HOME-RUN DRIVE WINS OPENER FOR NATIONALS

First Game in Annual World Baseball Championship Tilt Goes to Giants, 5 to 4, by Spectacular Home-Run in Ninth with Two Out; Record Crowd Witnesses Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Stengel's hit in a failed setting of the diamond—the ninth inning, with the score tied, two out and the count "two and three," Casey Stengel blasted his way into baseball's hall of fame today with a home-run drive that gave the New York Giants a spectacular victory over the Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opening clash of the 1923 world's series.

That mighty and heroic blow by Stengel, who came back after being relegated to baseball's scrapheap not long ago, ended a gripping, pulse-throbbing drama, a thrilling battle in which the wits, decisive punch and brilliant defense of the Giants triumphed over the courage, brawn and fighting spirit of the Yankees.

Hard-Fought Battle The Giants, though victorious, came out of the initial fray with but a slight margin in their favor.

January 4 Date Set for Death by Hanging of Man Who Murdered Laborer to Give Wife Insurance

STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 10 (AP)—Death on the gallows at Folsom state prison, Friday, January 4, was the sentence imposed today on Alexander Kels, a San Francisco, Cal., butcher, who confessed to the murder of Edward Meservey, known also as Ed Messer, aged itinerant laborer on a leased pasture of the Kels ranch in the prosperous Lodi district, September 12.

Kels sagged slightly when the words of the extreme judgment broke the heart of the convicted murderer. He recovered himself at once, however, and when it was over sat down with the despairing slump that has become characteristic of his when he is hunted him out and drew from him the lurid story of the shooting and burning of the aged wanderer.

laid a dozen deputies entered the court room walking slowly, almost haltingly between the banks of hundreds of keenly curious spectators, many of their friends of years standing.

After the sentence Mr. G. Woodward, assistant district attorney, issued a statement saying that after the prisoner's examination by the court Monday, Deputy Sheriff J. J. DeLello and Frank S. Marnell, of the Stockton state hospital, subjected Kels to a physical and mental examination to determine if he was any trace of insanity or any bodily defect that might have brought on a mental lapse of any kind.

GOVERNMENT MONOPOLY ON BANKING IS URGED

Federal Reserve Board is Buf-feted About by Witnesses at Congressional Committee's Investigation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—A government monopoly in banking was urged today by Lester Starr, representing the National Commission of the Farmer-Labor party, should be established before a joint congressional committee investigating enlargement of the federal reserve system.

Discussion Is Spurred Mr. Starr was one of the several witnesses who alternately defended and criticized the methods of the reserve board.

Mr. Starr was one of the several witnesses who alternately defended and criticized the methods of the reserve board.

Non-member banks, Mr. Jones asserted, are not interested in the federal reserve and generally believe it to be against the best interests of the country to develop a unified banking machine.

Denying that recent legislation had resulted in the establishment of a real credit system, Mr. Jones urged that congress establish a banking system for agriculture as it had for commercial business.

COOPERATION BETWEEN THE FEDERAL AND STATE BANKS MUST BE OBTAINED TO STABILIZE AND STANDARDIZE THE BANKING BUSINESS, Frederick A. Dolan, director of the federal reserve bank at Richmond, Va., told the committee.

DEATHS CAUSED BY EXPLOSION IN SUBMARINE

Three Killed and Five Injured when Short Circuit Ignites Gas Tanks in United States Vessel

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 10 (AP)—Three men were killed and five injured in an explosion on the United States submarine S-37 last night.

The explosion occurred in the after compartment of the submarine as the lay off San Pedro breakwater. Naval officers said a short circuit had probably ignited hydrogen gas.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET AT DENVER

G. O. P. Leaders Predict Convention Next Year May Be Held in Western City

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 10 (AP)—That the 1924 national convention of the G. O. P. will be held in Denver as the possible site of the regional republican convention opening here tomorrow for a two-day session, is the prediction of Rocky mountain republican leaders gathered here for the conference.

Party leaders from six states will attend. Although John P. Adams, republican national committeeman, who is here for the conference, has refused to commit himself definitely on the subject, he is known to have suggested Denver as a possible meeting place several months ago.

