HUNDREDS FLEE BEFORE FLOOD; DAMAGE HEAVY

Cloudbursts and Thunderstorms Drive Out Occupants of Homes and Work Havoc with Property in Maryland

BALTIMORE, July 30 (AP)—Cloudbursts and a series of terrific thunderstorms sweeping the counties of western Maryland caused the Patuxent river to overflow its banks late today, sweeping bridges and buildings before it, driving hundreds of families from their homes and causing damage that will run into millions of dollars. As far as known no lives were lost.

The flood, the most disastrous since the Patuxent overflowed its banks in 1868 and took a toll of 38 lives in the vicinity of Ellicott City, ran highest at Sykesville, Ellicott City and other points between these places and the river's mouth.

In addition to the families that were forced to abandon their homes, others who sought refuge on upper floors had to be rescued by neighbors. Towns after town was plunged into darkness and cut off from all communication. Bridges were carried away or inundated by the rapidly rising torrent.

Barns and livestock were swept away in the swiftly flowing current. Mills and power plants were flooded and their machinery wrecked. Whole sections of railroad tracks were torn up and whirled away.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT IN CROPS IS REPORTED

Reports from 157 County Agents Show Present Condition Much Better Than in Previous Months

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—General improvement in all crops on July 1 over previous months was reported by 157 county agents representing 152,086 farms in the seventh federal reserve district, officials of the reserve bank here reported today.

More seasonable weather is stimulating a rapid growth of corn, which already has made considerable progress in overcoming the handicap caused by the backward spring, it was reported. Oats as well as wheat have shorter straw than usual, although the beans are fairly well filled.

The winter wheat harvest has been delayed about three weeks, but the crop is in fair to good condition and the government estimates indicate a production for the district over greater than a year ago.

The oats crop, although larger than in 1922, is considerably below the five-year average. There has been a goodly supply of small fruits, but the crops of apples, peaches and pears are indicated as below a year ago.

UNIVERSITY LAYS CLAIM TO RECORD WHEAT YIELD

California School Claims to Have Produced One Variety at the Rate of 110 Bushels per Acre

DAVIS, Cal., July 30 (AP)—All previous official American wheat growing records were broken this season by the college of agriculture of the University of California here, when a field of Onas wheat produced at the rate of 110.4 bushels of threshed grain per acre, according to Professor G. W. Hendry, agronomist of the college. This is equivalent to 47.6 bags or 6824 pounds to the acre.

The highest previous experiment station record was 102 bushels per acre, made by Turkey wheat under irrigation at Fort Collins, Colo., in 1918, Professor Hendry said.

In announcing this extraordinary crop, Professor Hendry said that it was the result of systematic breeding, soil selection, seed treatment, approved farm practices and a deliberate attempt to make a naturally fertile soil produce to the limit of its capacity. The season was favorable, but no fertilization or irrigation was practiced. The crop, which is of high milling quality, is to be widely distributed for seed.

LAD DROWNED IN RIVER

Ernest Callender, Age 11, Is First Victim at Boise; Companion Narrowly Escapes in Rescue Attempt

BOISE, July 30 (AP)—Ernest Callender, 11, is the first Boise river victim of the year as a result of drowning while wading near a sandbar at the foot of Fourteenth street here this afternoon. Raymond Whipple, 12, a companion, narrowly escaped the same fate in seeking to rescue him.

SINGAPORE, Rumania, July 30 (AP)—Ministers of the little entente nations further perfected their working agreement today, deciding upon a joint program to be submitted to the next meeting of the assembly of the league of nations in which they will outline their policy toward the allies.

SCENT TROUBLE IN PHILIPPINES

Unearth Plot of Moros to Annihilate Constabulary in Lanao District

MANILA, P. I., July 30 (AP)—The Philippine constabulary has unearthed a plot by Moros to annihilate constabulary detachments stationed at Gansawa in the district of Lanao, it was announced here today. Constabulary officials said a band of fanatical Moros of the Mohammedan faith had taken an oath on the koran to avenge the death of their relatives as a result of the constabulary movements in 1920. No arrests have been made, but officers are taking precautions against an attack.

No particular attack was referred to in connection with the plot. During and since 1920 the constabulary has been sent among the Moros to suppress uprisings, some of which were said to have had religious significance.

BOISE MAN ELECTROCUTED

Foreman of Power Plant at Diversion Dam Is Killed by Bolt from Wire Carrying 2300 Volts

BOISE, July 30 (AP)—Warren Cron, 27, foreman at the United States reclamation service power plant at the diversion dam near here, was electrocuted this evening about 7:20 o'clock when his leg came in contact with a high tension line carrying 2300 volts. Cron, whose home is in Dayton, Ohio, was working at the top of a pole on which the power line and a government telephone line were both attached.

REPORT IS MADE BY COMMISSION ON RAIL PERMIT

Facts Pertaining to Granting of Certificate for Rogerson-Wells Line Set Forth in Communication

The report of the interstate commerce commission setting forth the facts in connection with the granting of the certificate of convenience and necessity to the Oregon Short Line for the construction of the Rogerson-Wells railroad has been received by Congressman Addison T. Smith. It is as follows:

"The Oregon Short Line Railroad company, a carrier by railroad subject to the interstate commerce act, on May 10, 1923, filed an application under paragraph 18 of section 1 of the act for a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity require the construction by it of a line of railroad extending from a connection with its Rogerson branch at Rogerson, Twin Falls county, Idaho, in a general southerly direction to Wells, Elko county, Nevada, a distance of 97.7 miles, of which 21.1 miles are in Idaho and 76.6 miles in Nevada. The public utilities commission of Idaho and the public service commission of Nevada have recommended that the application be granted. One protest against such action was filed with us, but was subsequently withdrawn.

Conditions Agreed Upon
"In Public Convenience Certificate to Idaho Central Railroad, 70 I. C. C. 265, we issued a certificate authorizing that company to build a railroad from Rogerson to Wells, upon the condition, among others, that the line be completed and placed in operation on or before December 31, 1923. The line the applicant now desires to build is the same as the one authorized in that certificate. There may be some minor differences of route as a complete location has not been made. On May 24, 1923, the holders of 80 per cent of the outstanding capital stock of the Idaho Central Railroad company, hereinafter called the 'Idaho' (Continued on Page Five)

Condition of President Suddenly Becomes Grave

Physicians Ready For Emergencies

Pneumonia Indicated by Clinical Diagnosis; Mrs. Harding at Bedside; Five Doctors Are in Attendance

ROME, July 30 (AP)—King Victor Emmanuel today expressed deep regret over the illness of President Harding. The king, who is staying in Piedmont, has requested that all reports concerning the president's condition be communicated to him there.

Pope Pius also requested Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, to obtain all available news with regard to the progress of the president's illness.

The pontiff today expressed the hope that the president soon would be well again.

Presidential Headquarters, San Francisco, July 30 (AP)—President Harding's condition became grave tonight and an announcement was made to that effect after a consultation by physicians in attendance upon the chief executive.

Another consultation of physicians in the case of President Harding, seriously ill here, was held tonight, the third since this morning.

The physicians declared in a statement that "definite central patches of broncho-pneumonia had developed in the right lung, as indicated clinically and by the X-ray."

