AVIATOR'S PLAN FOR LONG TRIP MEETS FAILURE

Leak in Oil Cooler Forces Intrepid Army Pilot to Give Up Flight within Short Distance from Goal

BOOK SPRINGS, Wyo., July 19 (AP)—Failure greeted the second attempt within ten days of Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, intrepid army aviator, to span the North American continent between dawn and dusk today, when an oil leak forced him to land here at 5:08 p. m. (Mountain time). He had covered 7,000 miles in 11 days, 15 hours and 10 minutes behind him, in his race with the sun, when he was forced to descend.

A stream of oil, spurting from an almost invisible aperture in the oil cooler of his Curtiss plane, necessitated the cancellation of the flight.

A similar leak had caused nearly an hour's delay at Cheyenne, Wyo., his third stopping place, shortly after noon today, and Maughan was driving his motor at stop speed to regain the time which had been lost. For more than 200 miles westward from Cheyenne the plane raced smoothly, but at Rock Springs the cooler suddenly began to leak. Maughan passed over the air field at 4:58 p. m., determined to continue to Saltdale, Utah, the next stopping place. As the fumes from the escaping oil became stronger, however, he turned back and landed at the almost deserted field.

Could Not Continue

A brief examination by two pilots convinced Maughan that it would be impossible to reach San Francisco, west or terminus of his flight, before darkness closed in.

Bitterly disappointed at the failure of his second attempt to cross the continent, when victory had almost seemed assured, Maughan made a cursory examination of the oil cooler, and found from the air mail field a Rock Springs hotel where he retired for the night.

"How do you feel, Russell?" he was asked by the Associated Press correspondent.

"Well, how would you feel?" he replied.

"Just how did the trouble occur?"

"Well, it was a leak in the oil cooler. I noticed it first near North Platte, Neb., but it was not very bad. I thought we had it fixed at Cheyenne, but it became worse as I drove on. Twenty miles out of Rock Springs it began to leak in bucketfuls so I thought best to quit."

Asked if he was tired, Lieutenant Maughan said: "Well, I'm leaning against a bedpost here, I'm not very tired, however, and could easily have gone to San Francisco."

"Wasn't it wonderful?" exclaimed the aviator suddenly. "I think it was a wonderful thing, even if I didn't complete the task. One of those things over which we have no control."

"Would you like to try it again?" he was asked.

AUTO RIM FEATURES IN FREAK TRAFFIC AFFAIR

Unknown Boise Stranger Escapes Injury by Inches when Steel Hoop Flies Off Twin Falls Man's Car

BOISE—An unknown man, bounding peacefully in front of the Bristol hotel early Wednesday evening, says the Idaho Stateman, miraculously escaped probable serious injury when a flying rim, given momentum by a tire "blowout" on a passing automobile bounced over his head by a few inches margin and crashed into the plate glass window of the hotel lobby.

D. O. Rice of Twin Falls was reported to be the driver of the "blow out" machine. As the car passed the window of the Bristol hotel, a tire sent the rim hurtling into the air. Striking the rear of an automobile owned by the manager of the hotel, which was parked at the curb, the rim rebounded, sailing over the stranger's head, and ending its eventful flight in the big plate glass window.

AUTHOR OF BAD CHECK IS BELIEVED CAPTURED

Arrest at Elko, Nevada, of Man Believed to Be Joseph Bennett, Wanted Here, Is Reported to Sheriff

Arrest at Elko, Nev., of a man believed to be Joseph Bennett, wanted here on a charge of issuing a fictitious check, was reported to the sheriff's office here, and Deputy J. W. Gabhart left Thursday morning with a warrant for the return of the prisoner. Bennett is sought to answer charges preferred by the prosecuting attorney at the instance of F. D. Hunt, who alleges that Bennett on June 21, passed on the Diamond Hotel, here, a check drawn by John Anderson, when in fact there was no such John Anderson in existence. The check was drawn in the sum of $17.50 in favor of Bennett and bore the notation, "labor."

FAILS IN AIR TRIP

WITHIN a few hundred miles of his goal, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan was forced to give up his plan for a daylight transcontinental flight at Rock Springs, Wyo., where he landed at 5:08 p. m. Thursday.

NATIONS RENEW TREATY OF 1908

France and United States Sign Agreement of Arbitration for Another Five Years

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—The United States and France today renewed their treaty of arbitration without change for another period of five years. The treaty, originally signed in Washington in 1908, had been renewed twice at five-year intervals.

Secretary Hughes and the French ambassador, Jules Jusserand, signed the agreement. Later the state department announced that the two governments will consider the making of an agreement under which disputes of the nature described in the treaty could be referred to the courts.

HARDING PARTY PREPARING FOR JOURNEY HOME

Hope to Reach Vancouver, B. C., Next Thursday; Officials Agree on Expected Alaskan Development

ABOARD U. S. S. HENDERSON, WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, July 19 (AP)—The consensus of opinion of officials in President Harding's party, fixed on the conclusion of an inspection of Alaska approaches, is that the territory will generally develop but that no sensational boom can be expected as a result of the visit of the chief executive.

President Harding, Secretaries Work, Hoover and Wallace and the remainder of the presidential party arrived at Valdez today and are voyaging to Cordova and Sitka, the two stops remaining before Vancouver, B. C., which the Henderson is to reach next Thursday, proceeding to the United States at Seattle the following day.

Hoover Outlining Policy

Mr. Hoover is expected to make his Alaska policy clear in a statement to be issued soon. It is understood that the statement will be confined largely to fisheries, probably suggesting the creation of additional fishing reservations with a view to conserving the supply by protecting it from excessive rapid harvesting.

Dr. Work is said to favor amplification of the homestead laws so that patents in Alaska may be issued more quickly. He is believed to be of the opinion that the Harding administration would be unjustified in recommending to congress large appropriations for Alaskan development but to assent to the proposal that congress should provide for developments as they are needed.

Have Farming Problems

Mr. Wallace has already announced his conviction that agricultural development in Alaska will be slow, and the farmers in the territory have many difficulties to overcome before they get the industry on a plane where success is assured.

Mrs. Harding did not come ashore when the president visited Valdez, but remained on the Henderson, continuing a program of rest that she has followed since she left Fairbanks.

Invasion By I. W. W. Called Off To Await General Marine Strike

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, July 19 (AP)—There will be no invasion of Port Arthur by the I. W. W.

This statement was made by General Organizer Sidney Terry at 11 o'clock tonight. He declared that a messenger had just arrived from New Orleans bearing orders from Harry G. Clark of Chicago and John Shuslik of New York.

The reason given by Terry, who was in company with William Oreen and Robert Bell, was other I. W. W. who were arrested last week and are awaiting trial on vagrancy charges, is that a general strike is being ordered which will take marine workers out of service, and that the higher officials of the organization do not consider it advisable to concentrate in any one section, and those who were en route to Port Arthur are being turned back at New Orleans.

The men had been ordered back to New York, according to Terry's statement to the Associated Press here, while those from the west coast have been ordered to return to strategic points to await orders for the general strike which may come in a short time.

Terry stated that he and his three companions, all officials of the organization division of the I. W. W., were the only outside members who have so far arrived in Port Arthur.

He said they would remain here until their vagrancy charges were called, probably tomorrow, and would remain in Port Arthur to await further orders.