Consulting upon the present national administration, Mr. Adams said that he could not comment too strongly on President Coolidge's continuance of the policies laid down by the late President Harding and his cabinet.

Section of the country he has visited speaks strongly republican sentiment. Mr. Adams pointed out that "farmer, laborer and merchant alike know that we have traveled a distance from 18-cent corn, 5,000,000 unemployed and the gloomy business outlook of two years ago."

Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, chairman of the republican committee's women's division, in a decided strain against proposed modification of the Volstead act, said today: "Washington has tried to make every man a drunkard; they have seen too clearly the temptations in liquor for their children to want to bring back light wine and beer."

THE TRAGEDY TOOK PLACE IN THE HOME OF Mrs. W. O. Strangor, where all of the principals of the affair resided and that are so far from being what a fullille of pistol shots ran out and both Mr. and Mrs. Williams fell. Coleman then calmly walked upstairs, loaded himself in and shot himself.

Among other facts was found a paper which a police officer began reading. Before he had read two lines, Coroner E. J. Taylor clenched the officer and took him by the collar, refusing to divulge its contents.

More Whiskey Glasses in Use Now Than Before Prohibition, Claims Representative at Portland Meet

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10 (AP)—More whiskey glasses are being made now than in pre-prohibition days, "and they are not for ornaments," declared William P. Clark of the Flint Glassworkers' union, in a debate today at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, preceding action reaffirming the federation's former declaration for modification of the Volstead act.

Clark said that when prohibition went into effect, the manufacture of beer glasses dropped off, but that whiskey glass making increased by leaps and bounds.

Steve Sumner of the Chicago Milk Wagon Association declared milk bottles were hard to obtain. "Now," he added, "I learn the reason—they are making whiskey glasses instead of milk bottles."

Delegate John J. Kearney of Boston interrupted Sumner to ask: "Is it because a man gets drunk he is no good, or because he's no good that he gets drunk?" Sumner failed to answer the question.

Oppose Volstead Act. "It is our belief," it continued, "that the efforts at enforcement of the Volstead act have produced results that are so far from being what it was reasonably expected might follow the adoption of the Volstead act that we feel warranted in opposing the responsible modification of the 18th amendment which is being greatly sought by the people."

The declaration was made to "correct an impression sought to be created by the advocates of the Volstead act that former action of the federation was not a fair statement of the attitude of affiliated organized labor-voles."

Oppose Volstead Act. "It is our belief," it continued, "that the efforts at enforcement of the Volstead act have produced results that are so far from being what it was reasonably expected might follow the adoption of the Volstead act that we feel warranted in opposing the responsible modification of the 18th amendment which is being greatly sought by the people."

The open saloon has been supplanted by the "speakeasy" and instead of thousands of vendors of liquor are now being unnumbered multitudes of bootleggers who dispense their vile and poisonous liquors in secrecy.

NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY NEARS END OF HEARING

Testimony of One Witness and Brief Arguments by Defense Only Remain to Finish Work of Disaster Probe

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—But for the testimony of one witness and brief arguments by defense, the naval court investigation of the Honda destroyer disaster was over today.

Captain W. G. Roper, chief of destroyer division thirty-two, which was rearmost of three divisions composing the eleventh squadron when it swerved off its course September 8, will take the stand tomorrow as the last witness for the government. It was announced after which counsel for 13 naval officer defendants are expected to make brief arguments.

Barring sensational developments in the cross examination of Captain Roper it was predicted, the naval court tomorrow will make the end of the inquiry.

In today's session after defense counsel had introduced several corroborative witnesses and then rested, the court of inquiry circled back to a review of testimony by the first witness called to the stand when its session opened more than three weeks ago.

