FEDERAL MOVE AWAITS EVENTS IN NEW YORK

Increased Congestion in United States Courts Seen as Result of Repeal of State Dry Law Enforcement Act

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—An attitude of waiting was maintained today by the federal government toward the New York prohibition enforcement situation resulting from Governor Smith's signing of the New York enforcement law repeal.

Commissioner Haynes and other officials remained silent and it was indicated that determination of a policy would await the outcome of future conferences in which, President Harding may have to decide. A few prohibition agents from other parts of the country, it was indicated at prohibition headquarters, may be sent to New York, but officials privately conceded that these could not fill a hole in the enforcement work as deep as complete withdrawal of New York police agencies would make. A complete withdrawal was not expected, however, by government officials who believe the New York state authorities will follow, to some extent at least, Governor Smith's injunction that the Volstead act be regarded as continuing applicable to and enforceable in New York.

Burdens Federal Courts

Local courts and magistrates of New York, department of justice officials also pointed out, are required by general law as well as the Volstead act to deal with prohibition offenders, either by imposing fines or sentences or taking bail and binding over the prisoners for the action by the federal grand jury. The repeal of the Mullin-Gage law, according to officers of the department, does not relieve New York district and police court judges and mayors from this duty, imposed by section 1017 of the revenue act, which also incorporated in the Volstead act. It was conceded, however, that one result would be to increase prohibition cases before the federal grand jury and add to the present congestion of federal courts.

Administration Moves Slowly

There were indications that the administration would move slowly in announcement of its ultimate policy. How New York and especially New York City behave themselves under the new order of affairs is expected to be an important factor in making the decision. If an orgy of bootlegging and open defiance of the law develop, government officials are prepared to make a maximum effort to

LIQUOR RULING CAUSES SCURRY

Representatives of Protesting Foreign Powers Await Treaty Action Anxiously

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—In the apparent belief that the treasury will apply the strict enforcement of the sumo court edict against liquor for foreign ships, despite representations from abroad, diplomatic representatives of the maritime powers are anxiously awaiting a decision as to the date on which the new regulations are to become effective.

Some of the interested diplomats appear convinced that treasury officials will not adhere to the original decision to put the regulation into effect June 10. In some quarters the hope even is expressed that they may not be issued until the congress has had an opportunity to take some action to meet the objection of the foreign powers. The impression has been gained by some diplomats that the administration would be disposed to recommend legislation amendatory of the Volstead act and exempting foreign ships in some respects from its application.

Acting in Accord

There have been numerous consultations between the maritime officials of various countries here on the subject and it now is apparent that the governments affected are acting concertedly though not jointly. Each has submitted its views and the representations have many points in common.

Two separate notes, it became known today, have been submitted by the Netherlands legation. One deals with the general principles of international law relating to maritime powers, the other with the question of exempting foreign vessels within its territorial waters as well as with the principle of comity. The other deals specifically with the right of a nation to carry any kind of cargo it desires to territorial waters of another state, provided the goods are merely in transit between the two foreign ports.

Purged in the latter foreign government to present representations along practically the same lines as the other nations.

Carnival's Snakes Escape From Cages and Hold Up Train

Fifty Rattles Make Break for Liberty on Nebraska Plains and Cause Busy Half Hour

SCOTTSDALE, Neb., June 2. (AP)—Snakes held up the Denver to Alliance mail train this morning. Fifty rattles, part of a carnival menagerie, escaped from their cage on the train between Sterling, Colo., and Bridgeport, Neb. A drawbar had been pulled out of place when the excited train crew had tried to re couple the engine, according to reports here, and repairs held up the train for nearly half an hour while the carnival attendants worked to recapture the rattlers, bull snakes and other species in the collection.

EMPIRE STATE ENFORCES LAW

Arrests for Violation of Volstead Act Continue Despite State's Repealer

NEW YORK, June 2. (AP)—Despite the repeal of the Mullin-Gage state prohibition enforcement act made effective by Governor Smith's signature last night, police and state officials today continued to arrest offenders against the dry laws and state courts proceeded with prosecutions of offenders arrested up until last night.

The only apparent effect of the repeal was the transfer of prosecution in cases of new offenders from the state to federal courts.

While Mayor Ryan refused to discuss the situation, Commissioner Enright declared that a conference would be held next week with legal representatives of the city, state and national attending, to determine the best method of procedure.

Future Course in Doubt

Palmer Confield, federal director of the state, said he would go to Washington Monday to confer with Federal Commissioner Haines. He said he did not know whether he would ask for more agents or whether Washington would take the initiative in augmenting the force here.

CAPITAL BEGINS TO MAKE SHRINE HOSTS WELCOME

Washington Takes On Colorful Atmosphere as Vanguard of Thousands of Nobles Arrive for Conclave

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—A misty haze of color Washington tonight began to welcome the Shrine hosi, coming over the country to attend their convention next week. Today's arrivals caused a mad race for the hotel, however, reports at headquarters showing 200 special trains and many automobile caravans enroute here from every section.

Shrine week will be formally inaugurated early tomorrow with the arrival here of Imperial Potentate James S. McCandless, who will lead his illustrious caravan into the Union station and accept there the salutations of the thousands of nobles who will gather to bid him welcome. He will command the faithful to answer the masonic call to Sunday prayer in the city's churches and at an open air religious services to be held at Temple Heights, the grand headquarters to be erected a great Masonic temple.

Auto Caravan Coming

Youngsters Answer to Court for Taking Horse for Adventure

POCATELLO, Idaho, June 2. (AP)—After "fixin' things" for a real adventure three small lads, the oldest of whom is but twelve years, were intercepted by officers in their adventurous undertaking and their case is being handled by Probate Judge William A. Hyde.