"Nourishment is being taken regularly and the abdominal symptoms are less noticeable."
"While his condition is grave, he is temperamentally well adapted to make a strong fight against the infection."

PREDICT LOWER INCOME DURING YEAR'S PERIOD

Net Reduction in Government Receipts of Over $150,000,000 Is Seen by Director of Federal Budget

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—A net reduction in government receipts of $151,894,997 during the next fiscal year was predicted today by Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, in his annual report to President Harding, covering the operations of the federal budget during its second year. Estimates of expenditures have not been completed.

The income for the year is estimated in the report at $3,490,605,085, as compared with $3,642,500,000 for the fiscal year 1922-23. The deficit of $151,894,997 is the result of a decrease in receipts of $151,894,997 and an increase in expenditures of $151,894,997.

Customs revenues estimated at $500,000,000 this year are expected to drop to $475,000,000 next year, while a loss of $50,000,000 is expected in income and profits taxes. Miscellaneous industrial revenue is expected to maintain its present annual rate of $380,750,000. Revenues from the various departments of the government, listed as miscellaneous receipts, were expected to bring $3,415,945,085 and capital income and special operations $75,750,000 under the latter item were included railroad administration, $23,000,000; repayment of loans to foreign governments $23,825,000; sale of farm loan bonds and liquidation of capital stock of federal land banks $20,125,000.

Give Cause of Surplus
Analyzing the factors which led to an actual surplus of $309,837,840 on June 30, 1923, in place of the deficit of $151,894,997 which was forecast when the year began, the bureau said:

"This improvement in the government's financial condition is accounted for by increases in receipts over estimates, $768,101,415.63; net decrease in estimated expenditures, $635,289,273.83, making a total difference as between the estimate of June 30, 1922, and in actual results June 30, 1923, of $1,320,000.00."
"This result, the report continued, "was in no small measure due to the efforts of individual departments and establishments and to the fine spirit of cooperation in them in carrying out the economy policies of the president."
H. C. Smith, chief coordinator in the bureau, declared the executives who were sought in the establishment of his office—the coordination of the routine business of the government—have been largely at fault in the carrying out of the present program, he added, all government surplus property will have been liquidated, including the extensive program given by the various items held by the shipping board.

Irene Castle Gets Reporters' Goats; Contradicts Rumor

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Irene Castle has arrived from Paris with a pet goat.

A group of reporters met her at the dock when the Lafayette came alongside, and she got their goats, too.

The dancer flatly contradicted dispatches from Paris quoting from court records to show that she had obtained a divorce from Robert E. Treman, Ithaca manufacturer. She declared she did not have a decree and had not asked for one.

She said she expected to meet the Majestic when that liner arrived Wednesday bearing Mr. Treman.

SENATORS URGE EXTRA SESSION

Four Members of Upper House Urge Action Toward Meeting Farm Problems

MINNEAPOLIS, July 30 (AP)—President Harding was urged to call an extra session of congress without delay to deal with agricultural problems affecting the nation at a conference of four United States senators of the northwest here today.

The session was attended by Senators Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota; Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa; Lynn G. Frazier, of North Dakota, and Senator-elect Magnus Johnson of Minnesota.

After several closed conferences the senators agreed that an extra session should be called at once, but decided to put forward no plan at this time for fixing the price of wheat or taking up the surplus.

The telegram, signed by each of the senators, was sent to the president at San Francisco, in care of Brigadier General Sawyer, the president's physician, with the request that it be delivered when the president's health permits.

It set forth that the condition of agriculture threatens a national calamity and that only an extraordinary session of congress can avert the calamity.

RATE BODY TO DEMAND GRADED RAIL CHARGES

Intermediate Association to Insist Freight Costs Be Based on Length of Haul from the East

SPOKANE, Wash., July 30 (AP)—Graded freight rates based on the length of haul on the transcontinental railroad lines from the east to intermountain points will be the demand upon this interstate commerce commission by officials of the Intermediate Rate association, if rail carriers insist upon reopening the long and short haul question in a discriminatory manner, James A. Ford, secretary of the rate association, declared today.

Ford issued this statement today in reply to the announcement of Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, that his line would make application to the interstate commerce commission to cut rates to the Pacific coast terminals.

CZARIST MONEY SWARMER DUFFS RUSSIAN REFUGEES

PRAGUE, July 30 (AP)—Russians in Prague and various other centers where the refugees from the bolshevik regime are gathered in large numbers, have discovered that the soviet government victimized them cleverly by loading them down with alleged czarist money which really was printed by the bolsheviks.

Russians outside of Russia, and many other persons not thoroughly informed about currency, believed for a long time that the Russian money of the old regime was much more valuable than bolshevik paper, and would some day be redeemed. Consequently there was considerable demand in European money exchanges for the old time Russian money, and it brought better prices than red rubles.

As the bolshevik government had a large quantity of the water marked paper used in the old money, and had the rubles for bills of large denominations, it started its money presses and supplied the demand for czarist bills. They continued this practice until last January, when the water marked paper supply was exhausted.

MINISTER'S SECRETARY MANUFACTURED LIQUOR

Japanese, Servant for Five Years to Rev. J. P. Erdman, Insisted on Making Oriental Booze

HONOLULU, T. H., July 30 (AP)—K. Kobayashi, Japanese, has rendered excellent service as yardman for the past five years at the home of the Rev. John P. Erdman, field secretary of the Hawaiian Evangelical association, except for one thing which has lately attracted light—Kobayashi insisted upon manufacturing a sake press on the Erdman premises.

Federal prohibition officers found the press and thirty quarts of completed sake, a Japanese liquor, in the back yard of the Erdman residence. Rev. Mr. Erdman expressed surprise at the discovery.

Kobayashi is under arrest and Dr. Erdman is advertising for a "Japanese yardman—must not be a bootlegger."

MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

POCATELLO, July 30 (AP)—The body of a man identified as Alfred Morris of Richland, Ore., was found early today in the middle of the west-bound track on the Oregon Short Line right of way a mile and a half west of the city. The body, terribly mangled, was discovered by the engineer on eastbound train No. 6, as it entered the yards from the west.

IDAHO FOREST ON FIRE

MISSOULA, Mont., July 30 (AP)—More than 200 acres of dense forest is blazing on the Nea Pierce forest, in Idaho, a short distance west of the Montana-Idaho line. No property or individuals are in danger, it was reported. A crew of men has been rushed up the slope. Two other fires are burning in the same forest, believed to have been caused by lightning. A total of 20 fires burning in the Coeur d'Alene forest, also in Idaho, were reported to be under control and not to have caused much damage.

HOOPER BLAMED FOR STRIKE OF RAIL SHOPMEN

Two Members of Railroad Labor Board Criticize Alleged Failure of Chairman to Understand Trade Union Ideals

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—A. O. Wharton and E. Grable, labor members of the United States railroad labor board, in a dissenting opinion rendered yesterday declared that the federated shop crafts strike of 1922 was probably due to the incapability of Chairman Ben W. Hooper and R. M. Barton to understand the value placed upon trade union ethics by bona fide trade unions. Chairman Hooper and Judge Barton are members of the public group of the board.

The statement was made in a dissenting opinion rendered by the board ordering the wages of employees of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad and the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad company of Texas reduced to the wage scale that prevailed at the termination of federal control of the carriers.