The witness, Lieutenant Commander Laurence Wild, resumed the stand to reiterate that radio communication in the eleventh squadron was maintained at high efficiency while he was squadron communication officer. He added that of all the squadrons in the destroyer force the eleventh had made the best record for rapidity of communications.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 10 (AP)—Robert H. Braun, chief of Allegheny county detectives, and a squad of operatives were tonight patrolling Slows township prepared to meet any emergency that might arise in consequence of the action of a self-appointed "vigilance committee" in ordering negroes from the district.
The negroes who left were known as "snowbirds," most of whom were employed in steel mills. The old-time negro residents, police said, had not been molested.
The situation arose in Slows township after the killing Saturday night of Thomas H. Rowland, 73, and the wounding of his 11-year-old granddaughter by a negro who escaped.

SKIPPERS SHOW THEIR PROWESS IN FIRST GAME

Giants Twirlers Pitched 133 Balls In Opening Game

Analysis Shows 94 Were Called by Umpire Evans; Joe Bush Hurlled 83 Over Plate

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—There were exactly 240 pitched balls in the opening game of the Giants-Yankees world's series at the Yankee stadium today, of which 133 were delivered by Giant twirlers and 116 by Yankee slabs.

Analysis shows 94 of the 240 pitched balls were called balls by Umpire Billy Evans; 59 were called strikes; 25 were foul strikes; 9 were fouls; 24 resulted in infield outs; 15 resulted in outfield outs, and 20 were hit safely by the rival batsmen.

The individual records of the four pitchers who worked during the game follow: Jack Watson of the Giants pitched 33 balls in the two and one-third innings he faced the Yankees; 14 of these numbers were called balls; 11 called strikes; 4 foul strikes; 4 infield outs; 1 outfield out; 4 safe hits.

Bill Ryan of the Giants pitched 95 balls in the six and two-thirds innings he faced the Yankees. Thirty-seven were called balls; 19 called strikes; 15 foul strikes; 3 fouls; 7 infield outs; 9 outfield outs; 8 safe hits.

Joe Bush of the Yankees pitched 83 balls in the six and two-thirds innings he faced the Giants. Thirty-one were called balls; 22 called strikes; 6 foul strikes; 5 fouls; 9 infield outs; 6 outfield outs and 4 safe hits.

HOME-RUN WINS FOR NATIONALS

story of previous defeats the Giants have administered to the Yankees, the triumph of a machine guided by the "master mind" of John Joseph McGraw over brilliant individual resistance. As a team the Yankees today pitched better than at any time since their brief days of ascendancy in the 1921 series, but at the critical moments they were out-thought, out-generated and out-played.

Walter Hoyt, youthful twirling star of the Yankees and hero of the 1921 series, opposed John Watson, whose selection by McGraw came as a last-minute surprise in the opening moment of the game, but neither lasted long. Watson, the veteran, was unsteady from the start, and after being bombarded for four hits and three runs in the first two innings was withdrawn when an array of Giant reserves was rushed into the attack in the third inning. He was relieved by "Boss" Egan, a younger star, who stayed the limit and received credit for the victory, though he was saved on many an occasion only by the spectacular character of his defense.

Hoyt after an impressive start in the first two innings, was shelved into retirement in the third-inning, after the Giants had tied the score. Bush and his red flannel shirt came to the rescue and "Bullet Joe," after being found for a fourth run in that inning, settled down brilliantly. He held the Yankees to a hit in the remaining six innings, allowing only one runner to get as far as second base until the ninth, when Stengel came through with the winning punch.

Albion Puts Strong Eleven into Field

Brulins' Opponents in Next Game Improving Opportunity with Heavy Practice

That Albion Normal will bring a strong team here next Friday is admitted by everyone. The showing they made against the strong Hurley team last Friday is an indication that they have a battling aggregation. Leo Aman of Eiler, who is well remembered around here for his cool head and smart work in the backfield, is one of their mainstays. Neilson, last year's fullback, is another mighty good man, while Spaulding and Alberson at halves are showing exceptionally well.

According to advice from Albion, the team has been indulging in heavy practices all this week overcoming the defects that were shown up in the Hurley game. Scrimmages have been held with the high school team and a good deal of heavy drilling of line and backfield men has been the order of the day. With six letter men back from last year, there was a good basis to build on and the team should be in midseason form when they meet Twin Falls. The team is not heavy, considered as a college team, but make up in speed what they lack in weight.

