LOYALTY URGED BY GOMPERS AT LABOR MEETING

National Labor Chief Voices Firm Stand for Americanism; Denunciation of Klan and Radicals is Applauded.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 1 (AP)—Loyalty to the government of the United States, and determination to improve it through the effort of organized labor, was voiced by President Samuel Gompers in his address opening the forty-third annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here today.

"We have many grievances against which we are directing our energies," he added. Chief among the questions that need attention be placed child labor.

The convention received the report of the executive council which declared against invasion of industrial life by government. The report declared that the Ku Klux Klan and Fascist movement. Applause greeted announcement of the council's attitude toward the Ku Klux Klan.

Union of Wage Earners. "We ask that the labor movement be and continue to be a movement of wage earners by wage earners and for wage earners," said Gompers.

Dealing with the farm problem, he declared that profiteers had kept organized labor and farm producers apart and have exploited both.

"They have taken on both sides more money as profit, than they have given either to the farmer or the industrial worker."

"I have an abiding faith that in our America, slow moving as we are, the stamina and justice of the people will bring the farmer and the wage worker together in solution of the great problem that is confronting both."

He attacked the "open shop" as an effort of big business to strip the American labor of the power to protect itself against a lowering of the standard of living and to demand respect as to the United States government, "and best in the world though it is, is still not good enough for us nor good enough for those who are to come after us, and under the law—we are here to do our share to make it still better and to make America the most productive commonwealth in the onward march of civilization."

At the opening of the afternoon session, Mr. Gompers conveyed a message of good will from President Calvin Coolidge, and told of a conference in which the president showed interest in measures to check child labor and in the immigration question.

Earth's Surface Is Being Changed, Scientist Claims

California Coast Mountains Forced Northward, Andes Eastward, Willis Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Vast geological changes in which the Andes mountains are being pushed slowly eastward and the California coast ranges forced northward, are in progress in the opinion of Dr. Bailey Willis, professor emeritus of geology at Leland Stanford university.

Dr. Willis has just returned from South America, where he was sent by the Carnegie institution of Washington to study the earthquake which rocked Chile a year ago.

The changes in the earth's surface, he said, are resulting from irresistible pressure exerted from within the earth beneath the "Pacific deep" which offers an explanation of recent disastrous tremors.

Both the Chilean earthquake and the Japanese catastrophe, he believes, were due to the process of geological changes and many equally serious earthquakes may be expected for generations to come.

Although scientists have known, he declared that the California ranges are marching northward. It took the Chilean earthquake to prove that the Andes are shifting steadily eastward. The movement in each case is away from the ocean.

In the case of California, he said, science can even estimate roughly the rate at which the western section is moving, since measurements made by the coast and geodetic survey demonstrated changes in positions of their transformation station.

Ten-Year Program of Plane Building Advocated by Davis

Assistant Secretary of War Declares for Increase in United States Defense.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—A ten-year program of building airplanes to meet the deficit in machines needed for purely training defensive purposes, was advocated in an address here tonight by Dwight F. Davis, assistant secretary of war.

Speaking before the St. Louis Aeronautic corporation and the Flying club of St. Louis, Mr. Davis said the United States had no desire to enter naval competitions with other nations and that such a program could not be considered as such by other nations "which already are doing all in their power to build up their air fleets."

CREW'S EFFORTS MEET OBSTACLE

Wyoming Wreck Declared Worst in Line's History; Four of Many Bodies Found.

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 1 (AP)—An empty, water-logged chair car, one end wedged in the sand of the creek bed, the other extending 30 feet into the air, tonight was balking the efforts of more than 50 men and a wrecking train to clear away the tangled remains of the Burlington passenger train which piled up in Colo Creek east of Casper last Thursday night.

Since early last night the chair car, partially filled with wet sand, has resisted all attempts to "hoist" it out with the derrick of the wreck train. In its present position the car virtually blocks all work as both it and the baggage car must be moved before the bodies of additional victims of the wreck.

The chair car is also directly in the path of the pile driver which is constructing a temporary bridge across the stream and the op-

GRAIN DEALERS GIVE VIEWS ON CO-OPERATION

Executive Report of National Association Raps Hasty Legislation; Class Agriculture as Being Sound.

DES MOINES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Farm prosperity will not be secure until the farmer "has discarded present co-operative cure-alls, recognized co-operation as a means of benefiting others as well as himself, and realized the immutability of the law of supply and demand," members of the executive committee of the Grain Dealers' National association declared in their report at the annual convention here this afternoon.

The report, signed by Chairman A. E. Reynolds of Crawfordville, Ind., states that the farmers' "impressions will solve the agricultural problem and that it will not be solved in the halls of congress."

Hasty legislation, the report said, has worked great injury to the country. "From the tariff measure down to the grain futures act the whole legislative stew has been based on ignorance, prejudice and misguided enthusiasm. The grain futures act has not accomplished any of the good promised by its sponsors. Its operation has driven from the market the large speculators who have tended to help to sustain the market in times when support is needed."

Farmers Reduce Debts. "Today agriculture as a whole is fundamentally sound. The abject pessimistic estimate that two-thirds of the farmers are out of debt. No other branch of American industry can make such a showing."

The "raid on the constitution by the radical oligue" was pointed to by the report as the nation's greatest danger. It added that "the radical program at the coming session includes repeal of the Esch-Cummings law; government grain purchase; nationalization of the farm implement output; complete revision of

Flour Mill Owned by North Dakota Is Losing Venture

Audit of Books of State's Plant Indicates Deficit of More Than $124,501

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 1 (AP)—North Dakota's state owned flour mill at Grand Forks, sustained an operating loss from October 23, 1922, to July 1, 1923, of $124,501.75, according to the first public audit of the enterprise made for the state industrial commission and issued by that body here today.

The operating loss per barrel of flour is given as 40 cents on each barrel produced.

The terminal elevator erected to function in connection with the mill, contributed materially to the deficit, the report says, the elevator not being ready in time to handle any of the 1922 crop of wheat.

WHEAT GROWING AREA HARD HIT

Improvement Noted by Federal Report on Other Lines of Farm Production.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Agriculture showed continued improvement during September, except in the wheat belt, the department of agriculture announced today in its monthly agricultural review.

