TITLE BOUT IN MONTANA CALLED OFF

G. H. Stanton, Great Falls Banker, Makes Definite Announcement of Failure After Midnight Conference

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 1. (AP)—The Dempsey-Gibbons battle for the heavyweight championship of the world was definitely called off shortly after midnight by George H. Stanton, Great Falls banker, after a last minute conference with Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager.

Kearns, it was stated, agreed to go on with the fight if the promoters would pay him $50,000 immediately and permit him to take the remaining $50,000 of the guarantee out of the first gate receipts.

Mr. Stanton stated that he told Kearns it was impossible to pay him this amount as the committee had $50,000 of the gate receipts and mailed back the checks to those who had advanced sums to make up the final amount.

In Last Effort. Mr. Stanton left the hotel where the conference took place and Major J. E. Lane, another one of the business men who recently attempted to save the fight, closed himself with Kearns in a last effort, it was said, to cause Dempsey's manager to relent and permit the match to be held.

Lane was in bed when he was called and informed of Mr. Stanton's statement. He immediately got up and summoned Lew McCluskey, one of the original fight promoters, and together they went to Kearns' room. At 1 o'clock they were still in conference with Dempsey's manager.

Proposes Later Date. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, after conferring with Major J. E. Lane and Lew McCluskey, proposed that Dempsey-Gibbons fight and take to the door of his room and told newspaper men that he had proposed to the promoters that the fight be postponed until, either July 20 or 25.

He said that the people who had bought tickets were entitled to see the fight, but that if the promoters made the battle might go on. Kearns did not say whether or not new financing arrangements had been made. He spoke but a minute to the newspaper men gathered at the door of his room and then returned to the conference with the promoters.

Accompanied by army officers who were campaigning with him in the Argonne, the city hall, penetrating the thoroughfares of the financial district, sealed the welcome with his respects at the tomb of Grant on Riverside Drive.

The 5000 armed general came to attend the Rainbow convention at Indianapolis, June 25. The freedom of the city was bestowed upon him by the mayor.

Miss Wilson, who prepared herself for the advertising business by 12 months of study, will be engaged in a selling and consulting capacity.

HERRIN MINE IS SOLD TO MINERS

Illinois Labor Union Officials Confirm Reported Purchase of Scene of Massacre

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2 (AP)—Purchase by the Illinois Mine Workers' union of the Lester strip mine at Herrin, Ill., the scene of the riots a year ago last June, was confirmed tonight by labor union officials. The purchase price was $720,000.

State Senator William Sneed, president of the Williamson county local of the miners' union, verified the fact that negotiations had been under way for the mine.

The property, he said, had been operated since January by the Galbreath Coal company, with between 60 and 70 men. He said that the mine machinery is valued at about $150,000.

It is understood the property was bought to satisfy the heavy damages suits which W. J. Lester, principal owner of the mine, filed against the miners' union to recover for damages to his property and the death of 22 men employed by him at the time of the riots.

The mine was operated by the Southern Illinois Coal corporation, of which Mr. Lester, it is said, is the principal stockholder.

INDUSTRIAL PLANTS IN RUHR TAKEN

French Seize Branch of Krupp Works and Two Other Establishments for Reparations Purposes Under Decree

DUESSELDORF, July 2 (AP)—The first seizures under General Degoutte's decree giving the occupation forces power to take over private property for reparation purposes were announced today. Three plants were taken over by a branch of the Krupp locomotive works at Segeroth, a little station near Essen.

Four new locomotives were seized at these works, which now are occupied with the manufacture of locomotives instead of big guns. Reports from Berlin state that the capital was greatly excited today by messages that the Krupp works in Essen had been taken over, but the dispatches apparently were founded on this seizure of a comparatively small branch.

The other plants seized with the Gutchoff Nunggette steel works, near Oberhausen, with branches throughout the Ruhr employing 100,000 men, and the Wermannfeld, factory, near, of West Phalen, works, near Dortmund.

Grab Repair Shops. In addition to taking over these three private plants in the Ruhr, the French seized the German government repair shops and roundhouses near Neld, in the Frankfurt district, the largest repair shops in Germany.

Eighty-six locomotives were found in the round houses. Four coal mines also have been taken over in the Langendreer district. In connection with the killing of a German at Duisburg for disregarding the curfew order, it is reported that he was shot by a French patrol and not by the Belgians.

BANDITS HOLD UP OFFICE. ST. LOUIS, July 2 (AP)—Five armed and masked men held up the office of the United Railways company today and escaped with approximately $10,000 about a dozen employees were in the office at the time, and two employees fired shots at the bandits as they escaped in an automobile. One of the employees said he believes he hit one of the bandits, as he saw him fall into the tonneau of the car.

ENTHUSIASM WAKES HARDING AT SPOKANE

SPOKANE, (AP)—The city of Spokane gave the president and Mrs. Harding an enthusiastic reception today. Governor and Mrs. Hart, Senator Dill and Mayor Fleming met them at the station and a young lady representing "Miss Spokane" presented the chief executive with the "keys" of the city, while another "Miss Columbia" gave Mrs. Harding a bouquet.

The program arranged for the presidential party started with a tour through the business district with a greeting to the school children. A visit to a portion of the Spokane valley and an inspection of a dam site for a proposed irrigation project followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding held a reception at a downtown hotel and attended an exhibition of motion pictures of the Columbia basin.

