the consumption of the world, that it is unreasonable that there can be depended, except in small part or at excessive prices, by importations from other countries."

"Although the magnitude of the outlook is now permitting the difficulties in securing the amounts necessary are no less serious. The tropical forests of South America and Africa contain vast areas of hardwood timber, some of which can be used for the purpose of our own hardwoods when they are gone. "These tropical forests, however, will probably remain undeveloped on any large scale for many decades. The great variety of species on each acre make it expensive and difficult to log the scattered non-replantable trees, and the little known species of the various woods, the difficulty in seasoning them, their heavy weight and the high cost of transportation, may prevent their use in large quantities for various uses. It is doubtful whether the exploitation of tropical hardwoods can come soon and fast enough to meet our pending shortage of sawing material short of prohibitive costs."

CANADIAN DESPERADO IS BROUGHT DOWN BY POSSE

Leo Rogers, Fugitive Man Killer who Escaped from Court Room with Flourish of Paper Pistol, is Killed

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 30 (AP)—Leo Rogers, fugitive man killer, was shot and killed by a posse tonight.

The escaped desperado emerged from the bush about eight miles from Nipissing late today long enough to be brought down by a bullet from a member of Inspector Storey's party, which, with others, had been hunting Rogers since his escape from a crowded court room with a flourish of a cardboard pistol.

The killing of Rogers came as the climax to one of the most dramatic and hair-raising episodes ever experienced. "Bad Leo" brought down two of his pursuers and wounded a third before he himself was dropped by a bullet to the chest. Fred Lewis, shortly after his sensational escape and today sent a bullet through the heart of Sergeant John J. Rignhart of the provincial police, member of a party that pursued the gunman to his father's home.

Rogers was shot by Inspector Storey as the desperado was washing his hands in a small lake near Nipissing. Rogers was seen rowing down the lake in a small boat by Allen Johnson, a farmer, who called the constable. He reported Rogers was caught unaware and had no opportunity to answer Inspector Storey's fire.

Wounded "Bad Leo" fell to the ground and members of the inspector's party, which numbered 11 men, are reported to have sent bullet after bullet into the man who had killed one of their comrades.

Ringed Changes on Death.

The death was announced the other day of a gentleman who, the son of James Death, had changed his name to D'Aeth. That is an unusual variation of a name which one would not willingly choose, though the old family of the D'Aeths of Knowlton Court, Kent, claim that the surname is derived from Aeth, in Flanders. The directory reveals many efforts to disguise the melancholy association, including Deathe, Dearth, De Ath and DeAth.

SEARCH FOR AMERICAN WOMAN WHO DIED ABOARD DURING WAR

CHICAGO, May 30 (AP)—To complete the record of American women who died in service over seas in the late war, the national Women's Overseas Service League will devote this Decoration Day to a final effort to obtain the necessary data.

"Names of 106 'gold star women' obtained by a careful search of A. E. F. records, were made public for the first time by the league last Armistice Day. This was followed by the discovery that a number of American service women died and were buried in foreign soil prior to America's entry into the war.

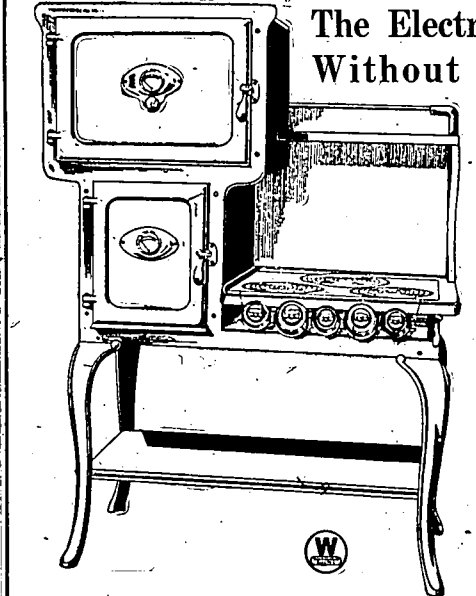

"It is the names of these women we hope now to procure," said Miss Irene Givensson of Washington, D. C., curator of the American Red Cross museum, who is in charge of the research work. "We know that many American women volunteered with many relief organizations serving in Russia, Serbia, France and other countries from August 1, 1914, until we entered the war. These names are difficult to trace."

The "roll of honor" will be called at the next overseas women's reunion to be held here June 14-17.

Minnesota Driver Achieves Ambition in Again Winning Indianapolis Speedway 500-Mile Run

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP)—Tommy Milton of St. Paul, believed the ambition of his brilliant racing career today, when for the second time, he won the 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis motor speedway, repeating his glory of 1922 before a crowd of 150,000 spectators. It was the greatest triumph that ever witnessed a sporting event in America.

