Farmer-Labor Delegates Balk at Platform Dictated by Workers' Party Leaders; Recess Staves Off Bolt

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—The Federated Farmer-Labor party with a platform under the leadership of the Workers' party, America, was born here tonight, but in which the farmer-labor party refused to participate. A substitute for the organization's platform was submitted by the caucus of the farmer-labor delegates, but provided no organization affiliated with the third international at Moscow could be agreeable to the party.

The caucus report offered the structure of the farmer-labor party as the basis of the new party organization, to be launched under its name, and to be open to affiliation by all groups whose doctrine did not advocate force and violence in obtaining control of political government. After it was voted down a motion was adopted to recess for the election of a national executive committee.

Glories in Radicalism

The substitute was feebly supported but elicited speeches of radical nature that repeatedly brought din to the conference, made up of delegates representing industrial and farm workers here meeting with the convention of the farmer labor party. E. Backus, newly arrived delegate from California, where he said he represented the Non-Partisan league, was among the first to get the floor. "I'm here to put in a glorious finish. I constituents will stand for a lot of red action."

CHICAGO, July 5. (AP)—The platform of the proposed Federated Farmer-Labor party, described as "too red, communist and bolshevik and too radical for even the radical state of Wisconsin" to accept, split the conference wide open today and it recessed for a night session in order to stave off the bolt of some farmer-labor delegates, ostensibly in their own convention. The recess was taken to permit a farmer-labor council to determine their further participation and action. At that time the Workers party of America, which C. E. Ruthenburg, one of its group leaders, said was a branch of the communist party, was in control of the conference. Jay G. Brown, national Farmer-Labor party, refused the platform for his organization.

Chicagoan Arranges Proposals

The organization committee composed of delegated reporting industrial workers, farmers and minority political parties, reported out a platform through Joseph Manly, New York, another workers' party delegate, which Ruthenburg said was signed by 23 of the 29 members. It was immediately attacked by the Illinois Farmer-Labor unit, but it was John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago delegation, who delivered the severe arraignment. "The Farmer-Labor party called this conference-convention in good faith, with a desire for principal unity" Fitzpatrick said. "But other groups invited here have taken advantage and injected a platform that if adopted will kill the farmer-labor party and mean death to the ambitions of the working class for twenty years as soon as it becomes known that the workers' party, a communist branch, is identified with the movement, it will be as the hammer men against us all. If William Z. Foster, Ruthenburg, Manly and the others believe they can attract union men and women to this platform they are mistaken. If those men really want to serve the cause they can do it best by picking up their tents and going on their way. The delegates who signed this platform were gagged and delivered to the organization committee."

Too Radical for Wisconsin

Chester C. Platt of the Non-partisan Wisconsin delegation, said that Wisconsin was the most radical platform suggested, "drafted by a party which I am told is a branch of the Third International," if put to Wisconsin organizations "would not be touched."

"And if you cannot suit the radical state of Wisconsin, you sign not (Continued on Page Five.)"

Price Commanded by Idaho Lambs Brings New Hope to Wool Growers

SALT LAKE, July 5. (AP)—Idaho lambs sold on the Chicago market Tuesday of this week at $11.15 a hundred pounds and the 4600 so sold averaged 71 pounds each," said E. J. Hagenbarth, president of the National Wool Growers' association, on his arrival here from his home at Spencer, Idaho. "That means about $11.47 a head, which we consider pretty good for spring lambs this early."

Mr. Hagenbarth is on his way to Flagstaff, Ariz., to attend a joint session of the Arizona Wool Growers' association and the Arizona Stockmen's association. The sessions begin next Monday and will continue until the work outlined has completed, although it is expected the program will be completed in two days. Mr. Hagenbarth left yesterday afternoon, going to Flagstaff by way of Los Angeles.

PAINTS EUROPE IN SOMBRE HUE

Senator Underwood Finds More Causes for War Abroad Now Than in January, 1914

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—More causes for war exist in Europe today than in January, 1914, Senator Underwood of Alabama, former democratic floor leader in the senate, declared today in a statement reviewing conditions as they found them during a trip abroad. While he contended the United States must aid Europe in adjusting its affairs, he asserted nothing in that direction could be accomplished by joining an international club of justice.

No reference was made in the statement to domestic politics, notwithstanding the senator's announcement before his departure for Europe that he would discuss the possibility of becoming a presidential candidate, as urged by his friends on his return.

War on Exhaustion

Declaring that nothing had been done by the United States to assist in the solution of European problems, Senator Underwood insisted that this country could not escape its obligations. If there is not war, he asserted, "it will be solely because Europe is financially and economically exhausted."

"We are not a party," he continued, "to the causes of the strife as they exist today in Europe, and theoretically, it certainly is not necessary for our country to become involved. We must remember that in 1914 when war broke out in Europe we stood for peace. In 1917 we made the war and today our soldiers were dying on the battlefield of Europe. I cannot believe that the people of America have forgotten their pledges to aid in securing the peace of the world; that they have forgotten that our men and women said we were fighting that we might make the world a better place in which to live."

Government's Tottering

Declaring that government abroad is almost as uncertain and insecure as the government in this country, the various governments were drifting "save their faces, without definite policies."

"Our governmental arm," the statement continued, "seems paralyzed so far as help in that direction is concerned. We seem to be standing in respect to the affairs of Europe without apology, without courage of conviction, without anything that goes to make a man a man, or a government a government. We seem to be just observing and drifting, at least so far as the public is allowed to know. We continue to drift down stream and the roar of the cataract can be heard ahead."

RUSSIANS AND JAPANESE BREAK OFF NEGOTIATION

Way to Resumption of Trade Relations Between Nippon and Soviet Seems Closed by Parties' Failure

TOKYO, July 5. (AP)—At the suggestion of both A. A. Joffe, envoy from Moscow, and Toshihiko Kawakami, delegate of the Japanese government, who have been carrying on diplomatic negotiations in London to pave the way for resumption of relations between Japan and Russia, conversations which were to have been held today have been called off. It is believed the Nikolaevsk-Saghalien question has brought about a deadlock.