According to reports by officers of the sheriff's department the boys made away with a horse belonging to W. E. Nelson, a rancher near here, and in doing their best to camouflage the animal so that it would not be recognized they clipped the mane and tail of the horse, and started on their trip.

Charms Fail Self-Styled Bullet-Proof Moro Leader

Fanatic and 53 of Followers Reported Slain in Battle with Philippine Constabulary; Revolt Breaks Down

MANILA, June 2. (AP)—The death of Akbara, Moro fanatic leader and self-styled bullet proof prophet, and 53 of his followers in a battle with the constabulary near Jolo, island of Patas, was reported here today. More than 800 of the Moros surrendered when all avenues of escape were cut off and constabulary detachments were working about 200 other members of the warring faction who fled.

Akbara was regarded as a man of more than ordinary intelligence. He formerly had been a trader in Zulu and Visayan. When business slumped he returned to his native island of Patas.

Builds Temple on Hill

Akbara and a few of his followers built a temple on a hill top near the camp Akbara declared, he daily communed with Allah.

At first the authorities attempted to quell the fanatic movement without bloodshed, but Akbara's protestants struck a popular note and his followers steadily grew in strength.

The so-called prophet said his adherents he could charm them so that they would not suffer for thirst and hunger and would be bullet proof. Akbara reserved for himself an air chariot that ended him, he resorted to cannon hostile airplanes to counteracting the ground.

Lieutenant Displays Courage

Lieutenant Angeles with 40 troopers of the Philippine constabulary, was sent to the affected district and camped two miles from Akbara's stronghold. Angeles, who speaks the Zulu language, summoned Akbara to a parley on neutral grounds. The chief refused the offer, but sent some of his leading men instead.

Angeles went to the conference unarmed and accompanied only by an orderly. His troopers declare that their lieutenant's ready nerve and cool front were the only things that brought him back alive. On May 19, Angeles gave orders to seize Akbara and his small constabulary detachment. Four hundred fanatics left their stronghold to attack two more soldiers. The Moros worked themselves up to battle pitch by murdering several friendly natives and burning their homes. Then they attacked the troops from four sides behind screens of women and children.

Flee at First Volley

As the first Moro column charged the little school house where the constabulary were entrenched, the latter fired a volley over their heads. The entire detail of fanatics fled, men, women and children.

Promoters Pocket Cash

Sherwin was questioned by Attorney McLean of the defense as to the Lee companies' connection with the Leslie Vison Brokerage company of Chicago who deny that company was to sell through the Lee interests.

How he and his partner, H. H. Schwarz, organized the General Lee companies, numbers one and two, and then sold these companies, the leaves of which were described in the advertising literature as sure to bring immense profits to the investors, was told on the witness stand today by Sherwin's attorney. They testified on cross examination before David Cahill, government attorney.

He said the companies were capitalized at $25,000 and $18,000. Not all of the cash stock was sold to the public, Sherwin said, there being only about $17,000 worth sold for company number one and $13,000 for company number two. All of this money was taken over by him, he said, together with remaining capital stock and payments would dribble into the office after the first drive for stockholders, he and Schwarz would pocket the money as the money left interests. He said, there was no use of keeping any books.

Lee Seen as "Goat"

While Sherwin and Schwarz realized handsome profits from the first two Lee companies, "General" Lee, the agent defendant who the government alleges is the "goat" of the whole affair, received only $12.50 a week and occasionally small sums for "tobacco money," according to Sherwin's testimony. He said Lee was to have received ten per cent of the profits of the company in addition to his weekly salary but as there were no profits for the investors, Lee had no share coming. There also was his "net profits" from the third company, Sherwin said, and Lee received nothing but his salary.

Defends Representations

No misrepresentations were made in the literature and advertising sent out by the companies, Sherwin said. He did admit, however, that "thousands of checks" were not returned because companies were over-subscribed. He claimed in the advertisement that it was also brought out that Sherwin and Schwarz organized the Old Settlers Homestead company, a trust estate dealing in royalties from which Sherwin received a share. The public invested about $8000 in it, Sherwin said.

HARDING INTERVENES TO SAVE JOB OF HERO OF POSTAL ROBBERY

President Harding Intervened to Save Job of George L. Williams, 57 Year Old, Hero of Mail Robbery at Jefferson City, Mo., in 1921, Where he is a Laborer in the Postoffice

WASHINGTON, June 2. (AP)—President Harding intervened to save the job of George L. Williams, 57 year old, hero of a mail robbery at Jefferson City, Mo., in 1921, where he is a laborer in the postoffice.

Williams was injured by the robbers whom he later helped to convict, and was left jobless by a change in the contract for mail messengers.

Because of his age he was eligible only for temporary appointments and would have been succeeded today by a younger man had not been for the president's action.

OIL OPERATORS DETAIL SCHEME

Defense in Trial of Lee Interests Opens Campaign to Prove Legitimacy

PORT WORTH, June 2. (AP)—The defense in the oil fraud trial of H. H. Schwarz, Charles Sherwin and "General" Robert A. Lee, opened their campaign today to prove their contention that the defendant Lee is a descendant of General Robert E. Lee. After three relatives of the defendant Lee testified that they had "family" been together they and their uncle "Bob" were cousins of the great confederate general, the defendant Sherwin took the witness stand.

The testimony was testified to "General" Lee's alleged relationship to Robert E. Lee were Mrs. Anna Knudde and Mrs. Mamie Miller, nieces of the defendant Lee, and T. E. Wood, a cousin by marriage. They testified they had been taught since childhood that they were cousins of General Robert E. Lee. Wood said the defendant Lee had sold him in 1918 that he could discover oil wells. The government in the indictment charges that Robert A. Lee is an impostor, that he was one time a janitor in the state house at Boise, Idaho, and not a "miracle digger."