Continued fair weather resulting in a dry field would probably give the spectators a chance to see some fast football. But if the field is heavy the Bruins will have some advantage. A probable line-up of the two teams is as follows: Albion Normal—Bonham, center; Pomeroy and Martin, guards; Wright and Naiting, tackles; Black and Simmons, ends; Aman, quarter; Neilson, fullback; Spaulding, right half; Alberson, left half. Twin Falls—Swim, center; Frazelle and Emphrey, guards; Lohser and Farrar, or Cochran, or Christoferson, tackles; Hodgins, Cron and Muscell, ends; Mose and Jenks, halves; Timm, fullback; and Alvord or Cron, quarter.

"There is a floating island in the sea where no explorer has set foot, or, setting foot, has returned to tell of what he saw. . . . On the decks of great ships, in the long watches of the night, when the trade winds roar through the rigging and the waves purr about the bows, the sailor tells strange tales of the spot where ruined ships, raked derelicts from all the square miles of ocean, form a great island, ever changing, ever wasting, yet everlasting; where, in the ballroom of the Atlantic, draped around with encircling weed, they drone away their lives, balancing slowly in a mighty tourbillon to the rhythm of the Gulf Stream."

TOO MANY PUBLIC SERVANTS

The discovery, made a few months ago, that one dollar out of every six earned by Americans goes to pay for government expenses, is followed by a still more startling revelation. The public employes on our federal, state and municipal payrolls, the Census Bureau reports, aggregate two million, seven hundred thousand.

To the obvious question whether the public service obtained is worth one-sixth of the national income is now added the question whether this vast army of public servants is necessary.

Few people who have ever observed the ways of public service will say yes to that question. The majority of office-holders, taken as individuals, may be said to earn their salaries. That is to say, given any particular public job, the incumbent probably devotes as much time and effort to the job as the salary will cover.

Private enterprise, of the type represented in many of our big corporations, might do the same work with a million less employes, by organizing and systematizing the work better and speeding up the processes.

A LEAKY OCEAN BOTTOM

Some "scientists" have been explaining that Japanese earthquakes, and perhaps earthquakes in general, are caused by holes in the bottom of the sea. The idea seems to be that the water pours through the ocean's leaky bottom, thereby coming into contact with hot rocks and turning to steam, whose tremendous pressure starts volcanic action and big earth movements.

The same learned gentlemen, if they were to turn their attention from seismography to navigation, would probably get bilge water out of a ship by boring a hole in the bottom for the water to drain out.

How the ocean could leak out through its bottom is certainly beyond the understanding of anybody who has a common-sense knowledge of water pressure.

The land is higher than the sea. Land water drains into the sea—above-ground and underground. The pressure of a column of water, as every high school student learns, is determined not by its volume but by its height.

True, salt water is heavier than fresh water. But most of the deep water underground is salt, and there is nearly always additional pressure due to the higher source of the underground water, in the land above sea level.

Thus, if there is a hole in the bottom of the sea, we should expect water to leak up through it, rather than down, just as it does in the bottom of a boat. And that is exactly what sailors often do find—springs pouring up from the sea bottom, some of them salt and some fresh.

HEALTHY OBSERVERS: Under the auspices of the health section of the League of Nations, a large group of representatives from France, England, Italy, Russia, Poland, Spain, Holland, Belgium, Greece, Jugoslavia, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Mexico, San Salvador, Brazil, Chile and Canada is now in this country following a course of study and observation of public health organization and administration.

At the close of the course the delegates will visit large and small cities in various states to observe health work. Before they return to their own lands these sanitarians will gather in Washington, D. C., for a final conference and review of their observations.

Far from perfect as is our public health work in this country, it is vastly ahead of the older days of ignorance and indifference, and it is steadily changing for the better. It will be helpful to know the final opinion of these health visitors concerning the points in which we are ahead of their countries and also the points about which we might learn from them.

The BROWN MOUSE By HERBERT QUICK (Copyright by The Bobbs-Merrill Company)

Two figures emerged from the schoolhouse door, and as he turned toward his home after his pastoral calls on the horses, they overtook him. They were the figures of Newton Bronson and the county superintendent of schools.

