Prompt Action by Powers Relieved Upon to Foil Monarchist Ambitions Following Escape of Former Prince

PARIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—The escape of former German crown prince from Holland is considered in French official circles as a serious and most regrettable complication which is likely to have a serious effect on the relations between Germany and the allies.

The government has information showing rather definitely in favor of the substitution of a certain power for the present government, preferably in the shape of restoration of the monarchy, but the Hohenzollerns and the Wittelsbachs is greatly weakening the force of the movement.

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Frederick William, former German crown prince, having received permission to proceed to his castle at Oels, near Breslau, in the Silesia province, where he has spent five years of exile, this morning re-entered the fatherland.

Frederick William is a plain citizen traveling as such; therefore the government has no occasion to shadow him or attempt to keep in touch with his movements.

BABSON SEES INCREASE IN SMALL RESIDENCES

Recent High Prices of Larger Structures Encourage Building; Predicts Suburban Property to Be in Demand

WELLSLEY HILLS, Mass., Nov. 10.—(Special to The News.)—The day of the small home is dawdling, according to Roger Babson, who today issued a statement on the trend of the building industry.

"There is no question that some day the cost of building will be much less than it is now—the same as it is now about 15 to 20 per cent less than it was in 1922," says the statistician.

"The time will come when instead of talking about the poor tenant, our sympathies will be enlisted in the cause of the landlord. Every student of fundamental business statistics recognizes this situation. The point, however, which is important is whether this movement will come about suddenly or whether it will spread out over a period of years. My own studies strongly suggest the longer and more gradual movement. There are two principal reasons.

Prices Too High.

"The first is that with all the new dwellings built during the past four years the greater part have priced far out of reach of the great majority of people. In fact some figures worked out by my organization show that less than 10 per cent of the people can afford to buy the so-called 'average priced' dwelling built today. Some, to be sure, have tried to and may get along all right until they strike reverse. The average family of four cannot afford to give more than one week's pay out of every month, for rent. Less than 10 per cent of the heads of families in the United States make more than $50 a week. Check up the cost of the houses built lately in your community and see how many of them can be rented profitably for less than $50 a month. Hence, when one talks about the saturation point in dwelling houses, he must take into account the price factor. The saturation at present prices apparently is rapidly being approached, but as soon as another 15 or 20 per cent cut in building costs is put into effect an entirely new group of prospective homeowners is reached.

"The next point is that building costs can be reduced when necessity arises. The only thing that is building materials and building labor did not decline as much as the average of other things because the demand was sufficient without it. That is merely the natural working of economic law. No one should be blamed for not charging less than the market price. On the other hand, as necessity arises, the cost of building will be cut. If prices today were at an irremediable minimum and demand were falling off, there would be more for the building industry to worry about!

Change Gradual.

"The chance of a sudden crash either in building costs or real estate values, therefore, is small. The movement, on the contrary, will be far more likely to carry out the appearance of a series of steps. We had one big step down in 1921, followed by a partial advance. Before long another step probably will be in order. General business as reflected in the Babson chart is running at 16 per cent below normal. The likelihood, that building values are suddenly going to drop to pre-war levels seems as improbable as the view that they will always continue at present high prices.

Must Busy Market.

"It is highly important, however, that those who are interested in new building recognize the trend and work with it. The greatest opportunities during the coming year will be in building lower priced houses, not high priced ones. What is most needed today is a house within reach of the great 90 per cent of prospects. Necessity is the mother of invention. Some day we shall probably look back on the high cost of building of today as the source of tremendous benefit because of the economic and inventory in construction methods it will have caused. If present indications are reliable the next few years will bring forth some remarkable changes in the customs and methods of building houses. If a builder is to keep a continuous flow of new business he must lead in this procession with the chief aim of producing homes for the great majority. Every 10 per cent that the cost of attractive homes can be reduced will increase the field of possible prospects by 500,000 to 1,000,000 people.

"During the past few months on less than a dozen leading architects have brought to my attention plans which they are developing whereby houses can be built for much less than the usual cost. Some of these methods probably will prove impractical but some of them are trying to help in producing houses which the average man can afford to live in. They vary widely in method, but all at the same purpose. Most of them involve a saving of labor. This, by the way, is exactly what has happened in every other industry when labor costs have become exorbitantly high.

"Some architects have found that certain of the features in the usual house which add to the expense can be successfully eliminated. Others have attacked the problem on the principle of quantity production. Much has been done in the way of more efficient but some of the delays and holdups in the work are almost entirely eliminated.

"The idea that people are always going to have to strain the last note in order to get together the rent each month is absolutely fallacious. When a number of people greatly need a certain thing someone always finds a way to get it for them. Moreover, such service usually carries with it the greatest reward. This present need for lower priced dwellings and lower rents represents such an opportunity.

Offers Investment.

"From the investor's point of view the present situation in the building industry suggests three things. First, 'Earnings of the industrial concern supplying the building industry will depend during the next few years upon whether or not the builders can grasp their present opportunities. The situation should be watched carefully by those interested in the securities of this group of building supply concerns.

