Governor of Nebraska Would Cut Taxes, Put Oil Industry Under Federal Control and Break Up Monopolies

OMAHA, Nov. 20 (AP)—Reduction of federal taxes, repeal of the Esch-Cummins law and the present high tariff were recommended by Charles W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska, in an address here this afternoon before the farmers' educational and co-operative union which is holding its annual convention here.

"Oil and gas industries are operated as a conspiracy in restraint of trade, and should be taken over by the government until they are put on a legitimate basis and their products sold to the public at a fair price," Governor Bryan declared.

"The coal monopoly has defied the government and robbed the public for years; and unless cost of hard coal is reduced at least 43 per cent and soft coal 25 per cent at the mines, the government should take over all mines until a plan is devised whereby the government can regulate prices for the protection of the people and business."

Among the recommendations made by the governor are the following: Reverse the present policy of currency inflation until the volume of currency again reaches at least $30 per capita, so as to give the agricultural interests a living price for what they produce.

Re-enact the excess profits tax law and the higher surtaxes on incomes so that wealth is made to bear its just share of the cost of government.

Repeal the high tariff which has increased the cost of living three and one-half billion yearly and has curtailed the farmers' foreign market.

Repeal the Esch-Cummins law and its legislative offspring, the Federal Reserve Act, by reducing the cost of government to a minimum.

Require railroads to reduce freight rates 20 per cent, or the government take them over and operate them on an equitable basis.

An amendment to the constitution of the United States should be adopted providing referendum before any act can be declared, unless the nation is threatened with invasion by a foreign foe.

NOTED GERMAN FINANCIER DIES

Dr. Havenstein, Prominent Figure During World War, Taken by Heart Disease

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Dr. Rudolph E. A. Havenstein, president of the reichsbank, is dead.

Dr. Havenstein died of heart disease. He reached the zenith of his career during the war when in the popular election he ranked next to Von Hindenburg as a purveyor of money. He was an old-style Prussian functionary with all the latter's merits and faults. His critics hold him to blame for his obstinacy in not exhausting all possible means to prevent the mark from falling into the abyss.

Havenstein started his career as a lawyer and later occupied various high posts in the Prussian finance ministry; then in 1907 he became president of the reichsbank when the importance of that institution had considerably waned owing to the active competition of other banks, but the following year he laid down a new policy, reorganizing for the reichsbank a leading place.

Civic honors and degrees were heaped upon him during and after the war, but when the monetary inflation became more acute and profiteers reaped big profits at the expense of the community, he was severely attacked for his policy of reducing the value of the reichsbank's gold except in favor of the Ruhr campaign. His position became more and more difficult, but he never wavered in his purpose and died virtually in harness.

CLAIMS VICTORY FOR DEMOCRAT

Returns from South Dakota County Proposal Convention Puts McAdoo in Lead

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 20 (AP)—A sweeping victory for the supporters of William G. McAdoo was claimed tonight by Democratic State Chairman W. W. Hoves on the basis of returns from the county proposal conventions held through the state today.

Returns from 19 counties, representing 23,924 votes out of a total of 50,400 in the state convention, make the McAdoo victory a certainty by better than two to one, Hoves said.

F. H. Hildebrandt of Watertown, and Eric Gillson of Sioux Falls, leaders of the fight to pledge delegates to the state convention for Henry Ford, also issued a statement claiming four counties and scattered individuals delegates, yielding a total convention vote of 8000. The democratic meetings generally named unopposed delegates, although several counties went on record in support of the Ford-Ford-Ford initiative. Tripp and Hamline county, representing a voting strength of 1700 in the state meeting, instructed their full delegations for Ford.

EXPLOSION OF STEAMER RESULTS IN TWO DEATHS

Bodies Blown Into River and Several Others Narrowly Escaped When River Vessel Blows Up

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 20 (AP)—Two men were killed and two others narrowly escaped injury when the steamer Marion of the McClain Steamship company, Point Marion, Pa., exploded in the Monongahela river eight miles north of here late today. The victims were Houston Wishart, 40, captain, of East Millboro, Pa., and Mack Newcomer, engineer, of Point Marion, Pa. The steamer was destroyed.

Some bodies of Wishart and Newcomer were blown from the boat into the river and late tonight had not been recovered. John Crow, fireman, and Ralph Widen, cook, were working on one of the flatboats the Marion was towing when the explosion occurred and both escaped injury.

Officials of the McClain Steamship company could assign no reason for the explosion of the boiler.

COURT MARTIAL CASE IS ENDED

Commander W. L. Calhoun Is Acquitted of Negligence; Sixth Trial Nearly Finished

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 20 (AP)—The fifth of the general court martial trials growing out of the Point Honda destroyer disaster was completed today with the acquittal of Commander William L. Calhoun, who was charged with negligence in allowing his ship to run upon the rocks. The sixth trial, that of Commander Louis P. Davis, who commanded the Woodbury, was started on the resumption of the afternoon session and was nearly completed today as far as the taking of evidence was concerned.

Commander Davis was tried on the same charge as that preferred against Commander Calhoun. His vessel, the Woodbury, was the fourth in line on the night of September 8, and struck the rocks behind the Young. No lives were lost, however, as the vessel was beside a big rock to which the men were transferred.

