SHIP LIQUOR GRAVE ISSUE FOR BRITAIN

Curzon Denies Chance For Agreement on Search in 12-Mile Limit; Calls Situation Delicate; Seeks Way Out

LONDON, June 28. (AP)—Marquis Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, made a long and important statement in the house of lords today in reply to Lord Burkenhead, who called attention to the matter by the United States of liquor on British vessels.

Involves Law and Policy

Lord Curzon explained that it was a difficult and delicate matter, raising grave issues in both international law and policy. The British government was not concerned with American prohibition, which was a matter of domestic policy, in which the British government was not interested in expressing an opinion, neither would it discuss the interpretation of the United States supreme court on that country's laws. But it was concerned with the treatment meted out to British ships in United States territorial waters and the degree in which that treatment conformed to or departed from international practice.

It would be premature for him to say, indeed he did not know, what would be the result of their labors. He would not discuss the legal right of the United States to impose conditions on foreign vessels entering its waters, because on this subject international law was decisive. He next detailed the steps taken by Great Britain, beginning with a note to the United States government from the British ambassador at Washington after Attorney-General Daugherty had refused to extend act applied to foreign ships.

Give Legal Position

Great Britain's legal position, according to its legal authorities, Lord Curzon said, is as follows: "The principles of international law, which are based on the principle of territorial waters. The first is that foreigners trading with a country must comply with its laws; the second is that every sovereign state has the right to supreme over all persons and property within its dominions, including ships in its territorial waters."

GUARDSMEN TO QUIT OKMULGEE

Investigation Indicates Oklahoma Governor's Action Was Belated

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 28. (AP)—With the completion of a military hearing at Henryetta into charges of misuse of power lodged against the force of Sheriff John Russell, indications were tonight that martial law would be lifted from Okmulgee county within a day or two.

When the questioning of witnesses was completed at Henryetta today, Adjutant General H. L. Markham left immediately for Okmulgee City, forecasting that the small detachment of troops on duty in the county would be demobilized probably by Saturday.

Charges to Governor Walton that numerous cases of mob violence had occurred in Okmulgee county in months past were met here today with the statement that the recently organized "Committee on Community Harmony" had done much to allay feeling engendered by secret organizations.

Bank Stock Valued at $13,400 in 1922 Now Worth Million

Court Denies Seattle Restaurant Man's Claim Because of Statute of Limitations

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Judge Gieroch of the supreme court dismissed today the suit of Alfred W. Seymour of Seattle, restaurant proprietor, to recover $1,000,000 from the Mechanics and Metals National bank as the present value of an alleged certificate for 67 shares of the bank's stock owned by his great-grandfather, Thomas Williams, who died in 1822.

CHLORINE LEAK CAUSES EXODUS

More Than 200 Persons Leave Island to Escape Deadly Gas Fumes

PITTSBURGH, June 28. (AP)—More than 200 persons were hurriedly moved off Neville island, in the Ohio river near here, today, when a tank filled with chlorine gas discharged its contents into the heavy air overhanging that section.

The tank was being taken into an industrial plant when it sprang a leak and the deadly gas spread along the river. A light breeze wafted it downstream in the direction of a number of other manufacturing plants.

The alarm was quickly spread by telephone and messengers hurried to the summer camps along the river. Automobiles were commandeered and all persons in the danger zone taken to safety.

So far as the authorities were able to learn there were no fatalities. More than 100 persons were treated in emergency hospitals on the island and four men were taken to a hospital in Pittsburgh. Among the injured were a number of men and women from the river camps.

The path of the gas from the leaking tank across the island was marked by dead vegetation.

RAP DISMISSAL OF RECLAMATION SERVICE CHIEF

Federated American Engineering Societies Protest Work's Action; Call For Investigation and Explanation

WASHINGTON, June 28. (AP)—The Federated American Engineering societies, comprising 50,000 of the profession in its membership, today filed with acting Secretary Finney of the interior department, a formal protest against the recent dismissal of A. P. Davis as director of the reclamation service, and the appointment in his place of former Governor D. W. Davis of Idaho, who the federation declared, is without technical knowledge of the work being handled.

"This procedure is looked upon with grave concern by all engineers and technical men," a statement issued by the federation said. "In view of the summary action as dismissing an eminently successful employee after 35 years of service without a hearing of adequate reason, will undermine the morale of all technical agencies of the government."

When the change in office was announced, Secretary Work declared it had been ordered solely with a view to putting the reclamation service under the charge of an experienced business man. With the recent growth in activities, calling for the handling of varied responsibilities, Dr. Work said he felt the office should not be left under the supervision of an engineer.

BOISE WOMAN PLUNGES TO DEATH IN AUTOMOBILE

BOISE, June 28. (AP)—Mrs. Thomas E. Vickers, 42, wife of a Boise insurance man, was killed almost instantly, and Clark Murphy, 13, who was accompanying her, seriously injured, when the automobile in which Mrs. Vickers was driving plunged over a 100-foot embankment on the Morris Hill cemetery road, and crashed into a tree today, shortly before 11 o'clock this morning. The Murphy boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Murphy of Boise. The accident occurred directly back of the Baxter foundry, about a half mile from the city and resulted from Mrs. Vickers's attempt to turn from the Morris Hill road into a steep incline on the south. As the machine mounted the road, the engine suddenly stalled, causing the car to back downward and over the embankment.

Economic Co-operation and World Peace President's Texts for Addresses in Idaho

Captures Borah's Endorsement for World Court Plan

President Brings Appeal For American Membership In International Tribunal In Address at Pocatello

POCATELLO, June 28. (AP)—Declaring the American people "ought to give of their influence to direct the world to a plane where there will be less of war," President Harding today carried into Idaho, the home of Senator Borah, an appeal for American membership in the permanent court of international justice.

Making the first of his two Idaho speeches the president declared he would "a thousand times rather entrust the adjustment of a dispute, in which America is interested, to the permanent court of international justice with American representation thereon, than to any arbitration body set up in the history of the world."

Senator Borah, who has from time to time criticized the administration world court proposal as presented to the senate last February, met the president at Caine Junction, and in a statement to newspapers said he felt the position of the president as set forth in his St. Louis speech, was generally agreeable to the people of the country as well as to the republican party.