"The investment which faces the opportunity directly. There is little question but he will profit both by turning his attention to developments along the line of groups that are getting houses built by continuing his activities in the higher priced field.

"Finally, the average investor has an opportunity in well located suburban land. Thousands upon thousands of modest homes will be built during the next few years. The automobile has broken the transit limitation which has heretofore bound our cities. The trend will be in favor of suburbs and the investor who puts a part of his funds in well selected suburban property at a fair price, judged on present levels, should profit during the next few years."

Zev and in Memoriam Scheduled to Meet at Churchill Downs on November 14

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 10 (AP)—Provided the track is in a good or firm condition, Zev and in Memoriam will meet in a match race at Churchill Downs November 14, to settle the championship of this year's colts of the United States. Matt J. Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey club, announced here today. The race will be at a mile and a quarter, the winner to receive $25,000 and the loser $5,000. The conditions for the race fixing the date at a mile and a quarter were set by Carl Wiedemann, owner of in Memoriam, and accepted by Harry E. Saelens, Zev's owner. According to the agreement each owner will post $10,000 and the Kentucky Jockey club, under whose auspices the race will be run, will add a purse of $10,000. From Mr. Wiedemann's standpoint the race will be a piny or pay-off. Mr. Saelens, however, has the right to withdraw in Memoriam should track conditions prove unfavorable, but, so doing he will forfeit his right to the purse of $10,000 which will go to Zev, if he starts.

OF WISCONSIN TEAM

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP)—Illinois, undefeated in the "Big Ten" race, continued its triumphant championship march today by defeating Wisconsin 10 to 0, before 40,000 spectators in the new $1,000,000 Illinois stadium. The "fighting Illini" to win the 1928 title or tie Michigan for it have only to defeat Ohio State two weeks hence. Harold "Red" Grange, the 20-year-old flash of the Illinois eleven, added further glory to his gridiron fame by crashing over for a touchdown in the first period after a thrilling 23-yard run around left end. Britton added the extra point when he kicked goal and scored from placement in the first period from the 25-yard line. After Illinois had piled up its lead in the first half, Grange was taken out of the game and replaced by Maurer. Grange's absence apparently took the fight out of the Illinois backfield, which seemed unable to make first down consistently in the final period. Wisconsin, entering the game without the services of Irving Gerber, star tackle, who was declared ineligible after seriously threatening after the first few minutes of opening play when he fatted full-back broke away for a 40-yard run to Illinois' 25-yard line.

The Buckeyes failed to show the progress expected of them and expecting for the first period were unable to stop the diversified Buckeye attack.

NOTRE DAME IS BEATEN BY NEBRASKA, 14 TO 7

Conquerors of Army and Princeton Unable to Solve Puzzling Tactics of Western Grid Experts

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 10 (AP)—Nebraska's football team beat Notre Dame this afternoon, 14 to 7. The team that humbled the Army, Princeton and Georgia Tech, found its end runs, its off tackle plays and its line smashes impotent before the heavier Nebraska line and the Cornhusker's backs broke up or intercepted forward rushes at critical points with a regularity that cropped at its inception almost every tactical assault. The Nebraska scored at the start of the second quarter and again at the beginning of the last period, with Dave Nolan, hunky full-back, carrying the ball both times. The first touchdown came when Noble broke through his right tackle and ran 24 yards across the Notre Dame goal, and the second followed a 18-yard pass from Eddie Dawitz, Nebraska full-back, which Noble caught on the enemy's 5-yard line and carried over with a tuck-er on his back. Herb Dawitz added one point after touchdown and his brother on the other—both on placed kicks. Notre Dame's touchdown came in the final moments, after the only successfully successful Notre Dame passing attack of the game. Cerny, substitute for Layden, crossed the Nebraska goal after catching a short pass from Stuhldreier from the 20-yard line. Neither team could gain an outright football in the first quarter and the contest became a tight punting duel between Lowellien and Layden.

WASHINGTON WINS GAME AGAINST U. OF MONTANA

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 10 (AP)—The University of Montana surprised football fans here today by pushing the short end of the score up to 14 while Washington was making 26. Frequently using forward passes for short gains, the Grizzlies dazed Husky second string men, who were not replaced by regulars until the game was more than half over. The Mountaineers wore the first collegians to cross the Husky goal line this year.

RECORD CROWD SEES VICTORY OF UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA COLLEGIUM, LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 (AP)—The University of California football warriors triumphed over the University of Southern California eleven here today before a crowd estimated at 75,000, score 18 to 7. The crowd broke all records for attendance at an athletic contest in the west. The Trojans earned the honor of being the first team to score on the University this season with a series of forward passes, terminating with three line plunges.

