Story of Sale of Walton's Notes to Raise Money to Pay for Governor's Home Laid Before Impeachment Tribunal

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—Financial transactions by which Governor J. C. Walton acquired a $45,000 residence here last week involving a transfer of "wealthy" man of the state in an effort to dispose of six $5,000 notes which the executive gave to Walter D. Caldwell, the owner of the property, were detailed to the senate court here today in the governor's impeachment trial.

In purchasing the residence Governor Walton paid Caldwell, a local oil man, $10,000 cash and gave him notes for the balance. The notes were sold to E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil and Refining company at Ponca City. The governor is charged in the impeachment bill with obligating himself there to Marland, who is described as owing "several millions of dollars of notes and property" in Oklahoma. The bill charges that the transaction was "willfully corrupt" in that the governor is chairman of the state board of equalization which assesses property in the state.

Caldwell told the court that he negotiated the sale of the notes and described his efforts to induce various men to purchase them. He asserted that the terms of the sale of the house were completed before he attempted to dispose of the notes.

Recalled to the stand later, Caldwell was asked: "Did Marland say to you after the sale of the notes that he had a story about the notes being the deal was closed?" "Yes, sir," Caldwell replied. "Did you know Marland would tell the notes before the deal was closed?" "I thought he would."

Had His Opinion "In your conversation with the governor did you understand that he expected Marland to carry these notes and never collect them?" "I had an opinion of my own that something might come up and the notes never be collected," Caldwell said.

The witness then explained that he had no conversation with the governor that led to the belief that "I thought it from newspaper talk and knowledge of other things." Upon a motion by defense, the court struck the question and answer from the record.

Zangwill Attacks Participation of U.S. in Late War

Noted English Author Glasses Preparedness as Folly and Claims France Is Aggressor in Present Program

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The United States was not attacked in the last war and "it would have been better for the world as things turned out if it had not gone in at all," Israel Zangwill, English author, today wrote as part of his reply to the National Security League, who in a speech at Perth Amboy, N. J., last night challenged Zangwill's recent criticism of things American.

"There then would have been a draw and militarism would have been killed instead of reviving in other countries," Zangwill said. "My idea of the folly of preparedness does not attach to America alone but to all the world. I am for the policy of disarmament which I believe is also an American ideal and which was the reason why our statesmen, in England at least—Asquith for example—were determined to prolong the war indefinitely."

"It is useless mentioning old historical analogies when you are face to face with such new weapons of destruction that all ideas of preparedness must be revised. That was why I insisted the real thing that was necessary was mental preparedness to be aware of the sense that produce war and to try to circumvent it."

"You mention England and France as possible enemies since they are building aircraft with feverish anxiety. The only aggressor is France. England is building merely from fear of France, but neither country is building against America. Even France is building only from fear of German revenge."

Coolidge Applauds Actor's Portrayal of Robert E. Lee

Dramatic Incident at Theater Recalls Healing of Wounds of Civil War Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Calvin Coolidge, the first Yankee president in a generation, sat in a theater here tonight and applauded an impersonation of Robert E. Lee, in John Drinkwater's play bearing the name of the Confederate leader. Mr. Coolidge himself was applauded, as he left the theater, by an audience that included representatives of many families of the old south.

The president was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, Frank M. Stearns, a close friend of the Coolidge family, and C. Bascom Slemm, his secretary and son of a Confederate officer. Tonight was the first time the president and Mrs. Coolidge had attended the theater since they entered the White House.

NEW ERA FOR TWIN FALLS PREDICTED

Dinner of Chamber of Commerce in Interests of Enlarged Program of Civic Development Well Attended.

The object of the expansion drive of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and the spirit that will lead more than 75 workers in the three-day campaign beginning Tuesday morning, were expounded by speakers at the "greater Twin Falls dinner" at the Begeron hotel Tuesday evening and received by approximately 150 representative men and women of the city with an enthusiasm that argues well for the success of the project.

The keynote of the speeches was in effect that the community's great opportunity for taking advantage of an advancement program is now at hand, that the most feasible means of carrying out that program is through general co-operation and that the Chamber of Commerce is the logical medium through which it should be conducted.

To do this the goal of the drive for membership in the Chamber has been set at 400 and the annual budget has been fixed at $10,000.

Drugs Whole-Hearted Support The situation was clearly explained by Mayor Shad L. Hoigin, the third speaker on the program. "We are now standing at the crossroads," he said. "One of the roads ahead leads only to a cul de sac. The second leads to bigger and better things: better schools, churches, stores and banks; to a larger community and, in short, to a bigger and better Twin Falls. We can only accomplish these things by supporting this movement as it should be supported. Do you want these things as in Twin Falls to stand still?"

Mr. Hoigin was introduced by Asner B. Wilson, who presided, as toastmaster, as "the man who has solved, to believe, the tax problem in Twin Falls."

WHEAT ACREAGE ESTIMATE FIXED

Present Crop Declared to Be Insufficient to Take Care of Domestic Demands as Product Needed

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—The present wheat acreage of 62,000,000 acres planted should be reduced gradually to 50,000,000 acres, an acreage sufficient to take care of domestic demands as rapidly as profitable alternative crops can be introduced, the wheat production committee of the Wheat Council of the United States has decided, President Sydney Anderson of the council announced at the end of a day's meeting of the committee here today. The meeting will be continued tomorrow.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—Prosecution testimony is expected to be started tomorrow in district court here where Marriner and John Browning, Jr., are on trial for first degree murder as a result of the fatal shooting last April of the latter's brother-in-law, Benjamin F. Ballantyne. The selection of a jury was completed this afternoon. The task of getting a jury was started on November 5 and the nine time since then has been pent in examining veniremen.

Rieple, president of the company, said the liabilities are said to be secured by notes and mortgages of stockmen doing business in practically all of the Rocky mountain states.

FORMER GERMAN RULER PREPARING FOR RETURN TO HIS NATIVE COUNTRY

Leading Citizens in Holiday Dress For Home Coming

Return of Former German Crown Prince Causes Manifestation of Extremes of Feeling on Part of Populace

OELS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Practically all of the Oels leading citizens, from the probate court judge down, have donned their Albert coats and high hats in honor of the former German crown prince's home-coming. American and other foreign press representatives and motion picture men have descended upon the town by the score, in airplanes, motor cars or by railway. The hotels today were filled to overflowing and the streets were obligingly more pleased than the other citizens over the return of the town to a pro-war status.

No official reception has been planned for Frederick William, the burgo-master not having been officially advised of his return. The exile comes back as a private citizen. Furthermore, the castle is under separate jurisdiction and not under the control of the local administration. It has its own government comprised of officials who police the building and the surrounding estate on which Princess Cecilia, Frederick William's wife and her children reside.

