DEATH TOLL FROM FLOOD INCREASING

Ten Known Dead Following Cloudburst in Utah; Many Missing; Property Damage of $1,000,000 Estimated

SALT LAKE, Aug. 14 (AP)—The loss of life in the floods which swept northern Utah last night and today continued to mount tonight. Discovery under heaps of debris near Farmington, Utah, of three bodies tonight brought the official death toll to ten.

Several persons missing, scores of others injured and property damage amounting to more than $1,000,000 was estimated. As the stricken farm communities counted their losses after the swollen banks of several ditches normally dry, but which swelled last night to proportions of nearly a quarter of a mile wide and many feet deep, were swept down stream when the huge walls of water rolled with startling suddenness and intensity from the mountain canyons and down upon the sloping farm communities.

Most of the damage by flood was reported in Box Elder and Weber counties in the far northern part of the state. Fears that the death list would mount were expressed tonight by highway men and those who surveyed the situation. Two men were reported to have been drowned in a cloudburst at Willard, near Ogden, early today, increasing the death list to 10, but the report could not be confirmed late tonight. Three men were drowned at Willard last night.

Arnold Christensen, policeman, died from exhaustion attempting to rescue his daughter from flood waters near Farmington.
William Langston, 47, of Salt Lake, drowned at Farmington.
Miss W. J. Wright of Ogden, drowned at Farmington.

New Secretary to Coolidge is Named

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Former Representative G. Bascom Sloop of Virginia has been tendered and has accepted the position of secretary to President Coolidge.

Announcement of Mr. Sloop's appointment was made today at the White House shortly after he had concluded an hour and a half conference with Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Sloop will not be able to close up his personal affairs and take permanent charge of his office until after Labor day and in the meantime George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, will remain presidential secretary.

Announcement was made later that Mr. Clark would serve as the president's personal secretary.

Meets Newspaper Men

President Coolidge went through one of the critical experiences that fall to the lot of presidents—his first conference with Washington newspaper men since taking over the executive office.

Consequently Mr. Coolidge early this afternoon looked up from his desk and newspaper men ranged around it and many more streaming through the door. He hastily arose, smiled and nodded his head in way of greeting.

Refuses to Be Quoted

After announcing that he favored continuance of the custom of never quoting the president in press reports—a policy that has obtained in the case of the chief executive—Mr. Coolidge made a brief statement to the cabinet meeting which had just adjourned and then, taking up the sheaf of questions, which he had carefully sorted, began to answer them.

He spoke slowly and distinctly and went from one subject to another without hesitancy. His statements were so complete that some of the 150 newspapermen present requested amplification. When he had disposed of the last question he looked around and said:

"Well, I guess I have given you a tickle."

The confer-ces was over.

Zion Overseer Sees Sun's Movements as Optical Illusions

ZION CITY, Ill., Aug. 14 (AP)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, and advocates of the "flat world theory," today announced that there is "no such thing as sunrise or sunset." "There is literally no sunrise and no sunset," he said, "they are only optical illusions. The sun is the same height above the earth at all times."

The devil at one time had many infidels to teach that "no hell doctrine," said Voliva.

"Now he has hundreds of university professors and professed ministers of the gospel."

"I believe in hell," he asserted.

WOMEN'S BODIES FOUND IN BOXES

Man Is Held Responsible for Killing Wife and Her Mother; Makes Confession

MEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 14 (AP)—Two boxes, each containing the dismembered body of a woman were found in a field here early today. Shortly afterward Manie G. Teskos of Franklin, N. H., was arrested as he was running through Medford square, and the police said he confessed that he had killed his wife, Natalie, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Adams. A formal plea of not guilty to a charge of murder was entered for him in the Madisen district court later in the day and he was held without bail for the New Hampshire authorities.

A quarrel over money matters which resulted in a fight in which his wife and mother-in-law took, the initiative, led to the killing of the two women with a knife in their home in Franklin last Saturday night, according to an alleged confession by Teskos to the Medford police. He told the officers that he took his two children to Boston on Sunday, then returned to Franklin, cut up the two bodies and carried them in boxes. Yesterday he hired Charles A. Clark, a taxi driver, to take him to Boston with the boxes which he told Clark contained dishes.

