INQUIRY BOARD SEEKS MOTIVES IN BANDIT RAID

Military Commission Headed by American Studies Possibility of Political Plot in Shantung Outrage

TIEN TSIN, June 8.—Whether the bandit attack on the Shantung Hai-Peking express May 6, in which a number of foreigners were kidnaped, was the result of a political plot, is the point on which the international commission of inquiry, headed by Brigadier General W. D. Connor, U. S. A., now is concentrating.

The commission is seeking to determine first whether the train crew had previous knowledge of the bandits' plans to attack the express and second, whether the armed guard aboard the train made any effort to resist the bandits. The process of enrolling the bandits in the Chinese army still is going on slowly and officials are apprehensive of attempting to do so out of fear of arousing the suspicion of the outlaws and creating a breach.

Bandits Gain Assurance.

Bandits now are familiar figures on the streets of Tsao Chwang. At first when the parades were opened, they entered the city only in great numbers. Now, however, their manner has changed. They face cameras and moving picture machines with all the assurance of veteran actors, grin broadly, wave their hats and sway their fans in a truly adopted picture style.

It is understood that at the request of the British chief, the international commission's airplane which has been reconnoitering the outlaw stronghold on Paochou mountain, has ceased its flights in that district.

Missionary Re-Admitted.

Father Potts, German medical missionary, who a few days ago was ordered to leave the city under suspicion of spying there, has been permitted to return following his explanation that he was attending the captives in need of his aid. The express instructions of the pope.

GERMAN AREA IN TURMOIL

Outbreak of Outlaw Strikes Among Farm Laborers and Other Workers Brings Reign of Terror

BERLIN, June 7. (AP)—Terrorism prevails in the upper Silesian territory north and south of Lodz, where a number of outlaw strikes have broken out among the farm laborers and other workers, according to newspaper dispatches from Brissau.

GERMAN TELLS AIM OF OFFER

Foreign Minister Says Nation Chooses Risk of Higher Payment to Insincerity

BERLIN, June 7. (AP)—Germany concluded a hazard was preferable to insincerity when she dispatched to the contents capitals the memorandum published today and therefore she refrained from fixing a total for her reparation obligations, although she proposed priorities for them, according to a statement made by Baron von Rosenberg, minister of foreign affairs, at a conference with newspaper men tonight.

"No German government would dare offer what it is not convinced, the German people may pay," Baron von Rosenberg added. "We endeavor to answer sincerely and fairly; yet, we could not estimate Germany's capacity for payment any higher June 2 than May 2."

France Sees Nothing in New Reparations Offer to Justify Negotiations

Plea of Inability to Pay Falls on Deaf Ears; Latest German Note Is Declared Unsatisfactory for Four Main Reasons; Lack of Definite Total and Ignoring of Resistance Factors

BRUSSELS, June 7. (AP)—The German reparations note was delivered to the Belgian government shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Unofficial information tonight was to the effect that its terms were unacceptable.

PARIS, June 7. (AP)—The German reparations offer, elaborated in the note delivered to the contents allies today, remains entirely unacceptable to France, it was declared in government circles tonight. It makes no appreciable advance over the previous offer and France cannot even discuss it with Germany, for as was decided at Brussels yesterday, the passive resistance in the Ruhr must be abandoned before any negotiations can begin.

The note was characterized as unsatisfactory for four main reasons: First, because it makes no mention of abandoning the passive resistance; second, because it ignores the international commission to fix the reparations total; third, because it seeks to violate the Versailles treaty, which created the reparations commission for exactly that purpose; and fourth, because it suggests an impartial international commission to fix the reparations total, Germany ignores and seeks to violate the Versailles treaty, which created the reparations commission for exactly that purpose.

France Still Unconvinced.

The French are still unconvinced, they say, when Germany pleads inability to pay. They declare they have no her living sumptuously and they know she can meet her obligations.

Premier Poincare had a lengthy conversation with President Millerand this afternoon and gave him a report of his meeting with the Belgian statesmen at Brussels. The question of how the German note is to be answered, it is said in official circles, depends on the other allies. France would be glad to join in a collective answer, but the terms must agree with the French views.

The Germans were careful not to anger the reparations commission, and delivered a copy of the note to the commission today as they did when the main proposals were made early last month.

GERMANY SEEKS DIRECT PARLEY

Declaration For Oral Discussion of Reparations Claims Attention in Washington

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—An official text of the new German proposal to the allies on reparations today, was before the state department officials, transmitted by the German ambassador, Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, as a matter of information. While official comment was withheld, there can be no doubt that the change in the German note declaring that a method of payment could be determined only by "direct consultations with those who are to receive payments," attracted wide attention in official circles.

The note was handed to the state department by Dr. Wiedfeldt in the same way as it was presented by German diplomats at all foreign offices, and its receipt does not call for acknowledgment of diplomatic correspondence.

Officials Reserve Comment.

The American suggestion to the French government prior to the negotiation of the Ruhr was that a conference of the interested nations be called to seek a business like solution of the problem. The German suggestion contained in the current reparations proposal from Berlin is in line with the theory that impelled the American government to make its formal suggestion for such a conference.

No official word discloses details of the German proposal and the official text received at the state department was not made public there, although copies were made available to the press at the German embassy. It was obvious, however, that the first declaration of the German authorities that they saw no way of arriving at a permanent adjustment of the reparations tangle except through the medium of direct

CHICAGO, June 7. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Gladys Rehn of Bellevue, who "never did the dishes at home," today became the champion dishwasher of three townships, and won a $10 gold piece when, in competition with other school girls, she washed, wiped and stacked two plates, two saucers, two knives, two forks and four spoons in two and one-eighth minutes.

