MILITARY MOVE OF HITLERITES HAS SHORT LIFE

Great "Beer Cellar Government" Set Up by Fascist Chief and Ludendorff Ends with Both Leaders in Prison

BREITENBURG, Nov. 9 (AP)—The great "beer cellar government" proclaimed in Munich Thursday evening with the announced purpose of regenerating Germany by demolishing the republic and restoring the monarchy had a brief existence. Tonight it lies in ruins.

Its career ended ignominiously today in circumstances widely different from those attending its inception when amid the fumes of beer and tobacco, the burly general, Erich Ludendorff, declared that he would not allow the task assigned to him over the prospects of war with France, as Bavaria could immediately put 300,000 fully equipped men in the field.

Today Ludendorff was a prisoner of the governor he aimed to overthrow. His coadjutor, Adolf Hitler, leader of the fascist movement in Bavaria, also was captured. Both, according to a late report, which has not been confirmed, he succeeded in escaping. It is said Hitler was wounded in the fighting that followed the "putsch."

Details of the event in Munich are still somewhat obscure, owing to the fact that only a few official reports are available. The two leaders in this sense operate revolt, which collapsed in less than 24 hours, apparently were left in the lurch by their supporters when it was seen they had no chance of success.

Diplomatic Maneuver: The role played by Dr. von Kahr, the military dictator, and General von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian volunteer, in the coup appears, according to the official accounts, to have been in the nature of a "diplomatic maneuver." It is said they could hardly have refused to accept the posts allotted to them last night by Hitler, when Hitler had 600 armed followers behind him, as they certainly would have suffered the same fate as Premier von Kulling and the other Bavarian ministers, who were promptly arrested by the Hitlerites when they raised the rathskeller.

They accordingly decided that discussion was the better part of valor and pretended to concur in the rebel plans. As soon as they regained their quarters, where they were out of reach of Hitler's band, they decided to have nothing to do with the "putsch," but on the other hand to oppose it with the utmost energy. This decision of Von Kahr and Von Lossow gave a death blow to Hitler's hopes, as the rathskeller remained loyal to Von Lossow.

Defeat of Monarchist Scheme at Munich Pleases Allied Diplomatic Circles; Europe Worried Over William's Plans

PARIS, Nov. 9 (AP)—The serious apprehension excited in allied diplomatic circles here over the situation in Germany was somewhat allayed this evening by the news from Berlin and other German centers indicating the failure of the coup d'etat of the monarchists at Munich.

The allied council of ambassadors which was to meet this afternoon to deliberate as to the attitude of the allied powers, decided this evening to postpone until the situation should clear.

The indications that General Ludendorff's attempt had resulted in a fiasco were received with satisfaction in official circles where it was thought the collapse of this revolt would have the effect of discouraging other attempts of the same kind and might prove a salutary lesson to former crown prince Frederick William, whose desire to return to Germany has caused no little worry here. The action of the ambassadors yesterday against the return of the ex-crown prince is understood to have the approval of all the separate governments interested which will individually make representations to the Hague that the tranquility of Europe demands that the younger William remain for the present in Holland.

Disclose Plot for Aid from Hungary for Bavarian Coup

Investigation of Ulaime Case Shows Alleged Formal Treaty with Hitler Party

BUDAPEST, Nov. 9 (AP)—Investigation into the case of Deputy Ulaime of the Hungarian parliament, who was arrested yesterday, while on his way to Munich and charged with conspiracy in an attempt to overthrow the Bethlen government in Hungary, is alleged by the police to have disclosed a formal treaty between the Hungarian conspirators and the Hitler party in Bavaria, in which the Bavarians promised officers, guns and money to the Hungarians and the latter agreed to furnish food for the German nationalists.

CLAIM WALTON MISUSED FUNDS

Testimony Shows Governor Used State Money in His Fight on Klan in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 9 (AP)—Clerks of the state highway department wrote thousands of letters for Governor J. C. Walton in his campaign for funds with which to fight the Ku Klux Klan and checked a petition authorizing the state legislature to meet without executive call, C. F. Bates, the department chief clerk, testified today at the governor's impeachment trial.

Bates told the court that the governor has used 16 to 20 clerks and from 10,000 to 20,000 letters solidifying funds were written. He said that nearly 10,000 letters were sent out in reply to congratulations the executive received on his fight with the Klan.

The charge that the governor had the petition checked by highway department clerks, thereby, it is alleged, diverting public funds from the purpose for which they were appropriated, is now under consideration by the grand jury.

URGE FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF RESERVE BANKS

Witnesses at Congressional Inquiry Recommend Government Control and Thorough Examination at Intervals

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Complete federal supervision of all banks in the federal reserve system was recommended by witnesses this afternoon before the joint congressional committee investigating the failure of eligible non-member banks to enter the federal reserve system.

J. R. Burrow, president of the Central National bank of Topeka, Kansas, told the committee that all member banks whether state or national, should be under federal control and examined only by national bank examiners. Mr. Burrow gave as his reason that examination by federal examiners was more thorough and rigid than examination under state banking commission.

L. J. Nanklins, president of the City National bank of Fort Smith, Ark., suggested that all member banks should be under the control of the comptroller of the currency. Mr. Nanklins also suggested change in the naming of directors of the federal reserve bank. His suggestion was that the government retain its present power to name three of the directors and assume the power of selecting the remaining six who are now elected by members. Mr. Nanklins' plan for selecting the six directors now elected involved the selection of men from member banks alphabetically by towns. He suggested that terms of directors be limited to two years.