Clark became suspicious and discovered what he thought was blood on one of the boxes. The car was stopped and Teskos and while Teskos was talking the boxes to a field Clark notified the police.

The two children were found today in the home of Teskos' sister in Boston.

TOTAL EXPENSE OF GOVERNMENT AT BIG FIGURE

Budget Bureau Begins to Apportion Estimates on Basis of $1,700,000,000 Exclusive of Debt Retirement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The budget bureau began today to apportion estimates for funds to run the federal government during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1934, on the basis of a total expenditure of $1,700,000,000, exclusive of the postal service and the interest on and the retirement of the public debt. Director Lord of the budget said he believed it necessary to cut $300,000,000 from the estimates submitted by the various departments to bring the total within the $1,700,000,000 figure agreed upon by the late President Harding and the budget bureau.

With such a limitation fixed on ordinary running expenses, the total cash withdrawal from the treasury during the coming fiscal year is expected to reach $3,500,000,000 in as much as the public debt requirements of interest and sinking funds are almost as much as the ordinary expenses. Changes may be made in the amount allotted for ordinary expenses, the budget office having suggested to the heads of governmental branches that where the amounts are cut too sharply new estimates may be offered to avoid unintentional impairment of efficiency.

Will Meet Necessary Expenses

While the director made it plain that he intends to cut as close to rock bottom as possible in all estimates, he informed all departments in the latter that absolutely necessary requirements would be cared for in the estimate. Similar expressions were forthcoming from the White House during the day, where an administration spokesman declared that President Coolidge desired to enforce the economy policy of the late President Harding, but that the efficiency of the department should be maintained.

General Lord's announcement of the allocation of estimated funds carried also the statement that the estimates upon which the budget office is now proceeding are $120,000,000 below the appropriations made for the same activities in the current fiscal year.

Deaths Caused from Fumes of Explosion at Kemmerer

Rescue Crews Make Frantic Efforts to Save Workers Buried Alive; Relatives Identify Dead; Cause of Fatal Blast, Believed Followed by Fire in Shafts, Remains Unknown

KEMMERER, Wyo., Aug. 14 (AP)—Fighting their way through the partially dismantled portions of Frontier Mine No. 1 of the Kemmerer Coal company, one mile from here, scene of an explosion shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, rescue workers tonight had brought out alive 37 of the 138 miners entombed by the blast.

It was estimated late tonight that the final death toll will be approximately 100.

INDICT FIVE IN BUCKETEER CASE

Brokers and Lawyers Named by Grand Jury; Los Angeles Man Faces Charges

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—Edward M. Fuller and William F. McGee, partners in the bankrupt stock bucketing house of E. M. Fuller and Co., were indicted with their former lawyers, William J. Fallon and Eugene F. McGee, by a federal grand jury today for conspiracy to conceal records and assets of the firm, which failed for nearly $3,000,000.

Additional indictments, naming alleged "higher ups," in a supposed widespread bucketing ring, were promised for the tomorrow. Being already in federal custody for contempt of court, it was said their arraignment would be deferred until a more convenient time.

Before deputy marshals had time to find Fallon and McGee, the indictments appeared at the federal building to surrender. They were arraigned at once before Federal Judge Goddard.

McGee was given until tomorrow morning to produce $7000 bail and Fallon got his liberty on the same $5000 bail he had deposited on such an indictment, still pending, which charges him with attempting to bribe a juror.

All hope of finding more miners alive after the entombment of approximately 138 workers in the 3700-foot mine was abandoned at 8 o'clock tonight and the work of bringing up the dead was begun. Twenty-three bodies were brought to the surface on the first trip of the mine-cars. They were taken to a temporary morgue here, where relatives gathered to identify their dead and claim the bodies.

The first rescuers to emerge from the mine declared that bodies of the victims were strewn throughout the main shaft of mine, which is a mile deep. Death occurred mostly from suffocation, they said, dense black clouds of smoke apparently having rolled over the workers after the blast, which is believed to have centered in tier fifteen, near the center of the mine.

The rescue workers, blocked in their efforts to reach the entombed men, worked until one o'clock this afternoon before they cleaned the passageway of the debris resulting from a cave-in. At the seventeenth entry it was found that the "trip car tracks had been torn up, apparently by the force of the blast, and the rescue crews were unable to proceed further on the car. Making their way foot-pace through the rough, debris-littered passageway, they eventually progressed to all the sections of the workings reached by the force of the blast, carrying, assisting or directing the survivors out of the passageways as they went.

