FLOOD DRIVES THOUSANDS OUT OF TULSA AREA

Situation Called Worst in City's History With From 3,000 to 4,000 Persons Rendered Homeless

TULSA, Okla., June 13, (AP)—At 1:30 o'clock this morning the Tulsa city water works shut down on account of the flood, leaving the city virtually without water.

TULSA, Okla., June 12, (AP)—With 3,000 to 4,000 people driven from their homes by flood waters of the Arkansas river tonight, Tulsa was in the grip of the worst flood in its history.

Dr. H. M. Hutchinson, of the local water bureau, predicted that the river would begin to recede about midnight. At 8 o'clock tonight it was still rising at the rate of two inches an hour, slower than during the afternoon. The gauge showed 18.5 feet.

Approximately 3,000 refugees have left the area between Tulsa and Sand Springs. The number of refugees from West Tulsa is estimated at 1,000.

There has been only one casualty. Shirley Blackwell, negro, was killed when he dived from the Sand Springs bridge and struck his head against a sharp object. The body was found two hours afterwards.

LIQUOR FLOWING ACROSS BORDER

Quebec Authorities Note Expansion of Rum Smuggling Traffic; Wrecks Tell Story

MONTREAL, Que., June 12, (AP)—A flood of liquor—much of it not the real stuff—is entering New York from the province of Quebec, according to Louis Giguere, secretary of the Quebec liquor commission.

While not particularly concerned with the question of whether Canadian whisky is legally manufactured and sold in the province, officers of the United States commission look with stern eyes on the manufacture of illicit beverages. The attitude taken by Canadian authorities is that it is up to American authorities to see that liquor does not slip across the border.

Canadians Watch Movement. The extent to which the bootleg trade has picked up since the repeal of the Mulholland enforcement act by the New York legislature, has not been ascertained here, but Canadian officials stationed along the border with heavy stocks.

American tourists traveling by motor have given further testimony that liquor is slipping across the border successfully.

Wrecks here and there along the main international road into New York city from Montreal testify to the fact that the rum runners choose the speediest and most frequented routes.

JUSSERAND AND HUGHES CONFER ON SHIP LIQUOR

Impression Prevails Foreigners May Bring in Alcoholics Under Seal if Search and Seizure Zone is Extended

WASHINGTON, June 12, (AP)—The United States government is understood to be willing to permit foreign vessels to bring sealed liquor supplies into American ports provided the international agreement is reached to extend the search and seizure limit to twelve miles.

Ambassador Jusserand of France had a lengthy conference today with Secretary Hughes who had requested his presence at the state department.

It has not been disclosed how far the Washington government has gone in approaching foreign powers, whose shipping is affected by the liquor ban with its new proposal, nor has it yet been made clear how the administration would carry through its part of such an arrangement if it was agreed to by other governments.

Added Levies Upon Trade Price of Persistence in Passive Resistance Policy

Allied High Commission Meets German Defiance With Increase of 25 Per Cent in Duties on Merchandise Coming Into Rhineland from Unoccupied Germany

COBLENZ, June 12, (AP)—The entire allied Rhineland high commission has increased 25 per cent the duties on merchandise coming into the Rhineland from unoccupied Germany.

The increase constitutes a penalty for the German defiance of the Franco-Belgian demand for cessation of the passive resistance and punishment for imposition by the German government of onerous duties or foreign importations sent through the Rhineland.

PARIS, June 12, (AP)—The recrudescence of sabotage and shooting throughout the Ruhr since the Brussels conference of promoters and the French demand that the Germans cease their passive resistance is likely to cause the severest measures of repression in the occupied territory since the French troops entered Essen six months ago. It was stated in an authoritative circles today.

The French, it was declared, are determined to put an end to the disorders and it is quite possible that General Degoutte, the allied commander-in-chief, will receive orders to extend the martial law.

FRENCH FEAR NIGHT ATTACKS

DUESSELDORF, June 12, (AP)—The killing of three French soldiers, one in Gelsenkirchen and two in Dortmund—within the last few days, has convinced the French military authorities that an organized effort had been launched by the Germans to carry on night attacks against the forces of occupation. Hence drastic measures have been taken against the two municipalities concerned.

It was one of these measures—the restriction of street traffic after nine o'clock in the evening—that led to the shooting of nine Germans Sunday night when a French patrol was compelled to fire on them because its warning to clear the streets was disregarded. Six of the Germans died from gunshot wounds.

In addition to arresting three German officials, who are to be held as hostages, it was announced today by the French that no more permits would be granted Germans of Dortmund and Gelsenkirchen to leave the occupied area.

BANDIT'S COUP PLOTS AMERICAN IN LIMELIGHT

Release of Last of Foreign Captives Held by Shantung Brigands Consumates Anderson's Efforts

TSAOCHIWANG, June 12, (AP)—Eight bearded shabby men, four of them Americans, the last of 27 foreign prisoners captured by Chinese bandits from the Shantung Pacific express near Sachow, May 6, arrived at the Tung Hsing mines, near Tsao Chiwang, this afternoon.

They came down the mountainside from their prison on Paozuka in the temple of the clouds in Sedan chairs, on donkeys and some walking, with a lot of outlaws.

At the mine compound they saw the last of their brigand hosts and were joyfully greeted by crowds of relatives and friends who had gathered there to welcome them in expectation of their release.

Comforts in Waiting

Baths, clothing and food were awaiting them on a railroad siding stood a special train, steam up, ready to take them to Tsao Chiwang. It is expected that all, or the majority of the eight will proceed to Shantung Hai tomorrow.