Bright Future for West. Mr. Harding's address, delivered in the Armory here was the first he has made on the Pacific slope since he became president.

He expressed the belief that "We may confidently look forward to a generation in which these young and vigorous communities will take the lead in great a population as the entire nation today."

The chief executive outlined no specific reclamation plan but declared that "we must look for plans that are safe; plans so constructive that they will not unduly burden the settler in the days when he is rearing the land to production; plans that will reasonably broad and that will not commit the government to excessive or unreasonable expenditures."

Mr. Harding's address concluded a nine hour visit to Spokane, during which he made an automobile tour of the business district, inspected the dam site for the proposed Columbia basin irrigation project and saw a series of motion pictures of the Columbia basin. After the address the presidential party left here for Meacham, Ore., to participate in the Old Oregon trail celebration there tomorrow.

Development First. The president spoke in part as follows: "It has been in my mind, during these days of travel in the west, to express on some appropriate occasion a few views regarding those problems which we sum up to our minds under the heading of conservation, reclamation and development. Nowadays, I think there is disposition to change the order of terms, and mention development first. Not that we are any less devoted to conservation, but there is increasing realization that in our national development we have reached the time when wise programs for developments in all parts of our domain must be encouraged."

"Traveling about this country, and somewhat in other countries, I have been constantly impressed that wise development of natural resources does not often result in their disastrous diminution. Rather it seems as a rule to result in a growing and increasing variety of the very richest upon which we make drafts. "We do not fear that present development is liable to impoverish us in the future. The precise contrary, according to every historical analogy, is what will take place. Why, you all remember that quarter century ago so wise a man as James J. Hill was warning us that within fifteen years this country would have to import wheat. Twice that period has passed, our population has grown enormously, and yet today we are producing a greater surplus of wheat than any other country in the world. Our difficulty is not to find wheat."

Wants Reclamation Plan that Will Not Unduly Burden Settlers or Commit Government Unwisely

SPOKANE, July 2 (AP)—Gradual development of the nation's natural resources rather than preservation of them in their original state was advocated by President Harding here tonight as the only conservation policy to which America dare commit itself.

The president, speaking on "Development, Reclamation and Water Utilization," declared against looking up the public domain "as a treasure house of potential wealth" on the grounds that such action would prevent it from being ready for use when needed. He said it pleased him to stand for gradual development such as the use of water both for irrigation and power and for a policy of reforestation that preserves the national interest while permitting use of the timber as needed.

Mr. Harding's address, delivered in the Armory here was the first he has made on the Pacific slope since he became president.

HARDING TELLS SPOKANE FOLKS ABOUT SAVINGS

Announcement of Surplus at End of Government's Fiscal Year Strikes Popular Chord with Big Audience

SPOKANE, July 2 (AP)—President Harding delivered an address on development of natural resources to an audience that overflowed the state armory, seating about 3000 persons here tonight.

The chief executive was introduced by Governor Hart and was cheered heartily. He began speaking at 8:40 by saying that while he had received a pleasant welcome throughout his trip, "no such change in public power was wholesome, more courteous, or more kindly than in this great far west."

Before launching into his prepared address, the president received a telegram from Director Lord of the budget bureau informing him of the surplus of $200,000,000 over expenditures for the fiscal year which ended last Saturday.

Living Within Income. The announcement was loudly applauded and there also were cheers when the president commented that "the United States alone of all nations has been living within its income."

Departing from his prepared address to refer to his experiences enroute to Spokane in driving an electric locomotive, Harding predicted that the transportation problem of the country would be greatly aided in its solution by electrification of the railways. Dr. Kassar's relief organization similarly reported on a wholesale plan for the settlement of refugees. Colonel Logan, representing the United States in a consultative capacity, discussed the possibility of working out a compromise between the present Secretary Hughes for continuance of the work of American relief agencies.

Concluding his discussion of reclamation problems, the president tonight again appealed for sentiment favorable to American admission to the permanent of American industry to the persons who have been living within their income. He repeated previously-made assertions that America was losing some of the spirit which impelled it, during the days of its infancy, to the conquest of the globe, and that it needed a new aspiration.

Such an aspiration was the desire to prevent American involvement in another war, the president went on, and could be fulfilled through American membership in the world court. Concluding at 9:20 o'clock, the president declared he wished for an irrefragable expression of the confidence of this country which will lead the senate to say, aye, we do, want this court. It will lead to peace."

GREEK REFUGEES PLIGHT BROUGHT BEFORE LEGUE

Representative of America at Geneva Session, Discusses Possibility of Plan for Continuance of Relief. GENEVA, July 2 (AP)—When the twenty-fifth session of the council of the league of nations opened this morning, Colonel James A. Logan, who is associated with Roland W. Boyden on the reparations commission, arrived from Paris to discuss the question of a Greek loan to aid a million refugees, necessitated by the withdrawal of the American relief organization from Greece. The league's financial committee, on which the United States previously was represented, reported to the sub-committee of the council on the financial possibilities of a loan, and Kassar's relief organization similarly reported on a wholesale plan for the settlement of refugees. Colonel Logan, representing the United States in a consultative capacity, discussed the possibility of working out a compromise between the present Secretary Hughes for continuance of the work of American relief agencies.