"If the strike comes soon," said Terry, "I will open headquarters in Port Arthur, but should anything deny the strike order it may be that we will be sent to other ports to take charge of the preparations, as our organization work is going on smoothly here."

"There'll be no more I. W. W. coming in here at this time, and the invasion has been definitely ordered off."

"We have been keeping headquarters in touch with conditions here and they know just what is being done in the way of investigating the Holland case by the grand jury and others."

"The strike is to be a general one affecting all transport members of our organization as they come into the different ports after the strike order is given."

ENGINEER URGES DEVELOPMENT OF WATER PROJECTS

Geologist Recommends Reservation of Right to Build Dams in Arizona; Possibility of Water Shortage Feared

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 19 (AP)—The suggestion that a way be found to reserve the right to develop large irrigation projects in Arizona and California should they be feasible at development at some future date, and the statement that the water supply of the Colorado river may not be sufficient to sustain the lands which are found commercially feasible of development are contained in a report submitted to Governor George W. P. Hunt today by C. E. Larrin, United States geological survey engineer. Mr. Larrin is chairman of the Arizona Engineering commission, which has completed a survey in an attempt to determine how much land in Arizona and California could be irrigated with the waters of the Colorado river. The report recommends that the state should reserve the right to build dams on the river, and that the state should acquire special interest, because of the hearing it may have on the fight to secure ratification of the Colorado river compact, which would be a digest and summary of the report of the whole committee, a lengthy document which has not yet been made public.

Await Commission's Report

Supporters of the Colorado river compact, which has been ratified by all the other states of the river basin, but which has not yet been ratified by the legislature, have contended that there is sufficient water in the river to meet all present and future needs. Many opponents of the compact in both houses of the legislature fear that the state that the water allotted to Arizona might not be sufficient for future irrigation needs of the state. Governor Hunt in a special message to the legislature declared there was a lack of accurate data on the future irrigation needs of the state.

2,500,000 Acres Involved

Mr. Larrin, who has conducted previous surveys of the Colorado river, was assigned to the state for the purpose of the survey, which, according to the report, covered projects embracing 2,500,000 acres.

"If these projects should be proven feasible at this time or any other time," the report states, "the flow of the Colorado river in the Grand Canyon may be sufficient to serve an area of some 4,000,000 acres. Assuming a duty of 4.00 acre foot per acre the annual requirement would be more than 16,000,000 acre feet. The average supply being 9,610,000 acre feet, it must be apparent that the annual water supply would be deficient by about 6,000,000 acre feet."

The flow of 9,610,000 acre feet takes into account the development for future needs in the upper basin of the river, and the report states that the flow of the Colorado river may be feasible 20 or 30 years from now.

Survey Is Suggested

"The need for additional areas of irrigated land is not especially urgent," the report states. "It is, therefore, suggested that sufficient time be taken to make surveys and prepare a report showing a comprehensive plan for the development of the Colorado river as a whole."

The report specifically recommends an appropriation of $25,000 for further study of the high line canal project, which has been claimed that 2,000,000 acres can be irrigated.

The report urges the necessity for prompt action for flood control and suggests the Mohave valley reservoir site for development as a solution of the flood problem.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MARGARINE EDITOR

BERLIN, Ohio, July 19 (AP)—Funeral services for John M. Siddall, editor of the American Margarine, was held Monday, were held here today by Henry Churchill King, president of Oglethorpe college, and Penn Edward L. Roworth. Burial was conducted in the cemetery less than a mile from the campus where Mr. Siddall died as a student and alumnus of the college.

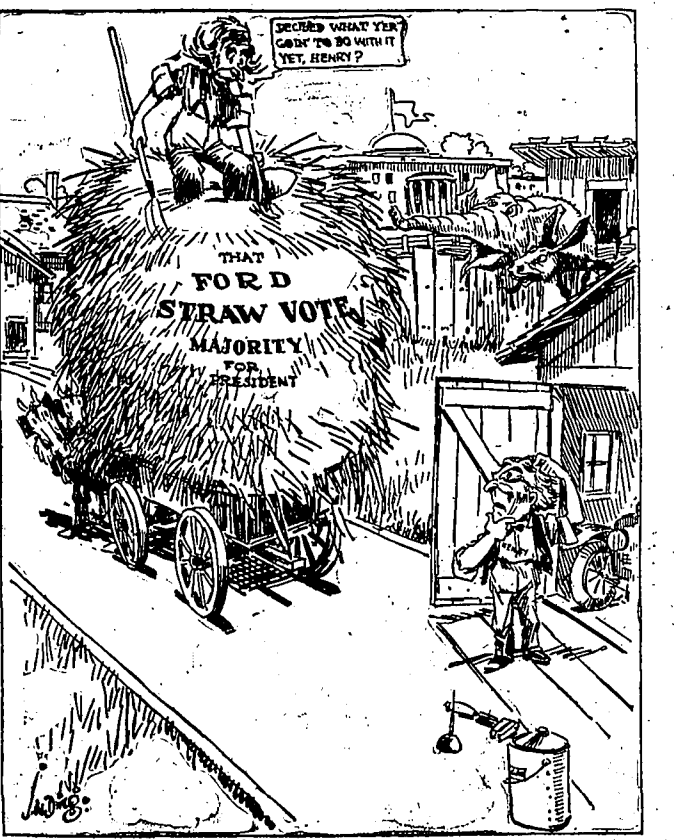

WEINSTEIN STAGES COMEBACK

BRATTLE, N. J., July 19 (AP)—Irving Weinstein, San Francisco, defeated last week in the men's singles of the Oregon tennis championship tournament by Elmer Griffin, who later won the title, came back today and tossed Griffin out of the running. For the Washington singles title, Griffin and Weinstein must survive two more rounds to gain the championship.

TRACE PROGRESS TO RECLAMATION OF DESERT LAND

Guy Flenner, in Address to Realtors, Says "Shovel is Preferable to the Sword" for Nation's Expansion

(NOTE—Mr. Flenner is one of the oldest newspaper men in point of service, in a territorial or state capacity as a newspaper writer he has long taken an active interest in irrigation development. As head of the irrigation committee in Idaho, he put over the American Falls project, as to its financing cooperatively between the farmers of a large territory and the United States government, a task that engaged his time for nearly two years. His work will result in the construction of a large storage reservoir in the world.)

PORTLAND, July 19 (AP)—Declaring that all the gold nuggets from Alaska, which was a territorial United States government investment in 1867 to the amount of $7,200,000, was worth in permanent progress and property, not in the least, an agricultural valley full of American homes," Guy Flenner, of Boise, Idaho, veteran newspaper-man of the north-west, speaking today in the auditorium of the Northwest Real Estate association, drew a sharp corollary respecting the expansion of irrigation lands in various directions and of federal loans in aid of irrigation development. "It is not to be urged that these expenditures or donations or gifts or that ever they may be called should not have been made, nor that they should be curtailed in the future," the speaker said, "for health, national growth necessitates general and provincial development; but we do urge that to rivers and harbors be added ranches and houses."