"A significant development in the strengthened demand for cotton and pork," the review says. "Consumption of cotton in American mills and export movement have both increased although the south has had to scale down its expectations on the size of the new crop. The domestic and export demand for pork has absorbed a record run of hogs at better prices than were prophesied by the most optimistic carriers in the season. In the wheat belt, the situation is different. More than 100,000 homes in the wheat country are in distress. Debts which have been accumulating for five years are now coming due and

Preparations for Exciting Oklahoma Election Move On; Ballot Boxes Being Guarded

MOUNTAIN HOME PROJECT DECLARED STILL ALIVE

Idaho Reclamation Association Declines to Consider Government Report as Rejection of Undertaking.

BOISE, Oct. 1 (AP)—The government report on the Mountain Home-Sunnyside project, showing a cost of $184 million, did not constitute government rejection of the project, according to a statement by the Idaho Reclamation Association.

The association's government made a survey and estimate at the request of Boise and Mountain Home, which paid half the bill. It did not go into the project primarily to determine whether it would engage in putting the proposition over, it is stated, but for the information of the communities as to whether transmission of water from American Falls to the lands was feasible. Apparently it is not.

Private capital is considering the Mountain Home-Sunnyside project, it is further stated, with the Stanley basin and adjacent water flows as the source of water. Transmission of water from the dam can be placed on the land at a practical cost in view of the plan of financing and payment.

WANT GOOD TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR CONTACT

Representations to Be Made to Mountain States Company Relative to Needs of New Nevada Mining Town.

BOISE, Oct. 1.—It is stated here that representations will be made to the Mountain States Telephone company relative to service for the new mining town of Contact, Nev., which is near the Idaho line, and a potential factor in Idaho growth.

A visitor to Boise from Contact said that the company's line to Rogerson gave excellent service but from there on it was a private line, cheaply constructed and rather uncertain as to functioning.

Contact "seems destined to become a big camp," he continued. "The railroad is coming. Steps have been taken to secure power for the mines from the Idaho Power company, which was understood to be ready to go to any reasonable limit in cooperation. "No community can move ahead as it should and keep pace with modern demands without good telephone service in town and to keep in quick touch with the outside world."

ACCIDENT VICTIMS BETTER

Mrs. Clayton Goodyear Soon to Leave Hospital; Mrs. Fred Hoops Still Under Treatment; Baby Not Hurt.

Mrs. Clayton Goodyear, who, with Mrs. Fred Hoops, was injured Saturday evening in an automobile collision, probably will leave the Boyd hospital here Tuesday for her home at Hollister. Mrs. Goodyear received a severe scalp wound. Mrs. Hoops, who received a deep laceration on the leg, will remain at the hospital for a few days longer. Examination of X-ray photographs showed that the four months old son of Mrs. Hoops has escaped from the collision without injury. It had been feared that the baby had suffered dislocation of the hip.

MEAT SUPPLY WHOLESOME

Inspector's Report Shows Only One Out of 246 Cattle Inspected Infected With Tuberculosis.

Evidence that Twin Falls' meat supply is an exceptionally wholesome one is contained in a report submitted Monday to the city commission by Dr. Walter McPherson, meat and dairy inspector, showing only one animal infected with tuberculosis out of 246 cattle inspected during the month of September. The report shows that inspection was made during the month of 30 sheep and 457 hogs.

Twin Falls Schools Enrollment Growing

Enrollment of Twin Falls public schools was increased Monday by addition of 25 pupils to the six elementary grades and two to the junior high school. It was announced Monday evening by Superintendent M. C. Mitchell. The additions bring the total enrollment of the schools to 2542.

Pupils now entering the schools come largely from families who have lately arrived to make homes in Twin Falls, Mr. Mitchell believes.

Governor Issues Order for Special Vote on December 6; Troops Will Not Interfere Tuesday.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 1 (AP)—Military forces of the state will not interfere with Tuesday's special election, Governor J. C. Walton declared in a formal statement here early tonight.

The governor denied the statement attributed to him yesterday that the entire national guard would be mobilized to prevent the election. He called upon all citizens of the state to preserve the peace tomorrow.

The statement addresses to "people of the state of Oklahoma and all peace officers of the state," follows in full:

"It has come to my notice that rumor is now being circulated that I will interfere by means of the military to prevent or obstruct the pretended election advertised to take place tomorrow, October 3, 1923.

"This is to advise you that the military forces will not intervene in this pretended election and I hereby request all citizens of the state to preserve the peace and good order.

(SIGNED) "J. C. WALTON," "Governor."

Governor Walton tonight issued a call for a special election on December 6 next, on the initiative proposed which would empower the state legislature to convene itself to consider impeachment charges against the executive.

"If the majority of the people want to amend their constitution so as to enable the Ku Klux Klan members of the legislature to impeach their governor and thereby remove all legal restraint on the lawlessness of the Klan, then I admit I don't want to be governor and will advise that we acknowledge the sovereignty of the emperor of the inviolable empire," Governor Walton declared in a formal statement made public simultaneously with the call.

Balloting tomorrow in 70 of the 77 counties of Oklahoma seemed certain, notwithstanding last minute attempts by Governor J. C. Walton to halt the state wide special election.

The situation as compiled by the Daily Oklahoman showed that in but seven counties will authorities attempt to enforce the governor's edict calling off the special election on the grounds that it will be illegal.

Proceed With Plans.

Backed by an attorney general's opinion officials in the other counties went ahead with plans to hold the election. Thousands of special deputies are being marshaled to prevent threatened interference by the executive's forces of state operatives, and in some cases court injunctions to be issued to block any such action.

The seven counties where it is indicated there will be no election are: Blaine, Bryan, Harper, Johnston, Jefferson, Murray and Nowata.

Permanent Use of Air Mail Planes Is Recommended

Henderson Hopes for Needed Appropriation; St. Louis Air Classic is Set Back.

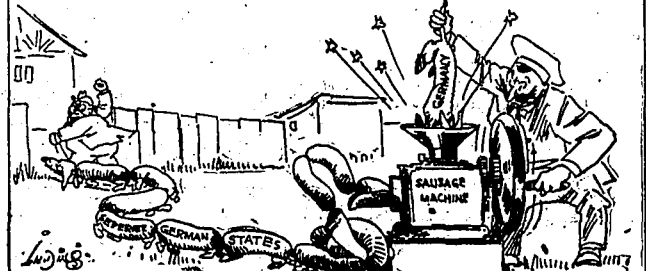

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—The hope that congress will soon appropriate sufficient funds to enable the postoffice to establish regular day and night transcontinental mail service was expressed by Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, in a paper prepared for the second annual air institute of the aeronautical chamber of commerce which is being held here in conjunction with the International Air races.

