

LEAGUE'S HOPES ARE PINNED ON UNITED STATES

Even Though Americans Fail to Join, Success in Future Depends on Their Assistance, Speakers Claim.

GENEVA, Sept. 29 (AP)—After a month's session during which the peril of the Grasso-Italian crisis had been passed through to a final solution of the difficulty, the fourth assembly of the league of nations adjourned today in an atmosphere of satisfaction among the delegates for the achievements of the session and firm hope in greater accomplishments in the future.

It was made entirely clear by the speakers at the final session that the hope of the future was placed largely on collaboration by the United States, whenever it may be obtained, with the concrete plans of the league. It was said that the day never should come when America will be actually found among the members. Dr. Cosmo de la Torretta of Cuba, president of the assembly, in an eloquent valedictory address, took America from the subconscious thoughts of the delegates of the world organization and placed her in definite focus before them by declaring that her aid was vastly important for the future of mankind.

DEATH LIST IN TRAIN SMASHUP STILL UNKNOWN

River Waters, Swollen to Flood Stage, Still Claim Coaches Filled with Victims of Burlington Crash.

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 29.—Although 48 hours had passed since Denver-bound Burlington passenger train No. 20 plunged through a weakened bridge over the Colorado creek, east of Casper, Thursday night, carrying many of the passengers and crew to death in the swollen stream, the problem of determining the exact number of fatalities was little nearer solution tonight than it was a few hours after the wreck.

The name of Charles Browne, of Denver, an employe of Collier and Son, was added to the list of missing today. According to a statement tonight by the proprietor of a rooming house where he stayed with in Casper, Browne was on board the train.

Hoops of sand swept down by a second unexpected rise in the stream last night, was today piled over and over the cars which had crashed through the bridge, and although a crew of more than fifty men toiled all night, they were brought out, only three bodies were recovered.

Tells Story of Narrow Escape From Drowning

Denver Man Avoided Death When Caught in Pullman Car, Only by Braving Current on Flimsy Raft of Logs.

CHEYENNE, Sept. 29 (AP)—How he miraculously escaped, first through the fortunate overturning of his car, then through being shot to the surface by some unseen force and finally by the appearance of log raft just about to give up the struggle, was told by H. D. Belrose, 20 years old, tire salesman of Denver, upon his arrival in Cheyenne early today, following the Burlington wreck near Casper, Wyo., Thursday night.

Belrose was in the lavatory at the front end of the foremost Pullman when the train plunged into the swollen creek. As he was about to reach the group of men sitting in the adjoining compartment at the time were caught in the trap and drowned. But as the car was being crushed and water poured was shattered and a wall of water poured in. The car turned that side down and landed in the bottom of the flood; the salesman thought his was luck. As he was about to resign himself to his fate, however, there was another lurch and the Pullman rolled over on the other side. As it did so, the water shot upward and with it went Belrose—clear to the surface.

Fully dressed and with the ice cold water numbing his muscles the young man, though an experienced swimmer, was able to make little progress. Ten yards from the scene of the wreckage was the swirling torrent of North Platte river. Belrose was carried into it despite his efforts to swim. From that point he floated three quarters of a mile with the force of the current preventing him from effecting a landing.

ENGINEER SAYS DISTRICT NOW IN POSITION TO COMPLETE PROJECT IN TIME FOR FIRST AMERICAN FALLS WATER

The Murtaugh irrigation district has completed financial arrangements so that it now is in position to proceed with its reclamation project and bring it to completion as soon as water from the American Falls reservoir is available, according to statement Saturday of H. J. Henderson, engineering director of the district, announcing progress of the project. The district has made satisfactory disposition of its 33,700,000 worth of bonds which some months ago were placed on the market. It has also secured a large tract of land in Twin Falls and Cassia counties, commonly known as the "Hausen butte" district.

Mr. Henderson did not name financial interests whose support has been secured for the project, but he declared that they are ready to advance money to the district for carrying out its plan as soon as validity of the American Falls reservoir district's bonds is established by proceedings in the supreme court.