The eight members of the ragged remnant of the original 27 are: American—Major J. H. Pinger, Jr., S. A. Munnis; Leon Friedman, Chinese and Shantung Hai; John B. Dowell, Hannibal, Mo., and Shantung Hai; Leo Solomon, San Francisco and Shantung Hai; British—H. V. Bowditch, Fred Elias; French—Emile Gensberger; Italian—G. D. Mussa.

Meets Love of Formality

The closing scenes of the six and one half weeks of negotiation for the prisoners' release was staged with all the Chinese love of formality.

The Island Creek Coal company directed an extra dividend of $3 in addition to the regular $2 payment on the common stock and the General Refractories company increased its quarterly dividend from 25 cents to $1 a share.

FORCE IN RUHR STICKING POINT

British Cabinet Gives No Indication of Taking Part of Conciliator

LONDON, June 12, (AP)—There was no sign tonight that the British effort to act as a conciliator between France and Germany has met with success. There was no further meeting of the British cabinet today, but diplomatic pur porters continued at the airport, and were followed to the airport, as before, by the press.

"Amnesty in the Ruhr" is the phrase met with in the press of London and it is believed that the British effort is to persuade the French government to get back to the original idea of civil as opposed to military, occupation of the Ruhr.

The British government never acquiesced in the military occupation of the Ruhr. The German contention is that, even if Berlin, as France desired, issued orders for passive resistance the Ruhr workers in the occupied region would continue their resistance.

The idea is that amnesty in the Ruhr might lead to a general amnesty in France, but the difficulty is that Premier Poincare by dropping his military measures would be admitting failure of the occupation to achieve the desired results.

If this difficulty could be surmounted it is thought it might be easier to reach an agreement with Germany. The suggestion is made by some of the British papers that the impasse presents an excellent opportunity for intervention by Washington.

BANDITRY STILL GRAVE PROBLEM FOR ORIENTALS

Peking Government Faces Questions of Indemnity and Guarantee For Safety of Foreigners in Future

SIANO HAI, June 13 (AP)—The eight foreign captives released by the Peking government are expected to arrive here on a special train tonight. A big welcome for them has been planned. No word has been received here regarding the fate of the Chinese captives.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Release today by Chinese bandits of the Americans and other foreigners held as hostages since May 6, ended the emergency as far as the safety of those individuals was concerned, but forested the beginning of prolonged and difficult negotiations with the Peking government to insure the safety of foreigners in the future.

The state department was informed today of the release by the American consulate at Sian Hai. It was indicated, however, that questions of indemnity and of guarantees against repetition of such outrages would be taken up by the diplomats in Peking at the first opportunity.

As far as is known here the Peking diplomatic corps has not as yet worked out any definite proposals to give guarantees to be required of the Peking government.

Old Order Chances Slowly.

Through all the centuries the Chinese have lived to a large extent without a central government and it was only in recent years that there has been any sense that a national spirit was in the earliest stages of development among them. Even in the days of the Manchurian dynasty, experts in Chinese matters declare, the Peking government exercised only authority of the most limited character, and the successors to that government during the various administrations since the establishment of the republic are said not to have extended very widely the control of the federal power.

In dealing with the Peking government, the diplomatic corps at the Chinese capital always has recognized the sharp contrast between western civilization and that of the Chinese. It must be considered, it is said, in working out a solution for the bandit outrages against foreigners which have become more frequent in China within recent months.

There is no doubt on the opinion of informed officials here that specific guarantees will be required of the Peking authorities.

Weakness Recognized.

By what means either the present Peking ministry, or whatever fraction of it in China may succeed it, will be able to enforce the law in the vicinal and lesser officials throughout the bandit infested region does not now appear. Since the Peking government was able to obtain the release of the captives by the bandits only when Roy Anderson, an American, long resident in China, gave his personal guarantee to the Peking government would carry out its promises.

It is noteworthy in the view of observers here that throughout the exchanges between the Peking diplomatic body and the Chinese government a demand that the bandit leaders responsible for the outrage be seized and punished was made in behalf of the powers whose nationals were victims. The entire trend of the negotiations made it clear that the Peking diplomats recognized of any Chinese central government, upon such a situation and that it was possible that only by having the bandits off, as they done, could the safety of the captives be protected. The same situation undoubtedly will have a bearing upon the negotiations for permanent guarantees now pending.

IOWA SENATOR SOVIETS' GUEST

Brookhart Sees Evidence of Good Crops in Russia; Approves Competition

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP)—Investigation of the extent of Russia's grain crop, if unloaded on the world's markets would affect prices received by American farmers, and a study of the Russian cooperative plans are objects of the visit to Russia of Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, he said today.

On his journey through the grain fields between the Polish border and Moscow, he saw enough to convince him that Russia will have a good crop this year, but he expects to go to the south, visiting the wheat belt around Odessa, on his way to Constantinople.

Even though Russia probably will again become a serious factor in the world grain markets, this will not affect the American farmer's attitude toward recognition of the Russian regime, the senator said, as the farm of the United States would be glad if the Russian farmers prosper. Study of the operations of the Russian cooperative, however, he believed, might show the American farmer means of gaining fair prices for their own grain in the American market without worrying about prices to be obtained for their exportable surplus tomorrow. Accompanying the senator are Dr. George E. Rogoyne of Philadelphia, and C. W. Lynch of Harrisburg, Pa., who is connected with the post-offices and who, while on an official mission, intends to report to Postmaster General Now. All are lodged in the Soviet government's magnificent hotel.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover is understood to be interested in Senator Brookhart's trip, as a special assistant from the American relief administration has been detailed to accompany the senator.