OREGON AGGIES ARE DOWNED BY VANDAL ELEVEN

Idaho Takes Step Toward Coast Title with Victory of 7 to 0 in Fast Game Before Record Crowd at Boise

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 10.—Idaho's Vandal eleven advanced a step nearer the Pacific coast conference championship this afternoon when it defeated Coach Butcher's heavy Oregon Aggie squad, 7 to 0, before a crowd of 7,000 spectators from all Idaho and the eastern Oregon, in Boise's fourth annual armistice day classic at Cody field.

Only once did the visitors seriously threaten the Vandal goal line in the last quarter, when after a series of line bucks, interspersed with many forward passes, the Oregonians advanced to Idaho's six-yard line. Here Matty's men, spurred by the "Idaho fight" song, tightened their line, and fighting with the ferocity of tigers, broke up play after play for the heavy Beavers to hold for more than 20 yards and out of danger.

Not only did Idaho hold foreign feet from crossing the line in the last game, but broke a winning streak maintained by the Beavers since 1918.

Idaho Marches Through New the middle of the second period Silvers started the advance which resulted in the only touchdown of the game. After a pass to Vesser failed, "Skipper" elected to carry the ball himself and swept around left end for a gain of 18 yards. After another pass had been knocked down, Silvers completed a pretty throw to Klinton for a gain of six yards, which was followed by a long pass to Kieffer, who grabbed it with one hand. Yardage made, Silvers again passed, this time to Nelson, who carried it 18 yards to the two-foot line on the goal line. With this spectacular playing, the Idaho rooting section was in an uproar, crying for a touchdown. Klinton was chosen to carry the ball over the line with a center smash.

Silvers held the ball while Fitzke booted it squarely between the goal posts, converting the last point.

The Beavers started with a dash. They won the toss, and decided to receive. Price caught Fitzke's long kick, and through brilliant blocking followed by a plunging, started down the field for a touchdown. He was stopped after 55 yards by Silvers, playing safety. The Beavers soon lost the ball when Price's attempt to strike struck an ineligible player. From that time until early in the second period the ball was kept in first one end of the field and then the other.

Kiefferner Stabs Boise, Nov. 10.—(Special to The News)—Idaho, presenting an invincible line on the defense and using a varied plan of attack, defeated the Oregon Aggies in a grilling battle at Cody park Saturday by a 7-0 score. The outstanding stars on Idaho were Kiefferner, Fitzke and Silvers. Kiefferner carried the ball with regularity for great gains through the Aggies' line. He also returned his full share of the punts. The weather was splendid for the classic and the roads to Boise were lined with cars early in the morning.

Idaho Kicks Off Oregon won the toss and Idaho kicked. The ball was returned to the center of the field. The Idaho line stiffened and held the Aggies back down. Idaho attempted two passes and then kicked. Oregon kicked on the first down. Kiefferner made the first down on the next play when he made 12 yards on a fake. Kiefferner started goalward, but the Vandals were halted and penalized for holding. A completed pass brought the ball to the Aggie's 10-yard line and the fans to their feet. Idaho attempted to pass over the line and the ball was again in Oregon's possession on the 20-yard line. The Aggies immediately kicked. Kiefferner again tore off another sensational run around the end for 20 yards and a first down. Then two complete passes again put the ball within scoring distance, but again the Vandal quarter called for a pass and again the pass went wild.

The Aggies kicked and Idaho started to move down the field. The Aggie defense before it only to be stopped when Oregon intercepted u

Vandal pass. This time the Aggies also attempted an end through the line, but were forced to kick. Idaho lost 16 yards through a penalty on the kick and Fitzke punted. The ball was in the possession of the Aggies in the center of the field when the quarter ended. The score was 0-0, and never had the Aggies been able to take the ball past the 20-yard line.

Second Period In the second period Idaho held O. A. C. for downs and the Oregon team also suffered an end through the line, but were forced to kick. Idaho lost 16 yards through a penalty on the kick and Fitzke punted. The ball was in the possession of the Aggies in the center of the field when the quarter ended. The score was 0-0, and never had the Aggies been able to take the ball past the 20-yard line.

Third Quarter The Aggies opened the half by kicking the Idaho goal line. The ball was returned 20 yards. Kiefferner made first down and carried the ball to the center of the field. Passes were more predominant and once more they cost Idaho a chance to score. The Aggies vainly attempted an aerial game but were forced to kick. The Beavers held for more than 20 yards and an exchange of punts ensued. With the ball on O. A. C.'s 25-yard line Idaho passed once more and the ball was on the 5-yard line on the third period ended.

Last Quarter The Vandals advanced the ball to the 5-yard line and again attempted a useless pass. O. A. C. lost 10 yards on the 20-yard line and were forced to kick behind their goal. Idaho returned the kick and the Aggies made a desperate rally and started up the field. This charge took the Vandals by surprise and the Aggies went through them reluctantly only to lose the ball on a costly fumble. Idaho gained possession of the ball and grabbed another pass from the ozone and once more started a smashing attack for a touchdown. Three completed passes, run and line back took the ball to Idaho's 5-yard line and for the first time the Vandal goal was in danger. The Vandal line stiffened and held like a stone wall and Idaho defense broke through and nabbed two attempted passes each for a loss of 10 yards. Idaho received possession of the ball and Fitzke punted out of danger at the goal line.