Milton's time for the 500 miles was 5:28:06.27, giving him an average speed of 91.4 miles an hour, as compared with the record breaking speed of 91.35 miles made a year ago by Earl Hartz of Los Angeles, who finished second in the 1922 race, thundered across the finishing line five miles behind Milton, with Jimmy Murphy in third place. In the 1922 race, was third, about 13 miles behind Hartz. Hartz's time was 5:22:06.00 for an average of 90.06 miles an hour. Murphy finished in 5:10:36.64 for an average speed of 88.05 miles an hour.

Chicago's Earl Cooper, who finished fourth, was 11 minutes behind Milton. Cooper was the only one of the German entries, which were eliminated because of motor trouble and the third German entry was wrecked in a mishap.

Milton, who collected about $35,000 for his reward of victory, gave a wonderful exhibition of auto driving, and during as he was pushed every mile of the race by the thundering speed motors attempting to defeat him.

Murphy furnished the race fans with thrill after thrill, mile after mile, first holding first place, one time second, third, fourth and fifth. He showed rare bursts of speed which undoubtedly on the stretches were better than 100 miles an hour.

SUICIDE'S DEATH HITS DAUGHTERY

J. W. Smith, Close Friend of Attorney General, Uses Gun to End Own Life

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Jesse W. Smith, known in minor circles as official Washington as the intimate associate and trusted political lieutenant of Attorney General Daugherty, shot and killed himself today in the hotel apartment occupied by him and the attorney general in common for the last two years.

Mr. Smith left behind no word of explanation, but his friends expressed the belief that he was weary over ill health which led him to end his life. For some time he had suffered from a kidney disorder and although outwardly he had appeared active and cheerful, he had told his physicians that he feared there was no cure for him.

Attorney General Daugherty, who had spent last night at the White House, was told of the tragedy at once, because of fear that the shock might react seriously on his health. When he learned of his friend's death Mr. Daugherty expressed surprise. His grief was evident.

Smith played golf yesterday with the attorney general and several other friends. Later he complained of fatigue but gave no other indication of physical distress. After dining in his apartment with Warren F. Martin, special assistant to the attorney general, he retired at 9 p. m.

Mr. Martin was awakened in the apartment for the night, was awakened early this morning by the sound of a revolver shot. He rushed into Mr. Smith's bedroom and found him on the floor with a bullet wound in his temple and a revolver by his side. Death was instantaneous. A verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner's jury.

Mr. Smith's home was at Washington Court House, Ohio, where for some years he had been proprietor of a department store. A will written Monday on hotel stationery, found among his personal effects, left his estate to a nephew and several others.

Mr. Smith was also known for years as a friend of the attorney general's maintenance of President and Mrs. Harding. He frequently was a White House guest for informal social affairs and on several occasions was among those accompanying the president on trips. It is said Mr. Smith had not appeared independent and had given no indication that he contemplated suicide.

LEGION AND ELKS WILL START TWILIGHT GAMES

Veterans and Antlered Head to Cross Bats in Contest that Will Open New Ball Park, if Weather Permits

Ray Brown and his gang of baseball warriors, listed in the Twilight League as the American Legion team, will try to beat the Elks brigade this evening at the new ball park, providing, of course that Jupiter Pluvius is willing. This will be the third time this week that games have been scheduled only to be postponed on account of inclement weather.

Manager Brown of the Legion team thinks that his team in the league with Garrity for a pitcher and Mussel behind the bat. King is slated at first, with Gray, former University of Idaho infielder, taking care of second base.

Jack Yochum has been shifted in short, and promises to be one of the real stars of the night at this position. Gold Spence, who pitched for Ogden last year, will be seen at third, taking an occasional fling in the box. In the outfield Brown, Luags of "Slim" Lyons, who is also slated for some slab duty during the season. At-bats, the fielder on this year's high school team, will take care of the high ones that drift toward center field. Forman will be in right field, and starts the season as a right pitcher also.

Harry Bennett of the Elks team has been out of town for the past week, so it was impossible to get a lineup from the antlered head, but Ray Holden will not start in the pitching with Thomas behind the bat. Exeter is named for first base, and Bill Bailey, acting manager, until Bennett returns, will hold down the keystone sack.

Jerry Jarman, the dean of high school shortstops, will take the rollers that sail on the ground between second and third. Henry Adams will be at third. Whitney, Joshi and MacFarlan are the bats to watch for fly balls knocked to the outfield.

The game will start at 6:15.