There are fewer than 20 known communists living in Oels, whose working population of approximately 3,000 is, however, seemingly anything but elated over the possibility of the town's suddenly becoming monarchialist. Communist agitator, The former king, Saxony, Frederick August, lives on an estate ten miles away. The average man and woman is grumpy about the government wanting the former crown prince to return.

Conflicting Views Expressed "He was fit to run out of Germany, in her hour of great trouble, why should he be allowed to return now?" observed one elderly woman in the crowd outside the castle gates today.

A certain faction, however, welcomes the exile, and "Deutschland uber alles" resounded in the leading beer halls today. Telegrams and flowers are pouring into the castle and servants are beginning to show interest over the number of callers endeavoring to find out what is going on within the most highly encircled Polish, Austrian and German prince in turn through four centuries of Silesian turmoil and war.

Oels itself was apparently little affected by the late war. It acquired an extra working population of several thousand men when the war industries were active, but these have left or have been absorbed by agriculture. It has the familiar medieval appearance, narrow crooked streets and public buildings and churches which reflect the Polish, Austrian rather than German architecture. Food is abundant and far less expensive than in the cities and the population shows less of misery and strain than does that of Berlin.

BAVARIAN TROUBLE ENDED

Feeling in Affected German Region Still Tense But No Further Outbreaks Anticipated

BERLIN, Nov. 12 (AP)—The latest reports received here from Munich are to the effect that the authorities there are in full control of the situation. No disorders occurred today although feeling still was tense. Dr. Von Kahr, the dictator, is declared to have lost much popularity owing to the obscure part he played in last week's attempted "putsch."

The Deutsches Zeitung says General Ludendorff has informed Dr. Von Kahr he was killed and lured into the attempted Hitler coup. He was without knowledge of the real aims of the movement and is said to have urged Hitler to surrender.

WILSON HIGHLY GRATIFIED

Former President in Armistice Day Message Predicts Return to Former Attitude on World League

SEATTLE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Woodrow Wilson in an armistice day message received today by the King County Democratic club of this city expressed gratification because its members were, he said, "ready to join the great and fraternal movement of opinion by which our past attitude in relation to the peace of the world will be retrieved and the leadership of America in the humane policies of the world restored."

Brussels Report Claims ex-Empress or Son Expected to Be Restored to Throne December 4; Passports Obtained

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12 (AP)—The former German emperor is preparing to return to the Fatherland. He already has in his hands passports for himself and his suite, and the Brussels Gazette goes so far as to say that it is expected the Hohenzollern monarchy will be restored on December 4. William, or his son, the former crown prince, Frederick William, according to the throne.

Private advices from Doorn, received by the Agence Telegraphique Belge, says that a committee was organized at Doorn at four o'clock this afternoon with 12 German passports for the ex-emperor and his immediate entourage. A telegram in cipher was received there in the morning and early in the afternoon there was a long conference between those close to the emperor. Later a high Dutch official, Dr. East, of the ministry of the interior, called and was closeted with the former emperor for 35 minutes.

A wireless system has been installed at Doorn house, which has been the residence of the head of the Hohenzollern during the later years of his internment in Holland, and messages are received from Nauen at noon daily.

OBTAINS PASSPORTS

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12 (AP)—The former German emperor received German passports for himself and suite this afternoon, according to the Gazette.

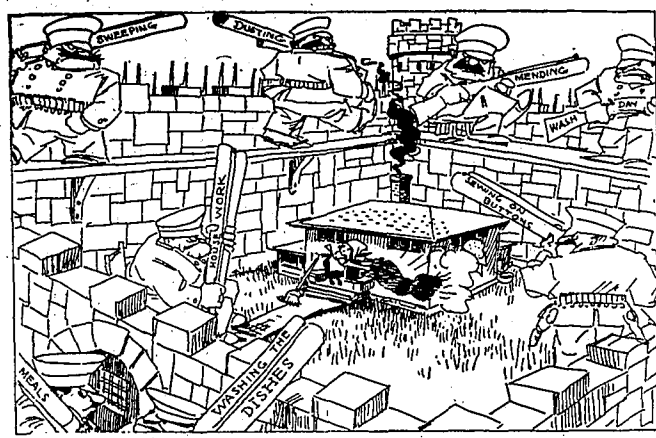

Late dispatches from Doorn, where former Emperor William's residence since his internment in Holland, announced that he was maintaining close relations with the leaders of the German nationalist movement and was said to be hopeful that the events in Germany would result in his favor. It was also reported that the Dutch government was anxious to consult with the allies before granting permission to either the former emperor or former crown prince to quit Holland but when the crown prince did depart from that country the Dutch government denied any responsibility for him under international law.

Suggest Confinement

Holland, according to recent French advices, might be regarded as an insufficiently secure retreat for the ex-emperor in view of the flight of Frederick William. This was stated on the authority of the foreign office and

WHY WIVES GO CRAZY THIS TIME OF THE YEAR

Pioneer Inventor's Case Decided After 71 Years in Courts

Supreme Court Rules Woodbridge, Who Bought Patent in 1852, Had No Claim to U. S. Compensation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—After 71 years' controversy involving appeals to congress and litigation in the courts, the Supreme Court today decided that William E. Woodbridge, deceased, had abandoned his invention for firing projectiles from rifled cannon, and that his estate was not entitled to any compensation from the government for its use.

Woodbridge, in February, 1852, filed his application in the patent office and when his claims were allowed he had the papers filed in the secret archives, where they remained for more than nine years until December, 1861, when he sought to have the patent issued, explaining that he thought an opportunity had arisen to make the invention peculiarly valuable.

In the war between the states the use of rifled projectiles was highly developed, but whether the government actually used the Woodbridge invention was not determined by the Supreme court. It finally disposed of the abandoned claim by finding that Woodbridge by the delay in patenting his invention had sacrificed whatever rights he may have had as the original inventor of the method of firing rifled projectiles.

Chief Justice Taft announced that Woodbridge had deliberately delayed the issuance of his patent, with the term of the monopoly had been regarded commercially more attractive by the Civil War when cannon were being made in such quantities that the value of monopoly was small.

STRENUOUS DAY IS ANTICIPATED BY COMMITTEE

Senate Investigation into Veterans' Hospital Situation Is Getting Down to Basis of Real Facts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The senate investigating committee prepared today for the appearance before it tomorrow of Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, who has been the center of fire in the inquiry.

Forbes is to take the stand the first thing in the morning and the expectation is that his direct and cross examination will consume upwards of two days. At the outset he will ask permission to read a prepared statement in reply to the charges which have been made against him.

Forbes is appearing in his own behalf, the former director of the army and navy officers who will be questioned with a view to refuting testimony which has been given with regard to the awarding of contracts for veterans' hospitals. The committee also expects to recall for cross-examination Elias J. Clegg, Philadelphia, whose charges against Forbes proved one of the sensations of the hearing.

Inquiry by the committee today was directed largely to the operations of the medical division. Dr. L. B. Rogers, director of that division, was the witness and he stated they had seen great abuses in the use of contract hospitals not only with respect to charges made to the government but also in the matter of the care of the veterans and the food served to them.