Secretary Wallace declared tests already made by the department showed that planes can be used effectively in locating and eradicating pests and diseases in crops. Lack of funds, however, has prohibited more than an initial test in some lines of work where plants have been found useful he added.

Fears expressed that if rain were cause another postponement of the International Air races scheduled to hold here Oct. 4, 5, and 6. The Wallace race, the world's speed air would not be held, the speaker dispelled today by a statement of Major General Macfarland.

IF WORST COMES TO WURST, FIGURATIVELY SPEAKING

SHIP BEARINGS ARE FOUND TO BE INCORRECT

Directions Given Destroyer Squadron by Radio Station Not Correct; Official Checks Over Fatal Course.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—All of the radio bearings received by the U. S. S. Delphy shortly before she led destroyer squadron eleven into the rocks off Honda, California, were inaccurate, but they were all correct when they showed the ships still too far north to attempt an eastward change of course into Santa Barbara channel, an expert in navigation late today told the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

The bearings were from one to eight degrees in error, according to the witnesses. Lieutenant Commander H. A. Jones, former instructor in navigation at Annapolis and for seven years a commander of destroyers, "fifty miles out to sea, he explained such an error would destroy the usefulness of a radio bearing, but at the distance from land at which the Delphy was traveling they were "accurate enough" to indicate her approximate position.

In the approximately 25 instances in which he has taken a vessel past Point Arguello en route to San Diego, the witness said, he has "not hesitated to use radio bearings," despite the fact that "they have generally been in error" a few degrees one way or the other.

Neglected Soundings
So reliable in a general way were these bearings, he said, that he frequently depended upon them when rounding the point in foggy weather and did not "think it necessary to take soundings as an additional check on his navigation."

Had he been in command of the Delphy on the night in question, however, he added, he would have begun taking soundings at 8 o'clock, an hour before the fatal change of course was executed, in an effort to determine the squadron's exact position.

Lieutenant Commander Jones' testimony was highly technical and involved a detailed explanation of the data on which he based his check of squadron eleven's navigation. Charts of the several destroyers salvaged from the wreck were placed in evidence when he took the stand and were frequently referred to as his explanation progressed.

Speed Varied.
He was followed by Lieutenant Commander H. G. Donah, squadron engineer, who testified that he had recommended a standard speed of 20 knots before the vessels left San Francisco, but that this standard speed was "not always maintained." The Delphy made as high as 22 knots at times, he said, and some of the destroyers north of her were making only 16 knots during part of the voyage.

The last of the 13 naval officers named defendants in the inquiry took the stand at this morning's session, their testimony differing a little from that of those who had already told their stories of the disaster.

A Remarkable Record.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—ad.

Gridiron Squad Out For Tough Workout

Coch Evans Drills Youngsters in Variety of Plays; Early Games Sought.

After a two days' rest Coach Evans' youngsters were out Monday for a tough workout. Puckett, Prizello, From and Murray were not in suits, but were out looking on. The squad was somewhat listless and did not get warmed-up as quickly as they should.

The center job is still unsolved and it seems to be a tough nut to crack. Hodgins worked at center throughout Monday's practice but the coach is grooming several and it is still a question who will be the man.

Patrol looks good in the backfield and also Day. Both have had their turn at the first string and show up in pretty good shape.

The boys are getting a new play or two each night and they certainly will not lack variety of plays when they meet their first opponents.

Every effort is being made to get a game here for next Friday and to arrange a schedule as soon as possible, but the majority of teams are reluctant to play Twin Falls so early in the season.

The University of Idaho freshmen coach is planning on putting two teams in the field this year, one to play the frosh of the other universities and the other to take on high schools throughout Idaho and Washington, and it is hoped that Twin Falls will be able to schedule a game with the latter team.

The cooler weather has driven some of the bleacher coaches to cover but there is still a goodly showing each night and it is plain to be seen that the interest in football is very keen. The only worry is games and most of the fans are not worrying much about that. As soon as the impression that Twin Falls has been ousted from the league is corrected and the other teams know that they will have to settle with Twin Falls before their claim to the championship is clear, game will be forthcoming without much trouble.

At least we have two games, with Rupert so we will see some football, anyway. Rupert has two battles coming up the next two weeks that will create considerable interest here. Next Friday they will meet Blackfoot and the following Friday they meet the Idaho Falls team. The latter gang has a strong team this year and it will give us a good chance to get a line on them.

Giant of a Man.

The only monument to Christian I, one of the kings of Denmark several centuries ago, is a mark scratched in a pillar in Roskilde to show how tall he was. Many famous men have measured themselves by this mark to see if they out-topped the king. The only man to ever surpass the mark was Pat Murphy, an Irish wonder, who towered eight feet and six inches in his stocky feet.

Plumes Are Valuable.

Ostrich feathers are either plucked by hand or cut from the wings whence come the most valuable plumes, says Nature Magazine. The annual feather crop of the average ostrich is worth from fifty to sixty dollars. The birds yield a crop of valuable feathers every seven months, although some breeders confine the plucking to a single harvest a year, as they claim that in this way they get better quality.

What She Promised.

A January bride called on a June bride the other day, and they fell to talking of the ceremony they each had recently pronounced. "Did you promise to love, honor and obey?" asked the June bride. "I don't remember," replied the girl, who was wed in January. "But I think I should have promised to love, honor and obey."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Won Double Fame.

The exact date of the birth of W. H. Hudson, English naturalist and novelist, is not known, but it is somewhere near the middle of the last century. He was born and spent his boyhood in South America, and is the most treasured plumes of the La Plata. He was the son of English emigrants. He died at his London home August 18, 1922.

Unmarried War Mother Becomes a Bride

Nancy Jordan and Children

Nancy Jordan, the English girl who met Frank Warren, a Kansas City lawyer, in London while he was an officer in the A. E. F., later gave birth to a son and then came to America to make her home with Warren's divorced wife. On shipboard she met Claude Heatherington Clark, an Englishman, who represents his father's firm in Chicago. The case attracted national attention, but Miss Jordan tired of the anomalous life she led and started back to England, but Clark stopped her, and now she is his bride.

ON SILENT GUARD

Explanation of Mysterious Figure in Grecian Cave.

If Surmise is Correct, Grim Custodian of Treasure Was Most Cunningly Devised.

