NEW WORLD WAR SEEN BREWING IN RUHR ISSUE

Conflict of Gas and Airplanes Threatens to Engulf Nations, Christian Endeavor Delegates Told

DES MOINES, July 7 (AP)—Seeds of hate being sown throughout the world are causing it to drift into another world war, according to Frederick J. Libby, of Washington, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, in addressing the International Christian Endeavor convention here today.

"The world drifts toward a war of gas and airplanes and neither the governments nor the churches nor organized women have taken one effective step to prevent it," said Mr. Libby.

"The seeds of hate are the seeds of war and they are being sown again in the French suture of the Ruhr. No fondness that we may feel for France can blind our eyes to the awful consequences of the policy she is pursuing. Many of you present at this convention will be drafted to be killed if the present drift toward war cannot speedily be stopped and law be established in the place of war as the accepted method of settling international differences.

War of Gas and Airplanes.

"And it will be a war of gas and airplanes. Recently in Dayton, the home of the Wright brothers, a young man asked me if I knew about their 'flying bug,' and I said I did not. He went on to tell me that it is an airplane which they have sent from Dayton to Xenia, turned around there and brought back safely to Dayton, with no engine in it, stating it by wireless. And it might have been spraying gas all the way to Xenia and back!" I asked. He nodded and said "Yes." Airplanes, poison gas and hate make a trio of destruction so deadly that no one of us can contemplate the present drift toward war without horror.

"Our military men say: 'Prepare for war.' I am frank to admit that they are justified in their demand if we are not going to work far more effectively for peace in the next few months than we have up to now. It is their task to make the nation ready for war when it comes. They know that if a great war splits Europe, whatever politicians may say, America will be the chief of the world. The world is too small for us to be unaffected by anything that affects Europe."

Advocates World Court.

Mr. Libby urged the adoption of the world court as one step toward the prevention of war, and the holding of armaments and education for peace.

Federal Railroad Labor Board Approves Separate Ballot for Bridge and Building Workers

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—The United States railroad labor board today denied the protest of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shopmen against the taking of a separate ballot for bridge and building foremen and their helpers on the Union Pacific system to determine representation to negotiate wage and working agreements.

The decision of the board said that the maintenance of way foremen and bridge and building mechanics and helpers were two distinct classes of employees and had the right to form an organization of their own to secure representation.

The brotherhood took the position that these two classes of employees should deal with the representatives of the carriers through officers of the brotherhood.

BABSON PUTS CARRIERS IN BIG EARNING CLASS

Statistician Estimates Railroads This Year Have $40,000,000 A Month More to Spend Than Last Year

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., July 7.—(Special to The News.)—Roger W. Babson is optimistic over the condition of the railroads, even though he is not bullish on railroad stocks. He insists that the railroads are making more money than they have made for years and that billings should get the benefit of this money before long. Mr. Babson's authorized statement is as follows:

"Whatever may happen to the stock market, the fact, nevertheless, remains that the railroads are making money. In fact, more money than they have made for years. The two-hundred leading roads should report for the last month, for which we have available figures, about $50,000,000 gross combined with about $2,000,000 for the corresponding month of last year, thus showing an increase of over a hundred million. Two-thirds of this has been eaten up by operating expenses, but about forty million is left as an increase of net. During the month of May, 1923, 4,873,437 freight cars were loaded at the country's freight cars during May, 1922. The loading figures for June show a greater increase. Truly this is remarkable and happened before in the railroad world. This means that over a million freight cars are being loaded a week. It therefore means that when the present area of business recedes to a complete halt we are ready to enter a period of real prosperity, the railroads are liable to break down as they will be unable to cope with the increased demand for freight cars in existence. This will increase as the normal line of the Babson chart runs upward. The car loadings naturally fluctuate with the hills and valleys of the chart, but the number of freight cars in existence will increase as the normal line of the chart increases.

Without Special Reasons.