BOISE CIVILIAN SQUAD BEATS ARMY POLO TEAM

Record Breaking First Day Crowd Sees Hap-Fought Opening Game of Northwestern Tournament

BOISE, May 30 (AP)—Boise's civilian polo quartet, 1922 champions of the northwest, opened the season's schedule here this afternoon by defeating Camp Lewis' Fourth Field Artillery four, 9-8, in a savagely fought Memorial Day classic of eight 7-12 minute chukkers at the Boise barracks field. The Camp Lewis aggregation are this season defending the ninth army corps area trophy won here last June.

"The skin" (unadorned) field was fast for the scheduled opening after a little watering and dragging during the past week, and rain Tuesday afternoon added to the slobbery. The game was played under a threatening cloud bank which with a hint of wind, failed to throw dismay into the ranks of local enthusiasts and a record crowd for a "first game" was admitted to the grounds.

Camp Lewis, outclassed in the early periods of play, came back in the last two chukkers and were apparently only prevented from a score by the final signal. Major W. R. Buckler, team captain, and Lieutenant O. R. Marriott, No. 1, were high point men and stellar performers for the red and blue jerseyed visitors, while Herbert Lemm, team captain, and Ed Oster, Boise's No. 3, drove in all of Boise's points. They were the local luminaries also in offensive and defensive attacks.

Several of the players were unharmed during the bitter struggle and Lemm received a nasty cut on the head in the second period by a mallet in a maul in front of the "Camp Lewis goal." The score stood 5-3 for Boise when the sixth period opened. A goal by Marriott after one minute of seconds of play cut down Boise's lead, and gave the visitors an impetus on their "come-back." Oster scored for Boise a minute later and both teams milled and battled without a score until near the close of the seventh chukker, when Marriott scored again. Major Buckler scored once and Marriott twice in the eighth period, while stars were held to their nine talks.

WAR ON PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF RAILWAYS SEEN

Heads of Six Big Western Systems Unite in Declaration that 'Nationalization is La-Follette Forces' Aim

CHICAGO, May 30 (AP)—Government ownership was declared today by a committee of western railway presidents, composed of the heads of six large systems, to be the real purpose behind the conference on valuation held here last week by the so-called progressive group. The statement, signed by S. M. Peckton, president of the Chicago Great Western; Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central; H. E. Bryant, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; W. H. Finley, president of the Chicago and Northwestern; and J. E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, declared the real purpose of the conference was to "make successful private management impossible and government ownership unavoidable."

See Executed Plan.

The six rail executives declared this was but a part of a concerted plan to discontinue private ownership and operation and permit government ownership to have an inning. "The plan will be to call this conference stated its purpose was to bring about more adequate representation of the public with respect to the work of valuation of the railroads being done by the interstate commerce commission," the statement of the executives said. "It is a notable fact, however, that almost every man who accepted the invitation has been, or is now, an avowed advocate of government ownership, and that most of those who delivered public addresses explicitly advocated government ownership."

Under LaFollette Law.

Statements made at the conference were challenging by the executives, one of them saying that the roads are seeking and the interstate commerce commission is considering giving them a valuation of 10 billion dollars in excess of what the railroads are entitled to. This, the rail heads declared, was without foundation and that the roads and the commission were proceeding under the valuation law of 1913, the result of which was Senator Robert M. LaFollette, chairman of the valuation conference.

The assertion of railroads that the actual valuation of railroads does not exceed thirteen billion dollars, is based entirely on valuations made by themselves and market prices of railway stocks and bonds during the time when rail securities were at the lowest prices. "Statements have been made that the railroads are seeking a valuation of $23,000,000,000. In the rate advance case of 1920 the railroads received $40,000,000, this figure being based on the actual look cost of roads and equipment. The tentative valuation made by the commission at the time was $1,500,000,000 less.

Fight Confession.

"All the railroads are seeking is that in making a valuation of their properties the interstate commerce commission shall treat them in accordance with the provision of the constitution as interpreted by the courts. To disregard this constitutional provision and the court decision under them, as railroads politicians demand, would involve such confiscation of private property and investment made in good faith, as has never occurred in the history of this country."

"Every six weeks one ship is to go through the Strait of Magellan to western South American harbors by way of the same intermediate stops in Europe.

The president's prayer that the United States do its part to make war impossible, recalled how two years ago he had stood "at Huerfano pier among five thousand dead in their flag-draped coffins."

"There is death in war's unending allotment, corridors of sorrow and grief that no human soul could bear," he said, and concluded: "Under the spell of the great sorrow which grips my heart, I said then, and repeat now, it must not be again. It must not be again!"