Theory Given

One theory of the explosion advanced soon after news of the blast became known was that the "trip" cars on the fifteenth entry either had jumped the track or otherwise caused a spark which had ignited a small cloud of dust. This theory was strengthened by the fact that the cars were wrecked and buried in debris, according to mine experts here.

The explosion occurred in the vicinity of the 1700-foot level of the mine.

McGee was given until tomorrow morning to produce $7000 bail and Fallon got his liberty on the same $5000 bail he had deposited on such an indictment, still pending, which charges him with attempting to bribe a juror.

Thrifty Motorists Take Advantage of Dealers' War on Gasoline Cost

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (AP)—American motorists, taking advantage of the situation in the petroleum market, reported on the New York stock exchange and many oil stocks hit new low prices for the year, but most of them recovered and closed within a fraction of the opening price. Meanwhile many oil men laughed at statements that the new ceiling on the price of gasoline set by South Dakota was responsible for the price slump, maintaining instead that surplus production, particularly in the California fields, have made storage of the surplus impossible, with the result that companies must unload. Some of the oil men also attributed part of the situation to the scaling of "distress oil," all that the owners must dispose of at any price to meet loans and other obligations brought about by holding it indefinitely.

Business Busting.

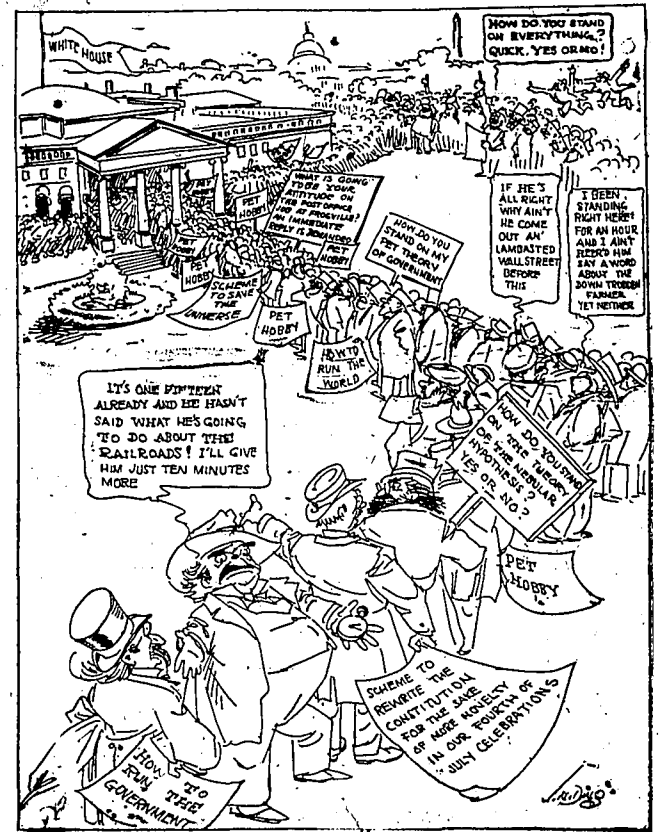

Meanwhile service stations pumped out their stocks all day long to meet the waiting motorists eager to buy gas at less than cost. In Chicago alone, according to the Chicago Motor club, motorists will save $100,000 a day by taking advantage of the 15.4 cent a gallon price instead of the 22 cent price of yesterday. The little dealer who yesterday filled a 50 or 100-gallon tank with gas at from 18 to 20 cents a gallon, depending on whether he hauled it himself, and who today was forced to retail it at 15.4 cents, was hardest hit, according to local oil men, and will be put out of business in large numbers if the low price continues long, they said.

Despite the cut price, numerous requests for investigations of the industry were being heard. Governor Doherty of Ohio sent a telegram to President Coolidge urging an immediate investigation of the entire industry. Governor Wark of Georgia announced he expected to make an investigation of prices in that state, and the chief executives of several other states yesterday that they were seeking information on the gasoline situation.