DAIRYMAN SEEK EQUABLE RATES

Industry in Mountain and Pacific States at Stake, Commission's Agent Is Told

SALT LAKE CITY, June 7. (AP)—The future of the dairy industry in the mountain and Pacific states depends to a great extent on the adjustment of alleged discriminatory railway express rates on cream, it was declared before Attorney Examiner E. L. Gaddes of the interstate commerce commission during the hearing yesterday here on petition of the Mutual Creamery company for reduced rates.

Wool Benefit Producers

W. P. Jensen, president of the Mutual Creamery company, was the first to speak at the hearing.

The producers, he said, would benefit by higher rates, by extending its territory and by being able to increase its production, to decrease manufacturing expenses.

Compare Rates

The intrastate and interstate rates are generally higher than they are east of Colorado and the rates in Idaho and Utah are perhaps more discriminatory than others in effect in this territory.

Operating expenses of western railroads compared with those of the pacific states do not justify the differential rates, the traffic bureau manager declared.

Washington Judge Sees Cruelty In Steer Wrestling

Admonishes Participants In Rodeo Not to Transgress Laws of Humane Treatment

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—Participants in an old-fashioned western "rodeo," which is showing here during the summer convention week, were admonished by Judge Joseph Harrison today to transgress the laws of humane treatment in their exhibitions of "steer wrestling."

A case brought by the humane society against one of the employees of the show was dismissed for want of evidence, but the judge told the prisoner and his employees that as he had seen "steer wrestling" demonstrated in other instances, the treatment of such dumb animals, punishable under the law.

GIANT PROJECT STRIKES SNAG IN CONFERENCE

Commissioner Raises Question of Right to Sell Indian Lands That Will be Inundated by American Falls Dam

SALT LAKE, June 7. (AP)—a special to the Salt Lake Tribune from its correspondent at Washington, which will appear in that paper tomorrow, says: "The American Falls dam project, which means so much to southern Idaho, is being 'snagged' by the very holding of a conference held today at the office of the secretary of the interior, and it is probable that the delay on this undertaking cannot be determined until after a second conference is held next Tuesday. Meeting with Secretary Work were Special Assistant Secretary Davis, Director Davis of the reclamation service, Indian Commissioner Burke, Reclamation Commissioner Swenson of Idaho, and R. E. Shepherd, president of the Greater American Falls Irrigation district."

"The meeting had been called to lay before Secretary Work the facts relative to the recent bond issue voted by the water users of Snake river valley and to get his approval of the contract between the government and those water users in order that work might begin on the American Falls dam. After Mr. Shepherd had made a preliminary statement it was developed that one of the first things to be taken up by the project is approved is to acquire lands that will be flooded by the reservoir. Included in this area are some 40,000 acres of Indian lands belonging to the Fort Hall Indians in what is known as Fort Hall bottoms."

Calls for Act of Congress.

Indian Commissioner Burke said these lands had recently been appraised at $775,000, an average of $18 an acre, and appraised value ranging from $5 to $100. The Indian agent at Fort Hall has questioned this appraisal and thinks the price fixed is too low, but the commissioner has not yet had opportunity to go over an appraisal and could not today pass upon its reasonableness. However, he did point out that the act of June 25, 1910, under which these bottom lands were withdrawn for reservation purposes two years ago, seemed to require that the appraisal should be made by an engineer and that secretary of the interior could not buy the lands from the Indians without specific authority from congress. Mr. Shepherd pointed to the fact that congress had authorized the building of the American Falls dam, and, incidentally at least, had given the necessary authority.

"Secretary Work, after the matter had been discussed for some time, said the American Falls project was a very important undertaking, and one which the government could not afford to make a mistake at the outset, so he adjourned the conference until Tuesday in order that the solicitor of the interior might be consulted and the department of the interior may determine definitely whether the secretary has authority, without specific authorization by congress, to acquire these bottom lands."

"If it be the opinion of the legal authorities of the department that these lands can be bought without referring the whole question back to

INQUIRY BOARD SEEKS MOTIVES IN BANDIT RAID

Military Commission Headed by American Studies Possibility of Political Plot in Shantung Outrage

TIEN TSIN, June 8.—Whether the bandit attack on the Ssang Hai-Peking express May 6, in which a number of foreigners were kidnaped, was the result of a political plot, is the point on which the international commission of inquiry, headed by Brigadier General W. D. Connor, U. S. A., now is convening.

The commission is seeking to determine first whether the train crew had previous knowledge of the bandits' plan to attack the express and second, whether the armed guard aboard the train made any effort to resist the bandits. The process of enrolling the bandits in the Chinese army still is going on slowly and officials are opposed to attempting to arrest the bandits, for arousing the suspicions of the outlaws and creating a breach.

Bandits Gain Assurance

Bandits now are familiar figures on the streets of Tien Tsing. At first when the parleys were opened, they entered the city only in great numbers. Now, however, their number has changed. They face cameras and moving picture machines with all the assurance of veteran screen actors, grimly smiling their hats and waving their fans in a truly approved picture style.

Outbreak of Outlaw Strikes Among Farm Laborers and Other Workers Brings Reign of Terror

BERLIN, June 7. (AP)—Terrorism prevails in the upper Silesian territory northeast and southeast of Liegnitz, where a number of outlaw strikes have broken out among farm laborers and other workers, according to newspaper dispatches from Breslau. The Lokal Anzeiger's correspondent reports that in the Steina district districts of from 20 to 40 men each are going about country using clubs to chase from the field those laborers who are willing to work. Disturbances also are reported at Jauer.

A dispatch to the Berliner Tageblatt asserts that Communist agitators are attempting to convert the wave of outlaw strikes into a political movement.