KRUPP WORKERS HEAD AS SPIES, ARE CONVICTED

French Court Martial Sentences German Employes for Rendering Aid to Sabotage Gang

DUESSELDORF, June 2. (AP)—Four employes of the Krupp works today were sentenced to varying prison terms, and fined one million marks each upon conviction by a French court martial of making plans of the French barracks and representing the movements of troops and trains for the benefit of the sabotage gang headed by Albert Schlegel, recently executed by the French.

Heinrich Sauter, a buyer for Krupp, was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor, Wilhelm Jenacke, a designer, was given five years, Ernest Margram, electrician, two years and Franz Weiland, laboratory assistant, six months.

Remove Krupp Supervisors

Baron Krupp von Bohlen and his three fellow supervisors, Bruhn, Hartwig and Osterling, whose appeal to the French supreme court is still pending, have been removed from the local jail to the military prison at Zweibrücken in the Sarre Valley. This will interrupt their active supervision of the Krupp plant which has been made possible through the French permitting other Krupp executives to consult with them.

RELIAGNS SENTENCE OFFICIAL

While no statement could be obtained as to when the first bonus checks would be mailed, it was unofficially reported that the board intended to have the first 10,000 checks in the mail by Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

CHINESE CLASH WITH JAPANESE

Student Advocates of Boycott Drive Nipponese Consul to Refuge on Gunboat

SHANGHAI, June 2. (AP)—Roaming about the coast of China, advocating a boycott, today stormed the city of Changshai, a treaty port in Hunan province, wrecking buildings of the Japanese and driving the Japanese consul to the safety of the gunboat Fushin.

Three of the rioters were killed in a clash with seamen, put ashore by the commander of the gunboat, according to advices. Many were wounded.

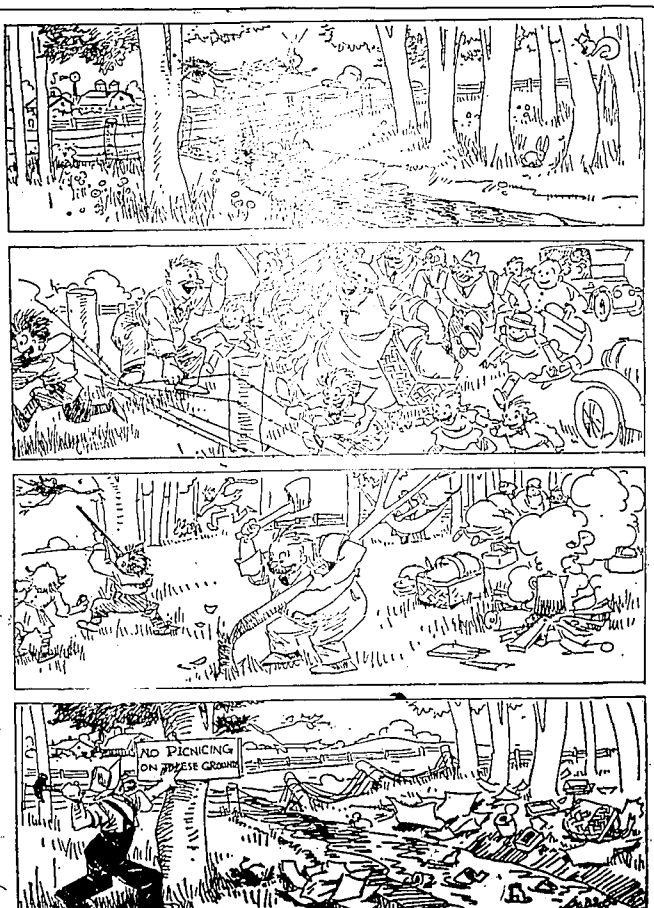

Changshai, a treaty port in Hunan province on the Yangtze river, is about 50 miles south of Hunan province at Hupoh where a similar anti-Japanese riot broke out two weeks ago. In both cases the trouble started when Chinese demonstrators boarded a Japanese river steamer. The present anti-Japanese wave in Chinese is the outgrowth of a movement to boycott all things Japanese in retaliation for Japan's recent refusal to arbitrate the Russo-Chinese case in Manchuria which included the famous 21 demands.

PRISON DOORS CLOSE UPON CLARA PHILLIPS

Convicted Woman Slayer Enters San Quentin Gates Without Show of Emotion

SAN QUENTIN, June 2. (AP)—Mrs. Clara Phillips, convicted of killing Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows with a hammer near Los Angeles, July 12, 1922, was incarcerated in San Quentin today after having escaped from the Los Angeles county jail to Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Mrs. Phillips, who entered the prison gates without a tear, although displaying the great nervous strain she was under, relaxed when she reached the woman's ward. She went to bed immediately after getting the formalities of registration over. Mrs. Phillips will be allowed to rest for a few days and her prison tasks will then be assigned her.

MILLIONS PAID INTO TREASURY IN FRAUD CASES

Attorney General Reports Success Attending Efforts During Year to Scale Down the War Claims

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Attorney General Daugherty Friday held before President Harding a report showing that in the last year the war claims section of the department of justice had secured the return of $3,192,585,191 to the government, had been awarded judgments for $1,225,919 more and obtained 15 judgments. Scores of additional civil and criminal suits are now awaiting trial.

The $500,000 appropriated by congress at his request for war fraud work, the attorney general pointed out, had been returned many times over by these recoveries despite "the most stubborn interference on the part of those persons interested and on the part of those who are used, often innocently, to interfere with the efforts of the government."