BERLIN LIKELY TO PUT LIMITS TO RESISTANCE

BERLIN, July 5. (AP)—The German government is expected to issue forthwith a statement deprecating sabotage and all forms of active resistance in the Franco-Belgian occupied areas. Chancellor Cuno has been having discussions with Monsignor Pacelli, the papal nuncio, whom Pope Pius sent here from Munich to make intercessions upon the subject of the Ruhr campaign. The chancellor is understood to be most desirous that Germany's resistance in the occupied territories shall be strictly passive and in Reichstag circles it is fully expected that the government will make an announcement within the next 24 hours voicing its opposition to active resistance in any form against the French and Belgians in the occupied territory, emphasizing that deeds of this nature are likely to jeopardize Germany's interests abroad.

MOTORIZED BALLOON IS CALLED IN PLAY IN FIGHT ON MOTHS

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 5. (AP)—Manned by two aviators in federal service, a motorized balloon, of a new type, dropped upon the field of the aircraft corporation at Hammondport this afternoon, completing a journey from McCook field, Dayton, Ohio. The balloon is said to have made a record flight for this type of airship. It is to be used by the United States department of agriculture in an effort to fight the ravages of the gypsy moth.

Kansas Aviatix Finds Frostbites at High Altitude

ST. LOUIS, July 5. (AP)—Mrs. Bertha Herchem, professional aviatix, of Ranoom, Kansas established a new altitude record for women by ascending 16,300 feet at St. Louis aviation field late today. The previous record was 15,700 feet, and was made by Andreo Peyre, French woman flier, in California.

Officials at the field announced that the flight was official, being held under regulations of the National Aeronautical association. Mrs. Herchem was in the air two hours and eight minutes. When she descended she had to lift from the cockpit of her plane her hands and feet being frost-bitten, despite her wearing winter clothing. She was placed under the care of a physician.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 5. (AP)—Only four of the thirteen balloons which left Indianapolis late yesterday afternoon in the flight for distance, remained unharmed from or in the air at a late hour tonight. Nine of the participants in the race thus far have been heard from.

Britain Sees Debts as Factor in Situation

LONDON, July 5. (AP)—No fresh development in the Ruhr embroglio is expected before next week; the negotiations are supposed to be at a temporary standstill, but will likely be resumed at the week-end and it is still hoped that the French government will acquiesce in Lord Curzon's desire and give some sort of written reply to the British questionnaire. There is no hope, however, that the reply will be satisfactory to Great Britain, the amount expected being that an actual rupture of negotiations will be avoided. In the meantime some amelioration of the situation may be achieved through the mediatory tactics of the Italian government and the Vatican. Because of the composition of the (Continued on Page Five)

PRESIDENT ON BOARD SHIP TO VISIT ALASKA

Chief Executive and Mrs. Harding Leave Tacoma at End of Transcontinental Trip for Northland

TACOMA, Wash., July 5. (AP)—In the midst of the blaring of bands and the farwell, cheers of thousands of Tacoma citizens, President Harding sailed today for Alaska, the first executive of the nation to visit that territory since it came under the American flag 56 years ago.

A few minutes after 2 P. M. the scheduled hour of departure, the United States naval transport Henderson, which for the next 20 days will be in reality the White House, got underway, circled the harbor and steamed past the Tacoma stadium where a few minutes before the President and Mrs. Harding had received the God speed of Governor Hart of Washington, and where the president had declared for an American merchant marine second to none.

As the big transport swung by the stadium those who had assembled there to hear the president speak, stood and cheered. Mr. and Mrs. Harding acknowledged the cheers and waved farewell from the bridge until distance made them only indistinct figures to those on shore.

Realizing Ambition

The president, as he boarded the vessel, was in a unusually happy frame of mind, pleased by the reception given him in Tacoma, glad to obtain a few days of rest after the 33-day transcontinental trip, and overjoyed by the prospect of realizing the ambition he had held since the President had entered the White House—an ambition to visit the great northern territory and obtain first hand information with respect to its problems.

Two Days of Steady Sailing Lay Ahead

The first stop will be made at Ketchikan either late Friday or early Saturday, and after a stay there the Henderson will go on to Wrangell, arriving there to spend Sunday, according to tentative schedule. To Penetrate Interior. The arrival at Juneau, the territorial capital, has been fixed for July 10, and three days later the party will start on the interior survey which is devoted to the trip up the Alaskan railroad to Anchorage, Chitkaok, Nenana and Fairbanks, within 200 miles of the Arctic circle. At the Tenana river bridge at Nonana, the president will drive the golden spike symbolizing completion of the railroad, contracted for by the government to provide an outlet for the rich interior district. The return trip southward will be made by motor over the Richardson trail connecting the Copper river and Northwestern railroad at Chitka with the arrival at Cordova scheduled for July 19. Sitka will be reached two days later and then the chief executive will bid farewell to the territory and sail for Vancouver, B. C., and Seattle. Cabinet Members in Party. The president was accompanied by the three members of his cabinet whose departments are most entirely interested in Alaska. They are Secretary Hoover of the commerce department, Secretary Work of the interior department and Secretary Wallace of the agriculture department. Also in the party are Speaker Gillett of the house, and Director Grealey of the forest service. Mr. and Mrs. Harding had a busy four hours in Tacoma before they sailed. Arriving here about 10 o'clock, they held a public reception at their hotel, visited a hospital to greet soldier patients, and attended the farwell ceremonies held at the stadium. "Tomorrow, Mr. President," the governor said, "with what feelings of elation and anxiety the people of the great empire of the north await your coming. What a thrill must have come to the hardy men and women of Alaska and their children, when the news, 'the president is coming,' was flashed by radio, or carried by dog train through the mining camps, the valley farms and the fishing towns of the great north country." # SMYRNA RISING OUT OF RUINS LEFT BY FIRE

Americans See Turkish Effort to Give Lie to Prediction That City Would not be Rebuilt

SMYRNA, July 5, (AP)—After ten months of death-like stillness which followed the devastating fire, Smyrna has taken on a new lease of life. Quay Street, which skirts the waterfront, has been cleared of debris and the familiar one-horse trams are running. Two moving picture concerns which feature American films are operating conveniently near the spot where passenger ships tie up. Turkish newsboys cry out a two-page edition of a daily French propaganda paper, and the cafes are running full blast. The American flag is still flying from the quay, but is in a new place. It was removed from the burning consulate at the height of the fire in September, 1922, and again when the temporary consulate was destroyed by a blaze several months ago.