Notes of the Game The Silver and Gold of Idaho was everywhere in prominence in Boise today. Not only were Idaho supporters there but a large delegation accompanied the Aggie squad from eastern Oregon, bringing with them the O. A. C. military band of 30 pieces which paraded the field before the game. Idaho's Pep Band of crack musicians was on hand and every road leading into Boise was packed with fans listening to the game since early this morning. Hotels were crowded, making it necessary to put up temporary beds to accommodate the 10,000 which witnessed the fourth annual Armistice Day Classic at Cody Park.

IDAHO THEATRE BOWLER LEADS WEEKLY AVERAGE

Phil Pix Takes Leading Place with Total of 560 Pins for Three Games; Scilley is Second, Oubit Third

With the first week of the Twin Falls bowling league over, Phil Pix of the Idaho theatre is standing high with a total of 560 pins for three games. This indicates a splendid season ahead for the local bowlers and the chances are that next week will see stiff competition for the first place in the list as many of the bowlers started with little or no practice.

Table with 3 columns: Name, Games, Total Pins. Includes Phil Pix (560), Scilley (540), Oubit (520), etc.

EAST HIGH WINS AGAIN

Leopards Take Utah North Division Championship Through Defeat of Salt Lake City Opponents

SALT LAKE, Nov. 10.—East high again won the Utah northern division football title when they defeated their traditional rival, West high, by a 27-0 score in the annual classic. Dorn and Scilley were the leading scorers for the Leopards. Although East has suffered two defeats this season, one by Granite, which was the only defeat, bearing no championship standing and the other by West high, the Granite defeat will have no effect upon the championship standing. Inasmuch as the latter team has suffered defeat at the hands of L. D. S., which has been beaten by the Leopards.

ARMY WINS, 44 TO 0 WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Many defeated the Arkansas Agricultural college today by the one-sided score of 44 to 0. The visiting collegians put up a fight but losing right to the end. They had two good men in their backfield in Wood and Jones. The former, with his knife-like thrusts through the Army's line, and the latter by his superb blocking up on the defensive, marked themselves for this special mention.

KANSAS AERIAL ROMP OVER GRINNELL FOOTBALL SQUAD GRINNELL, Iowa, Nov. 10.—The Kansas Aggies romped over Grinnell's football squad here today, winning their first victory of the Missouri valley conference season 34 to 7. Grinnell threatened seriously only once, when they scored their only touchdown of the game in the second period. The Kansas aerial attack was too much for the Pioneers, although they also resorted largely to that style of play. Ten of the fourteen Kansas attempts to pass by this method were successful, netting them 170 yards. Grinnell intercepted nine passes out of 21 attempted.

national book week. Miss Jessie Frasier, in charge of our public library, will testify to the demand among both adults and children for books upon which popular motion pictures have been known to be based. The Idaho theatre opens the week for the first three days with a feature from a well known book, Sir Arthur Hopp's "Rupert of Hentzau." This is a very elaborate production. On Thursday the twentieth century club has taken over the Idaho theatre to show Mark Twain's immortal romance, "The Prince and the Pauper." This is a seven-reel feature production. The ladies of the club have been assured the heartiest cooperation from the schools in making this presentation. Members of the club will be in charge of the Idaho and parents can be sure that their children will be finely entertained on Thursday.

ARMISTICE DAY THOUGHTS: Two reflections particularly are aroused by this fifth anniversary of Armistice Day...

The first is regret that the American soldiers injured in war service have not been cared for more adequately...

The second is the apparent need of a new armistice. France and Germany seem determined to cut each other's throats...

LOYALTY: John Trice, a negro student at Iowa State College, was hurt in a football game last month and died two days later...

stop the play in their territory. "Beware of mass interference. Fight low, with your eyes open and toward the play. Roll back the interference. Watch out for cross breaks and reverse end runs. Be on your toes every minute if you expect to make good."

A WINDSHIELD WARNING: In the court room in Cincinnati where speeders, reckless drivers and traffic violators are tried, there hangs a large sign which carries a warning against the misuse of automobiles.

"CAUSES" are plainly printed the words, "Ignorance," "Carelessness," "Drunkness." On the other side, under "EFFECTS," are the words "Pain," "Misery," "Death."

The driver who is brought into court for having produced one of these effects has perhaps already learned his lesson and will be careful in the future. It is the fresh crop of careless drivers who have had narrow escapes, but whose bad accident is still to come, who need the warning.

TRICKY FOX By DADDY

(Daddy Dog trails a thief who has been stealing chickens. The thief leads to the creek near a fox farm. He suspects Tricky Fox of being the thief, but Tricky Fox is shut up in the pen. Bally Sam proves his own cleverness by flustering Tricky Fox into leaving the fox farm.)