"It will take a long time," Mr. Daugherty's report continued, to complete this work as it should be completed in the interests of the government and in fairness to those who have been innocent of any wrong doing and who honestly served the government in the time of its greatest distress.

The attorney general noted that the war transactions section personally and had devoted much of his attention to its work.

The larger collections in the last 12 months include the 1918 Manufacturing company, $670,000; Lincoln Motors, $1,500,000; and Duplan Silk company, $305,000. The larger judgments secured were: Dusenberry Motors, and White corporations, $620,748; United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, $15,710; and Cleveland Brass and Copper mills $13,258.

"I have adopted and shall continue to adhere to the policy," said the attorney general, "in giving no publicity to cases under consideration until they are in court and made public record."

Of 91 pending cases involving $22,408,267, and not including the General Foundation unit, which was said to involve from $100,000 to $100,000,000, many were said to be ready for trial as soon as courts could be obtained.

The attorney general noted in his report that it did not include cases settled before the court on claims from July 1, 1921, to May 29, 1922. These totaled $113, in which $88,298,000 was claimed from the government and only $2,999,781 awarded to claimants.

ROTARY CONVENTION TO FRAME CODE OF ETHICS

ST. LOUIS, June 1 (AP)—Administrative problems and the best way to introduce a standard code of ethics among business and professional men throughout the world will focus the attention of 10,000 delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the Rotary International, which opens June 18.

The number of rotary clubs in the world have almost doubled within the last five years, and there are now more than 1400 club units, divided into 70 districts in cities of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Denmark, Paraguay, Spain, Panama and Argentina, with one international organization in the British Isles, Australia and South Africa.

Probably the most interesting business to come before the convention will be the discussion of the proposition that Rotarians "concentrate their energies for a year in the development of programs that will have for an object the introduction of standard codes of ethical practices among business and professional men in all business or professions represented in Rotary.

An unusually large number of delegates from clubs overseas, particularly those from the British Isles and various parts of the British empire have announced their intention of coming and some have already started.

St. Louis is making great preparations for the reception of the visitors, and already reservations have been made for more than 5000 Rotarians.

Following the Pocatello hearing the federal commission will hold a general inquiry at Seattle in July.

The local hearing will be presided over by Clyde E. Atkinson, commissioner. It was announced.

EXPERT RIFLE SHOTS TO MEET AT CAMP PERRY

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Major L. W. T. Waller, of the United States Marine Corps, who plotted the American victory over the team to win the world's championship at Milan, Italy, last year, has been designated as captain of the 1923 United States team by the National Rifle association.

He will lead his men in the defense of the championship at the international championships to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September, against a strong field of European competitors.

Walter Stokes, a student at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., who has held the world's individual rifle shooting championship for the past several years, will be a member of the American team. Stokes first captured highest honors in the most at Lyons, France, in 1921, and repeated his feat at Milan. He is the first marksman in the history of the international championship to hold the title two years in succession.

All other places on the United States team open for competition, and tryouts will be held on government ranges in various parts of the country between August 1 and 15.

Tryouts will be at a distance of 300 feet in three positions, prone, kneeling and standing. A five-man team, with several alternates will be picked from the candidates, who include all of the members of last year's winning squad.

Besides the free rifle championships, the international small bore rifle title events and the Palma matches, for the world's long range championship, also will be contested at Camp Perry.

The Palma trophy was first contested for in this country in 1876, and was held, either through victory or default, by the United States until 1902. It was captured by Canada in 1902, and England in 1903, remaining abroad until 1912, when it was brought back to America. The year halted further competition, and this year's shoot will mark the contest's revival after an 11-year interval.

According to the National Rifle association, more than 2,000 marksmen from all parts of the United States will compete at Camp Perry, in addition to foreign entries, which are expected to come from Switzerland, England, France, Italy and other countries.

LIVESTOCK ON UPWARD TREND

Conditions in Western States Reflect Benefits of Mild Winter and Favorable Spring

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 2 (AP)—Statistical confirmation of the benefits accruing to the livestock industry from the recent mild winter and favorable spring, is contained in reports to the United States department of agriculture, according to John Ferris, chairman of the federal reserve bank, twelfth district, in his report for April. He says:

"The department of agriculture states that losses of livestock from disease and exposure during the past winter and spring have been smaller than during the previous year in all states of the district, which embraces California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Arizona and Nevada. During the last month livestock ranges of the district continued the improvement noted in previous months of this year. Grass, which has been slow to start in the intermountain states, due to the cold weather prevailing in April, is now springing up on the lower ranges. Some feeding is still necessary, however, in these states.

"Lambing has been practically completed throughout the district. Losses of ewes and lambs have been slight this year, as ewes entered the lambing season in good condition and had generally been plentiful. Shipments of lambs from California reached their peak during the last three months and are now beginning to decline. Up to May 12, approximately 175,000 lambs had been shipped from that state. Shipments of lambs from the northern states of the district do not commence in volume until about June 1.

"The total receipts of all classes of livestock at eight principal markets in the district during the first four months of 1923 were sixteen per cent greater than during the same period of 1922. Cattle and calves showed an increase of 17.0 per cent, hogs, 27.8 per cent, and sheep 0.2 per cent.

"The large increase in receipts of hogs reflects, in part, the increased production of hogs in this district during the last year as compared with the previous year. To a greater extent, however, it represents an increase in the importation of hogs into this district from other states. At the principal livestock markets of the district, approximately sixty-five per cent of the hogs received during this period came from outside the twelfth federal reserve district.

"During April, 1923, receipts of livestock were smaller than during March, 1923, but excepting sheep, they were greater than during April, 1922. Receipts of sheep were practically the same as in April, 1922. Prices for cattle in the principal markets of this district tended to advance during the past month, while prices for hogs, lambs and sheep declined slightly.