"As I understand the president's position," said Senator Borah, "he believes the league of nations is dead, so far as any possibility of the participation of the United States is concerned. I am in entire agreement with the conclusion of Mr. Harding that any world court in which the United States may join cannot be credited with the league of nations in any way whatsoever."

Senator Borah went on to say, however, that he saw no probability of any conclusive action on the court proposal by the next senate although he regarded it as without question but that the president had accurately estimated the great moral demand from the United States for some judicial tribunal which would help to avert war.

Declaration Wins Applause

The president touched upon the court matter in his address here just at the conclusion and after saying that he had not intended to discuss it. His declaration in favor of some step to avert war was applauded.

HORSESHOE GIVEN TO PRESIDENT RELIEF OF PIONEER SUFFERINGS

POCATELLO, June 28. (AP)—One feature of the president's reception here which pleased him and caused an addition to his first address was the presentation of a horseshoe wrought by a local mechanic from a piece of steel once used on a covered wagon of the pioneer day period. The piece of steel was taken from the Idaho state museum at Boise where it had been kept for historical purposes since the wreckage of the Oregon train was recovered several years ago. The train was attacked by Indians and the men, women and children were massacred.

Former Governor James Hawley introduced the mechanic to President Harding and gave him part of the original cap, from which the metal goodluck ornament had been taken.

Mr. Harding acknowledging the gift, said what pleased him more was the fact that the man who made the good luck intended for him was the skill of the American mechanic. He deplored the fact that mechanics were so few in number and that the ability, adding that no craftsman in the world could compete in skill and genius with those "we know in the United States."

HARDING TALKS TO HUGE CROWD

Eastern Idaho Turns Out In Numbers to Welcome President to Idaho Falls

IDAHO FALLS, June 28. (AP)—One of the largest, if not the largest of audiences that have heard President Harding give an observation platform address at Idaho Falls today.

Governor Moore introduced the president here, as at Pocatello earlier in the day. His introductory address at Pocatello had been a matter of comment among some members of the party en route here and he told the president in the course of his remarks that the people of Idaho "are with you in your effort to recognize foreign nations until they recognize right from wrong."

This declaration was interpreted by some as having reference to Russia, and in that connection Senator Borah's advocacy of the Russian recognition was recalled.

The presidential special train stopped for a few minutes en route here at Blackfoot, where the president received the warmest expressions of affection that the reception accorded him had given him a renewed faith in the republic and a revived desire to discharge faithfully the duties of his office.

The president and Mrs. Harding were kept busy during their three hour stay here. One of the features of their visit was the opening of a new irrigation project. The presidential train left soon after six o'clock for Montana, where tomorrow the president will make two addresses, one at Butte and the other at Helena.

FORGERY CHARGED TO ADA COUNTY EMPLOYEE

Paul Dempsey, Stenographer in Auditor's Office, Is Accused of Issuing Bogus Witness Certificate

BOISE, June 28. (AP)—Paul Dempsey, stenographer in the office of the county clerk and recorder here for the past year and a half, was arrested at 8 o'clock today on charges of forging the name of Elbert H. Delana, prosecuting attorney, to a witness certificate for "Charles Williams." No count was returned against Dempsey in the county office. Mr. Dempsey was for years stenographer to each succeeding prosecuting attorney of Ada county and the employ of Attorney Delana to date the office of Steven Utter, county clerk, recorder and auditor.

According to Laurel Elam, who preferred the charge, Dempsey's alleged forgery was discovered by expert accountants working on the biennial audit of all county books. Records fail to show that there was a Charles Williams connected with the liquor case rascal on the alleged forged certificate.

Proposes Scheme to Reduce Waste in Distribution

Declares For Extension of Organization - Plan Among Farmers to Apply to Consumers for Mutual Benefit

IDAHO FALLS, June 28. (AP)—Declaring that the road of the present is to shorten the bridge between producer and consumer, President Harding in an address here today proposed a plan of co-operation among consumers, financed in part at least through a carefully organized and supervised adapting of the surplus of the average bank or building and loan society.

"I believe the suggestion is worthy of careful examination and consideration," the president asserted. "The contention that the discussion will be fruitful of good results and a reminder to some who are disposed to take unreasonable tolls from both the consumer and the producer, that he has the right, the power and the ability to devise means to protect itself."

The president further said that as a result of studies and investigations he hoped to be able "to recommend for the consideration of the congress measures which should represent a beginning along this line."

Would Take Up Black

"One of the most engaging problems of our time, confronting all countries and all societies is the exorbitant cost of living," the president said. "We make producers and consumers, under our elaborate and costly system of distribution, is not permitted a fair share of his product for his own use and enjoyment. We have become convinced that somehow our method of distribution has grown too cumbersome, too costly, too complex, too indirect, too ungraded to the interests of the real producer and legitimate consumer. We must find methods to take up as much as possible of the sink in the long line between producer and consumer; form a new bridge between the two, in that which he furnishes to the community, and to enable the consumer to meet the requirements at reasonable cost."

Westerners Lead Way

"To this end many experiments have been made in cooperative production, transportation, distribution and purchasing. The most successful of these experiments have proceeded from the enterprise and initiative of the western people, to whom these problems have presented themselves in the most acute form. But for the spirit of co-operation, the willingness to be mutually helpful, the determination to give the producer a greater share in the community, you could not have made your west what it is. Working cooperations on a great scale, practical in operation and adequate to cope with our problems, can never be possible except where there is this spirit, determination and purpose. It is because the west has led the way in these such workable programs that I have thought

SUN STRUGGLES AGAINST ODDS

South China Leader Conscripts Laborers and Sells Temples In Face of Hostile Armies

CANTON, June 28. (AP)—Sun Yat-sen's constitutionalist government, in a desperate effort to raise funds in the face of hostile armies driving from the west, north and east, is selling temples and public lands over the protests of the general public, and conscripting large numbers of the working class for service in Sun's front trenches and along his transportation lines.