Critic Specific Instance

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, developed in some instances that political influence has been used to keep contract hospitals in operation after their examination by bureau officials had shown them to be unsatisfactory. Senator Walsh pointed to the case of such a hospital in New England which was not closed until two years after it had been found to be unfit.

Dr. Rogers could give little information as to alleged abuses in the matter of the appointment of guardians for mentally incompetent veterans, but Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, said approximately $8,500,000 is paid out annually to such guardians without proper safeguards as to their disposition. Senator Reed was insistent as to why there has not been readjustments of ratings of disabled men which, he said, in some cases, work to the disadvantage of the government and in many more to the disadvantage of the veterans. Referring to the recommendations of a former senate investigating committee on this subject, Senator Reed declared it was useless for congress to have committees inquire into this matter if the recommendations of such committees are not followed.

Sawyer Story Contradicted

Dr. Rogers replied that the rating schedule is now under review.

Recalled at his own request, Lieutenant Commander Charles R. O'Leary, U. S. N., former director of the division of supply of the veterans' bureau, contradicted the testimony of Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer that it was Dr. Sawyer who stopped the shipments of property from Perryville, Mo.

Commander O'Leary said that when Dr. Sawyer arrived at Perryville, O'Leary had in his hand a telegram instructing him to stop the shipments and that he was on his way to see the officer in charge to give the necessary instructions.

"Who signed that telegram?" asked Senator Reed on behalf of counsel for Forbes.

"Charles R. Forbes," was the reply. Commander O'Leary also took issue with Colonel Henry C. Smither of the budget bureau, who charged that there had been a "padding" of the list of supplies to be sold at Perryville after the list had been cleared through the budget bureau as containing no material desired by other departments.

Explains Action on List

O'Leary asserted that the original list was discarded as a result of a conference between representatives of the veterans' bureau, the public health service and the budget bureau as to the allocating of 20-per cent of the material to the public health service.

It was also testified to by O'Leary that the Perryville sale was investigated by a committee of officials of the veterans' bureau appointed by George E. James, the acting director after the departure of Forbes for Europe.

John F. O'Bryan, general counsel for the committee, said he never had heard of such an investigation.

RIGHT OF ALIENS TO HOLD LANDS FINALLY SETTLED

United States Supreme Court Hands Down Decision of Far-Reaching Importance on Pacific Coast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Aliens can be prohibited by states from owning land provided there is no treaty stipulation to the contrary, the supreme court announced today in an opinion ending a legal controversy which for years had been an issue on the Pacific coast. The question has arisen in "importance" with the controversy which was waged over the right of Japanese to citizenship until the court removed the latter from the field of discussion by a decision last term.

The issue reached the supreme court in two cases, one from Washington, brought by Frank Terrace and his wife and N. Nakatuka, and the other from California, brought by W. I. Porterfield and Y. Misuno. While the cases presented only the question of proposed leasing of land to ineligible aliens, the court squarely met the issue and passed upon the broad question of the constitutionality of the law. It held that states could, as Washington had, prohibit from owning land aliens eligible to citizenship, on the California law, which prohibited the prohibition to aliens who had not, in good faith, declared intention to become citizens.

States Make Effort

The states of California and Washington sought to have the challenge disposed of upon the technicality that in neither case had there been an actual violation of the law, there having been no leases made nor any confiscation of land as provided by the two states as penalty for the violation of the law. They had been successful in having the attack decided in the lower courts without going into the merits of the constitutionality of the laws.

The supreme court found, however, that there was presented certain equitable rights which entitled both the land owner and the proposed Japanese lessee to a decision on the validity of the laws before they had incurred liability to punishment. It therefore assumed full jurisdiction to review the case from every point of view. The main decision was handed down in the Washington case, the court explaining that the grounds upon which the Washington alien land law was attacked included those on which the California act was assailed.

William Gibbs McAdoo Declares He Is a Poor Politician and Explains Reason to Chicago Newspaper Man

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo, here for a short visit on his way to his home in California, told reporters today that he was a poor politician. He said when he was secretary of the treasury a friend said to him: "You're a poor politician, for you don't pass around any cigars." "I took the hint and laid in a box," said Mr. McAdoo, "but it was no use. I never remembered at the right time to offer the cigars to anyone. You see, I don't smoke myself; somehow never learned. And I am still, as you see, a poor politician."

About Retailers—the Growing Mass and the Dwindling Class

Goods which are well advertised nationally by the manufacturer are largely sold to the public before they ever reach the retailer.

Goods which are not advertised by the producer must be sold by the retailer.

In the one case, the manufacturer has done a great part of the job; in the other he has left it all for the dealer to do.

For many articles, national advertising creates an actual demand, so that all the dealer need do is to say, "You can buy it here." In other lines, the advertising identifies the product in the possible buyer's mind, arouses his interest in it and establishes his confidence in the makes, upon which the dealer can cash in by his own selling efforts.

But with unadvertised goods, the retailer must start from scratch.

Retailers who favor nationally advertised lines believe in selling what the public wants. They are a growing mass.

Retailers who favor unadvertised lines believe in selling what they want the public to buy. They are a dwindling class.

The ranks of these latter retailers are rapidly growing smaller because most of them are learning that public confidence is the basis of successful selling; that quick turnover is a shorter and surer road to profit than long discounts on slow-moving, dust-gathering goods; that even those customers who appear to swallow their selling talk or unadvertised merchandise have a discouraging way of not coming back for more.

Just the other day a paint and varnish dealer in California wrote to a manufacturer in the Middle West whose name is known through national advertising wherever varnish is used, "We are discontinuing our other lines and hereafter will center our efforts upon (mentioning the name of the maker's product) because the demand is for it."

About the same time a printer in a northern Ohio city was telling his paper jobber that thereafter he intended to standardize on a certain nationally advertised make of bond paper because "everybody knows it, and it is so easy to sell."

And a druggist who carries packaged chocolates stated that he stocked only the nationally known makes, with the exception of one make well known locally, because all he had to do was hand out what the customer asked for and take the money.

Ten years ago—yes, even five—the manufacturer's salesman who went around to the trade and talked about his firm's national advertising was likely to be met with the statement that it would be a lot better if his concern took the money it was putting into advertising and used it to enlarge discounts to the trade.

Today, the fact that he is a real national advertiser is a tremendous asset with the trade to any manufacturer, and his salesman's portfolio of advertising is as important as—very frequently more important than—his sample case.

BRUINS AT WORK FOR NEXT GAME

Twin Falls Squad Continues Practice with Opponents Not Yet Designated

The Bruins began active practice Monday night in preparation for a game Friday. But the opponents are yet undetermined. The state board of control is silent on the matter and Idaho Falls is equally insistent with Burley that they face the Bruins. There is time enough for both games by playing Burley next Friday and Idaho Falls the following week, but Idaho Falls refuse to play on any other date and there the matter stands. The Bruins will not lay off practice without waiting for a decision and after the mediocre showing against Rupert they are due for a drilling. The practice Monday night was given over to the discussion of one or two new plays and high scrimmage throughout the practice period. There were no serious injuries from the Rupert game and the whole squad was in good shape.