National Expansion.
"Expansion is the outgrowth of congestion in every nation. It is sought peacefully or otherwise. The noblest ideas of world peace have been supported more on account of congested conditions than because of any national appetite for armed conflict on the part of the population."
"The requirements for expansion will become increasingly pronounced in this country. We can expand within our own borders or we can expand outside territory. There is room here for all the growth the nation will experience in many generations if we utilize the space. That space is presented by arid and semi-arid America, and the key that will unlock its doors to a home-loving and home-making people is reclamation."
"Expansion is bound to come. Might we not better expect within our own borders? Is not the shovel preferable to the sword? The suggestion does not seem to be inappropriate, especially at a time when the country appears to stand at the threshold of a re-delimitation of the present national boundaries."
Commercial Growth.
"Speaking in a purely commercial way devoid of all utilitarian aspects, reclamation is the keystone of advancement. To the west in a large degree must business look for future expansion. Eastern manufacturers will find in the west the largest opportunities it seeks. When official figures show that in small government projects, a little more than 105,000 acres, there was purchased in one year more than $7,000,000 of eastern-manufactured products, men of affairs in the manufacturing centers of the country may well take notice; for that is but a drop in the bucket compared to the present total of all projects under the national reclamation act. The government had expended, he said, $125,000,000. More than 1,700,000 acres of arid land had been supplied with water, and the supply and 1,100,000 acres additional had been furnished with a supplemental supply."
"Judging the results on the 28 government projects now in operation, Mr. Flenner stated that had values had been created to the amount of $250,000,000, having sales to which were not less than $100,000,000. People on these projects had bought over $150,000,000 of eastern-manufactured products. They owned livestock to the value of $20,000,000. They had built 60 towns, 200 public schools, 300 churches. These things are the result of the deposits of $150,000,000, sugar factories, cheese factories, "reclamers, flour mills, etc."

Crop Values.
"On these 28 projects, with 31,465 farms of an average of 53 acres each, the value of the crops raised is officially given at $477,500,000, or $14,700,000 more than the total expenditure to date," the speaker stated. "To this must be added the crops raised by reason of a supplemental water supply and the crops raised by reason of the fact that crop values do not constitute a direct repayment to the government; but the production of additional wealth being repaid as fast as it is humanly possible to do so."

"On the eight government projects in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, there are over 400,000 acres being irrigated out of an irrigable area of 450,000 acres. The average crop value of these projects for 1922 was $70 an acre, running as high as $285 on one project. The net investment to date on these eight projects is $35,000,000; the total crop value in 1923 alone was more than $21,500,000."

Unclaimed Territory.
The speaker related that in the four states mentioned consideration was being given approximately 5,000,000 acres of unclaimed land that is irrigable in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. He classified these lands by states as follows: Idaho, 1,221,200 acres; Montana, 499,000 acres; Oregon, 102,000 acres; and Washington, 2,361,000. The latter included the Columbia river basin project of which 1,753,000 acres is proposed to be irrigated. On the other side of the river we have more than 2,000 farms of 50 acres each, a farming population of about 200,000, $350,000,000 in new values, and an influence that will give birth to greater city activity and growth and make that portion of the northwest a thriving, bee hive of industry."

"The Columbia river basin project also will produce 100,000 to 150,000 new farms, with a farming population of over 400,000, with $750,000,000 of new values and a base of not less than $300,000,000 together with bigger and better farms, and a better life. These rugged stones in the foundation of an enduring American civilization—homes."

"These are not mere pictures. The figures are based on actualities brought about under more difficult circumstances than may even be experienced on other projects."
Aid to Development.
The speaker declared that "patriotism, persistence and practical propaganda" should be the prime ingredients in the western reclamation campaign.
"We should cooperate closely and unitedly with all agencies undertaking to work out the problems of reclamation. Special attention on government projects should be maintained during the period of federal control. The farm units should be held to a maximum consistent with successful operation by the average farmer and his family. Long time payments with a low rate of interest should be provided, but there should be firm support on our part of those authorities who insist that, under such liberal conditions, the settlers pay the government and not stand it off because it is the government. With government projects under the slightest suggestion of attempted repudiation, reclamation is accentuated on the 'wreck.'"

Markets and Transportation.
"Marketing and transportation are subjects to which attention should give thoughtful consideration."
"More transportation and lower freight rates on agricultural products are needed; and we should encourage all legitimate efforts to secure them. But are we doing so? Is it not true that we are giving our support to those whose vaulting ambition and faithless pursuit of votes have led them into a socialistic attitude with relation to our farmers? If our transportation conditions are to give us the service we require, they must make money. Indeed, an impoverished transportation system is about the worst enemy that could be inflicted upon any section.

"These carriers face serious problems, associated with a control-outfit and a control-outfit. We can do no better than to bring about fair returns. I have talked with several heads of transportation companies and I have failed to find one who was not earnestly trying to bring about fair returns. I have talked with several heads of transportation companies and I have failed to find one who was not earnestly trying to bring about fair returns. I have talked with several heads of transportation companies and I have failed to find one who was not earnestly trying to bring about fair returns."

"We should aid those men to solve these vital problems instead of supporting those who are placing stumbling blocks in their path. We can do so by getting around the table with them."

"It is within the knowledge of any number of people that one great transportation company, serving a large portion of the northwest, is negotiating with connecting lines and with other than agricultural shippers, to bring about adjustments that will permit voluntary agricultural rate reductions applicable to the present growing crops."
"At the same time politicians are urging a costly organized procedure before the interstate commerce commission, which would operate to stop connection and negotiation, and throw our farming shippers into an undermanned conflict of a legal nature with principally connecting lines and adverse shipping interests."

Philosophizing.
Henry Holt, publisher, writes in the New York Herald:
"The story of all that I have heard which comes up to me often is: 'Sam, you keep on chawin' so much tobacco, an' you'll never be an ole man.'"
"Well, dad, y'd sure pretty middlin' an', you's allus chawed a jolt' o' tobacco. How ole is yer, anyway?"
"Well, Sam, I s'pects I've about eighty, but if I hadn't never chawed no tobacco I must be a hunder'd by dis time."

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.
The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved that being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents and bottles of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars—adv.

SAYS INSURANCE FIRMS NOT FAIR

Oklahoma Legislator Claims Companies Confiscated Millions in Lapsed Payments

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP)—Asserting that insurance companies have confiscated millions of dollars because of lapsed payments by policyholders, Representative Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, announced today he would introduce a bill in the next congress seeking a guaranty fund for the full benefits under all insurance policy contracts.

The money held by the companies, Mr. Thomas said, consists of funds which "rightfully belong to the estates of unfortunate persons who permitted their policies to lapse after making a sufficient number of annual premium payments to give their policies a paid up or extended insurance value."

"Failure of the companies to fully advise policy holders of the value of their policies, Mr. Thomas said, is responsible for the condition. Many who have permitted their policies to lapse, he said, do not know such policies have a value if they have been in force for more than three years, and the insurance companies, taking advantage of this ignorance, fail to notify them of such value."

AVIATOR'S MOTHER SAYS MAUGHAN DID HIS BEST

Mrs. Peter W. Maughan, Mother of Ten Living Children, Believed that Agency of Air Test Is Ended

LOGAN, Utah, July 19 (AP)—Formal tonight that her son Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, holder of the Pulitzer record for speed in an airplane, had failed in his second attempt to fly across the United States between dawn and dusk, Mrs. Peter W. Maughan, who resides here, declared tonight she was "satisfied that my boy did the best he could, although I am disappointed he did not complete the flight."
"I had great faith that Russell could make it, but since he did his best I am satisfied. I am glad the 'agency' is all over, for it has been a great suspense," she asserted.

