State of Oklahoma Enters Second Day of Martial Law with Quietness Prevailing; Detailed Testimony Taken

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 17 (AP)—Its two largest cities actually occupied by the military, Oklahoma passed its second day of martial law today without disturbance.

Nowhere in the state except at Tulsa and Oklahoma City was martial activity visible. At these places, however, military courts of inquiry were in session and proceeding with investigations ordered by Governor J. C. Walton...

Avoid Clash Early tonight and was received from Colgate that Judge J. H. Linbaugh had adjourned the regular session of district court there until next Monday, explaining that he wished to avoid any question as to the legality of the court's right to proceed.

Police Hold Power Civil authorities here tonight held undisputed police powers following Mayor Cargill's threat to withdraw the entire police department from duty unless the military relinquished control over it.

Military Rule Local The belief is current that military rule actually will be extended only to a few sections of the state and this opinion has been strengthened by the fact that only a small part of the strength of the state's national guard forces have been mobilized.

Much Testimony Taken The national guard court of inquiry which has been in session continually since August 14, when martial law was first declared from Tulsa, has added thousands of pages of testimony from alleged victims of floggers and four men already have been sentenced to the penitentiary on the strength of this evidence.

Increase Shown in Numbers of Child Laborers Federal Report Indicates 38 Per Cent More Youngsters at Work in First Six Months

RADIO ENTERS WRECK HEARING

Messages Flashed Before Fatal Shipwreck Vital Subject in Official Inquiry

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 17 (AP)—Compass bearings flashed from a radio station on Point Arguello were the pivot about which testimony and documentary evidence revolved at today's sessions of the naval court of inquiry investigating the wreck of seven destroyers off Point Honda, near Arguello, on the night of September 8.

Whether the error which led the squadron commander to hurl his ships on the rocks in the belief that he was rounding a promontory which in fact he had not yet reached, originated at Point Arguello, or aboard the destroyers themselves, or resulted from confusion in the air lanes caused by a multitude of messages concerning the fate of the liner Cuba, in distress not far away, was a question still unanswered when the hearing adjourned.

COAL WORKERS AGREE TO END MINE WALKOUT

Union Men Will Ratify New Two-Year Agreement; All Men on Strike Will Return to Work Wednesday

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP)—Anthracite miners representing union workers throughout the Pennsylvania hard coal fields today ratified the new two-year wage agreement drafted by their officers and operators' representatives in Harrisburg, Sept. 8.

More than 500 delegates, representing local unions in the three United Mine Workers' districts of the anthracite region, took part in the convention. Their action ratifying the new agreement came with comparatively little opposition, although several voiced objection to the fact that under the 10 per cent wage increase provided for all workers, day laborers now receiving the lowest rates of pay, will receive a smaller increase than contract miners.

The agreement embraces the four major points of the settlement plan submitted by Governor Pinchot when he called the miners and operators to meet in Harrisburg. These are the ten per cent wage increase, eight-hour day, recognition of the union and recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

STOCKMEN STRICKEN SALT LAKE, Sept. 17 (AP)—Thomas Austin, general manager of Austin Brothers association of Salt Lake, and president of the Salt Lake union stock yards of North Salt Lake, died at Soda Springs, Idaho, last night after suffering a paralytic stroke. He was 56 years old and is survived by his widow and seven children.

Chilean Diplomat Strongly Defends Monroe Doctrine; New Pact Plan Is Topic

GENEVA, Sept. 17 (AP)—The machinery of the league of nations whirled today as never before. The delegates attacked problems of vast interest and the council of the league in a noteworthy public session frankly debated the question of Italy's refusal to recognize the competency of the league on the free-Italian crisis.

Would Prevent War They occurred a lively discussion on the question of the proposed pact for mutual assistance which the commission on the reduction of armaments will later submit to the assembly. It is a project aimed at the prevention of war. No decision was taken today on the issue of the competency of the covenant, which Italy had defied.