Always the Thracian peasant is credited to tell you stories of caves. I once employed a queer man-of-all-trades as a foreman of excavation. He was a Thracian Greek from Varna, on the Black sea, whence he had been driven by Bulgarians into Greece. He had mostly been a sailor on the Pontic coast, but he had been to many lands and knew Asia Minor well. "I could tell you a queer story," he said to me one evening in true sailor fashion, "that a farmer once told me in a village near Smyrna." He lit his pipe (only sailors among Greeks take to pipes), and started his story after we had finished our digging and were taking our evening coffee by our tents. "This farmer went once far inland into the hills. He found the entrance to a deep cave and, with a certain hesitation, went in. He found himself in a well-cut tunnel that led straight into the rock. After a time he turned a corner and saw a red glimmer of flame.

"Greatly alarmed, he moved on very quietly and cautiously. Again he rounded a bend and saw, at the end of a straight stretch a blaze of fire coming out from a natural vent in the rock. He stopped motionless, for there in front of the flame was seated the figure of a man perfectly still. He crept on cautiously. Suddenly, as he advanced, the figure rose, rigidly, to its feet, swung round and faced him. He could not see its face, for it was against the light. He took one more nervous step forward and, as he did so, the right figure lifted in both its hands a huge hammer, still facing him. He stepped back, and as he did so the figure lowered the hammer. He stepped back one more step, and the figure sat down again. Less nervous, he advanced again.

"As he did so the figure rose once more, silent and rigid. He made one more step, and it lifted its hammer menacingly once more. Again he withdrew, and the figure lowered its hammer and sat down. Now he was thoroughly alarmed and made his way quickly out of the tunnel."

"Did he find out who the man was?" I asked. "No," replied my sailorman, "he did not, neither did he try. But my opinion is," he continued, "that there was a vast treasure buried in that cave, and the owner had made a mechanical figure which worked automatically by some mechanism that operated from the lever and the figure rose to its feet. You went further, and it lifted its hammer. If that farmer had taken one step more he would have been a dead man. The fire was a natural vent of gas that was never quenched. There are many such ways back to Asia Minor and Persia. He paused, as ancient mariners always pause after they have reached their finest effort: "You would have liked to excavate that cave," he said, simply.

I often wonder what element of truth was at the bottom of this story. All one can be certain of is that the Smyrniot farmer led the cavern in a very great fright. But who is not really afraid of caverns in his inmost heart? We call it "caution"; we are afraid lest the roof fall in and bury us, lest we slip down some unexpected hole. Really, it is the terror of the dark that frightens us, perhaps itself born of the danger that beset primitive man in caves—cave lions, cave bears, or some last remnant of an earlier, more savage strain of man, the prototype of the ogre of the fairy story.—Exchange.

Sand For Oil Fires.

Water is not much good in extinguishing burning oil or gasoline. Sand will put out such a blaze much better than water. One of the best things to use in case of fire is the carbon tetrachloride compound which is the basis of the liquid extinguishers on the market. But it is much better to use this compound through the medium of an extinguisher.

Comfort For Traffic Policemen.

BANQUET AND DIE

Society Functions Shorten Lives of Diplomats.

Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, Latest Victim of Over-lavish Hostesses.

When Uncle Joe Cannon remarked that when men dig their graves with their teeth in Washington that elsewhere, he had in mind the fact that dinners and lunches are the dominant, almost the only, social currency of the capital. That's because it lacks the manifold social resources of a commercial metropolis, remarks a New York Sun writer.

In Washington you eat and talk, talk and eat. There's nothing else to do—that is, not much. You meet the same people over and over. And your eating becomes a nonstop grave-digging marathon.

Friends of Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, are quoted by a Washington correspondent as relating that his reported approaching return home is influenced not only by the condition of his eyesight but also by an urgent need of rest from the galling consumption of dinners and lunches.

The British ambassador is always a desirable lion for the table of every Diana hostess, and precedence generally plants him in the seat on her right. The fierce light that beats upon a guest's honor, when it happens to be Sir Auckland Geddes, at a Washington dinner table, prevents him from cultivating the gentle art of dining without eating.

Sir Auckland, according to his friends, became aware some time ago that the round of lunches and dinners was confining him in an undignified, his constitution. Some of them urged him to resort to the polite camouflage of the fork. They pointed to the example of noted Washington diners out, whose habit of dallying negatively with the food set before them is well known.

But the British ambassador felt that his position would not permit him even to seem to make light of the hospitality accorded him, and like a veritable martyr he continued courteously to eat his way through the endless chain of Washington society. His dinner are confined to a rest under English skies will speedily chase away whatever penalty he is suffering from due to his over politeness.

Many a wary American "diner out," happily free from international considerations, practices the finer art of dining without eating. This is an art which the host master entertains is that valiant banqueter, Chauncey M. Depue, whose artful practice it is to eat his usual frugal dinner at home and let enough but wit pass his lips at the festive board.

Wit, or at least an unflinching stream of gas eloquence, and an indispensable asset for those who aspire to dine without eating. Such are the wise birds who are the life of every dinner table fortunate enough to earn the benediction of their presence. Indeed, an experienced hostess would groan in despair at the prospect of a dinner party attended only by persons intent on clearing their throats.

Nevertheless, it would be an unaccountably philosophical hostess that wouldn't feel a twinge of anxiety if she detected the guest of honor surreptitiously passing up her chef's or caterer's choicest dishes, and a plea of poor health from him would make matters worse. Hence the spectacle of a chivalrous diplomat immolating himself on the altar of Washington hospitality.

On the right hand of your hostess it's no easy thing to let one culinary sample after another be wanted, away untraced, if you try to blot through with a brilliant line of talk, fusing your food about with a fork, her eagle eye will detect the subterfuge and she'll think you don't like the supreme de volaille or the grouse from Scotland isn't ripe enough for you.

Further down the table the camouflage would work, however, if you wiped your lips with your serviette once in a while, shaking your shoulder with a laugh at some saty of a neighbor's, or took an eager swig at your glass as if the crevices had made you thirsty. It takes tact, but it can be done.

MURDER TRIAL WAITS ON JURY

Special Venue Ordered to Com- plete Panel to Pass on Case of Alleged Wife Slayer.

The opening act in the trial of Melvin Blackburn, Filer youth, charged with first degree murder of his girl wife was staged Monday in district court here when the process of selecting a jury to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused was begun. The task was not completed when the regular jury panel of 21 persons was exhausted at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and a special venire summoning 15 additional talesmen to appear in court at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, was ordered by the court. The special venire was placed in the hands of Coroner P. J. Grossman to serve.

