TEXAS RANGERS TAKE UP TRAIL OF KIDNAPERS

Famous Guardians of Law Ordered in Action when Floggings Increase; Georgia Police in Pistol Battle

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 18 (AP)—Texas rangers, known the nation over as guardians of law and order, tonight were ordered over the state investigating a series of kidnappings and floggings during the past few nights.

Reports of floggings have reached the state executive offices from Texas, at the Whitehouse Correctional of the state, to Amarillo, in the Panhandle, more than 500 miles away; at Wichita Falls, in the north central portion, and at Port Arthur on the gulf.

Acting Governor T. W. Davidson today ordered a detachment of rangers to Port Arthur, where two men were kidnaped in front of the police station last night, flogged and turned loose.

Mr. Davidson said he probably would order rangers to Wichita Falls, near where Leonie Davis, a farmer, was seriously lashed with a wet rope by five unmasked men Wednesday night. Rangers permanently located there were ordered to Amarillo, but undoubtedly will be recalled the acting governor commented tonight.

Officer Arrested
Ranger Captain Frank Hamer today reported from Amarillo the arrest of Sheriff Less Whitaker at Motter county on charges of conspiracy to commit a felony and of having been an accomplice in an assault with a prohibited weapon. The rangers were ordered to Amarillo in connection with the flogging of E. E. McDonald, Wednesday night.

Reports from Toxarkana have reached here of the alleged whipping of Miss Olive Tucker, 14 years old.

Excitement following floggings at Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Port Arthur apparently had died down tonight, according to reports. Acting Governor Davidson's official report had been made of the alleged Miss Tucker flogging, as court records in Bowie county showed Leonard Johnson had paid a fine for the

FIX RAIL DUES IN WAR PERIOD

Interstate Body Lays Down Rules for Computing Incomes Under Guaranty Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Final regulations for computing the amount due the various railroads as a result of federal administration during the war and under guaranty provision of the transportation act were laid down in a decision today by the interstate commerce commission.

Substantially, the commission found that the carriers could charge into their operating expenses during the "test period" on which the regulations are based, the cost of materials applied to maintenance of the lines as shown by such railroad accounts as were kept in accordance with regulations of the commission and of the director general of railroads. It was further held that "the use of separate factors for new and scrap materials and the recognition of changes in the proportion of piece work represented in wages paid is impracticable under existing circumstances and is unnecessary to substantial justice."

The case in which these principles were laid down was brought in the name of the Toledo and Ohio Central railroad.

Success Is Claimed for Plan to Raise Wheat Price Level

OMAHA, Aug. 18 (AP)—John L. Kennedy, chairman of an Omaha committee of business men, organized some time ago to conduct a "buy wheat and flour" movement, designed to boost the price of wheat for the farmer, issued a statement today declaring that the buying campaign was having a noticeable effect in Nebraska, as wheat, since July 20, had advanced in price 8 cents a bushel in the state.

He added that there had been an increase of less than half this amount for December at Chicago.

RACE TROUBLE IS MINIMIZED

General Wood Scouts Rumors of Antipathy Against Americans in Philippines

MANILA, Aug. 18 (AP)—Governor General Leonard Wood, addressing the American Chamber of Commerce at luncheon here at noon today, declared that there is not a single political issue in the Philippines today and that efforts to stir up race feeling against the Americans had failed. The governor-general said:

"The time has come for some plain speaking. I believe in telling the truth, even though it hurts. There is not a single political issue at present in the Philippines, although there have been efforts to make one. No man worthy of the name of American or Filipino will talk non-cooperation at this time."

"There has been attempts to stir up racial antipathy between Filipinos and Americans. But thanks to the common sense of both Filipinos and Americans they have been failures. Any man who tries to stir up racial antipathy or who talks non-cooperation is a traitor to his own people."

Relations Friendly
"Relations between the Philippines and America have existed for 20 years and are going to continue to exist. My purpose out here is to cooperate. We must work together. Our idea of a good government is one under which capital seeks investment"

President Turns to Horseback Riding for His Recreation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Coolidge today for the first time since he became chief executive went horseback riding, the form of recreation it appears he will adopt.

Leaving his hotel apartment after a conference late in the day with members of the United States coal commission, the president asked to be driven to the White House stables, where he told attendants he would like to see the horses. Several were brought out, including "General," the chestnut bay gelding which had attracted his attention several days ago on his first visit to the stable.