AMERICANS ARE LISTED AMONG QUAKE VICTIMS

Names of Eight More from U. S., Killed or Missing, Forwarded to Capital; Premier Reviews Disaster

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The names of eight more Americans reported dead or missing in the Japanese earthquake were forwarded to the state department today by Ambassador Woods and Consul Dickover at Kobe. They were: Mrs. T. W. Chisholm and child, P. C. Schefer, Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Nora C. E. Hilton, Mr. Shelton of Standard Oil company, Irvin Skoofski and Olga Milostawsky. The first seven were said by Mr. Woods to be "reported dead" and the other by Consul Dickover to be "reported missing."

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (AP)—In a statement addressed to the whole nation, Premier Yamamoto reviews the catastrophe which has cost thousands of lives and rendered millions of people homeless. He congratulated the nation on its presence of mind in the face of its most terrible calamity and declares that though there were some instances to the contrary, peace and order were generally well maintained.

The statement expresses the deep sense of gratitude on the part of the government and people of Japan for the sympathy and practical help forthcoming from foreign nations. The premier declares that the reconstruction of the capital will be a real test of the resourcefulness of the Japanese and that it will require the efforts of the whole country to create something better and greater than the former city. With that aim the government has assembled the best available wisdom of the country in the form of a reconstruction commission, the members of which will have the rank of cabinet ministers.

REFUSE SOVIET AID

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Japanese government has refused the aid of the soviet government of Russia sent through the steamer Lenin, the embassy announced today, because the assistance brought was intended for laborers only and "the relief mission looked upon the disaster as a providential opportunity for furthering the revolutionary movement."

A telegram from the foreign office in Tokio to the embassy today said that up to September 13 there had been counted in Tokyo 298,453 burned houses and 36,150 houses demolished by the earthquake.

OSAKA, Sept. 17 (AP)—A typhoon broke over the mainland Saturday. Ships carrying relief materials took refuge near the coast. The town of Tottori, northwest of Kobe, is reported to have been inundated.

Final figures tabulated by the prefecture of Tokio on the earthquake casualties place the dead in Tokio at 77,823 and in Yokohama at 33,767. In addition, 120,000 persons are missing in Tokio. It is estimated that more than a million refugees have left the capital for the surrounding country.

While the material loss through the earthquake, tidal wave and fires was tremendous, the country is not as badly hit as at first reported. The damage caused in the neighborhood of Tokio represents less than one quarter of Japan's productive plants, as the chief spheres of industrial activity are situated elsewhere.

Park's "Golden Gate."

The rocky pass called the Golden Gate in Yellowstone National park owes its rich color and its name to the yellow lichen covering its lofty walls, and the indescribable hues of the great hot-spring terraces arise mainly from the presence of minute plants flourishing in the water that overflows them.

Rings of Trees.

The structure of the wood developed in the summer is different from that which is developed in autumn, and the alternation makes the lines of growth show plainly. Some tropical trees show no annual rings, probably indicating that the growth is identical throughout the year.

YELLOWSTONE IS TOURIST MECCA

Park Officials Announce Attendance Record Exceeds Estimates

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Sept. 17 (AP)—Excuse our dust," was painted on the rear of a big touring car that recently toured Yellowstone national park at the maximum legal speed. "Excuse our dust," officials of Yellowstone are cheerfully saying to those of Yosemite national park, having in mind the overwhelming victory of this park in the annual park race for national popularity.

The Yosemite officials started it all when they issued a statement in July calling attention to the nip-and-tuck race in attendance statistics and suggesting that the heavy travel in Yellowstone might have been an after-effect of President Harding's visit.

The Yellowstone gate tenders accepted the challenge and with the help of the traveling public from Maine to California and from Washington to Florida began to report remarkable totals. As a result it is now apparent that Yellowstone is doing better during the period from June 20 to September 20, the official season, will be approximately 25,000 greater than that of Yosemite during the corresponding period. Of course, the Yosemite statisticians may be able to somewhat reduce the score, but there's no doubt who wins.