It is the hope of the Murtaugh district depends upon the completion of the American Falls reservoir. Mr. Henderson said it is possible the reclamation service are carried out, and the reservoir completed by 1939, the Murtaugh district will be ready then to apply the water to the lands.

Plans of the Murtaugh district provide for water right giving three acre feet to each acre within its boundaries. The application for water right by the district for as much as 125,000 acre feet of American Falls water to provide for reclamation of lands that may later be brought within its boundaries. Development of hydro-electric power by means of a plant to be built and operated by the district figures in the plan. Mr. Henderson said that neither the power development nor construction of its irrigation system would be begun until after positive assurance had been given that water from the American Falls reservoir would be made available.

SEVENTEEN ON DEATH LIST IN IOWA TORNADO

Property Damage Expected to Total More Than $1,000,000; Twelve Killed While Mourning at Funeral.

OMAHA, Sept. 29 (AP)—The death list from western Iowa's and eastern Nebraska's tornado and cloudburst last night, was augmented tonight when 12-year-old Goldie Collier died in a hospital at Council Bluffs. She was the first of the children to be killed by flying debris. Seventeen others are known to have been killed and more than a million dollars' worth of property was said to have been destroyed.

Twelve were killed at Louisville, Neb., when the house in which they were congregated to mourn the death of Mrs. Mary McCarver, killed when an oil stove exploded Thursday, was washed from its foundation into Mill creek, trapping all 12. The bodies of the children were recovered at Council Bluffs. Five persons were killed outright when they were struck by flying debris. Four of the dead were killed when in an attempt to escape from their homes they ran into their front yard and were struck down by a tree which had been uprooted. The sixth victim died in a hospital.

Second Debris

Another deluge of rain, accompanied by hail struck the city at 10 o'clock tonight, but stopped about an hour after it had started.

Cots and blankets for those driven from their homes by the tornado were obtained from the Red Cross and a school house is being used as a relief center in the Iowa city.

Approximately three square blocks were rased by the tornado in Council Bluffs.

The house and all other buildings of Mrs. C. G. Gifford at Louisville were rased, leaving the site bare.

Seventy Blocks Flooded

Seventy blocks were inundated in the Iowa city. The fire department was being used to pump the water out of basements.

Tonight all of the bodies of the victims of the cloudburst at Louisville had been recovered.

Funeral services for those killed in the tornado at Council Bluffs will be held Monday.

A physician at Marquette, Neb., was killed near Grand Island when his automobile skidded and turned over and Otto J. Duck, a salesman of York, Neb., was drowned when he stepped into a hole filled with water.

Street car service at Council Bluffs was interrupted in a greater section of the city.

Red Cross officials at Council Bluffs issued a call for clothing for men, women and children.

BITTER CONTEST IS THREATENED

Fear Disorder in Manila Election; Independence Is Virtual Aim of Voting.

MANILA, Sept. 29 (AP)—With the insular election only three days off the most bitter political campaign in the Philippine islands since the United States assumed formal administration of government there, is drawing to a close. Feeling has reached a high pitch in both political camps and disorders are regarded as a possibility.

Although Governor General Leonard Wood does not look for serious disturbances he and other government officials have made preparations to forestall or at least suppress any outbreak.

Broadly, the campaign issue is independence for the Philippines. The democratic party favors continuance of the American administration, the nationalists, under the leadership of Manuel Quezon are opposed to the administration. The coalitionists frankly say the campaign has become the word "Americanism" as a byword of detestation.

High government officials are known to regard many of the coalitionists' speeches as inflammatory and serious to the utmost limit possible without prosecution and believe the speakers counted on the tolerance of Americans and the American government to save them from being taken to task.

Fight Is Bitter

One of the most bitter fights in the campaign has been waged about the question of expenditures from the million peso independence fund which is controlled by the United States. Members of the democratic party have made a determined effort to get authorization to examine disbursement vouchers. To this end mandamus proceedings were brought in the insular supreme court to force Governor General Wood to authorize the investigation. The supreme court has refused to

BULGARIAN REBELLION REPORTED LESS SEVERE

Official Message from Sofia to Legation at Washington Says Pacification Move Well Under Way

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The situation in all of Bulgaria tends toward complete pacification except in the county of Ferdinandova, where the communists still show some resistance. The Bulgarian legation was informed today in an official message from Sofia, dated yesterday.

