OIL BLAST FREES SEA OF FLAMES

Scores Flee Toward Safety as Huge Tanks Let Go; Military Barracks and Troops Endangered

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 17 (AP)—The fire which started early today when a 500,000 barrel tank of the General Petroleum company burst into flames after an explosion shortly after 10 o'clock tonight after causing damage estimated at $1,000,000 and establishing itself as one of the worst in the history of the oil industry.

J. L. Martin, superintendent of pipe lines for the company, said he believed the fire was of incendiary origin.

A half million barrel oil tank of the General Petroleum company here, catching fire from an explosion believed to have been caused by static ignition, boiled over the flaming edge of the cauldron tank today and filled the emergency dyke on the hillside on which it is located with lakes of liquid fire.

The tank boiled over again shortly before 6 o'clock and a huge tongue of flame leaped flame-like over the homes at the base of the hill. Residents of the district, engaged in hurried removal of their belongings, turned in dismay to watch the heavy pall of flame-stricken smoke that spat off the sky. Children ran about the yards in aimless terror.

The dikes held the blazing stream from hundreds of homes that were impelled, but as the torrent advanced it piled up in other dykes against a 55,000 barrel fuel oil storage tank, which was filled to capacity.

Should a third spill-over from the blazing tank occur tonight, a development which at 7:30 o'clock appeared probable, experts directing the firefighting operations expected the leap of the flames to engulf the distillate. In view of this peril every effort was made to have residents of the district below the hill evacuate their homes.

Long before sunset an unnatural glow observed the streets and automobiles coursed the streets with headlights on. Boulevards entering the district were crowded with motorists drawn by curiosity or, in many cases, by fear for the safety of property in what would be the path of a river of fire, should the tank stop the hill explode.

Residences Threatened

The threatened residential district is five blocks square. Meanwhile, the 700 workmen returned to their tasks taking further precautionary measures. Two new dykes in the canyons beneath the 14 inch guns of Fort McArthur

Negroes Lynched by Georgia Mobs

Two Blacks, Accused of Attacking White Women, Taken from Officers and Hanged

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17 (AP)—Two negroes were lynched in Georgia today.

Early this morning a crowd of men broke into the Bleckley county jail at Cochran, Ga., took a negro named Aleck Harris, charged with attacking a white woman, carried him 12 miles from town on the Dublin road, strung him to a tree and shot to death.

The second lynching occurred in Houston county, where Leo Green, negro, was taken from officers, carried to the house of the woman he is alleged to have attacked, and then strung to a tree and shot to death.

The Bleckley negro was serving a term on the chain gang for burglary at the time he was alleged to have committed the crime for which he was lynched. It took place last Wednesday. The mob tore a hole in the county jail and saved its way through a steel cage to get at the negro. The sheriff was absent and no other jail officials were on duty.

In both cases when the sheriffs had reached the scenes the mobs were said already to have dispersed.

Coolidge Sees Good Omen in Friendly Action of Airedale

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Coolidge is not inclined to be superstitious, but something occurred last night when he and Mrs. Coolidge went to the White House to call on Mrs. Harding that he regarded as a good omen.

When the presidential automobile drove up under the porte cochere before the north door, Laddie Boy bounded out and down the steps in greeting so cordial and affectionate that both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge took especial notice of it.

Mr. Coolidge, relating the incident to callers today, said he hoped that it might be regarded as an omen of the spirit in which he might be received by all those associated with the late president.

FIRE RAGING IN MINE'S DEPTHS

Flames Break Out in 1500 Foot Level of Sulphid Deposits in Arizona

DISBEE, Ariz., Aug. 17 (AP)—Fire is raging on the 1500 foot level of the Junction shaft of the Calumet and Arizona Mining company, with every indication that it may get beyond control unless high pressure water is applied within a short time.

A crew of several hundred men are laying pipes to the blaze and if it is extinguished before the sulphid ore becomes ignited, only a small loss will occur.

At 1 o'clock tonight, after a trip of inspection in the mine, John C. Greenway, general manager of the company, announced that the fire would be confined to an area of 24 feet and would not extend more than 40 feet above the 1500 foot level.

The fire cannot spread out of the small area and the only danger is from gases that might escape and hinder work on the other levels, Mr. Greenway stated.

Although some of the helmet crew and a number of shift bosses had been fighting the fire for 10 hours, stopping only long enough to eat, only a few men were overcome with smoke and gas that filled every stop and raise in the mine.

SHIPS LOST IN FATAL TYPHOON

Heavy Property Damage and Probable Loss of Life Occur on Chinese Seas

HONG KONG, Aug. 18 (AP)—One of the most disastrous typhoons in the history of Hong Kong struck here today, causing tremendous property loss and it is feared, many lives.

The British submarine L-9 was sunk in the harbor, unable to withstand the terrific force of the storm.

Many steamers have been wrecked, the total number and damage not yet having been ascertained.

The typhoon was continuing with unabated fury at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Three typhoons visited Hong Kong harbor last month, the worst occurring July 27 when all shipping was threatened by the raging storm.

In August last year a terrific typhoon struck the Chinese coast between Amoy and Swatow and left a heavy trail of damage in its wake.

It was estimated the death toll at Swatow was 60,000, most of the victims being natives.

Another typhoon swept the southeast coast in the early part of September, the same year, resulting in the death of approximately 3000.

This typhoon was accompanied by a tidal wave 23 feet high.

REFINING TANK EXPLODES

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Aug. 18 (AP)—A still of the Interstate Refining and Pipe Line company was reported by the fire department to have exploded here early this morning.

Several large industrial plants were said to be menaced. All available fire fighting equipment was rushed to the scene.

A call was made for an ambulance to the move two men who were severely burned. The fire spread rapidly and refining plant was soon aflame.

Formal Deposit of Ratifications Takes Place Without Ceremonies

Face of Guiding Genius Is Absent as Diplomats Perform Duties in Washington Conference Epilogue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Seated about a table in the state department today, five men recorded the final approval of the powers for the treaties drafted by the arms conference to end naval competition, terminated the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and swept away the war clouds that have hovered for days over the Pacific.

It was an epilogue to the Washington negotiations at which it had been planned to give the place of honor to President Harding, at whose call the conference assembled; but instead the formal deposit of ratifications was performed almost without ceremony.

Secretary Hughes and his colleagues met in the diplomatic reception room in the presence of only a handful of spectators, including officials of the department, messengers and representatives of the press.

At almost the same time, a coroner's jury returned a verdict finding that the blast was the result of an attempt by the fire boss in room seven on the thirtieth entry to relight his safety lamp.

The lamp, carried by Thomas Roberts, fire boss, whose body was the last taken from the mine, was produced at the inquest by Peter Boamy, gas watchman. He declared he found the lamp 12 feet from the face of Room No. 7, close to the spot where Roberts' body was found.

The others followed suit, each pronouncing the same formula: Then documents constituting a record of the day, and the hour at which the treaties became effective were passed from hand to hand for signature.

By prearrangement a telephone call went to the navy department at the moment the last name had been written on the naval limitation.

They held him up with his own pistol.