Despite strenuous attempts to beat back the enemies of the constitutionalist government, Sun continues to advance. No reports arrived today from the northern and eastern frontiers, but from the west front came word that Kwangtung forces under General Luk Wing-Ting had occupied the town of Luikou and that Sun's gunboats on the West river and his land forces had fallen back on the city of Loing, 100 miles due west of Canton. Two brigades of Yunnan troops of the constitutionalist army on the East river have been transferred to Yung Shih, on the Canton-Hankow railway.

PONTIFF SEES EUROPE FACING NEW DISASTER

Confesses Failure of Pontiff to Secure Pacification of Old World, With Conditions Growing Worse

ROME, June 28 (AP)—The pope has written to Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state saying that despite the attempts made since the beginning of his pontificate to secure pacification of Europe, international positions had not improved, and even European sources justifying greater anxiety for the future.

"While we are striving with all our strength and all the means our children place at our disposal for mitigation of the present serious general sufferings," writes the pope, "we ought to take advantage of every opportunity to cooperate to bring about the desired pacification of peoples and individuals in Christ. We entreat those who hold the peoples' destinies in their hands to consider the various questions, and that of reparations in that Christian spirit which does not separate the exigencies of justice from the necessities of charity, on which the perfection of the life of peoples is based."

Involves Possible Ruin.

"If, in the intention to repair the very serious damage inflicted," the pontiff declared, "it should be necessary to invoke impartial judgment on the limits of his solvency and to undertake to supply to the judges every facility for careful and definite agreement, then justice and social equity, as well as the creditors' own interests seem to require that more should not be asked of them than they are able to give, without completely exhausting its resources and productive power, to his irreparable detriment and that of his creditors, nor to mention social disturbances which might mean the final ruin of all Europe and recoupment which would remain as a continual menace to fresh and ruinous configurations of their vital interests."

It is just that creditors should have guarantees proportionate to the importance of their claim, insuring the latter recovery, when their vital interests depend, but to leave to them to consider if it is necessary to maintain to that end territorial occupations imposing grave sacrifices on the great peoples and whether it would not be better to substitute even progressively other guarantees not less efficient and certainly less painful.

Worth Sacrifice.

"If both parties agree to these specific bases it would be long before territorial occupation could be gradually reduced until it ceased, and at least could be attained, real pacification and the economic restoration so ardently desired by all."

"To obtain such a basis no sacrifice ought to appear too great."

The pontiff is concluding with a prayer to God to inspire all peoples with ideas of peace.

HULL DISPUTES FISCAL RECORD

Democratic National Committee Chairman Takes Exception to Harding's Address

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—Chairman Hull of the democratic national committee, in a statement Wednesday declared that in some certain statements made by President Harding in his address on taxation Tuesday night at Salt Lake, Utah, "are grossly misleading, so to use the mildest possible language."

"In his 'V' speech Tuesday," said Mr. Hull, "President Harding, who, in the transparent disguise of a business trip to Alaska, is now strenuously campaigning for his re-election and reelection, said that since 1920 the cost of the federal government had been reduced more than one-half below the cost of 1919 and 1920. He also said that federal taxes for 1923 would be considerably less than half as much as in 1920. He further asserted that we have reduced the national debt to $22,400,000 from its peak of $26,500,000 on August 31 1919. The president's speech, the democratic committee chairman declared, "the democratic administration paid off $2,500,000 of the national debt during the 18 months prior to March 1, 1921, or at the rate of $1,388,888 a year," while the Harding administration "during the past 28 months has only paid off

As to tax reductions, Mr. Hull said that "committing the repeal of a few miscellaneous taxes, the Harding administration, through its internal tax revision law, has only reduced taxes in the estimated amount of $600,000,000."

Mr. Hull contended that the "fairest and most accurate test of how much the Harding administration is reducing the cost of government is by comparison of total expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, with those for the year 1923."

"Treasury figures," the statement continued, "show total expenditures of $3,735,000,000 for 1922, and $3,730,000,000 for 1923, or a total reduction of all expenditures of only $5,000,000. It is upon this paltry reduction of $5,000,000 that republican politicians hang all their present blarney and loose talk to the effect that the Harding administration during the past 12 months wiped out a huge deficit of $231,000,000 and creates in lieu a surplus of $200,000,000."

Bible Outlay Increased.

The 1923 budget of the American Bible society for the translation, publication and distribution of Bibles will be $1,160,000, an increase of $30,000 over 1922, Frank H. Mann, general secretary, announced recently.

Estimated requirements totaled $1,406,244, but a cut of $244,467 was made because income for the full amount was not in sight.

The amount voted will be used in furnishing the Scriptures in more than 150 languages and dialects in practically every country in the world.

CANNOT MASTER SHORTHAND

Men of Acknowledged Ability Have Failed in Efforts to Learn Even Simple Systems.

Lord Beaverbrook, speaking at the annual prize-giving of Pittman's school at the Royal Albert hall, says the London Morning Post, said that it was a curious fact that some men of great ability had failed in the attempt to learn shorthand.

"He mentioned that Lord Carson was one example, and the present prime minister another. It was not a question of cleverness, or even of memory. Bonar Law possessed an extraordinary memory. When he first became leader of the conservative party, it was his habit on the occasion of any great set debate in the house of commons to dictate to his secretary the speech that he intended to make. He would read it through, and then go down to the house and repeat it with scarcely the alteration of a word. He would sometimes quote long mathematical calculations entirely from memory, yet be confessed to having striven very hard to learn shorthand, and without success.

T. M. Hooley, now the governor general of the Irish Free State, used to make use of shorthand in all the debates.—New York Tribune.

Guinea Pigs in Peru Are Kept to Serve as Provisions for the Unexpected Visitor.

Hiram Bingham, the new lieutenant governor of Connecticut, has just published a book, "Inca Land," in which he describes the famous Yale expedition into Peru, of which he was the director. Life as he lived in the Andes has a number of points of difference from that in the New England states. For instance, he says that in Peru the housewife keeps fat little guinea pigs running around her kitchen floor to kill in for any emergencies, such as the American will have a few tins of sardines and cans of peas serves on hand. A guinea pig, he points out, is, in spite of Ellis Parker Butler, not a pig, and it does not come from Guinea. It is more of a rabbit than anything else, and for thousands of years it has been a prized article of food in the Andes of Peru. Why, he wonders, should the North American guinea pigs be kept only as pets or laboratory victims? The meat, he says, is delicious and not unlike squab.