CHAPTER VI. Tricky Fox's Secret. BALLY SAM, by his sly flattery of Tricky Fox, had proved one thing—that Tricky Fox had a secret way of getting in and out of the fox farm. He was supposed to be shut up tightly behind a high wire fence, but he was too cunning to stay shut up. Jack, Janet and Daddy Dog, hiding in the bushes, thought Bally Sam very smart to prove that much. But how had Tricky Fox got in and out? Could Bally Sam learn that too?

"See-haw, I am hungry to meet such a sly fox as Tricky Fox," barked Bally Sam. "I have heard much about you. No one could keep you shut up if you didn't want to stay shut up. Tricky Fox, that is right!" barked Tricky Fox, swelling up his chest with pride. "The fox farm keeper thinks he has me a prisoner, but he hasn't. I go out from the farm when I please and I want to go out when I will."

STATION AGENT WOUNDED IN FIGHT WITH BANDITS

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 10 (AP)—J. W. Baker, station agent of the St. Louis-San Francisco road at Elgin, 15 miles north of here, was wounded late today in an exchange of shots with three bank robbers following the looting of the Bank of Elgin. The robbers escaped with several sacks of silver and an undetermined amount of currency with a posse of citizens at their heels.

It is the intention of the management to use the conlee to draw away the gore.

est of foxes," went on Bally Sam pretending to admire Tricky Fox very much. "Your secret way in and out of the fox farm must be a marvel of cunning."

"I'll be," boasted Tricky Fox. "I have a door from the inside that the fox owner could never find, and I have a door from the outside to which the smartest dog could not trail me."

"Wonderful, wonderful," Tricky Fox said. "I wish I were as sly as you, instead of being just a stupid mule. Can I get in and out of my pasture the way you get in and out of the fox farm?"

"No," he said. "You are much too big to get in and out the way I do. You see I have a hole that leads from my den to a drain pipe under the ground. I can creep through the broken place into the drain. Then I have a nice path down to the edge of the creek. It is a dry path, too, except in rainy weather."

"I, when I am outside, a dog chases me, I run into the creek, and to my drain pipe, the mouth of which is hidden in the bushes. I run back the drain pipe, up my hole, and there I am safe inside my den."

"See-haw! How very, very sly," barked Bally Sam. But as he said it he winked at Jack, Janet and Daddy Dog. He had learned the secret of Tricky Fox and in doing so had proved himself far more sly than the fox. And yet Bally Sam looked just as stupid as a mule could look. That was to fool Tricky Fox still more.

Breakfast Food "Matrimonially Speaking"

By MRS. HUGH MCKAY

My husband thinks that I don't have anything to do all day long. His idea of housekeeping seems to be that it's something automatic. I know he pictures me sitting down with a magazine and pressing buttons to start the electric duster and the mechanical bed-maker and the patented laundry-

If I'm late meeting him at his office, some afternoon he simply can't understand how my household duties could possibly have detached me. He takes as though all I had to do that day was to wait until the time came to start downtown to join him.

And when he comes home from work, he asks me what I've been doing while he's been gone, there's always a wrinkle in his eye, as though he were asking a little girl what she's been doing to amuse herself.

Sometimes I'm going to spend a day just as he thinks I spend it—and then listen to him complain when he comes home and finds nothing done! (Copyright, 1923, by Public Ledger Co.)

DOORN FEARS ALLIED WRATH

Grave Consequences Predicted as Result of Return of Former Prince to Germany

DOORN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The return of the former crown prince to Germany, created a big sensation in Doorn. Fears were expressed by some of the Doorn residents today that the country, by allowing Frederick William to leave, has incurred the severe displeasure of the allied powers.

There was great animation around the former German emperor's residence, the windows of which were more brilliantly lighted than usual tonight. There was much coming and going from the chateau and the other buildings on the estate, and a great display of police guarding the entrance.

INDIANAPOLIS WILL BE HEADQUARTERS OF KLAN

Propaganda Work to Be Conducted from Indiana Capital; May Be Center for Activities of Women

PORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 10 (AP)—The national propaganda headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan will be permanently in Indianapolis, it was learned today from a high national officer of the Klan, who arrived with Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans.

"While it will be impossible under our national charter to move the imperial palace from Atlanta," the official said, "we have found that the work of extension and propaganda may be lawfully centered in Indiana."

The Indiana realm for some time has been the center for the Klan activities in 12 states, the spokesman said. Plans to make the Indiana capital the national headquarters of the women's Klan organization are also under consideration, it was said.

The women's body endorsed by the Evans adherents, is regarded as an integral part of the Klan proper and is distinguished apart from the splinter group led by Emperor William Joseph Simmons.

Similar regional centers have been opened in San Francisco and Kansas City and it now is planned to consolidate the three at Indianapolis, according to the Atlanta official.

Serbian Are Dry.

The movement for prohibition is strong among the students of Serbia, and a number of demonstrations in favor of abstinence from alcoholic liquors are planned. It is estimated that 80 per cent of Serbian students are total abstainers.

