Arrest of Leader of German Unemployed Reveals Alleged Plot for Attack; Order Dis-solution of Radical Parties

DUESSELDORF, Nov. 23 (AP)—Herr Bludau, leader of the unemployed dem-onstrators in Essen, was arrested here this afternoon and from his admissions the police claim to have learned that a general armed attack on authorities had been planned today or tomorrow by forces secretly drilled for a coup d'etat.

The spasmodic rioting in Essen had heretofore been regarded lightly, but Bludau's revelations have given new importance to the activities of the agitators. Bludau, according to the police, said the communists and other elements had been preparing for a general attack in the various districts, and were supplied with hand grenades, rifles and machine guns.

He told the police that unemployed communist groups had been drilling intensively in the Essen district, near here under former army sergeants. Most of the leaders came from Elberfeld and Barmen and the tank and file from Saxony. The brunt of the fight was to have been borne by shock troops, recently expelled from the separatist organization "Red Army" because of their day's disturbances in the limited to Essen and a few small nearby towns, with only slight disorders in Dusseldorf during the night. Normal order, however, prevailed at all these places this afternoon.

Essen's casualties list shows that 23 policemen, one manifestant and a red cross male nurse were killed and about 25 manifestants wounded. At Rotterdam a policeman and five manifestants were killed and a score wounded.

ORDER DISSOLUTION. BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Dissolution of the German communist, nationalist and national socialist party organizations was ordered today by General Von Seeckt, commander in chief of the national army. The grounds for his action are set forth in an official communique stating that the communist party, by pro-claiming the party as a threat to the army and the holding of communist meetings and publications of communist newspapers prohibited.

General Von Seeckt's proclamation forbids the wearing of emblems of the parties concerned and all acts which may be construed as propaganda for them violation of these provisions laying the offenders open to punishment.

REDUCTION IN FREIGHT ASKED

Senator Gooding Advises President Coolidge that Cut Is Vital to Success of Farm

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Reduction of freight rates on farm products were recommended to President Coolidge today by Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, as the most effective means of extending agricultural relief.

The Idaho senator advised the president that there was a universal demand among the farmers of the west for lower freight rates on their products and charged that the railroads were spending millions of dollars in a campaign to prevent reduction by "throwing out a smoke screen" of argument that a reduction could only be made at the cost of service.

Crisis in Germany's Internal Affairs May Be Imminent; Selection of Successor and Cabinet Delayed

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Dr. Gustave Stresemann tonight resigned as chancellor when the reichstag, by a vote of 230 to 155, denied his rump cabinet a vote of confidence. Seven deputies abstained from casting their ballots. After the ballot was taken, Dr. Stresemann tendered the resignations of himself and his cabinet, which President Ebert accepted.

The president immediately sent for Paul Loebe, president of the reichstag, with whom he held a conference. Who will head the new government remains a mystery tonight. Herr Ebert has requested Stresemann to carry on current business until his successor is appointed.

The outcome of the second crisis during the chancellor's regime was in doubt up to a half hour before the voting took place, as there were strong influences at work in the ranks of the socialists in the direction of weakening the party's opposition by permitting sufficient members of the party to absent themselves from the chamber, thereby cutting down the chances of a formal opposition in the pleurary session.

Vote Definitely Sealed The rally here last night so strongly pledged themselves in opposition to the Stresemann government and the German nationalists also had refused to recede from the position of outspoken hostility so that the chancellor's fate was definitely sealed. The chamber allied rapidly at the sound of the signal gong, three hundred and ninety-two deputies were present.

Future Uncertain Just what will be the character of the government which will succeed the deposed ministry remained a mystery tonight. Dr. Stresemann has been requested by President Ebert to carry on current business until his successor is chosen. Among the names mentioned in the reichstag corridors tonight as possibilities for the chancellorship are Dr. Johannes von Hinder, democratic premier of Wurtemberg, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, a non-partisan who was associated with Count von Bernstorff when Bernstorff was ambassador in Washington. Dr. Albert was German fiscal agent in the United States and later became secretary of the chancellery and secretary of the treasurer under Chancellor Cuno.

POINCARÉ'S DEMANDS SUPPORTED

French Parliament Almost Unanimously Approves Forceful Policy Against Germany, Even if Break Results

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP)—The French parliament, by one of the most sweeping votes of confidence in its history today, approved the policy of the government of Premier Poincaré in the recent negotiations in the council of ambassadors with regard to Germany.

The chamber gave the premier carte blanche to proceed with his program for future forcible action in enforcing complete execution of the Versailles treaty for protection of France's national interests and security in accord with the allies if possible, but to forego it should the vote was 505 to 70.

Premier Poincaré in an address to the chamber today did not flinch in his attitude of stern determination to force the chamber immediately to proclaim either its approval or disapproval of his policy. His words seemed to remove the remaining doubt expressed by deputies in the lobbies of the chamber during the past week at what was termed the premier's retreat before Great Britain's viewpoint with regard to the demands made upon Germany.

Would Face Repulse. The premier declared that France would act against Germany with or without the allies if her security was menaced; that France was ready to face a rupture with the entente if this became necessary to protect herself. Germany, he added, would be punished if she did not enable the inter-allied military control commission to place the responsibility for the lack of penalties in the ambassadors' note to Germany upon Great Britain, but declared France would not wait on the pleasure of the allies before acting when her security was menaced.

Amid unanimous applause from the extreme right communists to the extreme right socialists, M. Poincaré made a point of the world that France would oppose by force of arms any restoration of the Hohenzollern regime in Germany. An admission of inability to act with regard to the former German crown prince, due to a lack of allied unanimity on this subject, however, somewhat chilled the chamber.

When the premier announced he considered the question of military control threatened; the security of France and that France might be compelled to act alone in the near future, thus emphasizing the precariousness of the situation with Great Britain and the council of ambassadors, the chamber decided that the premier's summary disposal of the two questions called for wider debate. It therefore altered its program so as to hear Captain André Tardieu, leader of the nationalist bloc, and to discuss other questions.

In great oratorical form the premier demanded of his most severe critics what policy he would have followed, whether he would have risked disputation of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, yesterday, passed through St. Louis today enroute to New York to board a ship for Germany.