URGES VIEW ON RAILWAY VALUES

Conference Formed Under La Follette's Direction Takes Step to Force Commission

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—The national conference on the valuation of American railroads, formed here last May under the direction of Senator Robert M. La Follette to protect what it deemed "the public interest" in the valuation of carriers by the new treaty of the commerce commission under the valuation act, took its first step today to force the commission to change its methods.

Announcement was made here that Edward M. Richberg, general counsel for the conference, had filed petitions with the commission presenting a formal demand that the body comply with the terms of the valuation act, present the original cost data of railroad properties, and the amount and value of public donations to the roads and disclose its methods of arriving at valuations. The petition calls for further valuations to be stopped until the commission has made the preliminary reports requested by law.

Contemplates Situation. If the commission refuses the request the petition asks for an order to do so clearly, the committee said what it may be tested in the courts. The latter request, it was intimated, indicates that mandamus proceedings will be brought against the commission in the event of an ordering ruling. The petition of the conference was accompanied by a supplemental petition by Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, and the brief in support of them was filed by Attorney Richberg, with whom are associated Herman Eker, attorney general of Wisconsin; J. W. Murphy, attorney-general of Arizona, and Grenville E. McFarland, special counsel for the city of Boston.

In the brief it is contended that the original cost of the roads does not necessarily mesh actual cost and that the duty of the commission is to find the actual cost of building the railroads and not merely to report what the books of the roads show to be their claim of expenditures.

AND THAT'S THAT

Idaho's Hard Luck Stories Menace Reclamation Plans

SPOKANE, July 2 (AP)—Governor Work of the interior department, appealed tonight to the people of the northwest to view the Columbia basin project in a "practical" way and as a member that before the federal government could loan the money necessary to reclaim the 5,000,000 acres in the basin, congress would have to pass legislation to make the funds available. He was willing to spend the money, Mr. Work said, addressed members of the Columbia Basin Irrigation league, but before I can do that your legislature must vote it. Mr. Work referred to President Harding, who was here on his traveling

GOVERNMENT'S ACCOUNTS SHOW LARGE SURPLUS

Closing of Books for Fiscal Year Shows $310,000,000 to Good, Budget Bureau Director Announces

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The federal government Saturday closed its books for the fiscal year of 1923 with a surplus of approximately $310,000,000, it was announced at the office of Benjamin G. Ladd, director of the budget bureau.

This is $110,000,000 in excess of the estimate of surplus made by President Harding and Mr. Ladd at the last business meeting of the government two weeks ago.

Three major factors operated to create this surplus in place of the deficit of $823,000,000 indicated a year ago by estimate of receipts and expenditures. There was a decrease in operating expenses and an increase in customs receipts and internal taxes.

Still Gigantic Business.

Despite the reduction of approximately $300,000,000 from the early estimates of the government's running expenses, the federal establishment still is a three and a half billion dollar business. Actual cash withdrawals from the treasury for the year totaled $3,003,000,000. Appropriations made by congress for all purposes for the year were $3,940,000,000, and it was stated that this was the result largely of executive reorganization the departments for the holding down of all expenditures. There was a greater decrease in the ordinary operating expenses than is reflected by this figure, the total being $897,000,000. This figure was increased by increases in expenditures on account of capital outlays, the war finance corporation, refunds on taxes and the like. Receipts from all sources for the year exceeded by $707,000,000 the estimates made a year ago. Customs receipts advanced $219,000,000 in capital outlays, internal revenue receipts increased $123,000,000 and miscellaneous receipts went up $13,000,000.

Where Surplus Grew.

The difference of $310,000,000 is total estimated expenditures was the result of a reduction of $161,000,000 in general expenditures, $45,000,000 in interest on the public debt, and a net decrease of $170,000,000 in capital outlays, operations in special accounts and the retirement of the public debt required to be made from ordinary receipts.

The figures on operations include the payment of a deficit of $32,000,000 in the postal service as the refund of approximately $200,000,000 in customs taxes collected on sugar and other articles brought into the country in the raw state and prepared here for export.

The surplus this year is only slightly less than that of $313,000,000 at the close of business last year.

Admiral Fluke, Retired, Declares United States is Drifting Toward Clash at Arms; Urges Conference

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fluke, U. S. N., (retired), asserts in a statement published today that the United States is "drifting toward war" because of prohibition.

He advocated a conference of 100 leading citizens of the country to find a way to eliminate the international friction caused by the application of prohibition to foreign ships in American ports.

Admiral Fluke said he believed that the best brains of the country should be concentrated at a conference to settle the vexing question in the same manner that the representatives of different nations reached decision on the question of armament at the conference in Washington more than a year ago.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me, I lost my nerve force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive function, helping the system do the work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—adv.

Telephones in Finland.

Finland is a country about which we in the United States hear little, but it is nevertheless on the map telephonically speaking. Although accurate statistics are difficult to get, the latest reports indicate that there are in Finland about 45,000 telephones and a considerable number of interurban lines, all operated by private companies. In view of the fact that the population of the country is only 3,500,000, this represents a creditable telephone development, one which in fact exceeds that of France, Italy, or Belgium.

JEROME SWAMPS EDEN

EDEN, July 2 (Special to The News)—"Big" Erickson was in rare form Sunday and Jerome had but little trouble in beating the Eden team of the Southern Idaho league, 16 to 0. Erickson allowed but two hits during the game, one coming in the third and the other in the eighth. Sixteen men fanned the crowd, as Erickson twisted them over.