SHELBY MAYOR INSISTS FIGHT WILL BE HELD

Disclosure of Lack of Plan For Raising Remaining $100,000 Due Dempsey Upshot of Day's Maneuvers

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 28 (AP)—The confusion into which the financing of the Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons fight, scheduled for Monday July 4, was thrown yesterday as a result of the resignation of Dan Tracey as business manager, grew in volume all day today until it became apparent tonight that the promoters have no definite plan for raising the $100,000 due Dempsey on his $300,000 guarantee.

From none of the men associated with the promotion of the battle could it be learned tonight that the $100,000 installment for Dempsey was definitely in sight, or that plans are under way that bring from the promoters anything more than "expressions of hope" that the money can be raised.

Johnson Holds Fast.
The day was filled with rumors, conjectures, denials and suspicious intrigues with various men identified with the promotion. Through it all Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, treasurer of the fight, who personally sunk a guarantee of $100,000 in the venture, continued to make announcement that the fight would be held as scheduled and that Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, would receive the $100,000 when due next Monday, if not before. Mayor Johnson, however, gave no indication of where he regarded to raise the money or how, aside from saying that he was working on two or three different plans.

Early in the day J. W. Speer, a state senator and attorney for Johnson, announced that $50,000 had been assured by one individual to help make up the $100,000 installment. Mayor Speer declined to reveal the name of the individual, but it was understood that Johnny O'Neill, a wealthy oil operator and member of the American Pugilist League, who competed in the Olympic games of 1920, had agreed to furnish $50,000 of the amount to be raised. O'Neill tonight emphatically denied this, but declared he was working on a plan to raise the money that gave him reason to hope that he would be successful. He declined to say with whom he was negotiating further than to admit that he was in contact with parties located in the middle west.

Kearns Enters Conference.
Kearns returned from Shelby along with Mayor Johnson today and remained at his hotel conferring with bankers and influential Great Falls citizens who want the fight held. He gave no intimation that he would agree to any compromise of his contract, which provides that Dempsey shall receive $300,000 as his guarantee for meeting Gibbons, in addition to $100,000 for training expenses. Kearns already has received $210,000.

Johnson said, following the retirement of Tracey, that he was in position to personally guarantee that the $100,000 due Dempsey would be paid when due and itemize the property which he said he would pledge if necessary to make the payment. This property, he declared, has a value of $300,000 and is unencumbered.

This statement was repeated several times today by Johnson, with the assertion that he would draw upon his personal resources to put the fight over if it became necessary.

E. F. Cobb of Geysler, Mont., a real estate dealer, offered Kearns a deed to a ranch in the Snow mountains, valued at $150,000 as a substitute for the $100,000 installment. The ranch is one of the show places of Montana and formerly was owned by R. A. Harlow for a railroad builder, and now is a resident of Washington, D. C. Kearns said he could not discuss any alteration in his contract with anybody except the promoters.

The opinion prevails in Great Falls tonight that unless the $100,000 installment is paid Kearns before next Monday the fight will result in heavy financial failure, which seems already probable, and that to delay paying the installment until Monday would seriously interfere with the plans of many fans; that it would be too late for them to come from distant points.

CONFIDENCE OF SUCCESS PREVAILS IN SHELBY.
SHELBY, Mont., June 28 (AP)—Heartened by authentic reports from Great Falls that arrangements for raising the final $100,000 of Jack Dempsey's guarantee for his July Fourth bout with Tom Gibbons, were believed to be culminating successfully Shelby took on renewed activity again today preparing for the bout.

The Home of the Soul.
In older times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach. Most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. uppers, interspersed with right crosses which came too thick for Delancy. As the round ended, Gibbons had the St. Paul fighter back against the ropes and was driving in lefts and rights to the face and body with few returns.

Tillie (Kid) Herman gave Gibbons two rounds of hitting. They were continually trading blows at close quarters.

Gibbons started his workout against Bud Gorman, who revised the long range work for the afternoon. The center whippet in lefts frequently, while Gorman's long, measured blows, often swung harmlessly over Gibbons' head and past his face.

Gibbons was initiated into the Black-foot Indian tribe tonight amid tribal ceremonies. He was initiated in Indian ways during the rites, which were administered by Chief Carly Bear.

First Game of Series to Leaders, After Athletics Take Lead in Sixth

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—New York defeated Philadelphia here today, 4 to 2. Philadelphia took the lead in the sixth when Bruggy and Heinrich, successive batters, hit home runs. The Yankees won in their half of the same inning. After Dugan doubled, Ruth was passed. Pipp singled scoring Dugan and advancing Ruth to third from where the Babe scored the winning run on Meneal's sacrifice fly.

ST. LOUIS, June 28 (AP)—St. Louis pounded here Detroit pitchers for 11 hits and won today's game, 6 to 2. It was Shogler's eleventh victory of the season against four defeats, and puts him in the lead in the league's pitching race. Williams got his eleventh home run of the season in the fourth inning. In the ninth Heilmann led his ninth homer of the year, driving in Munnich, ahead of him for the visitors' only tally.

Ever heard of Louis Angel Firpo?

Well he ain't nobody but the guy, (according to some wise crackers), that's gonna make Jack Dempsey listen to the mocking birds. Firpo is heavyweight champion of South America. When Bill Brennan put on the mits with Firpo recently at Madison Sq. Gardens, they lugged Bill to the hospital with a dented skull, some wallop it musta bin to put an Irishman in a hospital!

Firpo is matched to fight Willard. Dempsey must fight the winner. On May 12 Willard knocked out Johnson in 11 rounds. Firpo knocked out Jack McAliffe in third round. Now if you want to see a snappy two-reel picture showing Firpo boxing Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Stossel World's Amateur Champion, and others; see Dempsey in action, and Harry Wills. ELECTRICIANS IN FIRST PLACE

Win From Elks 9 to 8 In See-Saw Game; Renfro Features In Center Field

With Boone, manager of the Elks' team, absent the evening herd slipped a cog last week when they took the short end of a 9 to 8 game with the Electricians.