On June 1, 17,845 tourists already had visited Yellowstone and, during the year, whereas only 975 had braved the May storms to see Geysersland. Notwithstanding this handicap the totals on September 1, the last date for which comparative statistics are available were: Yellowstone 150,011, Yosemite 119,333.

New Yellowstone strives for 140,000 by the closing of the season 20 and the yellow bus cheerfully hooks its way out of sight ahead of the green.

TALKS POSSIBILITY OF ANOTHER GREAT WAR

Babson Predicts Germany Would Aid Russia if Conflict Breaks Out; Analyzes Possible Effects on This Country

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Sept. 16.—"What would a new European war do to business?" The question was put to Roger W. Babson as he was reading a mass of telegrams and cables coming in from all parts of the world, asking what effect another European war would have on business.

"It seems inconceivable that Europe will permit itself to get entangled in another war at this time," he replied. "Yes, conditions are far more favorable for a conflict today than they were in 1914. Moreover, the wisest students of international affairs have been predicting for some time that another war is sure to come and that it will again begin in the Balkans. Doubtless the Greeks killed the Italian commission in cold blood. Probably it was no accident. Greece feels very bitter towards the rest of Europe. The Greeks believe that they were a great factor in helping the allies whip Germany and that the allies later 'double-crossed' Greece in favor of Turkey because Turkey has oil and Greece has no oil. The Greeks felt that there is nothing more they could lose and that perhaps they might gain back something out of another struggle—at least they would have their revenge. This was the situation. Italy's self respect compelled her to take some action, but that it will again begin will quickly be settled and forgotten."

Awaits Future.

"How much further trouble will develop only time can tell. The trouble between Italy and Greece is not the only European tangle which must be straightened out. If another war should soon develop, it now looks as if Germany would line up with Greece and Russia and that France would back Italy with the help of Turkey. Were it not for Egypt and India England would keep out of it this time; but with her great interests in the east, no one can predict what England will do. It looks now as if Germany might be the real winner in such a conflict—at least it would take France's mind off 'reparations' for a while and perhaps make the league of nations a greater force for good. Now that the allies have given in to Turkey and returned to her so much that they had taken away, it is a great temptation for some of the other nations—like Russia, Germany and Bulgaria—to try the same game.

Explains Reaction.

As to the effect on business in the United States, of course the temporary result of another European war would be upsetting to business in many lines. Any shock is unsettling and disturbing. This explains the action of the commodity market and the stock market during the past weeks. For six months following the declaration of war July 30, 1914, commodity prices and stock prices declined, and business in general was very dull. Before the close of the year 1914, however, orders began to come from Europe in large quantities, our mills were working full time, and our wage workers soon again had money to spend. By the close of 1915 stocks were high, wholesale prices were climbing, and the United States was becoming very prosperous.

Money Stringent.

"But Europe had money with which to buy, and a fine credit," continued Mr. Babson. "Today conditions are entirely different. Europe now has very little gold she can send us. We do not want her securities except at a great discount. Can she send us goods with which to pay for our own goods? She can do it during times of peace, but this is the great question, and only the future can answer it. If Europe cannot send us goods to pay for war supplies, then she cannot send us goods to compete with our own factories. This would at least relieve some of the foreign competitive pressure which threatens us today. This especially applies to the wheat growers of the United States. Another European war would send the price of wheat up to two or three dollars a bushel."

Europe Needs Religion.

"What Europe really needs," concluded Mr. Babson, "is some 'honest but good' religion. We shall see no real peace lasting properly until Europe gets headed in the right direction. Some real religion will lead to a real league of nations; and when such real religion is evident, Europe will find all parties in this country ready to help form such a league. Europe today is hotbed of jealousy, selfishness and political intrigue. Only on the hearts of both the people and the leaders of Europe are softened, will the tangled be straightened out. It may take another war with all its gruesomeness and suffering to bring Europe to good knees. We all hope it will not; but in addition to hoping, let us pray not only for Europe, but for ourselves—that we may be honest and unselfish, remembering that we have responsibilities as well as opportunities and that no country can permanently prosper through the misfortune of another."