Eleven jurors were in the box when the panel was exhausted, counsel for the state and defense each having exercised a single pre-emptory challenge. Opening of the trial attracted a large number of spectators and the accused youth, when he entered the courtroom to begin his ordeal, saw in the assemblage many neighbors and acquaintances of his recent high school days. Among them also he saw the parents of the dead girl who was his wife.

Charges Poisoning.
It is the purpose of the prosecution to establish at the trial, its contention that the bride came to her death as a result of poisoning, and that the young man on trial procured the poison and induced his wife to swallow it upon representation that it was harmless and beneficial. The girl's death resulted after several weeks' period of suffering from the effects, the state contends, of the poison.

The case for the state is being conducted by J. W. Taylor, prosecuting attorney; John H. Barnes, assistant prosecuting attorney, and Chester G. A. Divelbiss of Buhl, associate counsel.

The defense is represented by James W. Porter and O. W. Witham.

Mrs. Hortense Perrine entertained with an informal tea on Monday afternoon for a few of the dinner residents of Twin Falls complimentary to Mrs. T. O. Boyd and her daughter, Mrs. Glenn McGinn. Other guests were Mrs. Carl Hahn, Mrs. W. H. Greenhaw, Mrs. Morgan Heap, Mrs. P. F. McAtee, Mrs. Addison T. Smith and Mrs. E. B. Williams.

Mrs. J. D. Kautz entertained at dinner Sunday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Nate Hayden, Mr. and Mrs. John W. D. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mikessell and Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Harstad. Mr. and Mrs. Hayden are from Ponca, Neb., and are visiting their daughter, Mrs. John Smith.

This evening Mrs. W. C. Mitchell and Mrs. Earl Pitt will be hostesses to the P. E. O. Sisterhood at the home of Mrs. Mitchell, 1040 Shoshone street. There will be a regular order of business, and Miss Alice Taylor will give a book review. The supreme convention of the P. E. O. Sisterhood will be held in Seattle, October 2, 4 and 5. Mrs. Frank S. Bell of the Twin Falls chapter, who has been visiting a brother at Cashmere, Wash., will attend the convention.

The Episcopal Guild will have an all-day meeting today at the home of Mrs. F. E. McAtee to sew for the bazaar, which they will have some time in November.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pink of Eleventh avenue east was the scene of a beautiful wedding Sunday afternoon, when Miss Norma Upton, sister of Mrs. Pink, was married to Arthur M. Piper, the Rev. Charles H. Sumner officiating. The living room was decorated in cream and clematis and the couple stood in front of an improvised altar on which was placed two large candelabra holding white candles. The bride wore a handsome gown of broad edged satin lace crepe in two shades of blue, heavily embroidered in steel beads. Little Joanne Upton, niece of the bride, was ring bearer, carrying the ring on a white satin cushion. Immediately after the ceremony a two-course supper was served, the dining room being lovely in a profusion of yellow marigolds, combined with clematis. The reception was witnessed by none but relatives, the groom's mother, Mrs. F. M. Piper, coming from Boston for the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Piper left on the evening train for a visit in Spokane, after which they will reside in Moscow, where Mr. Piper is connected with the university.

Plans for a dinner to be served Tuesday evening, October 9, commemorating the grand matron of the Eastern Star in Idaho, were considered at a meeting of the Star Social club Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. I. H. Taylor on Third avenue east.

BAPTISTS TO MEET HERE

Many Phases of Denomination's Activities to be Considered During Three Days' Session.

Three-day sessions of the thirteenth annual meeting of the Central Idaho Baptist association will be held in Twin Falls beginning Wednesday evening and adjourning Friday evening. Various phases of the activities of the denomination will be considered during the sessions, which will be brought to a close with a rally for the Baptist Young People's union.

An address of welcome to delegates and visitors will be delivered Wednesday evening by the Rev. W. H. Tolliver, pastor of the local church, and the annual sermon will be delivered by the Rev. H. W. Vodra.

"The general index of purchasing power of farm products in terms of other commodities advanced one point during the month to 73. The index of farm prices were unchanged, while the index of industrial prices dropped slightly. The agricultural index, now 73, is at the highest point it has been since April, 1922."

For four days the wreck—declared by E. Flynn, general manager of Burlington lines west of the Missouri river, to be the worst in the history of the Burlington system—has baffled the efforts of skilled wrecking crews to reopen traffic on the line or to recover more than four bodies of the 23 to 40 victims.

The seriousness of the wreck, together with the general flood situation which has tied up three Burlington lines in Wyoming, has brought Vice President E. P. Bracken from Chicago. Mr. Bracken appeared at the scene of the wreck today and said he would make a general inspection before returning to the east.

No further heavy rains were reported in Wyoming today and railroad men were expressing the hope that the disastrous floods were at an end and that traffic conditions would be improved rapidly.

PLACES HIGH MATERIAL VALUE UPON CHURCHES

Methodist Minister Tells Kiwanians Community Would Sacrifice Half Its Wealth if Churches Were Removed.

Property owned by the several Twin Falls churches is worth approximately a quarter of a million dollars, but the material value of the churches to the community is at least half its total valuation or about $2,500,000, members of the Kiwanis club were told by the Rev. C. E. Winning, pastor of the Methodist church, at their regular meeting Monday. Other property values would fall one-half their present total, Mr. Winning said, if the churches were to be removed from the community. Industrial development always follows the church, and never precedes it, the speaker declared.

Championing football as a means of instilling principles of citizenship, Clinton W. Evans, Twin Falls high school coach, told the Kiwanians that, regardless of the present situation precipitated by blacklisting of the Twin Falls team, he would continue to endeavor not only to develop a winning team, but to extend to other boys of the community an influence for good citizenship and good sportsmanship. He disclaimed desire to discuss the present situation with regard to the action of other schools of the district respecting the Twin Falls team, but expressed the hope that the situation would be cleared up speedily, and declared his confidence in the eventual outcome.

Arrangements for a formal dinner to be given at an early date at which wives of the members will be honored guests, were delegated to the reception committee of which E. J. Orlander is chairman.

Odd Coincidence.
Lightning struck a dramatic part during a meeting held by a revivalist preacher, who had just asked his audience: "If lightning should strike this tent tonight, how many would be ready for it?" There was then a flash of lightning which killed two men on the platform, injured the preacher dangerously and knocked down a number of the listeners.

At Grade Crossings

He Who Hesitates Is Safe

Self-preservation would seem to be nature's last law. For in the last five years, 9,101 persons (almost twice the number killed at the Battle of Gettysburg) have sacrificed their lives at highway grade crossings in the United States through failure to stop, look and listen.