The price slashing started by the Standard Oil company of Indiana in South Dakota after Governor W. H. McMaster had ordered state depots to sell gasoline at 10 cents was extended throughout the company's territory in ten states and part of an eleventh today with a reduction of 6.6 cents. Independents, charging the cut of the Standard is unfair and ruinous, fell in line with reduced prices although in many instances they were only five cent cuts.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey announced a two-cent cut in West Virginia, and the Standard Oil company of Nebraska and the Standard Oil company of Kentucky also reduced their prices. Alabama independents announced they would meet the cut in that state while the same announcement came from the Manhatten Oil company in Iowa and the Continental Oil company of Colorado announced a two-cent cut.

BOOZE SEIZURE HELD LEGAL BY FEDERAL JUDGE

Vessels Hovering Outside the Three-Mile Limit Can Be Legally Taken, Woodrough Decides in British Case

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—Seizure of alien run-running vessels that hover outside the three-mile limit was held legal by Federal Judge Woodrough today. The decision was handed down in the case of the British ship Marion Mosher, seized while transferring a liquor cargo to the American-owned motor boat J. H. B. eight miles off the coast, near Fire island, July 27, 1922.

Bonds of the Detroit Fidelity and Surety company, given after the seizure of the craft as a guarantee that it would proceed to its supposed destination, St. Johns, N. B., were declared forfeited, it being held that although the vessel arrived at the Canadian port, she did not have her cargo, thereby violating her agreement.

The Marion Mosher case brought about a special session of President Harding's cabinet and an exchange of conversations with Great Britain. The Americans decided that the Mosher and other foreign vessels seized as rum runners should be released provided they proceeded immediately to their avowed destinations.

Judge Woodrough held that seizure of foreign ships engaged in smuggling liquor into this country was justifiable even though they were on the high seas.

"When a ship hovers around the American coast," he said, "although three-miles from shore, with intent to violate the laws and is caught in the attempt to smuggle intoxicating liquors and it is shown that it is in contact with shore, its seizure, though it be of foreign registry and outside the three-mile limit, is justifiable."

Decision Important.
The decision of Federal Judge Woodrough at Brooklyn today that the seizure of foreign vessels having near the American coast, although outside the three-mile limit, to land rum cargoes is justified, is regarded by officers of both the department of justice and the prohibition bureau as one of the most important handed down by the lower courts in connection with prohibition enforcement.

Prohibition officials hail it as highly important from a standpoint of a general enforcement of the "dry law." At the department of justice it was considered probable that it will furnish a vehicle for a ruling by the supreme court as to the constitutionality of the more than century old "hovering act," which customs and prohibition authorities invoked after the eighteenth amendment became effective.

Bloodhounds Trail Innocent Man

One of the strangest mysteries of recent years was the murder of Policeman Byron Potter, of La Grange, Ill., who was shot to death by a burglar he caught robbing a store. The burglar fled in an automobile belonging to George O. Hinchcliffe, a prosperous and highly respected commercial photographer. Bloodhounds, placed on the trail, went four times to Hinchcliffe's home, and the latter was temporarily arrested. It was found, too, that the slayer had broken arches and wore exactly the same kind of shoes as Hinchcliffe. Despite this, Hinchcliffe showed his automobile had been stolen and completely exonerated himself. He was released with apologies. In the group here shown is Chief of Police Matthews, of La Grange; Sergeant Dan Sullivan, Hinchcliffe and Lieutenant Kennedy.

EXPLORER TURNS TOWARD ALASKA

Leader of Exploring Expedition Leaving Seattle in 1922 Is Homeward Bound

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 14 (AP)—Captain Roald Amundsen, leader of an aerial and marine expedition that left Seattle in June, 1922, bound for the North Pole, is on his way to Nome aboard the United States coast cutter Bear, according to word received here today. The Bear, which was berthed by Captain Amundsen at Wainwright on the Arctic coast, is returning here from her annual cruise to Peled Barrow, the northernmost point of Alaska. The Bear is expected at Nome in a few days.

It has been expected here for several weeks that Captain Amundsen would return to Seattle by way of Nome. The exploration ship, Maud, in which he left Seattle, was frozen during the autumn in the ice of the Arctic coast north of Wrangell island and is attempting to drift across the pole with the pack. An aeroplane which he kept at Wainwright all winter and in which he intended to pass over the pole in June, 1923, was disabled in a test flight.