Coach Minkoff of Idaho Falls and seven members of his squad were present at the report and are credited with saying that they would trim the Bruins 40 to 0. They, no doubt, have a splendid aggregation and will weigh equally as much as the Bruins. They have not been defeated this season and confidently expect to take the state honors. It will be the prettiest battle of the year when they tangle with the Bruins on Lincoln field. Prophecies are not in order but one thing can be said for certain, both aggregations will know that they have been in a game.

Should Burley be decided upon to meet Twin Falls next Friday the question of where the battle will be staged will arise and the only fair way to settle it will be to toss for it. This will probably be the method decided upon. Burley depends upon two men to win for them, Korschlanik and Canino. Canino is the most dangerous of the two because of his speed and ability to squirm through a hole. Korschlanik is heavy and because of his weight hard to stop, but is not fast enough to worry the Bruin backfield to any great extent. Burley will give the Bruins a hard tussle and the game will be worth watching. Meanwhile we will saw wood and wait for the state board to decide.

Junior High Cubs to Meet Filer Team

Interesting Grid Contest Promised when Youngsters Play Donnan's Men

The Twin Falls junior high school Cubs will meet Filer Tuesday evening on Filer's football field. Coach Anderson expects the youngsters to make a creditable showing against their older opponents. While it is agreed that the game will merely be an exhibition affair, Coach Donnan says that he will use a part of the Filer first team against the junior high, consequently a good game is assured for the Cubs have shown themselves to be superior to the second teams of the section and possibly with the additional support of a few regulars will meet a real team in Coach Donnan's aggregation.

The line at the local school has been strengthened during the past two weeks by the addition of Kenneth "Peck" Dunn at tackle. "Peck" started out at the first of the season last year and was a consistent freshman member of Evans' baseball squad. Besides this new member, who would be a credit to a high school team, Clyde Hinton is now established as a guard. This fellow is green, but has a lot of weight and should show the Filer fans some football. On the other guard is "Fat" Vance—the title is self-explanatory—he furnishes an impregnable place in the line on the defense. The center berth is occupied by Anderson, who has shown his ability throughout the season. The other tackle will be taken care of by either Harrison or Leiser, and the ends are divided between Garrity, Smith, Nye, Jewett or Gentry. In fact this seems to be one of the most disputed places on the team.

In the back field are Berg at quarter, Owens and Stinson at half, and Frazzle plays full, with Kelly and Sears ready to step in any of the back field positions.

The team leaves the junior high at 3:30 this afternoon and the game is called at 4 o'clock at Filer.

SHOW MEN WIN FROM TROJANS

Idaho Theatre Bowlers Step into First Place by Defeating Laundry Squad

The second week of bowling started Monday evening with Idaho theater lads stepping into first place by defeating the Laundry bowlers two out of three games. Although the guests went to the Theater team, the Laundry has credit of individual high score for Phil King made 197 in the last game of the evening. Incidentally this game was high for the season to date. The Trojans apparently attempted to even matters up for the rest of the evening's mediocre bowling and struck their stride in the third game which ended with a 217-259 score in their favor.

The first game went to the Theater when Fix and Ford made high scores for the showmen and pulled through the weaker bowlers on their squad and a score of 812-764.

The next one also came to the protégés of Captain Llaville, when the Trojans began to trail, both he and Fix hit better than 100 and the story for this round is briefly told, 863-722.

The last was a complete victory for the Laundrymen, King leading them with a score of 197, and Cubit taking their low score for this game with 165. For the "Redolpha's" Fix again led the lead, bowling 185, but the rest of the team failed to play up to him, and they lost, 769-911.

STREBS AND SPARES.

The team with the sub again took the games. Incidentally Fix, the speed ball artist, John Henry Ford and "Hoolin" Llaville contributed their full share.

Fix stopped right off last night with a score that bids fair to place him on the top for this week again. Too bad he didn't put over another 200 score. Last night was the first time we didn't have one.

But maybe there should have been some special comment on the other Phil's score. King finished strong last night with 197, even if this didn't give him high score for the evening—that went to the other Phil so you see the Phils shared honors.

Bailey was also doing nice bowling last night. He hit the high mark for the totals in the Laundry list with 54 and squeezed his team mate King with a 194 score.

Stanholz was also out yesterday. Apparently getting in training to lead the Laundry for a victory again this year. When he will officially take his place on the Laundry squad has not as yet been given out.

Which also serves as a reminder that the crowd hasn't increased very much. What has happened to all of Twin Falls' bowling fans? Tritt took an awful drop compared with his splendid showing last week. But it might have been worse. Which team this evening will have the substitute? The Bakers and the Printers from The News square off tonight. And the attendance can be increased. Eight o'clock is when they start, and there is no admission. Piano tuning. Phone Logan's, 108.

Paddock Reports Finding Evans Here

World's Champion Sprinter Gives High Praise to Twin Falls Football Mentor

Discovery in Twin Falls of Clinton W. Evans, the old Pomona coach and the man who used to put fear in the hearts of his rivals in southern California, who is serving now as coach of Twin Falls football team, is announced by Charles W. Paddock, world's champion sprinter, who appeared recently on the Oregon coast, in a signed article appearing in the Long Beach, California Express.

Referring in this article to former Pomona high school gridiron teams, Mr. Paddock continues: "These days were recalled by the writer's visit to Twin Falls. Before reaching this beautiful little city in southern Idaho, the fame of her football eleven had been narrated to me on several occasions. All the high school teams in the surrounding country have a wholesome dread of meeting the Twin Falls eleven. For three years this team has won the state championship, one season not even being scored upon. And the team seems to be well on its way to win another title this year."

When I arrived in this town I discovered that Evans, the old Pomona mentor and the man who used to put fear into the hearts of his rivals in southern California, (Clint has been in Twin Falls for three seasons and every year he has brought in a championship. He did not go there to coach. He trained the team he has retired from active participation in the affairs of the gridiron. He went up there to be a farmer. But the lure of the game gripped him again and he started in "helping out" the boys of Twin Falls. He certainly has done a herculean job of it.

Success has been attained in the interest which Evans has kindled, not only in the students, but in the entire community. Then, too, he has injected a marvelous amount of fighting spirit into the men and he has taught them how to play football.

Evans' Preface. The result is that the entire community has placed Evans on a pedestal and he is the most beloved man in the town. Though his team is not quite so strong this season as last, he still has hopes of making it come through to the championship of the state of Idaho.

In Idaho football, though generally regarded as the sport of sports, has not been supported anywhere near the same degree as in California. Many of the smaller schools have never played the game, and in some the little colleges have no eleven. Since the schools have started playing the game for the first time this season.