Train operation is safe because railway employees are carefully trained. Except in a few states, automobile drivers are turned loose without even an examination.

Trains and street cars stop before crossing another railroad where there is no interlocking device. If it be necessary for them, how much more necessary for the auto driver! For most automobiles carry loved ones and friends of the driver.

Yet eight out of ten automobile drivers race across railroad tracks without stopping and looking in either direction. Many motorists disregard the watchman's stop signal. Running through and breaking crossing gates is a common occurrence. One-fifty of all train accidents involving automobiles are caused by the automobile running into the side of the train.

The railroads maintain warning signs and require engineers to whistle and ring the bell for every crossing. Highways are being relocated to eliminate crossings. But railroads are powerless to prevent injury to occupants of automobiles who fail to exercise care for their own safety.

It has been suggested that all grade crossings be removed. There are 250,000 in the United States and at $50,000 each it would cost $12,500,000,000—and take at least thirty years—to remove them. This expense is about two-thirds of the value of all the railroads of the country, as tentatively found by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and neither the railroads nor the municipalities have the money. The "Stop, Look and Listen" rule can be followed now without cost. It takes a train but a few seconds to pass over a crossing. Surely no one would sacrifice his life and his loved ones to save a few seconds!

Lives of rail passengers are imperiled by grade crossing accidents. Recently several trains on eastern roads have been derailed by striking motor vehicles, and engineers and passengers have been killed. (Grade crossing accidents would absolutely cease if every automobile driver would stop, look and listen at every grade crossing.)

Won't you do it?

GLORY BE!

As near as may be judged, from all sources of information available, little if any permanent damage has been done to the bean crop...

In places there will be discoloration, in others some pods will split, due to a too rapid drying but with at least a third of the crop safely harvested...

This is a matter for warm congratulation. As never before, the bean crop this year is needed, by the men who grow it and by all the rest of the people who, directly or indirectly, benefit by the growing.

FREIGHT CARS ON HIGHWAYS

It may be necessary, one of these times, to make a definite division of the freight-hauling business between motor vehicles and railroads.

The railroads, perhaps, deserve no special sympathy in this connection. They can worry along, and the motor trucks are often feeders for them.

The main consideration, however, is always the public welfare. And the public is less interested in filling railroad freight cars than it is in keeping freight cars off the public roads.

Thousands of motor trucks now operating on American highways are in truth little less than freight cars. They are not only wearing out expensive pavements, they are seriously impeding traffic, by their huge bulk, on country roads and city streets alike.

"Well, dad's prejudiced against him—or, no, he ain't either. He likes Jim. He's just prejudiced against giving up his old notions. No, he ain't neither—I guess he's only prejudiced against seeming to give up some old notions he seemed to have once. And the kids in school would be prejudiced right anyhow."

"Paw says he'll be on hand promptly," said Raymond. "But he had to be pawed right much. Paw's proud—and he can't read."

"Sometimes I think the more people read the less sense they've got," said Newton. "I wish I could get dad up! I wish I could get makabek, and make him go for the doctor!"

The boys crossed the ridge to the wooded valley in which nestled the Simms cabin. They found Mrs. Simms greatly exercised in her mind because young McGeehee had been found playing with some blue vitriol used by Raymond in his school work on the treatment of seed potatoes for scab.

"His hands was all blue with it," said she. "Do you reckon, Mr. Newton, that it'll poison him?"

"Did he swallow any of it?" asked Newton. "No," said McGeehee scornfully. "Newton reassured Mrs. Simms, and went away pensive. Jim Irwin's method had already accomplished much in preparing Newton and Raymond for citizenship. He had shown them the fact that voting really has some reverence to life. At present, however, the new wine in the old bottles was causing Newton to forget his dilapidated, and his respect for his father. He wished he could lock him up in the barn so he couldn't go to the school evening. He wished he could become ill—or poisoned; with blue vitriol or something—so his father would be obliged to go for a doctor. He wished—well, why couldn't he get sick? Newton mended his pace, and looked happier.

asked Mrs. Bronson at breakfast: "I'm going at four o'clock," said Ezra. "And I don't want to hear any more from any one—looking at Newton—about the election. It's none of the business of the women an' boys."

Newton took this reproach in an ungenerously subjective spirit. In fact, he exhibited his very best side to the family that morning, like one going on a long journey, or about to be married off, or engaged in some deep dark plot.

"I s'pose you're off from the stove at the sight of a flock of ducks four miles off as usual," stated Mr. Bronson challengingly. "I thought," said Newton, "that I'd get a lot of rabbit bait ready for the pocket-poppers in the lower meadow. They'll be throwing up their mounds by the first of April."

"Not them," said Mr. Bronson, somewhat mollified, "not before May. Where'd you get the rabbit bait?" "We learned it in school," answered Newton. "Jim had me study a ballistics on the control and eradication of pocket-poppers. You use radium with strychnine in 'em—and it tells bow."

"Some fool notion, I s'pose," said Mr. Bronson, rising. "But go ahead if you're careful about handling the strychnine."

Newton spent the time from twelve-thirty to half after two in watching the clock; and twenty minutes to three found him in the woodshed, pen-knife in hand, a small vial of strychnine crystal before him, a saucer of raisins at his right hand, and another exactly like it partially filled with gopher bait—raisins into which a minute crystal of strychnine had been inserted on the point of the knife.

At three-thirty Newton went into the house and lay down on the horse-hair sofa, saying to his mother that he felt kind of funny and thought he'd lie down a while. At three-forty he heard his father's voice in the kitchen, and knew that his sire was preparing to start for the scene of battle.

A groan issued from Newton's lips—a groaning groan. But his father's voice from the kitchen door betrayed no agitation. He was scolding the horses as they stood tied to the hitching-post, in tones that showed no knowledge of his son's distressed means.

"What's the matter?" His father's voice was stern as well as full of anxiety. "What's the matter, boy?" "Oh! I'm nervous. Oh! I'm Oh!" "Newtie, Newtie!" cried his mother, "where are you in pain? Tell mother, Newtie!"

"Oh," groaned Newtie, relaxing, "I feel awful!" "What you been eating?" interrogated his father. "Nothing," replied Newton. "I saw you eatin' dinner," said his father.

Again Newton was convulsed by strong spasms, and again his groans filled the hearts of his parents with terror. "That's all 'v's eaten," said he when his spasms had passed, "except a few raisins. I was putting strychnine in 'em."