Oklahoma Senate in Midst of Vicious War on Question of Good or Evil of Hooded Fraternity; First Test of Strength Shows Vote of Majority in Favor of Institution

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 23 (AP)—The problem of the Ku Klux Klan, inherited by the Oklahoma legislature from its impeachment fight with J. C. Walton, deposed governor, came to the front openly in the senate today and became the center of the most spirited discussion since the special session opened October 11.

FIVE SUSPECTS QUESTIONED ON BANK ROBBERY

Sheriffs of Four Counties Working Jointly on Hazelton Case Take Up New Trail Following Long Investigation

Sheriffs of four counties, with several deputies and a number of detectives, after three hours' conference and investigation here Friday night took up what they deemed a "hot trail" in their efforts to capture bandits who on Thursday afternoon robbed the Hazelton State bank, escaping in a Ford car with $4350 in currency.

Five young men suspected of complicity in the robbery were taken in custody during the day and were interrogated by the officers in the course of the conference and investigation.

None of the five suspects could be identified by bank officials and employees as a member of the bandit crew which robbed the bank, but officers expressed the opinion that valuable clues had been uncovered as a result of their interrogatory of the suspects.

Theory Is Offered It was the opinion of the officers that the robbery had been committed by persons resident of this locality.

In the course of the investigation Friday evening, each of the five suspected persons was brought before H. E. Gundelfinger, cashier; W. L. Mitchell, assistant cashier, and Miss Denna Boden, bookkeeper, who were in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Sheriffs who took part in the investigation and conference here were Clarence Wheeler, Shoshone; W. W. Henry, Jerome; W. B. Cole, Rupert, and M. E. Finch, Twin Falls. Detectives detailed to the work of running down the bandits by the insurance company carrying the bank's policy also participated.

Robbers Overlooked $2000 The robbers overlooked between $2000 and $3000 in Liberty bonds, and refused to take about $500 in coined money, Mr. Gundelfinger stated Friday evening. The bank opened for business as usual Friday morning and suffered no embarrassment as a result of the robbery.

Organization Officials Glass Spokane Meet as Big Success; Growers from Four Northwest States Attend

SPOKANE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Characterized by organization officials as being highly successful, the Pacific Potato conference, which opened here Friday afternoon, closed today with the session of Spokane, Idaho, and Oregon and Montana placed in the various competitive awards offered on class B-one, or commercial potatoes.

IDAHO WEATHER. Saturday: Rain.

Defended and assailed in turn, the Klan was declared by its friends to be a righteous organization standing for "law and order" in the midst of crime, and branded by its enemies as a revival of the organization of Civil war reconstruction days.

Opening the day with what is regarded as the first revelation of the strength of the opposing factions in which the Klan proponents won by a vote of 23 to 18 in their fight against making public membership rolls of secret organizations, the senate settled down to several hours of grim, acrimonious debate.

But at the end of the session a second roll call revealed virtually the same alignment. Voting on an amendment that changed but slightly the provisions of the previous clause the senate rejected it, 23 to 15.

To File Officers' Names A provision was adopted, however, providing that names of officers of secret organizations should be filed with county authorities.

Senator Wash Hudson of Tulsa, Democrat, and majority floor leader, led the defense of the Klan, asserting the organization stands for "law and order." Senator Hudson admonished his hearers that they would "never accomplish anything with this bill" to make public the names of Klansmen.

Performs Useful Services He said that the Klan had delivered Tulsa county from the control of "high jackers, bootleggers and criminals" long before Governor Walton placed the county under martial law and opened an offensive against alleged lawless elements. "The Klan has kept Klan clean up the state," he said, "those peddlars of dirt, those traffickers in women," the majority leader declared. "I know of only one man who was flogged and did not get what he deserved."

Senator Hudson finished speaking. Senator Harry Glasser, republican, started a denunciation of the Klan that drew scattered applause from the galleries.

"I wouldn't join an anti-klan organization any quicker than I would a Klan," he said. "The question of religious intolerance has been in democracy. All men are created equal regardless of their race or religious beliefs."

"I wonder if just before the silver thread was shattered, the Jew and Catholic buddies of Ross Lillard and Courtney Lawrence (members of the senate) giving their last dollar's worth of devotion in the mud and blood of France, thought that in five years their fathers and mothers would be called 'un-American,'" Glasser said. "There were 40,000 of them among the 100,000 who died for American principles and for American democracy."

Question of Americanism "I wonder if Lillard and Courtney Lawrence and the other Jew and Catholic buddies by their side, wondering if they were 100 per cent American," he wondered, "if the heroic charge at Belle Wood in the salient which marked the turning point, carried out by Jews of the 77th division, recruited on the east side of New York, was here in the chamber this morning that I didn't change my votes a cent, wondering if they were 100 per cent American." Glasser said. "That is a small matter."

Contrary to Fair Play "Where I part company with the Klan is when they try to regulate my conduct at a trial at which I am not represented by the identical Klan organization. That is contrary to all principles of fair play. No man can be made a good citizen by placing a piece of bed-ticking over his face upon instructions of Edward Clark and Phillip Fox, both high Klansmen and both under indictment, one for murder of Mann, and the other for murder."

Glasser asserted that "the most unfortunate thing in Oklahoma today is the fact that Jack Walton attacked."

BABSON TRACES FACTS IN PRODUCTION OF OIL

Statistician Discusses Industry from Standpoint of Investment; Fluctuations in Production Are Analyzed

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Nov. 23.—(Special to The News)—Roger W. Babson's recent study of the oil industry, summarized in a statement issued today, is of unusual interest to the investing public, which has been tempted by the recent low prices of oil stocks.

"Over-production is the outstanding characteristic of the oil world for the current year," says Mr. Babson. "To over-production may be traced the majority of the troubles which beset the oil industry today. The high water mark of oil production in 1923 and for all time was reached in the week ending September 8, when the daily production was 2,280,000 barrels. For the same week last year this figure was 1,493,700 barrels.

Production Increases.