Standing rigid at attention, 50 sailors from the U. S. S. Pittsburgh and 20 picked men from the American Legion heard the ambassador eulogize their comrades. Two battalions from the 119th and 50th French regiments—the "kiss of the French army"—with their military bands alternating in playing the Star Spangled Banner and the Marseillais stood guard over the tomb of their American brothers-in-arms.

Close by were grouped fifty of France's war orphans, the boys in plain, dark uniforms and the girls in black dresses, and near them a delegation of gold star mothers from America, headed by John M. Gallagher of Wayne, Pa.

Immense crowds of people covered the sides of Mount Valerian as the Rev. Chauncey Godrich, lifelong American missionary, opened the ceremony with prayer for the dead. Bishop Brent of Buffalo, then consecrated graves cemetery "as a plot of ground henceforth to be used for other purpose than glorifying America's dead in the great war."

CLARA PHILLIPS ON WAY TO SAN QUENTIN PRISON

Los Angeles Hammer Murderess Apprised of Denial of Appeal for New Trial; Will Continue Fight

NEW ORLEANS, May 30 (AP)—Clara Phillips, in charge of 120 California officers, left New Orleans at noon today aboard the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited for San Quentin prison to begin serving a sentence of 10 years to life for the murder last summer near Los Angeles of Mrs. Alberta Meadows.

Mrs. Phillips was not told until a short while before her departure that her appeal for a new trial had been denied. She received the news without emotion in her cell in Parish prison, where she was placed yesterday on her arrival from Louisiana.

"It doesn't matter," she said, "I'm going back to start my fight and I'll keep on fighting until I convince the courts and the public that I have been unjustly convicted."

A great throng gathered at the railroad station in the hope of getting a glimpse of the convicted murderer.

In the party with Mrs. Phillips were Eugene Bischoff, under sheriff of Los Angeles, and Walter Hunter, a deputy sheriff, who had her in charge. Mrs. Bischoff, wife of the under sheriff, and Edna Mae Jackson, sister of Mrs. Phillips.

ATLANTA EXPORTS 50,000 ELKS AT JULY GATHERING

ATLANTA, May 30, (AP)—Not less than fifty thousand Elks from all parts of America are expected to be present at the annual convention of the grand lodge of the order which meets in Atlanta July 9 to 16. The gathering will assemble delegations from Maine to Hawaii, with present indications pointing to representation from a large majority of the 1,600 lodges in the country.

This is the first time that a convention of the grand lodge of Elks has ever been held in the southeast, and the first time in ten years that the order has come south.

The Atlanta lodge is completing preparations to entertain a minimum of 25,000 visitors. The hotel capacity will be enlarged by July 1, college dormitories will be operated as temporary hotels, two vast Pullman cities will be set up in the heart of the city, and the grounds and buildings of the Southeastern Fair will be converted into a monster tourist camp to accommodate several thousand southern lodges which will make the trip by automobile. Thousands of private homes will also be opened.

A special railroad rate of a fare and a half for the round trip, under the identification certificate plan, will be in force over practically all lines.

THE modern motor is built to stand a lot of rough treatment and still give service. But the worst punishment it gets is faulty lubrication. Here is the source of grief—the wail of the pocketbook—when big bills come in for preventable repairs and replacements.

Strange, too, isn't it?—When all you have to do is shake off the old, careless habit of asking for "a quart of oil" and say "Polarine" instead. Start today with the correct grade of Polarine—remember there is a grade exactly suited to the lubrication requirements of each type of engine. Consult the chart.

WAR DAMAGE CLAIMS

The bill for nearly one billion five hundred million dollars of war claims presented to Germany now goes to the mixed claims commission. This body consists, at Germany's suggestion, of two Americans and one German. It need not be inferred that all the American claims will necessarily be granted because the American commissioners have power to grant them.

The government claim for the largest chunk, three hundred and sixty-six million dollars, mainly for the army of occupation, is least likely to be cut, since Germany wanted that army on the Rhine after the armistice in preference to allied troops, and agreed to pay for it. The claims of the Latinian victims will call for generous handling, and yet may stand some trimming. Losses caused by submarines operating contrary to the laws of legitimate warfare will probably meet sympathetic treatment.

One interesting feature is the great number of claims submitted by German-Americans for the loss of property in Germany. Among these claimants is George Sylvester Viereck, who edited "The Patriot" during the war and was outspoken in his defense of Germany. He wants thirteen thousand dollars.

INVITING UNEMPLOYMENT

An epidemic of building strikes seems to be threatened. With building operations at the peak, and the demand for skilled labor in the building trades far out-running the supply, the workmen emulate the good old rule of "charging all the traffic will bear."

This is absurd because, if the unions get what they want, they will merely a temporary advantage and are sure to lose in the long run. Building costs already are prohibitive. If wage scales are to rise higher than they are now, and remain there, very soon there will not be any building—and with no building, there will be no wages at all.