Kemmerer Holds Final Services for 99 Men Who Lost Lives in Mine Explosion

KEMMERER, Wyo., Aug. 17 (AP)—Kemmerer held the last sad rites today for the 99 miners whose lives were snuffed out in the explosion in Frontier mine No. 1 of the Kemmerer Coal company last Tuesday.

At almost the same time, a coroner's jury returned a verdict finding that the blast was the result of an attempt by the fire boss in room seven on the thirtieth entry to relight his safety lamp.

The lamp, carried by Thomas Roberts, fire boss, whose body was the last taken from the mine, was produced at the inquest by Peter Boamy, gas watchman. He declared he found the lamp 12 feet from the face of Room No. 7, close to the spot where Roberts' body was found.

DECIDE VESSEL AND CREW WENT DOWN IN STORM

Wreckage, Strwn About Shores Prove Tanker "Swift Star" and 28 Men Were Lost While at Sea

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—The scorching body of a man, apparently a seaman, picked up among the wreckage of oil-strawed waters of the Caribbean sea last month has apparently explained the fate of the tanker Swift Star, which vanished mysteriously last week.

It was learned today that the tanker, which was carrying 28 men, was lost when a bolt of lightning struck the vessel, which was a crew of 28 men.

The Swift Star left Los Angeles for Bay of Pines, Fla., and was last seen on the eastern end of the Panama canal, July 13. Her captain was E. C. Hall of Baltimore.

The mute testimony of the probable explanation of the tanker's disappearance was presented to the owners by Captain Pollet of the schooner Albert H. Wills, which was heading up toward the island of San Andres, about 200 miles north of San Cristobal, July 22. She was close to the island when wreckage was sighted.

The sea was littered with splintered wood. Two wooden lifeboats and one steel deck housing the name "Swift Star," were found. The sea thereabouts was covered with an oily film.

Captain Pollet's lookout discovered an eight-foot packing case amid the debris and it was hoisted aboard the schooner. Investigation revealed the case of a man who apparently had died from burns. It was buried at San Andres.

Discovery of the body led Captain Pollet to believe that lightning had struck the tanker amidships, disabling her wireless and exploding one of two oil tanks. The tanker quickly tilted and sank. Captain Pollet was of the opinion that the man who was found was killed outright by the lightning and flung into the packing-case, which remained afloat when the ship sank.

RECEIVER IS ASKED FOR PIGGLY WIGGLY COMPANY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 17 (AP)—Clarence Saunders tonight resigned as president of the Piggly Wiggly corporation, and asked for a receiver for the company, which has been in receivership for several months within the organization, with the filing of a petition in the United States district court asking the appointment of a receiver for the corporation, parent Piggly Wiggly organization and holder of patents under which the Piggly Wiggly stores throughout the country operate.

Filing of the suit came between meetings of the board of directors called by Saunders to devise means of financing and elimination of loans which he termed essential to the continued success of the concern.

IDAHO WEATHER. Saturday: Fair.

SOMEBODY'LL BE STARTING A M'MASTER FOR PRESIDENT CLUB IF HE DOESN'T LOOK OUT

Mrs. Harding Surrenders Home to the New First Lady of the Land

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Quietly but with a flourish, Mrs. Florence Harding tonight left the White House, never to return, except possibly as a guest.

None of the crowd's, none of the cheers, none of the excitement and none of the pleasurable anticipation greeted the arrival at the executive mansion. Mrs. Harding left the White House in the gloom of a rainy night.

The contrast was so noticeable that those who accompanied her away were plainly moved, but Mrs. Harding, herself, whatever may have been her inner emotions, walked out of the door, across the portico and into the waiting automobile as calmly as she has passed through all the succession of trying hours that have been her lot in the last 15 days.

Shortly before 6 o'clock an automobile drove up to the north portico. It marked her arrival at the executive mansion. Mrs. Harding left the White House in the gloom of a rainy night.

Deaths on Guard. Two secret service men, the one who has been assigned to Mrs. Harding from the time her late husband was elected president, and the one detailed to Mrs. Coolidge, came out and then Major Ora M. Baldwin, the military aide to the late president, who was selected by Mrs. Harding for the post and been one of the new boys when she had charge of the direction department of the Marion Star.

Dressed in mourning, but without a veil, Mrs. Harding stepped out followed by Mrs. Coolidge and George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late president. Mrs. Harding stepped back with only one glance to the side at three newspaper men present to watch her departure, she walked with firm step to the automobile, was helped in by Secretary Christian, who, after assisting Mrs. Coolidge into the car, stepped inside himself.

Meantime, Miss Laura Harlan, secretary to Mrs. Harding, and Miss Ruth Powderly, who was Mrs. Harding's nurse during her illness a year ago, and was nurse to Mr. Harding in his fatal illness, had gotten into the second car. They had about a word from anyone, the automobiles moved down the gravelled driveway, out one of the northern gates and out into Pennsylvania avenue.

Mrs. Harding went to "Friendship," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean, on the edge of Washington. There she expects to stay probably 10 days or two weeks before going to Marion to attend to the settlement of the late president's estate.

Although the White House is in readiness for them, President and Mrs. Coolidge do not expect to take up their residence there before the middle of next week.

ELLIS ISLAND IS TARGET FOR BRITISH WRATH

Alleged Unclean Conditions at Gateway Offends Mr. Geddes; "Most Extraordinary" Odors

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The British government has today justified in making complaints on behalf of many Englishmen against the conditions at Ellis Island, in the opinion of most of the... today an Ambassador Geddes' report of his visit to the New York immigration station.

The Star, admitting the difficulties of handling large mixed crowds, says no excuse can suffice for a condition so dirty and "in some cases, so foul, that... paper would have been allowed to print the details.

"Clean immigrants and dirty ones, gentle and coarse, honest and criminal, are crowded together in quarters so squalid to the better kind," says the Star.

"These things occur under the shadow of the Statue of Liberty. They are to the thousands the first taste of that freedom which is the boast of 'God's own country.' What a pity that America's moral lectures to the naughty, effete old Europe have to cross such a filthy doorstep."

Thal N. Gazette thinks Ambassador Geddes is not too much to say a single harsh word against American institutions which could be avoided, adding that Americans who read his criticism of Ellis Island will realize that he condemned nothing that is not relating to the instincts of civilized men.

"The Americans are great organizers," the newspaper adds, "and the immigrant cages at Ellis Island are in some respects no wonderfully organized as the Chicago stock yards. The existing system in that it brings human beings together like cattle, ignoring the infinite grief that separates degradation from decency."

The editorial complains that self-respecting Englishmen are herded with the lowest classes of other countries. Pointing out that Ambassador Geddes urges that the admissibility of every individual should be settled before he leaves his native country, the paper adds:

"It is simply playing with human misery when a government, which is a visa to a would-be immigrant and simultaneously writes to his government recommending that he should not be admitted."

CURRAN IN UNREST

MAYENCE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Unrest, accompanied by plotting continues throughout the grand duchy. Houses and churches are reported between communists and police at Langen, Russelsheim and Grosgerau, three towns on the right bank of the Rhine in northeastern Hesse.

One member of the security police was killed, a number were wounded and many disarmed in clashes with the unemployed. Several of the latter were wounded.