The vote without these precincts was: Yes, 58,595; no, 58,052.

RUPERT LOSES TO BRUINS BY SCORE OF 28-12

Locals Buck Over Touchdown in First Few Minutes of Play and Have Little Difficulty in Adding More Tallies

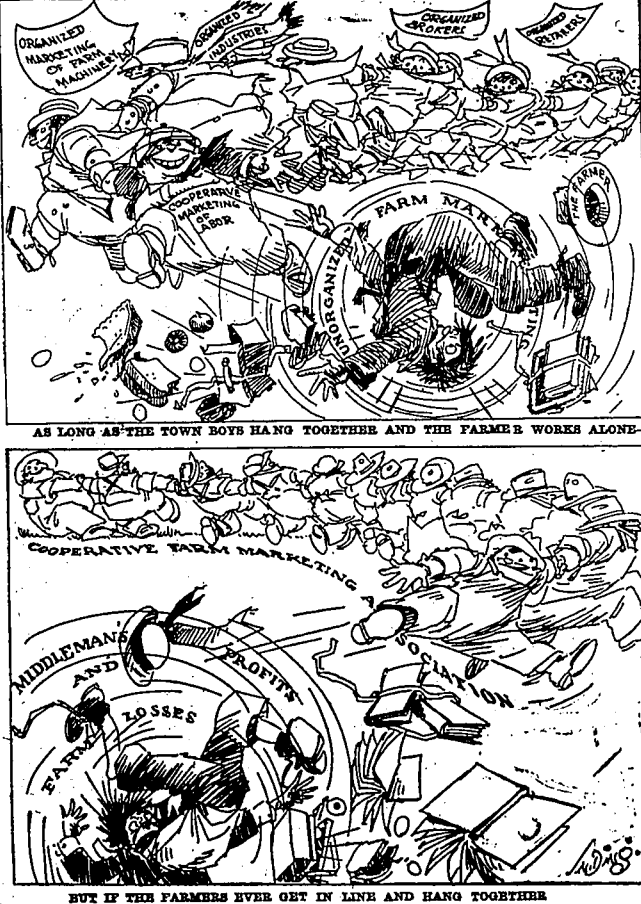

The Twin Falls Bruins, playing rather listless football, defeated Rupert high school at Rupert Friday 28 to 12. The Bruins bucked over a touchdown in the first few minutes of play after kicking to Rupert and holding the northsiders for down, and in a few minutes put over another by the same route. Rupert got her first score at the end of the first quarter after working the ball to the middle of the field from the kickoff and then completing a long pass and bucking the ball over.

All the Bruin scores came from straight football, while the two for Rupert came as a result of passes and long end runs by Long and Stone. The game was hard fought and Rupert had the Bruins kicking from behind their own goal twice during the last half. Both teams seemed to be able to gain frequently through the two lines and both seemed to tighten at critical times, the Bruins being held several times on the 1-yard line and Rupert 'diddle' likewise.

For the Bruins there were no stars. Most were in a job of work, as did Nelson, Leclair and Swin. For Rupert, Long, Stone and Nelson seemed to be the heroes. Any of them were dangerous around ends and on the receiving ends of passes. Long is fast, but never got completely away for a score. Nelson was almost as dangerous on circling the ends and Stone and Burgher, left tackle, who was called out of the line to kick and for line bucks, seemed to have little trouble gaining through the line.

A large delegation of Twin Falls fans was in evidence and the Rupert turnout was big. Rupert had several successful plays, causing much amusement for the fans. The game was a close one, with the Bruin defense doing well in stopping the Rupert offense. The Bruin offense was able to move the ball down the field and score several times. The game was a hard fought one, with both teams showing great determination.

Hughes Advises Poincare of Inability to Join Proposed Conference to Discuss Germany's War Debts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—France and the United States came definitely to the parting of the ways today on the proposal to enlist American aid toward a solution of the reparations problem.

Premiere Poincare was advised by Secretary Hughes through Ambassador Jusserand that restrictions insisted upon by France would serve to frustrate the object of the Washington government in offering American cooperation in an expert reparations inquiry plan.

The state department refused to go beyond this point in disclosing the purpose had result of recent conversations with the ambassador in which detailed explanations of the French attitude were made. No formal invitation to participate in an expert inquiry is before the Washington government, and in final decision is, therefore, not in order. In the circumstances no invitation from the allied powers is now expected.

Opposed by Coolidge

There is no doubt that such an invitation, if presented under the French restrictions, would be declined. President Coolidge feels that the French limitations render the inquiry plan useless and futile. He believes the French restrictions would reduce the inquiry into a mere audit of German accounts, that the United States could serve no useful purpose in sanctioning American participation in an investigation that could not produce broad and comprehensive plans for economic rehabilitation of Germany and adequate payment by Germany on reparations accounts.

Negotiations End

The conference of the state department ended today when Ambassador Jusserand called with advice from his government which reached him while Mr. Coolidge and his cabinet were discussing the situation on the basis of previous explanations from Paris. Today's message showed no modification of French attitude and added nothing new to the situation. Secretary Hughes before receiving the ambassador made a second visit to the White House for a brief conference with the president in preparation for presenting the American position.

Exchanges between Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand served to bring out a detailed statement of the limitations on the expert inquiry desired by the French government.