GERMAN TELLS AM OF OFFER

Foreign Minister Says Nation Choses Risk of Higher Payment to Insincerity

BERLIN, June 7. (AP)—Germany concluded a hazard was preferable to insincerity when she stipulated in the recent capital talks that she would not be bound to pay the reparations obligations, although she proposed securities for them, according to a statement made by Baron von Rosenburg, minister of foreign affairs, at a conference with newspaper men to-day.

"No German government would dare offer what it is not convinced the German people may pay," Baron von Rosenburg added. "We endeavor to answer sincerely and fairly, yet we could not estimate Germany's capacity for payment any higher June 2 than May 2."

The cardinal feature of the May 2 note, the minister explained, was a proposal for an international commission, such as suggested by Secretary of State Hughes. "It therefore has no words, but concisely and clearly."

The formal substance of this latest document, Baron von Rosenburg said, "was not an important feature. Its importance lay rather in its expression of Germany's readiness to reach a settlement which, if accomplished, would mean a heavy debt for Germany, but for all Europe. Written exchanges had proved futile in the solution of the problem and 'it is necessary to get together around the table, each other in the eye and talk to each other; and that is the reason why we asked for a conference.'"

France Sees Nothing in New Reparations Offer to Justify Negotiations

Plea of Inability to Pay Falls on Deaf Ears; Latest German Note Is Declared Unsatisfactory for Four Main Reasons; Lack of Definite Total and Ignoring of Resistance Factors

BRUSSELS, June 7. (AP)—The German reparations note was delivered to the Belgian government shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Unofficial information to-night was to the effect that its terms were unacceptable.

PARIS, June 7. (AP)—The German reparations offer, elaborated in the note delivered to the Belgian allies today, remains entirely unacceptable to France, it was declared in government circles to-night. It makes no appreciable advance over the previous offer and France cannot even discuss it with Germany, for as was decided at Brussels yesterday, the passive resistance in the Ruhr must be abandoned before any negotiations can begin.

The note was characterized as unsatisfactory for four main reasons: First, because it makes no mention of abandoning the passive resistance which is the first of the Franco-Belgian conditions. Second, Germany offers no definite sum as the total reparations. Third, in suggesting an impartial international commission to fix the reparations total, Germany ignores and seeks to violate the Versailles treaty, which created the reparations commission for exactly that purpose. The French see no reason why the reparations commission should be supplanted. Fourth, the suggestions for guaranties might be open to discussion if Germany proposed their administration by the allies, but if the German administrator the guarantee, the French expect no result.

French Still Unconvinced

The French are still unconvinced, they say, when Germany pleads inability to pay. They declare they have seen her living sumptuously and they know she can meet her obligations.

Premier Poincare had a lengthy conversation with President Millerand this afternoon and gave him a report of his meeting with the Belgian statesmen at Brussels. The question of Germany proposed their administration by the other allies, France would be glad to join in a collective answer, but the terms must agree with the French views. The Germans were careful not to ignore the reparations commission, and delivered a copy of the note to the commission today as they did when their proposals were made early last month.

Declaration For Oral Discussion of Reparations Claims Attention in Washington

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—An official text of the new German proposal to the allies on reparations today was before the state department officials, transmitted by the German ambassador, Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, as a matter of information. While official comment was withheld, there can be no doubt that the clause in the German note declaring that a method of payment could be determined only by "direct consultations with those who are to receive payments," attracted wide attention in official circles.

The note was handed to the state department by Dr. Wiedfeldt in the same way as it was presented by German diplomats at all foreign offices, and its receipt does not call for acknowledgment of diplomatic correspondence.

In view of the position taken by the American government before the occupation of the Ruhr, the German declaration for a direct, oral discussion of methods of reparations payments could not fail to attract attention here.

Officials Reserve Comment

The American suggestion to the French government prior to the occupation of the Ruhr was that a conference of the interested nations be called to seek a business like solution of the problem. The German suggestion contained in the current reparations proposal from Berlin is in line with the theory that impelled the American government to make its formal suggestion for such a conference.

No official word discusses details of the German proposal and the official text received at the state department was not made public there, although copies were made available to the press at the German embassy. Industry in Mountain and Pacific States at Stake, Commissioner's Agent Is Told

SALT LAKE CITY, June 7. (AP)—The future of the dairy industry in the mountain and Pacific states depends to a great extent on the adjustment of alleged discriminatory railway express rates on cream, it was declared before Attorney Examiner E. L. Spaulding of the Interstate Commerce commission during the hearing yesterday afternoon in Salt Lake City. Mutual Creamery company for reduced rates. The company alleges that the schedule average about 17 per cent higher than those of Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Utah. There are discrepancies in the charges made between points in the territory.

Would Benefit Producers

W. F. Jensen, president of the Mutual Creamery company, was the first witness. He testified that his company operates 11 creameries in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Washington, Oregon and Nevada. The producers, he said, would benefit by a reduction in the adjustment of rates, the cream being paid on delivery to the creameries. He explained that the company expected to benefit in an indirect way by obtaining a larger volume of business by extending its territory and by being able, because of the greater production, to decrease manufacturing expenses.

H. F. Frickey, manager of the traffic service bureau of Utah, who is representing the Mutual Creamery, introduced several exhibits for the purpose of showing that there is no justification for higher rates in mountain and Pacific territory than in the prairie states.

Compare Rates

The intrastate and interstate rates are generally higher than they are east of Colorado and the rates in Idaho and Utah are perhaps more discriminatory than others in effect in this territory, he contended.

Operating expenses of western railroads compared with those of the prairie states do not justify the difference in rates, the traffic bureau manager declared.