"Dad wants you back there again," said Newton.

"What for?" inquired Jim.

"You silly boy," said Jennie, "you talked about the good of the schools all of the time, and never said a word about your own salary! What do you want? They want to know!"

"Oh!" exclaimed Jim in the manner of one who suddenly remembers that he has forgotten his umbrella or his pocket-knife. "I forgot all about it. I haven't thought about that at all, Jennie!"

"Jim," said she, "you need a guardian!"

"I know it, Jennie," said he, "and I know who I want. I want—"

"Please come back," said Jennie, "and tell papa how much you're going to hold the district up for."

"You run back," said Jim to Newton, "and tell your father that whatever is right in the way of salary will be satisfactory to me. I leave that to the people."

Newton darted off, leaving the schoolmaster standing in the road with the county superintendent.

"I can't go back there!" said Jim. "I'm proud of you, Jim," said Jennie. "This community has found its master. They can't do all you ask now, nor very soon; but finally they'll do just as you want them to do. And, Jim, I want to say that I've been the biggest little fool in the county!"

CHAPTER XX

Theory and Practice. Superintendent Jennie sat at her desk in a very satisfactory frame of mind. In the first place the court was to convene on the following Monday, so that her one-room office was not to be hers for a few days. To Wilbur Smythe, who did her the honor of calling occasionally, she remarked that if they didn't soon build the new courthouse so as to give her such accommodations as her office really needed, they might take their old office—so there!

"Fair woman," said Wilbur, as he creased his Prince Albert in a parting bow, "should adorn the home!"

"Boy!" sneered Jennie, rather pleased, all the same, "suppose she isn't fair, and hasn't any home!"

This question of adorning a home was no nearer settlement with Jennie than it had ever been, though increasingly a matter of speculation.

There were two or three men—rather good catches, too—who, if they were encouraged—but what was there to any of them? This is what Jennie asked her paper-weight as she placed it on a pile of unfinished examination papers. And the paper-weight echoed, "Not a thing out of the ordinary!" And then, said Jennie, "Well, you little simpleton, who said what are you so out of the ordinary that you should sneer at Wilbur Smythe and Beckman Fifield and such men?" And echo answered, "What?"—and then the mail-carrier came in.

Down near the bottom of the pile she found this letter, signed by a southern state superintendent of schools, but dated at Kirkville, Missouri:

"I am a member of a party of southern educators—state superintendents in the main—on tour of the country to see what we can find of an instructive nature in rural school work. Professor Withers of Ames suggests that we visit your schools, and especially the rural school taught by a young man named Irwin, and I wonder if you will be free on next Monday morning. If we come to your office, to direct us to the place? If you could accompany us on the trip, and perhaps show us some of your other excellent schools, we should be honored and pleased."

And then came the shock—a party of state officials were coming into the county to study Jim Irwin's school! They would never come to study Wilbur Smythe's law practice—never in the world—or her work as county superintendent—never—and Jim was getting seventy-five dollars a month, and had a mother to support. But there could be no doubt that there was something to Jim—the man was out of the ordinary. And wasn't that just what she had been looking for in her mind?

Jennie wired to her southerner for the number of his party, and secured automobiles for the trip. She sent a note to Jim Irwin telling of the prospective visitation. She would show all concerned that she could do some things, anyhow, and she would send these people on with a good impression of her county.

She was glad of the automobiles the next Monday morning, when at nine thirty the train discharged upon her a dozen very alert, very up-to-date, very inquisitive southerners, male and female, most of whom seemed to have left their "ras" in the gulf region. It was eleven when the party parked their machines before the schoolhouse door.

"There are visitors here before us," said Jennie.

"Seems rather like an educational shrine," said Doctor Brathwaite of Mississippi. "How does he accommodate so many visitors in that small edifice?"

"I am not aware," said Jennie, "what he has been in the habit of receiving so very many from outside the district. Well, shall we go in?"

Once inside, Jennie felt a queer return of her old aversion to Jim's methods—the aversion which had caused her to criticize him so sharply on the occasion of her first visit. The reason for the return of the feeling lay in the fact that the work going on was the same sort, but of a more intense character. It was so utterly unlike a school as Jennie understood the word, that she glanced back at the group of educators with a little blush.