Pearls Always Popular.

Pearls were known to the ancients and used by them for personal adornment. It is probable that they were pearl necklaces. It is not definitely known just who was the first person to wear one. Marco Polo, the famous traveler of the Middle Ages, describes the king of Malabar as wearing around his neck a necklace made of 104 large pearls and rubies.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon—adv.

Odd Kind of Fish.

No fish is stranger than the little sea-horse. It has a body encased in rings of bony mail, a horse-shaped head set at right angles and a prehensile tail to grasp seaweed in which it hides. It always floats with its queer head up and erect. Another peculiar thing about the sea-horse is that the male fish carries the eggs in a pouch situated under his tail until the young are hatched and large enough to look out for themselves.

An Infallible Guide

Heimdal, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened, even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.

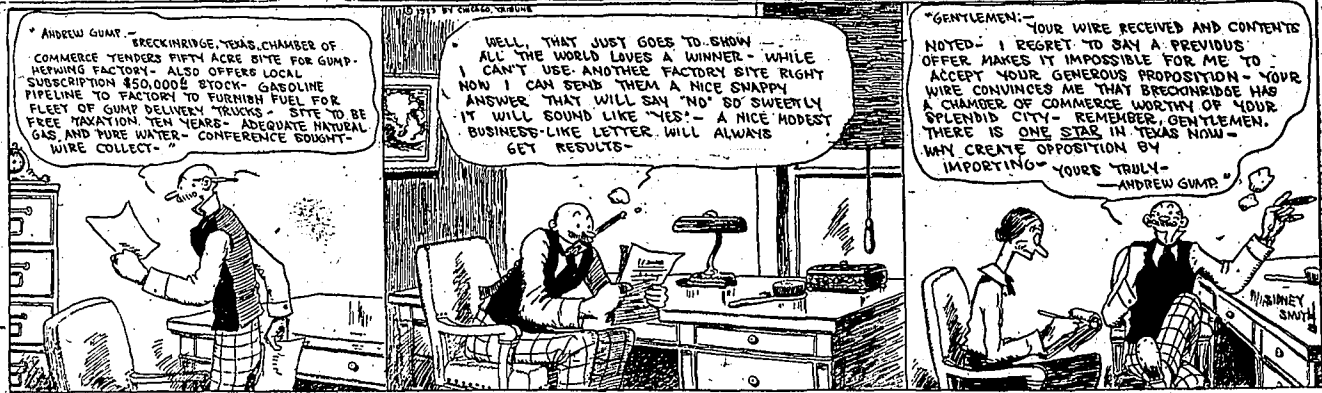

Advertising is your guard

MOTORISTS' LEGAL STANDING

The judges of the traffic court and homicide court in New York City have recently explained at length just how serious in the motorist's responsibility for the safety of pedestrians.

Furthermore, they say, there is no inherent right to run a motor vehicle on the public streets. That is a privilege, subject to regulation and control.

One of the judges asserts that knowledge of these principles, or legal facts, ought to make reckless and speeding motorists more respectful of public rights and more reasonable in their attitude toward other drivers and pedestrians.

All of this may be quite true, but it should not be acted upon by the pedestrian to save him from all further trouble in looking out for his own safety.

Now comes a citation of a notoriously smoky city, arguing that the smoke there is misrepresented and exaggerated by casual observers.

THE SKYSCRAPER MOVIE

What might be called a text-film is going to be made in Chicago in connection with the building of a new skyscraper. It will take more than three months to erect the building. Across the street from it, located in a park, is the motion picture cage where, every morning while work is going on, the camera man will take twenty or thirty feet of films showing the daily progress in the building's growth.

WAITING (?) FOR SUNRISE ON THE OPENING DAY OF THE HUNTING SEASON.

Copyright, 1923, by the New York Tribune, Inc.

When the outside of the building is finally completed the picture, too, will be done. It is to be lent to engineering schools anywhere in the country for the purpose of illustrating building construction methods.