American tobacco men who have straggled back to Smyrna have been surprised at the commercial activity of the city. Exports of figs, raisins and tobacco have revived in a small degree, and some steel rails and building materials are being imported. The Turks, the Americans say, are making a big effort to give the lie to those who prophesied Smyrna would remain a dead city under their rule. In this the Turks are being assisted by a generous sprinkling of Dutch, the oldest of the western colonies in Smyrna before the fire, and Italians, a new importation, who are jealous of French efforts to capture the trade of the once important community and principal outlet for the riches of Asia Minor.

Ten months ago there were 200,000 Greeks in Smyrna and another 150,000 in the flourishing hinterland. Today the only Greeks in Smyrna are prisoners of war working under the lash of dark-skinned Turkish communists and officers, and guarded by Turkish privates with long-bayoneted rifles. Carrying steel rails with their bare hands from ships in the harbor, and clearing debris from the narrow, winding streets emerging from the waterfront are their chief labors. They look cowed and tired. They work from daybreak until darkness and get a small ration of bread, olives and Turkish coffee. France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Bolshevik Russia maintain energetic consulates and trade representatives. The entire British colony has deserted the city.

American destroyers and United States Shipping Board steamers call here regularly. Uncle Sam's freighters, are capturing most of the cargo business in the Mediterranean from the British, French and Italians. Passengers and crews on all boats entering Smyrna Bay are required to wear lifebelts because of the menacing minefields laid by the Turks. A Turkish tugboat leads the American destroyers through the lane of mines. Antipathy toward foreigners has not been wholly removed, the passengers are not permitted to land. American bluejackets, however, are always welcome, because the Turks have not forgotten how splendidly they behaved when the city was in flames.

President E. H. Fitzgerald, of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and Freight Handlers, Express and Station employes, has filed the necessary submissions, all requiring an increase in wages. Most of the carriers involved are short line railroads.

Christian Endeavor Convention Receives Resolutions Pledging Aid to Dry Forces

DES MOINES, July 5.—Resolutions were introduced at tonight's session of the 20th International Christian Endeavor convention commending President Harding for his support of Volstead Act and pledging support to candidates for public offices and to the Eighteenth Amendment, and the party that make unequivocal commitments to their enforcement.

The resolution was introduced at the instance of the executive committee of the United Society of Christian Endeavor under whose auspices the convention is being held.

The text of the statement follows: "Prohibition has vindicated itself. In spite of great handicaps, its beneficial effects are now apparent in the steadily declining death rate as revealed in the bulletins of life-insurance companies, in the 74 percent decrease in drink cases with their attendant problems coming to charity organizations, and in the growing moral tone of our community life.

"The great cities on our far-reaching coast lines and wide extending international boundaries, present serious difficulties in law-enforcement and cannot now be expected to reflect the prohibition sentiment of the nation. For some time to come they will continue to deceive themselves and our visitors from other lands, who would rejoice in the repudiation of national prohibition.

See Increasing Benefits "Even these vast cosmopolitan communities record unmistakable benefits accruing from the closing of saloons and bars—benefits that will increase steadily with the strengthening of the spirit and agencies of law-enforcement.

Speak for Four Million
"Speaking for four million enrolled young people, citizens and citizens-to-be we further declare that no candidate for public office and that no political party, failing to make such unequivocal commitment, has the right to expect or will receive our support and vote.

"We believe that total abstinence is the only consistent attitude for a Christian and that the agitation for a modification of the Volstead act to legalize light wines and beers is a subterfuge and a bid; those who advocate it now were but a short time since the stalwart defense of the open saloon and the liquor traffic. It is a dishonest issue.
"As the ultimate solution of the liquor problem for this nation was national prohibition, for which Christian Endeavor declared in 1911 with its militant slogan, 'A Saloonless Nation by 1920,' so the ultimate solution of the problem for all nations is world-wide prohibition. We here affirm our declaration of 1919, for 'A Saloonless World,' and pledge the full strength of our movement to the achievement of this high goal."

Anti-Saloon League Attorney Sees No Chance for Smith or Edwards to Land Democratic Nomination

DES MOINES, July 4, (AP)—Wayno B. Senator Couzens' proposed modification of the prohibition laws could not pass, he asserted.

MEDIOCRE GAME IS WON BY ELKS

Poorly Played Contest Fails to Arouse Interest When Antlered Herd Win 16 to 4

Jerry Jarman blowed forth last evening as a pitcher, and bent the Bankers, 16 to 4, in five innings of the poorest baseball seen in Twin Falls this season.

Jerry used nothing but a fast one, mixing in a little curve once when a hit meant a run, the result being that the Bankers failed to get a man across the plate until the Elks had gathered 16 runs.

Walter Kregel opposed Jarman, and received one of the sweetest lambastings of his young life, particularly in the fourth, when the Elks chased nine men across the plate.

The feature of the game was the batting of Thomas. This clever batsman smashed out four clean hits in four trips to the plate, driving in seven runs.

The Elks scored three in the first, three in the second, one in the third, and then the big fourth, when nine of the antlered herd were across the plate.

The Bankers were all-pies before the pitching of Jerry Jarman in the first four frames, and after he had the game sewed up with a triple by Carlos Linville, and two two-base hits, one by Klefner, which hit the top of the left field fence, and the other by Jamison, coupled with a triple by Carlos Linville, and followed by an error and a hit, netted the Bankers their four coupers.

Timekeeper Says Gibbons Was Hurt by Foul Blows

GLACIER PARK, Mont., July 5 (AP)—Richard T. Burke, of New Orleans, who acted as official timekeeper for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, today made the statement that as a result of Dempsey's low body blows, Tom Gibbons bears on his groins black and blue marks as large as a man's hand.

Burke said he did not believe Dempsey intentionally fouled Gibbons.

The only words spoken by the combatants during the fight were uttered by Gibbons, Timekeeper Burke said. It was in one of the early rounds and Gibbons, while exchanging blows with Dempsey, addressed himself to his opponent, saying "Jack, get 'em up." He was referring to three or four body blows struck in the groin, Burke explained.

"I saw Gibbons this morning before I left for Glacier park," Burke went on, "and Tommy showed me the black and blue marks on his groin. I immediately said, 'Why, Tom, the press ought to know about this,' whereupon Gibbons beseeched me not to tell the newspaper men. 'I don't have to have any nibble in this fight,' Gibbons said."