The school was in a sort of uproar. Not that uproar of boredom and mischief of which most of us have familiar memories, but a sort of eager uproar, in which every child was intensely interested in the same thing; and did little rustling things because of this interest; something like the hum at a football game or a dog-fight.

On one side of the desk stood Jim Irwin, and facing him was a smooth stranger of the old-fashioned lightning-rod-type—the shallower and larger sort of salesman of the kind whose sole business is to get signatures on the dotted line, and let some one else do the rest. In short, he was a "chaser."

FIRST RECRUITS SIGNED UP FOR UNIT OF GUARD

H. G. Lauterbach Tells Comrades of World War at Legion Meeting of Plans for Local Military Organization

Enrollment of the first recruits for a unit of the Idaho national guard is being formed in Twin Falls at a meeting of Twin Falls post, American Legion, by Herbert G. Lauterbach, formerly an officer in the 140th field artillery regiment with Old Guard and Eugene Ostrander, also veterans of the world war, making the lead in the undertaking.

Members of the post expressed commendation of the effort to organize a national guard unit here, and volunteered their active assistance and support.

Young Men Interested. The first recruits, Mr. Lauterbach said, were enrolled from among a group of young men who met at a luncheon Tuesday evening at his office to hear the organization plan explained.

It is hoped, Mr. Lauterbach said, that a national guard unit will be formed here within the next few weeks that will succeed to the position held at one time by D company of the old Second Idaho regiment, which was the headquarters company of the 14th field artillery regiment and served with distinction in five major engagements of the world war and in Germany after the armistice.

Since the dissolution of D company of which Captain F. W. McBertha was the last commander, there has been no national guard unit in Twin Falls.

It is the present purpose to organize here a company of infantry. Enrollment of 50 members is required before the organization may be completed. Recruits will receive pay for attendance at drill. Four nights each month will be designated for drill, and members will receive pay in accordance with their grades as follows: privates, $1 for each drill attended; first class privates, $1.15; corporals, $1.40; sergeants, $1.80; first sergeant, $2.80.

JURY ACQUITS MEXICAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Self-Defense Plea Wins Freedom for Remulo Lemos, Who Admits Fatal Shooting of Countryman

Remulo Lemos, 20, charged by the state with first degree murder of Andres Ortega in Twin Falls, June 17, was acquitted by a jury in district court here which received the case at noon and returned its verdict when the afternoon session of court was opened at 1:30 o'clock. Lemos, who had been held a prisoner in the county jail since the fatal shooting, was discharged by the court.

Lemos admitted shooting Ortega, but pleaded self-defense. In rebuttal Wednesday, the state introduced in evidence the statement made by the slain man after his removal to the hospital. The fatal shooting, according to this statement, was a result of a quarrel between Lemos and Ortega, in which a woman reputed to be the wife of Lemos, figured.

The state Wednesday offered testimony to show that Ortega was not armed when he was shot by Lemos. The case for the defendant Lemos was conducted by Attorney E. V. Larson.

In explanation of purposes to be served by collection of funds for the American White Cross by means of a tag day observance in Twin Falls next Saturday, the Rev. C. E. Bishop Homer C. Stutz, the first president, stated: "In establishing this movement, we are not only making history, but we are setting in motion forces which will accomplish more in the line of Christ's healing ministry than anything ever attempted. This movement is destined to spread over the world."

LITVIN'S TRIAL GETS UNDERWAY

Garage Operator to Answer to Charge of Receiving Stolen Car, Sold to Bridegroom

Trial of David Litvin, Twin Falls garage operator, on a charge of receiving a stolen automobile, was begun Wednesday afternoon in district court here. Eleven prospective jurors occupied the jury box when proceedings were called for the day, six of whom having been excused after being called to the box. Counsel for the state and defense expressed the belief Wednesday evening that the trial of the jury would be completed by noon Thursday.

In the trial which was opened Wednesday, Litvin will answer to a charge of receiving a Ford car which the state contends, was stolen last spring by one J. J. Hannah from J. M. Compton in Salt Lake, and delivered by Hannah to Litvin.