THE HOARDER

The other day, when a wealthy woman died suddenly, and relatives entered her house for the first time in many years, they found it so crowded with all sorts of junk that space had to be cleared before the coffin could be set up. An auction conducted for an entire week after the funeral disposed of only a small part of the accumulation.

The most pitiful thing about the case is that none of the stuff which the woman had bought and hoarded through many years was either particularly valuable or interesting. She was simply possessed with a mania for possession. A tin stevedore or a remnant of two yards of calico served her passion for accumulation just as well as a Whistler etching or the rarest marble. She had crowded her life with trash just as she had cluttered her home, until there was no room for friendliness or helpfulness or beauty.

Of course she was unbalanced and carried the thing to extremes. But most human beings hold a lot of stuff, material and mental, as they go through life, which is valueless in itself and crowds out a deal that is more worth while.

News disappeared. Madeline as a cat Monty stalked out. Madeline heard his soft, swift steps pass from her door into her office. He had left his gun there, Madeline trembled. She saw Stewart get up quietly and without any chance of expression on his dark, sad face leave the patio. Nick Stevedore followed him. Stillwell dropped his vestless. As he looked, shivering at the silence, his huge smile vanished. His face set into the old grudgingness and the red slowly thickened into black. Stillwell went out and closed the door behind him.

Then there was a blank silence. The enjoyment of the moment had been suddenly snatched away. Madeline glanced down the lines of brown faces to see the pleasure fade into the old familiar hardness.

"What's wrong?" asked Alfred, rather stupidly. The change of mood had been too rapid for him. Suddenly Madeline interrupted him. "I'm going to see who's butted in here to spoil our dinner," he said, and strode out.

He returned before any one at the table had spoken or moved, and now the dull red of anger mottled his forehead.

"It's the sheriff of El Cajon!" he exclaimed, contemptuously. "Pat Howe with some of his tough deputies come to arrest Gene Stewart. They've got that poor little Mexican girl out there tied on a horse. Confound that sheriff!"

Madeline entirely rose from the table, and started for the door. The cowboys jumped up. Alfred barred her progress.

"Alfred, I am going out," she said. "No, I guess not," he replied. "There's no place for you here, there'll be light. You can do nothing. You must not go."

"Perhaps I can get out trouble," she replied.

This quelled the gesticulating, quarrelsome cool, quiet, with something ominous about him. "Have, I'll submit to arrest without any fuss," he said, slowly. "If you'll take the ropes off that girl."

"Nope," replied the sheriff. "She got away from me. She's a tough one. I'll have to wait until she's brought in."

Madeline thought she saw Stewart give a slight start. But an uncountable distance came over her eyes, at brief intervals obscuring her keen sight.

"All right, let's hurry out of here," said Stewart. "You'll make a good one, and once enough. Ride down to the corral with me. I'll get my horse and go with you."

"Hold on!" yelled Howe, as Stewart turned away. "Not so fast. Who's your horse? You'll ride one of my pair horses, an' you'll go in iron."

"You want a horse?" queried Stewart, with sudden swift start of passion. "Want to? How, haw! Nope, Stewart, that jest my way with horse-ties, riders, Greasers, murderers, an' such. See here, you Sneed, get off an' let the iron on this horse."

"The guard called Sneed slid off his horse and began to fumble in his saddle-bags. Stillwell was gazing at Stewart in a kind of imploring amazement.

"Gene, you ain't got to stand for this handout," said Stewart. "You're my old friend, I'm an outsider here. There's no call for Miss Hammond and—my brother and Florence to be worried further about me. Their happy day has already been spoiled enough, account. I want to get out quick."

"Wal, you might be too d—n considerate of Miss Hammond's sensitive feelings." There was now no trace of the courteous, kindly old rancher. He looked harder than stone. "How about my feelings? I want to know if you're all set for this mesquite grove. This just gap of the old—run-guzzled frontier sheriffs, put in iron an' buy-tie this an' drive you off to jail!"

"Wal, by Gawd! You, Gene Stewart! What's come over you? Why, you're a feller, then tomorrow you can ride in an' give yourself up like a gentleman."

"No, I'll go. Thanks, Bill, for the way you had the boys would stick to me. Hurry, Howe, before my mind changes."

His voice broke at last, betraying the wonderful control he had kept over his passions. As he ceased speaking he seemed suddenly to become spiritless. He dropped his head.

When the man Sneed came forward, flushed and angry, Madeline's blood turned to ice. She would have forgotten Stewart then for lapsing into the kind of cowboy tie had been her blind and sickly sentiment to adhere.