Mrs. Maughan, a widow and mother of ten living children, was at her home at River Heights overlooking the town of Logan and Cache county when she received a telephone message from Lieutenant Maughan at Rock Springs.

HARD GAME IS BEING LOOKED FOR BY LOCALS

Close Contest Expected when Idaho Falls Ball Players Meet Here Sunday

In Gallows, Idaho Falls has one of the best pitchers in eastern Idaho, and Manager Gurley of the easteners is taking good care of Gallows, so that he will be in the shape for Sunday's game with the locals.

On the other hand, the Twin Falls boys are working hard to beat the invaders of the Friday game means much to Twin Falls.

The boys were out last evening, and the team looks better every day, and before the season ends, every team in the state will have to respect the Twin Falls boys.

The local management has received many letters in the last few days asking for games. The Idaho Indians and Burley being anxious to come here for a tilt with the Twin Falls boys.

There is also a movement on foot to get a Salt Lake team here for a three-game series on Labor day, and if present plans don't fall Twin Falls will be treated to a "magic city" baseball season in the "magic city" in years.

Sunday's game with Idaho Falls is a benefit game as the boys are trying to lift the lumber debt that is hanging over the local park.

FRIEND BETTER THAN ENEMY

Fact That Man Who Would Make Way Up the Ladder of Success Should Remember.

The ideal is very often at sharp variance with the actual. In other words, "what ought to be" is kept out of its place by "what is." Merit ought to be the sole test for promotion. In practice, however, merit plus influence is what pushes a man or woman up the ladder of success, says a writer for London Anarchist.

Certain sorts of "influence" must, of course, be condemned; but there is nothing wrong in cultivating and—at the proper moment—calling on a right "influence" to be exerted. This is really but an additional testimonial, personally presented on your behalf. And it rarely fails! Where merit minus "influence" goes unrewarded, or has to wait, merit plus influence gets its reward, and quickly.

How can you command "influence"? Not by tawny yourself into favor. Some do it, but it is lowering, and deteriorates character. The secret is to impress your personality on those who have influence. Some men who have merit and efficiency have no personality. They don't impress; they are somewhat dull.

Without being disagreeable, they cannot impress others as being bright, amiable, agreeable, charming. They tread the beaten path, and don't go out of their way to show that they have a personality. They would take an opportunity that came to them; but they do not see that to command influence is to make opportunities to cultivate it, so that ultimately it can be used to help them.

Cynics would say that there is little or no gratitude in the world. They are wrong. There is much! Do good, and gratitude is not always ended with a "thank you." The payment is made by "influence" later on.

That holds the moral that one should never make an enemy, but should cultivate friendships.

Your friend X may have no influence himself, but his friend Y, has a friend Z. The latter has "influence" and to oblige X, who wishes to oblige X, who wishes to help you, that influence is yours. The word in season is spoken, and up you go!

The first is to develop your personality, so that you stand out distinctly from the crowd; the second is to cultivate friendships with men of influence, and they will use their "influence" for you.

You may have to ask for it, but is that to be condemned? You are not asking that your merit should have its due reward.

INDIANS TAKE CLOSE CONTEST

Coveleskie Beats Russell in Pitcher's Battle; Tigers Win from Yankees

CLEVELAND, July 19 (AP)—Coveleskie vanquished Russell in a pitchers' battle today, Cleveland winning, 3 to 0. Coveleskie held the Nationals safe except in the fifth inning when a single by Leibold, Blugge's triple and Gofline's single produced two runs. Speaker's three-base drive won the game for Cleveland.

Score: R. H. E.
Cleveland..... 3 10 0
Washington..... 0 0 0
Batteries—Russell and Ruel; Coveleskie and O'Neill.

TIGERS BUMP JONES

DETROIT, July 19 (AP)—Detroit battled Sam Jones from the box today and Detroit evened the series with New York, winning 9 to 3. Lou Blue, who has been out of the game since the eastern invasion, when one of his ribs was broken by a thrown ball, was back in the lineup, and his bat was an important factor in the Tiger attack.

Score: R. H. E.

Billions and Constipation. "For years I was troubled with billions and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system do the work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—adv.

Diminishing Flood-of-the Nile a Serious Problem.

Engineering Commission Proposed to Visit African Lakes with a View to Meeting Situation.

We learn from the Cairo correspondent of the London Times that the Egyptians are a good deal concerned over the diminishing floods of the Nile. In spite of the great dam at Assuan, which now covers with water the beautiful ruined temples at Philae, the summer supply and water for irrigation is almost always insufficient. The rice crops in lower Egypt have failed for several years in succession. Accordingly a commission of engineers is proposed to visit the great African lakes in which the Nile finds its source and see whether and where the irrigation can be undertaken with probability of increasing the flow of the river in its lower courses.

Climatologists are not hopeful on that point. It is of course a fact that under British government agriculture has widely expanded in Egypt, so that the Nile than in earlier times. But it is not probable that the present needs are as great as they were three or four thousand years ago, when Egypt was the foremost civilized state in the world. As a matter of fact there is probably less water in the Nile than there was then, and less than there was even a hundred or two hundred years ago. There is every evidence that the great desert belt that extends across Africa and Asia at a little above the tropic of Cancer is growing larger and the Nile drainage region, which is now an utter waste, was crowded with cities and full of cultivated fields only two or three thousand years ago. Mesopotamia and Persia, ancient seats of civilization, could hardly have risen so high if their climate had been less favorable than it is now. There are plenty of evidences that the Sahara and the Libyan desert have encroached on the fertile lands of north Africa and of the Sudan. The old "granary of Rome" in Tunis is now largely an arid waste. It is not surprising if the Nile draws less water than it used to from its tributaries in the Sudan and loses more than it used to by evaporation.

Most geographers agree that the deserts are growing at present. Some believe that it is only an inevitable step in the drying up of the earth and expect the process to go on forever, though perhaps with occasional relaxations. Other scholars say that there is evidence of an extraordinary amount of fluctuation in the climate of the world; that there have been much drier periods than ours, as well as much rainier ones; and that the coming of the northern desert band is only a phase in a long-time movement of climate from wet to dry and back again. But as these secular movements are extremely slow, often taking many thousands of years to complete their swing, none of us now living will be here long enough to know which theory is the right one.—Youth's Companion.

THE GUMPS—HO, HUM!

GERMAN NOTE IS BEING DELAYED

Believed Lord Curzon Seeks Compromise on Passive Resistance in Ruhr Area.

LONDON, July 19 (AP)—Lord Curzon is experiencing more difficulty in the preparation of his note to Germany than had been expected. It is now reported that the note and the covering letter may not be dispatched to Berlin until next week, but whether the trouble has arisen from political friction within the cabinet or from the inherent difficulty of framing a reply to Germany which would not offend France, is not evident.

After today's long cabinet council the foreign secretary had a separate conference with Premier Baldwin. This conference, which was at Downing street, prevented Lord Curzon from seeing Count de Saint-Aulaire, the French ambassador, who called at the foreign office while the conversation was proceeding.

It is believed although nothing is known officially, that Curzon is making the greatest efforts to find a way of compromise on the question of passive resistance in the Ruhr. He has had conversations with the German ambassador, the latest of which was yesterday, probably with the idea of finding how far the German government might be willing to recede from its support of the passive resistance movement, provided France could be induced to revert to merely civil occupation of the Ruhr. This question is being presented far more difficultly than the question of assessing Germany's capacity to pay, as it is a point on which neither the French nor the German government is disposed to yield and if some method could be discovered to save the face of the two governments that is believed that the issue could be cleared up with less difficulty.