GIBBONS' HOME TOWN PLANS GREAT WELCOME

Governor, Mayor and Other High Officials to Greet Returning Pugilist at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, July 5, (AP)—A big parade with several bands, hundreds of automobiles and other features is being planned as part of the St. Paul welcome to Tommy Gibbons when the local fighter returns Saturday morning from Shelby, where he was defeated by Jack Dempsey yesterday.

This was part of tentative program announced tonight by a group of St. Paul citizens. Final plans will be completed tomorrow.

Governor J. A. O. Prouss, of Minnesota, Mayor Arthur E. Nelson of St. Paul, and other high officials have signified their intention of taking part in the welcome.

One of those, who it is reported, plan to greet Tommy will be his famous brother, Mike, who taught Tommy much he knows of the fight game. The two had a quarrel several years ago and since neither has spoken to the other. The cause of their dispute never has been made public.

Reports from Shelby today said that Tommy had received a letter from Mike in which "The Phantom" was quoted as expressing his regret at his inability to attend his brother's clash with Dempsey, but declaring "I'll be on my knees praying that you win."

BEHIND THE SCENES

The poorest game of the season.

If the different members of the teams don't show up the Twilight league will go up in smoke.

True, the crowds are rather disappointing, and ball players don't like to play to empty benches, but if every ball player gets to the park in time, the fans will start coming.

Several fans went to considerable expense getting the fence put up, and it is up to the rest of the fans to see them through.

It is a pity that a town the size of Twin Falls can't support a Twilight league, when there are so many good players here who are more than willing to do their share, providing the fans do theirs.

The Electricians and the Bankers play Tuesday evening, and it is hoped that every fan in the town turns out, and help the Twilight league get on its feet.

Never let it be said that Twin Falls ever started anything that it couldn't finish.

Heads up, and let's go.

DRY LAW ISSUE AT CONVENTION

Christian Endeavor Delegates Hear British Ship Owners Denounced by Countryman

DES MOINES, July 5 (AP)—Prohibition was the dominant issue before tonight's session of the International Christian Endeavor convention here.

Political support of candidates and parties that manifest their friendliness toward the cause was pledged in some of the resolutions adopted, and praise for President Harding's stand on the question was voiced in another.

Before acting on the resolutions, the delegates heard the Rev. Lionel Fletcher of London, president of the British Christian Endeavor union, denounce British shipowners for failure to cooperate with the United States authorities in enforcing the three-mile liquor regulations.

During the day, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the Anti-Saloon league, renewed his attack on individuals who he declared were endeavoring to nullify the prohibition enforcement laws and asserted the "refusal of New York to aid in enforcing the Volstead act had greatly strengthened the prohibition forces because the public realized the move was an attempt to undermine the constitution."

England Misrepresented.

"Do not judge Britain by the fleet of ships that is trying to run liquor into your country," said the Rev. W. S. Fletcher in his address tonight. "I, as the representative of the British Christian Endeavor and representing hundreds of thousands of other British Christians, assure you that we feel contempt for every man who gets money from this thing. The day is coming when there will arise such a public spirit of indignation against it, that politicians who do not strive to prevent violation of the laws of our kindfolk in America, will have to face the anger of an awakened people."

Although the liquor interest is rich enough to fill British newspaper columns with lies concerning the failure of prohibition in America, it is not rich enough to buy the good will of the great Christian community of Great Britain.

Prohibitionists of England are

PRESIDENT ON BOARD

The president's address was well received and his references to the program for elimination of the 12-hour day in the steel industry was roundly applauded. He was again applauded when, departing from his prepared address, he expressed the hope that the maiden voyage of the reconstructed steamship Leviathan, which sailed yesterday from New York in the trans-Atlantic service of the shipping board, would "establish a new oceanic record and furnish the impetus to a revival of the independence of the American marine on the seas of the world."

HARDING GIVEN PLEDGE TO END LONG WORK DAY

President, in Tacoma Speech, Gives Correspondence with Directors of Iron and Steel Institute

TACOMA, Wash., July 5 (AP)—President Harding made public here today the correspondence between himself and the directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and, in a state manner, incorporated as a part of his address here, among the larger majority of the United States. He has undertaken to abolish the twelve hour day in the American steel industry at the earliest moment that the additional labor required shall be available.

The letter to President Harding, signed by Elmer H. Gary, John A. Toppling, W. A. Rogers, W. H. Conner, W. J. Filbert, E. A. S. Clarke, James A. Farrell, E. C. Greco, Willis L. King, James A. Burden, L. K. Black, Severin P. Keor, J. A. Campbell, A. C. Dinkey and Charles M. Schwab of the American Iron and Steel Institute, follows: "Careful consideration has been given to your letter of June 15th instant by the undersigned directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute, comprising all of those whose attendance could be secured at this time."

"Undoubtedly there is a strong sentiment throughout the country in favor of eliminating the twelve hour day, and this we do not underestimate. On account of this sentiment, and especially because it is in accordance with your own expressed views, we are determined to exert every effort at our command to secure in the iron and steel industry of this country a total abolition of the twelve hour day at the earliest time practicable. This means the employment of large numbers of workmen on an eight-hour basis and all others on a basis of ten hours or less. Without an unjustifiable interruption to operations the change cannot be effected overnight. It will involve many adjustments, some of them complicated and difficult, but we think it can be brought about without undue delay when, as you state it, there is a surplus of labor available. The iron and steel manufacturers generally of the United States, outside of the directors referred to, are expected to concur in the conclusion reached by the directors as above stated."

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. McCORMICK

Widow of Inventor of Grain Reaper, Social Leader and Philanthropist, is Dead

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, widow of Cyrus Hall McCormick, Sr., the inventor of the grain reaper, died today at her home at Lake Forest, of acute bronchitis. She was 83 years old.

Age and years of delicate health combined to bring a quick culmination to her recent illness, which lasted only a week, death coming at 11 o'clock this morning.

Three of her children, Cyrus H. McCormick, Jr., Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Emmons Blaine were at her bedside when she died. Two other children, Stanley of Tarrytown, N. Y., and Miss Virginia, are returning to Chicago from California.

The elder Mrs. McCormick, one of the best of the old generation of social leaders in Chicago, was known not only for her participation in society events which continued even to within a few weeks of her death, but for her large contributions to philanthropy. Her contributions to further foreign educational and missionary work had made her known internationally.