GERMAN LEADERS AND FRENCH TO RESUME CONFAB

Resumption of Activities in Outlying Industrial Area Is Aim of Newly Scheduled Business Conference

DUESSELDORF, Nov. 20 (AP)—Negotiations between the French economic control commission in the Ruhr and the German industrial leaders looking to a working agreement will be resumed here Thursday, the Dusseldorf Nachrichten announced tonight. The newspaper does not say whether Hugo Stinnes will take part in the new meetings or indicate which side took the initiative toward resumption of negotiations.

It is considered doubtful that Herr Stinnes will reappear, but he will probably be represented at the resumed meetings. He has been in Berlin since the collapse of the former conference.

Industrialists Took Lead. While official confirmation is lacking persons usually well informed express the belief that the industrialists made overtures for a resumption of the negotiations being convinced of the soundness of General Degoutte's decree forbidding a general lockout and also having heard disquieting reports regarding the attitude of their own workers in case the French decided upon a general policy of confiscation following yesterday's seizure of the Erzin mine.

The attitude of the workers seems fairly reflected in the statement made by an important union leader today to the Associated Press. He declared that if the French decided to generally take over the mines the union leaders would certainly advise the members of their unions to follow the example set by the men of the Erzin mine and continue at work, not because of any love for the French but for the reason that continuing to labor was the only visible alternative to starvation.

Mine Owners Balk. The Nachrichten published a dispatch from Bochum saying the mine-owners association has volunteered to the miners that a full resumption of the mines is impossible except with a longer day but the workers are staking their hopes on an enforcement of General Degoutte's decree and the Berlin government's enforcement of respect for the 8-hour day. Most of the miners' unions have declared against a longer working day and have been informed that the Berlin government holds the 10-hour day unlawful.

Reclamation Organization Adopts Extensive Program Bearing Upon Advancement of Irrigation Plans

CONGRESS TO BE ASKED TO SET ASIDE $250,000,000 FOR IMMEDIATE NEEDS

Resolution Calls for Legislation to Give Government Percentage of Increase in Land Values; Urge Interstate Pact for Settlement of Complicated Problems

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 20 (AP)—The third general conference of the Western States Reclamation association closed its session tonight after having adopted resolutions in the interest of the reclamation of lands, changed a by-law which will permit the association to hold meetings elsewhere than Salt Lake City and Washington, elected B. E. Shepherd of Idaho president of the association, with Whitely Boice of Portland, Ore., vice president, and after having chosen an executive committee which will function during the coming year.

The resolutions adopted were: Requesting congress to appropriate at an early date the sum of $250,000,000 or more for expenditure under the reclamation law as promptly as such money can be wisely expended.

Reaffirmation of the original policy of the association which was to attempt to effect good general legislation, in preference to sectional legislation.

Express Thanks. Expressing thanks to the Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work for his efforts in settling serious reclamation problems.

Urging that all projects now started be completed. Calling for legislation whereby the government would get a percentage of the increased value of reclaimed land on changes of ownership until the debt to the government was complete.

Urging interstate pacts for the settlement of interstate water problems. Urging international pacts where irrigation streams were international streams.

Davis Mentioned. Expressing thanks to ex-Governor of Idaho D. W. Davis and others for their work in behalf of reclamation.

Stating that the Western States Reclamation looks with disfavor upon the proposed law to extend the period of payment by settlers for reclamation projects and additional 40 years because laws now provide "practical, definite and immediate relief for those settlers." Assuring the southern states association that the western states reclamation wishes to co-operate and asking that a date for a joint meeting be set.

Appreciation for the aid given by both political parties. Appreciation for the interest shown.

PROGRESSIVES ENDORSE FORD FOR PRESIDENT

National Temporary Chairman of New Party Announces Action Taken at Omaha Conference; Amalgamation Ignored

OMAHA, Nov. 20 (AP)—Henry Ford for president of the United States was the endorsement rendered here tonight by the progressives, farmer-laborites and others of progressive tendencies, who had gathered here during the day at the call of Roy O. Harrop, national temporary chairman of the progressive party, for the purpose of placing a new party in the field in 1924, according to the announcement made late tonight by Mr. Harrop.

This announcement came from an executive meeting which Mr. Harrop said was attended by representatives of 14 states, but he stated he was not announced the names of the representatives nor did he state they represented, other than to say that two were eastern states and the other 12 were from the west and south.

"We will all send representatives, to attend the Ford-for-president meeting at Detroit on December 12, and the new party will probably be known as the 'new national people's party,'" said Mr. Harrop. "Robert E. Polster of Dearborn, Mich., a close friend of Mr. Ford, appeared before us tonight however in the senate, and we have a Magnum Johnson coming. He is a fine fellow." Farm relief and railroad legislation head Senator Brookhart's legislative program. The farm bloc will support a bill to establish a federal agency to aid export of farm products, he declared, adding that he also hoped to have "the water question out of railroad securities in a general overhauling of the transportation act to obtain lower rates."

Co-operative credit legislation for producers and consumers to "break the grip of Wall Street" on credit facilities is another item in his program. Allege combination of coal, oil and sugar are to receive further attention, according to Senator Brookhart, and he also is much interested in development of waterway transportation. As to the politics, the senator said he still favored former Senator Kenyon of Iowa for the republican nomination.