On the question of the exact meaning of the French stipulation "present capacity" to which experts would have been limited in studying Germany's resources which might yield the means of payment of reparations, the ambassador explained that this could be interpreted as meaning the survey of the situation up to and including the year 1930.

It was explained to the French diplomat that the period up to 1930 would have to be largely devoted to the very beginnings of any plan sufficiently broad to give reasonable promise of an economic restoration in Germany at some future date. There was no reasonable hope from the American viewpoint, the ambassador was advised, that any substantial payments toward settlement of the reparations obligations of Germany could accrue from any increase of German productivity that possibly could be brought about within the seven year limit.

It was reiterated that the Washington government had made its original suggestions for an expert inquiry a year ago and had renewed them in the recent Hughes-Curzon correspondence in a spirit of friendship to all of the allied countries and for the sole purpose of finding some means to make available American helpfulness in the European crisis. The fact that France has found it impossible to accept the proffer of American aid, although her allies, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have indicated their desire to take steps to that end has not changed the desire of the government here to be helpful whenever an appropriate time for extending that helpfulness presents itself.

Proletariat of Canine Nation Passes in Review Down Historic Pathway to Mutt Exhibition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Pennsylvania avenue, historic pathway of mighty pageants of war and peace, was today the route of the strangest one of all. It was a procession of 100s—hundreds of just plain mutts headed by a brass band parading on their way to the Mutt dog show, conducted by the Humane Education society.

No dog was eligible to that parade unless his family coat of arms had a bar sinister and the more bars there were on the escutcheon the higher he ranked. They paraded along proudly in their king, all sizes, colors, shapes, varieties and mixtures of breeds—just plain dogs—the kind that has made little boys and girls happy since time began. And every one was accompanied by somebody who loved him just as much as if he were the highest priced thoroughbred in the world.

Handsome dressed women who could afford Pomeranians marched proudly along with pups that were intended to be Orlans, but turned out to look like Bettens and imagined themselves Alrods. Men who looked too mushy to bother about a dog walked unashamed, custodian of crates, crates of mutts, to the registration breeding of dogdom. Boys and girls carried in their arms shag-legged mutts that tried to run away and the capital of the United States at a busy hour passed to look and reflect on administration of humankind.

Every dog has his day this was the day of the proletariat.

HITLER'S MOVE PROVED TO BE TOTAL FAILURE

Information Dispensed at Berlin Indicates Projected Coup Was Confined to Scene of First Rebellion at Munich

BERLIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—Information dispensed by official quarters this evening would indicate that Adolf Hitler's "putsch" in Bavaria scarcely got beyond the confines of the Rathskeller, where the fascist leader proclaimed himself dictator of all Germany and General Erich Ludendorff his war minister.

Just what happened after that remains to be cleared, although reliable versions of the incidents which took place in Munich last night indicate that Dr. von Kahr, the Bavarian dictator, and General von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian reichswehr, immediately disintegrated themselves from the prevailing confusion and hurried to the nearest barracks and there insured themselves of the fealty of the reichswehr troops with aid of which they rehabilitated the dictatorship in the civilian authority of Premier von Knilling.

Political quarters in Berlin incline to the belief that Hitler's giant firecracker exploded prematurely and that he and Ludendorff were his chief victims. Both men were reported to have barricaded themselves in the war ministry in Munich but afterward to have come out and surrendered.

Danger Passed
At the ministry of defense it was declared this evening that the coup was standing by Dr. von Kahr under command of General von Lossow and that Hitler's attempted coup as far as his physical menace was concerned had been entirely dispensed. Munich experienced little of the "putsch" and the rest of Bavaria failed to react to it. In Berlin the movement has a minimum of interest and no alarm.

The nationalist leaders in the reichstag make no concealment of their chagrin over the fiasco, which they obviously view as having done irreparable damage to the swing to the right among a large body of the voters. Incidentally the movement has seriously handicapped the negotiations proceeding between the members of the nationalist party and the German people's party for the formation of a bourgeois cabinet, a movement which had received fresh impetus today when Chancellor Stresemann's party adopted a resolution to suggest to the chancellor the advisability of inviting the nationalists into such a coalition.

Talk New Cabinet
With the Munich debacle awaiting final political liquidation, the belief is expressed in political circles that the nationalists in the present situation suggest a heavy liability to such a four party constellation, which were it formed, in all probability would demand the retirement of Dr. Stresemann. Neither the chancellor, the democrats, nor the clericals thus far have indicated their attitude toward the proposed bourgeois cabinet.

Chancellor Stresemann's government today informally apprises the diplomatic missions in Berlin that its authority had not been impaired by the "putsch" and that the Munich episode was considered as having been disposed of insofar as it threatened to become a menace to the Berlin government's stability.

French Areas Indignation
French opposition to the establishment of a limited directorate of even a dictatorship which Premier Poincaré is said to have expressed informally through the French ambassador is viewed in semi-official circles here as unwarranted intervention in German internal affairs. "A demand from the French government or support from that source is not required by Germany, in connection with her efforts to adjust internal affairs and it may even be suggested that support from this source would rather discredit the cause of democracy," says the National Zeitung.

Mrs. Genevieve Stevenson of Evanston, a suburb of Chicago, has been granted a divorce from Harry M. Stevenson, wealthy merchant, together with $500,000 alimony. The "farmhouse" has seven silver bathtubs in as many bedrooms.