Oliver O. Hagan, attorney of Boise, Idaho, appeared in behalf of the Idaho Dairy Products association, intervenor. He said the association was composed of local creameries and cheese factories which compete with the Mutual Creamery company.

PAGEANT SHOWS MASONS' DEEDS IN BIG EVENTS

Shriners Close Convention at Washington With Brilliant Street Spectacle; Band Concerts and Dancing

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A pageant, depicting numerous historic events in which Masons played a part, and dancing on Pennsylvania avenue to-night, brought the annual Shrine convention to a picturesque close. The pageant, moving under a canopy of colored lights, was witnessed by President and Mrs. Harding observing much of the activity of the convention centered.

Led by units representing various branches of the army, navy and marine corps, the parade included 50 floats, 16 bands and 61 Shrine temple patrols. On the floats, the thousands of spectators were shown the Knights Templar in the Crusades, the founding of the life of Captain John Smith, William Penn making peace with the Indians, the Boston tea party, which, according to Masonic tradition, was conducted by members of St. Andrew's lodge of Boston, dressed as Indians, and George Washington in various scenes.

Revere Shown In Ride

Paul Revere was shown on his famous ride, and General Joseph Warren in command at Bunker Hill, where he fell. Another float depicted the signing of the Declaration of Independence, all the signers except one, having been Masons. The ringing of the Liberty bell by Masons was presented, and Benjamin Franklin, member of the Paris lodge, to which John Paul Jones belonged, was shown pleading the cause of the new republic at the court of Louis XIV.

Masons of the Union army were shown carrying slain Confederate Masons through the Wilderness, and Admiral Perry was depicted discovering the North Pole.

Theodore Roosevelt also was represented, as were Albert Pike, soldier, sailor, author and father of the present judicial system of the Scottish Rite; Chief Justice Marshall and Lewis and Clark, Masons, who traced the way to Oregon in 1805.

Dance Music Broadcasted

The dancing which followed the pageant was intended to entertain the United country in step. The music was broadcasted by radio throughout the continent and was carried to the thousands of participants through amplifiers.

Each lodge along Pennsylvania avenue was set aside for a separate station, and the spectators were invited to join the 10,000 registered Shriner and their visiting companions in the festival.

After the closing of the state, the homeward rush began, but the convention transportation committee avoided congestion and disorder with the aid of railroad and bus lines. Governor Edward V. Dickman of Brooklyn, the new imperial potentate, and his divan, were inducted into office late today at the concluding business session.

Harding Receives Honor

The application of eight temples for Shrine charters were refused, but a charter was granted to the 10th 34th temple of Sacramento, which had existed under a dispensation voted at last year's convention. President Harding was unanimously elected an honorary member of the imperial temple.

The 110 temple bands here for the convention were housed in a concert hall. The 200 bands were led by John Philip Sousa, and Dr. William A. White, director of the army school of music, both of whom are Shriner. The concert was held in the American legion park, which was thronged with nearly 10,000 persons.

SUBWAY RIDERS WERE "WISE"

Good Reason Why Woman With Her "Nice Baby" Was Unable to Attain a Seat.

She was the only woman in the car who did not manage to get a seat by springing or by special donation. While the express reced north from William street she struggled to keep a blanket-covered bundle from slipping out of her arms as she lurched against the backs of three substantial citizens who had less trouble keeping their balance, the New York Sun states.

An occasional sudden swerve made her clutch her bundle with one arm while she steadied herself with the finger tips of a small white hand that could barely reach the window frame. Between swerves and lurches she patted the fuzzy blanket and sighed, "Baby—buna-baby! Keep still now; be a good baby!"

Half the passengers in the car stopped reading and talking to watch her. As they looked up her eyes moved along the line, stopping first at one face, then at another. They were pleading black eyes and she was a rather pretty woman.

A little rumpled and a little weary with the lifting and lurching and standing while the other women sat down. Fired out trying to keep her balance and keep that baby quiet. The black eyes were set in a piquant little face framed in black curls and she wore a new brown straw mushroom-shaped hat. Yet no man gave up his seat for her.

The behavior of the baby was entertaining the crowd. Some folks laughed aloud. Others concanted a smile behind a newspaper. One or two had sufficient good breeding to see nothing.

At the Ninety-sixth street stop she had hopes of getting a seat. But the passengers piled in so rapidly that when the train started she was still standing. She stood till the train had come up for air, climbed over the trestle while and gave back into the tunnel again. All the while the baby lay in her arms, making frantic efforts to reach the face of a coal-black stevedore who kept his eyes lowered and his face straight, but who was nevertheless amused.

At last the woman got a seat. She let the blanket drop and everybody took a good long look at the baby. It was white-faced, brown-eyed, sharp-nosed—an alert little creature, the sort of pup that is usually called a toy fox.

Wolves on the Increase

Wolves are at the doors of civilization. In all the continents of the world except Africa where most wild animals flourish, but curiously enough, this blundering animal never has had a foothold, wolves have been increasing, and it is estimated that there are more of these beasts in the world today than at any other time in history. This is due to the fact that since the war, the blaine of naturally occurring and farm-raised animals, scientists and farmers of the world over, for it is regarded as an ill omen.

What has caused this remarkable increase in the wolf packs? As in most of the other undesirable things that have happened since the war, the blame is usually laid directly on the World war, which made the "hunters of wild beasts hunters of men." After every war in history of the human race there has always been increase in wolves, but there has never been so marked an increase as after the World war, that is, nearly destroyed civilization.—Exchange.