"We took no action whatever, and will take none," he said, "we have ignored the matter."

AWAIT DECISION IN MURDER CASE

Motion for Verdict of Not Guilty Taken Under Advice in Trial of Brownings

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 20 (AP)—The motion for a directed verdict of not guilty made by counsel for the defense yesterday in the case of John Browning, Jr., and Marjorie A. Browning, his cousin, on trial for the shooting of Benjamin F. Ballantyne, John Browning's brother-in-law, was taken under advisement by Trial Judge M. L. Ritchie tonight at five o'clock. It is anticipated the court will announce his decision tomorrow. Two whole days have been consumed in arguing the question raised. Much of the time today was spent in arguing whether the Brownings forfeited the right of self-defense when they entered the Ballantyne home after John Browning had been warned by Ballantyne that he would kill Browning if Browning entered the house. The Brownings, according to their counsel, were going to enter the house to protect Mrs. Ballantyne, John's sister, who had called them from Ogden and who had said Ballantyne had been abusing her.

At the left a number of Separatists are shown barricaded behind a wire entanglement before the town hall at Crefeld from which they were driven with heavy loss of life. The civil strife in the Rhineland section of Germany has taken on the appearance of a carefully prepared plan of battle between the loyal followers of the German Reich and the Separatists, who would quit Germany and set up an independent state. Desperate fighting has put down the Separatist movement for the time being.

HOPE ENTENTE WILL SURVIVE GRAVE CRISIS

Action by Great Britain Indicates Compromise Not Entirely Pleasing, But Predictions Assure Final Success

PARIS, Nov. 20 (AP)—It was accepted as certain in Paris tonight that the entente will survive the present crisis, but there is very little enthusiasm for the compromise through which the break was averted.

The provisional character of the accord, so far as the details of this have transpired, is one of the reasons for the coolness toward it. The fact that the British government was not ready to signify its acceptance after consideration of more than 24 hours, necessitating the postponement by final action of the council of ambassadors, is interpreted as evidence that the accord is only moderately pleasing to London.

The conclusion is that both sides are only partly persuaded and neither converted, and that the conflict is sure to break out again when electioneering considerations have been eliminated from the situation. The only definite result that appears clearly from the negotiations is that former Crown Prince Frederick William's return to Germany will be allowed to drop out of the discussion.

The French government is said to have been trying for several days to keep secret the fact that when the German charge d'affaires called on Count Perotti, the French director of political affairs, the other day, he brought reaffirmation of the crown prince's renunciation of the throne of Prussia in 1918. He also gave assurance that the German government would undo no circumstances that would prevent the return of former Emperor William to Germany.

These assurances were considered in the ambassadors' council as particularly disposing of the Hohenzollern question and it was the general opinion that there was nothing more to be done in the matter than to ask the Berlin government to confirm the assurances formally.

SEPARATISTS KILLED IN FIGHT WITH LOYALISTS

Casualty List Is Placed at 130; Many Are Literally Butchered by Angered Peasant Forces

DUESSELDORF, Nov. 20 (AP)—The separatists in their fight with the loyalists near Bonn last Saturday lost 130 men killed and in addition were completely routed. The peasant loyalists literally annihilated the band of separatists who invaded their territory in an attempt to detach it from the role and set up a Rhineland republic, according to a dispatch to the Duesse-dorf Nachrichten.

It is asserted that the peasants, infuriated over the attempt of the separatists, attacked them with axes, scythes and other farm implements.

There is no confirmation from any source of the report contained in the Nachrichten dispatch. The local delegate of the inter-allied commission says there is reason to believe the report which refers to last week's fighting near Buebengolze is greatly exaggerated. Originally it was stated that 25 persons had been killed in the fighting.

Former Kaiser's Wife Assaulted

The wife of the former Kaiser of Germany was assaulted recently while driving through the streets in Doorn, Holland, where the former ruler is held. One of several youths loitering about the driveway threw a rock which struck her on the head, inflicting a slight injury. Wilhelm, who was with her at the time, insisted that the guilty person be punished at once.

Monarchs of England and France Again Are Engaged in Fighting

Puppets at Calais Strangely Reflect Present Status of International Affairs

CALAIS, France, Nov. 20 (AP)—The king of England and the king of France are fighting again. They are figures in the ancient clock tower so arranged as to joust with lances in fierce combat when the clock strikes noon each day.

This mechanism was damaged early in the war by a German shell, whereas the population of Calais exclaimed "Miracle!" Now a clock maker has repaired the machinery so the daily assault takes place between the two representatives of the allies just at a time when the repatriation controversy is at its hottest.

The good old summer time—in December

FRANK LEHR, of Noblesville, Indiana, lived in a typical American home with an all-American temperature. The kitchen was Miami, but the bedrooms were Bangor, Maine.

A year ago he threw out his old-fashioned heating plant and installed ARCOLA, setting it in the kitchen and connecting it with an American Radiator in every room.

"We are delighted," he wrote last December. "Our home, which was only partially heated before, is now like summer all the time. Rooms which were never known to be warm are filled with growing plants. . . . We would not part with ARCOLA for $1000 if we could not have another."