"The chairman of the board and Judge Barton in referring to the attitude of their employees (in this case) in a manner peculiarly their own and without foundation in fact said in effect: 'That the employees had admitted that a reduction should be made,'" said the dissenting opinion.

"Three members of the board, in placing such an interpretation on the statement of the employees, in the opinion of the undersigned, indicates incapability of understanding the value placed upon trade union ethics by bona fide trade unions and probably due to the same disability may be found the answer to the suspension of work July 1, 1922, by the shopmen and others, which resulted in hundreds of millions of dollars loss to the carriers, employees and the public."

Returns Fire

"The virulent nature of the dissenting opinion would seem to indicate that its writer has momentarily lost sight of the fact that he is no longer the head of the striking shopmen, but is now a sworn member of a public tribunal designed to protect the people from the sinister of railroad strikes," declared Chairman Hooper, in his supporting opinion of the decision, which he declared to be just and reasonable.

"It is regrettable that a member of this board, whatever his personal interests or habitual bias, cannot dissent from the action of the majority without attacking their personalities as well as their opinions," Chairman Hooper's supporting opinion said.

"The writer of this supporting opinion is not abused or confounded by having his name and his vote pointed out in the dissenting opinions, whatever he may think of the propriety of the performances. It would really be beneficial to the railroad employees if they were permitted to know all the votes of the board, rather than to have them deceived by propaganda to the effect that only the labor representatives on the board are free from bias and partiality and that all others are blind to justice."

Decision Based on Costs

The decision of the board in ordering a reduction was based on the operating costs of the roads, which showed a deficit during 1919-20 of $1,246,575; 1920, $1,472,107, and 1921, $2,067,740. It is estimated that the present ratio of deficit for 1923 will be approximately $675,000.

The dissenting opinion after a lengthy discussion of the shopcraft strike said that the carrier was one of the railroads that refused to accept President Harding's proposal for a settlement of the matter, and that the money to continue its policy of fighting a costly strike, although claiming it did not have sufficient funds to continue the operation of the railroad under the most favorable conditions."

The carrier, which traverses three states and is 900 miles long, is going through a period of financial hardship. The Governors of these states have been in conferences in regard to the carrier, and the people have held public meetings. The interstate commerce commission, it is said, has loaned the carrier money and has issued certain orders with a view to increasing its resources. The states and counties through which it passes have suspended collection of its taxes.

AMERICANS STUDY

BULGARIAN SCHOOL

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 28 (AP)—American educators, studying the schools of Bulgaria, have found that they show marked progress in combining practical with theoretical education, and King Boris was gratified at this comment when the investigators called upon him yesterday in this city.

Professor Paul Monroe, director of the International Institute of Teachers' College, New York, and Dr. William F. Russell, associate director, were the king's visitors and they were impressed by Boris' democratic demeanor and intelligent interest in matters educational.

Married life is getting faster and faster. Residents of Seattle, Wash., witnessed the fastest marriage ceremony on record when a couple, standing on aquaplanes similar to the Hawaiian surfboards, attached to a seaplane speeding at 60 miles an hour, were married by a person who wore bathing trunks and the upper portion of his clerical garb.

GOVERNMENT TURNS TO MANUFACTURE OF IRON

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP)—The United States government is now making iron, but only as an experiment and not for the commercial field. Its blast furnace is located at Minneapolis and is operated as a laboratory by the bureau of mines in cooperation with the University of Minnesota. After four years of experimentation to develop it, the furnace recently produced several tons of gray iron and spiegel.

This type of experiment is declared unique in the field of industrial research, as blast furnaces are not included usually in laboratory equipment. The furnace was demonstrated showing every phase of the operation of iron making under complete technical control, it is believed the investigation at the Minneapolis station are in a position to undertake the study of various problems, the solution of which should be of great practical value to blast furnace operators.

The furnace was operated first as a slagging-type gas producer until it had reached a steady state thermally and chemically. Iron ore without the addition of flux was then introduced, and its descent in the furnace was followed by means of gas samples taken at various stations. When the effect of this charge had been dissipated, more ore was charged without limestone, and other sets of samples were taken.

The purpose is to obtain a comparison of the composition at various places of the furnace. Various sizes of ore also were used. The reduction of the ore at the stockpile was found to be greater with smaller sized ore, as indicated by higher carbon dioxide.

PITTSBURGH, July 30 (AP)—Patrick Coyne, whose bride of a few weeks was found dead in their home at Port Perry, a suburb, July 17, today confessed to Robert Braun, chief of the county detectives, that he killed her. Coyne's confession was made in the hospital here where he was taken after he had lost his legs in a railroad accident shortly after the crime.

GERMANS REFUSE TO TRAVEL ON RAILROADS

ESSEN, July 28 (AP)—Germans in the Ruhr, passively resisting the French, declined to ride on trains run by Frenchmen. Hence it soon became a question of stay at home or find some other means of locomotion.

They did the latter, and today the Ruhr is filled with people on rollers. Tens of thousands of laborers have bicycles, motorcycles, or a small coster propelled by a gasoline motor to go to and from their work. Hundreds of thousands of others are taken to the places of employment and back in motor trucks furnished by their employers.

SWEDEN TAKES CARE TO AVOID AUTO ACCIDENTS

All Vehicles Must Use Recording Speedometer; Official Measure Contains Original Safety Schemes

STOCKHOLM, July 28 (AP)—Unusual measures for preventing automobile accidents, and an entirely original idea for keeping the speeding nuisance in check are features in the new motor traffic laws which have just been passed by the Swedish riksdag.

A striking paragraph in the new law is that which provides for the compulsory use of recording speedometers on all motor vehicles. Such a device not only indicated the number of miles the car has run, but also the rate of speed during any part of the run. Thus, on the one hand, the innocent driver who may be wrongly accused of exceeding speed limits, has a mechanical record with which to prove his innocence, while the officers of the law can use the automatic record as irrefutable evidence against the guilty driver. Up to the present, no recording speedometer for automobiles has been perfected, but promising experiments with such an instrument are being conducted, and the new law provides that, as soon as the mechanical problem has been solved, the government has the power to require the use of recording speedometers.

Drivers' licenses, under the new Swedish law, shall be issued only to persons who can pass the eye and ear tests prescribed by doctors. Each application must also be accompanied by a testimonial signed by a local motor traffic inspector to the effect that the applicant is known to be of sober habits and of orderly conduct. Each license issued must contain the photograph of the holder.

Inspectors of motor traffic are to be appointed for every province. They must qualify for the position either by graduating from a technical school or by otherwise showing that their experience has given them expert knowledge. They must hold drivers' licenses and be familiar with all makes of cars.

The new speed limits in Sweden for passenger cars are 23 miles an hour in the city and 28 miles an hour in the country.

URGES SMALLER WHEAT ACREAGE TO CUT SURPLUS

Executive of Newly Formed Growers' Council Endorses Action Taken by Producers in the Southwest Area

CHICAGO, July 30.—Strong endorsement of the policy of the Wheat Producers' Conference of the Southwest was given by Groverman Daws, executive vice president of the Wheat Council of the United States, in his report made public here after attending as a delegate to the organization of the southwestern conference in Wichita, July 16. Acreage curtailment, co-operative agreement by the conference promises to clear away the major portion of the wheat acreage immediately, he declared, so that if the wheat growers of the rest of the country would likewise curtail their acreage, the surplus would be cut to a sound basis and with an expectation of prosperity.