CHAPTER X

At about the time when Sam Marlowe was having the momentous interview with his father, described in the last chapter, Mr. Rufus Bennett was from an after-luncheon nap in Mrs. Higgett's delightful old-world mansion, Windles, in the county of Hampshire. He had gone to his room after lunch, because there seemed nothing else to do. It was still raining hard, so that a ramble in the picturesque garden was impossible, and the only alternative to sleep, the society of Mr. Henry Mortimer, had been one peculiarly distasteful to Mr. Bennett.

Much has been written of great friendships between man and man, and friendships which neither woman can mar nor death destroy. Rufus Bennett had always believed that his friendship for Mr. Mortimer was of this order. They had been boys together in the same small town, and had kept together in after years. They had been Damon and Pythias, David and Jonathan. But never till now had they been cooped up together in an English country house in the middle of a bad patch of English summer weather. So this afternoon Mr. Bennett, in order to avoid his lifelong friend, had gone to bed.

He awoke now with a start, and a moment later realized what it was that had aroused him. There was music in the air. The room was full of it. It seemed to be coming up through the floor and rolling about in chunks all round his bed. He blinked the last fragments of sleep out of his eyes, and became filled with a restless irritability.

He rang the bell violently, and presently there entered a grave, thin, intellectual man who looked like a duke, only more respectable. This was Webster, Mr. Bennett's English valet.

"What Mr. Mortimer," he barked, as the door opened.

"No, sir. It is I—Webster." Not even the announcement of being summoned like this from an absorbing game of penny snap in the housekeeper's room had the power to make the valet careless of his grammar. "I fancied that I heard your bell ring, sir."

"I wonder you could hear anything with that infernal noise going on," snapped Mr. Bennett. "Is Mr. Mortimer playing that—that d-d gas-engine in the drawing room?"

"Yes, sir. Toot! his Good-by. A charming air be— I Tell him to stop it."

"Very good, sir." The valet withdrew like a duck leaving the royal presence, not actually walking backwards, but giving the impression of doing so. Mr. Bennett lay in bed and fumed. Presently the valet returned. The music still continued to roll about the room.

"I am sorry to have to inform you, sir," said Webster, "that Mr. Mortimer declines to accede to your request."

"Oh, he said that, did he?" "That is the gist of his remarks, sir."

"Did you tell him I was trying to get to sleep?"

"Yes, sir. I understood him to reply that he should worry and get a pain in the neck."

"Go down again and say that I insist on his stopping the thing. It's an outrage."

In a few minutes, Webster, like the dove dispatched from the Ark, was back again.

"I fear my mission has been fruitless, sir. Mr. Mortimer appears adamant on the point at issue."

"You gave me no message?" "Verbatim, sir. In reply Mr. Mortimer desired me to tell you that, if you did not like it, you could do the other thing. I quote the exact words, sir."

"He did, did he?" "Yes, sir."

"Very good! Webster!" "Sir?" "When is the next train to London?" "I will ascertain, sir. Cook, I believe, has a timetable."

"Go and see, then. I want to know. And send Miss Witherington to me."

"Very good, sir."

Somewhat consoled by the thought that he was taking definite action, Mr. Bennett lay back and waited for Billie.

"I want you to go to London," he said, when she appeared.

"To London? Why?" "I'll tell you why," said Mr. Bennett, vehemently. "Because of that pest, Mortimer. I must have legal advice. I want you to go and see Sir Mallaby Marlowe. Here's his address. Tell him the whole story. Tell him that this man is annoying me in every possible way and ask if it can't be stopped. If you can't see Sir Mallaby himself, see some one else in the firm. Go up tonight, so that you can see him first thing in the morning. You can stop the night at the Savoy. I've sent Webster to look out a train."

"There's a splendid train in about an hour. I'll take that."

"It's giving you a lot of trouble," said Mr. Bennett with belated consideration. "Oh, no!" said Billie. "I'm only too glad to be able to do something for you, father, dear. This noise is a terrible nuisance, isn't it?"

"You're a good girl," said Mr. Bennett.

CHAPTER XI

"That's right!" said Sir Mallaby Marlowe. "Work while you're young, Sam, work while you're young." He regarded his son's boat head with affectionate approval. "What's the book today?"

"Widgery on Nial Prins Evidence," said Sam, without looking up.

"Capital!" said Sir Mallaby. "Highly improving and as interesting as a novel—some novels. There's a splendid bit on, I think, page two hundred and fifty-four where the hero finds out all about Copphold and Customary Vagabonds. It's a wonderfully powerful situation. It upturns—but I forget the name for you. Mind you don't skip to see how it all comes out in the end!" Sir Mallaby suspended conversation while he addressed an imaginary bill with the mangle which he had taken out of his golf bag. For this was the day when he went down to Walton Heath for his weekly foursome with three old friends. His tubby form was clad in tweed of a violent nature, with knickerbockers and stockings. "Sam!"

"Yes?"

"Sam, a man at the club showed me a new grip the other day. Instead of overlapping the little finger of the right hand . . . Oh, by the way, Sam?"