Human life is short enough at the best. Why waste another winter huddled around an old-fashioned stove or in a room half hot and half cold from an old-fashioned heating plant? Why not have warmth from an American Radiator in every room?

The cost is only a fraction of the value which Mr. Lehr places on his ARCOLA; and the whole amount comes back to you. Thousands of owners testify that ARCOLA pays for itself in the fuel it saves.

This sign is the mark of the merchant who sells ARCOLA.

PRINTERS BEAT BAKERS' SQUAD

Times Bowlers Smash Way Toward Top of Ladder by Trimming Royal Bakerites

The Times bowlers smashed their way to an unquestioned place at the top of the bowling list by defeating the Royal Bakeries bowlers in all three games Tuesday evening. In each game the Bakers started strong, but ended up with the small end of the score, although everyone was going strong on both teams and the scores were exceptional for the season.

The first game went to the Times. The anchor men of both teams started with scores of 200 and the remaining members of both squads were going strong also, and the Times came out nine pins to the good in a 630-821 game.

The feature of the second game was C. Bruggeman's bowling. This lad went far above his team mates with a 233 score. The rest of the Times force fell down somewhat but the remarkable score of their lead-off man was enough to take the game from the Bakers who also bowled a little off form and the score read 822-782.

It remained for the Times to completely whitewash the Bakers, however in the last, and with everyone of the typesetters hitting better than 200, Larsen going 210, and the Baker bowlers barely getting over the 800 mark they made the last game theirs too and also were the first squad of the season to go over 900 in a game. This was 902-806.

Larsen and Bruggeman were the men of the evening and their score cards show scores of 271 and 270 respectively. The Times succeeded in taking 2558 pins for the evening and the Bakers made 2405.

The score:

Royal Bakery—	Total.
Hullihan	155 168 157—480
Kerr	149 127 127—403
Galton	149 132 137—418
Yechem	113 178 194—514
Towar	200 177 187—564
Team	821 782 802—2403
Times—	Total.
C. Bruggeman	160 233 177—570
Hill	170 161 162—493
H. Bruggeman	157 147 168—472
Anderson	143 147 168—458
Larsen	200 161 217—578
Team	630 822 906—2558

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The crowd apparently knew what was in store for them yesterday evening as the attendance record of the season was also among the other records which were broken.

Last night's games were the best yet this season. The Royal Bakers made brilliant starts but were outclassed when it came to finishes.

Chet Kerr didn't seem to be able to find himself, and twice got 127. Ordinarily Chet hits his gut around the 170 mark. Doug Salmon was another Baker that was traveling off color.

Yechem and Towar were the prize pin hitters for the Bakery line, Towar getting into the 200 class in the first game and Yechem coming near in the final game when he hit 194.

All of the Times bowlers were going strong and every score, with few exceptions, was above the 150 mark. H. Bruggeman had a little hard luck in the second game or else the shock of his brother's bowling was too much for him, as he only made 120 in this stanza.

On the roll of honor for the 200 men Larsen is still holding down a prominent place. Towar still competing and Bruggeman dazzling them all with his score.

Our vote is that last night was the best yet from every standpoint. Let's have the pin hitters from the Idaho theater can do against the Sugar Factory bowlers, who promise to come back strong from their defeat of last week.

Thanksgiving Game to Be Played Here

Bruins to Meet Nampa Eleven in Contest Arranged as Reward for Loyal Supporters

Twin Falls football fans who have so loyally supported the blue and white warriors for the past four seasons will have one more chance this season to see the Bruins in action. Arrangements were completed Tuesday morning with the Nampa team for a game here on Thanksgiving. The junction city team wired asking for a game, but after considerable parley they decided to accept an offer to play here. The purpose of the local school officials in staging the game is to show their appreciation for the loyal support fans have shown for the blue and white teams the past four seasons.

Coach Evans will begin active practice for the game Wednesday night and a full squad of Bruins will be out to start work. The Nampa team is reported to be a strong aggregation of players to Boise by the small score of 7 to 6. A good hard game is anticipated and arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd.

Eller journeys to Nampa this coming Friday to tangle with the Nampa team and the score of that game will give the Bruin supporters a chance for comparison.

CHICAGO SCORES RECORD AVERAGE

Maroon Teams Coached by Veteran Staggs Lead List of Teams in Middle West

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (AP)—After 33 years coaching football at one spot, the University of Chicago, Amos Alonzo Staggs, 62 years old and still fighting stands out today, in the opinion of his admirers, as the miracle man of the western conference in producing teams that lead the "big ten" with the highest average in the table of games won and lost since 1913.

Selected for the year for compilation of the records was made, Staggs' admirers said, to clear up a controversy raging over the performances of Jack Wilce, coach at Ohio State, and Robert Zuppke, coach at the University of Illinois, whose admirers claim the highest honors for them. Zuppke and Wilce came into the western conference as coaches that year.

Since 1923 the Maroon teams whipped together by Staggs have crunched through opposing teams for 38 victories out of 58 starts, 17 games were won and three out of the percentage of .601 compared with the record of teams developed by Wilce and Zuppke.