Tibet Accessible by Telegraph

For many years Tibet has been counted one of the most inaccessible belts of Asia. Now it telegraph line has been opened, connecting Tibet with India, and the first message sent over the new line was one from the Latal Lama to the viceroy of India (in part) as follows:

"On the occasion of connecting Lhasa with the outer world by telegraph, I tender felicitous greeting to His Majesty the King George, Your Excellency, and the Political Officer of Sikkim. We all fervently hope that the line will serve to cement the permanent bond of already existing friendship between our countries and increase trade between us." The Tibetans are connected in a like congratulatory vein. Those who have long been praying for an entrance for the Gospel into Tibet will take heart from this news. Telegraphic communication is bound to help open the country to missionary enterprise.

MILLER IS HERO AGAINST GIANTS

Strong Man of National League Swats In Enough Runs to Give Cubs Series

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—Hack Miller, the strong man, was the hero of a hard fought nip-and-tuck game today in which Chicago emerged victor, 7 to 7, and won the series from the world's champions, two games to one.

Miller's home run smash into the bleachers in right center, a terrific drive, tied the count in the seventh after the lead had alternated, and his crashing double in the eighth sent two runs home with the deciding runs.

Charley Hollocher led the attack for Chicago with five hits in as many times up. "Irish" Meusel was the batting star for the visitors with a brace of home runs.

CARDS NOSE OUT PHILLIES.

ST. LOUIS, June 7 (AP)—A pitching duel between Ring and Pfeffer ended with the teeth biting heavy when Smith's single and Wade's triple gave St. Louis a 1 to 0 victory over Philadelphia. It was the local's second triumph victory over the visitors in an extra inning contest. It was Pfeffer's sixth victory out of seven games this season.

Cy Williams, this season's home run king, retired in the fourth when he complained of a pain in his back.

BROWNS FAIL TO SOLVE ROMMELL

Athletic Ace Stems Batting Rally, and Mackmen Win, Senators Trounce Tigers

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP)—Eddie Rommel returned to old time form today and for six innings held the St. Louis Browns hitless. His result was another victory for Philadelphia by the score of 8 to 5. The visitors made all their runs in the third off Heimann, the two homers aiding in the scoring. The home team rallied behind Rommel and tied the score in the fourth and then for good ahead.

That "SOMETHING" You Either Have or Haven't in Dress

Many a woman is accepted or rejected long before one catches the color of her eyes. Hatted, booted and gowned in the height of fashion, yet something either is or isn't lacking in the ensemble. Men sense it, but only women will tell you that the missing "something" is—the proper corset.

What a simple thing to achieve those lines of grace—that is, if you know the secret. And the secret is a Modart Corset.

Such a splendid corset is the Modart, so individual in design, so free in its feeling, that there isn't any corset like a Modart.

RAIL SHIPPING SHOWS HEAVIER BUSINESS HERE

Record Show Increase In Amount of Commodities Received in Past Months; Autos in Big Demand

Notwithstanding the approach of the seasonal decline in freight traffic, local receipts and shipments of goods and commodities of various kinds have been unusually heavy for this time of the year and the records of shipments for April show an appreciable increase over those of the same month last year.

Probably the most notable feature in freight receipts this year is the fact that the total number of automobiles shipped into Twin Falls has reached a record. At the same time automobile dealers report an increase in the number of buyers this year who are paying cash.

Ship Out Poultry. Poultry and egg shipments have also increased considerably this year. A carload of poultry was ready for shipment Saturday morning to the San Francisco market, and a car of eggs will be shipped out in the next few days.

Potatoes constituted the heaviest increase in outgoing shipments during April, 109 cars having been shipped during that month as compared to 54 cars in the same month a year ago. A car of onions and five cars of ice were included in the traffic forwarded during April. Receipt of merchandise during the month totaled 139 carloads, an increase of 15 carloads over the merchandise receipts in April, 1922. A slight increase in the number of cars of heavy wheat shipments were received and an increase was shown in the amount of flour shipped out during that month. Outgoing potato shipments showed an increase of 16 cars in May over the shipments of the same month last year. A heavy shipment of livestock was received during the month. Merchandise receipts again reached a heavy total, and wheat and oil again increased over the total receipts of the same commodity in May. The majority of autos received were included in the outgoing traffic during May.

Totals Are Given. The comparative totals of freight traffic in April, 1922 and 1923, are as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Commodity, 1922, 1923, and 1924. Rows include Barley, Beans, Cement, Coal, Corn, Flour, Fruit, Gravel, Lumber, Merchandise, Oil, Potatoes, Stock, Sugar, Ties, Wheat, and Miscellaneous.

In regard to future shipments it is expected that about 25 cars of lumber will be shipped by the end of the year, thus setting a record for lumber shipments from this district. With a large increase in the acreage of beans, a big increase is expected in this commodity. A total of 209 cars of beans were shipped out of Twin Falls during the month of May, the total this year is expected to be in the neighborhood of 600 cars.

MEDAL GIVEN "BRAVEST GIRL IN AMERICA"

Miss Mary Buhner, winner of the "Bravest Girl in America" medal.

MISS MARY BUHNER of New York is recognized as the "bravest girl in America." She has been awarded the Red Cross "bravest" valor-honor and the bravery medal of the Carnegie Institute as tribute to her courage in making a valiant fight in Tampa Bay, Florida, last year to save Miss Dorothy McCatchie, a friend who had been attacked by a barracuda while swimming. The girls were half a mile from shore when Miss McCatchie's leg was almost severed by the sea tiger. Swimming in a pool of blood, Miss Buhner towed the drowning girl to shore, while sharks broke the water all about them, drinking in the victim's lifeblood.

consultations with the government, which are entitled to receive reparations payments under the Treaty of Versailles. Important officials observed here as marking a step in advance in the treatment of the situation.

Allied reactions to the German suggestion that the problem be attacked in a business like way will be awaited with interest here. Hope is entertained that it will lead to discussions which may bring about initiation of conferences between Germany and her credit-weak neighbors that would lead to an understanding and help stabilize European conditions.