One of the big reasons for this has been finances. Where in southern California there is plenty of competition for all star games twice a week within short distances, if the teams wanted to play that often, in Idaho most of the teams of the same size and division are separated by several hundred miles. It costs far more than the receipts to bring in a team. And this, combined with the regular expenses attached to having a team, has made playing prohibitive.

But the interest is all there and the hope that the future may be brighter for America's greatest school game. STONEHAM BE-ELECTED AS HEAD OF NATIONAL LEAGUE BOYS NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Reports that Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York National League club, was about to retire were set at rest today when he was re-elected unanimously by stockholders to head the organization for another year. Stoneham's directors, including John McGraw, manager and vice president, and Francis X. McQuade, treasurer, also were re-elected.

NEW ERA PREDICTED FOR TWIN FALLS

Falls. "The mayor's opening remarks dealt with the early days of the district, the advancement it has since made and the factors that attracted pioneer residents here, emphasizing in the latter instance the community spirit and resources. "What Can a Chamber of Commerce Do for the Merchants?" was the topic of E. J. Ostrander, the first speaker. Mr. Ostrander said, in part: "I am heartily in accord with the program of the Chamber of Commerce. No city of the size of Twin Falls can get along without an organization of this kind, notwithstanding the fact that there are periods when it probably can not show what it is really worth. Full Credit Given "We probably would have had no American Falls railroad and we might not have had the railroad if it had not been for the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. "We should all be 'sold' on the Chamber of Commerce idea, first, because it teaches co-operation. Mr. Ostrander closed by urging co-operation with public service corporations, urging especially equitable, but not disastrously low, railroad freight rates. The Rev. W. H. Tolliver, pastor of the Baptist church, spoke on the importance of the relations between civic and religious bodies. "I feel that a Chamber of Commerce cannot accomplish its purposes," he said, "without recognition of the need of the moral and spiritual. Churches and civic organizations must co-operate. We must work together for the betterment of Twin Falls—for the advancement of the city. The sun is rising on our day and if we don't see it now we will lose the opportunity when it does come." The Rev. Mr. Tolliver recommended the establishment of a rest room, by W. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Larger parks and maintenance of a bigger system of city advertising. Frank Horton, manager of the campaign, devoted considerable time to the topic, "A Modern Chamber of Commerce." "A modern chamber of commerce stands for material and civic advancement as well as for basic importance in material prosperity, but this must be supplemented by spiritual firmness. It means team thinking and team working. In this district you have very important element of advancement, but you need co-operation. Much of Mr. Horton's address was devoted to explanation of the purposes and operation of the projected campaign.

Eliminates Future Drives

It was explained by Secretary Wright that the present campaign if successful will eliminate the necessity of periodic financial drives throughout the coming year on behalf of various items on the chamber's general program. The details for the drive have been given careful consideration and the program is in readiness for presentation. At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning the three "majors," fourteen "captains" and 75 assistants will gather at the chamber of commerce rooms where they will receive final instructions after which they will take to the field to "sell confidence in the future" to the people of Twin Falls.

FORMER GERMAN RULER PLANNING FOR RETURN

It was suggested that a second St. Helena might be chosen for him. A dispatch from The Hague, dated November 12, announced that Dr. Kan, of the Dutch ministry of the interior, had gone to Doorn for a conference with the former German emperor. This visit may have an important bearing on the news which now comes out of Brussels that William is about to return to the fatherland. That has been his ambition for a long time past and the former kaiser has been kept in close touch with the changes in political conditions in Germany. Whether he would ever be able to get back his throne has been problematical all along, but his great desire has been to keep the Hohenzollerns' name to the front, so that if the monarchy ever were successful in their activities a Hohenzollern could return as ruler.

WARM PRAISE IS GIVEN OFFICER

Witness in Court Martial of Destroyer Commander Lauds Conduct of Accused Man

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP)—Testimony praising the accused was prominent today in the trial of Captain Robert Morris, the fourth officer to face a general court martial trial as the result of the loss of seven destroyers at Point Honda on September 8. The court, composed of four captains, two rear admirals and one vice admiral, began the second week of its sessions today.

Seven witnesses were examined, none of them adding materially to the information regarding the disaster adduced in the preceding three trials. The witnesses who had served with Captain Morris on his flagship, S. P. Lee, and those who had occasion to observe him following the disaster at Point Honda, testified that his conduct had been exemplary and in accordance with the highest traditions of the service.

Captain Edward H. Watson, who commanded the eleventh destroyer squadron and who was the first officer tried by the court, testified regarding the practices observed by the captain in the handling of the ship and the navigation of its command during the disaster. He said that he encouraged any independent action necessary to safety but he declared that in his opinion the division commanders had no right to think independent action necessary on September 8.

Ability Highly Praised
Captain Watson paid a tribute to his division commander, saying that he reposed every confidence in their ability and in their willingness to assist in every way in the navigation and conduct of the squadron. Referring specifically to Captain Morris, Captain Watson said:

"I consider that the accused did everything that could have been expected of him on September 8. He was unusually alert and fully cognizant of the navigational situation. I have already officially commended him for his conduct at the time of the disaster and that commendation is a matter of record."

POUND STERLING DECLINES

Coming British Election Believed Responsible for Sharp Drop in British Exchange; Other Countries Attracted

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Heavy cotton bills, transfer of balances from London to New York because of the coming British general election and continued unsettlement of the reparations situation, influenced demand sterling downward to 43.35-38, a new low for the year, at the opening of the New York foreign exchange market today.

Most of the continental and South American exchanges also moved downward, reflecting a new valuation with relation to the new price of sterling. The English bills, settled somewhat later in the day, touching at one time $4.37-38 and closing at $4.37-1/8.

the record. He asked if he had told Chauncey B. Nichols, manager of the Oklahoma Portland Cement company, that he would fight the difficulty if the company had with the governor if he would take one of the notes," Mr. Caldwell replied: "I did not tell him exactly that. I told him I would talk with the governor in regard to Michael's difficulty if he would purchase one of the notes."

Would Be a Sucker
Nichols, who testified later, declared that Caldwell told him he "would be a sucker" if he did not buy the note. Nichols testified that Caldwell asserted he "would try to fix things up with the governor" if the note was taken.

G. J. Wrightman, wealthy Tulsa oil man, testified that he declined emphatically to purchase three of the notes, after he had already contributed more than $12,000 to Walton's campaign expense.

"I did not consider it a good business proposition, but there was not a thing doing," Wrightman declared. Wrightman said Caldwell had asked him to take half the notes, explaining that Charles Page, another wealthy Tulsa resident, would take the other half.

"I did not understand that this was presented to you as a good business proposition," the senator continued.

Not a Business Proposition
"Obviously not," the witness replied. Answering a query of another member of the court, Wrightman said that he understood his taking the note "had been the end of it."