Early potatoes are being dug in some localities, but the yield has been only fair. Some potatoes are being shipped from the Twin Falls section. Head lettuce is practically all planted. The range is dry, but range feed is still ample and livestock are in excellent condition. Irrigation water is plentiful.

In north Idaho wheat harvest and threshing is in full swing. Apples in the irrigated orchards are growing rapidly and there is promise of a heavy crop. Apple pests are generally well under control. Early peaches and apricots are being harvested. Head lettuce is plentiful.

Harvest of grain crops in southeast Idaho is under way and threshing has started. Second crop alfalfa is being cut with a fair crop. Potatoes are doing well, some early ones being dug. FIGHT AGAINST ALFALFA WEEVIL BRINGS RESULTS

University Entomologist's Experiments Yield Valuable Suggestions for Control of Field Pest

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Aug. 17—Experiments on alfalfa weevil control, conducted at Parma by Claude Wakeland, entomologist of the University of Idaho experiment station, have yielded definite results, according to an announcement given out through the college of agriculture.

Mr. Wakeland used for his experimental work the fields of several farmers in the community, and on these he tested and observed the results of several different methods of weevil control. Among these methods were early cutting of alfalfa, grazing of the field crop with livestock until late in the spring, creation of a dust mulch by means of a brush drag, spraying with a liquid spray, using varying rates of intensity, and dusting with poisons distributed by specially constructed machines.

In addition, Mr. Wakeland has watched closely the prevalence of the pest with livestock until late in the spring, creation of a dust mulch by means of a brush drag, spraying with a liquid spray, using varying rates of intensity, and dusting with poisons distributed by specially constructed machines.

The experiment station is now planning a program of control for 1924, and for that reason is soliciting the cooperation of farmers in weevil-infested regions. Recommendations to the farmers will be based upon the results of this year's experiments, and bulletins will be prepared for distribution on the habits of the weevil, application of control measures, and other factors of interest to farmers in infested districts.

PRIESTS ESCAPE FROM HOLD OF BANDIT GANG

Dressed in Native Costumes, Captives Flee to Safety, Report Says: London Mission Hospital Burned

HANKOW, China, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Rev. Michael McLaughlin and the Rev. Daniel Ward, Catholic priests, who were kidnaped Thursday at Tanchin by Chinese bandits who looted the town, have made their escape, according to advices received here early today. It was said the priests disguised themselves in Chinese clothes and eluded their captors.

Late reports from Tanchin indicated that the bandits burned the London mission hospital and its adjoining buildings, instead of the Catholic hospital. The first accounts of the bandit raid told of the burning of the Catholic institution.

With the escape of the two priests it now is believed the bandits have no other foreign captives; although they are holding more than 100 Chinese prisoners.

Geddes Objects to Unclean Condition of U. S. Gateway

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Specific resolutions for improvement of conditions at Ellis Island, the principal gateway into America for European immigrants are contained in a report to Foreign Secretary Marquis Curzon from Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, made public here yesterday.

The report drafted by the ambassador following a visit to the island last December, was issued in the form of a parliamentary paper. The general criticism is that Ellis Island is too small, and that additional buildings are generally in a poor state of repair.

"Greasy dirt," weeds and perhaps months old, was seen by the ambassador in many corners, with the floor so filthy that it was covered by a flat, stale smell, quite distinct from the pungent odors of unwashed humanity.

Sir Auckland thinks the staff becomes accustomed to this odor, but he says for himself that "it took me thirty-six hours to get rid of the aroma, which flavored everything I ate or drank."

He says the sleeping accommodations are often unpleasant; but he found the food good and well cooked, although the place cannot be compared with the most comfortable table manners of some of the guests. He thinks detention upon the island must be a hateful experience for all persons of any sensibility. The medical and hotel rooms he terms unsuitable and inadequate. All arrangements for handling admitted immigrants, however, efficient and reflect high credit upon those concerned.

GOODING COLLEGE WINS PLACE ON ACCREDITED LIST

State Board on Expanding of Former Commissioner Recognizes Institution

GOODING COLLEGE, GOODING, Idaho, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Oscar Wesley Tenney has just received word from Superintendent Elizabeth Russum saying that the Idaho state board of education, at its recent meeting, placed Gooding college on the accredited list for four and two year teachers certificates for the year 1923-24, and that certificates will be issued to all of last year's graduates and two year students who have applied for same.

In view of the fact that Dr. E. A. Bryan was not able personally to visit the school before retiring from his position as commissioner of education as he was asked to go by the Gooding college authorities, this action was taken on his recommendation with the understanding that the school is to be inspected and a report made to the board of education before the end of the coming school year.

Among this year's Gooding college students who will receive high school certificates as a result of this action are James Tomlin, Fayette, Roy Nilsson, Wendell; George Cronkite, American Falls; Marjorie Poirglass, George Tamm and Lucille Pollock, Gooding; Mrs. S. A. Fourrier, Filer, while Ethel Nash of Emmett, and Lauretta Hughes of Wendell, will receive the certificates awarded to the students who finish two years of college work, including the required amount of work in educational subjects.

HOLD UP REPLY TO CLAIMS FOR BANDIT VICTIMS

Chinese Government Slow to Act on Demands of Diplomats; Oppose Plan for Official Guards

PEKING, Aug. 17 (AP)—To date no reply has been received from the Chinese government by the foreign diplomats who recently presented to the government a lengthy demand for indemnities for the capture and imprisonment of foreigners last May and June by the Chinese bandits.

Reports regarding preliminary consideration of the demands by the foreign office have revealed that there is opposition to the diplomats' suggestion that bands be organized. It is guarded with foreign officers in command of the guards as a guarantee of safety to foreign travelers, but that there is an inclination to accede to the demand for organized bands.

While, it is understood to be desired by Chinese officials that the question of government sanction of banditry be held in abeyance, the diplomats in a statement accompanying the demands accused the government of acquiescing in the depredations of outlaws. Newspapers disagreed on what China should do about the demands, but admitted something should be done.

Apparent Imminence of Recognition of Oregon Government Draws Much Attention

LONDON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The apparent imminence of recognition by the United States of the Oregon administration in Mexico has aroused considerable interest in British official circles charged with dealing with Mexican affairs. It has brought home the desirability of the establishment of an Anglo-Mexican arbitration commission to settle the differences between this country and Mexico, and a move toward organization of such a commission probably will be made in the near future.

GREATER BERLIN QUIET

Work at Plants Resumed with Full Shifts and Strike Is Called Off; Riots in Occupied Area

BERLIN, Aug. 17 (AP)—Greater Berlin is normal again, police headquarters reports, work at all the big plants having been resumed with full shifts. There have been no further disorders within the city limits or at suburban points since the communists called off their strikes.

Serious food rioting, however, is continuing throughout the occupied zone where the looting of shops and pillaging of adjacent farms have become daily occurrences. Riots are at the worst, as the shutting down of the city shops has brought about a rush of men and women to the sections where potatoes are dug up and hauled away despite the protests of the farmers.

In Berlin, according to the police, the gradual improvement in the food situation is contributing to the calming of the people. Meat market operators are importing large quantities of frozen beef from Argentina. This beef, although considerably cheaper than the fresh product, is not finding ready buyers, owing to the consumers' prejudice against the food commodity.