"Consumption of crude oil and gasoline has continued to increase but it has been overshadowed by the production from spectacular gusher wells in the Los Angeles basin. Consumption has increased from last year's figure of 586,000,000 barrels to the present indicated rate of 750,000,000 barrels, a new high mark.

"To meet this unusual demand and to prevent a possible famine, the oil industry has undertaken very extensive drilling programs and planned to increase its refinery output by building more refineries and by more extensive use of the process known as 'cracking,' which yields more gasoline from crude oil.

Market Flooded.

An unlooked for combination of circumstances overdid these plans. A very intense campaign of close spaced drilling into four California gusher sands, one of which was 1100 feet thick threw the bulk of this gusher pool on the market all at once. This production added to that of two new fields in Oklahoma and two others in Texas, were the causes of the glut in the crude oil market. Luckily for the oil business just at this time Mexican production was on the decline or a worse condition of affairs might have resulted.

"The over-production of the crude and refined products caused a severe cut in crude oil prices in all the fields. Mid-Continent 33 degrees to 35.9 degrees gravity fell from $2 a barrel in February to $1.10. Pennsylvania crudes dropped from $4 to 2.75 a barrel.

"Gasoline prices for a while continued relatively high. In August Governor McAdoo of South Dakota forced a reduction from 28 to 16 cents a gallon in that state. This drastic cut started a wave of price cutting, gas wars, and further price reductions, which have probably not yet quite reached the bottom.

"These reductions in crude oil and gasoline prices have cut deeply into the earnings of oil companies, 'independents' and 'standards' alike. There has been, and will be, further house cleaning and revamping long many lines in the strong as well as the weak companies. Policies of long standing will be changed, a regrouping of independent companies and unlooked for reworking of 'standard' connections may well be expected. Many a small producer and refiner will be forced out of business.

Crises Is Over.

"The crisis, however, is over and production is now on the decline. The industry as a whole is gradually righting itself and the spring and summer of 1924 with increasing consumption and lessened production should bring into view a more optimistic horizon than exists today in the oil industry.

"Meanwhile 15 of the better grade oil stocks have declined $1,000,000,000 in value from their high point for the year in March and April. An average decline of about 30 per cent. A diagnosis of the trouble reveals two primary causes—the general bearish trend of the stock market and over-production of crude oil.

"No one group of stocks can long withstand a bear market to any thing of a degree. The spring and summer over-production has given the oil group. During the last ten months the world has witnessed the greatest period of over-production the oil industry has ever, or probably will ever sustain. Although the consumption of all petroleum products, gasoline in particular, has greatly increased, at the beginning of the storage season the enormous amount of 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline were on hand.

SCHWAB TELLS OF HIS LOANS TO WOMAN

FOR 20 years Charles M. Schwab, steel master and multi-millionaire, made loans to Mrs. Myrtle E. Hayes, who is now under indictment in New York, charged with forging his name to notes which she was using to finance the erection of a $5,000,000 apartment hotel in Boston. He made the loans, he swore in bankruptcy proceedings in New York, because in 1902 he had advanced her $2,000 and he feared that if he should stop there would be some publicity regarding his past loan to her, which would result in an erroneous construction being placed upon his previous association with her.

"The Mid-Continent pipe line industry has been hard hit due to over-production in California. Instead of the usual supply of crude oil being taken from this field, the Atlantic seaboard has been receiving large quantities by tank steamers from California. Pipe line runs have thereby been reduced, causing a decline in earnings as reflected by the recent passing of the Crescent Pipe Line dividend.

"Persistent rumors of new financing have forced the stocks of a number of companies, notably the Texas Company, to low levels. The chief cause here is the necessity of carrying large inventories, brought on, of course, by over-production. But the country needs large visible stocks on hand in order to assure against shortage for the ever increasing demand. Considering this fact new financing for such purposes should not be regarded in an unfavorable light.

Gives Summary.

"It is not expected that oils will take a noticeable spurt upward previous to the general market rise. But in the meantime the better grade stocks should hold their own, and as over-production becomes less and less a factor, by the time the general bearish attitude has lifted, these securities should be in a position to participate in the next broad rise.

"General findings shown on the Babson chart is running at 18 per cent below normal—an improvement of 1 per cent over last week."

Selling the Man Your Salesman Never Sees

Big orders are often lost because the man your salesman sees can't resell the proposition to some man your salesman doesn't see.

In some household, some inner sanctum, some director's room, some banker's private office the decision goes against you without your ever having had a chance to present your case.

Into these blue-pencil rooms where salesmen seldom penetrate advertising goes whenever you choose to send it.

Because of this it sometimes pays to use widespread advertising to influence a comparatively small number of people. Though 95 per cent of the readers of the publication may never be in the market for your product, the value of reaching the other 5 per cent may be so great as to justify the cost.

Football Fans to Witness Struggles for Supremacy at Berkeley, Seattle and Eugene

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Three sets of traditional trials on the Pacific coast will take the field tomorrow to fight for football honors. At Berkeley the University of California and Stanford university will renew old hostility of the gridiron. At Seattle the University of Washington and Washington State college will take up their long standing rivalry, and at Eugene, Oregon, the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college will scramble for a traditional pigskin.

The six teams are members of the Pacific coast conference and from that point of view the California-Stanford game is the most important. However, California is the only team in the conference that has not been defeated this season. A California victory tomorrow will mean that the Golden Bears of Berkeley have retained for another year the title they have held for several seasons. But Stanford, by winning would go into a tie with California and Washington for the championship. Stanford and Washington have lost one game each.

Prediction favors California and Washington by slight margins. The Oregon-Oregon Aggies struggle seems to be a toss-up. Though it has not bearing on the conference title, another fierce struggle is looked for when the University of Southern California and the University of Idaho meet at Los Angeles tomorrow.

IDAHO FRESHMAN SQUAD WILL RECEIVE REWARDS

Two Twin Falls Lads on List of 18 Varsity Juniors Recommended by Coach to Receive Nurnalred Sweater

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Nov. 23—Eighteen members of this year's Idaho freshman football team have been recommended by Coach David Magdellan to receive the nurnalred sweater, the official award to participants in first year athletics who fulfill the necessary requirements.