"Oh, heavens!" cried his mother. "He's poisoned! Drive for the doctor, Ezra! Drive!" Mr. Bronson forgot all about the election—forgot everything save anti-dotes of speed. His legs moved toward the door. As he passed out, he shouldered him an emetic! He tore the hitching straps from the post, jumped into the buggy, gave the spoked horses their heads, and fled toward town. Just at the town limits, he met the doctor in Sheriff Dilly's automobile, the steed himself at the steering wheel. Mr. Bronson signaled them to stop, ignoring the fact that they were making similar signs to him.

"We're just starting for your place," said the doctor. "Your wife got me on the phone." "Thank you any time away on me, Drive!" "Get in here, Ez," said the sheriff. "Doc knows how to drive, and I'll come on with your team. They need a slow drive to cool 'em off."

"Why didn't you phone me?" asked the doctor. "Never thought of it," replied Bronson. "I ain't had the phone only a few years. Drive faster!" "I want to get there, or I would," answered the doctor. "Don't worry. From what your wife told me over the phone I don't believe the boys' eaten any more strychnine than I have—and probably not so much."

"He was alive, then?" "Alive and making an argument against taking the emetic," replied the doctor. "But I guess she got it down him."

Thus reassured, Mr. Bronson was calm, even if somewhat tragic in calmness, when he entered the death chamber with the doctor. Newton was sitting up, his eyes wet, and his face pale. His mother had won the argument, and Newton had lost his dinner. Haakon Peterson occupied an armchair.

"What's all this?" asked the doctor. "How are you feeling, Newty? Any pain?" "I'm all right," said Newton. "Don't give me any more of that nasty stuff!" "No," said the doctor, "but if you don't tell me just what you've been eating, and doing, and pulling off an 'emetic' use this"—and the doctor exhibited a huge stomach pump.

"What'll you do with that?" asked Newton faintly.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT MARKET FOLLOWS ADVANCED CORN PRICES

Reports of Heavy Damage to Corn From Frosts in Middle West Leads to More Favorable Tone.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—With corn bearing to new high price records for the season, wheat and oats today developed fresh strength. Reports that frost in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa had done direct damage equal to 70,000,000 bushels, exclusive of reduction in quality was the chief bullish influence affecting all grain.

Wheat, closed firm, 3-4 to 1 3/8- to 1 1/2- net higher, December $1.08 5/8 to 1.09 5/8 to 3/4, May $1.10 3/4 to 1.10 5/8, 5-8, 3-4. Corn, new market 1 3/4- to 5 8-9, up 4 to 1 1/8 to 1 1/4- and provisions varying from 2c decline to 1/2c advance.

At first the wheat market showed a downward tendency, owing to lower quotations at Liverpool and because of unsettled conditions in Germany. But notable strength which soon developed in the corn market, however, brought about a quick reversal of the action of wheat. Buying of corn had been persistent from the outset, and had been more or less stimulated because of continued wet weather west. It was a further bullish estimate in the public mind, though, that corn values began to jump in earnest. Throughout the rumor of the day the demand for corn was on a broad scale, with offerings small, and may have been above any previous top for that month this season.

Speculation in the wheat market led to only a moderate reaction for the day's best prices. Free buying on the part of commission houses absorbed the offerings. Meanwhile, talk of likelihood of government aid to wheat growers continued and absence of export business apparently failed to make much impression.

Shippers of corn did prices of cash corn up in competition with futures. No. 2 yellow sold as high as 94-1c a bushel, the topmost quotation yet in 1923. Oats, like corn, reached new high price records for the season.

Provisions were firmer with hogs and grain.

TWIN FALLS MARKETS

These prices are obtained daily at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and are intended to cover only the average of prices. Where certain dealers for short periods offer more than the quoted price in the public, it is made to include such quotations. Quotations are offered merely as a guide to producers and should not be accepted as reflecting extremes of either high or low prices.

Butterfat and Eggs

Sweet cream dropped 4 cents and butterfat 3 cents at the shipping stations Monday, while the price of eggs went up 1 cent a dozen at the same places. Poultry were off 10 to 15 cents on the local market Monday, 50 to 60 cents being the best offer.

Beans and wheat went over the weekend without any change as also did the sugar market.

The livestock market is in a few cents lower on some classes. Heavy hogs were quoted at 54 to 55; medium weight, 54 to 60 cents lower, while prime lights are off 25 cents. Cows are listed 50 cents lower than last week's high, and lambs are off 81 a hundred.

The raw sugar futures market was cooler under scattered quotations by local interest and commission houses, prompted by the more liberal offerings of full duty sugars and reports that foreign refined sugar is being offered here at below refiners' list quotations. Final prices were at about the low of the day and five to twenty-six points below the close of last week. Closing: October, $5.50; December, $4.85; March, $3.88; May, $3.95.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged with fine granulated quoted from $9 to 9.50. Business, however, was light, and second hand sugars were available below refiners' list quotations. It was reported that foreign refined sugar was being offered in this market for late October shipment at prices well below those of American refined.

There were sales of five lots in refined futures for November delivery at $8.40. Radio Wave Fourteen Miles Long—Long wave lengths are used to cover great distance, such as transatlantic communication, chiefly because absorption of energy is much less on long wave lengths than on short ones. The big station near Bordeaux, France, sets a wave of either in vibration that is 2,000 meters in length, or approximately fourteen miles from crest to crest. When Broadcast Central on Long Island, flashes a message 4,000 miles across the sea to Germany, the wave length used is about twelve miles long. Station NBS at Annapolis, broadcasts its signals from 310 to 4.4 m. daily, has a wave length equivalent to about ten and a half miles. Fox, Nauem, Germany, radiates a wave approximately eight miles long.

Save His Money. An Irishman booked for the other day, but after a word with the conductor made for the door again. An inspector who happened to be on the car said to him: "Surely you don't want to get off again so soon, and besides, you haven't paid your fare." "Oh want to go to Southern street," said the Irishman, "and the conductor says there isn't a such place." "Well, there isn't," answered the inspector. "Then, faith, an' pwah's the good of going there, then?"

REDUCED WATER CHARGE APPLIED TO PAST MONTHS

Municipal Commission Indicates Purpose to Allow Credit on Subsequent Bills for Excess Paid Heretofore.

Reduced water rates effective October 1, will be extended in effect to the months of August and September. It was indicated in discussion by members of Twin Falls municipal commission at a regular meeting Monday evening.