THE GUMPS—HONOR WHERE HONOR IS DUE

SIXTEEN OUNCE GLOVES FAILED TO AID DOWNEY

Firpo Decisively Outpoints Hoosier in 10-Round Exhibition that Nearly Ended in Rioting

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 17 (AP)—Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine, decisively outpointed Joe Downey of Cincinnati, in a 10-round exhibition bout at the Hoosier Motor speedway arena here tonight in the headline contest of a boxing show which was marked by a series of disorders which at times threatened to result in a riot.

Sixteen ounce gloves were used by the principals as the result of an order by Governor McCray, who posted Sheriff Snyder of Marion county, at the ringside with instructions to stop the bout if it materialized into a riot, which is prohibited by Indiana law. Despite the fact that the large gloves were used, Downey received a terrific mauling at the hands of the Argentinian.

The first three rounds were exceedingly tame, neither boxer being able to inflict much damage. Firpo used his left hand almost entirely except in the third round when he missed two vicious rights.

Firpo began fighting more earnestly in the fourth round and soon Downey was on the floor, his legs being able to support him. In the next two rounds he tore into his opponent, and began clubbing him with his right. Downey has hanging on at the end of the sixth round. Downey was in a bad way when the seventh round opened, but fought back gamely and landed a stiff right to the South American's chin. Firpo resumed his attack during the next two rounds and gave Downey a terrific battering despite the fact that large gloves were being used. The Ohio fighter, trying hard to stay on his feet, was hurt during the last round. He was in distress when the round ended.

Downey collapsed in his dressing room shortly after the bout and was taken to a local hospital. Physicians who examined him said it was found he is suffering from severe injuries about the head. He is in a semi-conscious condition. A short time after the bout was concluded officers began a search for Jack Druley, promoter of the show, following a complaint of employees at the arena and spectators at the fact that they had not received their money. Firpo also was said to be about $2,000 short in the purse guaranteed him.

The complaint filed by Captain Hammer is in two counts. On count charges conspiracy to commit a felony. The other count charges him with being an accomplice in an assault with a prohibited weapon. Whitaker's bond was set at $2500 on each charge by Justice C. G. Landin. Four arrests have been made in the case up to the time the sheriff was arrested.

UTAH VILLAGE MOURNS DEAD

Bodies of Flood Victims Are Buried; Slow Progress in Clearing Highways

WILLARD, Utah, Aug. 17 (AP)—A community's grief attended the burial of Willard's dead this afternoon, while the village remained in ruins as a result of the storm of Monday night which took the lives of Mrs. Mary E. B. Ward and Mrs. Agnes M. Ward, whose bodies were placed tenderly in the quiet little village cemetery following funeral services attended by hundreds. After the burial of the two victims the town turned to the huge task of establishing normal living conditions again.

Slow progress was made in opening the state highway to traffic, and it will be days before the paved road can be used. It is expected that the north section of the submerged highway will be unearthed tomorrow night, which will relieve the situation considerably, but the south end only appears worse than it really was since the excavating began.

Approximately 75 men worked hard today in the north end and removed practically all of the mud and debris in a strip wide enough to permit an automobile to pass. The debris and boulders on each side of this driveway are six and eight feet high in sections. Considerable difficulty was encountered in removing huge boulders from the road. Most of these rocks cannot be moved even by a team of horses. A number were moved this afternoon by blasting and it is now evident that this method must be used more in clearing the highway of the mass of refuse and debris. The large stones shoveled back on the south section and made fair headway. This mass of mud, boulders and refuse on this section of the paved road, thought heretofore to be about three feet deep, has proved to be at least twice that depth over most of the remaining course of little more than 200 feet. The large boulders over this strip will make it difficult to clear this section also.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Approximately $31,000 in subscriptions has been received tonight from the Utah flood relief fund of which the total is $75,000. It was announced through the chamber of commerce by the state flood relief committee today. There are undoubtedly additional amounts on deposit throughout the state which have not yet been reported, the officials pointed out.

Ogden, it was learned at the chamber last evening, had subscribed its quota of $15,000 by 4 o'clock this afternoon. The general committee redoubled its efforts tonight in the appointment of state organizations containing of one person in each county placed in charge of a county organization to obtain funds immediately. Telegrams were sent out to each representative advising of his appointment by Governor Mabey and Chairman W. W. Armstrong of the relief committee. It was urged by Mr. Armstrong that the full amount be raised by noon Monday so that prompt and complete relief might be extended at the beginning of the week.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 17 (AP)—Taking of testimony in the $500,000 suit of the Universal Oil company against the Standard Oil company was ended in Santa Maria today when attorneys for the defendant company announced that the case would be taken up again in the federal court at Kansas City next Monday.

At that time, it was stated, a petition will be made for the federal court to appoint a commission to investigate the Standard Oil plant at Orest, in this county. The hearing of evidence at Santa Maria has been under way for nearly two weeks before Special Commissioner Holmes Hall of Sedalia, Mo., who was appointed by Federal Judge Van Valkenburg of Kansas City. The suit brought by the Universal Oil company alleges infringement on certain patents for manufacture of gasoline. It was stated during the proceedings that one-half the entire world's output of gasoline would be affected by the decision.

AMERICANS DENY COMPLICITY IN BERGDOLL CASE

Lieutenant Griffis Pleads Innocence of Intent to Aid in Kidnaping; Prince Figures in Hearing

MOSBACH, Germany, Aug. 17 (AP)—Hooven Griffis and Victor Neilson, at their preliminary hearing today in connection with the recent attempt to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American trust dodger, denied any knowledge of such an attempt. One point brought out by Griffis was that at the time of his arrest the gasoline tank of his automobile was nearly empty, which statement was verified by the police who confiscated the car. The authorities contend the plan was to carry off Bergdoll to Paris, but Griffis maintained he was merely to provide enough gasoline in the tank to carry him to Heidelberg, where he intended to spend the night.

The fact that Prince Gagarin, who was arrested with Griffis and Neilson, was in the automobile at the time, was explained as merely a coincidence. Griffis declared that he and Neilson were passing through Eibendorf Friday night and became confused because there were no lights and they were not familiar with the highway. They stopped a moment to inquire the way to Heidelberg when Prince Gagarin came along and volunteered to guide them to the edge of Eibendorf and put them on the right road. Griffis denied knowledge either of Carl Schmidt, who was killed in the alleged attempt to kidnap Bergdoll, or Roger Sperber, an American, residing in Paris, who was wounded. According to authorities, an American army lieutenant's uniform was found among Griffis' effects, but he explained he was wearing civilian clothes as he did not care to don the uniform in Germany.

The authorities have not yet contacted Griffis, Neilson or Prince Gagarin with the statement of Sperber in which the wounded man accuses Griffis of having engineered the alleged plot.

Changes on the Earth.

If the ancient Greeks could revisit the earth they would hardly recognize their beautiful country. If the statements made by one authority can be sustained, Attica has lost the greater part of its forests, the rainfall has decreased and the temperature has increased to such an extent that the open air now is so hot that the Olympian games of antiquity would be virtually impossible today. Many other parts of the earth show similar changes. The once beautiful oasis in the Syrian desert, where Zenobia refused over Palmyra, is now a desolate waste. In upper Egypt, where only a hundred years ago rain was abundant, drought now usually prevails.

tion act. The ink had not dried on the signatures before orders were speeding over the wires which meant the striking of 750,000 tons of fighting ships, new and old, from the navy list. The process of scrapping will begin at once.