"The six states in the southwestern conference, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado, Texas and Oklahoma, contain 8,235,000 acres of wheat more than the acreage of 1913," said Daws. "This is eight-tenths of the excess acreage over 1913 of the whole United States. If binding details of the co-operative curtailment agreement are worked out by the southwestern conference and put into effect this fall, the problem of a wheat surplus for 1924 can be a long way toward practical settlement before snow flies."

Business-like attitude of the southwestern conference was praised by Mr. Daws.

No Complaints Heard
"The majority of the wheat growers in the conference were faced with absolute ruin," he said. "Yet in the face of disaster not a word of complaint was uttered. There was no denunciation of grain exchanges and not a word was said about using political power to force the government to fix a price for wheat. These men, confronted by ruin, said 'we will organize to keep before every farmer in these six states the advantage of reducing wheat acreage, improving our cultural methods and increasing our co-operative marketing.'"

"These same men who met in Wichita did not waste any time talking about market manipulation. They knew the truth, that the world wheat price is settled in the European world market. They knew that we exported last year three times as much wheat as we exported in 1913. They also know that while the United Kingdom was our biggest customer it only bought 15 per cent of its wheat from us and 85 per cent from Argentina, Australia and Canada."

Anti-Saloon League Chief Indicted

William H. Anderson, of Yonkers, N. Y., New York state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and the most picturesque character in that organization, and perhaps, of more newspaper statements than any living man, has been indicted by a New York grand jury on charges of grand larceny in the first degree and forgery. The two indictments charging larceny grow out of a claim for $24,700 which Anderson presented to the league. He has always refused to say for what he spent the money he claimed. The charge of forgery is based on alleged manipulation of the league's books. Anderson, who alleges the charges are the result of a political plot, is backed solidly by the league.

Winners of Western Idaho League Accept Challenge and Will Perform for Home Fans
Emmett's championship baseball team will arrive in town Sunday morning for a game with the local ball tossers, according to word received Monday from Secretary Buchanan, of the Emmett team.

This game promises to be one of the best games of the season, due to the fact that Emmett is considered by many to have the best team in the state, having won from Boise again Sunday, 7 to 0, and any team that keeps Boise away from the plate is going some. "Klippy" Stivers, famous Idaho University shortstop, is a member of the team, and is the lad who forced our Sid Kieffer to quit trying for short.
According to Secretary Buchanan, the team has three outsiders on its roster, the rest being boys from Emmett. They will be practice at Athletic park this evening and Manager Goldwater requests all members of the team to be out, as Sunday's game cannot be won with slumped ball playing.

BANDITS SHOOT CAR PASSENGER; $70,000 TAKEN

Police in Northeast Pennsylvania Join in Search for Man Who Killed Man, Wounded Others, and Escaped

ROZANTON, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Police throughout northeastern Pennsylvania tonight were searching for seven bandits who today held up an electric car between Moozie and Avoca, shot and killed one passenger, wounded four others, and robbed the driver of $70,000 in cash.

A reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the highwaymen was offered tonight by a local bonding company.

The holdup apparently had been carefully planned. Five foreign-speaking men were passengers on the car. One of the quietest stepped to the front platform and ordered P. D. Duray, the motorman, to stop the car. Duray refused and was shot through the chest and seriously wounded. As he sank to the floor he turned off the power, stopping the car. At the same time another of the gang, with an automatic pistol in each hand, ordered the passengers to hold up their hands and began firing. One of the first shots struck Edward J. Murphy of Sharon, killing him almost instantly. Philip Scribner, a Scranton salesman, and Mrs. Rose Krolowitz of Lake Winola, were slightly wounded.

Shot for Resistance. Henshall resisted the bandit's demand for the suitcase containing the money, and was promptly shot through the thigh. The highwayman then searched the passenger, but apparently to ascertain whether any were armed, they did not take pocketbooks and jewelry.

The five men then grabbed the suitcase, swung themselves from the car and leaped into an automobile in which two companions were waiting. They were seen a few minutes later speeding toward Duray.

Odd Experience. Being a stranger in Chicago, I was arrangements to be met by my cousin at one of the entrances to a well-known department store. After a fruitless wait of 30 minutes I went inside to a telephone booth, intending to call her home, to learn what was delaying her. After depositing a nickel, a pounding on the glass partition of the booth caused me to stop, look and listen. There was my cousin in the very next booth trying to get her house. We had been waiting at different entrances.—Chicago Journal.

Photographic Statuettes. Recently introduced into this country from Europe is a very interesting method of making photographic statuettes. The subject is photographed in the usual way. The paper print is then cut out, following the exact outline of the figure. This is pasted on to a mahogany board 3-1/2-inch thick, which is cut away to match the photograph. When cured in a small pedestal, this plate stands out in relief so that it looks like an actual statuette.

BEGIN COACHING COURSES. Seattle Professors of Washington State College Turn Out for Practice in Branches of Athletics

PULLMAN, Wash., July 30 (AP)—Fifty school men, many of them superintendents and principals, are taking a football coaching course under Coach Albert A. Exendine of the Washington State college here this summer.

Four teams are out for practice every evening and "Charley-horses," bruised limbs and sore muscles have resulted from the field training and actual scrimmages. Coach Exendine believes that the best way to teach school men the science of coaching is to coach them as they should coach their high school players.

Basketball coaching classes have attracted summer school men for instruction under "Doc" J. F. Bohler, athletic director. Tennis and golf tournaments are also being conducted.

AUSTRALIAN FIGHTERS COMING WITH CIRCUS

Four Champion Boxing Kangaroos Feature Attraction of Hagenbeck-Wallace Performance

During the past 20 years America has been invaded by numerous Australian fighters of boxes of more or less ability, but recently there arrived in this country a quartet of ring artists that promise to make themselves famous from coast to coast. These wielders of the five-ounce gloves are visiting the metropolitan cities with the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, and they are certain to be enthusiastically received when this big show appears here on Friday, August 10.

A great sum of money was expended by the Hagenbeck-Wallace management in bringing these fighters from Australia and it was necessary to spend considerable time in teaching them the Marquis of Queensbury rules. The little fighters learned rapidly and most of the bouts in which they appear usually end in a victory for them over their more husky and formidable opponents.

The four fighters observe the most stringent of training rules and are under the constant care of their trainers every hour of the night and day. Nothing is given them but the choice of foods and they have been placed on a strict vegetarian diet. This is necessary as they appear twice daily in the ring and they must be kept at a certain weight and subject to none of the ills that affect some of the other boxers.

If you have not guessed by this time, the four fierce fighters are the champion boxing kangaroos of the universe, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus is the only show that has ever offered that number in a series of bouts on the hippodrome track. Early this spring the management had offered $5000 for "Zob," the largest of the four, and the most finished boxer of any animal, but it was refused.