MOOSE FARMING IS NEW INDUSTRY OF ALASKANS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 14 (AP)—Moose farming may be conducted on the general scale as cattle raising with the added advantage that it is not necessary to feed the animals if a good birch cover is available, according to reports here. Two moose, captured and brought to Anchorage to be shipped to the states for propagation purposes, have asserted all other natural foods for alfalfa hay and ordinary grass grazing, and took to a grain diet in the winter.

The care of the moose has raised the question of preparation for domestic use as well as to conserve the animals, which because of the ravages of rabbits which eat every live herb of a height of four feet, leaving the animals only such limbs as were out of the reach of rabbits.

With the revelation in connection with the propagation of moose is the one showing that reindeer adapt themselves to the food in the region in which they are grazed and turn to reindeer moss only when there are no fire weeds and similar growth. The moss is an auxiliary feed in winter, being the only ground plant that does not freeze, but like the birch trees it retains sustenance for herbivorous animals.

There are wide areas in Alaska unfitted for anything except moose range, local men point out, and steps are being taken with a view to establishing the first moose ranch near Anchorage where conditions are said to be ideal for the animals.

NEVADA TO GET NEW DAM AT COST OF $4,000,000

RENO, Nev., Aug. 14 (AP)—Actual construction of a reservoir for the creation of a lake with a surface area of 12,000 acres, or approximately 60 square miles, will be started January 1, 1924, according to Engineer Ferd Bonstell of the United States reclamation service, in charge of the work. The total cost will be $4,000,000, of which $1,000,000 will be spent in 1924, it is said. A crew of surveyors, under the direction of Ferd Bonstell, is at work locating the ditch line from the Truckee river to the site of the Spanish Springs reservoir. A board of appraisers is checking up the value of the rights of way through lands to be passed through by the canal, or submerged by the reservoir. The reclamation service will shortly make offers to the owners of such land, it has been announced.

AMBASSADORS WANT MORE CASH FOR ENTERTAINING

Pomp of European Courts Is Still in Vogue Among American Diplomats in Foreign Countries

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—The pomp of European courts has not decreased noticeably since the war, according to reports of American diplomats to the state department. American ambassadors are continuing their complaints of inadequate salaries to meet the heavy drains of social entertainment, and are citing post war troubles of entertaining royalty at functions which equal or surpass the gilded affairs of the pre war days in Europe.

For instance, the state dinner given recently by George Istvay, American ambassador to the court of St. James, to the British royal family, set back the American envoy something like $8000—for one dinner and trimmings. In fact, the trimmings constituted a large part of the bill, which contained an item of $750 alone for palms and ferns given standing room in the fireplaces of the American embassy for the occasion.

Excuse Us, Please!

We would like to ask you a few personal questions—their import is: Do Your Glasses Fit You Correctly? Look into the mirror a moment and see those glasses you have on. Do they suit you as well as they did when you first had them? Are they as becoming to your features as modern Optometry can make them?

We Are Interested for Several Reasons:

- 1. Glasses that do not fit correctly are injurious to your eyes and are worse than no glasses at all. 2. When you wear glasses that are old-fashioned or unbecoming they make you look old and you do not like to wear them. That is the reason a great many people do not get the benefit from their glasses they should. 3. When glasses have been worn for any length of time and are not changed the eyes become strained and give a lot of trouble that people try to correct by other means than the proper glasses, because, they say, "It is not my eyes—I have glasses."

Everyone Who Wears Glasses Should Have Them Changed

Noted War General of Great Britain Takes Stand for Reduction of Equipment

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Major General Sir Frederick Maurice, who was chief of military operations for Great Britain during the war, declares in an article on the increase in the air forces of France and Britain that "it is high time the question of limitation of armaments be taken seriously." He says that the British government's recent decision to nearly double England's present air equipment meant a return to competition in armaments and that such competition is not likely to lead to improved relations between the two countries.

WYOMING MINE

Tonight rescue workers had penetrated to nearly every quarter of the underground workings, and it was indicated they had brought out all the men remaining alive.

On the entries between 27 and 37 the majority of those brought out alive were found. Many had taken refuge in rooms off the main stop and were adopting such first aid measures as they knew to save themselves.

The great throngs of women and children, many of them widowed by the blast, gathered about the mouth of the shaft as the rescue work went on.