Had the schedule been six games instead of four, the freshman might have been developed into a more formidable club, but freshman teams are no longer developed as separate entities; the ultimate object is varsity material.

Those who will receive the awards are: B. E. Lindberg, halfback, Post Falls; Roland Hutchinson, fullback, and Carl Hutchinson, tackle, Chewelah, Wash.; T. R. Dobbs, center, Twin Falls; Charles Diehl, tackle, Ellensburg; Robert Puzler, guard, Twin Falls; J. E. Miles, halfback, Curlew; St. John McDowell, end, San Francisco; M. Fuller, end, Orofino; Edwin Stuart, tackle, American Falls; J. W. Gastin, guard, Caldwell; George Penson, halfback, Salt Lake; George Relyen, tackle, New Plymouth; Frank Powers, quarterback, Moscow; G. P. Cooper, quarterback, Tacoma, Wash.; W. Hanson, end, Moscow; Heber Sharp, tackle, St. Anthony; Cecil Baird, fullback, Chicago.

BURLEY HOLDS IDAHO FALLS TO TIE GAME

Fast High School Football Teams Battle to 13-13 Score in Thrilling Exhibition Before Crowd at Burley

Burley and Idaho Falls battled Friday afternoon to a 13 to 13 tie at Burley in one of the best exhibitions of football seen in this section in many a day. Two teams almost evenly matched fought like demons for one solid hour and neither was able to gain the advantage. Burley put over a touchdown in the first few minutes of play after receiving the Idaho Falls kickoff, which was short and went out of bounds on the 45-yard line.

Burley marched down the field with 25 yards of the goal and Bus Canine tore through the Idaho Falls team for the remaining 25 yards and converted the extra point. Idaho Falls was unable to penetrate the Burley line during the first period and Burley was not able to advance the ball within striking distance. In the third period Burley was forced to kick from behind their own goal and Idaho Falls advanced the ball to the 16-yard line, where Burley received a 15-yard penalty for roughing, placing the ball on the 1-yard line, and Russell put it over on the first try. Burley's second score came as the result of a blocked kick, Bateman blocking the kick and recovering it on the 25-yard line for a touchdown. Idaho Falls' second score came as the result of three beautifully executed passes that netted 25 yards each, the last one being received by Russell over the goal.

Edwards' ability to circle the Burley ends almost at will was a bright feature of the game and his teammates, Russell, Meppen and Butler, showed up well at plugging the line. For Burley it was the same old story—Bus Canine and Bill Kereshnik. Both of these bukies were able to gain through the line consistently and Canine was effective around ends. Bateman also played a nice game at end, snaring many Idaho Falls plays directed at his end. Taylor played his usual heady game at quarter.

Coaches Pleased Both coaches were pleased with the showing made by their teams and both considered it a victory. According to officials of the schools the decision as to how the championship of the two districts will be finally settled rests with the state board of control. Coach Maddock insists that another game should be played at Idaho Falls to decide the matter, but the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the game should be played on a neutral field, the Idaho Falls officials favoring Pocatello, while Burley expressed no choice. It would seem that the only just way to settle the controversy would be another game on a neutral field, and Twin Falls was suggested as a good place to play. However, the final decision is up to state board and their decision will be final. Should another game be decided upon it would probably be played upon Thanksgiving day, postponing the state championship game until a week after Thanksgiving.

Approximately 3500 people witnessed the game at Burley Friday. The special train from Idaho Falls carrying 225 townspeople and students arrived at 1:50 p. m. The Burley supporters were at the depot en masse to meet the train. A warm reception was accorded the visitors, who left immediately following the game.

First Quarter Idaho Falls won the toss and took their choice of goals and Burley elected to receive. A high wind was blowing and Edwards kicked short, the ball going out of bounds on the 45-yard line. Instead of kicking over the ball was given to Burley, who at once went on. Canine made 6 yards through the line. Kereshnik made 4 yards. Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Canine made 7 yards around end. Kereshnik made 3 more and first down. Canine made 4 more through the line. Canine made 5 more off tackle. Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside, placing the ball on Idaho Falls' 25-yard line, and on the next play Canine got away through the Idaho Falls line for 25 yards and a touchdown. Canine kicked goal. Score, 7 to 0.

Burley Kicks Burley kicked off. Canine kicked to Edwards on the 15-yard line, who ran the ball back to the 35-yard line. Butler made 11 yards through the line. Gesas made 4 yards off tackle. Burley received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Edwards made 7 yards around end. Russell made a yard around end. Butler made 1-2 yards through the line and Gesas made another, making first down. Edwards failed to gain. Butler lost 4 yards on an attempted run. Edwards made 7 yards around end. Edwards kicked to Taylor, who received the ball on the 15-yard line and ran it back to the 30-yard line. Canine made a yard. Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Canine made 2 yards off tackle. Canine made 2 more and repeated around end for 3 yards more. Canine was forced to kick, but the kick went straight up and was short. Butler lost a yard. Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Edwards fumbled and Burley recovered on the 25-yard line. Canine made 2 yards off tackle. Burley received a penalty of 5 yards for offside. Canine made 5 yards for offside. Canine tore through the line, but Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Canine made 2 yards around end as the quarter ended with the ball on Idaho Falls' 20-yard line.

Second Quarter Kereshnik attempted a pass without result. Canine failed to gain and the ball went over. Edwards fumbled but recovered for a yard loss. Butler made a yard around end. Meppen made 2 yards through the line but failed to gain on the next try. Edwards kicked to Canine, who barely touched the ball on the 25-yard line. Butler made 4 yards around end. Kereshnik made 2 yards through the line. Burley received another penalty of 5 yards for offside, backfield in motion. Canine tore through the line, but Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Canine made 2 yards around end as the quarter ended with the ball on Idaho Falls' 20-yard line.