Soon afterward "General" had been saddled and the president, wearing his business suit, mounted the horse and was off for a ride along the speedway bridge path, running along the Potomac river. Mr. Coolidge, in taking his ride today, either wittingly or unwittingly escaped some dozen newspaper photographers who over since it became known that the new president was going to take up horseback riding had been getting up at daylight so as to get a picture of him taking his first ride.

MINE WORKERS ARE CONDEMNED BY OPERATORS

Attorneys for Owners Fire Attack on Check-Off System and Closed Shop; Invite Field Inspection

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Attorneys for the coal operators' special committee today submitted to the United States coal commission a voluminous brief condemning the United Mine Workers of America's check-off system and the closed shop. The commission was invited to visit the non-union coal fields of West Virginia and satisfy itself the conditions there were no worse than those in the union fields, as private investigators had pointed them.

Continued resistance would be made by the mine companies to efforts of the United Mine Workers, which makes to unionize districts now operating non-union, the commission was informed.

"The companies are convinced that the United Mine Workers are in the interest of neither the operator nor the miners, but tend to stifle industry and individual initiative and that they are a check-off system based not on mutual confidence and sense of responsibility, but on mutual hostility."

Rape Union Men
"They are convinced," says the document, "that to contract with that organization is to put the economic future of the workers at risk, as well as local markets, at the mercy of wage agreements dictated by international officers of the United Mine Workers of America, who have a deep rooted hostility to this field and whose primary interest are elsewhere."

"Wise or unwise they object to the principles being compelled to employ only members of the organization and to be forced to collect by the check-off system for that organization such dues and assessments as they may desire to impose on each worker in their mines."

Cites Reasons
After reviewing the "struggles between employees and employers in West Virginia fields since 1890, including the most strike of 1902; the Paint and Cabin creeks wars; the Winding Gulf conflicts of 1917, and the March on Miners" with its attendant warfare, the brief cites six reasons why the miners refuse to resist unionization of their mines:

"The eight-hour day is universal among non-union miners.
"The earnings of non-union miners range from 50 cents to $1.00 per day and other unskilled work.
"The miner is more nearly his own boss as to whether he will work when the mine is running, how long he will work and how he will work, than almost any other class of laborer.
"The housing and living conditions of the miners are those of a progressive

The Jaws of a Serpent.

Because the jaws of a snake are not consolidated, but united by elastic ligaments, so that they are capable of great expansion, the snake is able to swallow an animal bigger than itself. But the bones of the head are very hard, and it is a mistake for a man caught in the coils of an anaconda or a boa to try to smash the reptile's skull. Doctor Stegner, an expert, says that the thing for him to do under such circumstances, is to carefully uncoil the snake, and then to strike at the serpent's tail, which is the sensitive part of its anatomy. If sharply hit in that quarter it will relinquish its grip. But, in truth, a man has little chance in combat with one of those big snakes, unless he has a hunting knife.

PARLIAMENT ELECTION SCHEDULED FOR IRISH

DUBLIN, Aug. 18 (AP)—Plans for the election of the parliament of the Irish Free State were being made today. There are more than 400 candidates in the field for the 153 seats, but it is unlikely that all of these will be able, or willing, to furnish the required deposit of 150 pounds sterling, and it is expected that several will retire.

The pro-government party has put forward 111 candidates, but it is possible that this number will be increased. Republican aspirants for the legislature number 85. However, there may be more before the balloting is over.

Besides there are many representatives of the farmer and labor parties to be nominated and perhaps the independents as well.

On Sunday will begin a week of in-the-field likely to be considerable turmoil, inasmuch as excitement over the contest grows with approach of August 27.

President Cosgrave is scheduled to speak on Sunday at Ennis, County Clare, where the ferment due to Eamon de Valera's arrest has not subsided.

De Valera undoubtedly will have an important influence in this campaign and his election is conceded.

TENNIS QUEEN LOSES CROWN TO GIRL STAR

Helen Wills, 17-Year-Old Wonder, Defeats Veteran Title Holder in Straight Sets in Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—The long reign of Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Moller as queen of American tennis broke but once in the past eight years, came to a dramatic close today when Miss Helen Wills, 17-year-old wonder girl from the Pacific coast, crushed the seven-time title holder in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, in the final match of the tournament at the West Side Tennis club.