The dispatch added that news had just been received to the effect that at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Ferdinandova had been cleared of rebels, who were retreating toward Belogradchik, near the Serbian frontier.

Feeling Running High

In the provinces there is apparently little interest or excitement but in Manila feeling is high. There are hundreds of students here who are known to be radical.

Governor General Wood does not feel that any of the attacks are directed at him personally, but that they are a part of the effort to supplant American government as outlined by the Jones law with an administration controlled by the insular legislators and dominated by Quezon and his group. Meanwhile the governor general has reasserted his stand "to keep unaltered the reputation and undiminished the sovereignty of the United States in these islands."

Babson Asserts All Legitimate Need Can Be Met at Present Time; Hoarding of Gold Causes Problem.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Sept. 29 (Special to The News).—Roger W. Babson has been making a careful analysis of credit conditions based on reports from his various correspondents throughout the U. S. His findings reported today are of unusual interest to all business men and investors.

"Careful students of the financial situation are surprised at the amount of gold in the country and the federal reserve banks and the similar figure for the New York banks," says Mr. Babson. "With the tremendous amount of gold in the country and the fact that it is being hoarded, it seems strange that this figure should decrease. Furthermore, even although this is the crop moving season the amount of gold constantly being mined should put out additional currency. There is an abundance of money in the country for all legitimate needs. The only difficulty is that too much of it is being hoarded in a way and too much is being hoarded in sections where it is not being needed. The country does not need to issue more money, but the farmers and legitimate business instead of speculative investments in stocks, foodstuffs and wearing apparel should have the use of the billions already issued. Eliminate speculation and unnecessary storage and there will be money enough for every legitimate need in every line of industry."

"Yet this speculation in stocks and commodities does not account for the clogging which is taking place today in our credit system. Of the various reasons advanced I believe the fundamental difficulty is due to the fact that people are not paying their bills. Ever since the decline in business, which began a few months ago, there has been a tendency for manufacturers, jobbers, retailers and consumers to slow up in their payment of bills. Of course, the whole thing is an endless chain. Just as soon as one link stops the entire chain must stop. As one link slows down, the entire chain must slow down. Yet there is absolutely no reason for such a condition other than an economic condition. Business and the flow of money is like the flow of blood in one's veins. Anything which retards circulation harms everyone."

"An analysis of the balance sheets of our large industries shows that they are very largely 'made or unmade' by their 'accounts receivable,' which simply the accountant's name for money being owed to them. For instance, the fertilizer business, as a business, is perfectly sound. Not only are fertilizers needed but they are needed more every year. It is a fundamental industry and yet most of the fertilizer companies are having very hard sledding at the present time, and their securities are selling very low. The reason primarily is that farmers are buying fertilizers on credit and are not paying their bills. The chain stops at the other end, and very flourishing today and their stocks are selling high. The main reason for this is that these chain stores are doing a cash business. They have no 'accounts receivable' and are able to discount their bills and carry large cash balances.

"In the case of almost every corporation the credit policy is an important factor and any investor buying securities today should give it careful consideration. This is especially true today when industrial stocks are so much more popular than railroad and public utility stocks. Notwithstanding their troubles the railroads and public utilities do a cash business. This applies not only to lighting and telephone companies. "All of this means that one of the best things we can do to bring back prosperity is to promptly pay our bills. Moreover, it applies to wage workers as well as to employers; to retailers as well as to manufacturers; to people in small country towns as well as in large cities. The little bills must be paid before the big ones can be paid. Before the manufacturer can pay his bills, the wholesaler must pay the manufacturer; before the jobber can pay the wholesaler and before the retailer can pay the jobber, you and I must pay him. Prompt settlements will do much toward keeping the business from going lower. The Babsonchart now shows it at 10 per cent below normal." (All publication rights strictly reserved.)