Possibly her most outstanding gift to foreign education was that of a group of buildings to the Shantung Christian university at Tsingtau, Shantung, and the University of Nanking, at Nanking, China, universities supported by the American Presbyterian board. She is said to have given more to the Presbyterian church than any other citizen of the United States.

British cabinet, Premier Baldwin, even if he so desired, would find it difficult to initiate any separate action aimed against France. Nevertheless, the premier's view is believed to be that the problem, so far as England is concerned, turns largely on the question of interrelated debt and the necessity of securing through reparations agreement, such payment from Germany as would cover the amount of Great Britain's yearly payments to the United States.

In this connection, importance is attributed to Mr. Baldwin's statement in the house of commons yesterday as indicating that he regards Great Britain still free to propose some settlement of the allied indebtedness which would be based upon some reparations settlement, whereby Germany would agree to pay sufficient to cover Great Britain's yearly indebtedness to the United States, or, in other words, to trade French indebtedness to England against part of Germany's indebtedness to France.

This supposed prediction on the part of the prime minister is said to be shared by Reginald McKenna, who it is generally supposed, will enter the British cabinet soon as chancellor of the exchequer. But it is quite certain that Mr. Baldwin would meet with strong opposition among his own colleagues, such as Lord Derby, should he propose to negotiate directly with Germany.

SONS DROWN WHILE FATHER ATTEMPTS TO SAVE GIRL

MARYSVILLE, Cal., July 5 (AP)—While attempting to rescue a Miss Wilson of San Francisco, from drowning, Kenneth and Keith Torrey, 10 years old twins, were drowned in Lake Francis yesterday. Their father, thinking his sons would be able to make shore safely, left them and rescued Miss Wilson.

The great Chicago fire in 1871 destroyed the McCormick works and wrecked much other property in which her husband had invested. The plant was rebuilt and the industry continued to prosper.

The McCormick theological seminary is one of the principal monuments of her generosity, while hospitals, schools and charitable institutions in every quarter of the globe have benefited by her contributions.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

RAILWAY VALUE HEARING THEME

Commission Hears Views on Methods of Prosecuting Task, Now Nearing End

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Arguments on the general principles involved in the federal valuation of railroads—now nearing completion—opened today before the interstate commerce commission with an attack on the methods of the commission in arriving at its conclusions by D. R. Richberg, counsel for the National Conference of American Railroad Valuation. He was followed by J. J. Farrell, solicitor for the commission in a defense of its valuation conclusions.

Mr. Richberg's chief contention was that the commission was bound to assert and use, in placing a value on railroads, estimates of the actual investment made in acquiring and constructing transportation properties. Where books are not available or are untrustworthy as to these figures, he said, the commission should assemble engineering experts to determine actual costs.

Two Months to Final End. "Are you aware of the fact," Chairman Meyer asked, "that in our valuation department we have accumulated a good deal of evidence as to the cost to date of railroad construction and that when reproduction costs as of the date 1914 are estimated, the two figures are very similar?"

"But if the commission is going to consider reproduction costs at all," Mr. Richberg responded, "it must consider the courts have ruled, the present costs of reproduction as they stand on the increased price levels of 1922 and 1923, not as costs of reproduction in 1914 would have been."

"That question will be considered when the problem of bringing valuations up to date is attacked," Chairman Meyer remarked.

"No," Mr. Richberg insisted, "we consider that the commission will obey the courts in construction of its valuation data. Observe then where we shall be left; we shall have here a figure representing the cost of reproducing roads on the price basis of 1922 and 1923. From that tremendously enhanced level of 1922 cost, we will be impelled even to see the much smaller figure of the actual investment that was made in constructing roads when they were made."

"Unless the commission ascertains what that original investment was, we shall be left totally without evidence to protect the public interest against the attempt to build up great figures of capital investment on which the public will be required to furnish an annual return."

Some Elusive Facts. Solicitor Farrell argued that the element of cost to date never could be established as a fact. Some data as to actual investment made by original railroad builders would be helpful he conceded, but not of final importance in swaying a commission.

ETHEL BARRYMORE SUES FOR DIVORCE

ETHEL BARRYMORE, one of the most famous American actresses, has filed suit in Providence, Rhode Island, for a divorce from Russell G. Colt, her multi-millionaire husband, from whom she has been separated since 1920. They have three children. The couple were married in 1906.

conclusion as to the value of a railroad. In the passage of years, Mr. Farrell said, some railroad road beds and equipment have worn out requiring replacements. In the corporate care of the roads, receiverships and reorganizations have been frequent, most of them winding up by the exchange of new securities of various types. The value of such securities, though constituting a real investment in a railroad, he contended, never could be ascertained.

Expenditures for purchases of railroad lands, Mr. Farrell said could be determined but in the main, he added, the situation is one in which the commission "could not even find a reasonable foundation" for an estimate as to capital invested in the creation of railroads.

with another state in the union," he added. Foster was given the biggest ovation of the day when he spoke for the platform, but it was a brief talk and confined to an urging that it be adopted. The principal obstruction to the goal of the class movement was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, he asserted.

Objects to Competition

Brown accepted that part of the platform which declared that he would face the producers; but based his objections on the fact that the platform set up a new party with a new constitution competitive to that of the already organized farmer-labor party, that the proposed title was too many words to be placed upon the ballot in many states and that it put to a vote of the farmer-labor party it would be rejected.

Rathenburgh took issue with his arguments by charging the farmer-labor party with bad faith and that it was afraid of the response and sentiment that would be the result of their invitation to meet with them in equivalent to reach a political unity.

"The platform we recommend, even though charged with being 'red, bolshevik, ultra-radical,' is hard for us, the communists, to swallow," Rathenburgh declared. "We have made concessions to some groups, but we have been unable to get a statement as to what the farmer-labor group will support. They are afraid to go ahead now that the moment is here for action. They called us politicians, yet they are near revolt."

William F. Dunne, of Butte, Mont., representing the trades council; A. J. Polhaus of Cincinnati, of the machinists, and representatives of farmer-labor organizations in Ohio, Oklahoma and Washington, supported the platform, which disclosed a friction between the national officers and the state bodies.

Would Nationalize Utilities

The platform declares the party to be formed to "wrest control of the government from the hands of the financial and industrial masters who have amassed fortunes under the two major political parties at the expense and well-being of the industrial workers and farmers."