Three members of the American congress are in Russia, the others being Representative Ross A. Collins of Mississippi, and Carroll R. Bready of Maine.

Sandy Loams Fight Frost.

The track farmer who selects soil in which there is a sandy component, is in less danger of damaging frosts than if he has loam or clay soil, according to the United States weather bureau. Moreover, if he keeps his land well drained of surplus moisture and free from weeds, he is less liable to the damaging effects of severe temperatures.

Experiments show there is a relation between the temperature of soil and the minimum temperature of the air, in that sandy soils store up much heat during the day and give this off at night, raising the temperature of the air above it.—Popular Science Monthly.

Transparent Rubber.

Some British inventors have succeeded in obtaining a preparation of rubber which is as transparent as glass and sufficiently elastic to be non-breakable. Struck by a ball, for instance, the rubber yields slightly and returns to its former condition. Of course, a heavy missile of jagged shape will tear the sheet, but it then has the advantage that it will not splinter as glass does. It is also said to make an excellent lining for garments where it is desired to have them waterproof. The material will be also made up into bathing caps.

Affidavit Should Go With This.

Bird lovers are finding the good Samaritan acts of a certain pair of chidre near Beech park almost too human for the monarchs of the air, generally known to be flesh-eating, with a predilection for rabbits in particular, says a dispatch from London, Canada.

This particular pair of eagles, finding some bundles remaining almostly about in a field, took them up gently by the ears and carried them to a neighboring farm, depositing them carefully near the barn.

The next remarkable act of one of the eagles was to break a window in the barn. Through the hole the birds carried the rabbits, depositing them gently in the haymow, where the bunnies have made themselves quite contented.

Great Leader's Boldness.

Lord Bacon in his essay on "Boldness" repeats the story of Mahomet's promise to his followers that on a given day he would move by his word a nearby hill. When the day came, Mahomet ordered the hill to move, but it did not move. Then Mahomet calmly announced he would go to the hill since it would not come to him. Bacon uses the incident as an example of boldness.

Trainmen Use Oil In Effort to Rout Caterpillar Army

Mile Long Crawling Insect Wave Strips Vegetation and Delays Railway Traffic

ALBANY, Ore., June 12 (AP)—Crude oil was used today by the Southern Pacific company in an effort to stem the tide of caterpillars which have been seriously interfering with traffic on the Albany-Vancouver branch by gnawing the tracks with their bodies. A work train equipped to cover the right of way with oil left here. As the worms bridge the most of the oil with their bodies the railway workers will resort to other means.

Although reduced in numbers, the caterpillars are still said to be devouring orchards and forests of the upper Yamina valley. Reports from the upper Alsea valley, south of the Yonipin, say the ravages of the insect wave are now less serious than along the rail way.

FOLLOWS RAILWAY LINE.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12 (AP)—Speaking of the Southern Pacific company's effort to rout the caterpillar army in its devastating march into the Willamette valley from the westerly slope of the Coast range via the company's Yonipin branch line, E. L. King, superintendent here, said that the result of combating the pest with distillate will not be known until tomorrow.

The caterpillar army is about a mile in length and has moved probably five miles since last week, stripping trees and brush as they go along, he said.

BEEET PRODUCT HOLDS HOPE OF CHEAPER SUGAR

Existing High Prices Result of Demand in Excess of Supply, Manufacturers Are Told; Prohibition Factor

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 12 (AP)—Sugar prices which prevail at the present time are likely to continue until the advent of the new crop of beet sugar next October and November, Stephen H. Love of Salt Lake, declared in his annual report to the president of the United States Sugar Manufacturers' association at the opening of the annual convention of the organization here today.

It is a case of much larger demand than supply, according to Mr. Love, and he declared that from the best figures available Americans during 1922 purchased 5,000,000 tons of sugar, an increase of 20 per cent over previous years. European sales also are on the increase, he stated.

"Many and various reasons have been assigned for the increased sugar consumption," Mr. Love said. "The most notable of these, so far as the United States is concerned, is prohibition. Personally, I believe that a combination of causes would come nearer being right than to attribute the increase to any one particular thing."

"Prohibition has added to sugar consumption no one will deny, but to what extent we cannot definitely say since accurate figures are not obtainable."

Would Place Responsibility.

Referring to the recent rise in sugar prices, Mr. Love said that the association had canvassed the situation and had warned dealers and handlers of sugar that a shortage was at hand. He denied that the sugar manufacturers were responsible for the "runaway market," as, unfortunately, many unformed people imagine.

All phases of the sugar industry were reviewed by Mr. Love and in dealing with the Fordney-McCumber tariff he declared that, except for popular belief, this legislation had very little or nothing to do with the present high prices of sugar.

"The time has come when we should place the responsibility for high prices where it belongs," he said, "and by every legitimate means at our command make our position known to the public. In view that right minded people everywhere cannot fail to understand that dependence on a foreign country for such a household necessity is neither longer and should not be tolerated longer than necessary. So far as sugar is concerned, the only way, as I see it, to accomplish this would be to set up a national sugar industry until such time as it dominated the American market."

Predicts Boycott Failure.