The state also has charged Litvin in another instance with receiving another Ford car which, it is alleged, also was stolen by Hannah from V. F. Groves in Salt Lake. Action against Litvin in both cases was instituted on complaint of the prosecuting attorney's office at the instance of Chief of Police P. O. Herriman.

In the present trial Litvin is held to answer only to the charge of receiving the Compton car. This car, according to evidence in the hands of the prosecuting attorney, was sold by Litvin to L. S. Biel, who had come here from Indiana to be married, and purchased the car for his honeymoon trip. It was taken from him at the court house door as he left the county recorder's office after obtaining his marriage license.

The names of 36 witnesses have been endorsed on the information preferred against Litvin in this case. Not all of the witnesses whose names appear on the indictment will be called to testify in the trial, Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor said Wednesday evening.

The case for the defense will be conducted by members of the law firm of Hodgkin, Stephens and North.

Trial is Advanced. Trial in the Litvin case was taken up Wednesday after the case of Fred Hoops and Clayton Goodyear, charged with grand larceny of cattle, had been called, and it was determined that the defendant, who are at Liberty bond, could not be communicated with at their ranches near Hollister in time to appear in court that day.

Prospective jurors who occupied seats in the jury box when cases were taken Wednesday evening were D. B. Hutton, Nephil Larsen, B. W. Magel, W. C. Wyckoff, G. W. Dean, P. E. Dean, Charles Worrell, E. E. Roberts, George D. Aiken, S. E. Banks and Robert Brose.

Twin Falls Scouts Plan All-Day Hike

Animal Bagged by Each of Four Men in Party on Trip to Sawtooth Hunting Grounds

Scouts of all Boy Scout troops in Twin Falls will take a hike Saturday afternoon. They will be led by Scout Executive F. D. Hawley and Paul Thomas. The afternoon and evening will be spent in the open learning scoutcraft, and in the evening there will be a big campfire meeting attended by all the scoutmasters. This was decided by the Scoutmasters' association which met at council headquarters Wednesday evening.

The scouts will meet at headquarters at 1 o'clock Saturday, each with food for one meal and equipment for tent work. The boys will be divided into temporary troops for a tracking contest enroute to the scene of the day's activities.

The scoutmasters also decided to set as a goal the advancement of every scout at least one rank by scout anniversary week in February. All troops are planning monthly hikes if possible. It was decided to give some scoutcraft training on every hike. The scout rally program was developed, and Scoutmasters William L. Nixon and I. E. Jolyan and Scout Executive P. D. Hawley at headquarters following the scoutmasters' meeting. Study of scout tests and outdoor stories filled the meeting period. The track rally will meet next week in the high school.

APPLE MARKET REPORTS GIVE HINT TO GROWERS

Increased Export Demand and Small Proportion of Crop Going Into Storage Affects Plans of Orchardists

Export demand for apples this season is establishing a new high record while only a small proportion of the crop is going into storage and the fruit now being harvested is being pushed onto the market in quantities that threaten a glut.

Information to this effect has been brought to Twin Falls recently through various mediums, including a recent report appearing in the Chicago Cattle & Horse Review, which is received with interest by growers of this region who are standing in line at the threshold of the harvest season. Their inactivity results from protracted rainy weather and from the fact that market conditions are almost chaotic.

Among growers here this information was accepted as indicating profit to be derived later in the year by harvesting and storing their crops.

Forecasters Agree Fair Weather Ahead

Popular opinion here coincided with the prediction of the official forecaster Wednesday relative to prospects for return of fair weather to southern Idaho. "Change" of the moon and the belief that the air "felt better" seemed to be the basis of prognostications of unofficial weather prophets.

seven one-hundredths of an inch of rainfall Tuesday night brought the total precipitation record of seven days up to 1.23 inches, according to the government weather observer's station here. Total of precipitation since autumnal equinox is 2.57 inches. With diminution of the daily portion of rainfall, temperatures ascended Wednesday, reaching 74 degrees for high, an advance of 25 points, and touching 40 for low, a gain of 2 degrees.