The Ohio eleven rank second to the Maroons with 27 victories out of 42 games with Illinois third. The Buckeyes have won 27 games lost 14, and were tied in one, while the Illinois won 32, lost 17 and were tied five. Including this year's games, except those of November 24, the percentage standing follows:

Team—	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pct.
Chicago	34	17	3	.691
Ohio	32	14	1	.659
Illinois	32	17	5	.653
Michigan	12	8	1	.600
Iowa	22	16	0	.579
Minnesota	24	19	3	.552
Wisconsin	22	19	0	.537

HARLEM NEGRO GETS DECISION IN FAST BOUT

Battling Siki Runs into Trouble in Fight Against Kid Norfolk in Fifteen Rounds in New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Kid Norfolk, Harlem negro, tonight received the judges' decision over Battling Siki, Senegalese conqueror of Georges Carpenter, in a smashing spectacular 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Siki proved a wild, free swinging fighter, but he was badly punished by Norfolk's relentless attack.

Making his American debut, Siki proved a game, aggressive fighter, but he was obviously not in the best of condition. Norfolk's ruggedness annihilated most of the batter's savage attacks, while the Harlem negro kept up a steady, withering onslaught that frequently had Siki in distress.

Siki started at a furious pace, but tripped rapidly under Norfolk's steady jabbing and powerful hooks. Under this withering fire, blood streamed from the batter's nose and from cuts on his eyes and lips. He was groggy from the tenth round, a sorrowful spectacle, but somehow managed to weather the storm.

Siki, whose peculiar ring tactics and aggressiveness won him the plaudits of the crowd, rallied spectacularly at times in the last few rounds, notably the 13th and 15th, but these spurts were soon ended and Norfolk appeared unhurt.

Norfolk's blows in several rounds seemed low. Twice Siki protested and the Kid was warned. More than 12,000 paid $59,854 to witness the fight, which was billed for the negro light heavyweight championship. Siki, wearing green tights and climbing jauntily into the ring, who he waved to the crowd, caught the popular fancy. He was cheered lustily every time he got loose with a Senegalese "war dance," but these tactics did not bother Norfolk.

Siki weighed 172 and Norfolk 174.

FORCE FIGHTERS TO OBEY RULES

New York Commission Insists on Observance of Measure in Regard to Knockdowns

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—The state athletic commission today took measures to enforce its ruling that boxers who score knockdowns must retire to a corner while the count is being made over their opponents. Its action was in the form of an addition to the ring code stipulating that "no count" be begun or taken unless the boxer is the farthest corner from his fallen antagonist.

This step is an outgrowth of the controversy stirred up by the Dempsey-Trippe championship in which the title holder failed to retire to a corner after several knockdowns while Trippe also neglected to go to a corner after knocking the American through the ropes in the first round. The champion's actions, however, were in particular criticism among observers who declared he was guilty of repeated violations of the commission's rule.

RECLAMATION BODY ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

by the late President Harding in reclamation work.

Change By-Laws

Following the adoption of the foregoing resolutions the by-law which designated Salt Lake City, Utah, and Washington, D. C., as the only meeting places, was changed to permit the executive committee to choose the place of meeting. The purpose of the restriction was explained that during the formation period the association did not want to become a "visiting association" but was formed primarily to secure co-operation among all western states where reclamation was of vital importance.

Committee Chosen

The executive committee was chosen as follows: Utah—R. E. Caldwell of Salt Lake City. Idaho—W. G. Swendsen of Boise. Oregon—W. E. Meacham of Baker. Texas—C. E. Pease of McAllister. New Mexico—J. M. French of Santa Fe.

Washington—D. A. Scott of Olympia. Arizona—William W. Vicer of Yuma. Colorado—Fred L. Lucas of Denver. California—Albert Lindley of Stockton. Nebraska—R. A. Smith of Omaha. Wyoming, Nevada and Montana committees will be named later, these states having no official delegates at the convention.

Optimism Prevails.

Various optimistic speeches were made during the sessions by various members. The Colorado river compact was touched upon by William Wosener of Yuma, Arizona, who stated: "I am ashamed to say that the pact was opposed by all the state of the Colorado basin except my own, Arizona. But the call will be made early in January . . . and the pact will be passed. If it is not passed at the special session of the legislature it will be passed by the people of the state in the fall elections. And the governor will have a hard time to pass anything else until the pact is out of the way."

Reviews History.

Among telegrams and letters read to the convention by Secretary F. P. Brown of Idaho, was one from United States Commissioner of Reclamation D. W. Davis, at Washington.

It follows: "It is a keen pleasure to look back over four years to the organization of the Western States Reclamation association, the intervening services as its president and the loyal support from the present session, but as commissioner of reclamation I send you my heartiest good wishes for a meeting full of interest, representative of the west and productive of good.

"The secretary of the interior is taking stock in federal reclamation and your assistance will assure a program of future progress on a sound basis." The Montana irrigation and drainage institute, holding sessions at Missoula, sent a message of greeting, as did Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific company. Mr. Shoup said he regretted very much he could not be present.

W. W. Armstrong, association treasurer, read his report showing receipts of about $9000 during last year and said the balance on hand was about $2481.05.

Following the adjournment of the sessions the executive committee went into conference.