Leach and Ashtenfelder led the onslaught with the wallo, both players gathering three hits apiece. The Jerome victory keeps them in a tie for first place with the Twin Falls.

FAVORS USE OF PUBLIC DOMAIN

...to find other countries that will buy it from us.

Other Exploited Fallacies

In 1896 Mr. Bryan eloquently assured us that gold could no longer serve as the world's money standard because there couldn't possibly be enough of it produced. Before the echoes of his oratory had died away, science had perfected new processes of gold extraction, and in a few years another group of earnest people were just as solemnly warning us that we couldn't go on using gold as our money standard, because it was getting too common! Fortunately for us, we didn't get unduly excited about either prediction, and today we find about everybody agreed that to get back on the gold basis is one of the world's greatest needs.

So, contemplating the certainty that another century will see a population of probably 300,000,000 one is forced to conclude that a wise development of resources is the only policy to which we dare commit ourselves. There was a time when the public domain was thought of as a treasure house of potential wealth to be locked up against the day when we should need it. It was assumed that by locking up we should make it surely available whenever it was required. As a matter of fact, that would prevent it from being ready when needed. Development must be gradual, a business of the decades and the centuries. It should, indeed, be given wise direction and supervision. The opportunities of the newer country should be so administered as to insure their equitable distribution in future. We have done with the era of thoughtless and reckless exploitation of our domain. There will not again come a time when imperial estates will be distributed with lavish hands to enterprising gentlemen whose only claim is that they would like to own them.

Home's Prime Objective

"We want the west to be a land of homes and of the freest opportunity for the establishment of the families possessing independent means of livelihood. It is recognized that the very different conditions of the plains and mountains are as complex matters of policy that have served so well in other parts of the country. Those modifications are being wrought out gradually, with a view to promoting here that wide diversification of industries and occupations which is invited by your variety of resources, and which is the ideal state of a modern society. It is not desirable that the west should fall into the hands of bonanza corporations, seeking to exploit it for the profit of a stockholders who live somewhere else. But on the other hand, it is worth while to emphasize that many of the most valuable resources of the west are of such character, and their development must be on such a scale, that they can only be made available under concentrated management and by the use of capital in large units. We must enforce measures which will give capital and management attractive returns, but which will always keep in sight the primary purpose of dealing out justice, even-handed opportunity and an absolutely fair interest in the product of human industry, effort and intelligence."

Making Water Productive

"I spoke a moment ago of the fact that as a rule, the utilization of nature's resources commonly results in their increase rather than their diminution. That is peculiarly true of your especially valuable resources of your mountain west: I mean your water. The flow of a great river that runs away to the sea without being utilized for power or for irrigation, is wasted forever. To prevent its development is not to save it for the benefit of a distant future. If it is to be of service tomorrow, it must be harvested today.

"Our whole view of the relation of water to western development has changed much in the last generation. Only a few years since, these waters were looked upon as potentially useful merely for irrigation and agriculture. We entered upon a great program of irrigation in the west, but even when we had as yet but a vague notion about the dual purpose that your water resources ought to serve. But now we know that the same water can in most cases be utilized for power and irrigation. Thus the great power development will mark the sites of industrial centers, adjacent to which will grow up rich areas of intensive agricultural production. The industrial populations will provide markets, without impossible transportation expenditures, for the products of the soil; and in turn the people on the soil will afford markets for the products of industry.

"Transportation will be increased and cheapened through electrification of the railroads; and in the light of what we now know about all the aspects of this subject, we may confidently look for the day when these young and vigorous commonwealths of the west will boast as great a population as the United States today, capable of leading for the greater part of itself, representing the widest variety of occupations and interests and having its problem of transportation largely solved for it because it will be so

MUSIC-LECTURE-CONCERT AT CHAUTAUQUA

Evelyn McClusky Will Eliminate Mysteries and Elevate Marvels of Music.

We all want a greater understanding of good music—to know more of the master composers and their work, the best opera, musical instruments that compose a modern orchestra, band or other musical unit. Mrs. McClusky, "The Music Lady," brings to Chautauqua a remarkably entertaining and instructive lecture-demonstration designed for the average music lover who has not the knowledge of a trained musician. By the use of records, Mrs. McClusky illustrates her several points. This popular lecture will be one of the most valuable events of the week.

Region of Opportunity

"It is doubtful if there is in the world such a region of varied opportunity and universal wealth as this mountain empire of yours. Your country presents its invitation and its opportunity to whoever is capable of a contribution to human well-being; to science, to industry, to the masters of metallurgy, of the electrical arts, of agriculture.

"Western people have had reasons to complain that there is not always a sympathetic or understanding attitude in some other parts of the country toward the irrigation development that the west must have. You people of the inland empire might well remind your critics that during the uncounted centuries when the greatest civilizations had their seat on the Euphrates and the Nile, they were nurtured by an agriculture which depended on irrigation; on conserving and utilizing the waters of a few great streams. Our irrigation program is after all, only a proposal to repeat, of the scale of modern engineering operations, the works by which primitive man learned to subjugate the earth and make it serve the needs of a developing civilization. Not once, but a hundred times over, will we reproduce here in the plains and mountains and valleys of our west the wealth and productivity which enabled the Pharaohs to build monuments for the wonder of all time. But the monuments to our achievement will bear inscriptions telling not of the slavery and sufferings of generations which gave their lives to perpetuate the glory of a tyrant. Our inscriptions will tell of great, free states made up of contented, cultured and Christian homes.