"The recent agitation to boycott sugar, however well intentioned, will not bring about the result desired. The word boycott is un-American and does not measure up to the ideals of our people. A conservative move, legitimate in its aims, is the only one that should be launched, and that is to limit the purchases to actual current needs is always advisable when there is a scarcity of any food commodity, but fanatical action which enlists the support of a certain class of people who delight in getting themselves in the limelight should be discouraged for the reason that such movements are always ineffective and the usual results that from are disappointing."

"During the war, with all the regulations imposed by the government, the consumption of sugar in the United States was only reduced approximately five per cent. If under the stress of war conditions the American consuming public was not induced to curb their desire for sugar to any appreciable extent, surely in the times of general scarcity throughout the country little curtailment of consumption can be expected."

Uprots Calculations.

"The past 12-month period has been rather a turbulent one in sugar history, possibly one of the most difficult to analyze that the sugar trade has ever experienced. For example, on the first day of May a year ago there was more than a million tons of the 1921 Cuban crop on hand, and the 1922 estimated crop of 4,000,000 tons was prosing on the market. In addition there remained on hand for distribution nearly 5,000,000 bags of beet and a relative amount of domestic cane sugar."

"To dispose of this enormous quantity of sugar before another crop was ready for the market appeared to be a Herculean task. It was known, of course, that the consumption of the large countries of the world was on the increase, but it was inconceivable that it would reach sufficient proportions to absorb this enormous aggregate. However, during the month of January, 1923, when Cuba's new crop of sugar appeared on the market, all of the 1922 carryover, together with our domestic surplus had been disposed of, as well as a larger percentage than usual of beet sugar."

Phrase Used Long Ago.

The word "waitress" can be traced back to the sixteenth century, when the countess of Pembroke, in her translation of the legend of David into "Idylls and sundry kindes of verse," embodies it in the passage: "Unto thee . . . lift I my earthy seeing . . . As the look of a waitresse fixed on a lady hath."

Nor run any chance of novelty he brought against the title of "waitress," whose ancestry appears to be of still greater antiquity. "Her grace . . . is mistress of troupe and doctrine of discipline" is an example from "De Imitatione," published as long ago as 1450; and Evelyn, in a letter to his fellow-christ, Pepys, imports the information that "His Holiness, Comaro, received the degree of Doctoresse at Padua."

Wants Tunnel to Asia.

Connection of America and Asia by tunnel across Behring strait was suggested by Prof. William Hung of the history department, Yeking university, in a luncheon address at the Philadelphia City Business club. America's future destiny was more closely bound with Asia than with Europe, he said.

"It pays for America to be interested in the education of the Chinese," said Professor Hung. "If they are better educated they will produce more, they will earn more and they will buy more from America. If they are better educated they will understand and appreciate better the American ideals and methods, and they will serve better with America in the great world task."

IMMIGRATION LAW BARS "SAPPHIRE OF SIAM."

Margaretta Storm, 14.

Because Margaretta Storm, fourteen was "born in the barred zone," as the immigration records at Ellis Island, New York, have it, she has been refused admittance to this country and ordered deported. Her father is a German of culture and once was a wealthy jeweler, but she has been made to suffer because her mother was a native of Siam, which country is in the "barred zone." The girl is educated and refined and very pretty. She was sent here for adoption by her uncle, Reinhold Storm, of Carlos, Minnesota.

Day of the Prophets Gans.

As religion and poetry are both "a power that makes," it seems well to think of them in association. The world of our troubled days stands in sore need of seers. It is therefore a tragedy that the prophetic office seems to have fallen into abeyance. But it will not always be so, for to think that there is to be no more "open vision" would be to betray a terrible lack of faith.—Exchange.

BANDITRY STILL GRAVE PROBLEM FOR ORIENTALS

Peking Government Faces Questions of Indemnity and Guarantee For Safety of Foreigners in Future

SHANG HAI, June 12 (AP)—The eight foreign captives released by the Pootzuka bandits yesterday are due to arrive here on a special train tonight. A big welcome to them has been planned. No word has been received here regarding the fate of the Chinese captives.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The release today by Chinese bandits of the Americans and other foreigners held as hostages since May 10 ended the emergency so far as the safety of those individuals was concerned, but forecast the beginning of prolonged and difficult negotiations with the Peking government to insure the safety of foreigners in the future.

The state department was informed today of the release by the American consulate at Shang Hai. It was indicated, however, that questions of indemnity and of guarantees against repetition of such outrages would be taken up by the diplomats in Peking at the first opportunity.

So far as is known here, the Peking diplomatic corps has as yet worked out only definite proposals as to future guarantees to be required of the Peking government.

Old Order Changes Slowly.

Through all the centuries the Chinese have lived to a large extent without a central government and it was only in recent years that there has been evidence that a national spirit was in the earliest stages of development among them. Even in the days of the Manchu dynasty experts in Chinese matters declare, the Peking government exercised only authority of the most limited character, and the successors to that government during the various administrations since the establishment of the republic are said not to have extended very widely the control of the federal power.

In dealing with the Peking government, the diplomatic corps at the Chinese capital always has recognized the sharp contrast between modern civilization and that of the Chinese. It often must be considered, it is said, in working out a solution for the bandit outrages against foreigners which have become more frequent in China within recent months.

There is no doubt in the opinion of informed officials here that specific guarantees will be required of the Peking authorities.

Weakness Recognized.

By what means either the present Peking ministry, or whatever faction or group in China may succeed, it will be able to enforce its will on the provincial and lesser officials throughout the bandit infested region does not now appear since the Peking government was able to obtain the release of the captives by the bandits only when Roy Anderson, an American, long resident in China, gave his personal guarantee that the Peking government would carry out its promises.