"The improvement in the railroad situation has developed without any special reasons. The country has been in a state of depression for a long time, a small intermediate area of prosperity. As this was not a real area of prosperity, one can readily imagine that the country will have a period of prosperity come. Furthermore these earnings have come about during a period of very bad weather conditions. Railroad men say that this is the worst spring for a railroad point of view that the railroads have ever experienced. Even during April the northern part of the country had no snow, while the southern part suffered continually from floods. The cold weather over the entire country, during April and May, greatly retarded the carrying of freight cars. Roads had an increase in rates, but this increase took place more than a year ago. There has been a decrease in rates and an increase in wages since the blanket increase two years ago. On July 1 last year, the interstate commerce commission put into effect a cut of 10 per cent on commodities, except grain, which was cut 10.2 per cent January 1, 1922. In addition to this, there have been many other reductions of rates. When comparing the net earnings of the railroads with five years ago, we must allow for the increase of rates; but the forty million dollars a month increase in net earnings which the railroads are now making, compared with a year ago, has developed with a decrease in rates.

More Money to Spend.

"Railroad stocks usually go with the market, irrespective of the earnings. When we are in a bull market, all stocks go up and when we are in a bear market, all stocks go down, irrespective of merit, although the better stocks go down less than the poor ones. Therefore, I do not wish to say anything relative to the future action of railroad securities on the stock exchange. I do, however, wish to emphasize that the railroads are having about forty million dollars a month more to spend for labor, equipment and supplies than they had at this time last year. When one takes into consideration the increased maintenance charges, this means that the railroads should have this year five hundred million dollars more to spend than they had last year. Seventy-eight per cent of this goes into general business. I cannot make the bears see this. They point only to politics and talk constantly that an attempt will be made to have congress persecute the railroads next year. Probably such an attempt will be made, but this is no reason why our congressmen should legislate so as to short-sightedly pass any detrimental legislation. "The railroads are not perfect. In the past they made a great many mistakes which were unexcusable. Their

Utah Officials to Make Geologic Exploration of Elusive Lakes and Streams

SALT LAKE, July 7.—Utah's enigma waters, lakes and streams on the Great Basin, between Kane and Iron counties in the southern part of the state which have been positively ascertained to appear without apparent source and disappear with just a little ceremony, may soon be the subject of a searching geologic exploration by Utah state officials.

This has been proposed following the announcement by officials of the town of Cedar City in Iron county that they are contemplating the installation of an increased water supply, and among other possible sources have suggested the so-called Lake, formerly known as Duck Lake, might be used.

Cedar City's proposal has presented a peculiar series of anomalies which may not only puzzle geologists, engineers, water rights officials and the courts, it is conceded, because, as one reason, a few summers ago Navajo Lake vanished as did several other small bodies of water in the heart of the mountains, while low bodies of water—lakes, ditches and streams—appeared in the girdle of the valleys and canyons.

Fifteen Years Ago in Twin Falls

General George B. Roberts of Boise will deliver the oration of the day on July 15 in Twin Falls to mark the fifteenth anniversary of the death of General Roberts. He is admittedly one of the best speakers in the west. General Roberts is the father of Mrs. W. O. Taylor of Twin Falls and Miss Margaret Roberts of Boise. The day will open with rousing salutes and there will be "something else," every minute.

At a meeting of the Twin Falls Commercial club on Tuesday evening, to which the public was invited, it was decided by unanimous vote to petition the county commissioners to call a special election on October 6, for the purpose of submitting to the taxpayers a proposal to issue bonds in the amount of $150,000 for the erection of a county courthouse and jail. The club also determined to make a request of the city council that the question of domestic water supply for the city be taken up, to the end that the quality of the water be improved, better pressure maintained and a more stable source of supply developed.

I. B. Perrino has shipped Royal Ann cherries to Chicago, Sharon, Pa., Lincoln, Neb., and New York City this week. The yield of sweet cherries at Blue Lake is unusually heavy this year.

Children's Day was observed at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. The following program was given: song by the children; prayer by Rev. Gourley; song by the children, solo by Miss Lydia Boyd, recitation by Ruth Wall; drill by the Hester's class; recitation by Ella Shurtleff; recitation by Kenneth Hall; violin solo by Ella Shurtleff; address to the children by Rev. Gourley; recitation by Ella Matney; closing hymn by the audience.