LAW MAKERS TO STAGE CLEAN-UP

Oklahoma Legislature Turns Attention to Klan Legislation and Other Laws

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 20 (AP)—Its primary purpose of removing J. C. Walton from the governor's seat having been accomplished, the state legislature shaped its plans today for a general housecleaning of the administration and to consider anti-Ku Klux Klan legislation.

The lower house sub-committees continued inquiries into affairs of various departments of state, with indications that one house member and at least one other state official will be named in impeachment proceedings before the work is completed.

Meanwhile, numerous measures directed against secret organizations in the state soon are to be acted upon in both houses. It was solely for this work that the Mesopagi executive called the special legislative session which brought about his downfall.

Governor M. E. Trapp, former lieutenant governor, who succeeded Walton in the executive chair, made known his desire today for a complete windup of all matters already undertaken by the legislature before he asks the body to recess until January.

EARNED INCOMES

Nothing in Secretary Mellon's plan for the reduction of income taxes has attracted more favorable attention than his proposal to reduce the tax rate on "earned incomes."

The essential justice of that proposal is evident to anybody, when once the matter is clearly stated. An "earned income" is the income of the man or woman who works for wages or salary, or fees for any kind of personal or professional service.

"Unearned income" is income from investment or other sources which does not depend on the effort of the person receiving it.

The former type of income, as Secretary Mellon says, is "uncertain and limited in duration." It is destroyed by sickness or death and diminished by age. It continues only while the taxpayer keeps on working.

It is manifestly unfair, as well as bad business policy, to tax both kinds of income alike, as our government has been doing. Foreign countries have long made the distinction now recommended here.

THE TEN TURKEYS By DADDY

Jack and Janet visit Farmer White's poultry yard to see how fast the Thanksgiving turkeys have become. Gobbie Gobbler acts on an suggestion made by Jack of the cause by trying over the fence. He gets stuck in a bog.

CHAPTER III. Playing Turkey Tag.

WHILE Jack and Janet are trying to think of a way to get Gobbie out of the bog, they hear an excited gobbling from the poultry yard. Something was happening there.

"How silly those turkeys are!"

As soon as the words were out of Jack's mouth she knew she had made a mistake in saying them. For the turkeys heard what she said.

Then Jack and Janet surely were in a fix. The turkeys were free. They were headed toward the woods instead of toward the Thanksgiving dinner table.

"How silly those turkeys are," cried Janet. "If they would only quit crowding and would go up the ladder one by one they soon would be at the top."

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

"Don't fly away," she cried. "You will get stuck in the bog like Gobbie Gobbler. Stay in your safe poultry yard."

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

"Gobbie Gobbler. If we stay here we will be safe only until Thanksgiving day," answered the turkeys, spreading their wings. "Gobbie Gobbler! If we fly away we will not be eaten for dinner."

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

While Janet was trying to think up an answer to his contention she swiftly lay along the roof of the poultry house, pressing their wings against the wind.

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

"Yes, that is how I stated it. Then the American inquired: 'How can that be? You say you never saw one of them. I do not understand it at all.'"

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

"Yes, I have a wife and six children in Australia," she added, quietly, "of them," she added, quietly.

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

"Because," was the reply, "one of them was born after I left."

"Extremely, sir," said Webster, with dignity. "Just as you said! Good afternoon, sir!"

world, the worst in the realization that a thousand-to-one chance has come off, and caused our wrong-doing to be detected. There had seemed no possibility of our being caught, or of our being discovered, and yet here was Billie in full possession of the facts. It almost made the thing worse that he did not say how she had come into possession of them. This gave Sam that feeling of self-pity, that sense of having been played, that sense of being made the bringing home of crime so particularly poignant.

"Fine day!" he muttered. He had a sort of subconscious feeling that it was imperative to keep engaging Webster in light conversation.

"Yes, sir. Weather still keeps up," agreed the valet suavely.

Sam frowned over the note. He felt injured. Sending a fellow notes didn't give him a chance. If she had come in person and denounced him it would not have been an agreeable experience, but at least it would have been possible for you to plead his case and explain—and all that sort of thing. But what could he do now? It seemed to him that his only possible course was to write a note in reply, begging her to see him. He explored his pockets and found a pencil and a scrap of paper.

"Will you take this to Miss Bennett," he said, holding it out.

"Useless, I fear, sir," he said gravely. "You are anxious to be scolded desperately. Then he folded the note."

"I mean, about my business, couldn't I? You seem to know all about it!"

"Why, yes, sir. I think I may say that I have grasped the position of affairs. And, if you will permit me to say so, sir, you have my respectful sympathy."

"Dignity is a sensitive plant which flourishes only under the fairest conditions. Sam had perished in the bleak east wind of Billie's note. In other circumstances he might have resented this invasion of his privacy into his most intimate concerns. His only emotion now, was one of dull but distinct gratitude. The four winds of heaven blew chillily upon his raw and unprotected soul, and he wanted to wrap it up in a mantle of sympathy.

"I was reading a story—one of the Novelettes. I do not know if you are familiar with the series, sir—in which much the same situation occurred. It was entitled 'Cupid or Mammon!'"

"I don't know what it's got to do with you."