The American War Mothers had their annual picnic Friday, June 27, at the country home of Mrs. P. H. H. in. A bountiful dinner was served at noon, after which a short business session was held and delegates elected to the state War Mothers' convention which is to be held at Mountain Home in the early fall. The company had been divided in groups of three, each group contributing a "stunt" for the afternoon's entertainment. These proved to be extremely clever and amusing. There were thirty-two in attendance, three of whom were visitors.

The annual picnic of the Woman's Progressive club was held Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. D. Arcus. Guests were enjoyed on the lawn and a delicious picnic supper was served. Mrs. Emma Shaw, who is leaving to make her home in California, and Mrs. Charles Albright, who is going to Pocatello to make her home, were given a luncheon shower. Thirty adults and 60 children were in attendance.

The ladies of the Mentor club and their families held their third annual picnic in the Bull park on Sunday. There was a luncheon served to enjoy a bountiful dinner, served cafeteria style, after which a number enjoyed a plunge in the pool. The guest list included Miss Bennett, Miss Helen Doud and William Cain of Pomona, Kansas.

The wedding of Miss Pearl Pence and John Harold Gamble was solemnized on Sunday, July 29, at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hart, at Jerome, the Rev. C. A. Varum, pastor of the Methodist church, reading the ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pence, formerly of Jerome, and Mr. Gamble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Gamble of this city. After a tour of Yellowstone park, Mr. and Mrs. Gamble will be at home at Colton, Cal., September 1.

In compliment of Miss Beatrice Osterlander, Mrs. C. A. Robinson entertained eight tables of players at bridge Saturday evening at her home on Ninth avenue north. The guest of honor was presented with a dainty gift and there was a prize for the highest score at each table. Mrs. Robinson was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Leonard Smith and Mrs. Wendell Allen.

NEW PROBLEMS DELAY PARLEY

Action by Government Regarding Necessary to Signing of Conference

LAUSANNE, July 30 (AP)—The Tarco-American negotiations are in an unfavorable position; it depends upon decision of Washington whether a conference will be signed at Lausanne. Ismet Pasha took Hiza Nur Bey with him today to give him added strength in his talks with Joseph C. Grew. The first indication that the situation was less hopeful came when Ismet announced that Turkey would do nothing for the United States with respect to the protection of Christian populations in Turkey who were Ottoman subjects.

NOTED PROFESSOR SAYS IDEALS SHOULD CHANGE

PASADENA, Calif., July 30 (AP)—Man must adopt a more rational and scientific attitude toward life if the ideal of world peace is ever to be realized, according to Dr. Robert A. Millikan, chairman of the executive council of the California Institute of Technology, who is internationally known as the man who first isolated and measured the atom.

Bullets will not be replaced by balloons, Dr. Millikan told graduates of the institute here recently, until "nations of the earth, including our own, learn to take a more rational, a more objective, a more scientific attitude toward life and all its problems than any of them has yet learned to take."

The chief obstacle to world peace, he said, is the fact that man is just emerging from the jungle, it being only a few hundred years ago that he began to use "the objective and experimental method," that is, to "set aside all his prejudices and his preconceptions, to suspend his judgment until he has all the facts before him, to spare no pains first to see all sides of the situation, and then to let his reason, instead of his passion and prejudice, control his decisions.

"Some wag has said that the anti-evolutionists are opposed to evolution because it never did very much for him. It is literally true that many individuals are still in the jungle so far as their methods of meeting life's problems, so far as the mainprings of their conduct are concerned. For 15th jungle, ignorance and prejudice and impulse and emotion must determine conduct, and so long as that is the case, no other save the law of the jungle is possible."

Upsetting the Game. My husband was expecting a subpoena to be served and wishing to avoid being called had told me to refuse the subpoena by telling them he was out of town, which I did. At the time he was sleeping upstairs, so I considered it safe. While I was talking to the officer my five-year-old daughter came into the room and called, "Mother, papa sent me downstairs for a clean collar." There was nothing to say, so I said it. Exchange.

Carriage Cost $200,000. The most valuable carriage in the world is preserved in the palace of the Trianon at Versailles. It was constructed for Charles X of France. From pole to hind wheels the vehicle is thickly covered with gold and it cost more than $200,000.

DOG BROUGHT INTO COURT

SPOKANE, July 30 (AP)—The first vicious dog ever made defendant in a court action in Spokane county was recently found guilty of breaking the backs of 22 thoroughbred Loghorn hens, and as a result was charged with damages of $28.40. Fred D. Graff, who handles the money belonging to vicious dogs, was ordered to pay the amount to E. H. Pomeroy of Opportunity, near here.

The unusual action was taken in the justice court under a statute which provides that a dog may be used for such depredations. The dog's owner could not be determined.

NATIONS MAKE REPLY TO NOTE ON REPARATION

Belgium and France Dispatch Communications to England; Little Hope of Solution to Problem Is Seen

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—The French and Belgian premiers this evening handed to the British cabinet a note for foreign affairs, the replies of their governments to the British note proposing negotiations with Germany to solve the problem of the Ruhr and the greater problem of German reparations. Thus ended one chapter in the trying negotiations.

Yet it is a question in the mind of the British public whether these notes do more than open another chapter in the wearisome process. If Premier Baldwin has brought about any change resembling finality or an allied agreement, he will be acclaimed as a miracle worker. But there are signs that the opposite has been worked. Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon plainly cherish no such optimism. Both spoke briefly today in parliament—the commons and lords, respectively—on the position of the negotiations at that moment. Both were terse; neither either any hope that Thursday in London had drawn closer together.

There will be an attempt to discuss the topic before parliament adjourns Thursday, as the members are eager to learn the exact aspect of affairs.

Secretary Reveals

No promise was given today that they would likely see the curtain raised. The premier told commons it was very doubtful whether anything could be reached which could be published in Thursday's debate. He gave one gloomy hint. "I am afraid," he said, "it will only be a continuation of the negotiations."

Lord Curzon informed the lords with an air of weary resolution he certainly would give them a statement Thursday if he were within his power to do so, but his manner clearly indicated he did not think it would.

No hints have come across the channel that Premier Poincare has abandoned or even modified the views which his government has previously held and which he has reiterated in his planks in his platform; that there will be no beginning of conversations with Germany until Germany formally renounces passive resistance in the Ruhr and that there will be no withdrawal from the Ruhr until Germany has passed Franco-Belgian demands.

That seems to be the deep gulf which no minor concessions that France makes to Great Britain can bridge.

Guess at Contents

One outstanding feature of this latest chapter in allied dealings has been the deep secrecy which has characterized it. There has been no attempted revelation of details of the Franco-Belgian note nor the French and Belgian replies on any important points except such as guess work based on what knowledge of the policies of the two governments could offer.

Seldom have secrets known in foreign offices and to the cabinets in half a dozen capitals been so successfully hidden. In the previous stages of the debates all the important points have been quickly published and the French newspapers have been quickest and most sure in their knowledge, making allowances for their natural leanings toward placing French interests in the center of the picture. The Italian and German ambassadors visited Curzon this evening but there is no reason to believe the German's visit was connected with reparations, for Germany still is in the position of awaiting a reply to her latest communication. It is believed that the German ambassador planned to discuss the latest developments in the financial chaos of his country.

