President Strikes Popular Chord at Juneau with Promise of Government's Help for Children

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 10 (AP)—Greeted by the presidential salute of 21 guns from Chilkoot barracks, President Harding, Mrs. Harding and members of their party landed here today to spend the entire day as guests of Governor Scott C. Bone and territorial and city officials.

The ideal weather which had attended the Alaskan trip gave way to rain and the townpeople, paying no attention, gathered on the wharf in the business section to give the party a hearty welcome.

After landing the party was driven through the town to the governor's mansion, escorted by troops from Chilkoot barracks, a company of marines from the Henderson and veterans of the American Legion. A large crowd had gathered about the mansion and despite the rain, cheered loudly when the president and Governor Bone appeared on the portico.

Governor Bone introduced the president who began his address by declaring: "There must be a lot of Baptists in Juneau, at any rate people who turn out so generously on a rainy day like this ought to have some measure of return."

Proud of citizenship. "I have been greatly impressed by the scenery of Alaska during the first part of my tour. Sturdy, majestic, stalwart and immovable are truly the only words which describe this wonderful land of ours. I am proud of you as citizens of the United States. It is good to know of Alaska and it is our purpose to know you better and how you know our government better."

"The president then referred to the children who have played a prominent part in the greeting extended him, and said: "Although children cannot choose whether they are born, yet if they could choose, I think they would select the west."

H. C. Jones, of King Hill, who has a ranch twelve miles above Hill City, in Elmore county, was walking near his corral, when he saw Riche hiding near the enclosure. Thinking the man was insane he tied him with a rope, threw him in his car and started for Gooding. Near that place Riche told Jones he was wanted for murder and there was $1,000 reward for his capture, and then requested Jones to bring him to Shoshone, saying he would come quietly.

When Jones turned Riche over to Sheriff Wheeler, the latter got in communication with the authorities of Toole county and verified the Italian's story. Utah officers will come after Riche.

WOMEN DEBATE MINIMUM WAGE

Middle Western Delegates Attack Legislative Definition Praised by Coast Speakers

PORTLAND, Ore., July 10 (AP)—Spirited debate on the question of a minimum wage for women workers marked the session this afternoon of the national convention here of the business and professional women's clubs.

Speakers representing Oregon and Washington, where minimum wage laws are in effect, spoke in favor of the laws of their state, while delegates from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana opposed the minimum wage idea in principle. The western delegates told of benefits derived from the law and the middle western women voiced opposition on the ground that equal opportunities should be given in industry to both sexes.

The legislative committee took the arguments into consideration at an executive session and is to report resolutions tomorrow for action of the convention. Mary Stewart of Washington, D. C., indicated the resolutions would deal with the question on the grounds of special legislation.

Favored by Employees. W. L. Brewster of Portland, chairman of the Oregon industrial welfare commission, told of the practical working of the state minimum wage law, and said it had been so successful in

GRAIN CROP PRODUCTION FALLS OFF

Government Agricultural Review Indicates Decline Compared with Five-Year Average

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The general crop outlook is fair but there is no evidence of overproduction of cereals as compared with the 1917-21 average, according to the monthly agricultural review issued today by the department of agriculture.

The movement and current prices of grain and cattle are logical evidences of the accumulation of meat animals in the country," said the statement analyzing the review. "For two years old stock was freely disposed of because it was not worth keeping, but young stock was increased because when feed was cheap enough to burn, the natural way to carry it over was in young and growing animals. This had the effect of rather less stock in the market a year ago, but more now."

HARDING ADMITS ADMIRATION FOR ABLE IMPOSTER

Helpful Degree of Humility One Effect of Artful Bunco Activities, President Suggests

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—President Harding has confessed to a characteristic often ascribed to Americans by foreigners—a fondness for being buncoed when it is done patiently.

The confession was made in a letter written to Colonel George B. Christian, father of the secretary to the president, and has a background extending into the days when Warren G. Harding was editing the Marion Star. It was then that a stranger dropped into Marion one day, called an editor 'Harding' and, introducing himself as a member of the Virginia branch of the Harding family, mentioned that his cash in hand had unexpectedly run low and that a small loan would be useful. The president then as now was proud of the name of 'Harding,' and he extended the loan.

A few days later Mr. Harding met Judge Scofield, a leading citizen of Marion, and a close friend, and told the story of the stranger's call. When he had finished Judge Scofield announced that he had been visited on the same day by the same gentleman, who described himself as a distant cousin named Scofield, and a member of the Scofield family of Virginia. The judge like the editor rejected financial aid.

Mr. Harding and Judge Scofield had shared a hearty laugh over the incident and they laughed even more heartily on learning several weeks later that Myron T. Herrick, then a Cleveland attorney and later United States minister to France, also had helped out in the hour of need "a cousin by the name of Herrick from Virginia who needed cash for home."

But gradually Mr. Harding ceased to think of it until the other day he received a letter from Colonel Christian, recalling the visit of the "Virginia cousin," and saying that he had been recently buncoed in a similar way.