TALK PROBLEMS

today should be given a chance in the public schools to learn household budgeting and accounts keeping. "House wives are our greatest financiers," she said. "America's payroll for 1922 held seventy billion dollars, fifty billion of which was dispensed by women in carrying on the business of homemaking.

Speaking of the financing of American public schools, George D. Strayer of the teachers' college of Columbia university, New York, asserted it was quite as important "that we provide capital in terms of educated men and women, as it is that we should build railroads or factories."

Badger Hunting Naval Sport

Badgers live in the chalk cliffs of the British isles and destroy much game while foraging at night. Badger hunting, or digging, is a novel sport, for it entails following the badger into its lair deep in the ground. Extensive galleries with many ramifications are revealed in the chalk cliffs where for thousands of years the animals have been burrowing and excavating the soil.

Who Owns The Union Pacific

The Union Pacific is owned by 51,016 stockholders.

Forty-three percent of the stockholders are women. Stockholders outnumber by 4,461 the yearly average number of officers and employees of the system.

No one person, firm, corporation or institution owns as much as two percent of the capital stock. The average holding is 63 shares of a par value of $6,300.00.

A large amount of the stock, although registered in the names of stock brokers, is actually owned by a great many different individuals, clients of such brokers. Furthermore, many of the registered stockholders are executors, trustees, guardians, etc., representing individuals who are the beneficial owners. If, therefore, a list of the actual owners could be compiled, it would greatly exceed 51,016 and the average holding would be considerably less than 63 shares. Again, large amounts of the stock are owned by life insurance companies and savings banks, who, though actually owning the stock, really hold it for the benefit of vast numbers of life insurance policy holders and savings bank depositors.

Union Pacific stock, like the country's trade, follows the flag. Stockholders are found in every state of the Union, and in Alaska, the Canal Zone, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands and Porto Rico.

Were these 51,016 Union Pacific stockholders assembled at one place, they would make a population as large as that of Lincoln, Butte, Topeka, Long Beach, Pasadena or Pueblo. They represent a greater number than the combined populations of Colorado Springs, Boulder and Greeley in Colorado, or Ogden, Provo and Logan in Utah.

This widespread distribution conclusively answers the statement that the railroads are owned and controlled by a few persons. To an extent not generally recognized, the railroads are owned by the public. The subject comes home to every household when it is considered that life insurance policy holders and savings bank depositors are partners in the operation and development of our railroads.

The public and our employees should know that we are working, not for a few wealthy men, but for a army of more than 50,000 persons, almost half of whom are women and most of whom are persons of moderate means.

To serve well the public and these shareholders is the highest ambition of the 46,555 officers and employees of the Union Pacific Family.

The Union Pacific's constant effort is to furnish its patrons and the general public with the best brand of transportation that can be manufactured.

Constructive suggestions are always welcome.

SIMPLIFIED HOLIDAYS

Holidays in these times cover not simply the days marked on the calendar, but a whole period of weeks preceding. Christmas begins the day after Thanksgiving, with Santa Claus romping through department stores
 and advertising pages for a month.
 With the dismantling of the Christmas tree come the gay festoons of valentine hearts, and these in turn are crowded out by Easter bunnies long before Easter itself arrives. Even in communities which have banned by ordinance the dangerous firecracker, fireworks peddled along country roads are set off fitfully for two full weeks before the Fourth of July dawns.

The sad thing about this commercialization of the holidays is that they lose through it much of their finest significance. They cease to be individual, glorious, red-letter days.
 It is hard to tell what any one of them is all about and harder to enjoy the actual celebration when it finally does come. The spirit of these various occasions is somewhat buried beneath the added frills which on the prolonged anticipation places on all.

There is an error in the system somewhere. The American public will wake up one fine day to find that it has lost the best part of its holidays
 if it does not wake up before then to simplify their observance.

EDUCATION AND FARMING

Everyone grants that a college education is essential preparation these days for a lawyer or doctor or other professional person. Not everybody admits or believes that a college education is essential to the best success of workers in other fields. And very few persons have regarded farming
 as an occupation that benefited greatly by additional schooling.

In the last few years, however,
 tests have been made in the farming
 regions of Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Washington, New York and Maryland. These sections are widely scattered and can surely be considered representative of the American farming community as a whole. The investigations showed that the more education a farmer possesses, the larger are his earnings.
 It was found that the annual income of the farmer with only common school education was four hundred twenty-four dollars; the addition of high school training increased this average to five hundred fifty-four dollars; a partial college course brought it up to eight hundred fifty-nine dollars, and a complete college course course made it fourteen hundred fifty-two dollars.

Furthermore it was found that the possession of the comforts of life was more general with college-bred farmers than with common school farmers. Forty-nine per cent of the former had bathrooms, forty four per cent had modern lighting systems, forty seven per cent had furnaces and twenty nine per cent had automobiles, as contrasted with twenty two per cent, seventeen per cent, twenty-two per cent and twenty per cent respectively for farmers of the second group.

Figures may be deceptive and statistics misleading, but they furnish interesting food for thought and further study.

CHAPTER VIII

The Vigil.

Sir James brushed past Julius and hurriedly bent over the fallen woman.
 "Hurt?" he said sharply. "Seeing as she suddenly must have given her a shock, I'll be quick—and quickly, or she'll slip through our fingers."
 Julius hurried to the washstand.
 "Not there," said Tuppence over her shoulder. "In the tantalus in the dining room. Second door down the passage."