"Shearing of wool proceeded rapidly during April and the first two weeks of May. Fleeces are generally poorer than those of the previous year, a reflection on the favorable weather during the last season. Commercial estimates now place the 1923 wool clip in the district at 78,750,000 pounds, a decrease of 250,000 pounds from previous estimates, but an increase of 6.2 per cent over the 1922 clip of 74,123,000 pounds.

"Buying of wool became active as shearing proceeded, and it is estimated that more than seventy-five per cent of the total clip in this district had been sold on May 15. Present prices to growers range from forty cents per pound for the lower grades of wool to fifty-five for the best quality. At a recent sale of 600,000 pounds of wool held in northern California, the top price paid was 53½ cents per pound."

Government Officials See Machine Set Up Ready to Imitate Mussolini's Coup

PARIS, June 2 (AP)—Reports that a complete fascist machine has been set up in France ready to undertake a campaign similar to that outlined by Mussolini in Italy, have caused circulation as a result of yesterday's disturbances over French fascists by the disclosure of details and disclosures by government officials of details.

The importance of the government disclosures, however, was discounted by an official of the royalist organization, L'Action Francaise today.

TRUCKS AND TRACTORS REDUCE USE OF OATS

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Production of oats in the United States probably has reached its highest point, in the opinion of experts of the department of agriculture.

The year back of the department for "over" declines the old set of nature's trucking, both in the city and country, and of the tractor on the farm, are reducing markedly the commercial demand for feeding oats.

The importance of barley, which ranks fourth among cereals in this country, is increasing even though production is not.

Ice is listed as an important crop in this country, but there has been an increase in production since 1912 due to an increased European demand which is expected to disappear later in large measure.

JEROME'S BALL PLAYERS COMING HERE FOR GAME

North Side Team Goes Against Twin Falls With Purpose of Getting Into the Winning Column

Everything is in readiness, and the weather permitting, Athletic Park, Twin Falls, new baseball grounds, will be the scene of a real ball game this afternoon when Jerome ball players will be the guests of the Twin Falls team in a regular scheduled game of the Southern Idaho Baseball League.

Manager Bill of the Jerome team hasn't a word to say concerning today's game, but is emphatic in stating that he has to beat Twin Falls in order to get back home alive.

The local team will be on its toes from the start, as Manager Whitel, after winning the first two games, feels that he will finish the season without hitting the lost column.

For those who like to see southern action, the game this afternoon promises a double treat as both opposing managers are crowd arms. Manager McVey of the Hansen team has been trying to arrange a game with the Twin Falls team, in order to play off the exhibition game that was scheduled for Memorial Day, and had to be postponed on account of rain.

Shoshone will journey to Eden this afternoon, while the fast at the east end of the county will be entertained at Hansen when Kimberly tries to even an old score of long standing.

KILBANE SAYS CRIQUI'S BLOW CAME AS SURPRISE

American Tells How He Lost Featherweight Crown to French Fighter; New Champion Finds Opponent

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Describing the manner in which he lost his world's featherweight title to Eugene Criqui of France, Johnny Kilbane declared: "The blow came as a surprise to me, as I was just opening up. The body blow struck me off my balance and I could not escape the punch to the jaw that floored me."

"I was all confidence and in won awful shape. Criqui is a hard puncher and a terrific puncher. I wish I had nothing but punches as the champion."

Criqui, the new featherweight champion, who bested Kilbane in a hard battle, he said, "I was in a hard battle. He is one of the best fighters I ever met. I saw him only in the sixth and after that I saw him off balance with a left jab and I swung the right. It was all."

CRICUI TO MEET DUNDEE

New Featherweight Champion Will Defend Title in Decision Bout Within Sixty Days

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Eugene Criqui, the new featherweight champion of the world, will defend his title inn decision match with Johnny Dundee of New York, within 60 days, at the Polo grounds, Matchmaker Tom O'Rourke of the Polo Grounds A. C. announced today.

Before today's fight, Criqui and Kilbane had pooled forces of $10,000 each, binding the winner to give Dundee his long-sought chance to win the featherweight title.

Dundee, who held Kilbane to a draw in 20 rounds a year after the latter won the title from Abe Attell, has been angling for another crack at the crown for years. Last year when Kilbane ignored Dundee's challenge, the New York athletic commission vacated the champion's title in this state and declared Dundee the titleholder after the little Italian had knocked out Danny Irish of Cleveland, another contender.

Recognition of Kilbane as titleholder was restored when he and Criqui agreed to give Dundee the next crack at the crown.

A delight to the eye, to the ear, an appeal to most tastes, all mixed with side-splitting humor. That's CAN YOU BEAT IT at the Orpheum, Monday and Tuesday.—adv.

More Cars Shake Themselves to Pieces Than Ever Wear Out

Charge that up to vibration. Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is freer from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

There are 61 precision operations in the manufacture of the crankshaft alone, 40 of which range in accuracy

Y. M. C. A. PUTS EMPHASIS UPON BODY FITNESS

Calls Upon Christian Church Throughout World to Turn Its Attention to Physical Training of Boys

POPESTADACH, Austria, June 2, (AP)—The Christian church throughout the world must place larger emphasis on the relationship of physical fitness to moral and spiritual growth; it cannot permit physical standards and forms of amusement and recreation to be determined by organizations holding lower standards of living.

This declaration is found in a report prepared for presentation June 2 to the 960 delegates comprising the Second World's Conference of Y. M. C. A. Workers with Boys by Dr. John Brown, Jr., of New York, as chairman of an international commission on the physical condition of boys.

"The present physical condition of boys throughout the world," said the report, "and the conditions affecting the physical life of boys, constitute an imperative demand that the forces of Christianity and civilization shall be rallied to create a new attitude toward all questions having a direct bearing upon boyhood."