"I am in receipt of your letter," President Harding wrote in reply, "in which you tell me of the incident with the lawyer and companion who who, after the fashion of the gentleman who was named Harding one day, Scofield another day, and Herrick another day, took advantage of my bona fide loan which would accommodate him on his virtuous way. You remember the chap who represented himself to me as a distant cousin of mine, and I recall that he took you in as well as me, and that he was fought over some of our attributes of the Civil War without your detecting any fraud in him, but you did escape being tumbled as I was for a small draft upon my cash account.

"Somewhat I have also enjoyed being buncoed by that fellow. He was so clever about it that he skinned me without wounding me. One encounters so many confidence men in the activities of our present-day life that it is a pleasure to meet up with an artist who can skin you without your having felt it. The thing that gets on my nerves most is the creditor and holder confidence man who tries to put something over on me, and I know that he is trying it, and yet he thinks me susceptible enough to be wholly innocent of his wiles."

"In other words, when you are taken in it is a joy to be taken in so beautifully that you haven't the slightest knowledge of it until you come to the later realization that the promised loan is not returned. I do not know but that it is a good thing that we have some of them in our midst at all times. It serves to remind us that one needs to be cautious without being suspicious, and also that the world is full of wonderful talent which, if only applied in righteous way, might result in notable accomplishment. Moreover, I think it brings us to a helpful degree of humility to be reminded that there are smart chaps who can take us in without our even suspecting it."

GERMANS MAKE PROTEST TO ENGLAND AND ITALY

Ambassadors at London and Rome instructed to Stress Intolerable Situation on Frontier.

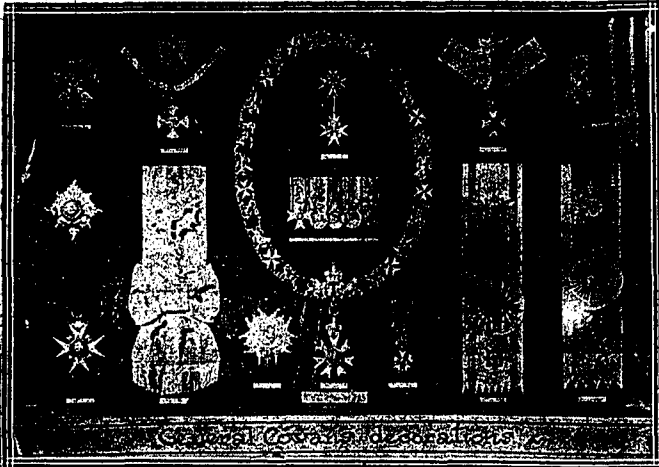

BERLIN, July 10 (AP)—Germany has protested to the British and Italian governments regarding the closing of the frontiers of the occupied region by France and Belgium.

An official statement today says the German ambassadors in London and Rome have been instructed to emphasize to Great Britain and Italy "the intolerable difficulties and serious dangers arising from the situation and the further fact that the Rhine-land duties are prevented from exercising their constitutional functions by the interruption of all traffic facilities."

The government also has instructed its ambassadors to call attention to the death sentences imposed by the French court martial at Mayence on June 29 upon seven Germans because of alleged railway sabotage.

DRY LAW FINDS LIMITS AT SEA

Shipping Board Declines Authority Does not Extend to Passengers' Actions

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Reports of consumption of private liquor stocks by passengers on board government owned ships have brought before the shipping board the question of its jurisdiction in the matter, with the result of a decision that its authority, as exercised through the ship's captain, does not run to the extent which would permit any interference with the passengers' actions.

It was indicated however, that this decision might only be temporary and that steps would be taken to obtain a positive ruling on the question, probably from the department of justice.

As the situation now stands the board is convinced that a passenger of the Leviathan, for instance, is entirely within his rights when he produces the makings of a cocktail at his table in the dining saloon and acts as bartender to his companions. The wide police powers given the commander of a ship under common law and international custom, it was declared by officials of the board, were materially curtailed by the LaFollette act as they affected the crew, and almost obliterated, so far as they concerned, beyond the point where the safety of ship and cargo is involved.

LAKEER REGULATIONS STAND

Regulations promulgated by Chairman Lakeer last October, requiring "operation" of government passenger and cargo ships, will be enforced as heretofore, it was announced officially, but spokesmen for the board were emphatic in their opinion that at present nothing could be done to curb the passengers defying the Volstead law. Enquiry into the matter by the board did not bring unanimous support of the board's position. Long established recognition of a captain's special responsibilities, according to some authorities has given him practically unlimited authority in suppression of what he may consider illegal acts by any persons on board his ship. In the navy department, the common law rule of a skipper's authority has always held and the only modifications made since the beginning of the navy have been in the form of restriction of punishment which may be inflicted.

The decision of the board was not called forth by any recent incident, it was declared today, attention being called to the action which had been taken on the Leviathan's trial trip. Carls were posted in each stateroom, requesting the voluntary cooperation of passengers against violation of the liquor statutes.

Forfeiture to Be Tested.

It was understood that a similar request was carried in each stateroom on the eastward trip, which the Leviathan has just completed.