This was a man's West—a man's game. At that moment, with her hand on the door, she had heard the sound of the violence which she had so deplored; she would have welcomed the action that had characterized Stewart's treatment of Don Carlos; she had in her the sudden dawning temper of a woman who had been so long in the life of a man.

But Stewart held forth his hands to be unmanacled. Then Madeline heard her own voice burst out in a ringing, imperious "Wal!"

Said Stewart, the manacles, Stewart's face took on a chalky whiteness. Have, in a slow, stupid embarrassment beyond his control, removed his sombrero in a respect that seemed wrenched from him.

"Mr. Howe, I can prove to you that Stewart was not involved in any way whatever with the crime for which you want to arrest him."

The sheriff's stare underwent a blinking change. He coughed, stammered, and tried to speak. Manifestly, he had been through completely of his mind, and the present slowly merged into discontinuity.

"It was absolutely impossible for Stewart to have been connected with that assault," went on Madeline, swiftly, "for he was with me in the waiting room of the station at the moment the assault was made, and he was in my view when I heard the voices of quarreling men."

The language was Spanish. I heard a woman's voice mingling with the others. It, too, was Spanish, and I could not understand. But the tone was beseeching. Then I heard footsteps on the gravel. Just outside the door then there were horse, furious voices, a scuffle, a muffled shout, a woman's cry, the thud of a falling body, and rapid footsteps of a man running away. Next, the girl Bonita staggered into the door. She was white, trembling, terror-stricken, and she begged me to take her to my room."

"Here, you fellows, give me a chance to say a word." As Stewart appeared the Mexican girl suddenly seemed wretched out of her stupor. She strained at her bonds, as if to lift her hands beseechingly. A flush animated her haggard face, and her big eyes lighted.

"Senior Gene!" she moaned. "Help me! I so seek. They beat me, rope me, mos' keel me. Oh, help me, Senior Gene!"

"The station agent an' operator both gone?" "Yes." "How soon did this teller Stewart show up?" Howe continued, with a very smile.

"Very soon after my arrival. I think it was fifteen minutes, possibly a little more." "An' what time was the 'Greasers shot'?" queried Howe, with his little eyes gleaming like coals.

"Probably close to half past one. It was two o'clock when I looked at my watch at Clarence Kingsley's house. Directly after Stewart sent Bonita away he took me to Miss Kingsley's. So, standing for the walk and a few minutes conversation with her, I can pretty definitely say the shooting took place at about half past one."

"What 're you drivin' at?' he roared, his face black again. "Evidence," snapped Howe. "Evidence marveled at this interruption, and he immediately drew her glance she saw him gray-faced as ashes, shaking, utterly unnerved."

"I thank you, Miss Hammond," he said, haughty. "But you needn't answer any more of Howe's questions. It's— It's not necessary. I'll go with him now, under arrest. Bonita will corroborate your testimony in court, and that will save me from this—this man's spite."

Madeline, looking at Stewart, seeing a humility she at first took for cowardice, and finally divined that it was not fear for himself which made him draw further disclosures of that night, but fear for himself she might suffer through him.

Pat Howe cocked his head to one side, like a vulture about to strike with his beak, and cunningly eyed Madeline. "Confound it, as far as testimony, what you've said is sure important an' conclusive. But I'm calculatin' that the court will want to hear explained why you stayed from eleven-thirty till one-thirty in the waiting room along with Stewart."

His deliberate speech met with what Madeline imagined a remarkable reception from Stewart, who gave a tigerish start; from Stillwell, whose big hands tore at the neck of his shirt, as if he was choking; from Alfred, who made a dash for the door, to be stopped by the cold and silent Nels; from Monty Price, who uttered a violent "Aw," which was both a hiss and a roar.

In the rush of her thought Madeline could not interpret the meaning of these three hasty forward, at that moment. But they were portentous. Even as she was forming a reply to Howe's speech she felt a chill creep over her.

"Stewart detained me in the waiting room," she said, clear-voiced as a bell. "But we were not alone—all the time." For a moment the only sound following her words was a gasp from Stewart. Howe's face became transformed with a hideous amazement and joy.

"Detained?" he whispered, craning his lean and corded neck. "How's that?" "Stewart was drunk. He—"

"Wal now, my lady, I reckon your story, 'if it tallies with Bonita's an' Padre Marcos', will clear Gene Stewart in the eyes of the court." Here he grew slower, more biting, sharper and harder of face. "But you needn't expect Pat Howe or the court to swallow that part of your story—about being detained unwilling!"

Large Crowds Attend Annual Memorial Day Services at Cemetery Following Parade Through Streets

Joining with every other true American community in a day of reverence, Twin Falls gave up consideration of routine daily affairs Wednesday in honor of the memory of those who gave up their lives in defense of their country in time of war.