Collection already has been made on the charges for August and bills charged in September were not collected. The water was sent out Monday. Collection will be made of the charges for both months. It was indicated; but credit for the excess amount paid will be allowed on bills for the coming month.

Litigation Reviewed. Discussion of credit to be allowed consumers for payments on the higher rates during a report made to the commission by A. H. Meyer, city attorney, and Mayor Shad L. Hodgin, as to developments in the suit brought by J. D. Tucker, former mayor, to obtain completion of the water works distribution system by installation of additional water meters. In this action, the commissioners were told, indications point to a settlement outside of court with favorable prospect for eventual dismissal of the suit.

Appointment of Inspectors. Appointment of W. R. Ryburn, street and water works superintendent, to serve also as sanitary inspector, with a salary increase of $10 monthly, was approved by the commission.

Complaint made against impounding of logs in a building in the south quarter of town was brought to the attention of the commission by the mayor, and it was ordered that the building be removed at once to the municipal dump ground.

Removal of weeds and other improvement work on a triangular tract at the end of Fourth avenue west, held under grant by the municipality as a city park, to be done at once, according to assurance given by Dr. W. Dwight, parks commissioner, when the situation existing on the premises was brought to the attention of the commission.

The commission received and ordered filed the monthly reports of the chief of police and meat and dairy inspector, and ordered payment in payment of claims against the city as follows: General fund, $2,056.71; street sprinkling, $324.31; street lighting, $1056.00; public library, $500.

MacKnight, auto-suggestion wizard, opening a return engagement in Twin Falls, drew a capacity house at the Idaho theatre Monday night. Personal sustenance enough to draw in crowds before crowds began to be turned away, evidenced their appreciation of the performance with bursts of hilarity, as one entertaining act followed another. MacKnight announced that in connection with Tuesday evening's performance he would give the "big stretcher cure," remedy based upon mental suggestion which, he said, effectively removes the desire for the smoke. He will close his engagement here Wednesday night.

Perfect Babies at County Fair Named

Idaho Director of Public Health Finds 26 Per Cent of Infants Examined Measure Up.

The maternity conference and baby clinic was one of the most popular departments of the Twin Falls county fair is evidenced by the report of Dr. W. F. Almond, Idaho director of public health, to Mrs. T. D. Connor, superintendent of that department of the fair.

About 25 per cent of the more than 200 babies examined during the two-day clinic measured up to the full standard set for perfect babies. It was some job to examine scientifically and give expert advice as to care and diet for so many applicants in the time allotted for the task but Dr. Almond assisted by the following able physicians and nurses, was equal to the task.

Dr. Almond was assisted by his able director, Mrs. S. J. Ewen and the following physicians and nurses: Doctors Alexander, Scott, Passer, Leete and Weaver of Twin Falls; Doctor Davis of Kimberly, and Dr. Newberry of Filer.

Nurses: Mrs. Robert Haller, Mrs. Robert Rogerson, Mrs. Terry Prater, Mrs. Minnie Farrar, Miss Dohi, Miss Suchan, Miss Rudy of Twin Falls; A. A. T. MRS. G. I. GOULD SR. NOT TO MARRY STEPSON

Mrs. G. I. Gould Sr. & George W. Gould.

A thrilling romance in a romantic family has been spiced by the denial, in New York, by Mrs. George J. Gould, Sr., widow of George J. Gould, Jr., her stepson, that she and her late husband were great friends—that it all, said the widow. All the Goulds have married for love. George Gould married Edith Klingdon, a noted theatrical star, against his father's wishes. Six months after she dropped dead while playing golf with him he married Eugenie Guinevere Sinclair and later admitted he was the father of her children. Every one of his sons, including George, Jr., who is now divorced, eloped against his wishes.

Belligerous Basques Stage Warm Melee

One in Hospital With Bullet in Lung, and Three Others in Jail as Result of Fracas.

With a bullet in his right lung, Modesto Arriza is a patient in the county general hospital, and Jose Basalucha, 26, Domingo Abarrilo, 22, and Antonio Sloan, 24, are prisoners in the county jail charged by the police with assault with deadly weapons as a result of a melee staged early Sunday afternoon in the Pacific hotel here.

Arriza's condition was reported Monday evening to be favorable. All of the principals to the fracas are Spaniards heretofore employed by the Owyhee Sheep company. The melee here is said to be the outgrowth of an old standing grudge between Basalucha on the one hand, and Arriza, Abarrilo and Sloan on the other. The four men had recently arrived in Twin Falls when the trouble occurred.

According to statement made to the police by an eye witness, Basalucha was seated at the hotel lunch counter when the matter for which he appeared on the scene. Apparently without provocation the three opened an attack upon Basalucha, seizing and hurling dishes and other convenient missiles. During the onslaught Arriza is said to have drawn his gun, the weapon with which he was shot, a .25-caliber automatic pistol. The weapon was seized by Basalucha and in a struggle for its possession, it was discharged, the bullet taking effect in Arriza's chest.

Police were summoned to the scene, and the arrest was made by Patrolman William Taylor. The injured man was sent to the hospital and the others delivered into the custody of the sheriff.

CAMPAIGN TO LICENSE DOGS SHOWS RESULT

Police Report Accounts for Disappearance of 23 Animals During Month Just Closed.

Results of the police campaign for rigid enforcement of the ordinance requiring licensing of dogs were evidenced in the report for the month of September submitted Monday to the Twin Falls city commission by P. O. Herlman, chief of police. The report shows that there were 23 dogs impounded during the month; 21 of them having been destroyed and two sold. Quilty arrests were made by the police during the month, and fines in the sum of $211.50 were collected. Twenty-nine men were furnished to prisoners in the city jail.

Violation of traffic ordinances was the occasion for 14 arrests; drunkenness, and misdemeanors, under state laws, 11.

Warnings were given in 18 cases of minor violations of traffic ordinances, two violations of sanitation ordinances, and 18 violations of various other ordinances.

Investigations were made in connection with 20 complaints of various kinds. Two bicycles and one automobile were stolen during the month, according to the police records, all being recovered later.

LAYS CLAIM TO CHILDREN.

Claim for the custody of four minor children is asserted by Henry E. O'Neal in an amended answer and cross-complaint filed in an action brought in district court here by his wife, Lizzie O'Neal, for decree of divorce. O'Neal, in his answer, denies his wife's allegations of cruelty, desertion and non-support, and in his cross-complaint he charges his wife, within recent years, has become infatuated with three other men.