LIGHTWEIGHTS ALL SET FOR CHAMPIONSHIP GO

Leonard and Tender Putting Finishing Touches to Training for Title Match Monday at Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, and Lew Tender, his challenger, in a 15-round title match at the Yankee stadium next Monday night, have reached the pink of condition, according to word today from the rival quarters. They will have only eight weeks to improve and Sharkey before breaking up camp to rest up for the battle.

Leonard, putting the finishing touches to his four weeks of training at Tannersville, N. Y., has announced he is down to the weight limit, 135 pounds. Critics had believed the champion, because of his comparative inactivity since last summer, would have trouble making the weight, it being recalled that he was only once under 135 pounds when he outboxed Tender in a spectacular fight a year ago at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

FLYWEIGHT CHAMPION K. O.'S BOBBY GERSHANE

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Frankie Genaro, flyweight champion of America, knocked out Bobby Gershane tonight after 48 rounds in the 12th round of a 16-round match. The fight was with the champion all the way, Gershane hitting the mat twice in the second round. Genaro weighed 118 pounds, Bobby 108.

Ancient Phrase.
"You've said it," indicating that the speaker agrees with what some one has said, is supposed to be a modern phrase. In Luke's gospel we read that Pilate asked Christ "Art thou the king of the Jews?" and Jesus Christ replied "Thou sayest it."

Origin of Dominoes.
The game of dominoes has been credited to Hebrew, Greek and Chinese origin. It came to France early in the Eighteenth century, and for a long time the Cafe de l'Opera, Paris, was the gathering place for famous players.

17 Feet of Whiskers Still Growing

Seventeen feet of whiskers—which are still growing—reached Chicago, according to the chin of H. W. Langseth, a specialty salesman, of Varney, North Dakota, who was given a trip to the Windy City to attend a convention of specialty salesmen at the prize-winning whiskers grower of the fraternity. Adjoining them are E. J. Denson and A. G. Buras.

WANTS GOVERNMENT SYSTEM OVERTHROWN

SYDNEY, N. S., July 19 (AP)—A declaration that he intended to do all in his power to overthrow the present system of government was made tonight by Daniel Livingstone, deposed president of the United Mine-Workers of America.

Mr. Livingstone made his statement at a mass meeting of 3000 striking coal miners here in Gloucester. He declared that there was no man "more loyal to the institutions of this country than I am."

WAGE INCREASE GIVEN EMPLOYEES OF RAILROAD

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—Employees of the mechanical department of the Hocking Valley railroad were granted increases in wages effective July 1, 1923, according to an announcement made through the United States labor board today by M. S. Connors, general manager. The increases amounted to three cents an hour for an aggregate sum of $97,800 and affected 1200 employees.

SHORTHORN-BREEDERS SET EXCURSION DATE

Provisional Plans Provide for Visit to Farms Followed by Picnic Lunch and Program at Fair Grounds
Date for the annual excursion of the Twin Falls North and South Side Shorthorn Breeders' association has been definitely set for Thursday, July 26, it was announced Thursday at the county fair bureau offices, where C. B. Requa of Kimberly, secretary of the association, and H. C. Hanson, assistant county agent, were in conference on plans for the affair. Itinerary and definite arrangements for the program remain to be worked out, it was stated, although it is known that Dean E. J. Iddings of the state agricultural college; Mr. Lawson, representing the American Shorthorn Breeders' association, and E. F. Binchard, field animal husbandman of the state university extension division, expect to be here and take part in the excursion.
Preliminary plans provide for visits to the forenoon to farms on which Shorthorn cattle are bred, followed by picnic lunch and program at the county fair grounds at Filer.

Deaths

Mrs. Jane D. Walker.
Mrs. Jane D. Walker, who has made her home for some time with her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Binchard, of Filer, died at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at a hospital here, at the age of 80 years. The body has been taken to the J. J. Grooms mortuary. Completion of funeral arrangements is awaiting word from relatives elsewhere although it has been announced that burial will be in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Wanted to Be There.

The great banker lay on his deathbed. Many of his friends were gathered about his bedside to be with him at the last. The attending physician whispered to the group: "I fear he is nearing the Great Divide." "Tell them not to divide until I get there," whispered the dying banker.—Forbes Magazine.

Starboard and Larboard.

The starboard side of a ship was at one time the steer-board side, in memory of the Anglo-Saxons who used to steer their boats by putting out an oar on the right-hand side of the stern. The larboard (now known as the port side) is a corruption of lower board, which was always considered inferior to the starboard.

Spectacles for Horses.

It appears that among the many odd inventions of a more or less practical nature there are spectacles for horses. The purpose is said to be not to improve the sight, but by causing the ground in front to appear nearer than it really is, to induce the horse to take high steps.

To this he made another interjection in reply—the characteristic "Would you if you were me?" Then he added, "Naturally I would."
Asked pointedly if he would fly again in an attempt to span the continent he replied: "I don't know." He added that this was up to the air service officials at Washington.
Lieutenant Maughan said also that it would take three or four hours to repair the plane. He said he probably would not go to San Francisco, "now that the flight has ended."
He added that he might go to Logan Utah to see his wife and children and his mother. After that, he asserted, Mitchell Field, New York, the starting point of his transcontinental flight today, probably would be his destination. He indicated he would return to Mitchell field by airplane.
Lieutenant Maughan characterized as "impossible," rumors circulated in the east that his plane might have been tampered with before he started the flight. "It was simply a case of the soldered part of the tank coming loose as a result of the vibration caused by speed," he asserted.
"It would have been impossible for anyone to tamper with the oil cooler," he declared, "and any such reports are untrue."
The leak occurred at a place within the plane machinery which could not have been reached without working a considerable time, he said, and many of the upper parts would have had to be removed if it was tampered with.
It was 15 hours to the minute when he landed at Rock Springs, from the time he took off at Mitchell field, N. Y., at 4:08 eastern standard time, this morning.
The three stops he made, at Dayton, St. Joseph and Cheyenne, had consumed one hour and 51 minutes.

COMRADES DISAPPOINTED.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., July 19 (AP)—Officials at Mitchell field, from which Lieutenant Maughan started this morning on his attempted daylight-to-noon trip across the continent, stated tonight that the descent at Rock Springs, Wyo., was undoubtedly caused by loosening of the solder used to mend the leak in the oil feed pipe at Cheyenne.

The engine was overheated at the time the pipe was fixed, the officials said, and the terrific heat generated by the plane's high speed was thought to have melted the solder.
Gloom overspread the army post tonight. Officers who had gathered at a Long Island hotel for a banquet, where they expected to drink a toast to the success of their comrade, returned slowly to the field. They made no effort to hide their keen disappointment.
But there was no criticism of Lieutenant Maughan. It was plain "hard luck" the officers agreed. All were sure, he would make another attempt and were just as sure he would succeed when he did try again.

IN WHOLE CLASS?

Surely a sad commentary upon human nature is presented in the action of the man who, on Sunday last, ran down a child with his car and then, after stopping long enough to render that serious injury had been inflicted, hurried back into his machine and drove rapidly away from the scene.