Leading from the fourth inning on 8 to 5, the Elks looked like a cinch to climb into a tie with the league leaders, but the sixth frame netted the wire artists four runs, and the Elks faded in their last two chances to gather the tying run.

Ray Hodgkin was on the mound for the Elks, and pitched a nice game of ball, and would have been returned the winner but for a costly error.

Laval Jarman opposed his high school team mate and although nicked for nine hits, held the Elks off the extra bases in the fourth inning, when he was touched for five hits and four runs.

The Electricians started off with a ruck in the opening caps, sending two runs before "Spivak" Hodgkin got his bearings. Hodgkin mowed Yechem's easy roller, and then Laval Jarman walked. Yechem was nipped off second base by a quick throw by Hodgkin to Jerry Jarman. Muscell tripled to left scoring Laval. Muscell scored when Bailey err'd on Hammond's smutch after Hulihan had fanned.

Not to be denied, the Elks came back in their half with three runs. Hammond offered Jerry Jarman's roll, and Bailey, a fielder's choice, stole home. Scilly fanned. Bailey took second on a wild pitch, and Jerry moved to third. Thomas delivered a safe line to center and Jerry and Bailey scored. Scilly running for Thomas was forced at second by Don Linville and Don went around to first on Powers' snipe to right. Don scored a momentum error when Laval threw wild to third.

The Electricians failed to spike the rubber in the second, but a single by Hodgkin, a fielder's choice, a stolen base and an error by John Nye in right field gave the Elks another in their half.

A hit batsman, a walk and two hits gave the Electricians three runs in the third, putting them one run to the good.

In the fourth, the Elks fell on Laval for five hits, which missed, with errors by "Slim" Hammond netted the Elks four runs.

The Electricians came back in the sixth with four more runs, a stolen walk, and an error proved the undoing of the purple leaved bats in this frame, and being unable to do much with Laval in the seventh innings the game ended with the Elks one run short.

Fielding features go to Renfro of the Electricians, whose clever work in center field saved the game for the Hulihan clan.

Gibbons Outranks All Other Boxers Champion Has Met

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—When Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, steps into the ring today, Monday, July 4 against Jack Dempsey, the champion, he may be compared in some respects to "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, when that dapper boxing wizard fought off against John L. Sullivan at New Orleans in 1892.

Gibbons' chances against Dempsey have been inflated by a majority of the experts, and indeed, the Minnesota hardly appears heavy puncher enough to flatten the Colorado. But like his old-time rival, Gibbons is "The Phantom," Tommy is a master boxer, even in combat, always clever, always fast, and a puncher of an mean ability.

At least a year older than Dempsey, and inch or two shorter and really a light heavyweight, Gibbons may not be able to stand the champion for 15 rounds. Except in size, Corbett was much younger than Sullivan when they met at New Orleans—Gibbons and Dempsey will be "Gentleman Jim" and "Fighting John L." in that famous scrap 31 years ago.

Sullivan's terrific punching power, Gibbons' lightning fast jab, and his ability to stand the Dempsey of today, caused many a sturdy opponent's knees to quake when he thought of it, and many of them were defeated by fear before Sullivan laid a glove on them. Not so Corbett. When Jim took his

BEHIND THE SCENES

The game last evening proves that Twin Falls is getting better baseball than two years ago, and the fans are not responding as they should.

It is because the starting time isn't convenient? If so, let us hear from you, and see what we can do.

Ray Hodgkin lost the game, but is getting better every time he pitches. This led to the Elks' slow waltz with "Spivak."

Laval looked good in there, too, with his old pal, Muscell, on the receiving end.

Thomas made his usual two hits again.

Jerry Jarman scored three runs, and did his brother Laval.

Hammond was shifted from first to third and made three errors. Why play him in that when he is the best first baseman in the city parts.

Bill Bailey was another player who was out of position at third. Fielders' mistakes to first were anything but perfect.

Jamison robbed Muscell of a two-base hit in the third when he grabbed his long fly to deep right.

Hulihan made a swell stop of Linville's hot shot near second in the third frame, and threw him out at first.

Renfro shifted for Powers in the fourth and caught a long drive with ease. In the fourth he snuffed Powers of another hit by grabbing his long hit to right center.

Thomas made a beautiful pickup of Linville's low throw to the plate in the sixth, and nipped Hulihan.

Hammond did a Salome dance twisting for Jerry Jarman's foul ball out of third.

It not pretty dark before the last man was put out in the seventh, but Renfro could see well enough to make a nice running catch of Jamison's drive to right center.

HUSKIES' CREW WINS CLASSIC

University of Washington Eight Defeats Champion Navy by Length at Ploughkeepsie

PORT KENNES, June 28 (AP)—Eight stalwarts of the University of Washington, stroked by the brilliant young coxswain who rose from a sick bed to row the team's race, smashed the reigning reign of the Navy's crews and went to dramatic triumph today in the premier test of American college rowing. Three mile race concluding the twenty-sixth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Thirteen days before departure, Washington and the Navy fought it out for supremacy over the last mile of the "Varsity" struggle, after a standing thigh four oar rivalry, and the Pacific coast men won because they possessed the greater stamina and finishing power. They crossed the finish line fully a length ahead of a decidedly whiplashed Navy crew that failed to demonstrate the qualities that carried its predecessors to victory in 1921 and 1922.

Trailing two lengths behind the Navy came Columbia, which weakened after setting the pace for more than a mile. Syracuse, just overhauling the New Yorker, finished fourth, another three-quarters of a length back. Cornell, but a ghost of the rowing power that once ruled supreme in college seas, finished fifth, half a length behind Syracuse, and Pennsylvania was another length in the rear.

PROPOSES SCHEME

Approaching Harmony. Development of the last generation have brought the instrumentalities of production to finance into a close harmony with the true public interest than ever before. Government has sought to make itself helpful, to point the way, to renounce ancient priors of custom or tradition, and to curb the excessive demands of privilege that choke up the great public many of the services which formerly were dominated by the private interests and operated with too exclusive a consideration for private profit. Anything tending to break down personal initiative, to destroy enterprise, and ambition, must not enter into any program which can hope for the approval of the American people. Our is an individualist society, and we want it to remain so. We want this republic to remain always the land of opportunity, where every man's ability, and usefulness shall measure his personal advancement and prosperity. The kind of a program to encourage cooperation, to coordinate the efforts of the individual, would not interfere with the freedom of proper opportunity, rather it would enhance the individual's chance to better his individual fortune.