The process-verbal which is to form a permanent record of the coming into effect of the naval treaty, embodies the reservation adopted by France, stipulating that the 55-53-22 ratio, established among the five powers in capital ships cannot be construed as applying also to the smaller types of war craft. Likewise, the "no alliance" reservation adopted by the United States entails denying any obligation to use armed forces under the provisions of the four-power treaty, was made a part of the process-verbal by which that pact was made effective. Termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is automatic under the terms of the four-power agreement.

Take up Four-Power Pact.

In addition to these ratifications also were called for on the supplemental treaty, drawn up to clarify the terms of the four-power pact. It declared that in binding themselves to consult together over controversy arising in the Pacific, the four signatories—the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France—are not obliged to submit for discussion any question which lies exclusively within domestic jurisdiction.

The scrapping of war craft which will begin immediately under the naval treaty, will be carried out by different means for the various ships affected. The treaty provides specifically that the scrapping of a warship must comprise such destruction of offensive and defensive elements as will place it in "such condition that it cannot be put to combatant use."

This result may be affected by "permanent sinking," by breaking the vessel up with attendant destruction or removal of all machinery, boilers, armor and deck, side and "bottom plating," or by converting the vessel to target use exclusively. The number of vessels which can be used for targets is strictly limited.

All ships listed for scrapping must be rendered "unserviceable for purposes of war" within six months from today, and the actual break up must be finished within 18 months.

From latest advices to the navy department, the following summary was made today of the progress in the several limitation programs abroad prior to exchange of ratification: British empire: Total to be scrapped, 24 old ships of 500,000 tons; new ships none. Proposed construction of four capital ships abandoned before keels were laid and work begun on two capital ships of smaller tonnage; 15 old ships rendered incapable of war service, 17 already having been sold. Japan: Total to be scrapped, 10 old ships of 103,000 tons and two new ships of 77,000 tons. Work on capital ships held in state of suspension since signing of treaty, and armament removed from nine obsolete ships. —France and Italy: Navies not affected by scrapping program.

HOOVER MAKES REPLY TO WHEAT SELLING SCHEME

Points Out Huge Profits Made by War-Time Government Grain Corporation; Borah Receives Telegram

SPOKANE, Aug. 17 (AP)—Operation of the war time government grain corporation during the two and a half years of its existence netted a profit of approximately $58,000,000, Secretary Hoover declared in a telegram made public here today by United States Senator Borah of Idaho. The secretary's telegram was in response to an inquiry made by Senator Borah concerning proposals that the funds remaining from the grain corporation appropriation be used for the purchase of wheat in the present situation. With a capital of $500,000,000 the corporation handled a "turn over" of approximately $8,000,000,000 in grain products, Secretary Hoover's telegram said. "Except for some trivial outstanding claims it has today completely liquidated and to date has returned to the treasury $483,000,000 in cash of the original amount and has in addition expended $19,000,000 under direction of congress on Russian relief as a charity," it continued. "It has likewise expended $30,000,000 in supplying foodstuffs to various European countries on credit."

RESUME PARLEY ON MINE WAGE

Coal Commission Demands Conference Be Continued to Avert September Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—At the direct demand of the United States coal commission, miners' union officials and representatives of mine operators in the anthracite region today agreed to go back into joint conference to seek terms for a new wage contract that may become effective September 1.

The whole complicated fabric of the controversy which has separated the mine operators and the union men for their employees was temporarily set aside by the decision. Notwithstanding, coal commission members held themselves from expressing any over-optimism as to the prospects of keeping the anthracite mining after September 1. Miners' union leaders, including John Hays Hammond, its chairman, and his assistants, it was said, would return to Washington and report the results attained to President Coolidge.

Leaders Called. The commission early today called in Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the operators' policy committee and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. The two leaders were presented with a letter which related out that the public mind "is beginning to be seriously alarmed over the question of whether there is to be another suspension of anthracite mining September 1."

Questions were asked in the letter, the first as to whether the operators and miners could reach an agreement fixing terms of a new wage contract before September 1, while the other two were directed to bringing out the attitude of each party upon the general proposition of keeping the mines running after that date, even if the terms of the proposed new contract were still unsettled.

Wou'd Resume Conference. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Warriner, summing their assistants, agreed quickly upon the terms upon a letter reply. Jointly, the miners and operators said they would resume conference at Atlantic City Monday and "earnest endeavor to reach an agreement by September 1."

Falling in such an agreement, the operators said, they would seek an understanding that the mines should be kept running while the wage conference proceeded, with the terms of a final form to be retroactive to September 1. The miners asked that this matter be left to the joint conference. The operators further urged, the reply letter said, that the parties to the wage contract negotiation "agree to arbitrate any part of the terms, union demands not otherwise disposed of."

But the miners contented themselves by stating this subject to be "superseded by the joint action in agreeing to confer."

No Adjustment. The agreement for the time being, swept clear of all the issues in conflict between the operators and the union which represents their employees, but at the same time deferred all those conflicts without adjusting them. Demand number one of the 11 put forward by the United Mine Workers, is for full "recognition of the union as the final and true contract." Recognition of the union has been construed to require the operators, among other things, to collect the union dues from their employees by "checking off" the amount involved from payrolls, and turn it over to the union.

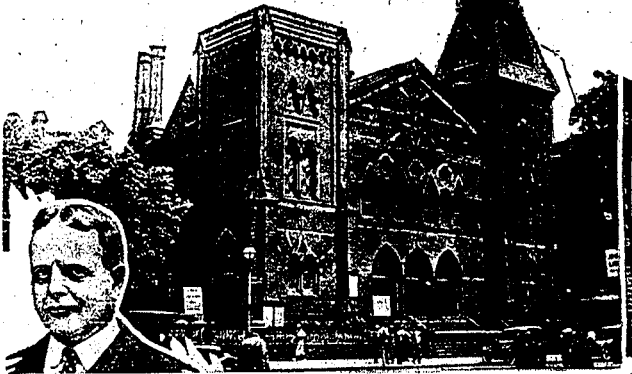

When this demand was flatly refused last July, the wage negotiations ended. Mr. Lewis, in behalf of the union, presented a proposal to the coal commission, when it began its inquiry here Wednesday, by which the union would abandon the check-off and "earnest endeavor the operators would cease "checking off" from the mine payrolls sums owed the mining companies by their employees for supplies and other items usually furnished miners. A qualified agreement from the mine operators to this proposition, proposed with such treaty, which continued until cut short by today's action.

Eagle Nests Endure.

Describing the bald eagles which make their nests on the desolate islands off South Carolina, Herbert Ravenel says in Harper's: "There is something characteristic of the great bird itself, and something attractive to the mind, in the performance of the eagle's home. Most birds' nests are ephemeral things. After a few weeks or months they are gone, and not only gone but forgotten. The eagle's home is like an ancestral mansion. It stands year after year, enduring for a longer time than many a man lives, cared for and kept in repair by the winged architects who build it and who seem to have a genuine affection for it. On a plantation near the coast there is a nest in a pine 112 feet above the ground. For more than 50 years the same pair of eagles have inhabited this nest, and it is possible that they will still be living there when houses that men are building today, out of the kind of lumber with which one must now be content, have fallen into ruin."