There is an element of downright moral cowardice in the picture which leaves an ugly feeling in the breast of the average man. Perhaps the fault was not all upon the side of the driver; possibly he is a man who at heart is a careful driver, as such things go. The evidence is too incomplete to warrant a hard and fast opinion, but there can be no two opinions as to the character of such a man—either he is a weakling without enough moral stamina to enable him to come forward like a man, tell his story and stand by the consequences, or a two-legged skunk with all the trimmings of the word impiles.

Probably he will be discovered to be in the former rather than the latter class, when and if his identity ever is discovered. But how much better it would have been if he had had the nerve to play the man in the first place.

In the meantime public sympathy goes out to the little victim and to the members of the family.

A SHACKLED PRESS

A Russian-born representative of the New York World, Samuel Spewack, presents an almost incredible picture of the Russian press.

He has been reading the leading Soviet newspapers for a year. He has spent much time in their offices. He knows their editors and reporters, and speaks their language. He should know, therefore, what he is talking about.

Now, safely outside of Russia, Mr. Spewack reports that every newspaper in that country is the organ of the Soviet government and every newspaper editor is bound by the discipline of the Communist party. There is no pretense of presenting news. The newspapers are published solely "to create public opinion which will favor what the government favors."

"Accordingly, every editorial is a government pronouncement, every story a government interpretation. News is distorted, faked and colored as no subservient press anywhere else would attempt. No opposition press exists."

As a result, the people have no means of judging events, domestic or foreign, and know nothing about what is going on outside of Russia. That is why the Bolshevik leaders retain their power. It may take a long time for such a drugged population to wake up. But when they do, what will happen to the present regime?

FATHERNAL CO-OPERATION.

A newspaper writer tells of a family which he considers "the most wonderful family in the world." It consists of nine brothers. One Sunday every month they all get together and have a business meeting, in which they discuss what they can do to help each other along. Then they spend the rest of the day in sociability.

"There are no jealousies," says the writer, "no petty bickerings. There is good will and charity and co-operation and brotherly love."

"The brothers, by the way, all seem to be prospering, besides enjoying their relations."

"But nations cannot do that!" is the retort, when someone applies a rather obvious moral. Well—has it ever been tried?

Mrs. Bevard Kopner, of Frederick, Md., was found shot to death in her home last April. A justice of the peace, in accordance with the Maryland law, signed a death certificate declaring she was a suicide. Little was heard of the case until her brother and sister started an investigation, which resulted in the body being exhumed and an inquest held.

American Relief Workers Marry Daughters of Former Noblemen

Americans Stationed in Russia Will Bring Foreign Girls Home as Their Brides

MOSCOW, July 18 (AP)—One princess and one countess and 19 other girls, having no titles but mostly members of former Russian aristocratic families are on their way or en route to the United States as brides of Americans.

The last American relief administration bride left Moscow yesterday and the relief administration directors heaved a sigh at the ending of the red tape which existed with regard to Russian women leaving the country and which has been further complicated by the new American law which provides that a foreign woman does not automatically become an American citizen by marrying an American.

All the relief administration workers except Colonel William N. Haskell and the director of the American Relief Administration, Leo Kamenetz, acting premier, tonight gave a dinner to Colonel Haskell and the other members of the relief administration still here.

SAN FRANCISCO WOMEN TO WEAR MEN'S CLOTHES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19 (AP)—The women and girls of San Francisco may now wear trousers, pants, coats, breeches, trows, spatterdashers, gamashes, knickerbockers, galoshes or pants on the streets here without fear of arrest or official disapproval.

For many years thousands of trousers, gowns, coats and hats were discarded in the streets and gutters on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. These ladies, young and old, have heretofore faced arrest, but the board of supervisors has now passed an ordinance permitting girls to wear male attire, providing there is no intent to deceive.

Daniel J. O'Brien, chief of police, was behind the move to amend the ordinance. "The new ordinance," said the chief, "was put through for the benefit of hikers. Girls can't hike in dresses."

Chief O'Brien stood near the ferry and watched a group of hikers file past. One or two girls and sprightly nymph-like figures passed, but when several ladies whose figures might be described as cumbersome preceded the chief added: "The ordinance distinctly says 'where there is no intent to deceive,' and, in most cases, I'm sure there can't be any deception."

TRIPLET LAMBS BORN

ELY, Nevada, July 19 (AP)—A mother ewe which has been the pride of the home ranch of Joseph Luzzetti, in Steptoe valley, near here, since they were born recently. Mr. Luzzetti states that it is the first instance of the kind they have ever had among the sheep, although some years ago they had a goat with triplet kids. There is a pleasing variety in the color scheme, the mother being white, two of the lambs black with white star foreheads, and the other pure white. The white lamb was being fed as a substitute for the bottle feeding, as the other two cannot be suckled. The bottle-fed baby is outstriking the other two lambs, Mr. Luzzetti says.

NO USE FOR AGED

In New Guinea Old People Are Summarily Dispatched.

Communally Refuses to Allow Them to Become a Burden and They Are Put Away With Expedition.

Tribal law and custom in New Guinea and the Bismarck archipelago, mainly in the matter of killing, constantly coming into conflict with the white man's law and offers one of the most difficult problems that the white administrator is faced with today.

The general attitude of Melanesians in regard to old people is a case in point. As old people approach decrepitude, they become a burden upon the village and every opportunity is taken to get rid of them. In some of the islands farther south of Australia, a general day is appointed for their ceremonial burial. Whether they happen to be dead or not makes no difference. Sometimes the old people actually march off to their own funerals, accepting their fate as the inevitable conclusion of old age; they even consider that it is the duty of affectionate children to honor them by thus putting a dramatic end to their lives, after they have passed the period of their usefulness.

They are placed in a grave with tremendous ceremony, the whole village taking part, and the earth is firmly stamped down over them to the beating of many drums. In the Bismarck archipelago, old people are occasionally taken into the bush, shut up in some isolated hut with a small supply of food and thus abandoned to slow death by starvation. A peculiar case once presented itself for settlement on the west coast of New Ireland. A boy of nine was brought in for trial, accused of the murder of his grandmother. He had been taken aside, so he said, by a party of the elders of his village, who said:

"Why, you are growing up now to be a big fellow! It is certainly shameful that you should be a drain on the food stock of the village. We have altogether too many people dependent on us here. There are yourself and a great many other boys like you, and then there is that grandmother of yours. She does nothing but eat and eat, and it has finally come down to this: We have not enough food for all you people who loaf on the community. If your grandmother was dead, we might be able to find enough food for you."

Pointing her out where she lay, a withered old crow, asleep on the ground a hundred yards away, they handed the ax to the boy and told him that if he struck just where the front bone on her neck stuck out, and struck hard enough, she would instantly be killed. Terrified by the ordeal he was subjected to, the boy dragged away from his playmates and confronted with the sinister and lowering elders, he took the ax, rushed over to the old woman and killed her as he had been instructed, with one blow. He was then promptly handed over to the police by the chiefs, who on the occasion had been to rid themselves of two drains on their food supply.—From On Crime and Punishment in New Guinea, by R. W. Cilento, in Asia Magazine.

GOVERNOR URGES WOMEN TO SUPPORT DEMOCRACY

SALT LAKE CITY, July 19 (AP)—Women were urged to do their part in the fight to overcome "the forces trying to break down the democracy of America" and praised for their work during the World War, in an address here recently by Governor Charles Mabey of Utah. "In this hour of lassitude following the war, I am sure that you will exhibit the same fortitude and bravery you displayed during the great struggle of the governor," speaking to delegates of the Service Star Legion, urged the women to perpetuate the ideals for which their organization was founded.