"Yes?"

"I should lock up the office today if I were you, or anxious clients will be coming in and asking for advice, and you'll find yourself in difficulties. I shall be gone, and Peters is away on his holiday. You'd better lock the outer door."

"All right," said Sam, absently. He was fuming; Widgery stiff rendering. He had just got to the bit about Hapty Huerdilla, which, as of course you know, is a writ for taking away an heir holding Insoceae.

Sir Mallaby looked at his watch. "Well, I'll have to be going. See you later, Sam."

"Good-by."

Sir Mallaby went out and Sam, plucking both elbows on the desk and all about Copphold and Customary Vagabonds. It's a wonderfully powerful situwith a crown of concentration to the grasping with Widgery. For perhaps ten minutes the struggle was an even one, then gradually Widgery got the upper hand. Sam's mind, numbed by constant hammerings against the sturdy ramparts of legal phraseology, weakened, faltered and dropped away; and a moment later his thoughts, as so often happened when he was alone, darted off and began to circle round the image of Billie Bennett.

Since they had last met, Sam had told himself perhaps a hundred times that he cared nothing about Billie, that she had gone out of his life and was dead to him, but unfortunately he did not believe it. A man takes a deal of convincing on a point like this, and Sam had never succeeded in convincing himself for more than two minutes at a time. It was useless to pretend that he did not still love Billie more than ever, because he knew he did; and now, as the truth swept over him for the hundred and first time, he groaned holowly and gave himself up to the gray despair which is the almost inseparable companion of young men in his position.

Overworked Starter puts heavy strain on battery—

BE nimble with the starter these cold nights and mornings. Don't let it grind and growl and groan in its struggle with a cold engine.

If your car has been standing in an unheated garage or for several hours out-of-doors, throw out the clutch and make judicious use of the choke as you step on the starter button. If the motor doesn't take hold with the first few turns, let it rest a few seconds before re-engaging the starter.

While it is true the present day starting motor will stand a fair amount of punishment, bear in mind that its frequent and continued use puts a heavy strain on the battery. For this reason, as well as the fact that the lights are used a great deal more at this time of the year, the battery should be tested at frequent intervals—once a week isn't too often. A starved battery will freeze at 20° above zero. A fully charged battery is safe at 40° below zero.

A practical word about gasoline

Would you attempt to judge the heat value of a coal by its weight, if you didn't know whether it was anthracite or bituminous or what percentage was slate or dirt?

You might just as reasonably judge the quality of motor gasoline by its gravity. Labelling gasoline "high test" or "high gravity" amounts to saying nothing in an interesting way, so far as its quality, power and economy as motor fuel are concerned.

What you want in gasoline is a complete, orderly chain of boiling points—some low points to assure positive ignition, with a proper proportion of intermediate and higher points to yield maximum power and mileage. That is balanced gasoline. That is CONOCO. And that's as far as you need to look—winter or summer—anywhere in these six mountain states.

Contributions to Hazel Lansberry Benefit Fund Ample for All Objectives

Attainment of the goal set for the movement initiated by the Odd Fellows lodge for the benefit of Miss Hazel Lansberry was reported Saturday evening by S. Henry Bolton, chairman of the local committee. Contributions amounting to more than $500 had been received, Mr. Bolton said, of which amount $771.00 had been received in cash and all bills in view of the movement had been paid. A total of 328 individual contributors was listed.

Success of the effort, Mr. Bolton said, will make it possible to return to Miss Lansberry $250 which she herself is spending for surgical treatment at the Mayo clinic, in addition to meeting all expense incident to the treatment and paying tuition in a business college.

PAGEANT PART OF BOOK WEEK

Junior High School Pupils to Stage Interesting Event in Connection with Observance

The Twin Falls junior high school plans to take an active part in the national book week observance, November 11-18. The work is under the supervision of Miss Jessie Fraser of the public library here, and the junior high is working in cooperation with the main event of the week in the junior high school will be a pageant by the students of the junior high school given Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium with the high school band also taking part in the affair.

Last spring lists of books to be read during vacation were handed to the high school students and those who have completed the lists are the ones to take part in the play, which is under the direction of Miss Grace Westfield. The play to be given has a cast of 20 and has for its title "Friends in Bookland." The title is explanatory of the characters which are drawn from well-known books.

In addition to this pageant the pupils of the junior high and also of the fifth and sixth grades are preparing essays on their choice of two subjects, "My Book Party," or "A Book Play." These compositions will be submitted to Miss Fraser Monday and an award in the form of two well-bound books will be presented to the winners by Miss Fraser the following Wednesday at the regular weekly assembly.

The Twentieth Century Club, the Idaho theater and other business institutions are cooperating with Miss Fraser in making the national book week a success in Twin Falls.

HEAR WILSON'S SPEECH

Former President Wilson's speech, "The Significance of Armistice Day," which was broadcasted Friday evening from Washington was heard by at least 20 Twin Falls radio fans.