BELIEVE HUNTER PROVEN GUILTY

Silence of Court at End of Naval Officer's Trial Accepted as Conviction

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Another apparent verdict of guilty was reached today by the general court martial trying officers involved in the wreck of seven destroyers at Point Honda, Cal., September 8. The trial of Lieutenant Commander Donald T. Hunter, who commanded the destroyer Delphy, squadron leader, was completed at 1:30 p. m. Fifty minutes later the court reopened for the trial of Lieutenant Lawrence F. Blodgett, the court's silence regarding Commander Hunter being interpreted, according to navy custom, as a verdict of guilty.

As in the case of Captain E. H. Watson who was tried before Hunter, the actual verdict, sentence and recommendations of the court will not be known for several weeks until the proceedings and findings have been reviewed and approved by the secretary of the navy.
High spots in the conclusion of the case of Lieutenant Commander Hunter were the fact that he himself took the stand and that a character witness stated that the accused was regarded by brother officers as the best navigator in the Pacific fleet.
Lieutenant Commander L. N. Nichols, commanding the destroyer Yacuborough, said that Commander Hunter had been detailed to the U. S. S. Idaho when she went into commission because of his demonstrated navigational ability, as shown by his work with destroyers operating out of the Queenstown during the war and the navigation of the fast transport Great Northern. As navigator of the Idaho said the witness, Hunter directed her courses for some 15,000 miles during the first three months she was in commission. Then during her battle practice he won for himself the reputation of being the best navigator in the Pacific fleet.
Commander Hunter concluded his own case by the navigational testimony he had given in the trial of Captain Watson. He assumed full responsibility for the navigation of the Delphy.

Who Paid for It?

In an authoritative magazine we read:

"A certain house eight years ago did an annual business of $3,000,000 and the cost of selling the goods amounted to 8 per cent. Good advertising has since then increased their annual business to $15,000,000 and the cost of selling, including advertising expenditures, has fallen to 5 per cent. The salesmen are earning much more money, and the advertising has enabled them to do it, because while their commissions are smaller their sales are made easier and are more than trebled in volume."

Who paid for the advertising?

Not the consumer, for the price of the goods was less than it had been without advertising.

Not the manufacturer, because his total selling cost was 3 per cent less.

Not the salesmen, because they made more money.

Who did pay, then? The same inexhaustible source upon which we draw for the cost of all progress—Old Man Waste.

The most expensive institution we have today is the unsuccessful competitor—the business that drags along for years, eating up rent and salaries, and traveling expenses, trying to get orders that someone else can get and execute better and cheaper.

It is cruel, perhaps, but true that the sooner such concerns disappear, the better it is for the public. The advertising of their more aggressive and better-organized competitors brings the end quicker. And it is the money saved by putting a stop to herds of these petty, wasteful non-successes, which pays for the advertising and cuts down the cost of the goods you buy.

Significance Seen in Huskies' Defeat of Aggies and Vandals Hope to Win at Boise

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Nov. 9 (Special to The News).—Idaho's chance to defeat the Oregon Aggies at Boise Saturday in the annual Armistice day game look particularly bright, following the overwhelming crushing administered the Oregon farmers by Washington at Corvallis last week. Better than that, Idaho has a good chance to preserve a three-year record of having no touchdowns scored against her at a Boise game.

Loss of Wayne Davis to the Vandal team through operation of a faculty eligibility rule has, of course, cast down some of the rosier hopes with which Idaho intended to start her three-game trip to the south. Idaho still has a fine fighting backfield machine, but lack the reserve force that was counted on in case of possible injuries.

Washington, the dark cloud that is dimming the brightness of California's fourth year championship aspirations, won from the Aggies 14-0, but the score doesn't tell half of the story. Washington's varied offensive smashed through the Aggies for 13 first downs, to none for the Oregonians. This would indicate that the long-expected Aggies' offensive has failed for three years and the defense failed in the places. In terms of yardage the Huskies advanced 243 yards from scrimmage against 25 for O. A. C.

Resume Old Rivalry
This year's Idaho-O. A. C. game will mark the resumption of a rivalry dormant for seven years. The last game was played at Pendleton in 1916 and the Aggies won 28 to 6. R. L. Mathews, who has developed the Vandals that face the Aggies this year, was referee at the contest.

Right now the 1923 Vandals face the most exciting test that has ever confronted an Idaho team. Idaho is still in the running for northwest and possibly coast championship honors. If the Aggie hurdle can be made then Idaho will have gone through her "northwest" schedule undefeated and with Washington playing California at Berkeley and Idaho playing both Stanford and Southern California on their home grounds the championship will be decided in the south.

A Boise Idaho will be greatly outweighed, particularly in the line. On a dry field, however, that will not signify much, for Idaho's line can almost be counted on to get the jump, which means everything.

This year's game, because of its bearing upon the championships of next week, following an exchange of telegrams between S. C. Hildreth and Colonel N. J. Winn.

COQUILLE, Ore., Nov. 9 (Special to The News).—Lucille Covell, 14-year-old niece of Arthur Covell, went on the stand today in his trial on charges of first degree murder and admitted she had known for a month before the death of Mrs. Ebba Covell, her stepmother, that Arthur Covell was planning her death. She said, however, that she did not believe the plan would be carried out.

She testified that on September 3, the day Mrs. Covell was slain, she took the children from the house, that Alton, her 16-year-old brother, went into the house, that she heard a struggle and later helped carry Mrs. Covell's body from the kitchen to the front room.

She admitted that she knew there was ammonia in the house. The prosecution contends that Mrs. Covell was slain by being strangled with an ammonia soaked rag applied to her face. It is charged that Arthur, who is a cripple, inspired Alton to kill the woman.