Belgium Has Plan

It is not yet known whether the Italian ambassador presented any written answer to the British note, although the Associated Press correspondent in Rome says that the Italian government has dispatched one which takes the middle ground between the French and French-Belgian replies. It is believed that the Belgian reply contains elements of a constructive plan in which respect it is believed to go beyond the French answer.

After the British parliament adjourns Thursday both the French and British cabinets will be in charge of affairs during the long parliamentary recess. Premier Baldwin tonight told J. Ramsey MacDonald, the opposition leader, that the British parliament can be summoned quickly in the event of emergency, but that it is adjourns without having assurance of the European cloud it will disperse in an atmosphere of deep gloom.

BANDIT CHIEF WHO CAPTURED AMERICANS

THIS is the first photograph to reach America of Kuo-Tsai-Chai, the leader of the Chinese bandits who looted the Shanghai-Peking railroad train, capturing many foreigners, including a number of Americans, who later were released. The photograph was made by Lloyd Leback, Chinese correspondent of the International News Service, who was captured, but escaped, and gave America, through the International News Service, the first eye-witness story of the kidnapping.

REPORT IS MADE

Company, being all of the capital stock outstanding except can share issued to a person now deceased, whose estate has not been probated, unanimously adopted resolutions asking us to cancel the certificate issued to that company and to grant a certificate to the applicant. These resolutions state that the Idaho Company has not commenced the construction of the railroad and will not do so.

The record in the above proceeding raised some doubts as to the ability of an independent line to sustain itself, but in view of certain undoubted advantages to the community to be served and the large saving in distance to be effected between southern Idaho points and San Francisco, a certificate was issued upon certain conditions. The main reasons for granting that certificate appear equally valid now, and in our opinion the public interest will be better served by the construction and operation of the line by a trunk-line carrier.

Cost $5,094,000
The cost of construction, without equipment, is estimated by the applicant at $5,094,000. The applicant represents that no additional equipment will be necessary as the line can be operated with the equipment now used on its Oregon branch and other parts of its system. It is proposed to finance the construction from current funds or from advances made by the Union Pacific Railroad company, which owns all of the applicant's capital stock. Authority may hereafter be requested to issue certificates to finance permanently this and other extensions, additions and betterments. The chambers of commerce of Twin Falls and Wells have undertaken to provide the applicant a free right-of-way, including land for terminals at Wells, the estimated value of which is $80,000. It is proposed to begin construction about September 1, 1923, and to complete the line by December 31, 1924.

Upon the facts presented we find that the present and future public convenience and necessity require the construction by the applicant of the line of railroad described in the application. A certificate to that effect will be issued.

Commissioner Potter did not participate in the disposition of this case.

Permit Granted

"Investigation of the matters and things involved in this proceeding having been had, and said division having on the date hereof, made and filed a report containing its findings of fact and conclusions thereon, which said report is hereby referred to and made a part thereof.

"It is hereby certified, that the present and future public convenience and necessity require the construction by the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company of the line of railroad from Rogerson, Idaho to Wells, Nevada, described in the application and report aforesaid; Provided, however, that this certificate is issued upon the express condition that the construction of said line of railroad shall be commenced on or before January 1, 1924, and completed on or before June 30, 1925, and that the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company shall report to the commission in writing within 15 days thereafter, the commencement and the completion, respectively, of such construction.

"It is ordered, that the said Oregon Short Line Railroad Company, when filing schedules establishing rates and fares to and from points on said new line of railroad, shall in such schedules make specific reference to this certificate by title, date and docket number."

DANISH SHIPBUILDERS REPORT

BIBIK TRADE, BRIGHT FUTURE

COPENHAGEN, July 30 (AP)—Danish shipbuilding yards seem to have safely weathered the post-war trade depression and are entering upon a period of comparative prosperity. The yards have come through the crisis very well, principally owing to the consolidation policy which has been followed. With the placing of new orders the yards are able to work more or less independently again. They are all busy, and a few of them are booked up. Unemployment has benefitted accordingly.

The yard workers, earlier in the year, voluntarily agreed to reductions in wages in order to make it possible for the yard shipbuilders to bid low.

CONDITION OF PRESIDENT

are about the same as shown in the previous report.

(SIGNED)
"C. E. SAWYER, M. D.,
"RAY LYMAN WILBUR, M. D.,
"C. M. COOPER, M. D.,
"BOONE, M. D.,
"HUBERT WORK, M. D."

Sudden Turn

The development of pneumonia was the one thing which Brigadier General Sawyer, the president's personal physician, had said less than two hours earlier that he feared almost above all else as a complication.

Secretary Work, one of the consulting physicians, left the president's room plainly disturbed by the change in the president's condition. He was joined by Secretary Hoover and with one of the physicians, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, went to another floor of the hotel to talk over the situation.

Dr. Wilbur's countenance was grave. As a measure of precaution oxygen tanks were brought into the hotel last night, but physicians said the need appeared at that time. The oxygen would be applied, it was explained, only in case the patient showed difficulty in breathing because of congestion of his lungs.

Soon after the issuance of this bulletin Lieutenant Commander Boone went out for a walk, which, he said, might well be interpreted as meaning that no crisis was immediately expected.

Announcement Made

Announcement was made that there would be no further consultations or bulletins issued during the night unless there was a decided change in the condition of the chief executive.

Friends Hold Fairs

Members of the president's party, as they scanned the last bulletin issued, were prompt to note the measured words of the physicians when they said the president was "temporarily," as contrasted with "physically," well adapted to make a strong fight against the broncho-pneumonia infection.

The bulletin issued tonight failed to bear out the more optimistic reports which had come from the president's sick room during the afternoon. It noted only a slight decrease in temperature and a rapid rise in pulse and respiration, and said that there was evidence of congestion in one lung, whereas the physicians' statement issued shortly before noon had described the lungs as clear.

The most encouraging feature of tonight's statement was that the chief executive had taken some nourishment and had been fairly comfortable during the day.

At the present time, General Sawyer said, there was in progress a battle between the resistive forces of the president, which, he said, had been weakened as a result of the trying physical exertions which attended his travels, and the attacking forces which flew out of the original ptomaine poisoning.

"We are running with a very handicapped machine," he added, meaning the president's physical being.

"The liability in the condition with which we are contending and the possible implications of other organs, none of which is safe from attack under the circumstances."

General Sawyer said that the situation might be summarized by saying that the president had the predisposition to resist the attacking forces, then the exciting cause (ptomaine poisoning) and now is handicapped in an effort to throw off complications which have and may continue to rise.

Remains in Hotel

Dr. Sawyer declared there was no intention or consideration being given to removal of the president to any hospital in San Francisco or to any other city.

"We are as well equipped to take care of Mr. Harding here as in any hospital in this city as we would be anywhere in the world," he asserted.

Mrs. Harding Is Nurse

Mrs. Harding has become the nurse. Mrs. Harding had cheerfully assumed the burdens of the sick room, still smiling in the face of adverse fortune, displaying a courage that has won for her the admiration of every member of the presidential party, and in addition, lending an effective hand in the business office where secretaries and clerks labor with the work of cancelling arrangements made at advance points, of acknowledging hundreds of messages of sympathy, and responding to continuous telephone calls from anxious friends everywhere in the country.