Need to Reduce Toll. The need of this time is to shorten the bridge between producer and consumer and to shorten the toll which is paid for passing over it. We all have a good deal about the various cooperative societies, associations and corporations which have undertaken, in many cases with notable success, to im-

FARMERS ALIVE TO ADVANTAGE

On the whole I think the agricultural community has been more alive to the promotion of its interests along these lines, than has the urban community. The farmers have seen what their interests lay, and have been more prompt and energetic in adopting effective measures to promote them than the people of the city and town have been. There is need to have working and practical cooperative associations of producers in the country, and at the same time to have equally effective cooperation among the consuming communities of the cities and towns; and, finally, to link these two sets of cooperatives together in a coordinated effort for mutual advantage to both. I believe it is possible, and altogether desirable that systems of credit and financing should be developed, under public auspices, to encourage both these kinds of cooperation, and to draw them together into a harmonious working of the community undertaking to establish financial independence and economic solidarity, as some of them have lately been doing. The development of such a general program into a sound working basis, when soundly doubtless be found chiefly an affair of the state governments, but one in which the jointure of state and national authorities might prove practical, and very necessary.

Given as Suggestion. In bringing this suggestion to you, you are a wrought-out proposal of policy, but as the suggestion of a direction which might be given to activities of this kind, I believe the suggestion is fully of your consideration and consideration. I am convinced that its discussion would be fruitful of good results, and a reminder to some who are disposed to take an unreasonable attitude toward the consuming and producing public, that this public has the right, the power and the ability to devise means to protect itself.

ARMY AVIATORS SET NEW MARKS

San Diego Flying Team, on Four-day Flight, Beats Speed Record at 85 Miles

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 28 (AP)—Records began to fall to Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John B. Richter, army aviators, on their long endurance trip here shortly after 11 o'clock tonight when they passed the 2500 kilometer mark. In reaching this mark they beat by a comfortable margin the speed record of 2500 kilometers held by Lieutenants Kelly and McEvedy, which was 7153 miles an hour. Smith and Richter went faster than 85 miles an hour.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 28 (AP)—With their De Havilland airplane performing in perfect form and with three tanks already made up a supply line, which twice delivered gasoline and once provided the two aviators with food, Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant J. B. Richter, late today had completed the first 12 hours of the journey in the air which they have planned to prolong, if possible, for four days and four nights.

Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter, who were halted in their first attempt yesterday by a burst of oil, took off from Rockwell field at 4:36:34 a. m. today. A few seconds later they were whizzing around Pylon No. 1 at the Marine barracks, the end of the first and shortest leg of the triangular course, and then sped away toward the second pylon at Noston, in the Pitman valley. They were back at Rockwell field in 20 minutes, having made the first round of the 50-kilometer course.

The three contacts with the refueling plane in which each consumed 11 1/2 and 14 and 16 gallons of gasoline, respectively, were made in great shape. On the second contact some gasoline was spilled, creating a real danger for all four airplanes, but none of the inflammable fluid reached a hot part of the motor of the racing plane, the gasoline being swept away by the tremendous air created by the propeller.

SHIP LIQUOR

plied with moderation and good sense. A ship is a traveling unit passing from one state to another and therefore cannot escape the necessity of complying with other legal systems which may not be consistent with the law of the particular country it happens to be visiting. Furthermore, it is universally recognized that a ship has a particular close relationship to the state whose flag she flies, and on many matters it is generally convenient that all governments should recognize the law of the flag state as paramount. The net result of this has been that on many matters the practice has grown up that a state should not exact compliance with its own law, even though a ship is within its waters but leave such questions to be regulated by the law of the flag state.

"This, however, is in international practice, rather than in international law, and accordingly departures from it means a breach, not of international law, but of the comity of nations. Thus, if a nation acts unreasonably toward the ships of other nations, the latter may retaliate."

Seals Not Sacrosanct
Referring to the breaking of the British, customs-seals, Lord Curzon explained that the seals were not arranged outside of British waters and in general repeated the recent statement made by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, which was to the effect that there was no ground for a protest on this score and that Great Britain recognized America's right to break the seals in territorial waters. "The object of British ships in bringing liquor under seal into New York," continued Lord Curzon, was not to bring in test cases. Their intention was simply fully knowing that liquor would not be landed, to see whether the United States really meant to protect in violation of international practice and refrain from availing themselves of what is regarded as a loop hole in the decision of the supreme court of the United States, cited by Lord Curzon.

Viscount Grey expressed anxiety as to the effects the difficulty might have on Anglo-American relations. He was undoubtedly a cause for irritation on both sides, and he urged that a real attempt be made by both governments to settle the question.

BRITISH REJECTION PUTS HUGHES PLAN IN DISOARD

WASHINGTON, June 28, (AP)—Foreign Secretary Curzon's flat rejection of the 12-mile limit proposal apparently has counted effectively the efforts of the state department to clear away at one stroke the ship liquor controversy and the rum smuggling problem along the Atlantic coast.

What will be the next move related to this particular feature of the much talked of prohibition question has not been revealed but the immediate result of the foreign secretary's announcement here was to revive speculation as to possible action at the next session of congress to so revise the law as to make it less offensive to foreign governments.

ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION FALLS

WASHINGTON, June 28, (AP)—American consumers of alcohol have had 250,000,000 gallons less during the last three years of national prohibition, Commissioner Haynes said in a report today, than they had in the previous three pre-prohibition years.

MEDIATION FOR EUROPE

The British government would like to have President Harding mediate, or appoint a mediator, between England and Germany regarding the reparations Germany should make to that country. Moreover, Britain would like to have such an arrangement as a precedent for France to follow, in order to break the deadlock between France and Germany.

It would be the best way, some of the leading British statesmen think, of keeping Europe from falling to pieces from French and German inability to agree. That might well be the case.