Buffer from Fumes

The men brought from the mine alive were found in entries numbered 27 to 30.

Men while company officials had begun mobilization of rescue and first aid forces on the outside of the mine. A temporary hospital was established in the blacksmith shop at the mouth of the mine.

Although rescue workers declared they saw many bodies in the mine

Six Mine Cars Buried

The greatest damage to the interior of the mine was done in the fifteenth entry, where six mine cars had been buried by a cave-in which apparently followed the explosion.

They hurriedly called for reinforcements and began the task of clearing the main stop. The work required several hours, and when the way at last had been cleared, it was found impossible to proceed further with the trip cars.

On the entries between 27 and 37 the majority of those brought out alive were found. Many had taken refuge in rooms off the main stop and were adopting such first aid measures as they knew to save themselves.

The first intimation workers on the outside of the mine had that there had been a disaster was given shortly after 3 o'clock when long streams of black smoke began to issue from the ventilating fans.

Men while company officials had begun mobilization of rescue and first aid forces on the outside of the mine.

Although rescue workers declared they saw many bodies in the mine

when they entered, they did not stop except to ascertain if the men were living. In some cases they resuscitated miners who were suffering keenly and carried their bodies from the mine. In other cases they were able to help the victims walk out by guiding their footsteps.

One of the first men to come out of the mine declared that the smoke had been suffocating although apparently not gaseous.

Those who sought isolated rooms or passageways after the blast survived in most instances.

Officials to Rescue

T. C. Russell, superintendent of the Diamond Coal and Coke company, who rushed to the scene as soon as word of the blast spread this morning, was one of the first rescuers to enter the workings.

Shortly after the explosion it was feared that rising water in the mine, which is normally a wet shaft, would cause the death of any survivors still trapped below. The pumps, however, which had been out of commission, were again put into working order this afternoon and the level was being pumped out tonight.

DEATH TOLL

MANY ARE HEROES FARMINGTON, Utah, Aug. 14 (AP)—Tales of heroism continued to hold the interest of this little city tonight, arising from the sorrow brought to it after a night of terror caused when flood waters from the mountains deluged this section and left behind a path of death and desolation.

Two hundred volunteer rescue workers today patrolled Farmington creek, aiding the many injured and searching for and fearing that they might find other bodies to mount Farmington's death toll of five. More than a dozen homeless families, their ranch homes carried away and crushed in pieces in the rush of the waters, were cared for tonight by their neighbors.

Persons here and at Lagoon, a pleasure park near by, caught in the flood waters as they poured from the mountains, were swept downstream for many yards before they were rescued or almost miraculously cast to safety on the banks of the narrow rampaging stream.

In the path of the flood were the home and ranch buildings of Mrs. Legrand Hess. As the look of lightning illuminated the landscape, disclosing a current rushing against a barn on her property.

Obtaining a rope, Mrs. Hess threw it to three men perched in the structure after that waters struck it. The men, who had sought shelter in the barn, then slid to safety, going hand-over-hand down the rope until they reached safe soil.

A sick doctor left his bed to rescue and 80-year-old woman who had clung to a calf in the flooded Farmington creek. After saving the woman and a child, the physician, upon the pleadings of the aged woman, saved the calf.

TROOPS ON DUTY

WILLARD, Utah, Aug. 14 (AP)—

Searching for the bodies of persons missing as a result of the flood which struck this village last night, National Guardsmen late today began digging into mire and debris in mountain canyons near Willard, believing other dead may have been buried there during last night's storm.

The village was covered today with wreckage of its own farm homes and other structures. Great piles of mud and wreckage had accumulated at places to a depth of between 25 and 30 feet.

MONTANA PASSES LAW TO ALLOW OLD AGE PENSION

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 14 (AP)—Commissioners of Montana counties are receiving many applications for pensions under the old age pension law, Montana, it is believed, being the first state in the Union to adopt legislation of this kind. Intemperate persons, even though past the age of 70, the age of eligibility, are not entitled to receive the $25 a month provided under the law. The law, it is claimed, takes cognizance of a former status which requires any father, grandfather, mother, grandmother, children, grandchildren, brothers or sisters, in the order named, to contribute $30 a month to the support of a destitute person. A test case has been filed to determine whether the old age pension law supplants the older statute.