Third Quarter Barlow went back at center for Idaho Falls. Idaho Falls kicked off. Fisher kicked to Kereshnik, on the 30-yard line. Canine tore through the line, but Idaho Falls received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Kereshnik made 5 yards. Burley received a 5-yard penalty for offside. Canine made 2 yards. Burley received a 15-yard penalty for holding. Canine kicked from behind his own goal line to Edwards on the 40-yard line. Gesas failed to gain. A pass was incomplete. Edwards made 6 yards. Kereshnik kicked the ball going out on the 8-yard line. Canine made a yard around end. Kereshnik made another through the line. Canine kicked from the goal line to Gesas on the 50-yard line, who ran the ball back 10 yards. Meppen made 8 yards around end. Butler made 15 yards around end. Edwards failed to gain. Butler failed to gain. Kereshnik spoiled a pretty pass, but received a 15-yard penalty for roughing, putting the ball on the 1-yard line and Russell put it over on the next play. Edwards failed to make the try for goal. Score, 7 to 6.

Fourth Quarter Russell made 8 yards around end. Butler made a yard. Christophererson for Gesas failed to gain. A pass, Russell to Christophererson, was complete for 20 yards. A pass, Edwards to Russell for 20 yards more was complete. Russell failed to gain. Russell received a 25-yard pass from Edwards over the goal line for a touchdown. Edwards made the point. Score 13 to 7. Fisher kicked off for Idaho Falls, but the referee did not allow the kick because the crowd was pushing onto the field at one end. After the spectators had been put back Fisher kicked again to Canine, who ran the kick back to the 45-yard line. Canine made 6 yards. Kereshnik made 5 yards. Kereshnik failed to gain. A pass, Kereshnik to Durfee, netted 10 yards. Taylor made 4 yards through the line. Canine made 2 more off tackle. Canine made 2 more. Canine got away for a touchdown, but the referee did not allow the play, as it was pulled before the whistle blow after time out. Canine failed to make yardage and the ball went over on the 30-yard line. Meppen made 2 yards. Russell failed to gain. Edwards attempted a kick, which was blocked by Bateman, who recovered it and ran for a touchdown. Canine failed to kick goal. Score, 13 to 13.

Dispute Arises There was some dispute about the play, Idaho Falls claiming Burley was holding and Burley claiming that Idaho Falls slugged. The referee failed to see either violation and the touchdown was allowed. The timekeepers were also at variance and much time was consumed in adjusting the difficulty.

Canine kicked off to Fisher. The kick was short. Idaho Falls tried two passes without results. Edwards failed to gain. Edwards kicked to Canine, who ran the ball back to the 40-yard line. Bean went in for Burton. Canine made 5 yards around end. Canine added 2 yards more. Canine made 4 yards. A 20-yard pass, Kereshnik to Bateman, was complete. Canine failed to gain as the game ended with the ball on Idaho Falls' 25-yard line.

TEAM WORK IN LOWER HOUSE IS MAIN NEED

Lack of Harmony Among Republicans Will Enable Democrats to Do What They Please, Declares Longworth

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Appealing for harmony among republican members of the house, Representative Longworth of Ohio, who is a candidate for republican leader, declared in a letter made public tonight that lack of team work would enable the democrats to do what they pleased. The communication addressed to house republicans called attention to the party's "slender majority in the next house" and emphasized that republicans succeed at the polls next year would depend "largely upon the record of the congress soon to meet" and that "the main theater of political activity will be the house of representatives in which most important pieces of legislation must originate."

Referring to the content that has developed between him and Representative Graham, Illinois, for leader, Mr. Longworth declared he was in the fight to stay, although he hoped the question together with others relating to house organization might be determined "with substantial unanimity."

Democrats Have Good Chance.
With the assistance of a "very few men" on the republican side out of sympathy with the organization, Mr. Longworth said, the democrats would be in a position to control house developments. He called attention to the loss by the republicans of a large number of their best parliamentarians and fighting men, while the democrats, he added, "have lost none of their fighting force and have a number of additions of great strength."

"The leadership question under these conditions," Mr. Longworth continued, "will be a position of peculiar responsibility and difficulty. It is a position which ought not, I think, to be sought for the sake of the gratification of any personal ambition. It should go to the man best fitted under all circumstances in the opinion of a majority of his colleagues to discharge its duties."

Mr. Longworth asserted he had reluctantly acceded to the request of many republican members of the house that he become their leader because elevation to that post would involve giving up the place on the ways and means committee which he has held for 15 years. If elected leader, he added he would take up his new duties "with feelings far less of jubilation than with a stern sense of seriousness of the responsibilities which it will involve."

Opposed to Sectionalism.
"Something has been said about sectionalism," Mr. Longworth's letter continued. "I am as much opposed to sectionalism as anyone and if I could have my way there would not be a section of the country, nor a school of republican thought that would not be fairly and effectively represented in the organization of the next house."
"The speaker of the next house will be Frederick H. Gillett of Massachusetts, an able and fair a speaker as has ever presided here. So far as I know no man has ever been suggested to oppose him and no respectable argument can be made against his re-election."

FROM "CRADLE OF MAN" WITH GOBI FOSSILS

Roy Chapman Andrews

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS, renowned scientist and explorer, leader of the American Museum of Natural History's expedition to the Gobi Desert, in China, declared upon his return to Seattle, Wash., that his party had discovered in Asia the "Paleontological Garden of Eden." As proof of his assertion that all life originated in Central Asia he brought back 25 dinosaurs, said to be 10,000,000 old. The skeleton of the newly discovered "Archicentron," or browsing rhinoceros, and one of a gigantic dog, with a 3-foot head and an 18-inch jaw, were also brought back for the New York museum.

Under these circumstances it is a little difficult to see how floor leadership from Ohio is sectionalism and leadership from Illinois is not. "I have always been and am now in favor of an enlargement of the steering committee from its present size in favor that there can be no question that every section of the country is effectively represented and this I shall urge in the committee of committees of which I shall be a member."

Definite Program Needed.
"One of the most important questions that will face us at the outset is the formulation of a program of legislation that can be carried out. If we cannot agree early in the session upon a legislative program we will run the risk on one hand of failing to enact progressive and constructive legislation which the country is demanding, and on the other hand risk the enactment of legislation of a radical and destructive character."