Under another decision dealing with ship liquor, announced today by Commissioner Blair, the internal revenue bureau, forfeiture proceedings will be undertaken by the department of justice against contraband liquor. Such suits, however, would not be directed at ships or commanders bringing liquor into American territorial waters.

Commissioner Blair's order will allow customs agents to continue their work of search and seizure but all legal questions will be handled by the attorney general.

Youth and Age.

Generally youth is the first cogitation, not so wise as the second; for there is a youth in thoughts as well as in ages; and yet the invention of young men is more lively than that of old, and imaginations stream into their minds better, and, as it were, more divinely.—Bacon.

NAVY MAKES INQUIRY IN BALLOON RACE TRAGEDY

Lieutenant Strong Finds Record of Ill-Fated Flight of Lieutenants Roth and Null; No Parachute Carried

CLEVELAND, July 10 (AP)—The navy balloon A-6088 piloted in the national elimination balloon race out of Indianapolis July 4, by Lieutenant John L. Roth, with Lieutenant T. R. Null as his aide, evidently dropped into Lake Erie Thursday night or early Friday.

Lieutenant James A. Fort, U. S. N., who went to Port Stanley today and shipped the wrecked balloon and its basket, which, with the body of Lieutenant Roth were recovered from the lake, to the naval air station at Lakeside, N. J., said on his return tonight that he had come into possession of a journal giving the account of the flight. The last entry was made by Lieutenant Strong, who left at 11 o'clock Thursday night. It showed that the balloon was flying at an altitude of 12,000 feet.

Examination of the log showed that a rip panel had been pulled, Lieutenant Strong said. This would indicate, he said, that the airman either was making a forced landing or were trying to reach a lower altitude. An inventory also found showed no parachute was carried.

The balloon passed over some islands at 10 o'clock, according to an entry in the journal and flew over Point Pelee shortly after that hour. It also showed that several shots were fired at the log as it flew over Indiana.

The body of Lieutenant Roth will be taken to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, tomorrow for burial. It will be accompanied by Lieutenant Strong, who will act as the government's official representative at the funeral.

WAGE BOOST PUT UP TO TRAINMEN

Western Association Chairman Suggest Return to War Time Compensation

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—A return of war time wages to the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, will be suggested to the rank and file of the two railroad organizations...

The action of the western association chairman is favorably concurring in the suggestion for an increase in wages of railway employes in the territory west of the Mississippi river...

However, on July 1, 1923, the railroad labor board handed down a decision decreasing the hour wage. The present suggestion for a return to war time wages is for an increase of between 8 and 10 cents an hour...

At present yard conductors and their helpers are receiving approximately $240 and $174 a month, respectively, while passenger conductors receive between $275 and $300 a month...

The decision to suggest the request for the increased compensation was due to the hazards encountered by the trainmen, skill required and living costs, brotherhood officials said.

The executive committee of the Order of Railway Trainmen is composed of A. B. Cohn of St. Louis and A. E. Pearson, Toronto, Kansas, while William Bishop of St. Paul, Minn., and W. J. Green of Chicago, Ill., were elected members of the executive committee of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

LEVIATHAN AT END OF TRIP TO SOUTHAMPTON

GIANT LINER COMPLETES FIRST TRANS-ATLANTIC VOYAGE UNDER AMERICAN FLAG. SOUTHAMPTON, July 10 (AP)—The American liner Leviathan completed her first trans-Atlantic voyage as a passenger ship under the American flag when she arrived here at 10 o'clock tonight.

The big liner brought 3,000 passengers and crew, and sound and happy news from the waters of Southampton harbor and dropped anchor a few hundred yards from where the Pilgrimage set sail for America.

Up until midnight, two hours after her arrival, no British law officer had boarded the big ship to serve summons upon deserters from British ships, who were reported to be among the crew. Mr. Lasker said that if there were any English deserters aboard, he knew nothing of it.

CRITICISM THAT HURT

In his "Reflections of a Rolling Stone," Basil Tozer tells the following on Mark Twain: "On one occasion he was at the British embassy in Paris a reading of extracts from his works, in aid of some charity. The price of admission was a louis, and the hall was crowded with American and British aristocracy resident in Paris. When the reading, which was extremely well received, was over, I met Mark coming slowly and pensively along the pavement in the Rue de Rivoli, and when we had talked for a few minutes and I had congratulated him on the afternoon's success, I noticed that he seemed to be subdued.

QUEER LITTLE DOOR PARTS MOBBED AND BASTY FOREVER

BIO DE JANEIRO, July 10 (AP)—One of the most curious institutions in this city is the "Casa dos Expositos," a founding asylum that receives its small inmates through a sort of revolving door which is so built in a wall that the person operating it from the outside cannot see inside the building nor be seen by persons within.

The inmates of the "Casa dos Expositos" are raised like orphans and within the ability of the gentle nuns who manage the institution. Many of the children are adopted by childless couples. Founded in 1728, the institution in the two centuries of its existence has furnished more than 45,000 citizens to this city some of whom achieved renown and high position—and their induction to the world was a revolving door.