It is noteworthy in the view of observers here that throughout the exchanges between the Peking diplomatic body and the Chinese government no demand that the bandit leaders responsible for the outrage be seized and punished was made in behalf of the powers whose nationals were victims. The entire trend of the negotiations made it clear that the Peking diplomats recognized the weak hold of any Chinese central government upon such a situation and that it was probable that only by buying the bandits off, as was done, could the lives of the captive foreigners be protected. The same situation undoubtedly will have a bearing upon the negotiations for permanent guarantees now foreseen.

Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt.

The management of the immense Krupp Works, in Essen, Germany, has asked the German Government to permit the retirement of Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, German Ambassador to Washington, in order that he may assume the management of the Krupp plant, of which he was formerly director. Herr Krupp, von Bohlen und Haldrup, husband of Bertha Krupp, and others of his directors, have been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment by the French authorities, following court martial that was brought about by rioting in the Krupp Works, when eleven German workers were shot down by French troops.

Trainmen Use Oil In Effort to Rout Caterpillar Army

Mile Long Crawling Insect Wave Strips Vegetation and Delays Railway Traffic

ALBANY, Ore., June 12 (AP)—Crude oil was used today by the Southern Pacific company in its effort to stem the tide of caterpillars which have been seriously interfering with traffic on the Albany-Newport branch by greasing the tracks with their bodies. A work train equipped to cover the right of way with oil left here. As the worms bridge the most of the oil with their bodies, the railway workers will repeat their oil treatment.

Although reduced in numbers, the caterpillars are still said to be devastating orchards and forests of the upper Yagouin valley. Reports from the upper Alben valley, south of the Yagouin, say the ravages of the insect wave are now less serious than along the rail way.

Every orchard has been stripped of leaves and hopes of many pioneer farmers of that section for fruit crops have been blasted, say travelers from the Alben country.

FOLLOWS RAILWAY LINE.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12 (AP)—Speaking of the Southern Pacific company's effort to rout the caterpillar army in its devastating march into the Willamette valley from the westerly slope of the Coast range via the coast coast's Yagouin bay branch line, J. L. King, superintendent here, said that the result of combating the pest with distillate will not be known until tomorrow.

The caterpillar army is about a mile in length and has moved probably five miles since last week, stripping trees and brush as they go along, he said.

IOWA SENATOR SOVIETS' GUEST

Brookhart Sees Evidence of Good Crops in Russia; Approves Competition

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP)—Investigation of the extent of Russia's grain crop, if unloaded on the world's markets would affect prices received by American farmers, and a study of the Russian cooperative plans are objects of the visit to Russia of Senator South W. Brookhart of Iowa, he said today.

In his journey through the grain fields between the Polish border and Moscow he saw enough to convince him that Russia will have a good crop this year, but he expects to go to the south, visiting the wheat belt around Odessa, on his way to Constantinople.

Even though Russia probably will again become a serious factor in the world grain markets, this will not affect the American farmer's attitude toward recognition of the Russian regime, the senator said, as the farmers of the United States would be glad if the Russian farmers prosper. Study of the operations of the Russian co-operatives, however, he believed, might show the American farmers means of gaining fair prices for their own grain in the American market without worrying about prices to be obtained for their exportable surplus tomorrow. Accompanying the senator are Dr. George E. Rogoziel of Philadelphia, and C. W. Lynch of Harrisburg, Pa., who is connected with the postoffice and while on an official mission, expects to report to Postmaster General New. All are lodged in the Soviet government's magnificent houses. Secretary of Commerce Hoover is understood to be interested in Senator Brookhart's trip, as a special assistant from the American relief administration has been detailed to accompany the senator.

Three members of the American congress are in Russia, the others being Representative Ross A. Collins of Mississippi, and Carroll R. Bredy of Maine.

Sandy Loams Fight Frost.

The truck farmer who selects soil in which there is a sandy component, is in less danger of damaging frosts than if he has loam or clay soil, according to the United States weather bureau. Moreover, if he keeps his land well drained of surplus moisture and free from weeds, he is less liable to the damaging effects of severe temperatures.

Experiments show there is a relation between the temperature of soil and the minimum temperature of the air, in that sandy soils store up much heat during the day and give this off at night, raising the temperature of the air above it.—Popular Science Monthly.

Transparent Rubber.

Some British inventors have succeeded in obtaining a preparation of rubber which is as transparent as glass and sufficiently elastic to be non-breakable. Struck by a ball, for instance, the rubber yields slightly and returns to its former condition. Of course, a heavy missile of jagged shape will tear the sheet, but it then has the advantage that it will not splinter as glass does. It is also said to make an excellent lining for garments where it is desired to have them waterproof. The material will be made up into bathing caps.

Affidavit Should Go With This.

Bird lovers are finding the good Samaritan acts of a certain pair of eagles near Beech park almost too human for the monarchs of the air, generally known to be flesh-eating, with a predilection for rabbits in particular, says a dispatch from London, Canada.

This particular pair of eagles, finding some bunnies scrambling aimlessly about in a field, took them up gently by the ears and carried them to a neighboring farm, depositing them carefully near the barn.

The next remarkable act of one of the eagles was to break a window in the barn. Through the hole the birds carried the rabbits, depositing them gently in the haymow, where the bunnies have made themselves quite contented.