NEW RULING IS PUT IN EFFECT

Federal Judge Holds Seizure of Liquor-Making Property to Be Illegal

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9 (AP)—After prohibition agents announced the seizure today of 14 breweries in and near Philadelphia, Federal Judge McKeenan made a decision that it was illegal to seize the entire plants of brewing companies. Holding that a search warrant authorizes prohibition agents to seize only intoxicating liquors illegally manufactured in the manufacture. Judge McKeenan advised federal prohibition authorities that "the search warrant and judgment" in the execution of such warrants. He warned that there was a penalty of a fine or imprisonment for exceeding their authority.

The decision came like a thunderbolt to the big squad of prohibition agents assembled here from different parts of the country and who had planned to make other seizures in the government's nation-wide movement to enforce prohibition. None of the agents expected tonight to say what effect, if any, the decision would have on their plans or on the seizures made today.

A search warrant, the court declared, permits the seizure of intoxicating liquors and the apparatuses used in that connection; but the law does not authorize an officer armed with such a warrant to seize the real estate, plant and entire equipment, regardless of its use, particularly in a case where a brewery has a permit to manufacture beer.

MILITARY MOVE OF HITLERITES FAILS

Extraordinary scenes were enacted in the now famous beer cellar in Munich during the raid. Hitler and his supporters made free use of their revolvers to obtain order; bullets were fired into the ceiling occasionally to remind those present that a revolution was in progress. Hitler's threats to destroy the treaty of Versailles, depose President Ebert and the Berlin government and march against Berlin were received with frantic applause. General Ludendorff, who entered the hall toward the closing of the proceedings, was given a great welcome. He made a speech in his best "militarized" style.

There has been absolutely no repression in Berlin from the events in Munich. The populace generally appear to be taking very little interest in the affair, being more concerned with the increasing prices of food. The government, however, is adopting all necessary precautions.

Members of the family said Andrew had been suffering with bad teeth for several days and had been drinking to relieve the pain. He is thought to have become temporarily deranged.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 9 (AP)—Earth shocks were felt in Virginia and Chandlerville, Cass county, and Oakford and Tallula, in Menard county, at 10 o'clock tonight. In Tallula dishes were broken in kitchens and furniture rocked. Inquiry was made of this city to ascertain if there had been an explosion in Peoria.

STANDARD TO CUT PRICES

Two Cents per Gallon to Be Lopped Off Quotations in Addition to Recent Reduction of Six Cents

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana tonight announced that it will reduce gasoline prices throughout most of its territory an average of two cents a gallon effective tomorrow morning.

The reduction, it was explained, was an adjustment to meet the present wholesale market, which has dropped during the past several weeks, the price of crude having declined from about $1.00 to about $1.00.

The reduction is in addition to a reduction of 6.6 cents made about two months ago by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana after Governor McMaster of South Dakota had started to sell gasoline at reduced prices through state depots. At that time the company announced it was working the cut to meet competition, but independent dealers declared an attempt was being made to drive them out of business.

The Standard's tank wagon price in Chicago when the reduction becomes effective tomorrow will be 12 cents and the service station price 14 cents a gallon.

SHORT CUTS for the HOUSEWIFE

How to Cook and Serve Macaroni and Spaghetti

MACARONI and spaghetti, differing only in appearance, are not only beautiful and economical but are also easy to prepare and can be made into many appetizing dishes. They contain both starch and protein, are a good source of iron and phosphorus and tissue building agents in food, and dieticians agree that they are easily digested.

The secret of preparing macaroni and combining it with other food is to cook it properly. The right way is the simplest. Drop the macaroni into boiling water and cook until every piece is tender. Use plenty of salt in the water. One tablespoonful to the quart is correct. When the macaroni is tender remove it from the fire and thoroughly drain. The water should be saved as it is valuable in the preparation of soups. Here are some delightful ways to combine with other foods and serve:

MACARONI OR SPAGHETTI (Italian Style)

Sauce:
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 can Rio Tomatoes
1/2 cup onion
1 teaspoon grated (Roman or Parmesan) cheese
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
Dash of pepper (ground)
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
Sauce chicken with oil in a deep saucepan (aluminum) for 20 minutes. Add parsley, garlic salt, pepper and mushrooms. Cover tightly and cook slowly until mushrooms are lightly browned. Remove garlic. Add tomatoes. Cook over slow fire for 1 1/2 hours. Stir occasionally, keep cover on vessel. A little boiling water may be added if sauce is too thick—add butter before serving.

Cook 1 lb. macaroni or spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes or until tender. Drain. Place macaroni on spaghetti or large platter. Add half sauce and half cheese and Mix thoroughly. Add remainder of sauce and cheese. Serve at once. This recipe will serve from 6 to 8 persons.

MACARONI AU GRATIN

2 cups boiled macaroni
1/2 cup white sauce
1 egg
Salt, pepper and paprika
Put cooked macaroni into buttered baking dish, pour the white sauce over the macaroni, dust with the salt, pepper, paprika, add grated cheese and bread crumbs, cover, and bake 20 minutes, uncover and bake until a light brown.