Portugal Closes Gambling

LISBON, July 10 (AP)—All public gambling halls in Portugal have been ordered closed, and a wave of indignation has swept the larger cities as a result. Several newspapers have taken up the protest, claiming that where gambling formerly was superstitious, it is now a means to yield an income to the treasury. It has now been driven to cover, and is flourishing as never before.

Nature Preserves Balance

A starfish may lay 300,000 eggs; and but for their enemies, which preserve the balance, these creatures would fill the world's seas in one year. Nature is just as prodigal with other living things that have many foes. One female fish may lay 9,000,000 eggs—this number was actually found in the roe of a turbot weighing 17 pounds.

The Mind's the Standard

An art lost in itself may be made noble by the human strength and being which a great man will pour into it; and an art, great in itself, made mean by the meanness of the mind occupied in it.—Ruskin.

Faults

You will find it less easy to uproot faults than to choke them by giving her azel, who had called up, "I can't go out with you tonight. Mother looked so tired I promised to wash up the supper dishes and then do the fam. and her for her tonight."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

EDITOR FACING PRISON BRAVES COURT'S WRATH

Carl C. Magee, on Stand in Own Behalf, Tells of Apparent Political Influence Over Court

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., July 10. (AP)—Carl C. Magee, editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, was on the witness stand when court adjourned tonight in the contempt proceedings brought against him before Judge D. L. Leahy, growing out of Magee's conviction of having criminally libeled Judge Frank W. Parker of the New Mexico supreme court. The editor is under a sentence of 18 months at hard labor in the penitentiary, imposed by Judge Leahy after Magee's conviction on the libel charge.

Demiurge of Result

Near the end of the day's cross-examination, Magee said: "I don't believe I've got a chance in the world for Judge Leahy, either unconsciously or consciously or both, is prejudiced against me."

The court early in the day overruled Magee's motion to punish the charges and to consolidate the four cases for a single hearing.

In the first four cases presented for hearing today Magee is alleged to have made contemptuous reference to Judge Leahy and the court by an editorial statement that "the secret of George Romero's cooper-riveted machine in San Miguel county is his influence over the district court and his ability to influence its conduct."

Stands by Assertion

When Magee took the stand his chief counsel, Judge Hanna, asked him if he meant the statement. "Yes I say flatly without fear of successful contradiction that the cooper-riveted machine holds an influence over the court."

"That's what I mean," and I can't make it any clearer.

"Who do you mean by the cooper-riveted machine?"

"Lorenzo Delgado, Secundino Romero, O. O. Askren, David J. Leahy, J. B. Davis, Jr., their satellites and the county officials."

"Would you class the officers of the district court of the fourth judicial district, among the members of the machine?"

"I would class David J. Leahy and Luis Armijo."

"Any officers prior to this time?"

"O. W. G. Ward."

Calls for Proof

Cross-examination by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Askren:

"Did you mean what you said in that article?"

"Yes sir."

"You meant Judge Leahy and Secundino Romero?"

"Yes."

"How do you know that the facts you stated about Judge Leahy's court being dominated by Romero, are true, purely hearsay?"

"No. Personal knowledge, other than that obtained by the method by which we usually obtain knowledge. Secundino Romero and David Leahy didn't tell me about it. I reached my conclusions by long observation of facts."

"Name one circumstance."

"I can't take one circumstance. There is a large array of events and circumstances that will bear me out."

"Can you name two or three events to prove that Secundino Romero controls this court?"

Englightened Nomination

"Yes. The first thing that brought to my mind that Judge Leahy was controlled by Secundino Romero was during the republican convention of 1920. Secundino was then in charge of a delegation of San Miguel delegates at the convention and did as pleased with the vote called Delgado a negro thief. This was an outburst of applause."

Here Judge Leahy warned the courtroom full of people that they retain order saying: "This is not a play house or a religious meeting. I will exclude any member of the audience who repeats the disturbance."

Alleged Tax Discrimination

"G. B. Davis, Jr. and A. A. Jones, the former a republican and the latter a democrat owned land side by side in Goshute county. Jones could get no reduction of his land taxes. Davis owed over $100,000. This was reduced to $25,000 and later to $11,000."

"Any other events?"

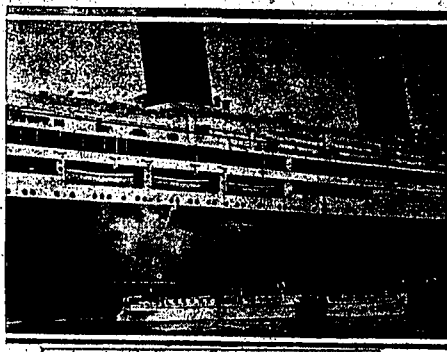

"The conviction of A. A. Bone in this court for libel. I know all the evidence in this case. This is called Delgado a negro thief. This is an outburst of applause."

Here Judge Leahy warned the courtroom full of people that they retain order saying: "This is not a play house or a religious meeting. I will exclude any member of the audience who repeats the disturbance."

Levathan and Clermont

A replica of the Clermont, Robert Fulton's first steamship, which started the world when it steamed under its own power from New York City to Albany, was anchored alongside the Levathan, the world's greatest and fastest steamship, when the reconditioned German liner started her first voyage from New York as a passenger carrier under the American flag.