Among the conditions which the report emphasizes are that diseases causing the greatest number of deaths among adolescents are largely preventable diseases; that the intimate relation between mental retardation and scholastic standing and the occurrence of preventable diseases and physical defects, and that much of the best influence of the home, church and school are undermined and counteracted by harmful influences of the leisure hours of adolescents.

Proposes Program

A tentative minimum program of physical education, proposed by the commission for the consideration of the conference, includes the following:

1. A department of the government should give particular study to conditions affecting physical fitness of boys from 12 to 18 years of age.
2. Schools should recognize their peculiar responsibility for safeguarding and raising the standards of physical fitness of boyhood.
3. Communities should provide play spaces properly supervised for free use of boys.
4. A special responsibility rests upon the church to create a spiritual attitude and life in all its relations.
5. There is need for an organization that shall bring together and unite the various governmental and voluntary organizations directly or indirectly interested in the play and recreation of the youth.

The educational content in physical programs of various agencies has been gradually coming to the fore. "More attention will be given," says the commission, "to the development of organic vigor than to training of expert performers, to the mass rather than the few, to the informal and hygienic rather than the formal, highly specialized and extremely competitive types of work."

Leadership Vital Factor

"The value of physical education depends upon the quality of leadership more than upon all other factors combined. Only under such Christian leadership will progress be made in developing better methods for the larger and more exacting demands of the future."

Information gathered by the commission indicates a very general conviction that the Young Men's Christian Association "should seek to supplement in every possible way what is now being done by the state, school, municipally and church and to cooperate with these agencies to function effectively in relation to the physical welfare of boys. Frequently the most effective service which the association can render to the boyhood of a nation or a community is by way of suggestion, construction to those responsible for guiding the policies of such agencies along desired lines."

Queer Shaped Auto Cuts Down Head Resistance to the Wind

Concentrating their attention on scientific streamlining, Franco-British engineers have suggested a most unusually shaped automobile which they believe will prove very speedy, since head resistance to the wind has been cut down considerably. The body is built of duralumin, a new light alloy, and aluminum on a system like that used in making airplane fuselages. The under part of the car is incased in sheet aluminum, and the brake drums and axles projecting. Entrance is gained to the car—powered by a six-cylinder motor developing 200 horsepower—by a side panel, and by a part of the roof and a section of the Automobile being hinged and, so, easily raised. The entire car weighs only about 3,000 pounds.

When Captain Roald Amundsen, the Arctic explorer, hops off on his flight across the North Pole, on or about June 20, a system of signal fires or amudges will carry the news of his start from Wainwright to the nearest radio station, some 400 miles away. From the radio station the word will be sent to the scout planes at Spitzbergen, which are to be on the lookout to render any possible assistance on his arrival. It is expected that the bonfire signals will convey the news in a few hours.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP)—While the Chicago police were hunting today for Robert E. One check which was later returned for lack of funds.

Local authorities have asked the Marietta authorities to trace a check for $20,000 which Mrs. Barry said was cashed by her and which she claims was returned to her. Mrs. Barry, who was on her honeymoon to California, was not here today by her sister, Miss Beatrice Barry, sister-in-law, who intends to return with her to Marietta.

sustain the federal constitution and laws.

With only about 2300 prohibition agents employed by the government and only 2000 more to be recruited, assigned to the New York district, responsible officials declare it is impossible to transfer any considerable number to augment the New York force, without serious setback in enforcement work throughout the remainder of the country. Such a policy, it was said, might lead to a serious increase of rum running and border crossing in other states.

Busy in Washington

Right here in Washington, prohibition agents have their hands full now in an effort to prevent wholesale rum running into the capital for the Shrines, which gets into full swing next week. An anxious force of prohibition agents is watching roads and waterways leading into the District of Columbia from Maryland and Virginia. Over 50 automobiles carrying liquor were seized on these roads last month.

OHIO OFFERS ASSISTANCE

COLUMBUS, June 2 (AP)—State Attorney General C. F. Rabbe today sent a telegram to Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haines at Washington declaring he was confident state, county and municipal officers would enforce prohibition in Ohio and that if federal enforcement officers now in the state were needed in New York they might be removed from Ohio. Ohio is still against re-consideration of the bill against repealing of the law by the legislature of the New York state enforcement act.

ELECTRIC LIGHT

Farmer Sorts Bad Beans from Good Without Touching Them

If all the beans grown in the United States in a single year were placed end to end they would form a chain of 10 strands connecting the earth and the moon. Imagine having to pick out every tenth or twentieth bean from such strings. However, something quite similar occurs in sorting the bean crop every year, for the bad ones have to be picked out before marketing the product.

Ray F. McWilliams, a Michigan farmer, seeing his profits being wiped out because of the primitive and time-consuming method of sorting beans by hand, set about to simplify this work. He learned that a mineral (selenium) was sensitive to changes in light upon it, resulting in a varying flow in its electrical conductivity. Utilizing selenium cells, he designed a novel machine that sorts 15 bushels of beans an hour, performing the work of 60 people with more than human accuracy.

The beans are placed in a trough at the top of the machine from which they are fed by small wheels through a series of hoppers until they pass out in single file along a pair of horizontal feed rollers. A selenium cell is placed over each pair of rollers, and is so indexed that it receives light only through a tube, the lower end of which is directly over the moving string of beans. As the beans pass under the tube each one receives a flood of light from an electric bulb, which is focused upon it through a double lens. When a defective bean comes into range the selenium cell responds to the change in color, causing a magnet to close, thus raising a lever which pushes the bad bean into a bin and are then ready for marketing.