Sincere appreciation of the meaning of the supreme sacrifice made by the heroes who fell at Gettysburg at Richmond and Vicksburg, at San Juan Hill, and at Chateau Thierry was evident, particularly at the memorial services at the cemetery.

Plans for the observance of the day were carried out practically according to schedule. The parade formed at the city park and led by the local veterans of the Civil War, marching with the trend of the stately patriots they are, marched down Shoshone to Main, thence to Sixth avenue east where the marchers were carried by automobiles to the cemetery, where the memorial address was delivered by Mayor Hodgkin.

The parade was composed in accordance with arrangements with the execution of the memorial day. Following the O. A. R. members marched Mayor Hodgkin, speaker of the day, and the Rev. W. H. Tolliver, pastor of the cathedral, followed by the firing squad from the American Legion, the members of the Ladies' G. A. R., and members of all local troops of Boy Scouts.

Before leaving for the cemetery two wreaths were placed by the commanders of the Legion and auxiliary on the bronze tablet at the high school which bears the names of the high school boys who were remembered among the fallen heroes of the World War. The ceremony took place while the firing squad stood at present arms.

Crowds Attend Arriving at the cemetery, the marchers were followed by hundreds of local people in automobiles and cars, many of which were decorated with American flags, were parked for a quarter of a mile from the cemetery during the services.

The beauty of the services was enhanced by the music which followed after the program was carried out. The observance began with the reading of the historic Memorial Day order of John A. Logan, then by the commander of the Twin Falls post of the G. A. R. This was followed by musical selections and the ritualistic services of Dan Mack took place, after which the firing squad performed its duty in honor of the dead.

Mayor Hodgkin, speaking on "Ideal Government," delivered a most comprehensive and appropriate address, in which he took as his keynote the ideals that caused men to fight to the death for their country.

Relates History The speaker showed that this ideal was a free government, to be preserved intact for all time. Going back into history he told briefly of the governments formerly organized on the theory that all political power rested in the government itself instead of in the people. He then related briefly that the development in which national rights were given the people, stating that the organization of our government on this basis was at once the greatest experiment in human affairs and should resolve themselves toward defense and preservation of the American government, which he in closing declared to be the biggest and greatest on earth.

Twin Falls' Future Attracts Canadian

Dr. F. W. MacManus Leaves Drought Ridden Lands to Come on Inspection Trip

Among the numerous persons who have heard the story of Twin Falls and have been induced thereby to travel long distances to view local conditions, at first hand, is Dr. F. W. MacManus, a physician residing south of Edmonton, Alberta.

Dr. MacManus, who is accompanied by Mrs. MacManus, expects to be here about a week. Among other things he expects to spend some time viewing the mining prospects around Coeur d'Alene, the possibility of becoming interested. In any event he expects to return here for a second visit after going back to Canada, he said.

"You can say for me that Twin Falls is the neatest and cleanest looking little city I have ever seen," said Dr. MacManus. "Your prospects here are wonderful. I was particularly struck by the farming in this district, and all I have to say is that it is almost unbelievable what has been done through irrigation. If the future of Twin Falls turns out to be half as bright as expected, this should be a most wonderful place in which to live."

Dr. MacManus first became interested in the Twin Falls district when he and Mrs. MacManus were on a visit to North Dakota. A former resident of that state of this district and this fact, coupled with a disastrous drought in Canada last year, caused him to come here.

"Canadian farms were burned up with the drought last year," he said. "The drought, together with high taxes on the land, has driven the best people out of Canada. Three million left the dominion last year to come and live in the United States."

SOUTH LINE SURVEY

apparent an intention to do its full share of the work, appointed a committee to take an option on the terminal grounds. A tract of some 15 or 20 acres was selected and negotiations for its purchase were left in the hands of the Wells citizens. Failure to purchase the land, condemnation proceedings will be started.

The option on the terminal site in Twin Falls remains in the name of Mr. Keel and will be held until he agrees to meet the cost incidental to the local terminal, construction of which will probably not be started this summer, according to Mr. Keel.

The negotiations for the purchase of the right of way will not be started until the completion of the survey, according to A. L. Swim, president of the chamber of commerce. The Union Pacific engineers plan on a right of way that will not have a grade of more than one per cent at any place on the line and in view of the fact that the exact location of the line has not been determined, it is certain that the local committee will be unable to begin negotiations until the official survey is completed, according to Mr. Swim.

"It is impossible to say at present just what the cost of the right of way may be," said Mr. Swim. "It has been estimated at $25,000 and I presume it may be much less. But many of the land owners hold out for high prices."