Winnipeg Great Wheat Market.

Vice President D. C. Coleman, Canadian Pacific railway, addressing the Winnipeg Kiwanis club recently, spoke of the record crop harvested during the season just ended, and said that Winnipeg now the greatest wheat market in the world in point of receipts. For three months ending November, inspections at Chicago totaled 8,275,000 bushels, at Minneapolis 45,000,100 bushels, while at Winnipeg they reached the enormous figure of 106,231,513 bushels. Mr. Coleman said further, in regard to shipments of grain over the Canadian Pacific railway, that from September 1 to the average of 1,918 cars were loaded each day in Winnipeg for transportation to East, which meant that a loaded train left Winnipeg for the head of the lakes every 43 minutes during the 91-day period from September 1 to November 30.

"Did you give him a date?" asked the blond sorority girl, sternly. "Why, yes," replied her younger sister. "He called me up so many times to ask me, that I didn't know what else to say. What would you have done?"

TO BRING TSETSE FLY HERE

Remarkable Proposal Made by Wild Animal Collector Who Seemingly Is in Earnest.

A collector of wild animals, writing from Africa to one of our universities, proposes to bring to the United States a lot of living tsetse flies, apparently to introduce this interesting insect into this country.

The matter has been called to the attention of the federal horticultural board, United States Department of Agriculture, which commented on it as follows:

"This is the biting fly which is believed to be the carrier of the African sleeping sickness, but this collector reassuringly states that there would be no danger in connection with the introduction inasmuch as he proposes to keep the flies—males and females—alive on the way on his own blood, and perhaps thus to propagate them and, therefore, could guarantee that they were 'noninfected'."

"It might prove to be really possible to introduce an organism like this in the tropical and subtropical parts of the western hemisphere and the presence of any man of animal affected with the sleeping sickness would complete the vicious circle."

"This collector requested that no publicity be given to his effort, as it might prevent some other material from being secured by others, and gave assurance that the proposed importation involved no more danger than the handling of 'an unloaded shotgun.' Evidently 'the unloaded shotgun' has overlooked an opportunity for usefulness!"

Vezi's Slight Mistake.

Charles Vezi had chucked the double life of commerce and art for the stogie blessedness of painting. While exploring rural New England for a sketching ground I injured my shoulder and called in the professional services of a country practitioner. He was a gentleman of culture and high professional attainments. I left that section, asking the good doctor to send me his bill. He did not do so until a year and a half later, when I received, when I in a different state, his bill for professional services—$150. I looked at it aghast and thought: 'Well, that is going some. A hundred and fifty dollars for three visits to the office of a country practitioner.' And I said to myself: 'You confounded medical proffeer, I'd like to see you get it!' and was about to write him what our English friends call a 'bawdy' letter. But on thinking it over I decided to pretend to think that he meant to write fifteen instead of a hundred and fifty, and mailed a check for fifteen dollars with his bill. Three days later I opened a letter from him returning my check. And I murmured: 'So you are going to insist on payment. Well, you can sue me.' On reading his letter I found these words: 'Dear Mr. Vezi—I herewith return your check. You made a mistake. My bill is one dollar and fifty cents.'—San Francisco Argonaut.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT DELIVERIES RISE ABOVE ONE-DOLLAR MARK

Market Closes Strong Following Weak Opening. Corn Steady. One Cent Up; Report Canadian Crop Poor.

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—All deliveries of wheat rose today to above $1 a bushel as a result of reports of a buying based largely on advice about black rust in Canada. The market closed strong 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher, with September $1.00 1/4 to 1.00 1/4 and December $1.03 1/4 to 1.03 1/4. Corn gained 1/4 to 1/2 cent, oats at 58 to 10 cent, and provisions 1/2 to 1/4 down.

At first the wheat market showed a downward tendency owing more or less to enlarged receipts here and a poor response in Liverpool to yesterday's price advance in America. Buyers and sellers were somewhat disturbed by the announcement that the federal government was asking for the names of all who were long or short 500,000 bushels or more of wheat, hereafter, or more, where the government had asked or required no names. In the last part of the day, however, sentiment underwent a change with reports from the Canadian northwest indicating danger of serious damage from black rust. It was pointed out that there had been recent heavy rains in Canada where the presence of black rust had been established and that the Canadian crop was a long way from harvest. Worst of all, weather in South Dakota counted further as a bullish influence, as too did gossip that exporters were bidding higher for wheat and that farmers in the domestic winter crop belt were preparing to hold their wheat wherever possible. Under such circumstances, the market closed at about the top figures. Corn and oats advanced with wheat. Notice was given that 100,000 bushels more of corn in production here had been out of condition.

Provisions were depressed by the arrival of larger receipts of hogs here than had been looked for. CASH QUOTATIONS. STOCK PRICES ADVANCED. Quotations Listed With Same Rapidity as in Recent Slide Downward: Commission Houses Buy in Quantities. Total sales $425,000 shares. Twenty industrials advanced 91.35; net gain, 1.34. High, 1923, 105.34; low, 87.64. Twenty railroads advanced 80.05; net gain, .80. High, 1923, 90.03; low, 76.86.

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Stock prices moved up briskly in today's market and the volume of transactions was impressive. Perhaps the outstanding fact was the fact that prices moved upward with the same facility that had been apparent when they fell downward on short selling and liquidation. Emphatic gains were registered in all quarters, the list and occasional realising sales were readily digested by buying for the account of short interest. Steadily buying orders from commission houses testified to increased public participation. While market observers were chary of making over-optimistic inferences from today's cheerful tone, the improved tone of the market had some backing in dispatches from overseas in their occupation tank. Little attention, however, was paid to outside news developments as the market strengthened and the recent announcement of advances in miscellaneous shares spread to the more leaders which closed a point or more above yesterday's final levels. Republic Steel moved up 1/2 cent while some of the independent steel preferred, for instance, gained four points. Standard Oil had a very active and closed 3 1/8 points higher. Call money held unchanged at 5 per cent. The time money market showed clearing activity, with rates improved. German marks continued to sink, being quoted at one time at 2000—thousandths of a cent each. Most of the Dollar-Sterling exchange was unchanged. Demand French moved up 1/16 to $4.59 1/2-16, and French francs advanced four points to 5.90 1/2-cents. Swiss francs rose four points to 17.74 cents.

SUGAR. NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—The raw sugar market was irregular and very much unsettled today. Early in the day a sale of 10,000 tons of Cuban was reported to a New Orleans operator at 13 1/2 cents and unchanged from yesterday and equal to 7 1/2 cents to ship. Refiners did not appear to show any marked interest in the market and the price for the refined sugar was unchanged. A leading refiner was attended by rumors that a sale of raws had been made at 5 1/2-8, although up to a late hour this was without any real confirmation. Refined sugar futures early in the day reflected the dullness of spot sugar and moved within narrow limits. The opening price for the 1923-24 crop was 12 1/2 and the market was off six to eight points net. Support from Wall Street rallied the market later, but the close was 2 to 3 cents lower than the opening. The market closed at, at five to six points net, 12 1/2-1/2; December $4.88; March, $3.94; May, $3.44. The feature of the refined market was a cut in the price of granulated by one cent, the leading firm understood to have been brought about to meet competition, although the last prices of other refiners remained at $4.75. Refined futures nominal.