Between them Sir James and Tuppence lifted Mrs. Vandemeyer and carried her to the bed. The lawyer turned her pulse.
 "Touch and go," he muttered. "I wish that young fellow would hurry
 up with the brandy."

At that moment Julius re-entered the room, carrying a glass half full of the spirit which he handed to Sir James. While Tuppence lifted her head the lawyer tried to force a little of the spirit between her closed lips.
 Finally the woman opened her eyes feebly. Tuppence held the glass to her lips.

"Drink this."
 Mrs. Vandemeyer complied. The brandy brought the color back to her white cheeks, and revived her in a marvellous fashion. She tried to sit up—an fall back with a groan, her hand to her side.

"It's my heart," she whispered. "I mustn't talk."
 She lay back with closed eyes.
 Sir James kept his finger on her wrist a minute longer, then withdrew
 it with a nod.

"She'll do now."
 All three moved away, and stood together talking in low voices. One and all were conscious of a certain feeling of antilimax. Clearly any scheme for cross-questioning the lady was out of the question for the moment. For the time being they were baffled, and could do nothing.

Tuppence related how Mrs. Vande-meyer had declared herself willing to disclose the identity of Mr. Brown, and how she had consented to discover and reveal to them the whereabouts of Jane Finn.

"Well," said Tuppence, with an attempt at cheerfulness, "we just wait that's all. But I don't think we ought to leave the flat."

"What about leaving that bright boy
 of yours on guard?"
 "Albert? And suppose she came round again and looked it. Albert couldn't stop her. She seemed very frightened of Mr. Brown." Said even walls had ears.

"Miss Tuppence is right," said Sir James quietly. "We must not leave the flat—if only for Mrs. Vandemeyer's sake."

Julius stared at him.
 "You think he'd get after her? Between now and tomorrow morning.
 How could he know, eyes?"

"We have a very formidable siferary," I believe; if we exercise all due care, there is a very good chance of his being deluged into our hands.
 But we must neglect no precaution.
 We have an important witness, but she must be safeguarded. I would suggest that Miss Tuppence should go to bed, and that you and I, Mr. Her-sehalm, should share the vigil.

Tuppence was about to protest, but happening to glance at the bed she saw Mrs. Vandemeyer, her eyes half-open, with such an expression of mingled fear and malice on her face that it quite forestalled the words on her lips.

For a moment she wondered whether the faint and the heart attack had been a gigantic sham, but remembering the deadly pallor she could hardly credit the supposition. As she looked the expression disappeared as by magic, and Mrs. Vandemeyer lay inert and motionless as before. For a moment the girl fancied she must have dreamt it. But she determined nevertheless to be on the alert.

She hesitated a moment by the bed.
 The intensity of the expression she had surprised had impressed her powerfully. Mrs. Vandemeyer lifted her lids, and motioned as before. For a moment the girl fancied she must have dreamt it. But she determined nevertheless to be on the alert.

"Don't leave," she seemed unable to proceed, murmuring something that sounded like "sleepy." Tuppence bent lower still. It was only a breath.

"Mr. Brown." The voice stopped.
 But the half-closed eyes seemed still to send an agonized message.
 Moved by a sudden impulse, the girl
 said quickly:

"I shan't leave the flat. I shall sit up all night."
 A flash of relief showed before the lids descended once more. Apparently Mrs. Vandemeyer slept. But her words had awakened a new uneasiness in Tuppence. What had she meant by that low murmur, "Mr. Brown?"

 Tuppence caught herself
 nervously looking over her shoulder.
 The big warlike loomed up in a sinister fashion before her eyes. "Plenty of room for a man to hide in that chest."
 Half-shamed of herself, Tuppence pulled it open and looked inside.
 "In one of course." She stepped down

Apparently Mrs. Vandemeyer slept.