Mrs. Mahory fought gallantly in a defeat, calling on all her power and strategy to check her youthful rival, but except for a few minutes of the first set, the mastery of Miss Wills was complete. Meeting the champion at her own game, a back court duet, the Berkeley, Cal., school girl, rose to the greatest heights of her meteoric career to maneuver and smother her way through with a spectacular, irresistible attack.

Critics who saw her flashing triumph doubted whether any woman player in the world—over the present acknowledged queen, Suzanne Lenglen of France—could have stopped the coast prodigy as she played today. It took Miss Wills just three sets to conquer with success her second-attempt to gain the championship and at the close of the match she was acclaimed by a gallery of more than 4,000 spectators, the largest in the history of women's title tournaments that occupied the big concrete stadium.

Title honors in the national double championship went over to her for the first time in American women's tennis annals, when the British pair, Miss Kathleen McKane and Mrs. Nancy Covert, vanquished Miss Lenglen in New York, and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston, in a three-set struggle, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1. Benten in the first set by the superior strategy of her rival, the English woman swept the American pair off their feet with a brilliantly sustained attack in the last two sets.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, will begin a steady training grind here tomorrow in preparation for his clash with Luis Angel Firpo of Argentina, in New York September 14. No fewer than ten rounds of boxing are of Dempsey's daily program, while each morning he develops his muscles to road work. The last of his eight sparring partners is expected here tomorrow. In an expectation of large crowds of admirers at the Dempsey camp tomorrow, eight state troopers have been assigned to handle traffic on the road leading here from Saratoga, supplementing two who have been on duty since the champion's arrival.

Tex Rickard, promoter, who is staging the Dempsey-Firpo fight, was a visitor at Saratoga but did not come to the Dempsey camp here. Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, motored to Saratoga this afternoon for a conference with Rickard.

Strong Line-Up to Meet Giants' Team

Twin Falls Baseball Players Hope to Stage Comeback in Game with Colored Nine

Twin Falls fans will have the first opportunity this season of seeing Idaho's only colored baseball team in action this afternoon at 2:30 when the Peacelito Giants cross bats with the Twin Falls players.

This game promises much, as Twin Falls determined to win its last few games of the season, when the Peacelito had been winning consistently all season, and are anxious to keep their record intact.

Phil Goldwater, erstwhile manager of the Twin Falls team, resigned during the week, and the genial Ray Brown is now at the head of the local team.

Brown promises one of the best games of the season, inasmuch as every member of the team has been working hard during the week to make up for the two defeats at Emmett.

The batting order as announced by Manager Brown, is: Outlander, first base; Laval Jarman, third base; Seelye, second base; Hilly, first base; Campbell, catcher; Klefauer, shortstop; Hilly, left field; Hulihun, right field; Fix, pitcher.

In addition to the above team, Brown has two Livinville brothers, Don and Carlos, ready for battery duty.

This Twin Falls will present a strong lineup in the second game of the season, may have the best team in the eastern part of the state, they will have their hands full with the local gang of ball players.

DENY PROTEST OF GAME WON BY BROOKLYN TEAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Boston National League club's protest of Brooklyn's victory in the second game of a double header at Brooklyn July 4, was denied today by John A. Heydler, president of the league, in a decision involving a new version of the question—when is a ball over the fence?

A protest by Boston hinged upon a home run allowed by four-time first baseman, in the sixth inning. Fournier's drive, by a strange freak, struck a flag attached to a staff on top of the right field wall, whence enwrapped in the folds of the muscled, he dropped back into the playing field.

Interesting Guests at Tourists' Park

Mission Workers in Chinese Field and Families on Motor Trip Across Country

The number 13 does not seem to have any ill effect on a party now camping in Twin Falls tourists' park. The Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Kepler and three children and the Rev. G. A. Pich with four children and a maid, arrived in San Francisco a short time ago from China where they have been doing missionary work. Dr. Kepler has been in China for 22 years, a part of the time being located, 10,000 miles inland. He was engaged in Red Cross work during the Chinese revolution and was shot twice, once in the head in such a way as to paralyze one side of his face. Dr. Cushing performed an operation on him and he has entirely recovered.

Dr. Kepler and his wife, and Mrs. R. E. Keeler, were born in China, and have been in America only three times. Three years ago they came over to attend school at Moreborough academy, Pa. The elder brother graduated last year and entered Princeton university, and the youngest one, who was graduated from the Moreborough school, will enter that institution this year.