Part Company. The man who lives soon finds that happiness cannot keep up with him.

OIL BLAST FREES

were being thrown up in haste by a force of 250 men.

Caterpillar tractors were waddling back and forth under the glare of the flames, dragging behind them large soil plows, breaking up the earth to add to the height of the barriers. Trucks, loaded with men, dashed about the tank farm to points of vantage.

A greatly augmented force of firemen of the harbor district, assisted by two companies from Los Angeles, laid water lines and made connections with outlying hydrants.

The large distillate tank and the 55,000 barrel crude oil tanks were sealed, while steady streams of water were played on them.

The burning oil spilled over into a canyon south of the tank farm where the fire began and escaped out to sea, burning on the surface of the water.

Approximately 35 homes of non-commissioned officers and the enlisted men's barracks on the upper reservation were surrounded by the flames. The families of the non-commissioned officers were rushed to places of safety in government trucks.

The barracks threatened to burst into flames momentarily. Their occupants, under the command of the officers, prepared to fight the flames.

Batteries Saxon and Barlow of Fort McArthur were manned by the flames. The flaming oil is spilling over in the gun pits of Battery Farley, overlooking the sea.

Immense underground stores of ammunition were menaced. Their value is estimated in millions of dollars.

Reports that the spillover into the canyon had caused loss of life could not be verified, but it was known that several sight seeing parties in automobiles were traveling over a road directly in the path of the overflow.

Hundreds of cars were clustered upon the hill tops for miles around and many motorists were venturing onto roads within the danger zone, seeking better views.

Fears were expressed for the safety of a recluses, whose cabin in the bottom of the canyon caught fire in the spillover. The stream of burning oil down the canyon passed within a few feet of a colony of campers.

A brisk wind also added to the danger and drove the flames before it toward the distillate.

Fix Danger Zone.

Another menace was the danger of explosion in the burning tank when the flame of the gigantic torch reached the water level.

Recognizing this possibility, police and fire officials, officers of the company and troops from Fort McArthur, established a wide danger zone and through this belt occupants of the threatened homes passed with such belongings as they could gather, carry away in their arms, or load on a fleet of trucks rushed to the scene for the purpose.

Acting Fire Chief McDowell of Los Angeles, in charge of the fight against the blaze, ordered another fire company from the city, making three full companies in addition to the San Pedro department standing by for any emergency.

In an attempt to save some of the contents of the burning tank, the General Petroleum tank steamers La Pracentia and Montebello were warped alongside their dock at the breakwater, several miles away and started to pump oil from the bottom of the floating container through the long pipe line at the rate of a barrel to each stroke of the pump.

Despite the suddenness of the explosion that started the conflagration and the magnitude of the column of fire, only one serious injury was reported. Henry Hendley, 68, watchman, was hewn in by a wall of flame and barely missed death when he dashed to safety with his clothes ablaze. He is in the hospital with serious burns about the face, arms, legs and body.

Heavy Loss

No accurate estimate of the loss had been made by company officials early tonight, but by unofficial observers it is variously placed at from $200,000 to $1,000,000.

After the explosion that started the fire, flames and smoke heaved from the container like a volcano, engulfing in black clouds the powerful coast defense rifles at Fort McArthur, directly above the tank farm, and driving hundreds of residents near the fire from their homes in dread of further explosions.

The tank's area is five and a half acres. Its roof was heaved upward 15 feet by the explosion, according to workmen.

Men Stay at Work.

Seven hundred men, working within a stone's throw of the 50,000 barrel distillate tank endangered by the sweep of flames, as the burning oil boiled over a second time, kept stolidly at their perilous task of throwing up dykes of earth to stop the flow of the blazing stream, while the sightseers who had looked at one another and wondered if the dreaded explosion of the distillate was at hand.

The flames, towering more than 1500 feet above the tank and reaching out to sea under the lash of a strong southerly wind, were battling, however, and the cloud of smoke rolled on as before, sombre black with occasional leaping furies of flame.

Meanwhile, the distillate tank, with its 50,000 barrels of explosive fluid loomed up against the dark black cloud still intact, when the stream of fire fiercely late Friday night in two huge oil storage tanks of the Humble Oil and Refining company at Webster, and a 6000 barrel gusher in the Hull field, belonging to the Republic Production company.

The fire at dusk Friday was threatening the entire tank farm at Webster. The blaze at Hull, although shooting a giant column of flame many feet into the air is not endangering nearby wells, which were closed soon after the blaze started.

Adding to the danger of the monster pillars of fire, which went skyward and sorrowful scenes were many, as the mourners gazed for the last time upon the faces of the men who had been snatched from their midst, and something of the horror and grief with which the city received the first news of the disaster clothed the funeral services.

Labor leaders paid a tribute to their dead fellow workers, in brief and simple speeches at the park where the community funeral was held for all the victims.

Were Martyrs

Harry W. Fox, president of the Wyoming Federation of Labor, and James Morgan, secretary of district 22 of the United Mine Workers of America, pictured the men as martyrs to the cause of industrial progress and expressed the sympathy of organized labor to the loved ones left behind. After the services a caravan of trucks carried the bodies of 53 of the victims to the City cemetery, where seven large graves, capable of holding eight bodies each, had been dug during the night. The bodies were interred with simple rites. Another caravan from the park wended its way to the Catholic cemetery, where the other victims were buried.

Will Pay Claims

With the arrival of District Judge John R. Arnold of Evanston here today, the payment of compensation to the survivors of the blast victims is expected to begin at once. He will start hearing and passing upon claims of dependents at once, in accordance with the Wyoming law relating to workmen's compensation. It has been estimated that the workmen's compensation fund will be depleted at least $200,000 by the explosion.

Temporary aid is being given widows and orphans since the explosion by a big relief organization, comprised of Kemmerer townpeople. It will continue to function until the survivors of the mine victims all have been cared for, it was announced.

Line is Drawn in Wobbly Activities

Workers Are Prohibited from Syndicalist Efforts by California Court Ruling

SACRAMENTO, CAL., Aug. 17 (AP)—The Industrial Workers of the World, its officers and members, are prohibited in a temporary injunction, which was continued in effect today after argument in the superior court, from committing any act prohibited by the state syndicalism act. The order to continue the temporary injunction was filed after arguments were concluded as to whether a permanent injunction should be issued.

The final decision will be made by Superior Court Judge C. O. Busick, who heard the arguments which were begun yesterday.

The action was brought in the name of the people of California, and if granted the permanent injunction will be enforceable in any superior court in the state. A member of the I. W. W. violating the injunction may be tried in the civil department of the court without a jury, and if found guilty may be adjudged of contempt and sentenced as for a misdemeanor. Prosecuting attorneys have stated that mere membership in the organization will be sufficient evidence upon which to secure a conviction.

The I. W. W. attorneys argued against granting of the injunction on the ground that it was not shown that the state of California owned any property that had been or was threatened with destruction by reason of any doctrines of the organization. It was also insisted that the injunction, if granted, would destroy the right to trial by jury now granted under the criminal syndicalism law.