Breakfast Food "Matrimonially Speaking"

By MRS. HUGH MCKAY

My husband eats too fast. He's always thorough with each course of a meal by the time I'm well started on it. And then he sits and fidgets until I catch up with him.

Or else he asks if I'll excuse him until I finish, so that he can run down and fix the furnace, or go into the living room and look up something in the paper.

"Anyone can see what effect this kind of thing will have on a chatty, home-like meal."

I don't know what's to be done about it. There's no use in my trying to keep up with him, I'm sure—not when he eats so fast that he can't get away with a four-course meal in the dining car of an express train while it was going through a three-mile tunnel.

lovely road. "The principle's the same," said Webster. "What did he do when she found out?"

"She did not find out, sir. All ended happily, and never had the wedding bells to the old village church rung out a blither pen than they did at the suburban restaurant."

"She was thoughtful. 'Dished a tramp to attack her, did he?'"

"Yes, sir. She had never thought much of him till that moment, sir. Very cold and haughty she had been, his social status being considerably inferior to her own. But, when she cried for help, and he dashed out from behind a hedge, well, it made all the difference."

"I wonder where I could get a good tramp," said Sam, meditatively. Webster shook his head.

"I would hardly recommend such a procedure, sir."

"No, it would be difficult to make a tramp understand what you wanted," Sam brightened.

"I've got it! You pretend to attack her, and I'll..."

"I couldn't, sir. I couldn't really! I should appreciate your attention."

"Oh, come! Be a man!"

"No, sir, I fear not. There's a difference between handing in your resignation—I was compelled to do that only recently, owing to a few words I had with the governor, though subsequently recalled upon to withdraw it—there's a difference between handing in your resignation and being given the sack, and that's what would happen—without a character, what's more, and lucky if it didn't mean a prison cell. No, sir; I could not contemplate such a thing."

"I should appreciate that there's anything to be done," said Sam morosely.

"Oh, I shouldn't say that, sir," said Webster, encouragingly. "It's simply a matter of finding the way. The problem confronting us—you, I should say..."

"Yes," said Sam. "Most decidedly yes."

"I should say very much, sir. I would not have presumed, but if you say so—the problem confronting us, as I envisage it, resolves itself into this. You have offended our Miss B. and she has expressed a disinclination ever to see you again. How, then, is it possible, in spite of her attitude, to recapture her affection?"

"Exactly," said Sam. "There are several methods which occur to one..."

"They don't occur to me!"

"Well, for example, you might rescue her from a burning building as in 'True as Steel'..."

"She'd die to the house, eh?" said Sam, reflectively. "Yes, there might be something in that."

"I would hardly advise such a thing," said Webster, a little hastily—flattered at the readiness with which his disciple was taking his advice, yet acutely alive to the fact that he slept at the top of the house himself.

"A little drastic, if I may say so. It might be better to save her from drowning, as in 'The Earl's Secret'..."

"Ah, but where could she drown?"

"Well, there is a lake in the grounds..."

WALTON DENIED DAMAGES FROM RIVAL EDITOR

Jury Returns Verdict for L. H. Masters After Seven Hours Deliberations Concluding Five Days' Trial

E. F. Walton's claim for $10,200 damages set forth in a libel action against L. H. Masters, publisher of the Twin Falls Times, was denied by unanimous verdict of a jury in district court Tuesday afternoon. The trial was resumed after the jury had deliberated for about seven hours. Under the verdict costs of the suit will be assessed against Walton.

The written verdict stated simply that the jury "finds for the defendant." It bore the signature of Fred Nihart, its foreman.

Trial of the case occupied five days' time. Walton claimed damages on the grounds that he had been injured by Masters' editorial references during the municipal campaign of 1922 to an unnamed person as a "bootlegger," "real" and "genuine" "who would rather move than pay rent."

Pleads Truth of Charges. Masters pleaded truth of these assertions and denied that they had been published in a spirit of malice or ill-will.

Purpose of the publication of these assertions, Masters testified, was to defeat the political group of which, he said, Walton was the "boss" and to combat Walton's influence in the community, which he felt was an undue one.

Evidence was introduced to show that Walton had been convicted several years ago in Ada county of selling liquor without a license and that a military company of which he was an official, had been sued by the owner of the building under the fire insurance clause of a lease contract. Testimony of seven Twin Falls citizens also was offered to show that Walton's reputation had not been good prior to the publication of the allegations in question.

Statements to similar effect on the part of the citizens of Boise also were contained in affidavits offered by the defense in support of a motion for continuance of the trial, and admitted by Walton in order to push the issue to immediate trial.

Receipt of a weekly publication of which Walton is editor during the campaign of 1922 were introduced in evidence to show that Masters' attack had been provoked by Walton.

Reputation Under Fire. Testimony of six witnesses was offered in behalf of the plaintiff Walton, including that of three Twin Falls citizens who testified that Walton's reputation was good. Testifying in his own behalf, Walton said that he had noticed a falling away of his friends and diminution of his influence following the publication of the articles in question.

The case for the plaintiff Walton was conducted by Homer C. Mills, Twin Falls, and E. R. Damphier, Rupert. The defendant Masters was represented by Judge E. A. Walters and Frank L. Stephan of the firm of Hodgins, Stephan and North.