Self-acting Door Latch

A door latch for use in a building where a door cannot be opened accidentally after the door is shut. A resilient wooden self-acting latch of the kind shown in the drawing has been found entirely suitable for the purpose. It consists of a piece of wood, tapering from 1 in. to about 2 in. in width, so that one end will be much heavier than the other. It is bolted to the door loosely and slightly off center, so that the heavier end always tends to swing down. A curved slot is cut in the door, and a wooden pin, fastened in the latch, passes through the slot so that the door can be opened from the outside. When the door is closed and the latch is released, it swings to the closed position.

The man who is willing to admit that he would just as soon live in a community without churches is the only man who has a valid reason for not, at least occasionally, attending Sunday services.

There is a welcome for every man and woman in Twin Falls in one or another of the churches of the City and only good can come out of the acceptance of such invitation. If this were not so the church, as an institution would long ago have vanished from the face of the earth.

THE FUTURE

Gradually, almost imperceptibly, but none the less surely, new faces are commencing to be seen upon the streets of Twin Falls, houses long vacant are beginning to attract enquirers, more grins are apparent upon the countenances of the men on the streets, a livelier and more cheerful attitude of mind is noticeable wherever men are gathered together.

Maybe Twin Falls will experience a boom, maybe Twin Falls will merely attain a steady and consistent growth covering a period of years, with increased property values, business in greater volume, more and better building and all the other symptoms of prosperity which go to make the growing city. If Twin Falls has any choice in the matter let it be this way—let's avoid at all cost any possibility of overreaching ourselves; let's take no chances, to the end that values may remain solid no matter to what height they climb and taxes and general expenses of existence be held within shooting distance of the public and private pocketbook.

Twin Falls and the Twin Falls country are in for an era of development with all the accoutrements. There will be less of worry and hardship and loss and more of the things which make life worth living. Twin Falls will become very soon now, a prosperous, progressive, forward looking community and Twin Falls may profit permanently from all this provided we keep our heads on our shoulders and our feet on solid ground.

There can be no question as to the future in a general way, but there is room for question as to whether we are able to meet it in a common sense way and not via the boom route.

This is the outstanding article in a Code of Ethics adopted by the National Association of Retail Clothiers, 24,000 copies of which are being distributed among the trade throughout the United States in the campaign now in progress to keep the clothing industry at the highest notch of integrity. The document also states that the conscientiousness of a merchant's integrity; that the assets of any commercial institution consist of honesty and business character first. After that, service and merchandise.

BABSON SEES LABOR CHANGING FOR BETTER

Statistician Voices Encouragement Over New Attitude—Legitimate Business Has Nothing to Fear

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., June 2. (Special to The News)—Roger Babson today states that there is nothing for business men to fear in the present revival demands of labor. "A few months ago I was disturbed at the attitude of labor—especially labor in the building trades," says Mr. Babson. "Wages had only been partly adjusted, following the abnormally high wages during the war, when the business world had been in the doldrums and prevented any further adjustments. This was unfortunate for all concerned. I say for all because when the reduction in the cost of living stopped, wage workers gain nothing by simply getting more money in their pay envelopes when it is offset by higher living costs. They can gain permanently only by producing new goods. Wage workers are enjoying better living conditions today—and so much because of their labor unions—but because of improved machinery, better management and the reduced cost of manufacturing. What labor needs is a reduction in the cost of living in terms of food, clothing and shelter. This can never be brought about by raising planters' to ten dollars per acre higher living costs. They can gain in building trades, the higher rents are, and no one—but the tax collector—gains anything through the rise in the cost of living. This is the situation during the past few months.

Leaders Better Posted.

"There is today, however, a change for the better in the attitude of labor," says Mr. Babson. "This has been very evident during the past two weeks. The labor leader has been posted in the fundamentals of economics that they used to be. The labor leader posted sees the dangers of getting into unbalanced industrial and price levels before the present era of business adjustment is completed. Today the inflation of 1916-1920 has only been 60 per cent deflated. The wisest labor leaders see this and are putting on the brakes. They themselves are glad to see some of the proposed building programs suspended. Yes, the labor situation looks much better today than it has for months. There should be no more radical advances in wages until the remaining 40 per cent of the deflation is eliminated and until we are again in a permanent period of prosperity.

Return to Senses.