Wrightman, who is president of the board of regents of the University of Oklahoma by Governor Walton's appointment, testified that he gave "from $1,000 to $1,500" to Governor Walton's primary campaign fund and that following the primary he contributed $200 to the same.

Dr. E. T. Bynum, former confidant of Governor Walton, told the court of a trip he made to Ponca City to confer with Marland regarding the financing of the executive mansion purchase which had not then been consummated.

Marland, he said, recommended the purchase of a less expensive home for the governor and offered to advise the governor in the purchase of stock "so the governor could make the money himself." The witness said that when he told Governor Walton of Marland's conversation the executive commented that he "didn't see why Marland couldn't as well take the notes."

The court refused to accept depositions made by Marland and voted to ask him to appear in person when he is able. He is ill at present.

At the morning session today the first attempt to introduce the Klux Klan as an issue in the trial met a swift rebuff by the court.

Homer D. Martin, a lieutenant in the Oklahoma national guard, who testified that for a year and a half he had guarded the residence of the governor at night, told the court that the executive had been threatened with death.

"Wasn't that about the time that Mr. Walton, as mayor, issued a proclamation directed against the Klan?" defense counsel asked. The prosecution entered a protest and moved to strike the reference to the Klan. He was sustained by an oral vote of the court. Both the prosecution and the defense were seemingly surprised at the decisive action. Observers today professed to see indications that the trial will not be so long as at first promised. The court, apparently impatient to finish, reduced its arduous recess instead of the hour that originally had been agreed upon and several times objections were made by members of the court that evidence was being introduced which was unnecessary and delayed the hearing.

relief to the wheat farmer. The report, he said, will not attempt to deal with the immediate situation or its remedies.

The average annual consumption of wheat in the United States for food, feed for animals and seed is about six bushels per capita or about 660,000,000 bushels a year. The average yield per acre over a period of 12 years is about 13.4 bushels, he said. The additional wheat required from year to year to meet the requirements of increased population should be obtained from a larger yield per acre, rather than from an increase acreage, he said.

Would Reduce Acreage.
"We recommend extension programs looking toward reducing the wheat acreage wherever an alternative crop or type of farming can be found which will prove more profitable," he said.

"It is believed that there are better opportunities for wheat raisers in the humid areas than in the sub-humid areas. It is not desirable to enter upon a drastic wheat acreage reduction campaign without reference to alternatives. But even the farmer in the sub-humid regions where the great bulk of our wheat is produced, could aid materially in reducing the wheat acreage by planting in part of his wheat land to feed, forage and pasture crops and through summer fallowing."

It is to the advantage of every farmer, he said, to produce enough milk, butter, poultry and meat to supply his own family and provide for other living expenses so that the money from his wheat would be available in deprecating mortgages, bringing about better living conditions in the farm and making country life more attractive.

Broaden Domestic Market.
"A permanently broadened domestic market for wheat," he said, "is an essential part of the plan for stabilization of the business of wheat growing, in the opinion of the committee. Increased domestic consumption of wheat will in some measure offset the loss of foreign markets due to the competition of plow countries. Wheat products at present constitute too low a proportion of the food intake of the American people. It is the consensus of dietary and nutrition authorities that the use of wheat products may be considerably increased resulting in a more wholesome and economical diet for the American people. Thus an increased wheat consumption in the United States is indicated from every point of view."

Swallow Does Good Work.
The swallow is a great destroyer of insects—particularly of mosquitoes. This bird catches these annoying creatures in flight and the bureau of entomology scientists contend that its consumption of this species of insect is beyond calculation.

Big Loaf of Bread.
If all the bread the average person eats in a year were baked in one loaf, it would take three strong men to lift it and a horse to pull it. The weight of the loaf would be 307 pounds.

NAME RECEIVERS FOR STOCK FIRM

The company has had extensive transactions with the war finance corporation, having borrowed for stock in the western states and for its own use as much as $5,019,300 in 1922, reduced at the time of the receivership, to $619,388.64, according to Mr. de Riegels' statement today. The obligations to the war finance corporation were repaid to the extent of $1,000,000.

Fred O. Roof 34, president of the First National bank of Walsenburg, Colo., and is also a director of the fourth district federal reserve bank and said to have an intimate acquaintance with the cattle business and with cattle raising.

"Obligations were maturing faster than the company could meet them and the step taken today following suit for $10,000 by R. L. Duke of the Xit ranch in northwest Texas, was for the purpose of protecting the company's creditors, customers and stockholders," said Mr. de Riegels today. "We have many resources, worth in excess of our liabilities, I believe, including 30,000 head of cattle, a 45,000 acre ranch in Texas near Pampa and extensive interests in Wyoming and Montana. Several times in Wyoming and Montana during October caused us heavy losses, especially in delaying shipments of cattle when the market was falling rapidly."

MARCUS SHOW BILLED FOR SHOWING AT LAVERING

Howard E. Sabin, manager of the Laving theatre, announces that he has negotiated successfully for the coming of the Marcus Show for special Thanksgiving engagement here on Wednesday, November 28.

Allowing for the usual discount of statements emanating from theatrical press departments, it must be admitted that the claim "no other show like it in all the world, has the basis of fact." No touring organization is so large and no other contains samples of so many diverse styles of entertainment. In the 23 scenes required for its unfolding the Marcus Show runs the gamut from travesty to grand opera. It lacks only in plot. No pretense is made that such an ingredient is to be found.

The new edition of this well-known institution is the residue of 20 big-time vaudeville acts boiled down and garnished with a whole stage full of handsome corymbes. With becoming modesty the publicity department refuses to set forth the actual monetary expenditure, yet knowledge of present-day costs leads to the belief that $100,000 was made to look sick.

WHY NATIONS FIGHT

"Why do men fight?" inquires Charles Milton Newcomb, in an article on human psychology.

"Because man is a fighting animal" will be the common reply. But that is not conclusive.

The writer, admitting the existence of an instinct which impels an individual to fight for himself and for his group when occasion requires, is not convinced that national fighting is necessarily due to this.

There are individuals, he admits, with an inborn disposition to go out and attack other human beings by force. But such individuals are not considered normal.

Fighting is "anger-in action," and the trouble is, says this authority, that "too often anger is stimulated by artificial means and not for the purpose of defense."

He quotes the celebrated social psychologist, Professor Edward A. Ross, to corroborate his view that pugnacity is not at the root of modern wars...

A WORLD FIGHT

So rapid and spectacular has been the development of American aviation lately, under the stimulus of governmental encouragement, that is hardly surprising to hear of the War Department's plan for a world-circling flight next spring.

Five planes of a new type will be used in this venture, if the recommendations of Major General Patrick of the Army Air Service are carried out.

The proposed route is westward, across the continent and north to Alaska, then across Bering Strait and down the coast of Asia, from island to island, until India is reached, thence to Persia, back northward to Scandinavia, over the Atlantic to Greenland and south to the starting place.