GRAIN CROP

The setback in values as compared with 24 hours before was irregular, varying from 2 1/2 to 5-cents a bushel, September delivery closing at $1.00 to $1.00 1/4 and December at $1.03 to $1.03 1/8.

Although selling out had been general from the beginning of business no flurry developed until shortly before the close. It was announced that arrival of wheat in Chicago from the new 1923 crop had already commenced. Inasmuch as Chicago has of late been the highest market in the country, the idea quickly spread that the bulk of the increasing movement of new wheat would be headed in this direction.

Traders Hunt Cover

Hasty liquidation on the part of holders of wheat followed, as prices gave way. This was especially the case with owners who had been clinging to the notion that black rust might destroy much of the spring crop in the northwest. Instead, cool weather promised to halt the rust and let the spring crop race to safety. Meanwhile, new export business was plenty in amount and to cap the climax it was apparently shown beyond question that much talked of plans to restrict the movement of new wheat to market were falling to be carried out with anything like the thoroughness which in various quarters had seemed to be expected.

Corn, oats and hogs, as well as wheat, all finished at losses today as compared with yesterday.

GREEK ORPHAN BOYS TO BE TRAINED AS FARMERS

LONDON, July 10. (AP)—Two thousand orphan boys from Anatolia have been transported as farm colonists to the rich agricultural district behind the Macedonian front, through the efforts of the Near East Relief and the British Red Cross.

The Greek government has allotted

5000 acres of land near Philadelphia in the Near East relief, which is establishing three farm villages for the boys. Within a year the boys will be able to hand work to establish themselves on individual farms.

This is the first farm experiment of its kind in Greece and the government farm experts will pay close attention to the initial stages of the enterprise.

TOO MANY HOGS REDUCE PRICES

Livestock Producers' Association Denies Co-operators to Blame for Decline

CHICAGO, July 10. (AP)—Exception to the statement of Everett O. Brown, president of the National Livestock Exchange, that cooperative marketing was responsible for the decline in hog prices was taken Monday by John Brown, president of the National Livestock Producers' association.

John G. Brown charged the exchange with having discriminated against the stock raisers in favor of the country speculator.

He also charged that the old line commission firms had boycotted the farmers' cooperative sales agencies under the new packers and stockyards control law.

"Everett C. Brown's opinion regarding the hog market is wholly at variance with the facts which he has at hand," the association president declared. The market statistics show that local cattle receipts for the month of June were the smallest since 1917. Light receipts make for higher prices. Likewise the receipts of sheep for June were the lightest for more than 30 years. These good conditions were due to seasonally light rains and not to the fact that co-ops have not yet invaded those departments of the market as fully as they have the hog market.

Statistics Tell Story

The same market statistics show that more hogs were on the Chicago market this June than ever before in the history of June markets. A similar condition occurred in 1911 with similar effect, and that was long before cooperative marketing of hogs was under way.

Between November and July 7 western markets received 5,000,000 more hogs than in the same period in either of the two years just preceding. Hog shipments from 12 car belt states to all markets increased 32.2 per cent this year, as compared with the year preceding the period of November 1 to June 1.

"The law of supply and demand causes over-production in livestock and in almost any other farm product. It is a matter of record that over-production without orderly marketing means lower prices; low prices sometimes come without over-production in a disorderly market because the speculator gets our product and the consumer gets no benefit of the low price which the producer receives with the shipment. We seek to relieve by uniting our selling power and placing our goods on the market as needed; we also will relieve the transportation situation in this way."

Supposing a great anti-housefly campaign were so successful that only one specimen was left alive in the whole world, should we be rid of these carriers of disease? Hardly, for the housefly can increase with amazing speed. If all surviving specimens of a single fly would number 50,000,000 before the end of the summer, if all these could be killed in a new campaign, 3,000 cars would be needed to remove the slain.

Tom Skeyhill Is Coming Back

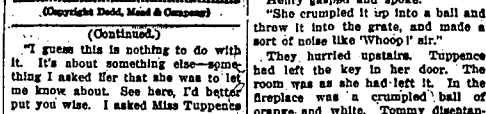

Chautauqua Audience Again to Hear Brilliant Young Speaker Who Has Just Returned From Europe

Those who have heard Tom Skeyhill, the young Australian soldier-poet, author and lecturer, need not be told of the fame and eloquence of this brilliant young orator...

Tommy handed it back, his eyes shining. His feelings had undergone a sharp reaction. He now felt that Tuppence was all that was noble and disinterested. Had she not refused Julius without hesitation?

The Secret Adversary

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

"I guess this is nothing to do with it. It's about something else—something I asked for that she was to let me know about. See here, I bet you put your nose into that morning."

"Oh!" said Tommy mechanically. He felt dazed. Julius' words were totally unexpected. For the moment, they dumfounded his brain.

"I'd like to tell you," continued Julius, "that before I suggested anything of the kind to Miss Tuppence, I made it clear that I didn't want to put it in the way between her and you."