"With the realization of these difficulties I shall, if elected leader, request each state to name a man who will keep in close touch with the leader and the steering committee and advise with us as to the legislation which his state favors. Such a system will, to my mind, do much to facilitate the adoption of a legislative program which we have the desire and ability to carry out."

SHIPS ARRIVING FROM ABROAD WITH LIQUOR

New York Coast Guard officials report 11 Ezra Jennings boats off shore. With $1,500,000 in Contraband.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Coast guard officials reported to customs authorities today that 11 rum-carrying ships were anchored in various spots off the Highlands of New Jersey and the Long Island coast. They estimated the combined cargoes of the vessels to be 30,000 cases, with a retail bottling value of about $1,500,000. Seven of the vessels, including two steamers and five schooners, were said to have arrived from foreign shores within the last three days, most of them carrying small cargoes of about 2500 cases, the rum skippers being loath to carry more because of early winter storms.

WHEN FATHER'S OUT OF WORK

Periods of industrial depression and unemployment are too often regarded only from the standpoint of financial and business loss. There is a more important side. Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau, presents that side in a report recently submitted to the Secretary of Labor.

Large groups of children suffer not temporarily but permanent losses as a result of a period of industrial depression. Those who are interested in raising the standard of our citizenship through better care of the children in the country can not regard as outside the field of their concern proposals for preventing unemployment and, falling in program of prevention, measures which are necessary for safeguarding the children during a period of unemployment.

In an unemployment investigation concerned chiefly with the families of self-respecting, fairly prosperous, skilled workmen, more than two-thirds of whom had out of work for more than a year, sufficiently grave situations were found to justify her statement.

In many cases the fathers were good, steady workmen, the mothers good housekeepers and housemakers. The children were in school; many families were saving money and buying small homes; the prolonged idleness of the fathers made it necessary for mothers to seek work outside the home. Unavoidable neglect of children followed. Mortgaged homes were lost, along with all the money previously put into them. Desperate economies in living were forced, including a reduction of essential food rations, such as milk, meat and fresh vegetables. In addition to material deprivation, there were discouragement, fear, anxiety and unaccustomed conditions which lowered family morale.

With such conditions developing in better-class workmen's families and homes, it is easy to look farther and imagine the situation attending unemployment in homes poorer to start an end, the train of its disastrous con- with. When the idle period comes to sequences spreads out over a considerably longer time, and sometimes wrecks the health or spirit of children, spoiling their chances of becoming good citizens.

WORLD COURT SUPPORT

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States is about to start a campaign for American participation in the Permanent Court of International Justice. The Chamber will urge American membership on the basis that will not be objectionable to the forty-six nations already belonging, but will insist on such reservations as it considers desirable to safeguard American interests and conciliate American critics.

Chief among the reservations contemplated are, a specific understanding that entering the Court of Justice will not mean coming under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations; that this country does not accept the optional clause which makes compulsory any decision of the Court. Thus, though there may be some degree of moral obligation assumed, there will be no legal obligation, and the United States will retain freedom of action in any controversy. The national Chamber of Commerce is taking this course because it thinks participation with the other nations in such an international tribunal will be of great value to the business interests of the country. This business interest, added to the interest already shown by great church and labor groups and by women's organizations, may soon make the issue far more alive than it has been for the last few months. There is a large and varied body of organized opinion for the Court, and there does not seem to be much organized opposition to it except in the United States Senate.

SCHOOLYARD LANDINGS

The director of the Illinois state department of registration and education recently told certain state aero organizations that the seven hundred fifty township high school football fields and playgrounds are available as landing fields. He suggested that all of these could be marked for identification from the air, and could be used to meet the need of such landing places. This offer is supposed to boom the use of silver airplanes by private citizens.

Undoubtedly such a use of school grounds would help to solve the problem of landing fields easily. But would it be wholly wise? School yards exist for a purpose. They are the recreation grounds of the pupils attending school, and they should be as safe from outside danger as private back yards. How could they be so protected if airplanes were dropping into them at any time of the day?

Landing fields are very important, but their construction or acquisition should be accomplished with judgment and discretion, and not at the expense of any group of citizens or children.

HAD TRAMP CHAIR

Maine Used Odd Contrivance to Rout Hoboes.

Large Iron Cage for Wanderers Succeeded Newspaper's Exposure of Unique Graft System.

Out in a damp pile in the outskirts of Rockport, Me., is the wreck of one of the "tramp" chairs which attained fame in Maine something like twenty-five years ago. This chair was expected to put an end to the tramp evil—for the tramp had become an evil in the state at that time—but like so many other things of that kind, when returns are expected, it failed. However, before its failure became definitely established, many Maine towns purchased one of the chairs, and today there are in many junk piles of the state specimens of the chair in varied states of preservation. The chair was nothing more or less than a cage of strap iron built in crude imitation of a chair. The front would swing open so that the hobo sentenced to step in and sit down. It was then swung back and locked. There was very little opportunity for moving, so that the thing was actually a machine to torture rather than punishment. A shelf on the front served as a table from which the tramp inside could eat. The chair was mounted on wheels so that it could be moved about.

What brought this chair into existence, undoubtedly, was the exposure by the Boston Globe of a system of graft in the state of Maine, and some other sections of the state by making use of the Maine tramps. The plan was a combination between certain trial justices, deputy sheriffs and constables to keep the justices busy trying tramp cases and the jail full of the wayfarers. These trial justices got a fee from the state for every case they heard, the officer received a fee for the arrest and transportation of the prisoners and the sheriff got so much a day for each prisoner he had in the jail. In order to make the scheme work they had to have a sufficient number of tramps, and this was what in the end led to its exposure. These men didn't try to hog all the money. In order to be sure of a sufficient supply of raw material in the person of tramps they paid the tramps a percentage of the amount of fees received. This kept the raw material interested.