Club Women Choose Their Candidates

Local Organization Favors Coolidge and McAdoo for Nominations

In the poll to show women's choice for president, conducted Tuesday at a meeting of the Twentieth Century club, President Coolidge leads the republican and William H. McAdoo the democrat. A total of 23 voting slips were used, showing the following results: Coolidge 8; McAdoo 6; Borah 3; Johnson 2; Hoover 2; Ford 1; LaFollette 1.

Choice of the Twin Falls women as to preference for the republican candidate was in accord with the count of the first week's returns in the poll being conducted among 1,500,000 members of the General Federation of Women's clubs. Out of 9888 ballots returned at that time, President Coolidge had received 5783. Thirty-four led the list of democrats with a total of 704. Other preferences were shown as follows: McAdoo 630; Underwood 513; Hughes 469; Wilson 462; Hoover 431; Pinchot 165; Borah 125; Johnson 123; LaFollette 106; Lowell 48.

The purpose of the poll, it is announced, is to give the republican candidate progressive politics test even before the choice of the candidates. "In view of the fact that the coming presidential election will be the second since the granting of woman suffrage," the announcement says, "the effect of the woman voter should have a genuine impression upon the final results."

A tentative schedule of meetings at which the plan is to be presented provides for meetings at Buhl next Monday afternoon; Twin Falls, Tuesday afternoon; Kimberly, Wednesday after noon.

CONGRESSMAN PROMISES AID TO EX-SERVICE MEN

Necessity for modification of existing law to provide for compensation for former service men whose disabilities cannot be connected with their service by means of hospital records is indicated by statement of Congressman William T. Smith in a letter acknowledging receipt of a resolution adopted by the Twin Falls lodge of Old Fellows urging federal aid for William R. Wolter, a former service man of Twin Falls.

"These resolutions," Congressman Smith said, "will be very helpful because as committee having in charge legislation to modify the law so as to permit favorable consideration of Mr. Wolter's case and others, similarly situated.

"The director of the veterans' bureau contends that the action taken on Mr. Wolter's claim was according to the law, and that unless congress modifies the law so as to permit compensation to returned service men whose disabilities are not traceable to the service, no further action can be taken.

"As soon as congress convenes I intend to bring Mr. Wolter's claim to the attention of the appropriations committee and do everything possible toward securing the enactment of legislation which will give him a total disability rating."

MEN IN KLAN REGALIA PUT UNDER ARREST

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 20 (AP)—Seven men who were arrested Saturday night in Ku Klux Klan regalia, were given a preliminary hearing here this afternoon and were held on $2000 bond each to the grand jury.

The charge against the men was that of violating a state law which makes it "unlawful for any person to appear upon any public highway, with his face or hair disguised, so as to conceal his identity and also to use private property without the consent of the owner, lessee or occupant of such property."

LAND PLACED IN RESERVOIR SITE IN LITIGATION

Suit Brought by Meredith Interests to Condemn Old Cattle Ranches Comes on for Trial in District Court Here

Trial which will open today in district court here in the case of the Idaho Farm Development company or Meredith interests against Sarah E. Brackett and others, involving condemnation of certain lands submerged by the company's reservoir in the vicinity of Roworth, will occupy about 10 days time, attorneys stated Tuesday evening.

The trial will bring here a number of the oldest stockmen and landholders of southern Idaho, including some 30 witnesses summoned to testify in behalf of the defense.

The suit was instituted about four years ago and was tried in district court here three years ago, the jury at that time awarding to the Brackett interests about $39,000, as compensation for 200 acres of lands and appurtenant water rights, and to Frank Clark and his associates about $19,000 for about 110 acres of land and water rights.

Reversed on Technically

The case was reversed by the supreme court on appeal taken by the defendants, and was back on the new trial, for damages again to be fixed by another jury. The supreme court's decision reversing the case was based upon a technical error in consequence of the admission at the original trial of certain engineering evidence offered by the defense.

The plaintiff planner, Idaho ranchman, who was the first named defendant when the suit was instituted, has since died, and the list of defendants now includes his son, Chester Brackett, an administrator of his estate.

The lands in question, it is claimed, are highly valuable for the reason that they form a large portion of well-established cattle ranches so situated in a basin as to protect cattle kept there during the winter season.

The case for the company is in charge of Edwin Snow, Boise, and Arthur W. Ostrom, Buhl, and E. A. Walters, E. M. Wolfe and S. T. Hamilton appear as counsel for the several defendants.

DENIES ENGINEER'S CLAIM

Idaho Central Company Disclaims Liability for Payment of Compensation Sought by E. J. Ahern

Liability for payment to Earl J. Ahern, Twin Falls engineer, of $15,000 or any amount, is denied by the Idaho Central Railroad company, in an answer to Ahern's complaint filed Tuesday in district court here by E. A. Walters and M. J. Sweeney, attorneys for the company.

Mr. Ahern claims compensation for engineering services from June, 1920, to April, 1922, and for data gathered for the benefit of the company which was formed for the purpose of constructing a railroad from Rogerson to Wells. Services for which he claims compensation were performed prior to the time the company passed into the hands of Twin Falls citizens in connection with plans for building of the road by the Oregon Short Line.