SPAGHETTI WITH TOMATO SAUCE

1 small cooked spaghetti
1/2 lb. ground beef
1/2 lb. grated cheese
1/2 cup tomato
1/2 cup butter
4 slices onion
Empty a small size can of condensed tomato soup into a saucepan and without adding any water let it come to a boil, add grated cheese, a lump of butter or a couple of slices of butter and chopped fine. Add the spaghetti, mix together and serve hot.—From Domestic Service Department, Washburn-Crosby Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

SPAGHETTI AND EGGS

2 hard boiled eggs
1/2 lb. spaghetti
1/2 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup tomato
1/2 cup butter
4 slices onion
Mix

WANTS CONGRESS TO ACT ON ALASKAN DIVISION

Convention Delegates to be Named to Discuss Possibility of Requesting Final Action on Separation.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 9 (AP)—Delegates to a convention here next Thursday to consider petitioning congress to set off the panhandle as a separate territory from the rest of Alaska will be chosen by the Juneau city council tonight. The convention was ordered Tuesday by voters in municipalities of the panhandle, lying between British Columbia and the Pacific ocean as a move toward statehood for southeastern Alaska.

Sentiment generally expressed here was that after asking congress to make a separate territory of the panhandle or first judicial division of Alaska, the convention should invite the Kattala, Cordova and Valdez districts, lying northwest of the panhandle and the Copper river valley, running northward from Cordova, to join the movement.

Farm Labor Supply in Excess of Call

Chamber of Commerce Secretaries Reports More Applicants for Work than Places

Farm labor in excess of manifested demand is available in Twin Falls at the present time, according to statement Friday evening of Newell H. Wright, secretary of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. "Around 25 persons daily apply at the chamber of commerce for work on farms," Mr. Wright said, "and we are unable to find places for all applicants, although it is known that many farmers are working short-handed in isolated efforts to harvest their crops. If farmers in need of help will communicate with the chamber of commerce, we shall be glad to supply their needs to the best of our ability."

Thanks Americans for Coming to Aid of Stricken Japan

Nameless Woman Expresses Gratitude for Relief Work During Recent Disaster

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—A nameless woman of Japan has thanked "My Dear People of America" in a letter received today by Secretary Hughes for the relief work administered by Americans in Japan during the period following the recent fire and earthquake disaster in Tokio and Yokohama.

"How we all Japanese thank you for your great kindness in this time," the letter said. "You gave us all. You sent us much necessary things and you all are very kind to us. Our thanks are beyond measure. We all will never forget them here after. I am only a nameless woman. But I must write you this, even with such a broken word, as I could not keep secret my thanks. Please excuse my impolite."

"I am very happy and grateful forever and thanking for your great kindness."

None of the letters of gratitude, including those received from the emperor of Japan, the prime minister and the Japanese ambassador here, has been more appreciated by the state department officials than that received from the "nameless."

EASTERN REPRESENTATIVES... THE SINS OF THE AUTO

The automobile is charged with a wide variety of sins... However, it is presented in a more or less new light in the views of a Twin Falls man...

Yet furniture is a permanent asset, good for many years of every-day use... while an automobile is a steadily depreciating piece of finely adjusted machinery...

Yet furniture is a permanent asset, good for many years of every-day use... while an automobile is a steadily depreciating piece of finely adjusted machinery...

Here is a new and unheard of sin for which the auto is responsible... it is a sin.

GOD'S ECONOMIC LAW... Speaking of America's action in getting into the World War in nineteen hundred seventeen...

It might very truthfully have reversed his statement and said that to be truly sound any system of economics must be founded on idealism.

Owen B. Lovely, chairman of the National Child Labor Committee, speaking on an entirely different subject, made a surprisingly similar statement.

It is not that why hard-headed "practical" persons are continually finding to their surprise that improvement in working and living conditions of workers increases their own business instead of decreasing it.

So, too, one of these days, the United States will realize that plain common sense and business foresight in looking out for its own good in relation to other nations are only possible in connection with idealism.

STAGE DEFLATION... The confirmed movie-goer, looking at the huge, ornate and costly moving picture "palaces" that have replaced the little five-cent theatres of the early days of the film play, may wonder just how deflation in the industry is going to turn out.

And in addition to this readjustment is one of the entertainment industries...

tries or professions, David Belasco tells us that something similar is to be expected in the realm of the legitimate stage.

"While there are no such salaries in the legitimate theatrical business," he says, "there is just as much or more reason for deflation there, too. We have not the selling facilities that they have in the screen world and our overhead and chances for failure are much greater. It will not be long before there will be concerted movement, therefore, among theatrical producers to cut down some of the unwarranted salaries that are now being paid certain stars in the legitimate profession."

It ought to be a grand and glorious outlook for the much abused public. Better shows at more reasonable prices will be very welcome. And the funny thing about it will be that producers in both fields are likely to find out to their own surprise that they will gain rather than lose in the long run as a result of this deflation if they really deflate.

A DOLLAR'S WORTH... The story comes from Berlin of a prosperous looking traveler who entered a restaurant and told the waiter to bring him "all the food an American dollar would buy."

At any minute the word may flash through Germany that the dollar will pay a few more trillion marks, and prices change accordingly.

The situation looks alluring to some Americans, eager to get the worth of their money. But they needn't rush light over to Germany with their savings. There are other considerations.

All in all, year in and year out, the American dollar will come nearer to supplying human needs here at home than anywhere else in the world.

PEN FILLING STATIONS NOW... Penny in the Slot Machine of Chicago University... Quick Action.

Hereshouse of Paper... It has been proposed to make a general hereshouse that shall for general purposes be the equal of the steel article in the following way: Parchment paper is cut into hereshouse form and built up to a suitable thickness by the use of a mixture of turpentine, Spanish white shellac and linseed oil treated with litharge, and the whole is placed under a hydraulic press.