Tommy roused himself. "That's all right," he said quickly, "Tuppence and I have been pals for years. Nothing more." He lit a cigarette with a hand that shook ever so little.

"That's quite all right," Tuppence always said that she was looking out for— "He stopped abruptly, his face crimsoning, but Julius was in no way discomfited."

"Oh, I guess it'll be the dollars that'll do the trick. Miss Tuppence put me wise to that right away. There's no humming about her. We ought to be taken together very well."

"Tommy looked at him curiously for a minute, as though he were about to speak, then changed his mind and said nothing. Tuppence and Julius! Well, why not? Had she not lamented the fact that she knew no rich man? Had she not openly avowed her intention of marrying for money if she ever had the chance? Why blame her because she had been true to her creed?"

Nevertheless, Tommy did blame her. He was filled with a passionate and utterly illogical resentment. Tuppence was utterly cold-blooded and selfish, and he would be delighted if he never saw her again. And that was a rotten world!

train, the 12:50 from London? She'd probably ask you the way to the Most house." He described Tuppence as well as he could, but the porter shook his head. Several people had arrived by that train in question. He could not call to mind one young lady in particular.

Tommy rejoined Julius, and explained. Depression was settling down on him like a leaden weight. He felt convinced that their quest was going to be unavailing. The anxiety had lasted over three hours' start. Three hours was more than enough for Mr. Brown. He would not ignore the possibility of the telegram having been found.

The way seemed endless. It was past seven o'clock when a small boy told them that the "Most house" was just past the next corner. "A rusty iron gate swinging dimly on its hinges! An overgrown drive thick with leaves. There was something about the place that struck a chill to both their hearts."

A turn of the drive brought them in sight of the house. The door seemed empty and deserted. Was it indeed to this desolate spot that Tuppence had been decoyed? It seemed hard to believe that a human footstep had passed this way for months. Julius jerked the rusty bell handle. A jangling peal rang discordantly, echoing through the emptiness within. No one came.

They rang again and again—but there was no sign of life. Then they walked completely round the house. Everywhere silence, and shuttered windows. "Nothing doing," said Julius. They retraced their steps slowly to the gate.

"There must be a village handy," continued the young American. "We'd better make inquiries there. They'll know something about the place, and whether there's been any one there lately."

"Yes, that's not a bad idea." Proceeding up the road, they soon came to a little hamlet. On the outskirts of it, they met a workman swinging the rusty bell handle, and Tommy stopped him with a question. "The Most house? It's empty. Been empty for years. Mrs. Sweeney's got the key if you want to go over—next to the post office."

Tommy thanked him. They soon found the post office, and knocked at the door of the cottage next to it. A clean, wholesome-looking woman opened it. She readily produced the key of the Most house.

"Thank you, I don't think it's the kind of place to suit you, sir. In a terrible state of repair. Ceiling falling all here and so what she's up to. El-Henry!"

The small boy came obediently. "One thing more. Do you remember what the young lady did with the telegram?"

Henry gasped and spoke. "She crumpled it up into a ball and threw it into the grate, and made a sort of noise like 'Whoo!' sir."

They hurried upstairs. Tuppence had left the key in her door. The room was as she had left it. In the fireplace was a crumpled ball of orange and white. Tommy disentangled and smoothed out the telegram. "Come at once, Most House, Ebury, Yorkshire, great developments—TOMMY."

They looked at each other in stupefaction. Julius spoke first: "I guess it means the worst. They've got her!"

"Sure thing! They signed your name, and she fell into the trap like a lamb. 'My G—! What shall we do?' 'Get busy, and go after her! Right now! There's no time to waste. It's a mighty luck that she didn't take the wire with her. If she had we'd probably never have traced her. But we've got to hustle. Where's that Bradshaw?"

"The energy of Julius was infectious. Left to himself, Tommy would probably have sat down to think things out for a good half hour before he decided on a plan of action. But with Julius Herzhelmer about, hustling was inevitable.

"Here we are, Ebury, Yorks. From King's Cross, or St. Pancras, I might have made a mistake. It was King's Cross, not Charing Cross; 12:50, that's the train she went by. 2:10, that's gone. 3:20 is the next."

"I say, Julius, what do they want her for, anyway?" "Why I don't see you? 'What I mean is that I don't think it's their game to do her any harm,' explained Tommy, puckering his brow with the strain of his mental process. 'She's a hostage, that's what she is. As long as they've got her, they've got the whip hand on us, see?'"

"Sure thing," said Julius thoughtfully. "That's so." "Nevertheless," added Tommy, as an afterthought, "I've great faith in Tuppence."

The journey was wearisome, with many stops, and crowded carriages. Ebury was a deserted station with a solitary porter, to whom Tommy addressed himself. "Can you tell me the way to the Most house?" "The Most house? It's a tidy step from here. The big house near the sea, you mean?" Tommy assented brazenly. After listening to the porter's picturesque but perplexing directions, they prepared to leave the station. It was beginning to rain, and they turned up the collars of their coats as they trudged through the slush of the road. Suddenly Tommy halted.