The Washington government, however, has no part in the preparation of a note at present, and the question of whether the United States would be a participant in such conversations as the German note suggests could not be said until there had been an agreement to hold the consultation.

concerns, there will be ample government funds to buy each of the bottom lands as well as be flooded by the reservoir. There also will be funds available to make partial extensions with the power company and to finance the town of American Falls.

"Because of the uncertainty centering on the lands of the reservoir, the conference today did not reach a determination as to the capacity of the reservoir that should be built. Secretary Work was told that if a reservoir in store 30,000 acre feet is built it will cost the government $10,000,000, of which half a million has been spent, and a million and a half is now available, and two million additional will yet have to be appropriated by congress. This is in addition to the $2,750,000 to be raised by the bond issue. Director Davis of the reclamation service explained that under such a plan a reservoir could be built for 12,000 acres in addition to the Minidoka project, at a cost of $100 an acre."

GOING UP!

There will be building in Twin Falls within the next twelve months, perhaps a good deal of it. If the announced development program of Southern Idaho goes through, and there is no slightest ground for supposing that it will not, Twin Falls will take on a local development program commensurate with the city's needs.

Recently, that is to say within the last sixty days, two hundred million dollars worth of building has been cancelled or postponed in Chicago and New York. This action was brought about by the withdrawal of financial support from the various projects on the ground that, at the prevailing cost of labor and material, there would not be anyone in the country with enough money to be able to afford to pay the rents which the buildings would have to charge.

Wages of all kinds went sky-high some four or five years ago throughout the entire east and middle west and right here in Twin Falls the same movement got well under way. But labor and material costs in these days now appear insignificant when compared to present conditions. New York leads in point of wage costs which run from ten to twenty-seven dollars a day for carpenters, painters, plasterers and bricklayers, with the workmen taking their pick of the jobs and letting the least desirable go hang.

Of course with living costs high in proportion twenty-seven dollars a day would not be too much, but here is a translation into terms of dollars and cents of farm products, compiled by a Virginia farmer for the New York Herald:

- It takes 63 1/2 dozen, or 762, eggs to pay a plasterer for one day of eight hours work. It takes 17 1/2 bushels of corn, or a year's receipts from half an acre, to pay a bricklayer one day. It takes twenty-three chickens weighing three pounds each, to pay a painter for one day's work in New York. It takes forty-two pounds of butter, or the day's output from fourteen cows, to pay a plumber $14 a day. It takes a half weighing 175 pounds, representing eight months feeding and care, to pay a carpenter for one day's work.

Labor for years has devoted its almost exclusive attention to its rights and privileges when labor begins to pay a small measure of attention to the responsibilities of labor this sort of thing will be unknown.

FRENCH HOPE.

Premier Poincare has got a vote of confidence from the French Parliament, but got it by compromising. He has quit saber-rattling. He announced that he does not intend to increase the French army in Germany. He pleaded that he had done the best he could, and that he hoped for the best. So the French lawmakers, also hoping for the best, upheld him. Like Poincare, they are committed to the Ruhr adventure and do not know what else to do.

That collecting expedition has brought France, so far, only expense and disillusionment. There is no promise yet of Germany yielding to military coercion. French expectations are based on the feeling that France can stand the deadlock better and longer than Germany can, and that sooner or later the Germans will decide to pay in order to get rid of their conquerors, as the French did after the Franco-Prussian war. That may be the result, but nobody knows.

If the yielding is long delayed, however, there will be no continued vote of confidence for Poincare. There will be a new government in France, ready perhaps to take disinterested advice from England and America and adopt a policy of conciliation not because Germany deserves it, but for the sake of Europe's future and France's future. Otherwise German hatred and the German birthrate, in the long run, will be more than a match for French military preparedness.

QUAINT SPOTS IN NEW YORK

Frame Dwellings Still Nestling Among Skyscrapers Are a Connecting Link With Old Days.

No one has ever explained satisfactorily why a little white frame house should be considered so much more feminine than a red brick or a grey stone house of the same size. The fact remains that whenever our enterprising creators of fiction want to provide the ideal setting for their simple country girl heroine they always put her in a little white frame house.

And in plays where the hero and heroine, after three acts of storm and stress, settle down in a little love nest, it is always in this type of a house.

Consequently, cliff dwellers have come to have a most romantic regard for the little white frame houses, the few remaining examples within the city limits with the same affectionate regard given to the old homestead. Strange as it may seem, excellent examples of this type of architecture exist within the heart of the city, and provide an interesting contrast to the towering buildings of our age.

Right in the heart of the rambling forties, just off Broadway, is a row of stumpy, two-story frame dwellings, under the shadow of skyscrapers like ghosts of a vanished generation, says a writer in the New York Sun. When they go there they find a row of quaint book shops, tea shops, coffee houses and antique dealers.

That some of the members of this generation prefer quaintness to newness is proved by the fact that in the fashionable eighties, just off Fifth avenue in the New York City, was a building that carried the name of the real porch, and a real back yard, it still used as a residence. Its immaculate whiteness stands out sharply in contrast to the gloomy brownstone dwellings around it. It looks for all the world like a white chocolate pudding.

Another example of the moving picture setting right in the midst of New York is found on the upper West side, just off Riverside drive. This little frame dwelling, in addition to wide porches and green blinds, boasts a real back yard with a swimming pool. It is the envy of all the residents of the fashionable apartments that surround it.

That the quaintness is not unappreciated by the blase city dweller is proven by the frequency with which canvas is used in the construction of these houses. Doubtless, many of these pictures are sent back home to the folks, just to prove that New York still has some real scenery.