Almost Repeated... Of two friends staying at a hostelry where most were on bed, undressed, and turned in, mistaking his friend's room for his own...

"What does it mean?" "I don't know. Probably nobody knows. But it's a safe card to play. Tort. Don't forget it."

"Tort. Right!" "Well, then, come along and pack your things. There's a train to London in about an hour."

"Oh, she's all right," Eustace Hignett hummed a gay air. Sam's ready acquiescence in his scheme had relieved his apprehensive mind.

"Going strong?" said Sam, after a pause.

TRICKY FOX BY DADDY

(Daddy Dog turns detective to help Jack and Janet to find the thief who has stolen the keys to a locked house. He follows the trail of a fox to a fox farm.)

CHAPTER V. BALKY SAM IS BY. "HEE-HAW! How do you do?" bellowed Balky Sam to Jack and Janet and Daddy Dog.

"We are downcast because we have been trying to find the thief who stole our chickens, and haven't been able to find him since just with Daddy Dog. Then they explained to Balky Sam how Daddy Dog had followed the scent of a fox from the farmhouse to the creek near the fox farm.

"Yes, I believe that Tricky Fox is the one who stole the chickens, but we find him locked up tight in the fox farm," growled Daddy Dog. "Hee-haw! You may be a good detective, but you have to be a very shy detective to catch a fox," bellowed Balky Sam.

"Woof!" barked Daddy Dog in disgust. "I would not have to be very smart to be twice as smart as a mule." Jack and Janet agreed with Daddy Dog. Balky Sam asked Duddy Dog, "Yes," agreed Daddy Dog, "but I'd like to see you do it."

"Hee-haw! Then come back to my pasture and I'll show you," bellowed Balky Sam. "You children can get on my back and ride."

"Oh, absolutely. We're quite good friends again now. No use being in that house and not being on speaking terms." It rummy how the passage of time sort of changes a fellow's point of view.

"Yes, but you see, the most frightful thing has happened. At least, it hasn't happened yet, but it may any day. Bennett's talking about taking legal advice to see if he can't induce Mortimer to cheat by law, as he can't be stopped any other way.

"Well, that'll do the patter a bit of good. Legal fees." Eustace Hignett waded his arms despairingly at his cousin's obtuseness.

"But, don't you see? If Bennett goes to your father about this thing, your father will get onto the fact that Windies has been let, and he'll nose about, and make inquiries, and the first thing that'll happen will be that mother will get to hear of it, and then where shall I be?"

"I'm pondered," he admitted. "Well, now you see what a hole I'm in."

"Yes, you are. What are you going to do about it?" "You're the only person who can help me."

"Can I do?" "Why, your father wants you to join the firm, doesn't he? Well, for goodness sake, binute up and join it. Don't waste a minute. Dash up to London by the next train, and sign on. Then, if Bennett does blow in for advice, you can do it somehow that he sees you instead of your father, and I'll be all right. You can easily work it. Get the office boy or somebody to tell Bennett that your father's engaged, but that you are on the spot. He won't mind so long as he sees somebody in the firm."

"But I don't know anything about the law. What shall I say to him?" "That's all right. I'm being studying it up a bit. As far as I can gather, the legal advice business is quite simple. Anything that isn't a tort is a misde-monor. You've simply got to tell old Bennett that, in your opinion, the whole thing looks jolly like a tort."

"What's the word again?" "Tort." "What does it mean?" "I don't know. Probably nobody knows. But it's a safe card to play. Tort. Don't forget it."

"Tort. Right!" "Well, then, come along and pack your things. There's a train to London in about an hour."

Breakfast Food

"Matrimonially Speaking" BY HUGH HOKAY

My wife decorates our dining-room table with potted plants. If there's anything I dislike, it's a lot of unnecessary shrubbery around at breakfast time. The point that I can see in trying to make a dinner table look like a conservatory.

"When a really handsome fern and a few cut flowers come between a man and his wife at dinner it's almost necessary to put in telephone conversation. I can ask her to please pass the butter."

"Some evening I'm going to bring a pair of garden shears to the table with me—and trim away the undergrowth."

"Tomorrow—" "My husband thinks I should have anything to do all day long."

"I confess that, when there was this delay in your coming here, I sometimes feared something might have happened to you. I recall mentioning it to the young lady who recently did me the honor to promise to become my wife."

"I was thinking more of the arrests on shore. America's a dangerous country. But perhaps you were not in touch with the underworld?" "I don't think I was."

"Ah!" said John Peters, significantly. "He took up the revolver, gave it a fond and almost paternal look, and replaced it on the desk."

"What on earth are you doing with that thing?" asked Sam. "Mr. Peters lowered his voice."

"I'm going to America myself in a few days' time, Mr. Samuel. It's my annual holiday; and the governor's sending me some papers upon my connection with the People's Schultz and Brown."

"What on earth sort of a place do you think New York is?" he asked. "It's safer than London."

"Ah, but what about the underworld? I've seen these American films that they send over here. Mr. Samuel. Every Saturday night regular I see my young lady to a cinema, and I tell you, she teach you something. Did you ever see 'Wolves of the Bowery'?"

"Oh, I understand the mechanism perfectly, and I am becoming a very fair shot. I take my little bite of food in here early and go and practice at the Rupert street rifle range during my lunch hour."