Great Leader's Boldness.
Lord Bacon in his essay on "Boldness" repeats the story of Mahomet's promise to his followers that on a given day he would move by his word a nearby hill. When the day came, Mahomet ordered the hill to move, but it did not move. Then Mahomet calmly announced he would go to the hill since it would not come to him. Bacon uses the incident as an example of boldness.

BANKERS' TEAM TIES WITH ELKS

Money Counters Come From Behind and Claim Even Break With Antlered Herd

The Elks and Bankers' Twilight League baseball teams played a seven inning Tuesday evening, both teams having scored seven runs when Empire Whiffled called the game on account of darkness.

A cold wind blowing over the diamond during the game showed the players up a bit, but everybody had a good time, particularly the Bankers, coming from behind, tied the score in the seventh.

Ray Hoigh occupied the mound for Harry Bonoff's outfit, but he was not doing fine until the fifth, when he was picked for five hits, being the check artists four times.

against the game it was a classy affair. Lots of brilliant fielding and some fifty pitching.

Captain Harry Bonoff of the Elks team wanted Berne to play right field for three frames, and when he discovered that the boys were hitting them the other way, he went to right field, from there on everybody hit to right field, with Bonoff racing around the field like a racehorse.

Dingle deserves honorable mention for the way in which he stopped the Elks, but one hit being made during his three innings in the box.

Day got into the banlight in the third inning, when he grabbed Jerry Janney's liner and rubbed Jerry a two bouncer.

Jimmie Hillman, subbing at first for the Elks, looked like a big leaguer.

Dingle made a nice running catch of Whitney's long drive in the second. In the third inning Whitney socked one far over the left field fence, and the wind blew it foul. It was the first time that a ball has been hit over the fence this season.

The Elks' winners will be at home to the Legion team Thursday evening, and another hot game is looked for.

Challenger's Day Guard Is Placed at Dempsey's Camp

Gibbons Swaps Punches With Five Sparring Partners; Training to be Cut Down

SHELBY, Mont., June 12, (AP)—With Attorney General Rankin of Montana as his guest of honor, Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul challenger, swapped punches with five able and earnest sparring partners today in the most grueling session he has experienced since he pitched his camp in the shadow of the huge arena on the outskirts of Shelby.

The Herman, Los Angeles, welterweight, with the dust of travel still on his face, forced Gibbons to exert his punch and counter to the limit for one round. In a hectic round, the challenger retaliated for the telling blows of Herman, which had found their mark in the first. The two wrestled to a draw in the first round, trading blows at close quarters.

When Gibbons extended himself in the second, utilizing his footwork and outfooted his punch, Herman, worn down, was unable to stem the furious attacks.

Kid Bocco, another welter, with age eye still closed as a result of leading sets he had against Dempsey, lost which opened a cut over the champion's eye, found a long reach-uss in two rounds with Gibbons.

But Gorman, Racine, Wis., heavyweight, with a jumping attack, gave the challenger two busy rounds, but Gibbons' footwork showed to advantage against his heavier opponent.

Kid Seals, Minneapolis, light-heavyweight, weary after the push-back he received yesterday, covered considerably ground in one round against Gibbons.

The challenger's punches are still protesting against the altitude of Shelby, but both Gibbons and Eddie Kane, his manager, declared today that the challenger is rapidly becoming acclimated and his breathing is improving.

Attorney General Rankin took an interest in Gibbons' work. He declared his visit was in connection with the county irrigation project and he refused to make any comment in connection with his recent bout with Shelby to clean up or "run fight."

Fearing that Gibbons is rounding into shape, his manager, Eddie Kane, announced that Gibbons' daily life would be shortened and his routine made less strenuous.

HERMAN AND KAPLAN DRAW NEW YORK, June 12, (AP)—Babe Herman of Los Angeles and Kid Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., featherweights, slugged 12 rounds tonight to an official draw, Kaplan took the first, second, ninth and tenth rounds, the third, fourth, eleventh and twelfth went to Herman and the others appeared even.

Heavyweight Champion Becomes Recluse and Refuses Admittance to All Visitors

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 12, (AP)—The camp of world's champion Jack Dempsey today was strongly reinforced of training establishment maintained two years ago at Manhusset, Long Island, by Georges Carpentier.

The "not at home" sign was hung up on the dilapidated gate through which entry is made to the grounds on which Dempsey's cottage is located. Two sixty guards walked post of the barrier and frowned upon all comers, even newspaper men being denied entry. Jack Dempsey was resting, all were told, and was not to be disturbed, no matter who called or what his mission.

Despite the fact that the champion was not seeing guests, paid or otherwise today, several automobile parties drove the two miles outside of town in the hope they might get a glimpse of the champion walking about.

Groups of men and women hung over the barb wire entanglements and waited patiently for the champion to put in an appearance, but the only individual they saw was the giant negro sparring partner, George Godfrey, who deserted camp and came to town for a visit. Dempsey remained in his house all the afternoon.

It is Dempsey's intention to resume boxing tomorrow after five days layoff. When the champion begins his work, he will start a training grind that will carry him right up to the day when he finally knocks off training for a long time.

Manager Kearns said there would be no more vacation periods for the champion.

WILLIE RITCHIE COMES BACK FOR NEW EFFORTS NEW YORK, June 12, (AP)—Willie Ritchie, christened Georg A. Stoffer, former world lightweight boxing champion, is back in training lists, seeking to gather a bit of the fame he knew before Freddie Welsh took the title from him in a twenty-round engagement in London in 1914.