Decentralizing a City.

A scientific plan for the future development of New York City, more thorough and comprehensive than anything of the kind ever before attempted, and including all the territory within fifty miles of Battery park, is being begun by a committee of experts appointed for the purpose by the Russell Sage foundation by the committee known as the "committee on the plan of New York and its environs."

All suburban territory will be divided into six sections and, one expert will make a particular study of its problems and of their relation to the whole plan. The survey will include consideration of every phase of city life with special reference to housing, transportation, zoning and recreation. The ultimate object is the decentralization of New York to the greatest practical extent, possibly through the creation of self-contained suburbs or "satellite towns" whose inhabitants will find opportunities for work, education, religious observance and recreation without going to the center of the city. A preliminary report will be made October 1.

What is useless to you may be valuable to others—advertising it in the classified columns.

TRACE EARLY MAN

Much Is Being Learned of Development of Humanity.

Scientific Discoveries Seem to Give Point to Idea of Evolution From the Early Apes.

Within fifty years great discoveries bearing on man's development from his apelike ancestors will be made, says Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution predicted recently. Just back from an examination of the known sites of ancient man in Europe, Dr. Hrdlicka declared that the deposits of early skeletal remains are vast, and emphasized the importance of careful systematic research in bringing their precious contents to light.

"The surface has hardly been scratched," he said, "by discoveries of early man so far made in west central and south Europe, while nothing has been done to explore the riches for evidence of early man and his predecessors, which are probably present there. Expensive expeditions are constantly being fitted out to dig up pottery and other recent relics of man, but the development of man himself is almost primitive, and the very essence of man's history, is largely neglected."

"At Ehringsdorf, near Weimar and Oberassel, Germany, at La Quina, France, at Predmost, Moravia, and elsewhere," Dr. Hrdlicka said, "piths of cave-dwellers of the Neolithic or later type lived one hundred and fifty thousand or more years ago, and the accumulation of various cultural remains left by them is very striking."

"At La Quina the talis containing remains of ancient man extends along the cliff behind the houses for nearly two miles, with a strong probability that there are caves in the cliff in which many of a hundred thousand years ago found shelter, and of these accumulations not one fiftieth has yet been examined. They abound in rock shelters and houses of long extinct animals hunted by the ancient human beings who here and there have left the remains of their own skeletons in these refuse heaps and caves."

The skulls of these early inhabitants of Europe are probably ancestral to those of man of today, and distinctly different from those of any modern races, Dr. Hrdlicka explained. They are heavy and low-browed, heavily jawed and the lower jaw has as yet no chin prominence. The chin in fact is often markedly recessed in the great apes. What we speak of these people as cavemen, several of the specimens recovered are probably women, while recently a complete skull of a cave child was found, the first so far revealed.

In the ten to hundred thousands of years represented by these remains there are noticeable differences in the earlier and later skulls. There is a gradual progression toward the modern type, but all the stages are not yet known by well-preserved specimens.

"These people represent various links in the chain of man's evolution from early apes. Man did not develop from any of the present-day apes," Dr. Hrdlicka said, "but represents a separate line of descent from the primate form which in turn arose from some extinct simian forms."—Kansas City Star.

WILD ANIMALS KNOW FRIEND

Man, Sole Resident of Island, Has Won Confidence of Deer to a Remarkable Extent.

A wonderful wild-animal sanctuary is to be found on Hardy Island, a dot of rocks and trees of the coast of British Columbia, where a veteran prospector has achieved the feat of winning the confidence of the wild deer so completely that now they come from long distances to visit him. This remarkable man, T. B. Brazil, has built tables for the deer near his house. Each deer has a separate bowl, and their table manners are exceptionally good. This is the first wild deer sanctuary in the world, writes Francis Dieble in the Christian Herald.

That animals communicate with one another is strikingly shown by the fact that when Mr. Brazil first took up his residence on this island, where he is the only human being, he saw only two deer. He put out food for them, and after a few weeks got their confidence. In the autumn those deer brought five more. The next year there were 30. Today, six years later, hundreds come to the island.

While the animals are well fed at the open air restaurant, some of them certainly are achievement, for they make it their refuge during the shooting season, knowing they will be protected, and the deer here give birth to their young, so that in the early summer the island is alive with little ones. The deer come and go at will, and the animal they are parted from their parents are absolutely free. They have thus been easy work for the man thus to establish himself in perfect trust of the hundreds of deer and it has taken him nearly a decade, but now the deer are coming to him from distant islands and the mainland.

Could you drink seventeen large glasses of wine (more than half a gallon) in six minutes? Edmund Gwenn, English actor, does it in the musical play, "Lilac Time." Result? He's the theatrical sensation of London. The English mob can't understand how anyone can guzzle over two quarts in six minutes, and do it twice a day. Gwenn lets them in on his secret—the "wine" is colored water. But that only puzzles the English mob more.

Swallowing half a gallon of water in six minutes is an achievement. Gwenn says he has to drink on an empty stomach, doesn't dare eat before the show. All of which may seem unimportant. But the English public is giving it about as much attention as the slumlord along the Rhine. Thus returns normally, the period in which public attention is chiefly on trivialities.

British Parliament Houses.

The houses of parliament cover an area of eight acres, and have a river frontage of 940 feet. They contain more than 500 rooms, and about 13 residences, the resident population being about 200.

Swim Not, Drown Not.

The Mohammedan and Hindu families in Kashmir for generations have taught their children that swimming is an ungentlemanly art. They argue that those who go often into the water run a risk of drowning.

Parade of Lodge Candidates in Burlesque Raiment Precedes Initiation of Class of About 100 Candidates

Following a parade that will long be remembered by the participants and the throngs of spectators who lined the downtown streets to witness it, a class of more than 100 candidates was taken into the Elks lodge Thursday night as the principal event of Elks week in Twin Falls.