The new planes are said to be capable of continuous flights of two thousand miles without refueling, and the longest "hop" over water need not be more than 1,000 miles.

This would be a logical following up of the flight across the Atlantic successfully undertaken by the United States Navy a couple of years ago with a seaplane.

Such efforts serve admirably to promote the general progress of aviation, while adding to the fighting efficiency of our air service.

COUNTING EMIGRANTS

As Secretary of Labor Davis points out, the foreign governments that have been complaining about their nationals being held up or returned after they arrive at Ellis Island have a simple way of preventing such hardships themselves.

It might be supposed that such procedure would be followed by foreign governments as a mere bit of common-sense routine, for our quota system, however imperfect, has been operating long enough now for all foreign countries to be familiar with it.

THE FORUM

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

Twin Falls, Idaho, November 13, 1923. Editor Twin Falls Daily News: Dear Sir: In your paper of November 8 on front page "Alleges church has abandoned gospel for politics."

The church of the New Testament and the church of today, if one will read and think of the then and now, it is worse than ridiculous.

The immeasurable distance between the church of the New Testament and the church of today, if one will read and think of the then and now, it is worse than ridiculous.

Mr. Editor, the craving need of Twin Falls, Idaho, Detroit, Michigan, and the entire world today, right now, is justice for the oppressed.

If Mr. Earl was here he would without doubt have as much reason for his statement as he has in Detroit.

The remedy for this situation is not complex—in fact, it is so simple and is within reach of every individual.

So engrossed was he in his meditation that he did not hear the light footstep in the outer office, and it was only when it was followed by a tap on the door of the inner office that he awoke with a start to the fact that clients were in his midst.

"Oh, were you?" said Billie interested. "Do you always read on the floor?"

"I told you I dropped my pen," said Sam, coldly. "And of course you couldn't read without that? Well, as a matter of fact, this has nothing to do with Nial—what you said."

"I have not specialized exclusively on Nial Prius Evidence, I know the law in all its branches."

"Then what would you do if I know the law when you wanted to get to sleep?"

"The orchestration, eh? Ah, h'm!" said Sam. "You still haven't made it quite clear," said Billie.

"I was thinking."

"Oh, if you want to think!"

"Tell me the facts," said Sam. "Well, Mr. Mortimer and my father have taken a house together in the country, and for some reason or other they've quarreled, and now Mr. Mortimer is doing everything he can to make father uncomfortable."

Sam shrugged from the top of his head to the soles of his feet. It was the voice which had been ringing in his ears through all his waking hours.

He pulled himself with an effort that was like a physical exercise. He stared at Billie dumbly. Then, recovering speech, he invited her to sit down, and seated himself at the desk.

"Mountain pen," babbled Sam, "with a broad gold nib," went on Sam, with the painful appearance which comes only from embarrassment or the early stages of intoxication.

"Who is he?" asked Billie. "He seemed to know you? And who," she demanded after a slight pause, "is Miss Milliken?"

"Sam drew a deep breath. "He's rather a sad story," he said. "His name is John Peters. He used to be a doctor, and he had a patient."

"But isn't he any longer?" "No," Sam shook his head. "We had to get rid of him."

"I don't wonder. A man looking like that!" "It wasn't that so much," said Sam. "The thing that annoyed a father was that he tried to shoot Miss Milliken."

"He tried to shoot Miss Milliken?" "He did about her—the third time," said Sam warming to his work. "He'd in the arm, fortunately," he added.

"But my father is rather a stern disciplinarian and he had to go. I mean, we couldn't keep him after that?" "Good gracious!"

"She used to be my father's stenographer, and she was thrown a good deal with Peters. It was quite natural that he should fall in love with her."

"I must say that he concealed it very effectively," said Sam. "We had no inkling of his condition till he came in with the pistol. And after that... well, as I say, we had to dismiss him."

"But he tried to shoot Miss Milliken?" "That wouldn't have mattered so much, as she had after he made his third attempt, and got married. But the thing became an obsession with him, and we found that he had a fixed idea that every red-haired woman who came into the office was the girl who had deceived him. You can see how awkward that is. Red hair is so fashionable nowadays."

"My hair is red!" whispered Billie pallidly. "Yes, I noticed it myself. I told you it was much the same shade as Miss Milliken's. It's rather fortunate that I happened to be here with you when he came."

"But he may be lurking out there still!" "I expect he is," said Sam carelessly. "Yes, I suppose he is. Would you like me to go and send him away? All right."

"Sam uttered a light laugh. "Very sorry that you are engaged with your work," he said, and snatched from the room, closing the door behind him. Billie followed him with worshipping eyes."

John Peters rose politely from the chair in which he had seated himself for more comfortable personal of the copy of Home Wipers which he had brought with him to refresh his mind in the event of the firm being too busy to see him immediately. He was particularly interested in the series of chats with Young Mothers.

"Hullo, Peters," said Sam. "Want anything?" "Very sorry that you are engaged with your work," he said, and snatched from the room, closing the door behind him. Billie followed him with worshipping eyes."

"Well, I'm not quite sure—I think that's what I said."

"Either a tort or a misdeed."

"Why, you do know something about it after all!" cried Billie, startled into a sort of friendliness in spite of herself. And at the words and the sight of her quick smile Sam's professional composure split on its foundations.

He had half risen, with the purpose of springing up and babbling of the passion that consumed him, when the girl's reflection came to him; this girl had once said that she considered him ridiculous. If he let himself go, would she not continue to think him ridiculous? He sagged back into his seat, and at that moment there came another tap on the door which, opening revealed the face of the holiday-making Peters.

"Good morning, Mr. Samuel," said John Peters. "Good morning, Miss Milliken. Oh!"

He vanished as abruptly as he had appeared. He perceived that what he had taken at first glance for the snogging of a client, and that the junior partner was engaged on a business conference. He left behind him a momentary silence.

"What a horrible-looking man!" said Billie, breaking it with a little gasp. John Peters often affected the opposite sex like that at first sight.

"I beg your pardon?" said Sam absently. "What a dreadful-looking man! He quite frightened me!"

"For some moments Sam sat without speaking. If this had not been one of his Napoleonic mornings, no doubt the sudden arrival of his old friend, Mr. Peters, would have inspired him, his home in Futaba seeking for his tip to America; would have suggested nothing to him. As it was it suggested a great deal. He had had a brain-wave, and for fully a minute he sat stinging under its impact. He was not a young man who often had brain-waves, and when they came, they made him rather dizzy.

"Who is he?" asked Billie. "He seemed to know you? And who," she demanded after a slight pause, "is Miss Milliken?"

"Sam drew a deep breath. "He's rather a sad story," he said. "His name is John Peters. He used to be a doctor, and he had a patient."