and looked under the bed. There was no other possible hiding place.
 "It was absurd, this giving way to nerves! Slowly she went out of the room. Julius and Sir James were talking in a low voice. Sir James turned to Sir James.
 "The door on the outside,
 please, Miss Tuppence, and take out the key. There must be no chance of anyone entering that room."
 The gravity of his manner impressed them, and Tuppence felt less ashamed of her attack of nerves.
 "Good night, Tuppence," said Sir James, "you know this place better than I do. Where do you suggest we should take up our quarters?"
 Tuppence considered for a moment or two.
 "I think Mrs. Vandemeyer's boudoir would be the most comfortable," she said at last, and Sir James and Julius looked round approvingly.
 "This will do very well, add now,
 my dear young lady, do go to bed and get some sleep."
 Tuppence shook her head resolutely.
 "I couldn't, thank you, Sir James. I shan't sleep. I shan't sleep."
 "But you'll be so tired, child."
 "No, I shan't. I'd rather stay up really."
 The lawyer gave in.
 Tuppence related her adventures.
 "There's one thing I don't get clearly," said Julius. "What put her up to clearing out?"
 "I don't know," confessed Tuppence.
 Sir James stroked his chin thoughtfully.
 "The room was in great disorder, that looks as though her flight was unpremeditated.—Almost as though she got a sudden warning to go from some one."
 "Mr. Brown, I suppose," said Julius scornfully.
 The lawyer looked at him deliberately for a minute or two.
 "Why not?" he said. "Remember,
 you yourself have once been worried
 by him."
 Julius flushed with vexation.
 "I feel just mad when I think of how I handed out Jane Finn's photograph to him like a lamb. Geo. if I ever lay hands on it again, I'll freeze on to it like glue."
 "That contingency is likely to be a remote one," said the other dryly.
 "I guess you're right," said Julius frankly. "And, in any case, it's the original I'm out after. Where do you think she can be, Sir James?"
 The lawyer shook his head.
 "Impossible to say. But I've a very good idea where she has been. At the scene of our nocturnal adventures,
 the Bournemouth hospital."
 "There? Impossible. I asked."
 "No, my dear Sir, you asked if anyone of the name of Jane Finn had been there. Now, if the girl had been placed there it would almost certainly be under an assumed name."
 "Perhaps the doctor's in it too," suggested Tuppence.
 Julius shook his head.
 "I don't think so. I took to him at once. No, I'm pretty sure Doctor Hall's all right."
 "Hall, did you say?" asked Sir James. "That is curious—really very curious."
 "Why?" demanded Tuppence.
 "Because I happened to meet him
 this morning. I've known him slightly on and off for some years, and this morning I ran across him in the street.
 Staying at the Metropole, he told me."
 He turned to Julius. "Didn't he tell you he was coming up to town?"
 Julius shook his head.
 "Curious," mused Sir James. "You did not mention his name this afternoon, or I would have suggested your going to him for further information,
 with my card as introduction."
 "I guess I'm a nut," said Julius, with unusual humility. "I ought to have thought of the false name stunt."
 A silence settled down over the party. Little by little the magic of the night began to gain a hold on them. There were sudden creaks in the furniture, imperceptible rustlings

of the curtains, suddenly Tuppence
 sprang up with a cry.
 "I can't help it. I know Mr. Brown's somewhere in the flat! I can feel him."
 "Sure, Tuppence how could he be?
 This door's open into the hall. No one could have closed it by the front door without our seeing and hearing him."
 "I can't help it. I feel he's here!"
 She looked appealingly at Sir James,
 who replied gravely:
 "With due deference to your feelings, Miss Tuppence (and mine as well, for that matter), I do not see how it's humanly possible for anyone to be in the flat without our knowledge."
 The girl was a little comforted by his words.
 "Sitting up at night is always rather jumpy," she confessed.
 The hours drew on. With the first faint glimmerings of dawn, Sir James drew aside the curtains. Somehow,
 with the coming of the light, the dreams and fancies of the past night seemed absurd. Tuppence's spirits revived to the normal.

TREES NOT DAMAGED BY WIRE

Belief Long Held Has Been Disproved by Experiments Made by University of Washington Expert

In 1916 George B. Bigg of the University of Washington heard it stated that shade trees were being killed by driving one or two pieces of copper wire into them. He recently proceeded to put this to the test and announces his result in Science. Six young trees, he writes, from two to four inches in diameter were selected, and on March 21, 1919, they were driven into each tree five pieces of thick copper wire 1.5 inches long.

CELEBRATION IS TOPIC FOR CITY COMMISSIONERS

Youngsters Can Shoot Fireworks Bought Out of Town, 4 a. m. to 11:30 p. m.; Fire Chief Quits

Twin Falls youngsters—young and old—celebrate the birthday of July in the old-fashioned way with fire crackers and similar noise making paraphernalia bought in timberly or some other place outside the city limits of Twin Falls.

Such was the conclusion drawn following the meeting of the city commission Monday night when Mayor L. Hodgins issued his proclamation giving permission to explode fireworks, cap pistols, Roman candles and similar devices during the hours from 4 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. on July 4. The commission found itself unable to deviate from the ordinance in regard to the sale of fireworks and felt that reason the ordinance will be adhered to in that respect. The ordinance was classified as inconsequential and the commission decided to bear the cost of the fireworks and to return the flags to their owners and to have the matter up to them hereafter.

Talk Over Hearing.

Considerable discussion took place as to the advisability of sending a Twin Falls representative to hold a hearing on the Idaho power company's property valuation before the public utilities commission on Monday July 10. It was decided to send Commissioner J. A. Keol providing he becomes convinced by investigating the facts that his presence at the hearing would be of benefit to the city.

The council was thrown into somewhat of an amusing quandary by the commission's demand for $150 by James S. Schmitt for 44 days' employment at the municipal filtering plant. Commissioner S. S. All claimed that he had discharged Schmitt after the latter failed to show up for work for several days, but the discussion indicated that Schmitt refused to stay, fired and was permitted to remain on the job. His claim was investigated and all other bills being allowed.

Two Resignations of Fire Chief Golden

was received and accepted on motion of Commissioner J. A. Keol. The resignation was made by Golden as he was leaving the department. Commissioner Leslie was authorized to employ an assistant chief to fill the position.

Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce

was granted permission to erect the platform for the Fourth of July address, boxing and wrestling contests at the court house, closer to the street than last year. The platform is for the benefit of the shade trees along the street. At Mr. Wright's suggestion several members of the celebration committee were appointed to act as special officers on the Fourth of July, thus saving the city the expense of employing special officers.

Police Chief Reports.

The monthly report of Police Chief Heriman showed 24 arrests during June. Among these six arrests were for drunkenness, one for carrying a gun and five for various misdemeanors. Warnings were issued for 15 minor violations of ordinances and for seven violations of the laws regarding the use of automobiles were lost during the month, although one was found. The sum of $85 was collected in police court fines.