THE SCREEN

"YOUR FRIEND AND MINE"

One of the most entertaining photo plays is presented at the Orpheum theater, "Your Friend and Mine," a screen version of the stage hit by Willard Mack, with the author in the role played on the stage. It has all the elements that go to make a film of genuine infatuation. Story telling, settings and direction are all of the highest order, leaving nothing to be desired.

Willard Mack is his usual self in the author's role. Eard Bennett does well as the neglected wife, and Huntley Gordon is admirable as her husband. The artist is carefully played by Herbert Frank. Others of importance are Bertram Thoby, Otto Lederer and Alleen Ray.

SHOW FORD OUTPUT GAIN

DETROIT, Sept. 28.—From a daily output of 6800 yards in October, 1922, to the manufacture of from 30,000 to 50,000 yards of artificial leather a day at present, after two years' effort, is one of the interesting achievements of the Ford Motor company's plant in Highland Park.

Five grades of leather, each suited to a different purpose, are produced and with these the company is able to supply, wholly or in large part, its own side curtains, auto quarters, back cushions, cushions, cushion felts, tops, seat and roof covers.

The artificial leather manufacture, which was first begun as an experiment in 1918, has reached a high state of perfection and now proceeds on the continuous production system.

Home-owning: Business groups, writes Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in a government pamphlet on "How to Own Your Own Home," are looking upon home-owning in a new and favorable light.

They are taking a neighborly interest in developing sound financing and other machinery for the use of home-seekers...

He said that "maintaining a high percentage of individual home-ownership is one of the searching tests that challenge the people of the United States."

All this is thoroughly sound and rather familiar doctrine. The present demand shows that the American public is already pretty well convinced of the advantages of home-ownership.

One thing often lost sight of, however, is the fact, suggested above by Secretary Hoover, that the process of acquiring a home is being made easier right along, through the disinterested efforts of public organizations and the better methods used by real estate men, bankers and builders.

THE SUN'S HEAT: Whenever a spell of cold weather that seems unreasonable to the casual observer hits any section of the country, speculations immediately arise as to whether the sun is cooling off.

How, however, although it was carried on from the tops of lofty peaks, his experiment was considerably influenced by the atmosphere of the earth.

One bold scientist once estimated that the center of the sun might have a temperature as high as one million degrees Fahrenheit.

However, although it was carried on from the tops of lofty peaks, his experiment was considerably influenced by the atmosphere of the earth.

The BROWN MOUSE By HERBERT QUICK (Copyright by The Bobbs-Merrill Company)

(Continued.) Jim slipped out of a side door and fled. He started home, on foot as he had come. A mile or so out he was overtaken by the colonel, driving his car along with room in his buggy for Jim.

"Climb in, Jim," said the "Dan and Dolly didn't like to see you walk." "They're looking fine," said Jim.

"There's a good deal to say whenever two horse lovers get together. But when Jim had alighted at his own door, the colonel spoke of what had been in his mind all the time.

"I saw Bonner and Hankon and Es doing some caucusing today," said he. "They expect to elect Bonner to the board again."

"Oh, I suppose so," replied Jim. "Well, what shall we do about it?" asked the colonel.

Jim was silent. Here was a matter on which he really had no ideas except the broad and general one that truth is mighty and shall prevail—but that the speed of its forward march is problematical.

"I think," said the colonel, "that it's up to us to see that the people have a chance to decide. It's really Bonner against Jim Irwin."

"What you need is a man to take that office away from Bonner."

"Well, I'm free to say I don't know that any one can, but I'm willing to try. I think that in about a week, I shall pass the word around that I'd like to serve my country on the school board."

Jim's face lighted up—and then darkened. "Even then they'd be two to one, Colonel."

"Maybe," replied the colonel, "and maybe not. That would have to be argued on. A cracked log splits easy."

"Anyhow," Jim went on, "what's the use? I shan't be disturbed this year—and after that—what's the use?"

"Why, Jim," said the colonel, "you aren't getting short of breath are you? I thought you good for the mile, and you aren't turning out a quarter horse, are you? I don't know what all it is you want to do, but I don't believe you can do it in nine months, can you?"