An "olla" or water pot, for the manufacture of which the Plima and Mariposa Indians are noted was found by the engineers at the Salmon dam site a few days ago. Presumably the pot was placed there by Indians though the age of this part of the country were never known to use such vessels. In removing the vessel the bottom was pulled out but the fragments were saved and the vessel can only be restored. Across the flare of the mouth the pot measures 8 to 8 1/2 inches, the circumference of the neck is 25 inches and of the middle 3 1/2 inches, and the vessel is 12 inch deep. It is about half an inch thick and is apparently made of sand and clay and baked in a furnace.

The school census taken this week in Jerome revealed the presence of 35 children of school age: 17 girls and 18 boys.

On Roof of World.

Navajo lake sits on the "roof of the world," 9,000 feet above sea level. It has no visible outlet. The opinion is held among men who have studied the phenomena that nature must have provided for the lake some form of subterranean discharge. The theory that the lake, which often fluctuates in size, feeds one or more underground streams is the most logical in the minds of men who have attempted to solve the mystery.

The source of Navajo's water supply is made obvious by geologic inference. Some distance away a stream winds toward the lake, meeting the high plateau and fed by melting snows that last well into summer. The stream disappears a short distance above the lake. Why Navajo was ever called Duck-lake is another puzzle even to pioneer Utahans, as it suggests nothing that might have caused it to be named thus.

Navajo is almost hidden amid a green expanse of mountain forest and verdure. Along its edge are found numerous springs but it has no feeders on the surface of the ground.

HANSEN READY TO EVEN SCORE

Eastenders Primed for Return Game with Locals This Afternoon

Baseball fans will journey to Hansen this afternoon to watch Twin Falls and the East end team for the second time this season.

Last Sunday, the locals won from Hansen, 9 to 3, but Hansen fans feel that the victory was a little fluky, and promise to give the Twin Falls team a real beating this afternoon.

Hansen has been strengthened this week by Wannacott, an outfielder, who is said to be a regular Babe Ruth who is coming to sending the ball out of the lot. On the fourth, he lived up to his reputation by sending the ball over the right field fence at Lincoln field, twice in two trips to the plate. Wannacott bats from the port side.

Manager McVey of the Hansenites, will start "Pat" Thompson in the box, and "Pat" is about to turn out to be a star for his team. Thompson has a world of speed, and a nice assortment of curves, but seems to lack the proper support when pitching to win his games.

Whitford, of the local team, is right on schedule, not knowing who he will use against the Hansen team, as he always waits until all his pitchers have had a chance to warm up, and then he picks out the one who looks best to him.

Kimberly will have his hands full this afternoon when he meets the Jerome team. Jerome and Twin Falls are tied for first place, while Kimberly and Hansen are tied for third place.

Kimberly will use "Gimmo" Walton against the northiders and if Walton is "right" Bill's team will have some real trouble holding onto first place. Shoshone, and Edson will fight for supremacy at Shoshone this afternoon, and its a standoff as to who will win the tussle.

All games start at 3 sharp.

TWILIGHT GOSPEL

Another week has rolled by and still the fans refuse to go to Athletic park and watch Twin Falls' ball players in action.

The coming week should be a banner one in regard to good ball games, as Tuesday will see the Electricians and Bankers trying to win a ball game.

These two teams are evenly matched and with Wig and Laval Jarman opposing one another, runs in this game should be low and fast between.

Ray Brown and his gang of Legion players will step to the front on Thursday, and the Mike will be the team to stop the rejuvenated ex-soldiers.

They lost a game to the Electrics by the score of three to two last week, and are determined to get out of last place if they have to beat every team in the league to do it.

The players have been showing a tendency to shirk lately, which is not going to help the Twilight league.

All players know what teams they belong on, and it is the quest of the managers that every player show up, so that the league can go on.

If the players are ready for action the fans will fall in line and everything will be forgotten.