It consists of 16 planks, which are proposed as follows: Nationalizing of all public utilities. Operation of industries on a basis of workers and farmers increasing control of management and operations through their own economic organizations.

Maximum security against destitution, unemployment, sickness and high prices.

Governmental enactment of a maximum of an eight-hour workday in industry, making violation a criminal offense.

Governmental enactment of a law making the federal reserve board serve the farmers and workers.

Child labor laws, limiting employment to children over 18 years of age.

A soldier bonus to be raised through the levying of inheritance taxes, excess profits, surtaxes and taxes on unearned incomes.

Enactment of a social insurance law, funds for which are to be raised through taxation similar to that of the soldier bonus.

Enactment of a maternity insurance law, which would provide full trade union wage compensation to all prospective mothers one month before and after the birth of the child.

Establishment of a minimum living wage for all workers.

Important alike as an aid to national defense in time of war and national prosperity in time of peace is the proposal of the War Department for the creation of a super-power system...

The movement assumes particular importance at this time in view of the South's absorbed interest in hydro-electric development...

The last decades have witnessed tremendous strides in the matter of transportation, communication and mass production of commodities.

The War Department is primarily interested in national defense, and it is obviously important. As a nation, however, we should hope that the opportunities which its survey may reveal along other lines will not be neglected.

MOTORS AND EVOLUTION

Roger T. Babson suggests various changes not often thought of that are likely to come with the general use of the automobile.

There is a change already in the industrial balance because of the fact that people are buying automobiles instead of other things. That means readjustment along many lines.

Less money is going to be spent on clothing, he says, and the kind of clothing will change. There will be new diets, for people who ride will not require the same food as people who walk.

Business men who understand the new drift and prepare for it are going to make a lot of money in new ways.

She felt rather than saw Julius throw a sideways glance at her. "Say, shall we go for a spin in the park?"

"If you like." For a while they ran on under the trees in silence. It was a beautiful day. The keen rush through the air brought a new exhilaration to Tuppence.

"Say, Miss Tuppence, do you think I'm ever going to find Jane?" Julius spoke in a discouraged voice. The mood was so alien to him that Tuppence turned and stared at him in surprise. He nodded.

"That's so. I'm getting down and out over the business. Sir James today hadn't got my home at all. I could see that. I don't like him—we don't see together somehow—but he's pretty cute, and I guess he wouldn't quit if there was any chance of success now, would he?"

"Tuppence felt rather uncomfortable. But clinging to her belief that Julius also had withheld something from her, she remained firm. "He suggested advertising for the nurse," she reminded him.

"Yes, with a 'foreign home' favor to his office. No—I'm about fed up. I've half a mind to go back to the States right away." "Oh, no!" cried Tuppence. "We've got to find Tommy."

"I sure forgot Berezford," said Julius contritely. "That's so. We must find him. But after—well, I've been day-dreaming ever since I started on this trip—and these dreams are rotten poor business. I'm quit of them. Say, Miss Tuppence, there's something I'd like to ask you."

"You and Berezford. What about it?" "I don't understand you," replied Tuppence with dignified frowning lips. "And, anyway, you're wrong."

"Not just a sort of kindly feeling for one another?" "Certainly not," said Tuppence with warmth. "Tommy and I are friends—nothing more."

"Now, let's get down to this. Supposing we never find Berezford and—?" "All right—say it! Can face facts. Supposing he's dead! Well?"

"And all this business dodges out. What are you going to do?" "I don't know," said Tuppence forlornly. "You'll be darned lonesome, you poor kid."

"I shall be all right," snapped Tuppence with her usual resentment of any kind of pity. "What about marriage?" inquired Julius. "Got any views on the subject?"

"I intend to marry, of course," replied Tuppence. "That is, if—she paused, knew a momentary longing to draw back, and then stuck to her guns bravely—"I can find someone rich enough to make it worth my while. That's frank isn't it? I dare say you despise me for it."

"I never despise business instinct," said Julius. "What particular figure have you in mind?" "Figure?" asked Tuppence, puzzled. "Do you mean tall or short?"

"No. I'm— Income." "Oh, I—haven't worked that out yet." "What about me?" "You?" "Sure thing." "Why not?" "Why not?" "It would seem so unfair."

"I don't see anything unfair about it. I call your bluff, that's all. I admit you immensely. Miss Tuppence more than any girl I've ever met. You're so darned puzzled. I'd just love to give you a real rattling good time. Say the word, and we'll run round right away to some high-class jeweler, and fix up the ring business."

"Because of Berezford?" "No, no, no." "Well, then?" "Tuppence merely continued to shake her head violently. "You can't reasonably expect more dollars than I've got."

"Very well," said Tuppence meekly. Neither of them spoke again until they reached the Ritz. "Tuppence went upstairs to her room. She felt morally battered to the ground after her conflict with Julius' vigorous personality. Sitting down in front of the glass, she stared at her own reflection for some minutes.

"What?" murmured Tuppence at length, making up a grudge. "Little fool. Everything you want—everything you've ever hoped for, and you go and blurt out 'no' like an idiotic little sheep. It's your one chance. Why don't you take it. Grab it! Snatch at it! What more do you want?"

As if in answer to her own question, her eyes fell on a small snapshot of Tommy that stood on her dressing-table in a slinky frame. For a moment she struggled for self-control; and then abandoning all pretense, she held it to her lips and burst into a fit of sobbing.

"Oh, Tommy, Tommy," she cried. "I do love you so—and I may never see you again."

At the end of five minutes Tuppence sat up, blew her nose, and pushed back her hair. "That's that," she observed sternly. "Let's have done with the face. I seem to have fallen in love—with an idiot of a boy who probably doesn't care two straws about me." Here she paused. "Anyway," she resumed, as though arguing with an unseen opponent, "I don't know that he does. He's never here dated to say so. I've always jumped on sentiments—and here I am being more sentimental than anybody. What idiots girls are! I've always thought so. I suppose I shall sleep with his photograph under my pillow, and dream about him all night. It's dreadful to feel you've been false to your principles."

Tuppence shook her head sadly, as she reviewed her backsliding. "I'm sure, now what to fool I feel I'll have to say something—he's so American and thorough, he'll insist upon having a reason. I wonder if he did find anything in that sense."