Short sentences were given in all cases. Ten days in the jail was a long time. Usually it was not more than six. The sheriff did not work them hard, fed them well, and they were always sure of a good bed and a warm place to stay in cold weather. When a tramp was released from the jail he was given directions as to where to visit next. In this way the frequency of men being sentenced to jail took on a semblance of reasonableness so that no one got wise to the arrangement until the story was told in the Globe. Virgil Eaton, a native of Maine, was at that time one of the star reporters on the Globe. He heard of the system and came down to Maine to investigate. He disguised himself as a tramp, got arrested and sentenced to jail; also he became one of the members of the graft ring as a part of the raw material supply, so that when his story was written it was correct to the minutest details of the methods of working the scheme. Naturally, this put an end to the tramp industry, but it didn't relieve Maine of the tramp problem. The state was fairly swarming with tramps. When the tramp industry blew their soap was ended in all sections of the state. Officers and justices dare not be lenient on tramps and in the effort to drive them from the state this tramp chair was devised.

THE TEN TURKEYS By DADDY

When Farmer White's turkeys fly out of the poultry yard, Jack and Janet follow them to try to capture them.

CHAPTER VI The Turkeys See Red.

AFTER Jack and Janet saved the nine turkeys from the foxes, they thought the turkeys might be grateful enough to go back with them to the poultry yard. But no indeed. The turkeys did not intend to go back to the poultry yard—at least not until after Thanksgiving dinner had been eaten. They ran into the woods and the children could not catch one of them.

At last Jack and Janet sat down to eat. "We just have to catch them," said Jack. "It is our fault they got out. If we don't get them back into the poultry house we will have no Thanksgiving dinner, and neither will lots of other folks. Besides Farmer White will lose the money he expected to get from selling the turkeys."

"Chasing them doesn't do a bit of good," sighed Janet. "Ah, hush!" cried Jack. "I have an idea. Chasing them doesn't do any good, but if they should chase us that might help."

"How could you get them to chase us?" asked Janet. "They ran away from us."

"I know a way," said Jack. "You just stay here and watch. I'll take Jack ran into the bushes out of Janet's sight. In a few minutes Janet heard an excited gobbling among the bushes. The gobbling grew loud and angry. There was a crashing among the bushes, and out came Jack, running as fast as he could.

And after Jack came the turkeys—nine of them in a row. Every turkey had his neck stretched out and his wings spread wide. Every one of them seemed in a towering rage. And every one was chasing Jack, trying to catch him.

Janet stared at Jack in wonder. How had he made the turkeys chase him? Then she noticed a change about Jack. He was wearing a bright red jacket. He had turned his coat inside out and was showing the red lining.

Then Janet remembered something she had learned long before—that turkeys do not like red. They will grow angry when they see it and chase it. Jack, too, had remembered that. That is why he had turned the red lining out. That is how he made the turkeys chase him.

But now that Jack had made the turkeys chase him, what was he going to do? Janet ran after Jack and the turkeys to see.

Jack went straight for Farmer White's poultry yard. The turkeys seeing only red in their rage, followed him without noticing where they were going.

Jack ran in at the poultry yard gate and the turkeys piled in after him. Jack dodged behind the gate, and, when he saw the turkeys were close, Jack ran to the red did not show. Then as the last turkey ran inside and all of them rushed around looking for the red, Jack slipped out and locked the gate.

Janet, running after the turkeys, laughed as she saw what a clever trick Jack had played on the turkeys. "See! Jack has caught all ten turkeys back," she cried. "Now our Thanksgiving dinner is safe."

fee and a sandwich brought to her by the night porter, whom she had roused from sleep, for bedtime in early in Windchester, and then informed him that she was going for a short walk and would ring when she returned. He had leaped joyfully as she turned in at the drive gates of her home and felt the well-remembered gravel crunching under her feet. The silhouette of the ruined castle against the summer sky gave her the feeling which all returning wanderers know. And when she stepped out, she looked and looked at the black bulk of the house, indistinct and shadowy with its backing of trees, tears came into her eyes. She experienced a rush of emotion which made her feel quite faint, and which lasted until, on slipping nearer to the house in order to get across the fact that she perceived that the French windows of the drawing room were standing ajar. Sam had left them like this in order to facilitate departure, if a hurried departure should be any mischance be rendered necessary, and drawn curtains had kept the household from noticing the fact.

All the proprietor in Mrs. Hignett was roused. This, she felt indignantly, was the sort of thing she had been afraid would happen the moment her back was turned. Evidently lady—one might almost say anarchically—had directly she had removed the eyes of authority. She marched to the window and pushed it open. She had now completely abandoned her kindly scheme of refraining from rousing the sleeping house and spending the night at the inn. She stepped into the drawing room with the alighted-minded purpose of rousing Eustace out of his sleep and giving him a good talking for having failed to maintain her own standard of efficiency among the domestic staff. If there was one thing on which Mrs. Horace Hignett had always insisted it was that every window in the house must be closed at lights-out.

She pushed the curtains apart with a rattio and, at the same moment, from the direction of the door there came a low but distinct gasp which made her resolute heart jump and flutter. It was too dark to see anything distinctly, but in the instant before it turned and fled she caught sight of a shadowy male figure, and knew that her worst fears had been realized. The figure was too tall to be Eustace, and Eustace, she knew, was the only man in the house. Male figures, therefore, that went flitting about Windles, must be the guests of business.

Mrs. Hignett, bold woman though she was, stood for an instant spell-bound, and for one moment of unpardonable panic, tried to tell herself that she had been mistaken. Almost immediately, however, there came from the direction of the hall a dull chunky sound as though something soft had been kicked followed by a low gurgle and the noise of staggering feet. Unless he was drinking a sea-scented out of sheer helplessness, the nocturnal visitor must have tripped over some-

The latter theory was the correct one. Montagu Webster was a man who at many a subscription ball had shaken a wicked dancing-pump, and nothing in the proper circumstances pleased him better than to exercise the skill which had become his as the result of twelve private lessons at half-a-crown a visit. It recognized the truth of the scriptural adage that there is a time for dancing, and that this was not it. His only desire when, stealing into the drawing room he had been confronted through the curtains by a female figure, was to get back to his bedroom undetected. He supposed that one of the female members of the house party must have been taking a stroll in the grounds, and he did not wish to stay and be compelled to make laborious explanations of his presence there in the dark. He decided to postpone the knocking on the cupboard door, which had been the signal arranged between himself and Sam, until the next hour. It was in the meantime he bounded silently out into the hall, and instantaneously tripped over the portly form of Smith, the bulldog, who, roused from a light sleep to the knowledge that something was going on, and being a dog who always liked to be in the center of the inci-

Breakfast Food "Matrimonial Speaking" By HUGH MCKAY

My wife goes to "hen-parties." When they're in the daytime I don't mind so much—except that I have to listen to what Mrs. Stokes said about Mrs. Patton, and so on—and on. But what I most definitely dislike is to have her go out and play cards with a lot of women in the evening, leaving me sitting tight at home with the silly paper and the library clock. If I can't I go out for a little game with the boys, she doesn't feel the same toward me for about a week. But when she goes out with the girls—that's different.