President Harding, no doubt, would be reluctant to undertake such a delicate and difficult task, and so would any other American or group of Americans, in office or out of office.

There does not appear to be any international body suitable to handle the matter. The International Court of Justice could not do so, because it is established only for the purpose of determining points of law. The League of Nations can hardly handle the job as long as it is committed to the execution of the Versailles treaty, and besides, Germany is not a member of the League.

Yet some disinterested party may have to tackle the job sooner or later, if Europe is not to lapse into economic ruin or new wars.

FOR PARENTS OF GRADUATES

All the addresses, editorials and advice are handed out to the graduating classes. They are told how to live and how not to live and what to do and what not to do, and much is said about ideals and careers and adjusting themselves to their surroundings. Seldom is anything said to parents.

Parents are so apt to forget that forms change. Conventions of conduct are unlike those of their day. Some parents try to mold youth to their own present, elderly ideas of conventions of a quarter of a century ago. Other parents are bewildered and leave everything to the unformed judgment of their children. In both cases the children take the bits in their teeth and run as they will. And

In both cases they are apt to look upon the parental ideas with contempt, with superior amusement, or with bitterness.

Wise parents are those who have realized from the beginning that although forms differ, principles remain the same. If they have given the child principles of right living, they may safely let him adapt his forms. Moreover, the children are better educated, better fitted for life than their parents were at their age. If they are not, the parents have failed.

Why not, then, give youth a little rein? Let the boy try out his eager business enthusiasms. Let the girl move all the furniture and plan the meals. If the old ways are better, they will soon enough find it out. If the new ways really work, isn't it fine that the young things have already to remember the co-operation rather than the checks of their old folk?

Do we want the world to grow better? Then we must give faith to our youth.

Baby Had a Bark.

The porter on the Pittsburgh-Detroit line may have heard a gentle pattering in her No. 2 during the night but there was a $5 bill in the pocket of his white coat and so the Pullman rule book might have been written in Sanskrit for all he cared. In the morning, when the train reached Detroit, he even avoided the inevitable platform meeting between the fair traveler in the milk coat who held a little package, wrapped in a pink comforter, to her shoulder, and the old lady in the seal jacket who had slept in berth four. "I heard your baby last night," the old lady said.

It's hard for such little babies, traveling, isn't it?" "Yes," answered the young woman as she stooped down, shuffled the pink comforter, and released a squint-eyed, rattled puddle. "Woolie, dear, insisted on barking every time the train stopped." -Detroit News.

When Bitten by a Mad Dog.

Hydrophobia in man and rabies in dogs can be prevented by a course of injections of dried spinal cord from rabbits which have died of experimental rabies (fixed virus). The treatment is available in every community in the United States and every physician knows how to order the treatment by telegraph from the state board of health. One out of six persons bitten by a mad dog dies in horrible agony if not treated. If bitten by a dog, follow that dog at all hazards, until you can get assistance to catch it. Do not kill it, but place it in a secure place for observation. If symptoms of rabies appear, apply only for anti-rabic treatment through your family physician. If the dog is rabid it will die—send the head packed in ice to the board of health laboratory for diagnosis, says Harold L. Amoss, M. D., in the Health Bulletin.

Two Claims to Distinction.

Florence is called the mother of oil and the mother of apple orchards in Colorado, and the West. The oil field was located in 1862, and the first well was drilled in 1864. James Frazer in 1864 planted apple trees across the plains and planted them near Florence, and they are still standing. From them has been developed the famous Colorado orange apples, and this was the parent of the extensive Florence and Canon City apple orchards. Florence has 80 producing oil wells, and is the only developed oil field in Colorado.

The Secret Adversary

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

(Copyright Dodd, Mead & Company)

"Sir James," said Tuppence, plunging boldly, "I dare say you will think it is most awful cheek of me coming here like this. What I really want to know is what you meant by what you said to me the other day? Did you mean to warn me against Mrs. Vandemeyer? You did, didn't you?"

"My dear young lady, as far as I recollect I only mentioned that there were equally good situations to be obtained elsewhere."

"Yes, I know. But it was a hint, wasn't it?"

"Well, perhaps it was," admitted Sir James gravely.

"Well, I want to know more. I want to know just why you gave me a hint?"

Sir James smiled at her earnestness.

"Well, without prejudice, then, if I had a young sister forced to earn her living, I should not like to see her in Mrs. Vandemeyer's service. It is no place for a young and inexperienced girl. That is all I can tell you."

"I see," said Tuppence thoughtfully. "Thank you very much. But I'm not really inexperienced, you know. I knew perfectly that she was a bad lot when I went there—as a matter of fact that's why I wanted—" She broke off, seeing some bewilderment on the lawyer's face, and went on: "I think perhaps I'd better tell you the whole story. Sir James. I've a sort of feeling that you'd know in a minute if I didn't tell the truth, and so you might as well know all about it from the beginning."

"Yes, tell me all about it," said Sir James.

Thus encouraged, Tuppence plunged into her tale, and the lawyer listened with close attention.

"Very interesting," he said, when she finished. "A great deal of what you tell me, child, is already known to me. I've had certain theories of my own about this Jane Finn. You've done extraordinarily well so far, but it's rather too bad of—what do you call him—as—Mr. Carter to pitch you and your young things into an affair of this kind. By the way, where did Mr. Hershelmer come in originally? You didn't make that clear?"

Julius answered for himself. "Jim Finn's first cousin," he explained, returning the lawyer's keen gaze.

"Ah!"

"Oh, Sir James," broke out Tuppence, "what do you think has become of Tommy?"

"I'm—" The lawyer rose, and paced slowly up and down. "When you asked, young lady, I was just packing up my traps. Going to Scotland by the night train for a few days' fishing. But there are different kinds of fishing. I've a good mind to stay, and see if we can't get on the track of that young chap."

"Oh!" Tuppence clasped her hands ecstatically.

"All the same, as I said before, it's too bad of—of Carter to set you two babies on a job like this. Now, don't get offended, Miss—"

"Cowley. Prudence Cowley. But my friend, don't mind Tuppence."