The initiation took place on the final day of the special dispensation on membership and event with the initiation ceremonies extending until after last midnight a number were held over to be initiated at a later date. The initiation took place in the lodge room immediately after the parade at 7:30 o'clock. Lodge went into session with the candidates being put through the ritual and under the supervision of Harry J. Bennett, esteemed leader; Harry J. Bennett, esteemed leader; Harry J. Bennett, esteemed leader; Harry J. Bennett, esteemed leader.

Second Degree. The second degree followed in charge of the initiation committee, composed of Ray Brown, Len Stewart, William Donnelly, G. Marshall, Fred E. Cook, H. G. Luterbach, George Ayres, Dr. John E. Conhugh, Eldon Brackton, Charles Bullis, Harry Meyer, Carl J. Hahn, "Bill" Eyer, William Macneely and Frank Murray.

The parade was a riotous success. Starting from the Elks building shortly after 7 o'clock and led by Earl A. Lynch, followed by a part of the high school band and a truck filled with members of the lodge, the parade made their way down the main street east to Second street and up Main. A crowd of onlookers packed the curbs and filled office buildings with news, a few even taking snapshots of the structures along Main avenue to watch the event.

The first indication of what was coming was found in the procession of "Bill" riding a long pole topped in purple and white and extending behind the big truck at the head of the parade. Behind him came the candidates themselves and a bright sign that was that they presented.

Did Through Job. Each candidate marched beside a member, with the former dressed in burlesque garb of various kinds. There was every sort of costume from that of the Shick and the fat "Tad" down to the Van Winkle and the "follies" and "bathing" girls. Some wore jackets of one kind or another in decorating the young army and nothing was left undone in the way of makeup.

Address of Expert to Be One of Value. L. S. Otto Gives Highest Praise to Farm Bureau Official Who Speaks Here on Friday. Telegraphic information received Thursday night by E. E. Bossard, county agent, from L. S. Otto at Pocatello, advised that the address to be delivered at Pocatello Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Walter Petzet, director of cooperative marketing for the National Farm Bureau, will without doubt be one of the most notable of its kind to be delivered in Twin Falls and one that deserves the hearty support of local business men in all lines so used as farmers.

Mr. Otto's telegram stated that Mr. Petzet will be accompanied by other speakers of national importance, although among natives will not be able to be here.

Mr. Otto attended a meeting at Pocatello Thursday night at which Mr. Petzet was one of the speakers and in account of the ability of Mr. Petzet as an authority on cooperative movements and as a gifted speaker was one of the highest praise.

Mr. Petzet will dwell particularly on the cooperative farm marketing plan and the feasibility of joining the various organizations of this kind in Idaho in connection with the national marketing organization.

"It will be time well spent for any person in this Twin Falls district to hear Mr. Petzet," said Mr. Otto. "Every person should make it a special point to hear him Friday afternoon."

Release on Bond Is Sought by Defense

Once Taken under Advisement Following Preliminary Hearing of Melvin Blackburn

Efforts on the part of Attorney J. W. Porter, counsel for the defense, to secure the release on bond of Melvin Blackburn, pilot who held in connection with the recent death of his wife from poisoning, as one of less degree than first degree murder, featured arguments in probate court Thursday afternoon following the preliminary hearing of Blackburn in the forenoon. The case was taken under advisement by Judge O. P. Duvall until 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

There was no testimony given for the defense, as the case, represented by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor, placed on the stand Mrs. W. H. Hurst, mother of the dead girl; Dr. F. A. Dwight of Elks, the attending physician; E. R. Donley, chemist; Deputy Sheriff John Gahbart, and Miss Nellie Hunter, a pilot girl, who testified to her marriage to Miss Cecil Hurst.

Miss Hunter testified that on returning from a dance in the company of her husband, she found her husband dead. He had told his wife he would refuse to live with her.

Mrs. Hurst testified as to the receipt of the money, which she allowed at her home where her daughter was living. The mother said she kept the powders, although her daughter asked her to burn them, and delivered them to Dr. Dwight when he was called the day after they were taken by Coel.

Dr. Dwight testified as to the intense suffering of the girl when she died at her home. He testified as to the serious efforts of the powders and he described the girl's death directly to the jury.

Mr. Donley, who made the chemical analysis, testified as to the effects of bicarbide of mercury on the human body, and related the holding of a post mortem examination.

Deputy Sheriff Gahbart was placed on the stand to testify that Blackburn had once said he had obtained the powders in Twin Falls but would not say who he got them from, and that on another occasion he said he bought them at the city pharmacy. On another occasion Blackburn said, according to the officer's testimony, he got the poison from Mrs. Williams at Pocatello, but he said he did not know who sent them to his wife without knowing what they were.

Attorney Porter cited several cases in support of his contention, mentioning the Arbuckle case in which he stated three attempts were made to establish a murder and that in each case the magistrate refused to commit the defendant on any charge of manslaughter.

Blackburn showed unusual nervousness or anxiety during the preliminary hearing and the arguments of the attorneys. The preliminary hearing was witnessed by about 25 or 30 persons, several of whom were from Pocatello.

Mr. Otto's telegram stated that Mr. Petzet will be accompanied by other speakers of national importance, although among natives will not be able to be here.

Mr. Petzet will dwell particularly on the cooperative farm marketing plan and the feasibility of joining the various organizations of this kind in Idaho in connection with the national marketing organization.

"It will be time well spent for any person in this Twin Falls district to hear Mr. Petzet," said Mr. Otto. "Every person should make it a special point to hear him Friday afternoon."