Rug Weaving Lost Art. Home industry is about gone. Few women make their own week's supply of bread in Detroit, or even in the smaller towns of the state where the influence of machine production is less. And there is almost no one left who can weave a rag rug. The American rug is the rag rug. And the bag of carpet rags which used to hang in the home was as much of an institution as the woodbox. Women used to weave their own rag rugs in many years ago. Quilt rags in a smaller pattern which had been slowly to die. There is not even a little rag bag in the home in these days of large-scale industry. If there is a rag bag, it is for hat trimming, not for rugs. And the few modest weaving shops scattered around Detroit with a rag hanging in the front window, are as quaint and old-fashioned in their atmosphere as a violin maker's shop. The making of rag rugs, however, has been carried to the point of art by a few and in spite of the factory the art will survive.

Thornate Found Only in Ceylon. The mineral thornate, now largely used in the manufacture of the mantle for incandescent gas lamps, is at present not known to occur elsewhere than in the island of Ceylon. Its discovery was due to the operations of the Ceylon mineral survey. It is exported to Europe and the United States.

Birds Laugh at Scarcerows. Artificial scarcerows are of little, if any, value in Egypt. The owners of the cornfields near the Nile have to employ natives, who stand on raised platforms and throw stones to scare away the voracious birds, which would otherwise quickly devour the entire crop.

And It's the Same Thing. It probably is correct to say that the average wife keeps her husband under surveillance, but it is so much easier to spell "thumb."—Exchange.

UP TO THE WIFE

In Her Hands is the Power of Home Happiness.

Good Old Proverb Has It "Home, Sweet Home is Something Two Can Make and One Can Sour."

The above little bit of borrowed wisdom should be revised to "Home, Sweet Home, is something that one can make and two can sour." This matter holds the greater truth, and a lesson which, if learned, would make thousands of "wife" boppers. The source of home happiness is not in the wife's power. Things may not have gone smoothly. He may be tired. His nerves may be a bit frayed. The day may have held annoyances, disappointments, upsets, losses. If it may be said, of course, that it is his duty to push all the above on one side when he gets home, but is that not making a very big demand? Some men do it, but they are in the minority, re-harmonize a London Answers writer. So "he" enters his home, and "she" his wife's, you may get at first agree with his assertion, but it is entirely in her hands as to whether the atmosphere of the house is to be sweet or sour. Here it is that the truth of the old adage—"Where one wrongs, two can't"—applies. And what is that but another way of saying "Home, sweet home, is something that one can make and two can sour." If you don't quite follow, read on. His expression, and what he says—or doesn't say—will reveal his mind. Tired, cross, disagreeable. And what is his wife going to do? Some women, taking the line that it is a pity if a man who has been away all day cannot come home in a good temper, will promptly proceed to make one of the two. She gets cross because he is cross. And there's the "two."

But one who says "Home, sweet home, is something that one can make and two can sour." If you don't quite follow, read on. His expression, and what he says—or doesn't say—will reveal his mind. Tired, cross, disagreeable. And what is his wife going to do? Some women, taking the line that it is a pity if a man who has been away all day cannot come home in a good temper, will promptly proceed to make one of the two. She gets cross because he is cross. And there's the "two."

They might remember, too, that as with birds, so with men—suing can be done in a minute, but it takes much longer to smooth the feathers out. That explains why the average husband, the minute he reaches home, cannot look, feel, act, and talk, as though the day had held nothing to upset him. If one won't quarrel, two can't. The wife should be the "one."

After all, the wife can feel that she is playing the part of "good angel" to the man she loves. Marriage is a partnership, in which it is, or should be, the man's share to care for the living. Let the wife's way be the home, where she can "queen" it over her little world of husband and children, holding their hearts by the power of her smile.

Tourists Pat Tax On Park Facilities

Travel to Yellowstone Setting New Record for National Playground

Tourist travel to Yellowstone national park so far this year has exceeded by more than the volume of the corresponding period of last year, and a severe tax is being made upon accommodations for the park visitors...

As an indication of the demand being made on accommodations at the park, Mrs. Batley said visitors at Old Faithful Inn are held in suspense until as late as 6 o'clock in the evening before being assured whether rooms will be available.

The party made the trip to the park through Stanley basin and down Salmon river, and returned by way of the Jackson Hole country, with a side trip to Cody, Wyoming.

Scouts Make Camp Among the Pines

Executive Sends Back Word on Arrival of Lads at Site of Camp for Next 10 Days

Twenty-six Twin Falls Boy Scouts, upon their arrival Thursday evening at the scout camp in Shoshone basin, were busy with duties incident to making camp and preparations for the 10 days of scoutcraft training and recreation ahead, according to a telephone communication received from F. Douglas Hawley, district executive, under whose direction the camp is to be held.

It is expected that the number of boys in camp will be increased to 40 by next Sunday, with excursions coming in from troops at Rupert and Boise.

"The boys send word to their friends to come and join them here," Mr. Hawley said.

The trip to the camp site was made Thursday afternoon without incident. The lads and their duff were carried in a big truck and arrived at their setting out from here at 1 o'clock.

Farmers desiring federal loans this fall should have their applications written soon. J. W. McDOWELL, Sec. Phone No. 57731.

PLAYERS OPEN WEEK'S EVENTS

Chautauque Course, Initiated by Comedy Drama, Greeted by Capacity Crowd

TODAY'S PROGRAM 2:30 p. m.—Prelude, Alice Louise Shrode, juvenile entertainers.

3 p. m.—Musical lecture-demonstration by Olga M. McLanuky, "The Music Lady."

8 p. m.—Entertainment prologue, Alice Louise Shrode. 8:30 p. m.—Address, "China and the Future Peace of the Pacific," Dr. Ng Foon Chow, "The Chinese Mark Twain."

One of the largest audiences ever assembled for a Chautauque number in Twin Falls, filling the big brown canvas tent at the corner of Second street and Fifth avenue...

Mrs. Burton E. Morse, vice president of the Chautauque association, introducing Miss Leola Holman, director of the course here, and discussing briefly the purposes of Chautauque and the steps taken by local citizens to assure its continuation here.

Repeated applause, laughter and expressions of approval evoked by the play gave indication of the success in store for the course.

Twin Falls audiences have seen "Turn to the Right" several times, both on the stage and in photoplay form, but the theme of the story which deals with the redemption of an eviling son through mother love, makes it a play of ever-enduring interest.

It is expected that the number of boys in camp will be increased to 40 by next Sunday, with excursions coming in from troops at Rupert and Boise.

NEW VARIETY OF WHEAT SHOWING WELL IN TEST

Preliminary Inspection of Trial Plots of Federation and Dicklow Varieties Gives Advantage to Former

Preliminary tests made this week of a field of Federation wheat grown alongside a field of hand-selected Dicklow wheat by Carl D. Irwin on his farm east of Twin Falls show that the Federation wheat has reached a state of maturity 10 days in advance of the Dicklow with indications that it will return the greater yield, it was stated Thursday by H. C. Hansen, assistant county agent, who inspected the two fields in company with State Seed Inspector Spangler.

Federation wheat was developed in Australia. It is being tested here under field conditions for the first time, it is believed, in this state.