The Cogswell service station

was given permission to erect two electric lights in front of the station on Main street east, Thursday, July 5, at 2:30. All ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

Dairy Experts to Accompany Special

Noted Authorities, Here This Week, to Explain How Better Milk Cows Are Raised

The Union Pacific's dairy special from Wisconsin and Minnesota, which will be here on July 5, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., and which will be back from 8 to 7:30 p. m., will bring to this district not only the most approved types of dairy cattle but authorities on dairying who will have something to say that will be of great value to local dairymen interested in learning more about the industry, according to those concerned with the event.

There will be matters presented and explained at this special event that will mean better success for dairymen and everyone interested in dairying or in dairy cattle in any way should make it a special point to be present," said H. E. Brossard, county agent.

Governor C. C. Moore is accompanying the special through various parts of Idaho and he may go with the special when it pulls into Twin Falls, although no assurance has been given on this matter. There are at least six men who are making the trip with the special and who are officials of dairy breeders' associations, some of them nationally known. They will either give addresses or participate in the demonstrations of the blooded dairy cattle that are being carried on the train.

The appearance of the dairy special in Twin Falls will be of great value to the public by means of special announcements during the Fourth of July celebration, according to present plans.

REPORT ON DAM MISCONSTRUED

Board Member Believes Crampton Not Rightly Informed on Contract

Confidence that undue alarm has been created by the announcement of Congressman Crampton of Michigan, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, relative to the American Falls reservoir and that the true situation is apparently not understood by the general public, was expressed by W. F. Alworth, secretary of the American Falls district board of directors, on his return from American Falls, Monday.

The matter was discussed by the directors, who met at American Falls last week, and who adjourned on Thursday to go to the home of the directors, members of the board, including Mr. Alworth, got in touch for a brief time with Secretary Work.

It is noted that Congressman Crampton evidently misunderstood a statement by R. E. Shepherd, chairman of the board of directors, relative to changes in the contract and to deferred contracts made some years ago involving the various canal companies. Congressman Crampton was assured by Mr. Alworth that if there has been any misunderstanding among the various districts in regard to their participation in the construction of the reservoir, that these matters would be adjusted satisfactorily as an arm of the entire situation regarding the statement of Congressman Crampton that appropriations for the American Falls reservoir had been reduced was caused by misunderstanding and was very favorable to all of the districts alike; in fact it was only as a matter of justice to all of these districts that the contract was modified.

The board spent much of its time during the sessions last week in obtaining further options of lands for the ownership of the reservoir. The purchase of the government appropriation of $1,000,000 was reported to have been spent for this purpose.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Prominent American Violinist Brings Own Company To Chautauqua

Charles Mitchell Mixer and His Orchestral Quartet Will Give Two Symphony Programs on Third Day.

To meet the ever-increasing demand for the better things in music, Charles Mitchell Mixer organized this orchestral quartet, which is well known in the East as a chamber music group. They will be one of the big musical features of Chautauqua week. In a full program the third afternoon, and assisting James Hamilton, dramatic tenor; in the evening, they will render standard works from the classical libraries as well as popular numbers. Mr. Mixer, violin soloist, is a pupil of Leopold Auer. He has wonderful technique and tone control, and his work has all the buoyancy and ardor of youth. Speaking of him, the Chicago "North Shore News" has said: "His playing proved to be the artistic feature. His tone is virile and warm; and both the selections and his interpretations of them were of such compelling interest that the audience was loath to part with him."

TAX TOTAL NEAR RECORD FIGURES

Only 20 per cent of $532,000 to be Collected is Entered on Books as Delinquent

Of the balance of approximately $532,000 left over to be collected under the second installment of taxes, a sum of $411,000 has been recorded in the county treasurer's office to date as having been paid in, leaving only about 20 per cent uncollected and delinquent. The amount paid in on the second installment, payments of which were received up to June 24, is said to be a record exceeding the amounts paid in recent years.

AWAIT ACTION OPENING WAY FOR ROAD PROJECT

Just a year ago at this time Twin Falls was entering on a period of still warmer weather. On July 3, 1922, high mark was 90 degrees, and on the glorious fourth the weather men kept pace with general celebration activities by advancing the temperature to exactly 100 degrees.

Complimenting her sister, Mrs. N. I. Crooks of Redding, Cal., Mrs. A. E. Slifer entertained the members of the Harmony club and a few other guests at a delightful bridge party Monday evening at her home on Third avenue north. The decorations were in keeping with the patriotic season. Flags, red, white and blue streamers and bunting, used in a most artistic arrangement, added to the attractiveness of the rooms. The two course luncheon served after the game also carried out the patriotic color.

Mrs. Harry Alexander entertained a few of the intimate friends of Miss Justice Ostrander with a "quilting bee" on Monday afternoon. All the guests worked on the quilt at some time during the afternoon and the remainder of the time was devoted to visiting. At a late hour the hostess served dairy refreshments. Mrs. Leland Shinn of Ellet, was an out-of-town guest. A profusion of beautiful dainties was used about the rooms.

On Friday afternoon of last week Mrs. Wendell Allen, who is at present in the Dr. Rich home in Ogden, was tendered a bridge party by Mrs. O. E. Wright, who is also visiting at the home of her parents, and Miss Gladys Titch.