ANNIVERSARY OF WAR'S END IS OBSERVED

Public Exercises Under Legion's Auspices Center for Community Expression on Armistice Day

Armistice Day observance in Twin Falls Monday centered about public exercises held between 11 and 12 o'clock in the afternoon at the Legion, under the auspices of the American Legion.

County and city officials were closed throughout the entire day, as were the banks, with business houses generally closed during the hour devoted to the legion's exercises. The city commission postponed its regular weekly meeting to this evening.

In the evening the legion entertained at a dance in Davenport hall which attracted a large crowd of merrymakers.

Exercises in the theater were conducted by the legion's post officers: C. H. Strong, post commander; Hugh Boone, vice commander; and A. Dornan Johnson, adjutant. The stage was appropriately decorated, a large American flag suspended from the ceiling forming the background. The program was opened with a vocal number, "The Call to Arms," by Mrs. O. E. DeWalt, and the closing by the legion choir in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," Mrs. J. L. Hodgkin at the piano, and Ildor Friedman, violinist, playing the accompaniment.

Highway Robbery Is Charged to Mexican

Lodging House Operator Says Anton Fierro Used Pistol to Obtain Cash

Charge of highway robbery has been preferred by the police against Anton Fierro, 29, who is alleged to have forced Jose Arguda to surrender approximately $65 at the point of a gun early Sunday afternoon. The alleged robbery was staged on the second floor of the Blue Light pool hall and lodging house on Second avenue west.

Fierro placed an order at the residence of Chief of Police P. O. Herriman shortly after the alleged robbery. He was arrested Monday before W. S. Mallory, justice of the peace, and preliminary hearing in the case was set for this afternoon.

According to accounts of the occurrence given to the police, Arguda, who is the operator of the Blue Light establishment, was followed to a room on the second floor by Fierro, who forced Arguda to turn over the money in his pockets. Fierro used a .30 caliber Luger automatic pistol. Examination by the police showed that it contained no cartridges. Fierro had in his possession one $20 bill when he was arrested.

Fierro was at one time employed at the Blue Light establishment. He was convicted at the October term of court here of robbing an officer. He paid a fine and served a parole. He is said to have been employed recently in boot fields.

SCHOOL BOARD FIXES PERIOD FOR HOLIDAYS

Pupils to Be Released from Classroom for Two Days Celebration of Thanksgiving; 10 Days for Christmas

Twin Falls schools will be closed two days for the Thanksgiving vacation and for 10 days for the Christmas holidays, according to decision reached by the board of education at its regular monthly meeting Monday evening. Schools will be dismissed Wednesday evening, November 23, for the remainder of the week in observance of the Thanksgiving holidays. Schools will be closed for the Christmas holidays from Friday evening, December 21, until Monday morning, January 2, the board decided.

Statistics relative to the school population of the district and enrollment for the coming year were presented for consideration by the board in a report of the school census made by Mrs. C. E. Scott, clerk of the board, and a report as to the enrollment made by M. C. Mitchell, superintendent of schools.

The census report showed a total population of 28 persons of school age within the district numbering 3180, as compared with a similar census last year which showed a school population of 3140.

Enrollment Analyzed.
Enrollment in Twin Falls schools at the close of the first six weeks' period this year totaled 2623, according to Mr. Mitchell's report. The total is 13 less than the total at the end of the corresponding period last year. Enrollment is less this year than last in four out of the 12 grades. Reduction of 49 in the number of pupils enrolled in the twelfth grade, which is the senior high school graduating class, is responsible for most of the decline. The third grade shows a decline of 24; the seventh grade has 22 less; and the tenth grade has 12 less than last year. Records of the school show that last year's graduating class was considerably larger than any preceding class of graduates in the history of Twin Falls schools.

Safety of the schools insofar as boilers are concerned, was assured in a communication received by the board containing a report recently made by an inspector for the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance company.

Assists Benefit Effort.
Favorable action was taken by the board on the request made by the Twentieth Century club for use of the high school auditorium without charge for the concert lately given by Skovgaard, the proceeds of which were used by the club to augment a scholarship loan fund.

Action of the chairman in opening schools at the entrance of two winter periods during which pupils of the senior high school were released for work in harvesting of perishable crops was ratified by vote of the board.

The report of the auditing committee providing issuance of warrants in payment of claims against the district amounting to $2101.17, was approved.

Kiwians Endorse New Park Movement

Organization of Business and Professional Men on Record for Proposed Improvement

A movement looking toward establishment of another park in Twin Falls for the accommodation of automobile tourists and the annual chautauque course and to serve as a public playground received the endorsement of Twin Falls Kiwanis club by unanimous vote of the membership at a regular meeting Monday noon.

Senator M. J. Sweeley, who had presented the proposal at a previous meeting of the club, reviewed arguments for obtaining additional park space at this time. There was no suggestion as to the amount to be invested in the proposed new park nor was any mentioned.

The club also endorsed Mr. Sweeley's suggestion that not only other hard-wood trees be set out in the city park to replace poplars now being removed, and that a number of grey or fox squirrels be provided as an attraction for the park. Mr. Sweeley stated that he would donate a number of trees for the purpose.

Shad L. Hodgkin, Twin Falls mayor, stated that expense of setting out the trees probably could be met with funds remaining in the city's appropriation for parks.

Dogs Are Poisoned on Wholesale Scale

Valued Animals and Children's Pets Victims of Strychnine Distribution

A number of dogs have been poisoned recently in Twin Falls, according to statements Monday of the police and of Dr. H. H. Grooms, deputy state veterinarian in each instance, it was stated, strychnine had been used by the poisoner. Some of the poisoned dogs were valued hunting animals and others were expensive pedigree dogs, while some were friends and companions of children.

One fine bull dog was poisoned Saturday, and two hunting dogs and one shepherd dog were poisoned Monday, Dr. Grooms reported. Poisoning of three dogs came to the attention of the police Monday.

Early in the day Chief of Police P. O. Herriman was told by a group of boys that a dog had been struck by a car at the corner of Third avenue and Second street north. It was determined later that the animal had been poisoned, and on recommendation of its owner, S. O. Wyatt, a "hot" was used to aid its suffering.

A group of youngsters about a big shepherd dog in the throes of death attracted the police chief's attention as he entered the police station door Monday evening. The animal was taken inside the municipal building. It was dead before a veterinarian could be summoned. It was owned by Sylvester McFarland.

Poisoning of H. S. Hamilton's bird dog was the third instance of poisoning of dogs brought to the attention of the police Monday.

TOURIST FIRM RETURNS
The firm of "Bud & Merrill," composed of Russell Husted and Merrill Ayres, who left here September 5 in a specially designed car enroute East, has returned to Twin Falls.

Bad luck enroute caused a break in the schedule which resulted in the two settling in St. Joe, Mo., where Bud went to work for the Larrabee flour mills and Merrill elected to accept a position on his uncle's farm. The boys returned by train.

They say they haven't yet given up the idea of a cross-country trip to the Atlantic coast, but have decided against any further attempt this year.