"Not in nine years!" replied Jim. "Well, then, let's plan for ten years," said the colonel, "that's going to become a reformer at my time of life as a temporary job. Will you stick if we can swing the thing for you?"

"I will," said Jim, in a manner of a person taking the vows in some solemn initiation.

"All right," said the colonel, "we'll keep quiet and see how many votes we can muster up at the election. How many can you speak for?"

Jim gave himself for a few minutes to thought. It was a merely thing to him, the matter of mustering, and a thing which he had always looked upon as rather reprehensible. The citizen should go forth with no coercion, no persuasion, no suggestion, and vote his sentiments.

"How many can you round up?" persisted the colonel. "I think," said Jim, "that I can speak for myself and Old Man Simms."

The colonel laughed. "Fine politician!" he repeated. "Fine politician! Well, Jim, you round up yourself and Old Man Simms and I'll see what I can do—I'll see what I can do!"

Band Hills of Nebraska or the Devil's lake country tomorrow—if I had a gun." "If it wasn't for a pair of things that keep me byeh," said Raymond, "I'd like to go, too." "The colonel," said Pete, "needs me. He needs me in an election tomorrow. What's the matter, the year of our Lord? What for does he vote for that Bonner, and throw down an old neighbor?" "I can't do anything with him!" exclaimed Newton indignantly. "He's all tangled up with Peterson and Bonner."

"Well," said Pete, "it'd just stay at home it would help some. If he votes for Bonner, it'll be just about a stand-off." "He never misses a vote," said Newton despairingly. "Can't you cripple him some way?" asked Pete. "Darned funny when a boy of your age can't control his father's vote! So long!"

"I wish I could vote!" grumbled Newton. "I wish I could! We know a lot more about the school, and Jim Irwin being a good teacher than dad does—and we can't vote. Why can't folks vote when they are interested in an election, and know about the issues. It's tyranny that you and I can't vote."

"I reckon," said Raymond, the conservative, "that the old-time people that fixed it that way knowed best." "That's a sneered Newton, the iconoclast. "Why, Callista knows more about the election of school director than dad knows."

"That don't seem reasonable," protested Raymond. "She's prejudiced, I reckon, in favor of Mr. Irwin."

Not big enough water," suggested Pete. "Some wood-ducks, I suppose?" "Along the creek and river, you see," said Raymond, "but nothing to depend on."

"I've never been nowhere," said Newton, "except once to Minnesota—and that wasn't in the shooting season."

A year ago Newton would have boasted of having "bummed" his way to Fairbault. His hesitant speech was a proof of the embarrassment his new respectability sometimes inflicted upon him.

"I used to shoot ducks for the market at Spirit Lake," said Pete. "I know Fred Gilbert just as well as I know you. But that's all over, now. You've got to go so far now to get decent shooting where the farmers won't drive you off, that it costs nine dollars to send a postcard home."

"I think we'll have fine shooting on the steep in a few days," said Newton. "Humph!" scoffed Pete. "I know your word, if I hadn't promised the colonel I'd stay with him another year, I'd take a side-door Pullman for the WARD FOUND NOT GUILTY Long Trial of Sensational Case Against New York Man Ends with Verdict of Acquittal. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—Walter S. Ward was acquitted Friday of the charge of murdering Clarence Peters. As the jury foreman announced the verdict, a cheering throng of spectators, mostly women, climbed over rows of benches and chairs to grasp the hand and kiss the face of the wealthy baker's son.

While the trial itself was not unusually long, the events that preceded it lasted more than 16 months. Peters was a former sailor. His body was found on a lonely road near the Kensico reservoir in May, 1922. It was several days before his body was identified. Then Ward made a statement that he had shot Peters in self defense as a result of an alleged attempt to blackmail him.

Investigation followed, but all attempts to learn the secret of the blackmail plot failed. One indictment against Ward was dismissed, but finally another was returned and Ward was placed on trial a week ago last Monday.

The jury's deliberations had lasted less than four hours. Habit of the "Tractor Man." This is not an intelligent act on the part of the rat, however, but is due to the fact that the rat sees the food when it is carrying bits of sticks or paper in its mouth, which it generally drops when finding the food.