"I haven't," agreed Sam. "Is my father in? I'd like to see him if he's not busy."

"Mr. Peters, recalled to his professional duties, said his sister front like a garment. He picked up a speaking tube and blew down it."

"Good morning, father." "Very glad to see you're back, Sam. So you didn't win?"

"No, I got beaten in the semi-final." "American amateurs are a very hot lot at the best one. I suppose you were weak with the greens. I warned you about that."

"Yes, life is real, life is earnest," he said, gasping at Sam's remark, "and the grave is not our goal. Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime. In fact, it's time you took off your coat and started to work."

"You didn't lose with it," said. "I was quite ready, and I had a look of surprise. I said it was time you began work."

HOMER CRAVEN FATALLY SHOT WHILE HUNTING

Hollister Bank President Dies from Effects of Gunshot Wound Accidentally Inflicted by Himself

W. Homer Craven, president of the Hollister Bank, died at 10:10 o'clock Friday night at the county general hospital from effects of a gunshot wound, resulting from accidental discharge of his shotgun at about 5:30 o'clock Friday evening when he attempted to raise the weapon at his side in a car to shoot a pheasant at the roadside one mile north and one mile east of Ellers.

The shot took effect below the knee in the right leg. Death was the result of hemorrhage and shock. The body was taken to the J. E. DeWitt mortuary. Relatives in Missouri, Texas and California have been notified.

Mr. Craven was accompanied on the fatal hunting trip by Wiley C. Hiff of Pocatello, formerly chief of Hollister and for a long time a friend of Mr. Craven, and by Carl Westrom of Pocatello, chief inspector for the Short Line. The hunting trip had been arranged prior to the arrival here Friday noon of Mr. Hiff and Mr. Westrom, who were met at the train by Mr. Craven in his section. Mr. Westrom had filled his bag and the party had started back to Twin Falls when Mr. Craven stopped the car to shoot at the birds at the roadside. He called to Mr. Hiff, who sat with him on the front seat, to turn off the ignition, and picked up the gun, which stood with the muzzle downward, at his right hand.

Companions Apply First Aid
Almost instantaneously, Mr. Hiff said, the gun was discharged. It is believed that the safety device had not been set and that Mr. Craven caught the trigger when he lifted the piece. Mr. Craven did not at first seem to realize the seriousness of his injury, Mr. Hiff said. He moved unaided to the rear seat, where Mr. Westrom, taking a strap from his gun-case, applied a tourniquet above the knee to stop the hemorrhage.

The gun was a double barrel, hammerless model, of the gauge ordinarily preferred by pheasant hunters.

Passing Charles Adams of Twin Falls, his companion on the hunting trip near the scene of the accident, Mr. Hiff called to Mr. Adams to telephone for doctors to meet Mr. Craven at the hospital, and proceeded with all haste to the hospital.

Mr. Craven was met at the hospital by Dr. G. A. Ems, and taken at once to the operating table. Evidence of severe shock became apparent soon after the surgeon began operation on the wound, and doctors for more than two hours thereafter worked at resuscitation without avail.

Mr. Craven and Frank Craven of Hollister, a brother, were summoned and remained with Mr. Craven's companions on the ill-fated hunting trip at the hospital until Mr. Craven expired.

Removes Foremost Citizen
Mr. Craven's death removes one of Hollister's first and foremost citizens, and a man widely and well known throughout southern Idaho. Coming to Idaho at about the time of the opening of the Salmon River project in 1908, Mr. Craven and his family resided there until about two years ago, when they removed to Twin Falls in order that their children, a daughter, Imogene, and son, Leavitt, might attend high school here. Mr. Imogene was a member of last year's graduating class and Leavitt is a member of the junior class this year.

Story of Accident Is Exaggeration

Car Started in Gear on Rupert Football Field Strikes Several But Injures None

Reports brought here of a serious accident at Rupert late Friday afternoon, upon later investigation proved grossly exaggerated. It was determined that an automobile on the football field had been started in gear, bearing down on a number of persons in the space between the machine and a wire fence. The progress of the car was not stopped until it had gone through the fence, but all persons in its path were reported to have escaped without injury.

Lo O. Vincent of Twin Falls, was caught by the machine and thrown onto a fence, and another man was thrown onto the radiator a third person being struck down but not injured. The name of the car owner was not learned. Early reports brought here of the occurrence were to the effect that one person had been killed and another severely injured.

PRaises Livestock Show
That the forthcoming 24th International Livestock Exposition to be held at Chicago will be perhaps the greatest event of the kind ever held is indicated in literature received here by W. M. Lambing, one time prominent in livestock circles throughout the middle west.

Reduced railroad rates are provided for from all points and apparently no pains are being spared to make the exposition the last word in stock shows.

CONTACT PREPARES FOR BIG THINGS NEXT YEAR

Everybody in Nevada Copper Camp Busy, Says Twin Falls Man; Numerous Excavations for Buildings

Everybody at Contact is working, according to C. P. Cosgriff, who returned Friday from a three-day visit to the Nevada mining town, where he went to erect a number of billboards for advertising purposes.

"A number of excavations are being made," said Mr. Cosgriff, "the principal among which is that for the new hotel, which will be 100 feet square with full basement. The walls of another building are almost completed. This last appears to be about 25 feet by 125 and is being built of white stone which is quarried at Contact."

"Activity at Contact is greater than at any time in the past ten years, or at least greater than I have ever known it to be in that period. Contact is getting ready for big things next year."