Julius took the form back and folded it up. "Queen," he said thoughtfully. "I thought that lawyer chap had quit!" (Continued in Next Issue)

Starrs Golf Dispute: When Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the National Academy of Sciences, announced that the heat of the sun was gradually diminishing and that the temperature from 8 to 4 per cent during the past fifteen months, he started a controversy which promises to rage indefinitely. If Doctor Abbot's statement is proved to be correct it means a cold summer, a spoiling of the crops and an unusually severe winter.

Doctor Abbot should speak with authority, since he has been continuously engaged in the study of solar radiation since 1895, when he joined the staff of the Smithsonian Astrophysical observatory. During this period he has conducted several expeditions and studied solar eclipses and has made frequent journeys abroad to confer with foreign scientists. He was born in Wilton, N. H., in 1872.—New York Herald.

Historic Square Threatened: Kenmore Square in London, dating from the days of William III, is threatened by a commercial invasion. To provide a garage for commercial vehicles, it is proposed to raise one of the old houses on the north side. Addison, Sigbee, Talleyrand and John Stuart Mill are numbered among the prominent personages that at one time lived in this charming spot. Distinguished artists and others are protesting against the step, which would irretrievably damage the historic square.

All Liable for War Service: According to the opinion of the War Department, every able-bodied American is already included in the reserve forces of the army, unless attached or assigned to one of the three other elements of the system of national defense, namely, the regular army, the National Guard or the United States navy.

WHEAT TOUCHES NEW LOW

Price on Exchange Drops to $1 a Bushel When First Carload of New Crop Reaches Chicago

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—Wheat tumbled in price today to $1 a bushel—figures once considered ideal from a farmer's point of view; but at present said to be well below the cost of production.

Prospects that the domestic spring crop would be ready to harvest had been over taken by black rust had meant to do with today's break in value, and so, too, did the fact that the first car of new wheat to reach Chicago this season had just arrived here.

The market closed with all months at a new low price record for the season, including September $1.00, 1.01, and 1.02, and December $1.03 to 1.04.

It was only in the final hour of trading that acute weakness developed in the wheat market, at the last, however, liquidation on the part of owners had broadened out to a material extent, and the demands had dwindled.

With about 700 carloads of new wheat reported as having arrived at four-southwestern interior markets in two days, less was heard of assertions that growers were holding back wheat to a greater extent than usual.

Provisions reflected weakness of hog values as well as grain.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—The raw sugar market was unsettled today. The sharp decline in futures enabled operators to offer at concession, but buyers were rather cautious and only a few transactions were recorded. The sales reported included 10,000 bags of Cuban at $1.96 cent and 17,000 bags of Philippine to an outport refinery, due to arrive late this month at equal to $6.27 cent.

renewed liquidation, prompted by the more liberal offerings in the spot market and the decline abroad. Receipts were considerable and market and final prices were about the lower, on from 25 to 20 points below the previous night's closing; September $4.77; December, $4.76; March, $4.73; and 3.45.

STOCKS AT LOWER LEVEL

Prices Decline in Response to Uncertain Developments; Oil Offer Good Resistance. Day's total sales 363,100 shares. Twenty Industrials averaged 98.44; all loss, $2. High, 1923, 105.35; low, 87.85.

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Prices weakened to lower levels in today's stock market in response to a series of unfavorable economic developments, while speculative uncertainty over the outcome of the French-British impasse on the reparations question was reflected in the market.

The Wall Street apparently is marking the ending of the movement of the British policy on reparations which is expected to be made in the house of commons by Premier Baldwin on Thursday.

The favorable effect of the crop report was counteracted heavily by a decrease of nearly 600,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, further cut in important commodity prices, including wheat, rye, lead, sugar and Pennsylvania crude oil and further indications of decrease in production in other important industries, notably the automobile field.

Copper yielded with the rest of the list, but some encouragement was obtained from the fact that stocks of ground copper in the hands of American producers declined 7,000,000 pounds, to 197,500,000 in June, making the total on hand less than 200,000,000 pounds for the first time since the war.

Oil offered good resistance to selling pressure despite the fact that another cut in mid-continental crude prices is reported as having taken effect here. Delaware and Hudson was run up to 101 1/2 to 102 points above Saturday's close.

Foreign exchanges showed marked improvement. Demand sterling advanced more than a cent to $4.57-1/2; and French francs jumped nearly 2c, to 20.44, from a low of 20.20, the lowest point, yesterday.

ADOPT PLAN TO BOOST FARMING

Civic Bureau to Carry on Advertising Campaign to Show Agricultural Assets

Another step in the general scheme of community progress put in effect by the chamber of commerce and which has already attracted considerable attention to this district was taken Tuesday night when the board of directors at their regular meeting discussed general conditions and prospects here in general, and after agreeing that Twin Falls' future is undeniably promising, decided on a plan designed as an factor in putting Twin Falls "on the map" in an agricultural way.

After a thorough discussion of agricultural matters the board decided to have produced a considerable amount of statistics and literature on farming to be distributed throughout the middle western and eastern farming sections.