The prosecution argued that after long jury trials the supreme court has repeatedly held that the I. W. W. is an unlawful organization, yet it continues its activities, and the state is put to continued trouble and expense in proving the unlawfulness of the organization and its doctrines.

Valuable American Trees

Among our most useful and valuable trees are the white oak and the red oak, which produce a brown-colored hardwood of remarkable durability, says the School Book of Forestry. The white oak is the monarch of the forest, as it lives very long and is larger and stronger than the majority of its associates.

FARM OPTIMISM
Nobody pretends to believe that unbridled optimism is either necessary or warranted at the present time, in any line of business, be it farming, banking, printing, or house building.

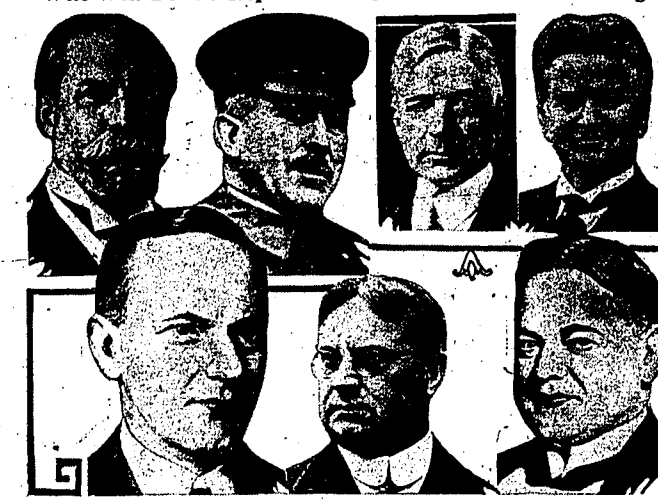

These men are bringing to bear upon the business in which they are engaged the energy and intelligence of upstanding, forward-looking citizens. They are hopeful and cheerful.

There are hundreds of farmers, possibly thousands, just as there are hundreds of thousands in every other walk of life, who are figuring and planning and working hard, cutting corners, keeping down expenses and paying their way with something to spare in the Twin Falls County.

Optimism, carried to extremes, is a foolish thing; discouragement is something to be guarded against, even from one's own thoughts. Between the two lies the path of success, whether that success be the amassing of dollars or merely the accomplishment of the day's work to the glory of beneficial industry.

When Governor McMaster of South Dakota began selling gasoline "at cost" in the name of the state, he started something.
The governor could not understand why, when gasoline was worth 14 cents a gallon at wholesale, it should bring 20 cents at retail, so he established a public station retailing it for 16 cents, with a view to pretending the cut rate over the state if necessary.

Who Will Be the Republican Nominee to Succeed Harding?

prices for the crude oil, but with the consumer falling to get the advantage.
The turning of petroleum into gasoline, kerosene, etc., beyond the needs of the market, is wasteful and reprehensible, but as long as it is done the consumer should get his fair share of the benefits, along with the reckless exploiters of the new oil fields.

OBSERVING THE EAGLE
Professor Francis H. Herrick of Western Reserve University has been taking a congenial vacation in the top of a tree 100 feet high at Vermilion, Ohio.

From a screened platform in the top of that tree, Professor Herrick, with an assistant to divide the watches with him, has spent every day for several weeks from 5 a. m. to 7 p. m., scrutinizing the home life in an eagle's nest in an adjoining tree.

It isn't so much what a man has done, as what he has tried to do. It isn't the victories that he has won, but the storms he has weathered through.

CHAPTER XV
That same evening, Jack Fortier sat up late in the library of the Laverne house, with Alline.

"Good-night, Miss Alline," replied Fortier.
Left alone, he sat smoking and thinking for a space. Again he read over that letter which Wrexham had left, frowning at it in puzzled thought.

"Oh, about the treasure!" The girl's face lighted up swiftly. "Do you suppose I could really be a jewel?"
Fortier laughed. "My dear girl, how should I know? Didn't your father ever mention it?"

"No, and we've been all through the desk, and there's nothing in it. Unless what?"
She was looking at the desk—a large, massive piece of rosewood, much scuffed in the old style.

"Then I'll return to the yacht to-night and—"
"Who, please?" Her hand went out to his arm, her eyes sought his with a suddenly started look. "No! I don't want to be alone in the house—the servants all have their own quarters. I think I'll go upstairs now, if you'll excuse me. Uncle Neb will bring you the key when he locks up. Good-night!"

at Fortier, stood Felix Macarty. Even at this first sight of the man, Fortier realized instantly that it was no other than Felix Macarty—the resemblance to David was strong enough to show forth.
The two men stood gazing at each other for a moment. Fortier was astonished to find the room in a full blaze of light, young Macarty caught in the very act of wrapping the desk lock—and yet quite calm about him. Felix showed no consternation. He must have heard Fortier coming, then. And, of course, he had found that letter, which Fortier had left lying so carelessly about, and had at once gone to the desk.

"Hope you found what you were looking for," said Fortier.
Felix Macarty nodded.
"All right," he said. "All right. Get him, Jean."

"Here!" said Felix Jean, snarling over the word. "Here—finish it now!"
"Do as I say, cursu you!" snapped young Macarty. "Thank I don't know what I'm doing? Carry him aboard, and do it quick!"

Satisfied of this fact, Macarty went over to the table. For a moment he hesitated, looking at the two little boxes. Then he thrust the larger box into his pocket and, with a deft movement, unfastened the cover of the smaller one. The lid flew back.

The third pearl was a most peculiar one. The center of it was not round. It was not pure white, nor was it round. Instead, it was shaped like the moon just before the full—an elliptical form whose perfection was none the less remarkable. So, too, was its hue, which was a clear and most delicate blue.

He looked at the fourth gem—this one a stone, the Queen of Sheba, a pure white diamond and large as the ball of one's little finger. From the neck of the velvet, this thing blinked up at him with a thousand little tongues of flaming fire that licked at his brain.

Loat to all around him, the man stood transfixed, staring down at what lay in his hand. Like most of these pearls in the world, he had rarely seen a perfect jewel; the sight of these four at once was a revelation to him. As he gazed, a transformation came into his face—a subtle change.

When the desk had been now a wreck of smashed and splintered rosewood, and over the wreck, staring

MAN THE WEAKER?

Woman Calls Him "Bedraggled Scarecrow in Trousers."

Female of the Species a "Stalking Tigress," Made Up to Lgok Lovely, Frail, and Helpless.
"Here never was a woman born who was satisfied with the man she married. She always makes him great, or, rather, she mistakes his gradual disintegration for something constructive in her own handiwork."

"As the glare of trumpets and the swirl of flags gradually die down on the feminist battle front, an unblinded eye sees, still breathing but spiritually dead, a pathetic, bedraggled sort of scarecrow in trousers—the universal husband! The universal husband, made out of all the promising little boys in his class, warped and cheated by women from the moment he expands his lungs at birth until he contracts them (often willfully) at the moment of death."

"During infancy his mother eats him alive, smothering him with emotion in order to get a personal outlet. He grows up, he can't bow, he's a scrapping courier, then she has by a thousand invisible but unbreakable threads. He tries to escape her in boyhood, but in the reflex caused by an insult from some pink sunbonnet and pinafore he rushes back to mother for consolation. Mother consoles and punishes him. She is the only woman in his life who watches like a bird of prey for a recurrence of this chance to console and to gloat."