When these young men learned that their parents were coming home they at once planned to meet them at San Francisco. They left Moreborough on the evening of May 23, during a thunderstorm, and walked six miles to the Lincoln highway, where they slept in a barn. The next day Lady Luck overtook them, and she has been with them ever since. Some good Samaritan took them as far as Pittsburgh. From there they traveled over the national road somewhere in West Virginia. From there to St. Clairsville, Ohio, walking a little and riding in O. P. cars, they reached Columbus, where, after walking for five minutes, they were hailed by an old classmate who was driving a State special, and he took them to a dinner. They had been making 60 miles an hour, but had slackened down to 54 when they were punched for speeding. From that point on it was a breeze. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Barry with Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard as assistant hostess. Mrs. Joseph Blake had charge of the program, which was on missions and temperance. Dr. Emma C. Crossland spoke of the need of missionary work among the users of narcotics, telling of the large number of drug addicts in this country and saying that much work should be done to help these unfortunate. During the business session it was decided to put on a campaign for new members and each church made a report on the work being done by them along the lines of temperance. After the program a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Members of the Salmon Social club spent a pleasant afternoon at a meeting Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. C. H. Crays. ADDS EXPERT TO BOARD STUDYING METALS CASE

WASHINGTON—Senator Thacker L. Odell, chairman of the senate committee of gold and silver inquiry, announced today the appointment of Fletcher Hamilton of San Francisco, to represent the committee in the conduct of hearings in the western gold and silver producing states for the purpose of developing first hand information upon the conditions of the industry. Through the conduct of these hearings the commission will be able to attain the personal contact necessary to determine the problems confronting the gold and silver mining industry.

Mr. Hamilton comes to the commission eminently well qualified to carry on this work, through his direction of the work of the California State Mining bureau as its mineralogist for a period of ten years, California being the premier gold producing state of the Union. Mr. Hamilton graduated from the University of California in 1904 and has had practical experience in mine operation and engineering in the states of Arizona, Nevada and Montana, as well as in California, and is familiar with general western conditions. The activities of the commission are being directed along lines which will develop the causes of the continuing decrease in gold and silver production and the depressed condition of the industry in the United States. Investigation is being made as to the production, reduction, refining, transportation, marketing, sale and uses of gold and silver in the United States and elsewhere, and study is also being made regarding the effect of the decreased production of gold and silver upon commerce, industry, exchange and prices.

Civilization Claims Modern Cave Girl

Emma Adams and her brother in the cave where she lived with her father and her brother in a desolate cave on an island in the river, Kansas.

For fourteen years little Emma Adams lived with her father and her brother in a desolate cave on an island in the river, Kansas. The authorities found her in overalls and admitted she had never seen a woman. Her father stated bitterly being taken to civilization her, and fought against donning a girl's dress.

to refuse. Before she could speak, Felix quietly took her arm and pushed her inside. He shut the door, turned the key in the lock, and pocketed it. "Caught!" he said to himself, and laughed. "Won't the game's won!" A slight sound at his elbow. He turned, to find Felix Jean standing there. "Well?" demanded the outlaw, hoarsely. "Well? What luck? Find them?" Felix reached out, clapped the man on the shoulder, broke into a low, vibrant laugh. "All the luck in the world, mon ami!" he cried. "Come along now, I'm running this game, understand? The orders come from me."

Felix looked at his father, and smiled in a singular fashion. "Where you failed," he said slowly, "I have won." "Won! You have them?" Felix nodded, and dropped into a chair. He took a cigarette from his pocket, lit it. Felix Jean dropped into a chair, likewise. "Let's see them!" said the outlaw. "Yes, yes!" exclaimed David Macarty, seating himself again. "Where are they?" Felix blew a thin cloud of smoke, quiet at the moment from narrowed eyes, and then spoke. "Kindly remember, both of you, that while you may be sharing the proceeds equally with me—it is I who am giving the orders. You understand?"

First Body of Pledged Abstainers. The first body of pledged abstainers from intoxicating liquors were the members of the Bible Christian church, Salford, Eng., founded in 1800. From the foundation of the church all its members have been pledged abstainers from fish, flesh and fowl as food, and from intoxicating liquors. From this church was issued the first tract advocating total abstinence from intoxicating liquors. The tract is one of a series of "Letters on Religious Subjects" by Joseph Brotherton, minister of the church from 1810 to 1837. It is entitled "On Abstinence From Intoxicating Liquors," and bears the date "May, 1824." Mr. Brotherton was Salford's first member of parliament, a position he retained for 25 years.