The reading matter will be put in concise form, but will tell the pertinent points concerning prospects and opportunities here, especially for dairying, but also for hog raising, livestock and poultry raising. It is the firm conviction that these industries can go carried on here as successfully, or more so, than in many of the better known districts throughout the United States.

The subject was taken up for consideration, although no action was taken. Although this matter is at present only in a tentative form indications are that it will be a position of general interest to the city very soon and that a decision will be made on a zoning ordinance applicable to Twin Falls.

FISHING PARTY PASSES OVER DANGEROUS GRADE

Party of Three Local Men Negotiate Treacherous Highway

The trail creek grade, leading from above Ketchum over the summit to Wild Horse is possibly but is one of the most difficult and dangerous grades in the state at present, according to S. H. Kayler, who, with E. Greame and M. E. Shotwell, returned Tuesday morning from a three day fishing trip in Conner basin.

The party made the trip by way of Greave and made the crossing at the mouth of the trail creek summit. While a good deal of work has been done on this grade during the past year it is still a little less than what it should be, while the outer edge has broken away at many points and slides have occurred from above at others. In places, Mr. Kayler says, the width of the road were within a few inches of the outer edge of the trail with a sheer drop of hundreds of feet below and a solid wall of shale above. A few days ago a good deal of rain had fallen, and he says, but the trip is attended with heavy risk and as a rule those making it do not repeat the performance.

The party returned Tuesday to both Wild Horse and the upper Lost river running high and muddy with the roads impassable in many places, and frequent landslides are occurring. Consequently the fish are being taken and these for the most part small, although all three fishermen filled their baskets daily.

DIRECTORS TALK VALUATION WORK

American Falls Board Discusses Benefit Assessments; Resolutions Passed

The portion of the expense of construction of the American Falls reservoir to be placed on city lots located in the district to receive the benefits of the big dam, constituted the principal matter of discussion before the board of directors of the district at their meeting in the new offices on Second street west on Tuesday afternoon.

The apportionment of the expense, which is now being collected, apparently will take considerable time and thought on the part of the directors and no definite action was taken on the matter Tuesday except as requested in the passage of a resolution relating to the collection of benefit assessments. Another resolution was passed ordering the payment of warrants in regular rotation in the order of issuance by the district. The district is permitted to draw warrants up to the limit of $10,000 through an act of the last state legislature. Fifty dollars in cash premiums are offered for each of the exhibits. There are 13 $2.00 prizes; 13 $1.00 seconds and a like number of 50 cent thirds. In addition there is a sort of "grand champion" premium of $5.00 for the one most shown in the entire display of sheaf grains and grasses.

All blades should be stripped from the straw, heads should be well arranged, straw to be cut short and ends of sheaves should be neatly and securely bound. Select grain before it is ripe enough to shatter in handling. Keep in darkened place until ready for exhibit in order to prevent bleaching."

Some other splendid premiums are offered in the department of grains and grasses. Those who are interested should apply at once to the secretary at Elmer asking that a premium list be sent. One will be mailed to your address.

WOMEN OF TURKEY MAY SOON CAST OFF FEETERS

CONSTANTINOPLI, June 30.—(AP)—Turkish women seem destined soon to enjoy the same freedom and privileges accorded to the United States. Fatma Kemal has promised them the vote and they are now beginning to shake off the fetters which have kept them so domestic. Hitherto since their emancipation from the control of their fathers will be held here shortly, and a countrywide suffrage movement inaugurated. Women possessing diplomas of the Turkish secondary education may appoint delegates.

One of the leaders of the new movements says the object of the Turkish women is to vote peacefully within two years. Meanwhile, the first step in this direction was won recently when the women elected a Turkish women's club to the council of primary education. Women voters appeared at the electoral assembly in greater numbers than the men, and this was interpreted as showing modern enlightenment. Turkish women's keenness in social matters.

Mrs. Mark Bristol, wife of Admiral Bristol, the American high commissioner in the United States, and the Turkish societies and has given the Moslem women much useful counsel based upon the experience of American women in such life. Ninety per cent of Turkish women are illiterate. Their education extends little beyond a memorization of parts of the Koran (Turkish bible) and certain acquaintance with household and maternal duties. Their husbands regard them as morally convenient mediums to minister to their needs and pleasures.

WOMEN DEBATE

(Continued From Page One) the Pacific coast states that employ-ees, following the rendering of the great decision of the United States supreme court holding the minimum wage law of the District of Columbia unconstitutional, had passed resolutions informing the welfare commission of the states that they desired the laws enforced in spite of the high court's action. He made a plea for the law, especially as benefiting the health of women workers, saying they were not fitted physically to work as long hours as men.

Miss Emma Haggenstein of Marshalltown, Iowa, opposed the minimum wage idea as contrary to business principles, declaring that if employers pay more for labor than it is worth, it results either in loss or charity.

Demands Equality with Men—Merica E. Housland of Indianapolis, took a stand against the minimum wage asking "Why should women permit themselves to be placed on a lower plane than men? Do not see any reason why woman should accept a minimum wage any more than men should." The fight in Illinois over legislation for women was reviewed by Volma Hickman of Rock Island, Ill.