"After marriage the promising youth with his fantastic ideas becomes a universal husband. The frail, lovely, helpless girl proves to be neither frail nor lovely. She was made up to look frail, lovely and helpless in order to stir his manly qualities. With the noose secure about his neck, he sees her remove her paint, her eyelash black, her face powder, her false tresses. He suffers as he watches the exposure of her outward dishonesty."

"Women have very little honesty, but they are very good at it. They can't afford such fairy-book luxuries. Real honesty, modesty and a sense of shame are not things with which to catch a husband. Maiden women invariably possess some of these abnormal qualities. That is why they remain maiden women."

DECLARES BIG DISTRICT BOND ISSUE REGULAR

Court Sets Seal of Approval on Proceedings Looking Toward Participation in American Falls Project

Issuance by the American Falls Reservoir district of $2,700,000 worth of its bonds to meet the cost of the district's participation in the American Falls reservoir project was stamped with the seal of the district court's approval by Judge W. A. Babcock here Friday following a hearing on the district's petition to the court for examination, approval and confirmation of the proceedings for the authorization of the bond issue, voted last May.

Obtaining of the district court's approval, according to plans previously announced by members of the district's directorate, is the first step in the expected eventually to obtain the approval of the supreme court.

Sale Date Delayed

Sale of the bonds, Secretary W. F. Alworth, said Friday, probably will not be held until the next week, as it is anticipated that the district will make some payment toward cost of constructing the big reservoir before the next appropriation by the federal government for this purpose is made available.

There was no opposition to the granting of the court's approval to the bond issue when the petition came on for hearing before Judge Babcock Friday afternoon, and the default of any opposition to the proceedings was formally entered on the records of the court.

Directors of the district and Attorney James E. Boehm appeared to undertake favorable action by the court, and the hearing occupied but a few moments time.

Approve Engineers' Data

In the order of confirmation issued by the court, approval is given the specifications and estimated cost of the American Falls project, as prepared by F. A. Banks, reclamation service engineer.

The court holds, in its findings of fact and conclusions of law entered in the case Friday, that the bond issue of $2,700,000 was lawfully authorized at an election held May 12, 1923, within the district; that the district is lawfully entitled to issue bonds for payment of a proportionate share in the construction of the American Falls reservoir and to purchase from the United States government a proportionate share in the storage capacity in the reservoir and stored water made available thereby, and finally, that the petitioners are entitled to a decree confirming the authorization of bonds by the district in the amount of $2,700,000.

Directors of the district, all of whom were present at the hearing, are E. E. Shepherd, H. E. Wiley, W. E. Alworth, F. E. Sayre, F. A. McClelland, J. H. Barker, W. H. Spence.

SENTENCED FOR CONTEMPT

Harry B. O'Neal Goes to Jail for Failure to Obey Order to Pay Temporary Alimony and Suit Money

Adjudged guilty of contempt of court because of violation of an order issued July 27 requiring him to pay $50 as temporary alimony and suit money to Mrs. Lillian A. O'Neal before August 10, Harry B. O'Neal was Friday sentenced by Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here to be confined to the county jail until the money was paid.

Judgment against the Twin Falls Amusement company for $1379.08 and interest on a laborer's lien was awarded to the trustees of the Sullivan Construction company in a decision rendered Friday by Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here. The trustees are the incorporators of the construction company which built the new Orpheum theatre, on which work was begun in August, 1920, and in connection with which the lien was filed. The court held that the trustees were entitled to foreclose on their lien.

Varied Animal Pets Accompany Tourists

Pair of Pigeons Brought by Kansans on Way to Coast New Addition to Collection

If variety is the spice of life, the tourist park is about the spiciest place imaginable, for there has been the greatest variety of animals outside of a menagerie. This collection contains more breeds of dogs, and dogs of more breeds, than any other section of the globe. The latest arrival is a pair of pet pigeons from Kansas, on the way to the coast. Twin Falls, which is always in the front rank, is represented by a yellow cat that has taken up his abode in the park and is very much at home.

A. O. Ramsey and family, from Moro, Oregon, are making a trip to the central states for a two months stay. In speaking of tourist parks Ramsey said that all of the well kept parks make a small change.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Payne and Mrs. Mellick of Berkeley, Calif., are returning from Missouri. They came through Yellowstone, and are going by way of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Tabelman are on the road to Harvey, Ill.

One of the park guests said that among the most interesting he has seen in the Twin Falls country, such as big crops, tall trees, beautiful towns with their cosy homes, what most interested her is the immense size of our grasshoppers. She was told that that was only in keeping with the motto of the region, "Everything the biggest and best."

FILER MAN FOR UTILITIES BODY

F. C. Graves Is Appointed Successor to E. M. Sweeley, Resigned, on State Board

BOISE, Aug. 17.—Appointment of Fred C. Graves, farmer and real estate dealer of Filer, to succeed E. M. Sweeley, resigned, as a member of the state public utilities commission, has been announced by Governor C. C. Moore. The resignation of Sweeley's resignation was effective Wednesday. He will return to the practice of law in Twin Falls with his father, M. J. Sweeley. Mr. Graves' appointment was made Thursday, but the governor announced that the new member of the commission will not take up his duties until September 1.

In accepting Mr. Sweeley's resignation, the governor requested him to remain for a few days or until such time as certain matters now pending before the commission could be settled.

Mr. Sweeley is leaving before the expiration of his six years' term of office. He was appointed to the commission in 1919, and his term would have expired January 1, 1925. The reduction in the salary of the office from $300 to $250 a month by the 1923 session of the state legislature is the reason given for leaving the services of the state.

Since Mr. Sweeley has been a member of the commission much of the more important valuation and rate work of the utility commission of the state has been done. The most important case handled is that of the Idaho Power company. The commission has fixed its valuation as of December 31, 1919, and is now considering evidence submitted by the commission ready to bring its valuation down to date.

It is considered the state is fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Graves, the governor said, commenting on the new appointee. "He is a farmer and a real estate man, and from information I have gotten, he possesses the qualities that will enable him to carry into his position and dig into it with a determination to get the most out of it."

Complaint Against Twin Falls Physician to Be Resisted in Court Proceedings, Attorneys Declare

A complaint accusing Dr. H. W. Wilson, since 1908 a resident and practicing physician of Twin Falls, of guilt of a statutory offense was proffered in probate court here Friday by the prosecuting attorney's office at the instance of Earl E. Dooley, Twin Falls city chemist. The alleged offense is declared to have taken place August 1. The accusation involves Mrs. Edythe B. Dooley, wife of the complaining witness, who, however, is not charged with complicity in the alleged offense.

Upon arraignment Friday afternoon Dr. Wilson pleaded not guilty and furnished $1000 bond to secure his appearance at subsequent hearing. He was accompanied by Attorney John W. Graham. It was announced Friday evening that E. M. Wolfe would be associated with defense counsel.

An action for $50,000 damages will be postponed pending the outcome of the trial, it was stated Friday evening at the office of Hodgins, Stephan and North, attorneys for the complaining witness.