Tuppence's meditations went off on another tack. She reviewed the events of last night carefully and persistently. Somehow, they seemed bound up with Sir James' enigmatical world.

Suddenly she gave a great start—the color faded out of her face. Her eyes, staring, gazed in front of her, the pupils dilated.

"Impossible," she murmured. "Impossible! I must be going mad even to think of such a thing. Monstrous—yet it explained everything."

After a moment's reflection she sat down to write a note, weighing each word as she wrote it. Finally she nodded her head as though satisfied, and slipped it into an envelope, which she addressed to Julius. She went down the passage to his sitting-room and knocked at the door. As she had expected the room was empty. She left the note on the table.

A small page-boy was waiting outside her own door when she returned to it. "Telegram for you, Miss."

Tuppence took it from the servant, and tore it open carefully. Then she gave a cry. The telegram was from Tommy!

MADE GOD 'SPEAK'

Chinese "Talking Idol" Really Ingenious Deception.

Fraud Revealed During the Boxer Uprising—Grecks Had Worked Out the Same Idea.

Idolatry, chicanery and deception always seem to go hand in hand together and from the remotest antiquity the Chinese, Egyptians, Hindus, Greeks and Romans introduced deceptions of various kinds into their forms of worship in order to strengthen their grip upon the people and play upon the instinctive superstition of mankind.

In ruins of temples of ancient Egypt have been found huge statues of Isis and Osiris containing wonderful contrivances worked by the priests in the prosecution of their deceptive religious rites.

The same desire manifests itself in modern idolatry. During the Boxer uprising in China many of the temples were despoiled by the invading European armies. Costly ornaments, gorgeous trappings, and even the idols themselves were removed and shipped away as "souvenirs" of the occasion. Of many strange things revealed, none was quite so remarkable as the "Talking Idol," whose secret was discovered for the first time by the invaders.

The idol stood in a rather remote Chinese temple and occupied a place of honor upon a raised platform in a large room. Outwardly, it resembled many of the other idols, but it possessed some peculiarities which, when used on several occasions, began heard to address the worshippers as they bowed before it. It had spoken in a deep voice, and had bestowed a brief blessing upon those fortunate enough to be present.

For this reason the idol was looked upon with special awe and when the "foreign devils" entered the temple the natives fully expected to see them struck dead by the outraged image.

But, instead, the temple was ransacked and the long-guarded secret of the idol's power was revealed.

A thick wall was built directly behind the platform on which the idol stood. The head of the idol was hollow, and from a hole in the rear of the head, a tube ran through the wall into a concealed compartment. The tube was removable, and when the hole was closed the idol stood for months at a time, devoid of its miraculous power. But when the time came once again to console the people, the idol heard their prayers, the pipe line was fitted on, and the image would make its annual speech.

At the time of the invasion by European troops the speaking tube was fitted on, ready for use. Experiment proved that any one speaking from the hidden compartment in clear tones, the words seeming to come from the idol itself. By a peculiar hollowing of the head, the voice was deepened in sound, so that with a bass voice speaking through the tube, the words of the "idol" had a awe-inspiring tone.

During the temple sites, one of the Chinese priests evidently served as "volunteer" for the idol.

The "Talking Idol" was merely a modern employment of a principle well known to the ancients. Greek temples have been discovered with tubes passing from a central compartment to all parts of the building, so that a single voice could be clearly heard at once. It is probable that the Chinese devised the "miracle" themselves, as they could have had no knowledge of the methods of the ancients.

Fish Cooked by Volcano. Fish rarely cooked have recently come to the attention of the U. S. Geol. Surv. on Lake Lucera, near the north shore of the Gulf of Naples. The fish were at first eagerly collected by the Italian fishermen, who anticipated a hearty meal without the trouble of preparation.

Government authorities, however, forbade the collection of the fish, fearing that they had been poisoned by an eruption of gases. The lake is said to have been formed by volcanic action and the belief is held that poisonous gases forced up from the volcanic bottom had made the water boiling and had cooked the fish.

Lucera was famous in Roman days for its fish shell-fish, but the whole region is more or less subject to volcanic disturbance. The neighboring waters of Lacus Anemus were regarded by the ancients as the entrance of the infernal regions.

Mr. Gloom Wants Much. E. W. Howe, in his Monthly, rejoices in the discovery of a library paste that will remain moist and serviceable clear to the time the last bit is brushed from the bottle. J. Fuller Gloom doesn't say there is any such paste. "Oh, yes, there is," he says, "I've made it up of a substance that evaporates slowly, and the bottle is equipped with a light-fitting cover that makes evaporation practically negligible."

"Oh, ho," said Mr. Gloom. "So you have to keep it covered, do you?" "I've got to wear it myself, Mrs. O'Brien."

"Eh, you wouldn't be workin' it out when it looks so much loakin' rats, would you?"—Boston Evening Transcript.

On Love Culture.

Bernhardt's beautiful voice was one of her chief charms, and to the woman who would take up voice culture she said: "Voice is a charm whose subtlest note is the power. It does not matter how large the throat is, or how many notes one sets out to sing, or how wide the chest, or how stout the lungs, will be of one's strongest weapons. To be pleasing a woman must know how to use her voice."

For Furniture Designers. A recent exhibition of old-American furniture contained a rocking chair of the Windsor type which had a drawer under its seat. Why not popularize this idea in chairs built today for the diminutive home whose just boast, "I am easy to take care of," sometimes calls forth the answer, "No, yes, but where shall I put my things while I do it?"

Fidelity Above Everything. Nothing is more noble, nothing more venerable than fidelity. Faithfulness and truth are the most sacred excellencies, and the ornaments of the human mind.—Cleora.

GRAIN UNDERGOES DECLINE

Increasing Movement of New Wheat Crop and Favorable Condition for Corn and Oats Cause Downturns

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Grain underwent a material decline in price today owing more or less to the increasing movement of the new wheat crop and as a result of favorable conditions for the growth of corn and oats. December corn and all deliveries of oats touched a new low price record for the season, wheat closed here, 7 1/4 to 1 1/4 cents not lower, with July and September both 1.02 1/4 to 1.03 3/8.

Some finish at 1 1/4 decline to a shade advance, and oats 3/4 to 1 1/2 to 1 1/2 to 1 5/8 off. In provisions the outcome was 10 to 12 cents to 27 cents advance.