The former champion today obtained from the state athletic commission a license to box.

Ritchie became titleholder in 1912 when he defeated Jim Griffin, awarded him the decision over Ad Wolgast on a foul in the sixteenth round of their engagement. He lost the crown to Welsh on a decision by Referee Eugene Corri after twenty rounds of milling at the Olympia in London.

Welch dropped the title to Benny Leonard, present holder, Leonard handed an attempted comeback by Ritchie in 1919 at Newark, N. J., knocking out the San Franciscan in the eighth round.

shir liquor went into effect, burned to night that they could get their customary spirit ration only by going to the store and obtaining rations by the methods used by some American citizens.

Heaps that "dietary" liquors would be stored as "medicinal" and as such permitted to cross of vessels which sailed before June 10, were destroyed by the announcement of Dr. E. K. Sprague, local head of the United States public health service, on instructions from Washington, that the druggist ruling would be literally enforced.

The ruling, he declared, could in no sense be construed as permitting the inclusion of wine rations under the heading of medicine. "It is a far stretch of the imagination," he observed.

Keeps Frenchmen Dry. Dr. Sprague confirmed his announcement by denying application of the French line for release from seal of enough wine to serve sailors on the steamship France, the two litre a day ration. The action was taken after Dr. Sprague had discussed the situation with Gustave Colfax, of Illinois, and State Prohibition Director Canfield.

The conference of representatives of the three arms of the federal service, charged with enforcing prohibition afloat and ashore, resulted in the following division of duties:

The United States Public health service is to decide what quantity of liquor is to be released for "medicinal" use in American waters.

The custom authorities is to see that no more than the allotted amount is released.

The state prohibition enforcement of force to issue permits for the purchase by ships—if any—when arrive without enough liquor to meet its medicinal requirements—and, of course, to see that the sailors don't find any grog shops along the waterfront.

FUTURE SHOULD DRAW BUSINESS TO TWIN FALLS

Chamber of Commerce Directors See Value of Inducing Big Concerns to Locate Branches Here at Once

Urging of immediate action to induce large business concerns to locate branches in Twin Falls was among the matters of importance to the committee discussed at the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Tuesday night.

The advisability of pushing industrial development at once was mentioned by W. T. Leslie, chairman of the agricultural bureau. Mr. Leslie favored advertising in such a way as to reach the large business concerns who are plentiful in southern Idaho and that Twin Falls is the logical point in which to locate.

It was pointed out by the convention of all present that Twin Falls is about to enter a period of improvement and that no time should be wasted before taking advantage of the opportunity of increasing industrial activities.

It was agreed that the building of the American Falls dam and the Rogerson-Wells railroad project will be of great benefit to southern Idaho and that Twin Falls, having virtually won both projects, should put the town on the map industrially at once before other southern Idaho towns get into the field to claim the title.

of industries could have been avoided, to the general improvement of the city. The civic bureau, of which D. D. Alford is chairman, will investigate the scheme relative to its application in Twin Falls and will obtain data on the operation of the plan in other cities of 10,000 population or less.

The Secret Adversary

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

(Copyright 1922, Head & Company)

"Not just Tommy, Puppence? Just for the fun of the thing?"

"Tommy, you're a sport! I know you would be! Let's drink to success." She poured some cold drops of sea into the two cups.

"Here's to our joint venture, and may it prosper!"

"The Young Adventurers, Ltd.," responded Tommy.

They put down the cups and laughed rather uncertainly. Puppence rose.

"I must return to my palatial suite at the hotel."

"Perhaps it is time I strolled round to the 'Ritz,'" agreed Tommy with a grin. "Where shall we meet? And when?"

"Twelve o'clock tomorrow. Piccadilly Tube station."

The two young people went off in opposite directions. Puppence's hotel was situated in what was christened Southern Belgravia. For reasons of economy she did not take a bus.

She was half-way across St. James Park, when a man's voice behind her made her start.

"Excuse me," it said. "But may I speak to you for a moment?"

Puppence turned sharply, but the words hovering on the tip of her tongue remained unspoken, for the man's appearance and manner did not bear out her first and most natural assumption. She hesitated. As if he read her thoughts, the man said quickly:

"I can assure you I mean no disturbance."

Puppence looked him up and down. He was a big man, clean shaven, with a heavy jaw. His eyes were small and cunning, and shifted their glance under her direct gaze.

"Well, what is it?" she asked.

The man took a card from his pocket and handed it to her with a bow.

Puppence took it and scrutinized it carefully. It bore the inscription, "Mr. Edward Whittington below the name were the words 'Esthonia Glassware company,' and the address of a city office. Mr. Whittington spoke calmly.

"Certainly not," agreed Tommy hastily. "So one would ever think of sentiment in connection with you."

"That's not very polite," replied Puppence. "But I don't say you mean it all right. Well, there it is! I'm ready and willing—but I never meet any rich men! All the boys I know are about as hard up as I am. No marriage is fraught with difficulties. Remains—to make money!"

"We've tried that, and failed," Tommy reminded her.

"We've tried all the orthodox ways, yes. But suppose we try the unorthodox. Tommy, let's be adventurers!"

"Certainly," replied Tommy cheerfully. "How do we begin?"

"That's the difficulty. If we could make ourselves known, people would like us to commit crimes for them. Look here, Tommy, shall we really? Shall we form a business partnership?"

"Trading under the name of the Young Adventurers, Ltd.?" Is that the idea, Puppence?

"It's all very well to laugh, but I feel there must be something in it. How do you propose to get in touch with your would-be employers?"