Spokesmen of the party said the president unquestionably would have proceeded further with the trip than San Francisco, fulfilling speaking engagements and lending himself to his arrangements made for Mrs. and the 46-year-old daughter, Mrs. Harding, had it not been for Mrs. Harding's standpat opposition. She too, was anxious to continue the program, and, with the president, was reluctant to disappoint the thousands of people who had traveled far from their homes to cities where the president was scheduled to appear.

It was Mrs. Harding's argument that it would be better for the chief executive to halt in San Francisco, cancel the advance itinerary and announce to the public the true facts, than it would be to continue the journey and risk the consequences of continued travel under prevailing circumstances. The logic of this plan compelled the president to yield to that course, but only after he had steadily refused, as talks with Dr. Sawyer and Secretary Work, also a physician, to permit the announcement to be made that the program was to be cancelled.

During the time these discussions were in progress, from Saturday night morning, none of the president's party suspected his illness would be complicated or become more serious.

FIND SMUT-PROOF WHEAT

State College Cereals Claims to Have Developed Variety Capable of Withstanding Plague Attacks

PULLMAN, Wash., July 30 (AP)—Development of a true smut-proof wheat has been announced by Professor E. F. Gaines, ecologist of the State College of Washington. A limited amount of "smut-proof" seed wheat is to be distributed to farmers of the Palouse wheat belt next fall if possible, it is said.

The announcement followed 10 years of experimentation. This season plants of the "smut-proof" have been grown beside plots of smut-infested wheat, with every head perfect and unaffected by the disease, according to Professor Gaines. It is a cross between the hardy Russian Turkey and the Australian drought-resistant Florence and is a good yielder, he says. An acre of the wheat inspected at the fifth annual field day of the college experiment station last week is expected to yield approximately 40 bushels.

NEGRO MURDERER HANGED

Thousands View Swaying Body of Roy Mitchell; Confessed to Killing Eight Persons in 18 Months

WACO, Texas, July 30 (AP)—Roy Mitchell, negro, confessed murderer of W. P. Driskell, Harrell Bolton, Grady Skipworth, W. E. Holt and Mrs. Ethel Deneamp, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barker and 13-year-old Homer Turk, within a period of the past 18 months, was hanged in the county jail today.

Sheriff Sigel sprang the trap at 11:02 a. m., and the rope was removed from the negro's neck at 11:24 after thousands of persons had viewed the swaying body.

It probably was the last legal hanging in Texas. The law for electing persons convicted and given the death sentence becomes operative on August 1.

A REST FROM LAWMAKING

"I think," wrote Anthony Trollope seventy years ago, "the country would do uncommonly well if it were to know that no old law would be altered or new law made for the next twenty years."

From this statement it were easy to conclude that the novelist was incorrigibly conservative and that he regarded the England of 1850 as a pretty good land in which to live. His point of view is reminiscent of the old Greek device which aimed to prevent hasty legislation by providing the death penalty for the proposer of a law which did not meet with public approval.

The last twenty years of our national life have seen hundreds of laws and ordinances added to the statute books of the nation, the several states and their political subdivisions. But very few of us could be persuaded that the daily life of many of us has been rendered more secure, or the average of personal happiness greatly improved.

As a people we grope toward almost as many ideals as there are individuals—and our law making shows it. Perhaps a good long rest would bring us to a better understanding of what we really need, and want.

THE HOG AS A SALESMAN

Kansas wheat is bringing around seventy-five cents the bushel, and the fact would seem to indicate a hard year for the farmers of that state. But the Kansas State College of Agriculture does not despair, and its arithmetic is very interesting.

The swine specialist of the institution says that wheat, at present prices, will produce pork $2.25 a hundred cheaper than will corn. At seventy cents the bushel, he adds, wheat will put 100 pounds of meat on a 100-pound shank at a net cost of $6.00, while ninety cent corn cannot do the same for less than $8.32 when both are fed on a ten per cent tankage ration.

Wheat, this expert asserts, is richer than corn in the matter of pork-making protein. Six and two-thirds bushels of it, and forty pounds of tankage, will go as far as seven and one-seventh bushels of corn and fifty-four pounds of tankage. Only he advises caution in the introduction of the new diet, and the coarse grinding or cracking of the cereal in order to save the hogs trouble.

As a result of these computations, the Agricultural College has advised its sixty odd agents throughout the state to counsel the farmers to market their wheat through their hogs, and the idea seems a popular one.

ALASKA

Alaska, said Herbert Hoover, speaking at Anchorage in the territory, will some day develop into four or five great states. And he added, wisely, that this must come by steady accretion of people, step by step, who "come here to obtain a better livelihood and a better standard of living."

Won't Desert Farm for Washington

Mrs. Magnus Johnson, wife of the Farmer-Labor leader who has just been elected to the United States senate from Minnesota, declares she will not desert the farm to accompany her picturesque husband to Washington.

The secretary went on to pledge his aid to the kind of Alaskan development that will bring permanent population, home-building men of family, rather than floating labor.

He is altogether right, Alaska, it may hardly be questioned, offers such men and women as much if not more than did our own West a half a century ago. Only its comparative inaccessibility holds it back—an inaccessibility which handicaps the homeseeker and which simplifies the operations of the great corporation.

Alaska needs them both, for the territory's development will be wastefully slow unless capital is encouraged to interest itself by the most liberal policies consistent with the public interest. But the important thing is population, and Alaska can hope to get that only when the American people have awakened to the promise of this land of the last frontier.

once faced, the fact that the foreign market for American wheat is going to be dead, because of increased world production, unless we sell our wheat in the foreign market at a loss. The only profitable market for American wheat is the home market.

NEW AERIAL FIELD FOUND

BEROEN, July 28 (AP)—Giving his opinion regarding the Arctic as a flying territory, Lieutenant Dietrichsen is quoted as follows by the Attenposten: "Once one has risen above the mountains, the mist vanishes and weather conditions become extraordinarily even and free from wind pockets. The further north one proceeds the better become the possibilities of good and safe landing places among the vast flat tracts of ice and snow fields."

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested will save several dollars outlay later on.

"Paper Work"

Victim—"Help! Help! I'm drowning!" Hero—"Courage, my brave man! Just wait until I get a rope, a measuring rod, a Carnegie application blank, two witnesses and a notary public!"

The News is read by the permanent reading classes.

...and gazed around. Who was it that had saved him?

"I've had my eye on that beggar all night," said wheezy voice. "And, dang it, I come near baw' 'em slow! Werry sorry I am, sir, as 'ow 'e got in that 'ere first crack."

Fortier stared at the man who came forward. A rather small, pudgy little man, wiping his face with a handkerchief, gray-haired. This was all Fortier could make out in the dim light.

"I seem to be indebted to you," he said quietly. "Was it you who threw that knife?"

"Yes, sir—werry sorry I was to do it, too. But 'e ain't dead, not 'im! Now, sir, if so be as you'd like to 'ave a lesson—"

The pudgy man stooped and picked up his knife. To the amazement of Fortier, he saw that the assassin had not been pierced at all. Gradually he understood—when his rescuer had handed him the knife, had explained his action.

The knife was peculiar. It seemed an ordinary seaman's sheath-knife, yet the handle was large and rounded, and was made of lead. This weapon, thrown butt first, had struck the assassin at the base of the skull, paralyzing him instantly.