Except for a brief time in the wheat, trading lacked volume, and prices faded in the absence of any particular demand. Lack of sustained buying interest on the part of speculators was especially apparent. An unexpected return in Liverpool quotations was chiefly responsible for a little-increased strength here, and it was said also that conditions likely to promote black root were prevalent in the domestic spring wheat belt.

Lowest prices of the day were reached in the wheat market; during the late dealings with no aggressive support in evidence and with early buyers selling out.

Liquidations on the part of holders led to something of a flurry in corn and oats near the end of the day. Bidders, who quickly entered, were apparently momentarily shamed a drop of 4 cents from the opening.

Provisions were higher in line with hog values.

The increase in the Bank of England's discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent, the apparent Franco-Belgian impasse over the Ruhr problem, and further action in Gulf Coast crude oil and lead prices accounted, in part, for the pessimistic movement of the opening.

NOTED EXPERTS LAUD DAIRYING OPPORTUNITIES

Predict Fame for Twin Falls District if Natural Advantages are Developed; Party is Taken on Automobile Trip

Although the addresses and demonstrations given at parish hall Thursday afternoon by the authorities who accompanied the United States special dairy train to Idaho were of tremendous value, probably the most significant phase of the event was the fact that the party, members of which are nationally known among dairymen, placed the stamp of approval on the Twin Falls district and classified this locality as having natural advantages that will place it at the top of the list of dairying districts if properly developed.

The train arrived here early in the afternoon and the dairy lectures were held at parish hall before a well sized and very appreciative audience, after which the prize winning dairy cattle, some of which hold world championships, were demonstrated in front of the hall.

Members of the party were told by local men of the dairying facilities, the natural crop growing advantages and other superior points of the Twin Falls district but it required an automobile trip to convince the experts of the truth of the statements.

Take Auto Trip. As the special was scheduled to arrive at Buhl at 5 p. m. the personnel was taken in an overland trip in automobiles to the center of the west and Shafter. On the trip they saw some of the quality Jersey herds of S. H. Kayler's Boss Lawn dairy ranch and a part of the visiting group was taken to the J. A. Waters ranch to view the Guernsey herds, some animals in this herd have been imported from Guernsey, Iowa.

The result of the inspections of the dairy ranches and farms along the line and seeing at first hand, what intensive methods here are being pursued with record results, elicited from the visitors expressions of amazement. What seemed to appeal to them most was the fact that large herds of dairy cattle can be kept on tracts of a fraction of the size of the average amount of land required for the same sized herd in Minnesota or Wisconsin. They showed special interest in the J. J. Shafter farm and a herd of a half of 35 Jerseys and several herds of horned are being maintained at a profit on 40 acres and all feed required being raised on that acreage.

Praises District. W. A. von Berg, representative of the Wisconsin State Bankers' association, who is making the trip with the special, stated that the Twin Falls district has by far the best dairying possibilities of any district seen along the route of the special.

The list of experts accompanying the special train includes W. L. Baird, secretary of the Waukegan (Wisconsin) County Holstein Breeders' association; E. F. Sheridan of the American Guernsey Cattle club; E. M. Long, National Holstein association; J. C. Robinson, president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association; L. L. Ojtham, secretary of the Holstein Friesian association, and several other dairy authorities of note.

Arrange Plans for Chautauqua Event

Selection of Location Left to City Commission; Guarantors Hold Lengthy Session

Consideration of a location for the Twin Falls Chautauqua this summer occupied a secondary position among the matter discussed at a lengthy meeting of the local Chautauqua association Thursday night in the probate court rooms, according to Mrs. Burton E. Morse, who presided.

The association apparently still hopes to be able to stage the Chautauqua on grounds at the city park. It was decided to leave the matter to the decision of the city commission.

The meeting was called principally to study the general arrangements for the Chautauqua and to confer with Earl Nott of Portland, district agent for the Ellison-Walke organization.

The association hopes to sell as many tickets as possible this year as arrangements have been made to divide the surplus over $1000 worth of tickets sold, half the amount being given to the J. L. Downing of Pocatello, and the remainder to the reserve fund of the local association for future use. Season tickets for adults will be sold for $2.75; for students a rate of $1.50 will be charged, and children's tickets are $1.

JAILER IS SLUGGED AS THREE BREAK FROM CELL

Prisoners in Power County Jail Make Get Away as Keeper Opens Door; Guard Overpowered and Bound

Three prisoners escaped from the Power county jail at Arviden Friday evening after severely beating and slugging E. J. Galling, the jailer. The men who escaped are Jimmy Duffy, charged with stealing an automobile; Jim Doyle, charged with manufacturing and selling liquor, and Vernie Robb, who was held on a charge of robbery.

The escape occurred after Duffy had been permitted to speak to a friend in the hallway. After the friend had left and as Duffy was being taken back to his cell the jailer opened the cell door and was attacked by Duffy. The two men in the cell joined in the fight. Thwarted in an effort to use his gun, Jailer Galling was bound hand and foot, gagged and tied to the plumbing in the jail lavatory.

The supposition is that the prisoners made their getaway by walking onto the roof of the cell block. Galling is said to have taken the blame for their escape.

FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTE TO GEORGE E. PLEDGER

Expressions at Funeral Services Attent to Esteem in Which Hansen Man Was Held

Funeral services for the late George E. Pledger were held at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning at the P. J. Grossman chapel. The services were attended by a large number of relatives and friends. The Rev. A. G. Pearson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. The casket was covered with floral offerings expressing the message of the love and esteem of true friends.

George E. Pledger was born in Spencerport, N. Y., a little over 38 years ago. He came to Idaho in 1907 and has held responsible positions with the Oregon Short Line for the last 15 years. On December 18, 1909, he married Miss Ella M. Moler at the home of her sister Mrs. J. T. Todd of Pocatello. Mr. Pledger is survived by Mrs. Pledger and four children, Henrietta, Isabel, George H. Jr. and Ann M. Pledger. He had four sisters and one brother and his father, John Pledger, all of whom reside in New York. On account of the distance these were unable to be present at the services.

The deep sympathy for the family and the sterling friendship of many acquaintances was feelingly expressed by the Rev. Mr. Pearson. The music of which Mr. Pledger was a great lover, was unusually touching. Mr. Noel Provost sang, "One Fleeting Hour" and a male quartet composed of Messrs. A.