How would that strike you? It you read it?"

Tommy was holding the paper thoughtfully. His face burned a deeper red.

"Shall we really try it?" he said at last. "Shall we, Puppence? Just for the fun of the thing?"

"Tommy, you're a sport! I know you would be! Let's drink to success." She poured some cold drops of sea into the two cups.

"Here's to our joint venture, and may it prosper!"

"It's all very well to laugh, but I feel there must be something in it. How do you propose to get in touch with your would-be employers?"

"Advertisement," replied Puppence promptly. "Have you got a bit of paper and a pen?"

Tommy handed over a rather shabby green notebook, and Puppence began writing busily.

"Shall we begin: 'Young officer, terribly wounded in the war—'"

"Oh, very well, my dear boy. But I can assure you that that sort of thing might touch the heart of an elderly spinster, and she might adopt you, and then there would be no need for you to be a young adventurer at all."

"I don't want to be adopted."

"Trading Under the Name of the Young Adventurers, Ltd.; Is That Your Idea, Puppence?"

"If You Will Call Upon Me Tomorrow Morning at Eleven o'clock, I Will Lay the Details of My Proposition Before You."

I dare say it's mercenary of me, but there it is!"

"If you will call upon me tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock, I will lay the details of my proposition before you."

"Same here," agreed Tommy with feeling.

"At eleven o'clock," said Puppence doubtfully.

"Of course," resumed Puppence, "marriage is my best chance. I made up my mind to marry money when I was quite young. Any thinking girl would! I'm not sentimental, you know." She paused. "Come now, you can't say I'm sentimental," she added sharply.

"Well, what is it?" she asked. The man took a card from his pocket and handed it to her with a bow.

"Certainly not," agreed Tommy hastily. "So one would ever think of sentiment in connection with you."

"At eleven o'clock," said Puppence doubtfully.

"Very well, I'll be there." "Thank you. Good evening." He raised his hat with a flourish, and walked away. Puppence remained for some minutes gazing after him. Then she gave a curious movement of her shoulders, rather as a terrier shakes himself.

"We've tried all the orthodox ways, yes. But suppose we try the unorthodox. Tommy, let's be adventurers!"

"The adventures have begun," she murmured to herself. "What does he want me to do, I wonder? There's something about you, Mr. Whittington, that I don't like at all. But, on the other hand, I'm not the least bit afraid of you. And I've said before, and shall doubtless say again, little Puppence can look after herself, thank you!"

"Certainly," replied Tommy cheerfully. "How do we begin?"

"And with a short, sharp nod of her head she walked briskly onward. As a result of further meditations, however, she turned aside from the direct route and entered a post office. Puppence wrote rapidly: "Don't put in advertisement. Will explain tomorrow." She addressed it to Tommy at his club, from which in one short month he would have to resign, unless a kindly fortune permitted him to renew his subscription.

"That's the difficulty. If we could make ourselves known, people would like us to commit crimes for them. Look here, Tommy, shall we really? Shall we form a business partnership?"

It wanted some five minutes to eleven when Puppence reached the block of buildings in which the offices of the Esthonia Glassware company were situated. To arrive before the time would look overbearing. So Puppence decided to walk to the end of the street and back again. She did so. On the stroke of eleven she plunged into the recesses of the building. The Esthonia Glassware company was on the top floor. Puppence knocked. In response to a voice from within, she turned the handle and walked into a small rather dirty office.

"Trading under the name of the Young Adventurers, Ltd.?" Is that the idea, Puppence?

"And with a short, sharp nod of her head she walked briskly onward. As a result of further meditations, however, she turned aside from the direct route and entered a post office. Puppence wrote rapidly: "Don't put in advertisement. Will explain tomorrow." She addressed it to Tommy at his club, from which in one short month he would have to resign, unless a kindly fortune permitted him to renew his subscription.

"It's all very well to laugh, but I feel there must be something in it. How do you propose to get in touch with your would-be employers?"

"Advertisement," replied Puppence promptly. "Have you got a bit of paper and a pen?"

Tommy handed over a rather shabby green notebook, and Puppence began writing busily.

"Shall we begin: 'Young officer, terribly wounded in the war—'"

"Oh, very well, my dear boy. But I can assure you that that sort of thing might touch the heart of an elderly spinster, and she might adopt you, and then there would be no need for you to be a young adventurer at all."

"I don't want to be adopted."

"I don't want to be adopted."

"I forgot you had a prejudice against it. Now listen—how's this? Two young adventurers for hire. Willing to do anything, go anywhere. Say must be good. (We might as well make that clear.)"

"Then we might add: 'No reasonable offer refused—like rats and fur-

FARMING SHOWS MORE ACREAGE AND DIVERSITY

Area in Crops on South Side This Year 9,000 Acres Greater Than in 1922; Farm Animals Increase

An increase of approximately 9000 acres in crops under cultivation, together with a notable and unmistakable trend toward greater diversification are the significant features of the annual crop and livestock report just issued by the watermaster's department of the Twin Falls Canal company, covering the Twin Falls south side tract for the years 1922 and 1923.

Out of the total of 202,748 acres there were 169,229 acres under cultivation this year, as compared with 160,311 acres in 1922, the report shows. The figures show that the total acreage planted to wheat dropped off nearly 20,000 acres, while the acreage in such crops as oats, corn, barley, peas, beans, sugar beets and vegetables increased notably, the acreage this year being in some cases twice or three times that of last year.