E. O. Havens reports that about 9 o'clock he "listened in" on the wartime president's message, which Mr. Wilson gave from his S street home, and which was broadcasted from the powerful WZL station in Washington, D. C. Mr. Havens has a large set located in the Auto Repair shop, over which the speech came loud and clear, he said, for six or seven minutes. The former president's voice was weak and showed the unmistakable signs of old age.

Recalls Visit Here Twenty Years Ago

C. H. Likens, Who Came to Twin Falls First as Salesman, Returns as High Lodge Official

Twenty years in the Twin Falls country has transformed one of the widest of desert regions into a fruitful region surrounding the most cosmopolitan city in Idaho, according to C. H. Likens of Berkeley, California, deputy supreme district of the Loyal Order of Moose, who returned here Friday after an interval of 20 years to address members of the order and his friends here.

Mr. Likens recalled that on his former visit to Twin Falls he had found here a frontier town of tents and shacks. Today, he said, you have here "what I consider the most cosmopolitan city in Idaho."

"I came here 20 years ago," Mr. Likens said, "as a traveling salesman for an independent tobacco firm in Kentucky. It was hard picking for the independents in those days. I had just finished a discouraging day in Pocatello. A traveling companion advised me, if I had the nerve, to go to Twin Falls, assuring me that I would do more business here than I had in Pocatello. I found here only two firms handling tobacco, but my friend's assurance proved accurate, and I had a satisfactory day."

"When I was scheduled to visit Twin Falls again the town persisted, and this is a real and gratifying surprise to me to discover the marvelous advance that had been made here."

"Coming to Twin Falls 20 years ago I left the railway at Shoshone and traveled by stage, crossing the river at Shoshone falls. The stage changed horses three times on the trip. On either side of the canyon between Shoshone and Twin Falls there was nothing to be seen but sage brush plains extending interminably on every hand. I am sure that I counted more than a hundred rattlesnakes on the trip. It seemed to me the wildest country imaginable."

Mr. Likens left here Saturday morning going to Pocatello and from that point he will proceed to Butte, in the interests of the order of which he is one of the principal officials.

CHAMBER PLANS RULES REVISION

Membership to Vote on Proposed Changes at Close of Expansion Campaign

Revision of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce constitution and by-laws is under consideration in connection with the chamber's expansion campaign which is to be launched Tuesday and continue for three days, according to announcement made Saturday evening.

A special committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws has made a careful study of the subject and will make a report at a meeting of all the members shortly after the campaign is completed, the announcement said. This is intended to give opportunity for all the members of the organization to vote on the proposed revision.

The revised constitution as will be proposed by the committee will have a number of changes. In making the revision the committee has kept constantly in mind the idea of making the chamber of commerce organization as democratic as possible and at the same time giving every member opportunity for full participation in all of its activities.

Some of the outstanding suggestions along this line are:

1. The referendum—"Upon the request in writing of ten per cent of the members in good standing, the board of directors shall, or upon its own initiative may, submit a question to the members for a referendum vote; the ballot for such a vote to be accompanied by briefs stating both sides of the question. When so stated in their requests, action taken therein by the membership shall be final."
2. The election of directors by the board of directors shall, or upon its own initiative may, submit a question to the members for a referendum vote; the ballot for such a vote to be accompanied by briefs stating both sides of the question. When so stated in their requests, action taken therein by the membership shall be final."
3. Members' Forum—This is the common ground on which all members meet to present and consider matters for the Program of Work. It is the dynamo of the organization and will have semi-monthly if not weekly meetings, for the discussion of the problems connected with the advancement of Twin Falls.

Shower Comes After 18 Days Fair Period

Saturday evening brought to Twin Falls country the first rainfall in a period of 18 days of fair weather. Temperature recorded at 10 o'clock was high and the shower that came with nightfall, resembled a spring drizzle. The shower continued for less than an hour, and the total precipitation was slight.

Temperature Saturday touched 59 degrees for high, the same maximum as was recorded for the preceding day, and was low at 26, an advance of two degrees.

maintenance of exalted standards of conscience and of right." Two of the most powerful radio stations in the east, one in Washington and one in New York, were connected by wire with the microphone into which the former president spoke. At its central office here, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, under which auspices the speech was delivered, set aside a room equipped with a voice amplifier for the use of newspaper correspondents in reporting the former president's words, but his voice did not come distinctly and in some cases transcripts made by expert stenographers differed in some respects.

Mr. Wilson's manuscript, made public later, showed that in many instances he did not follow the prepared form of his address. At several points he interpolated parenthetical clauses which had been followed by the United States since the war did not include the word "cowardly" used by him in using the address, but read, "and withdraw into a sullen and self-satisfied isolation which is deeply ignominious because manifestly dishonorable."

In its essential structure, however, and in the wording of most of its passages, the manuscript was followed without change.

They are busy men like yourself, but they are giving their time and energy to the creation of a modern Chamber of Commerce in this city. Give them a hearing and give them your membership.