ATTACK ITALIAN DEPUTY

Appeal for Return to Constitutional Methods Brings Physical Injuries to Former Fascist

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—A home dispatch to the Times describes an attack on Deputy Misari, a former fascist, who recently joined the chamber of commons, made an eloquent appeal to Premier Mussolini to return to normal constitutional methods.

While Misari was walking late last night in a narrow street leading from the Corso to Mote Cirio he suddenly received a blow in the back of the head, rendering him almost unconscious. He was surrounded by several assailants and so severely wounded as to necessitate his removal to a hospital, where his condition is pronounced serious.

A young officer of the fascist militia was arrested on a charge of having taken part in the attack. He informed the authorities that he, with others, challenged Misari to make an explanation of his speech in the chamber. Misari, however, denies this, declaring that he was attacked from behind without warning.

PATIENTS PRAISE WORK OF DOCTOR UNDER CLOUD

Investigators Find Subjects for Water Cure and Diet Enthusiastic Over Treatment

CHICAGO, May 30 (AP)—Officials in view of the activities of Dr. George E. Boffenmeyer in connection with his sanitarium at Lombard, Ill., where so-called water cure and other treatments, including diets prescribed by Dr. Boffenmeyer, are said to have caused the death of three patients, today found patients who were enthusiastic in their praise of Dr. Boffenmeyer and his treatments.

Six members of the family of Oscar Halberg of Chicago, were treated at the sanitarium and all were cured, they asserted. Halberg said he entered a 55-day fast at the sanitarium and dropped from 192 pounds to 127, but regained his normal weight after he was released.

Cornor W. V. Hoff of Dupage county, announced today that he will ask Cornor Wolfe of Cook county, to accept the body of Mrs. Marie Collier, a patient of the sanitarium, who died a week after being released. Grand jury investigation will be started in Dupage county.

CHECKS UP IDAHO'S WOOL

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—About 70 per cent of Idaho wool has been shorn to date with approximately one-third the wool already according to the weekly report of the department of agriculture issued today. One individual sale of 125,000 pounds at 45 cents per pound was reported. Production was made during the week.

SENATOR LAKE'S SUGAR PRICES

SALT LAKE, May 30 (AP)—Speculation in sugar must be curbed if a way can be found to accomplish this, according to United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, who returned here recently from Washington, D. C. He pointed out that in one week about 1,000,000 tons were sold on the New York exchange, whereas the actual tonnage received during the same period was 225,000.

ASK FORD'S ELIMINATION

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—A resolution denouncing Henry Ford as a menace to the peace and prosperity of the inhabitants of the land, and pleading for his elimination from the presidential race was adopted today at the annual convention of the Federation of Hungarian Jews in America. Another resolution adopted requested the casting of Count Scheleni, consul general of Hungary to the United States, for his alleged refusal to intercede in behalf of Jews in Hungary.

Getting your meals on time

YOU can be sure of having meals ready on time, and cook for less money than ever before, if there is a wickless Florence Oil Cook Stove in your kitchen.

You turn a lever, touch a match to the asbestos starting kindler, and the large, powerful burners do the rest. The clean blue flame gives off intense heat.

You use the Florence only when you need it, for the heat turns on or off quickly. A short trip to a hardware or furniture store will give you the whole story.

YOUNG REDS FIGHT RELIGION

VLADIVOSTOK, May 30 (AP)—On the eve of Easter the Union of Young Communists, the membership of which is limited to boys and girls under 18 years old, issued a tirade against religion in the pages of the "Red Flag."

It was declared that religion is but a worn out and effects superstition, the enslavement of the working classes and that "while the others are at church, we will dance and make merry."

The Young Men's Christian association is being attacked along similar lines.

WITHDRAWS CARIATURES

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—The caricatures of royalty by Max Beerbein, part of a collection of his cartoons on exhibition here, have been withdrawn because of the storm of criticism which they aroused. Mr. Beerbein in a letter says in regard to their withdrawal that his drawings were conceived in a spirit of light-hearted fantasy. "But," he adds, "if the public is likely to read any shadow of seriousness into them, and accordingly regard them as unkind or disrespectful, I think it will be well to avoid this understanding by removing them."

BANKS MAY QUIT VLADIVOSTOK

VLADIVOSTOK, May 30 (AP)—The soviet government, in its endeavor to collect two per cent on all money brought into the country, has demanded a considerable sum from the Korean bank. The institution refuses payment, saying it would rather close up in Vladivostok and move to Harbin. The Yokohama Specie Bank, which with the same institution, is said to be closing its accounts.

If the government persists in exacting this percentage, Vladivostok will be without foreign banking facilities.