NEW YORK WOMAN FIRST TO CLIMB HAWAIIAN MOUNTAIN

HILO, Island of Hawaii, July 7. (AP)—The lofty, snow-tipped summit of Mauna Kea, highest spot in the Hawaiian Islands, has been surmounted, for the first time in history, by a party of women, which included Miss Katherine MacGregor of New York, a noted hiker, mountain-climber and writer.

Mauna Kea, upon whose lower slopes lies the ever-active volcano of Kilauea, rises to a height of 13,825 feet above sea-level. The country on the slopes is of the roughest nature and the ascent is made from the semitropical temperature of sea-level to the bitterly-cold alpine temperature of the peak. None of the party of eight suffered severe hardships except sunburn, windburn and blisters, they said upon their return.

Four days were consumed in making the ascent over a lava and the summit was reached a late in the afternoon that it was necessary for the party to spend the night at the top, which was swept by heavy winds. Only two extra were necessary to make the descent.

POINTS OUT WAY FOR LIQUOR LAW

Federal Judge at Helena, Striking at Volstead Act Provisions, Suggests Methods

HELENA, Mont., July 7 (AP)—Valid ways of checking abuse of alcohol in the guise of remedies were pointed out by Federal Judge George H. Bourquin in his decision yesterday, holding portions of the prohibition enforcement act unconstitutional. It developed today when newspapers were supplied with typed written copies, transcribed from the judge's long hand copy of the decision. Judge Bourquin declared that there are methods of controlling the abuse of alcohol without interference with the rights of physicians. In this connection he said:

"No doubt congress was inspired by consciousness of the well known abuse of alcohol in the guise of remedies. In that is justification for reasonable regulations, and the statute contains them, viz., that no physician can prescribe alcohol unless he has secured a permit from the commissioner of internal revenue, subject to criminal penalties, that he shall prescribe alcohol only in good faith as necessary medicine and only upon official forms supplied by the commissioner, and the statute contains and that he shall keep a record thereof."

Appropriate Rules.

"In addition, for violation not only is the physician subject to criminal penalties, but the commissioner may revoke the permit and thus deprive him of right to further prescribe alcohol. These regulations are appropriate to the prohibition of alcohol as the beverage and are adopted to that end, and are valid. Of them there can be no just complaint. They are such as ought to suffice to restrain pharmaceutical uses of alcohol within legitimate bounds," he said.

Question of Confidence.

"If a physician cannot be trusted wholly, he should not be trusted partially. If he is disposed to abuse prescription of alcohol he can do so as well with one hundred prescriptions and one-half pint as with more."

Pending a study of the court's decision, enforcement officials declined to make a statement of opinion as to whether it was said that it in no way affects the handling of liquor by drug stores or the rules for its sale. At the district attorney's office, it was said in direction as to an appeal awarded work from Attorney General Daugherty.

MINE OPERATORS REPLY TO WORKMEN IS DELAYED

Negotiations for New Wage Contract in Anthracite Coal Fields Meet Unexpected Interruption

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7 (AP)—Negotiations for a new wage contract between anthracite miners and operators were unexpectedly interrupted today through the inability of the employers to complete the drafting of their reply to the workers in time for today's scheduled session of the miners and operators. The reason given for the delay was that the stenographers were unable to complete the transcript of the speeches made by the miners' representatives at the opening meeting on Friday when the wage demands of the union were formally presented to the coal companies.

There were unverified reports that other matters conspired to delay the drafting of the reply. The operators spent the day here conferring with one another.

It is expected the operators will refuse the demands of the mine workers but will leave the door open for negotiations and probably a compromise.

POSSIBILITY HELD OUT

PORT STANLEY, Ont., July 7 (AP)—Possibility that Lieutenants L. J. Roth and T. B. Null, missing navy aviators, believed to have been wrecked in Lake Erie, may be traveling on some ore barges headed west tonight as the search for the balloon and the men continued. It is asserted here that ore barges travel the route on which the wrecked balloon was sighted by the steamer Colonial last night. The barges do not carry wireless equipment and if one of these vessels had picked up the men or their bodies last night, it is two or even three days before the boat would land.

the national balloon race. The search centered about Port Stanley, Ontario, near where a balloon was sighted floating in Lake Erie with the basket submerged. The other 15 contestants in the race have been accounted for, all having landed many hours ago. Lieutenants Roth and Null are from the naval station at Lakehurst, N. J.