GERMAN HUNGER

Food riots in Germany, growing in violence, and a change of government inspired by hunger! The German people are patient, but they must eat. Food is fundamental. If anything drives that docile race to violence of the French revolution sort, or to economic vagaries of the Russian sort, it will be that.

And the hunger was quite unnecessary. Germany is not a poor country, even with its war burdens. It has rich resources, natural and human. It is a great workshop which, properly managed, could pay off all its war obligations and emerge eventually prosperous and respected.

But the Germans have lacked one fundamental thing for the production of wealth. That is sound money. Without that, they find that they cannot get even enough food to keep their bodies alive. So their minds rebel.

Whatever ill comes of it can be blamed on the big industrial leaders, or the plant politicians—or both together—who for their own purposes foisted on Germany that faked currency. The nobles whom the French revolutionists guillotined committed many crimes, but not that crime.

THE AGGRIEVED RAILROAD

The railroad worm has turned. Weary of the aggression of reckless automobilists, it has struck back. The Chicago and Eastern Illinois brought suit against a Danville business man—or, rather, against his estate—for bumping into a locomotive, and has won the suit. The offender, it was held, had no business driving on the track at the moment when a passenger train was passing. His carelessness resulted in the derailment of the locomotive and the death of the engineer. The fact that the automobilist and his car were smashed up was held to be of no consequence, as far as the railroad was concerned. That may have been moral justice, but the railroad wanted material justice in the form of a cash payment for damages sustained. And it got them.

It is high time that the brutal violence inflicted on railroad trains by motor cars, and especially by flivvers, was halted. Even a locomotive has some rights that an automobile is bound to respect.

A SONG VICTORY

Among recent American triumphs the victory of an American choir at the Welsh national estidfedd should not be overlooked. The Welsh, as all the world knows, are wonderful singers, and especially excellent in choral singing. It is an achievement worth noting when a choir from any other country goes to Wales and, by the verdict of a jury of Welsh musicians, beats them at their own game.

The winning choir was led by a Welsh-American, and had three members of Welsh birth, but all the rest were "typical Americans" representing seven nationalities. The result should be accepted as evidence that Americans, contrary to a formerly prevalent notion, really have good singing voices and can sing together with rare effectiveness. Choral singing in this country accordingly receives new impetus.

Fifteen Years Ago in Twin Falls

From News Files, August 21, 1908.

Herman Hartman, the noted chemist of Blue Lake, has analyzed the water supplied to the city of Twin Falls by the Twin Falls Water Works company and has pronounced it perfectly fit and safe for a culinary and domestic purpose. In his summary Mr. Hartman stated "the water is of good purity."

F. W. Schwab arrived on Wednesday from Chicago to see how things look on his farm on Snake flat. He was delighted with the improvement in Twin Falls since his last visit.

E. D. Shurtliff is over in Shoshone basin, where he has analyzed the water for 15 miles of ditch to be built by the Twin Falls Shoshone Land and Water company.

Through the generosity of those attending the services at the Baptist church last Sunday morning, the members were permitted to dedicate their new house of worship free from debt. In response to an offering made by the Rev. P. Monroe Smock of Boise, over $2500 was raised which will more than pay for all the indebtedness incurred in building the new church. The building is a very nice and comfortable one, seating about 250 people.

I. B. Perrine is considering the advisability of building a bridge across the river at Blue Lake. Mr. Perrine is now obtaining plans and specifications for the new structure.

Mrs. L. I. Benoit, son and daughter, arrived from Crookston, Minn., on Wednesday. Mr. Benoit met them up the line. Another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benoit remained in Crookston to complete her studies when she will join the family in Twin Falls, where they will make their home in future.

Dr. F. M. Keenly is building an infirmary for horses in the rear of his "Farmers' hotel." It will be 32x70 feet and will be one of the best equipped hospitals in the intermountain region.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Onkley and children returned on Wednesday from Yellowstone park, where they have been camping for six weeks.

The American flag floats proudly over the roof of the Twin Falls Milling and Elevator company's new elevator, next to the Short Line depot. The new elevator has a capacity of 100,000 bushels and is the best equipped and largest elevator between Denver and the Pacific coast. The company also has a commodious warehouse with a cement basement, which the company will hold 50 carloads of potatoes. All kinds of grain, seeds and produce can be cared for and farmers are invited to communicate with the company which is now ready to handle their produce. Gus Vogeler of Salt Lake, and J. K. Mullen of Denver, two officials of the company, have been here for several days looking after the opening of the big elevator.