"A bit tender, and 'e'd 'ave been crooked for fear 'e said the pudgy man reflectively. "Peraps you'd like to 'ave information against 'im, sir?"

"No," said Fortier. "You know 'im?"

"Dang it, sir, I ain't no crook! An honest seaman, that's what I am. Solomon 'e's name, John Solomon. 'e's so be as you'd like a bit of 'prog," he added apologetically. "Why, I'd be werry 'appy to stand you a drink, sir! Liqueur is a werry bad thing, I says, but even the worst of things is werry good in their place. And this 'ere, says I, is the place for a bit of 'prog."

Fortier laughed. He was amused and astonished by this character. "Good! Lead on—if you can find a drink. It's hard work, these days."

Fortier followed. He understood that he had been very close to the hospital, and he was not slow to suspect whence the blow had come. The assassin had been an utter stranger to him, as a glance showed—a thin, bearded, evil man dressed in rough corduroys. Fortier, himself accustomed to the bayous and timberland, gained the feeling impression that this man was not a city dweller.

Yet he attached no small importance to the passing notice. "That's what comes," said John Solomon, as he trumped along, "of sendin' to do 'ill a job. Now, if 'e 'ad been sent to kill you, sir, chances are you'd be a werry dead man this blessed minute. But no, 'e comes to put you in the 'aps!"

"Eh, 'im, do you know that?" demanded Fortier in sharp astonishment. "Well, sir, don't it stand to reason?" was the apologetic response. "What for was 'e a-sin'n a slung-shot, except to bust you up a bit?"

"How do you know he was sent to do 'ill?" "That he was not a mere fool?"

"The pudgy little man chuckled. "Them as asks questions gets less'n they asks, I says! I don't know, sir, for a fact. I was a guessin' at it, as the old gent said when 'e kissed the 'ousemaid on the ear. Now, sir, 'ere we be, 'e'll be so good as to step inside!"

Unlocking the door of a modest house, three steps above the street, Solomon pushed the door open and stood aside. Fortier perceived a light in the hall, and entered, not without a feeling of astonishment. He guessed at once that this was a pension similar to the one which he inhabited. A pension in New Orleans is about the last place on earth into which an ordinary seaman could obtain entrance.

Fortier's astonishment increased when he glanced around. The tables in the hall, the tapestries of Gobelin weaves, that marvelous rug into which his feet sank, were such treasures as are seldom found even in New Orleans; nor were they relics of some ancient grandeur. Against the wall was hung a suit of armor—that of an officer in the imperial guard at Peking.

From pasteurized to bow, the thing was a mass of gems and wrought gold. No impoverished Creole family would have such a thing.

"This 'ere ain't a boarding 'ouse, so to speak," said Solomon wheezyly. "But I 'ave me friends, and I'm welcome to stop 'ere when 'im in these parts, 'e's 'ere, 'e's 'ere."

Fortier stepped into a plain room, unadorned except for a sixteenth-century Ispanian on the floor. It held a plain desk, plain chairs, with a rickety smoking stand bearing plug tobacco and several clay pipes.

Fortier set down his hat, produced a box of excellent Havana's, then got into an old smoking jacket and a pair of carpet slippers. Now Fortier perceived that Solomon was rather an old man, with gray hair and a round, expressionless face. The eyes, however, were very blue and very innocent.

"A queer customer all around!" reflected Fortier. "Yet he threw that knife like an expert—"

Solomon set out glasses, and a bottle of Scotch whose label carried Fortier new astonishment.

"Eh, 'ow, sir?" and Solomon lifted his eyes to Fortier, and said, "That's to you, 'ow, if I may make so bold—"

FOUND THE GHOST

Competitively Simple Explanation of Happenings Which Had Made the Proverbial "Nine Days' Wonder."

Ghosts are said to walk abroad at night in country churchyards or to haunt old, dilapidated, or to wander in far-off deserted places; but citizens have not been supposed to be their favorite resorts, nor in cities shy such public and unromantic a place as a lunch-room or restaurant. And so it was with feelings of mingled astonishment and dismay that a restaurant-keeper in this city recently observed that his family, employees and patrons, according to a report of the Engineering Foundation.

It was seemingly a very modern shop specializing in electrical effects. Plated tableware would not stay put, but frisked about in unaccountable ways, iron pots rattled, and customers paid just one visit, beheld the strange doings, and fled to return no more. Help was impossible to retain. Something must be done, the ghost must be laid.

Now, it happened that next door was a substitution of the electric light company, and the restaurant, observing the electric qualities of his familiar spirit, guessed that it might somehow have escaped from his proper domain since it is especially true of electrical spirits that "stone walls do not a prison make." So he appealed to the electric light company to keep it own ghosts busy at home.

The manager of the station thought the restaurant man might be "spoofing" or something, so he decided on a personal investigation. It was all too true. Steel table knives set for service leaped out of places and remained rigidly fixed, giving appearance as to the possible fate of a customer who attempted to eat with his knife; iron pots needed Sandow cooks to pry them from the stove, and other weird demonstrations abounded. But he had the answer. He had found his ghost.

It seems that near the wall on the side of the electric station nearest the restaurant were many large electrical conductors, each carrying heavy currents to and from the converters, or transformers as they are sometimes called. Now it is a property of an electric current to produce a magnetic field, quite similar to that of a bar magnet, and the "lines of force" of such a field can pass through a brick wall about as easily as through nothing at all. Iron articles in such a field become themselves magnetized and try to line up along the lines of force just as a compass needle lines up with the lines of force of the magnetism of the earth. The restaurant, or at least much of its hardware, was magnetized.

The remedy was simple. The lines of force will pass through bricks, but not through steel, so heavy steel plates were set up along the wall of the substitution toward the restaurant. The effect was magical, the ghost was laid. Knives and forks stayed put. One might eat with one's knife in safety; customers were reassured; help was again obtainable.

Said the restaurant man: "I've heard about this personal magnetism stuff and how to get it. I've had enough, I'll tell the world. No more magnetism in mine, thanks."

And this is the story of the now famous magnetic ghost of Manhattan Island.—By Science Service.

Now, when he had turned from Royal street, he was in a region of poorly lighted walks, closed shops, dark doorways. He strode along, whistling under his breath, thinking of the problems which faced him.

Here, then, it happened—with a paralyzing awning.

Behind him, Fortier caught the soft thud of a rubber-soled foot. He glanced over his shoulder, carelessly.

He Saw a Figure Leaping at Him.

He saw a figure leaping at him with upraised hand. Startled, he turned, attempted defense—too late!

The blow fell, striking with a glancing smash, yet with enough power to send Fortier staggering. Dazed, half-stunned, he saw the figure dart for another blow, saw the slung-shot upraised, knew that he was helpless to prevent its fall. Blackjacked!

But the second blow did not fall. From a dark doorway behind Fortier, a second figure showed itself for a moment. There was a movement, the quick glimmer of steel in the air, the soft sound of a thrown knife going home. Fortier's assailant halted in mid-stride, flung out his hands. The slung-shot fell to the pavement. The assassin spun around and went down without a cry.

So rapidly had all this passed, that Fortier was slow to comprehend it. He stood gazing down at his fallen