Fear for the safety of the airman was felt last night after unsuccessful efforts were made to locate them. Lieutenants Roth and Null were well prepared for almost any emergency, it was said. Air inflated life preservers and oxygen bags sufficient to maintain them above water were included in their equipment when they took off here late Wednesday afternoon, it was said. The unofficial standing of the contestants who have reported, announced late tonight, gives first place to Lieutenant Robert S. Olmstead, army pilot, who sailed approximately 600 miles. He landed at Marilla, N. Y. E. Honeywell, St. Louis civilian flier, covered the next farthest distance, approximately 450 miles, descending at Brockton, N. Y.

SUPERHUMAN HONESTY

Joseph Bailey, grandson of a famous merchant, is starting a dry-goods commission house in New York on a basis of absolute honesty.

Mr. Bailey proposes to let every employee fix his own compensation. When the worker thinks he is worth more, he can give himself a raise.

Will those salaries ever go down? Human nature adjusts itself to more income with astonishing facility, but adjustment in the other direction is more difficult.

This idealist also announces that his company will reserve the right to sever relations with anyone who does not at all times tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

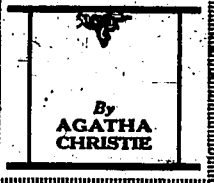

SHOOTING OWLS

A certain farmer and his son the other day shot three monkey-faced owls, commonly known as barn owls, on their farm.

Then along came a naturalist who patiently explained that of all the wild friends of the farmer, the barn owl is the best, because he is the most efficient foe of mice of all things that fly, walk or crawl.

It is another luminous example of the folly of meddling with Nature's business and destroying wild life indiscriminately without taking the trouble to understand it.

The Secret Adversary

Finally a bright idea flashed across his brain. Conrad was undoubtedly the tenant of the house. The others, with the possible exception of the bearded German, merely used it as a rendezvous.

Time went on, but Conrad did not appear. Night and day were the same in this prison room, but Tommy's wristwatch, which enjoyed a certain degree of accuracy, informed him that it was nine o'clock in the evening.

The door swung open. Too late, Tommy remembered his scheme, of obliterating the unprepossessing Conrad. A moment later he was glad that he had, for it was not Conrad who entered, but a girl.

"My name is Annette, monsieur." She spoke in a soft, broken English. "Oh! This is Tommy, rather taken back. 'Francis! Monsieur he hazarded. 'Oul, monsieur. Monsieur parle francsais?'"

"Not for any length of time," said Tommy. "What's that? Breakfast?" She spoke in a soft, broken English. "Oh! This is Tommy, rather taken back. 'Francis! Monsieur he hazarded. 'Oul, monsieur. Monsieur parle francsais?'"

"The living is not equal to the Ritz," he observed with a sigh. "But for what we are at last about to receive the Lord has made me truly thankful. Amn."

"I do the service, monsieur." "I see," said Tommy. "You know what I asked you just now. Have you ever heard that name?" "I have heard people speak of Jane Finn, I think."

"You don't know where she is?" Annette shook her head. "She's not in this house, for instance?" "Oh, no, monsieur. I must go now—they will be waiting for me." She hurried out. The key turned in the lock.

"I wonder who they are," mused Tommy, as he continued to make inroads on the loaf. "With a bit of luck, that girl might help me to get out of here. She doesn't look like one of the gang."

At one o'clock Annette reappeared with another tray, but this time Conrad accompanied her. That evening, Tommy sat on the bed, and cogitated deeply. Would Conrad again accompany the girl? If so did not, should he risk trying to make an ally of her?

"No, monsieur." "Why not?" "The girl hesitated. 'I dare not, monsieur; I am afraid of them.' She turned away."