"Well, Miss Tuppence, then, as I'm certainly going to be a friend. Now, about this young Tommy of yours. Frankly, things look bad for him. He's been buying in somewhere where he wasn't wanted. No doubt of it. But don't give up hope."

"And you really will help us? There, Julius! He didn't want me to come," she added by way of explanation.

"H'm," said the lawyer, favoring Julius with another keen glance. "And why was that?"

"I reckoned it would be no good worrying you with a petty little business like this."

"I see." He paused a moment. "This petty little business, as you call it, bears directly on a very big business, bigger, perhaps, than either you or Miss Tuppence know. If this boy is alive, he may have very valuable information to give us. Therefore, we must find him. There's one person quite near at hand who in all probability knows where he is, or at all events where he is likely to be—Mrs. Vandemeyer."

"Yes, but she'd never tell us."

"Ah, that is where I come in. I think it quite likely that I shall be able to make Mrs. Vandemeyer tell me what I want to know."

"How?" demanded Tuppence, opening her eyes very wide.

"Oh, just by asking her questions," replied Sir James easily. "That's the way we do it, you know."

He tapped with his finger on the table, and Tuppence felt again the intense power that radiated from the man.

"And if she won't tell?" asked Julius suddenly.

"I think she will. I have one or two powerful levers. Still, in that unlikely event, there is always the possibility of bribery."

"Sure. And that's where I come in!" cried Julius, bringing his fist down on the table with a bang. "You can count on me, if necessary, for one million dollars. Yes, sir, one million dollars!"

Sir James sat down and subjected Julius to a long scrutiny.

"Mr. Hershelmer," he said at last, "that is a very large sum. At the present rate of exchange it amounts to considerably over two hundred thousand pounds."

"That's so. Maybe you think I'm talking through my hat, but I can deliver the goods all right, with enough over to spare for your fee."

Sir James flushed slightly. "There is no question of a fee, Mr. Hershelmer. I am not a trustee defective." "Sorry. I guess I was just a mite hasty, but I've been feeling bad about this money question. I wanted to offer a big reward for news of what some days ago, but your crusted institution of Scotland Yard advised me against it. Said it was undesirable."

Sir James considered for a moment. "There is no time to be lost. The sooner we strike the better. He turned to Tuppence. "Is Mrs. Vandemeyer dining out tonight, do you know?"

"Yes, I think so, but she will not be out late. Otherwise, she would have taken the latchkey."

"Good. I will call upon her about ten o'clock. What time are you supposed to return?"

"About nine-thirty or ten, but I could go back earlier."

"You must not do that on any account. It might arouse suspicion if you did not stay out till the usual time. Be back by nine-thirty. I will arrive at ten. Mr. Hershelmer will wait below in a taxi perhaps."

"He's got a new Rolls-Royce car," said Tuppence with vicarious pride.

"Even better. If I succeed in obtaining the address from her, we can go there at once, taking Mrs. Vandemeyer with us if necessary. You understand?"

"Yes." Tuppence rose to her feet with a skip of delight. "Oh, I feel so much better!"

"Don't build on it too much, Miss Tuppence. Go easy."

CONFLICT RISES ON USE OF PARK

Request of Chautauqua Association Rouses Sharp Opposition in Public Opinion

With interest increasing daily over the possible use of the city park by the Chautauqua, July 19 to 25, indications are that the differences in public opinion on the matter will be placed before the city commission Monday night, leaving the city officials to decide on the application of the Chautauqua association, on which four of the commission are equally divided.

"The recreation committee for the month of July, legislation is allowing no concessions in the park or even on the curbing," said W. R. Priebe, chairman of the committee. "And all concessions will be in the street six feet from the curbing. In view of this fact and the fact that allowing use of the park by the Chautauqua would set an undesirable precedent, the recreation committee protests very strongly by its incorporation being allowed the privilege of using the park."

Mr. Priebe stated that he expected that a protest would be filed with the commission as there is considerable sentiment among the business men against granting the use of the park for the Chautauqua.

At the same time it was reported that motions favoring the use of the park for the summer season had been introduced and that the effort had met with much success.

CAPTURES BORAH'S

and mention of the world court also was cheered. Having been told by Senator Borah and other Idaho officials, including Senator Gooding, Governor Moore, former Governor Hawley and Representatives Smith and French, that the transportation question was paramount in interest in Idaho, the president devoted a considerable portion of his address delivered from the rear platform of his train here, to that topic. He referred to the prospects of the best crops Idaho has had in five years, and added: "No matter how beautiful you produce, it is in vain unless you can market your produce."

The president said he was glad to note the initiative taken in Utah to obtain relief from transportation troubles through building up at home of new industries, speaking particularly of the steps taken in the state to produce sugar, and added that so long as he was president, "every protection will be given to the domestic sugar industry."

Addressing Railroad Men. Speaking directly to a group of railroad men gathered beside his car, the president continued: "Railroad men are as concerned with transportation as the rest of the population. I think that the men who are engaged in transportation in this country ought to be the best paid of any industry, and to toil under the most favorable conditions. You haven't any right under any condition to bring about a suspension of service. I don't mean that the government ever will require you to work against your will. We can't do that in free America. But I do mean that you should not suspend work to accomplish a grievance of your own until every effort at adjustment has been made."

Interested in Reclamation. The chief executive also took occasion to remark on the government's interest in reclamation and after noticing a group of Indians nearby, said he wished the states would "join in encouraging the Indians to embrace the best in American citizenship."

Concluding his address, the president and Mrs. Harding were taken on an automobile tour of the city and held a public reception at a hotel before leaving, shortly after 1 o'clock, for Idaho Falls.

The president delivered his first speech in Utah before 8 o'clock this morning at Brigham, where he addressed on the rear platform in a bath robe to greet those gathered at the station.

When the train made its first stop in Idaho at McCall, the president was told by a man in the crowd which gathered to shake hands that "there are only five or six democrats in the whole town."

"That is a fine minority," Mr. Harding said. "You should show them every respect."

"I am one of the five," spoke up a man on the edge of the crowd. The president asked him to come for ward, shook hands with him and said he was glad to greet him. "As we are all of one aspiration in the United States."