Slow motion pictures teach us how a diver performs his feat; others show us how a plant grows and its blossoms unfold. Building a skyscraper in thirty minutes is another little trick which adds to the tale of usefulness of this modern invention of service and entertainment.

they must be justifiable to me, Jennie.

"Good night," said Jennie Curtly, and left him.

Jennie, I am obliged to admit, gave scant attention to the new career upon which her old sweetheart seemed to be entering.

"You can borrow that tester," said the colonel, "and the cows that go with it, if you can use 'em. They ain't earning their keep here. But how does the milk tester fit into the curriculum of the school? A decision?"

"We want to make a few tests of the cows in the neighborhood," answered Jim. "Just another of my fool notions."

"All right," said the colonel. "Take it as a concession to the pastor."

Moreover, he was influential enough so that when Mr. Cummins or Mr. Dolliver came into the county on political errands, Colonel Woodruff had always been called into conference.

A very respectable, honest, American boy was the colonel, fond of his political away, and rather soured by the fact that it was passing from him.

Such being her family history, Jennie was something of a politician herself. She was in no way surprised when approached by party managers on the subject of accepting the nomination for county superintendent of schools.

Jim Talks the Weather Cold. "Going to the rally, James?" Jim had finished his supper, and yearned for a long evening in his attic den with his cheap literature.

around by Brown's to pick up the speaker, and I'll have a check-up load."

"Not so much of a load as you think," said Jennie. "I'm going with Jim. The walls will go good."

Any candidate warm to her voting population just before election; but Jennie had a special kindness for Jim. He was no longer a farm hand.

She gave Jim a thrill as she passed through the gate that he opened for her. White moonlight on her white fur suggested purity, exaltation, the sacredness of the moment.

Jim gave her no thrill; for he looked gaunt and angular in his slumpy, ready-made suit, his short legs and feet an eye too thin for the season.

"What's the use of political meetings," said Jim, "when you and I can stand here and think our way out, even beyond the limits of our universe?"

"A wonderful journey," said she, not quite understanding his mood, "but while we roam beyond the Milky Way, we aren't getting any votes for me for county superintendent."

"Don't you want me to be elected, Jim?" Jim seemed to ponder this for some time—a period of taking the matter under advisement which caused Jennie to drop her arm and busy herself with her skirts.

Nothing more was said until they reached the schoolhouse door. "Well," said Jennie rather indignantly, "I'm glad there are plenty of voters who are more enthusiastic about me than you seem to be!"

THE MARKETS

WHEAT PRICES FOLLOW MORE FAVORABLE TREND

Quotations Average Slightly Higher on Strength of Reported Fallows Expected Shortly

CHICAGO, Sept. 17 (AP)—Wheat prices averaged a little higher today, helped more or less by assertions that rallies were to be looked for after more than a week's decline.

Demand here, however, lacked volume, and an increase of the United States visible supply total led to a reaction during which detoured deliveries dropped temporarily under any recent low figures.

Part of the comparative firmness shown by wheat appeared to be due to strength in corn values. Numerous traders who had been skeptical that recent frosts had done serious damage to corn crops, changed their opinion after having investigated many Illinois fields.

Despite larger receipts here, corn scored an all around advance in prices. Oats were depressed by hedging sales. Provisions went lower in line with hog values.

TWIN FALLS MARKETS

These prices are obtained daily by 4 o'clock in the morning and are intended to cover only the average of prices. Where certain dealers for short periods offer more than the quoted price an effort is made to include such quotations.

STOCK TRADING IS LIGHT—Prices indicate steadier tone in opening Session But Few Transactions Are Placed on Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (AP)—Stock prices displayed a somewhat staid tenor in rather dull trading today, the volume of transactions falling considerably below that of last week.

There was little in the news to influence traders. Bear addresses accepted Premier's Sunday address as somewhat unfavorable to the progress of Ruhr negotiations and oil shares were adversely affected by another cut in gasoline prices.