"Wouldn't you do anything to help another girl?" cried Tommy. "She's about your age, too. Won't you save her from their clutches?" "You mean Jane Finn?" "Yes."

"It is her you came here to look for?" "That's it." The girl looked at him, then passed her hand across her forehead. "Jane Finn. Always I hear that name. It is familiar."

Tommy came forward eagerly. "You must know something about her." But the girl turned away abruptly. "I know nothing—only the name. She walked towards the door. Suddenly she uttered a cry. Tommy stared. She had caught sight of the picture he had hid against the wall the night before.

Three more days went by in dreary inaction. Tommy felt the agonies telling on his nerves. He saw no girl but Conrad and Annette, and the girl had become dumb. He gathered from Conrad that they were waiting for orders from "Mr. Brown." Perhaps, thought Tommy, he was abroad or away, and they were obliged to wait for his return.

But the evening of the third day brought a rude awakening. It was barely seven o'clock when he heard the tramp of footsteps outside in the passage. In another minute the door was flung open. Conrad entered. With him was the evill-looked girl. Tommy's heart sank at the sight of them.

"Evening, guv'nor," said the man, with a leer. "Got those ropes, mate?" The silent Conrad produced a length of fine cord. The next minute Number 14's hands, horribly dexterous, were winding the cord round his limbs, while Conrad held him down.

"What the devil—?" began Tommy. But the girl, speaking with a grin of the silent Conrad froze the words on his lips. Number 14 proceeded deftly with his task. In another minute Tommy was a mere helpless bundle. Then at last Conrad spoke:

"Thought you'd bluffed us, did you? With what you knew, and what you didn't know. Bargained with us! And all the time it was a bluff! Bluff! You know less than a kitten. But your number's up now all right, you—swine!" Tommy lay silent. There was nothing to say. He had fallen. Somehow or other the omnipotent Mr. Brown had seen through his pretensions. Suddenly a thought occurred to him.

"A very good speech, Conrad," he said approvingly. "But wherefore the bonds and fetters? Why not let this kind gentleman here cut my throat without delay?" "Garn," said Number 14 unexpectedly. "Think we've seen as to do you in here, and have the honor of an appointment. Not with the officers, for we're now in the meantime were not taking any chances, see! Talking as though you were still at the blooming Ritz, aren't you?" Tommy made no reply. He was engaged in wondering how Mr. Brown had discovered his identity. He decid that Truppence, in the throes of anxiety, had gone to the police; and that his disappearance having been made public the gang had not been slow to put two and two together.

About an hour had passed when he heard the key softly turned, and the door opened. Tommy was left to his meditations. They were not pleasant ones. Already his limbs felt cramped and stiff. He was utterly helpless, and he could see no hope anywhere.

"Well, hurry up," growled Conrad. Without looking at Tommy the girl went over to the table, and picked up the tray. She raised a hand and turned out the light.

"Come on, Annette," he said. "I dare not, monsieur; I am afraid of them." She turned away. "Wouldn't you do anything to help another girl?" cried Tommy. "She's about your age, too. Won't you save her from their clutches?"

"You must know something about her." But the girl turned away abruptly. "I know nothing—only the name. She walked towards the door. Suddenly she uttered a cry. Tommy stared. She had caught sight of the picture he had hid against the wall the night before.

He was engaged in wondering how Mr. Brown had discovered his identity. He dethe open, blade up and down on the cord that bound his two wrists together. It was an awkward business, and drew a smothered "Ow" of pain from him as the knife cut into his wrist. But slowly and doggedly he went on sawing the cord. He cut the flesh badly, but at last he felt the cord slacken. With his hands free, the rest was easy.

His first care was to bind up the bleeding wrist. Then he sat on the edge of the bed to think. Conrad had taken on seeing the door, he could expect little more assistance from Annette. The only outlet from the room was the door, consequently he would perforce have to wait until the two men returned to fetch him. But when they did... Tommy smiled! Working with infinite caution in the dark room, he found and unhooked the famous picture. He felt an economical pleasure that his first plan would not be wasted. There was now nothing to do but to wait. He waited.