BOARD DEFERS DECISION AS TO SALMON'S VOTE

Strong Opposition to Irrigation District Plan Develops at Hearing Before Commissioners.

Strong opposition to proposed formation of an irrigation district to take over the Salmon river project irrigation system, developed at a hearing Saturday before the board of Twin Falls county commissioners on a petition for submission of the proposal at an election.

The petition signed by E. A. Carter and others, requested the commissioners to call an election for this purpose. The commissioners took the question under advisement at the conclusion of the hearing which continued for almost six hours, during which arguments for and against the proposal were presented.

The move for organization of an irrigation district to take over the Salmon river system is the second within the history of the project, the proposition having failed at an election about four years ago.

Opponents of the proposal, represented by James R. Foster at the hearing Saturday contended, that the petition was insufficient to meet legal requirements. They argued also that organization of the proposed district at this time would affect no change in the administration of the irrigation system for the reason that settlers already are in the majority on the canal company directors, and that the proposal would effect a change in name only.

Opponents of the proposal argued also that formation of the district would involve hardship for 62 per cent of the settlers of the project who have effected settlements with respect to their water contracts and have, thereby, financed themselves or created no burden loads. It would be the purpose of the district, they asserted, to issue bonds for acquiring the irrigation system, and the existence of irrigation covering all the lands within the district, they said, would work to the disadvantage of settlers who have made settlement when it became necessary for them to finance their operations.

In this connection, Asher E. Wilson, appealing as an individual landowner, argued that formation of the proposed district would delay for a period of years any further movement bringing the lands under the project into a compact body. Existence of the district's obligation, involving all of the lands developed within its boundaries, would make change impossible until such time as the bonds were paid, he said.

Nelson Hayward, one of the principal witnesses for the opponents of the proposal, declared that with one possible exception, landowners of the Allendale community opposed the irrigation district plan. Others who opposed the proposal included T. J. Douglas, H. L. Maxwell, J. E. White and William Thietzen.

V. Morgan, one of the signers of the petition, sought and obtained from the commissioners, permission to withdraw his name.

Advocates of the proposed district were represented by John W. Ephram, who closely questioned statements of opponents of the plan, whose testimony was given under oath.

In behalf of the proposal, Alex McPherson, pioneer squatter and agriculturist, presented numerous advantages, which, he said, might be expected to result from formation of the district. Among these he included the separation of the irrigation system management from the influence of persons whose interest was limited to their financial investments in the projects construction.

Twenty-Four Reasons for Optimism in Twin Falls

Chamber of Commerce, in Inventory of Business Conditions, Sets Forth Facts and Recent Developments Making for Confidence in Present and Future of Region.

Twenty-four reasons for optimism show a better business condition at this date than last year. Because the sugar factory has more than twice the acreage of beets to work on this year than last which will mean a larger cash payment to the farmers and longer run and larger payroll for Twin Falls.

Because our dealers have sold more automobiles this year than last year. Because we have had a very much larger tourist trade this year which has brought in an added income.

Because more property has been bought and sold this year. Because we have more new residents this year than last year. Because city water rates are lower this year than last.

Because lower coal freight rates are announced. And some freight reductions on farm products have been obtained. Because Twin Falls exchange put in more new telephones than any other city in the state last month.

Because approximately 25 miles more of gravel roads are being built or contracted for which will make access into Twin Falls easier for many more people. Because mining activities have started upon a larger scale at Contact and drillings for oil are continuing to the south of us.

Because the American Falls reservoir project is actually under way and the town of American Falls being moved. Because the Boggs-Wells railroad is assured by positive agreement with the Union Pacific company and location survey nearly completed.

Because business is better and everybody is feeling better. Because there is a better diversity of farm crops this year. Because total general business as indicated by the sum of all check payments of banks since the first of the year (Babson's Method) has shown an average increase of 5 per cent to 15 per cent for 1923.

Because there are no less delinquent taxes this year than last. Because the statements of our banks show a better business condition at this date than last year.