"This means that business men should make no further wage advances except to even up and equalize certain elements. Employers should quit competing with one another for wage workers. Employers should seek to produce more, in order to consume in food, clothing and shelter for the first four months of this year many employees would have lost their jobs. This is one reason for the present temporary stock market slump. But both employers and wage workers have again some of their senses. At least labor conditions in most sections and most industries are better today than they have been during the past four months. In the meantime business and other stock markets have gone above normal as indicated in the Babson chart and the man who is doing a legitimate business—without speculation—other than stock markets, has nothing to fear." (Continued.) CHAPTER XX The Secret Told. Late in the night Madeline fell asleep. In the morning she was pale and languid, but in a mental condition that promised recovery. It was considerably after her regular hour that Madeline repaired to her office. The door was open, and just outside, tipped back in a chair, sat Stillwell. "Mavuin! Miss Minsbury," he said, as he rose to greet her with his usual courtesy. Madeline shrank inwardly, fearing his old lamentations about the Stewart. Then she saw a dusty, ragged pony in the yard and a little burro drooping under a heavy pack. Both animals bore evidence of long, arduous travel. "To whom do they belong?" asked Madeline. "Them critters? Why, Danny Mains' done back a heap these last few months, frottin' over your head boys, Danny an' Gene. You'll need support under you while I'm throwin' my yam. Story of my life, Bill, I'll place a chair for Madeline. "Miss Hammond, beginn' your pardon again, I want you to listen, anse. You've the face an' eyes of a woman who loves to hear of other people's happiness. Besides, somehow, it's easy for me to talk lookin' at you." Walking off the porch, he stood before the weary horse and burro. With the swift violence characteristic of men of his class he slipped the pack from the burro and threw saddle and bridle from the horse. He untied the pack and, taking a small, heavy sack from it, he came back upon the porch. Deliberately he dumped the contents of the sack at Stillwell's feet. There after piece of rock thumped upon the floor. The pieces were sharp, jagged, evidently broken from a ledge; the body of them was white in color, with yellow veins and bars and streaks. Stillwell grasped up one rock after another, stared and stuttered, put the rocks to his lips, dug into them with his shanking fingers, then he lay back in his chair, head against the wall, and as he gazed at Danny the old man began to transform his face. Danny regarded Stillwell with lofty condescension. "Now, Bill, what've we got here, say, offhand?" "Oh, zero, zero," I'm afraid to say. Look, Miss Majesty, best look at the gold. I've lived among prospectors an' gold mines for thirty years, an' I never seen the beat of this." "The Lost Mine of the Padres?" cried Danny, in astonishment. "An' it belongs to me?" Stillwell made some incoherent sound as he sat up, fascinated, quite beside himself. "Bill, it was some long time ago since you saw me," said Danny. "Fact is, I know how you fell, because Gene says he posted. It happened to me across Bonita, an' I want you to let her ride away alone, when she told me she was in trouble. We hit the trail for the Felonillas. Bonita had Gene's horse, an' she was to meet him up on the trail. We got to the mountains all right, an' we stayed out for a few days till Gene found us. He had got in trouble himself an' couldn't fetch much with him. "We made for the crags an' built a cabin. I come down that day Gene sent his horse Majesty to you. Never saw Gene so broken-hearted. Well, after he heard of the border Bonita an' I were hard put to it to keep alive. But we got along, an' I think it was then she began to care a little for me. One I went to El Cajon an' ran plumb into Gene. He was back from the Felonillas an' outta' no sense, but I got away from him after dark. I had to drub him out of town. A long time after that Gene trailed up to the crags an' found us. Gene had stopped drinking, he'd changed wonderful, was like an' dandy. It was then he began to restore the life out of me to make an' marry Bonita, I was happy, so was she, an' I was some scared of spiffin' it. Gene's doggone hard to buck against! I had to give in, an' I asked Bonita to marry me. Well, she wouldn't at first—said she wasn't good enough for me. But I saw the marriage idea was decent an' I knew how. So it was my wantin' to marry Bonita—myself glad to marry her—that made her an' me get on a pretty easy—as a month, quill. Gene fetched up Padre Marcos an' he married us. "Gene was in the house, an' he was breathin' hard, as if the memory of the incident described had stirred strong and thrilling feeling in him. Stillwell's smile was rapturous. Mad-line leaned toward Danny with her eyes shining. "Miss Hammond, an' you, Bill Stillwell, now listen, for this is strange bonita an' I were married when Gene an' the padre had gone, she left me for a little, an' when she came back she wore some pretty yellow flowers in her hair. She said some queer things about spirits rockin' down the canyon, then she said she wanted to show me where she always at an' wanted an' watched for me when I was away. She led me around under the crags to a long slope. It was some pretty there—clear an' open, with a long sweep, an' the desert vegetation in that slope, the same kind' she had in her hair. "When I heard the strange crack of rollin' rocks—heard them rattle down an' roll an' grow faint—I was some out of my head. But not for long. Then rocks were rollin' all right, only it was the weatherin' of the cliff. "An' there under the crags was a gold pocket. "Then I was worse than loco. I went gold-crazy. I worked like seven-been burros. Bill, I dug a lot of gold-bearing quartz. Bonita watched me the canyon, she brought me water. That was how she come to get caught by Padre Marcos an' his guerrillas. Sure! Padre Marcos was so set on doin' Gene dirt that he mixed up with Don Carlos. Bonita will tell you some stagerin' news about that outfit. Just now my story is all gold." Danny Mains got up and kicked back his chair. Blue lightning gleamed from his eyes as he thrust a hand toward Stillwell. "Bill, old pal, put her there—give me your hand," he said. "You were always my friend. You had faith in me. Well, Danny Mains owes me, an' he owes Gene Stewart a good deal, an' Danny Mains pays. I want two partners to help me work my gold mine. You an' Gene. Go fetch him; an' aight here in this flourish, with my wife an' Miss Hammond as witnesses, we'll draw up a partnership. Go find him, Bill. I want to show him this gold, show him how Danny Mains pays! An' the only bitter drop in my cup today is that I can't ever pay Monty Price."

Madeline watched the huge Stillwell and the little cowboy, both talking wildly, as they walked off arm in arm to find Stewart. She laughed something of what Danny's disappointment would be, of the older man's consternation and grief, when he learned Stewart had left for the border. At this Madeline she looked up to see a strange yet familiar figure approaching. Padre Marcos! (Continued in next issue) READ THE DAILY NEWS!

REVELATIONS OF MR. CONOCO—the most contented motorist in six states! "Funny thing about Hills—THEY'RE not nearly so bad as they look—not since I discovered what a 'powerful' lot of meaning there is in that word CONOCO. "It used to bother me to see Neighbor Bill slip by whenever he caught me on a steep up-grade. I couldn't quite figure it out—same make and model of car, mind you—until one day in town I saw him pull up in front of the CONOCO sign. "Bill admitted, with a smile full of meaning, that he had taken it for granted I knew the answer to the gasoline question. He showed me a little record he'd kept on mileage last month, too. That alone, was enough for me. "I don't want to be as tight about a good thing as he was."