The night passed sleepily. Tommy lived through an eternity of hours, but at last he heard footsteps. He stood upright, drew a deep breath, and clutched the picture firmly. The door opened. A faint light streamed in from outside. Number 14 followed. As he stepped across the threshold, Tommy brought the picture down with terrific force on his head. Number 14 went down amidst a stupendous crash of broken glass. In a minute Tommy had slipped out, and pulled to the door. The key was in the lock. He turned it and withdrew it just as Conrad hurled himself against the door from the inside with a volley of curses.

For a moment Tommy hesitated. There was the sound of some one stirring on the floor below. Then the German's voice came up the stairs. (Continued in Next Issue)

Quiet Prevails in Railroad Situation

Await Delayed Action on Gravel, Surveying Crews Moves Toward South End

With all obstacles apparently removed leaving the way clear for the granting of the certificate of convenience and necessity for the construction of the Rogerson-Wells line Twin Falls people are waiting patiently for action by the interstate commerce commission.

While the matter of granting the certificate appears to be taking more time than was expected there is nothing to indicate that the plans of the Union Pacific in regard to the construction of the road have been changed.

The protest of E. J. Abern has been definitely removed from the attention of the interstate commerce commission by the complaint in which Mr. Abern has asked payment for his engineering services will probably be filed in district court here Monday, according to E. V. Larsen, attorney for Mr. Abern.

The arrest of the five persons followed the alleged confession of persons arrested at Pocatello and who were said to have been involved with Miller in white slave activities.

NAVY LIMIT ACCEPTABLE

Little, lies in the unusual state of world diplomacy. During the last few months it has been an open secret in diplomatic circles at least, that the delay of France was looked upon as a possible factor in the general policy she has followed in her dealings with her allies.

Disappointment Comes Out. It is certain that during the long wait for French approval of the Washington agreement the other signatories found means to let their disappointment become well understood at Paris.

There are some officials who are not entirely convinced that the French will take the requisite action and who still are fearful of a hitch in most quarters, however, the view here is one of confidence that the treaty has been passed.

Final Step in Sight. On this assumption, officials foresee a final step in the diplomatic program putting the naval limitation program into effect may be held here before fall.

Naval Experts Prepared. The navy department program, which would become the policy of the government in naval matters the moment the treaty comes into force not only has been prepared in every detail, usually supplied in reports by Secretary Denby.

UTAH SENATOR ATTACKS G. O. P.

Charges President with Insincerity in Advocating Adhesion to World Court

SALT LAKE, July 7 (AP)—Declaring that President Harding "is insincere in advocating adhesion of the United States to the world court, and claiming the disarmament conference called by the president as "a delusion and a snare," Utah Senator William H. King, democrat, of Utah, tonight launched an attack upon the republican administration.

Senator King speaking before the Young Men's Democratic Club of Utah, also declared that "the cards are stacked so far as the republican nomination for president in 1924 are concerned, and that no power on earth can defeat Harding for the nomination." He asserted that President Harding's nomination was already settled, "in the same manner that it was settled prior to the 1920 convention."

"President Harding has deceived the people by honored words and shrewdly calculated promises," he said, "and told us we must join the world court. I don't believe him sincere, but called his bluff and introduced a resolution calling for his removal from office as they were presented by the court."

Evilges Senator Lodge. "Senator Lodge, the senator and intriguing force which has so often been manifested against the American people, got work, subverted the republican party and brought pressure to bear upon President Harding which frightened him. Harding, being always an opportunist, who seeks a policy of expediency, was a delusion and a snare, and a means of deceiving the American people. Republicans point out that the conference was the means of disarming the calling of the republican administration, was a delusion and a snare, and a means of deceiving the American people. Sees Plottings of Republic. "The policy of the republican administration at the 1920 national convention was one determined by the plutocratic forces of that party and not by the masses of the party. When Mr. Harding was a candidate for president he received hundreds of thousands of democratic and independent votes because it was believed that he would secure a quick entry into the league of nations by signing the republican votes in the senate."