Woman's place may not be more than 25 per cent in the whole, but more than 25 per cent of the women whom her husband is around the house. When it comes to one member of the family going out and leaving the other at home, I'm all for equal rights for men.

stream of events, had waddled out to investigate.

By the time Mrs. Hignett had pulled herself together sufficiently to feel brave enough to venture into the hall, Webster's presence of mind and Smith's gregariousness had combined to restore that part of the house to its normal nocturnal condition of emptiness. Webster's stammer had carried him almost up to the green baize door leading to the servants' staircase, and he proceeded to pass through it without checking his momentum, closely followed by Smith, who, now convinced that interesting events were in progress which might possibly culminate in a cake, had abandoned the idea of sleep and meant to see the thing through. He gambled in Webster's wake up the stairs and along the passage leading to the latter's room, and only paused when the door was brusquely shut in his face. Upon which he sat down to think the thing over. He was in no hurry. The night was before him, promising, as far as he could judge from the way it had opened, excellent entertainment.

Mrs. Hignett had listened fearfully to the uncouth noises from the hall. The burglar—she had now discovered that there were at least two of them—appeared to be actually romping. The situation had grown beyond her handling. If this troupe of terpsichorean marauders was to be dislodged she must have assistance. It was Sam's work. She made a brave dash through the hall, mercifully unmanifested: found the stairs, raced up them, and fell through the doorway of her son Eustace's bedroom like a spent Marathon runner staggering past the winning post.

would have over two weeks to conduct an unintermitted wooing, and Mrs. Hignett's heart sank, till suddenly she remembered that so poor a sailor or her son was not likely to have had leisure for any strolling on the deck during the voyage of the Atlantic.

He predicted a sound development and reiterated a former prediction that Twin Falls will be the "greatest city in Idaho within five years."

BUILDING FOR GREATER CITY MEETING TOPIC

Chamber of Commerce Members at First Forum Meeting Consider Many Suggestions for Community Betterment

Adoption of the revised constitution and by-laws, addresses and general discussions, and presentation of suggestions for community betterment featured the members' forum dinner of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce at Twin Falls Friday evening. The meeting was the first of a series of organization and was attended by about 70 persons.

Frank Horton, manager of the expansion drive, announced satisfactory progress and stated that about 300 new members are now enrolled in the organization. Complete details of the present status of the campaign are not yet available, Mr. Horton said. The meeting was opened by the campaign manager who explained the purpose of the members' forum, a new feature introduced with the present campaign. The Rev. A. G. Pearson and E. Wright followed with addresses, their respective topics being "The City Beautiful," and "City Publicity." Willet Hanco, who was scheduled to give the opening address, was out of the city.

Praised Civic Leaders

The Rev. Mr. Pearson highly praised the leaders in civic work in Twin Falls who have persisted in their efforts on behalf of the city and community during recent years. He predicted a splendid development and a brighter future for the city. He stated that Twin Falls will be the "greatest city in Idaho within five years." "A city beautiful," he said, "means more than consideration of material things. It means a city standing four-square with no angles but right angles at its corners and our gates must be open to all newcomers, regardless of whether or not his views may differ from ours."

The Rev. Mr. Pearson was particularly optimistic over present investment opportunities in this city and vicinity. Mr. Wright delivered a most sincere and forceful argument for more community advertising. In this connection he suggested an advertising and publicity program to cover two purposes—trade development and fostering of good will and cooperation. He further suggested that large billboards be established at prominent entrances to the city.

Community advertising, Mr. Wright said, and offered the growth of California cities as proof of his statement, saying that he believed some similar plan would be effective here. He recommended that a prize contest be held to receive suggestions for an annual event in Twin Falls that would most typify local history and life and at the same time create maximum outside interest. He lamented the fact that local business houses have not closed down for at least one day during the Pilgrimage and urged that this be done in the future.

Suggestions for Betterment

- One of the most interesting features of the evening took place when suggestions for community betterment were called for by Mr. Horton after memorandum slips had been passed out to those present. While recommendations were being read in writing oral suggestions in their respective order, were made as follows:
- S. H. Bolton—"Weed out all of the 'barbaries' in Twin Falls."
- W. R. Friebe—"Brand all first class produce shipped out from the city."
- A. L. Swim—"Put through a program for the construction of a bridge across Snake river canyon directly north of Twin Falls."
- A. Dorman Johnson—"Emphasize at all times the fact that Twin Falls is a permanent city and that transient population is not desired."
- C. E. Lind—"Improvement of the highway between Twin Falls and Contact, Nevada."
- Howard Sabia—"Establish closer friendship and cooperation between the chamber of commerce and the farmers of the community."
- C. H. Perkes—"Bring a milk evaporating factory here."
- Rev. A. G. Pearson—"Set forth the facts concerning the community in all personal correspondence."
- Frank Horton—"Increase the number and extent of local industries."
- T. J. Lloyd, who presided during the dinner program, turned the chairmanship of the business session over to Mr. Swim.

Election in order. The revised constitution and by-laws were read by Mr. Horton, and after considerable discussion, were adopted unanimously. The new code provided for a referendum vote by mail by which 10 per cent of the members can call a section at any time, the vote finally recorded to be final. Other provisions relate to the fixing of the annual meeting date, election of the board of directors, amendment of the constitution under 10 days' notice by request of two-thirds of the membership and maintenance of the plural membership plan. The latter feature called forth considerable discussion. Following the reading of the revisions and the subsequent discussion John W. Graham