The republicans of southern and southern Idaho honor the day of their appreciation of J. H. Brady, their candidate for governor, by chartering a special train to carry Mr. Brady's friends and supporters to Boise, on September 1. Three brass bands will accompany the train which will be made up of solid Pullmans decorated with streamers and carrying hundreds of Brady supporters wearing badges.

One-Armed Man's Feat. There used to be a saying illustrative of the practically impossible, about trying to thread a needle while wearing boxing gloves. Almost in the same class, remarks a New York Sun writer, one might think would be the effort of a one-armed man to eat a grapefruit. Yet a one-armed man entered a down-town restaurant a few days ago, ordered grapefruit, and ate it. It would not be easy for a two-armed person to explain just how it was managed, much less to do it. But the general principle was to apply the pressure downward instead of sideways. The grapefruit did not slide off the plate and the diner got all the juice, or at least the usual amount.

Such was actually the case. When he caught the slight creak of the opening door, Macarty coolly shut the little box and dropped it into his pocket. Then he turned, perfectly calm and self-possessed. He saw Aline Lawrence standing on the threshold and watching him. Her eyes were comprehending and perhaps a little sad.

"Felix! So you dared this much?" she said quietly. Macarty merely nodded. His gaze darted past her, and he perceived that the body of Fortier had vanished. A sudden blaze of exultation leaped into his eyes, as he saw how everything was cleared away for him—how the game was won! Never in his life had his evil brain worked so fast, so coherently, so perfectly as at this moment.

"Of course, Aline, of course," he said, and approached the door. "Listen, now! You are coming aboard the yacht—now, this moment! My father is there. We must have a straight talk, settle everything up—"

How far as I am concerned," returned the girl quietly, "everything is settled and—"

"Listen to me!" Macarty lifted a hand. So strange was the authority in his face and voice, so vibrant had his personality suddenly become, that Aline paused, yielded. "If you make any noise, that fool lawyer of yours will be down here to investigate—and I'll advise him. This is a family matter. You come aboard with me; this boat's waiting."

Perhaps the thought of Fortier struck Aline very hard. If Fortier came down here now, he would doubtless attack the intruder—and the plates which had leaped into the hand of Felix Macarty were menacing. Besides, what had she to fear?

Her calm, deep eyes dwelt upon the man speculatively, a bit puzzled by the singular change that had come over him. "Very well," she said unexpectedly. "Perhaps it is best that I go with you. A frank understanding will clear up things once and for all. Wait until I get a wrap." A sullen thing was sung around her. She turned and went to the stairs. So well did Felix know the deep serenity of her, that he actually stood in silence and let her go. When she had vanished, a deep breath came from him. "Won't!" he said to himself. "Everything's clear now—everything! The game's in my hands, and it's won. Safe—perfectly safe!" He stepped to the light switch and plunged the room in darkness, then passed out in the hall. The door he turned on a dim light, and waited. Presently Aline reappeared, descending the stairs. About her figure was wrapped that long stole of ermine lined with sun-bud silk on which was brodered the name of an emperor—the stole of ermine which Wrexham had left in her room. Felix, gazing up at her, caught his breath again, so greatly did the ermine enhance the delicate beauty of the girl. He held out his hand to her, but she quietly ignored it, and went past him. He followed, in silence they went through the open door to the gallery, and so down toward the landing. Across the stairway a boat was beading in and Felix laughed softly to himself. He realized that Fortier had been taken aboard the yacht. Aline knew nothing of this.

Two of the crew were at the oars of the boat. Felix Jean Henonpola was in the bow. No words were exchanged. Aline stepped into the stern of the boat, and Felix Macarty followed; he made a gesture, and the boat shoved off.

As they approached the gangway of the yacht, a canoe was seen swinging there. It was the same canoe which had fetched Petit Jean and Solomon out of the bayous. "Come aboard, please," said Felix to the girl, when they had gained the deck of the yacht. David Macarty was not in sight.

Aline followed him down the companionway. At the foot of this, Felix paused and threw open the door of the cabin which Aline had previously occupied. "In there," he said. "Wait until I send for you."

She looked at him a moment, her eyes disquieted. Perhaps she meant
