FLEET ORDERED TO PROCEED TO MEXICAN PORT

Eight Fighting Ships Under American Flag Mobilized to Guard U. S. Commerce at Vera Cruz

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 19 (AP)—The United States government has granted permission for the movement over American soil of approximately 2,000 Mexican troops from Naco, Arizona, to El Paso, Texas, according to a message received by Governor Hunt of Arizona from Secretary Hughes tonight.

The message declared that "appropriate United States federal authorities have been requested to facilitate the movement" of the Mexican troops.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Eight fighting ships under the American flag have been ordered mobilized off Vera Cruz, Mexico, as a grim reminder to Mexican rebel leaders that peaceful American commerce must not be made the plaything of Mexican politics.

Orders were flashed southward today directing the fast light cruiser Omaha and six destroyers from the battle fleets mobilized in Panama canal waters for winter maneuvers. They were directed to join the scouting fleet flagship Richmond off Vera Cruz. The repair ship Prometheus was included in the order.

The Richmond, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Magruder, commanding the scouting fleet, was due at Vera Cruz today.

Gunboats Moving.

Announcement of the orders to the Omaha and the destroyers was made both by the state department and by Secretary Denby. No formal explanation was added by Mr. Denby to the terse statement that the ships were already moving toward Vera Cruz. It was learned, however, that further movements of the vessels would depend upon the action of Mexican rebel craft seeking to blockade Tampico.

If American merchant vessels are denied free passage into and out of that harbor, there can be no doubt that the Washington government is prepared to take forceful measures to clear the path for them.

Assembly of the fighting ships off Vera Cruz is viewed as a naval demonstration designed to impress Mexican insurrectionist leaders with the idea that warnings already sent them against interference with American

Unveil Memorial to Famed Leader of Confederates

Governors of Several States and Federal Representatives Are Present when Tribute Is Paid Robert E. Lee

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., Jan. 19 (AP)—The south again today honored its immortal leader when high up the granite wall of Stone mountain there was unveiled the sculptured head of Robert E. Lee.

The dream of a great memorial began to come true when a bright American flag was lifted from the majestic brow of Lee, looking out from the upper wall of Stone mountain,—the first of the mighty group planned by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, after the dream of Mrs. Helen Plane.

Mrs. Plane, 94 years old, widow of a Confederate colonel killed in action, was carried up on the rostrom by Mr. Borglum, who had laid out the gigantic work and whose toil had brought forth from the granite the head of Lee in less than six weeks. With bared head he stood beside her as the stately lady, attired in a costume of the 'sixties, gave the signal for the unveiling.

Governor Trinkle of Virginia, Governor Morrison of North Carolina, Governor McLeod of South Carolina, Governor Neff of Texas, Governor Walker of Georgia, Major General David C. Shanks of the United States army, Rear Admiral Williams, representing the navy, Lieutenant Governor Charles S. McDowell of Alabama, and David R. Francis of Missouri, former ambassador to Russia, were present as representatives of their states at the ceremony.

Dr. Plato Durham of Emory university delivered the oration.

"No generation of youths shall ever pass this way and be the same again," he said. "In their hearts will burn the light of the inspiration of this ineffable symbol. No ignoble sentiments may live in the presence of the beacon of idealism which we light today."

SCHACHT TO AID IN DEBT PARLEY

German Banker Ready to Present Financial Documents to Reparations Experts

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German reichbank, who arrived here today upon the invitation of the first expert reparation commission, went to the German embassy where he buried himself in studying the questions submitted in writing by the committees. He refused to see all callers.

Dr. Schacht brought with him documents relating to the present financial situation of Germany, which he will present to the experts after the list of questions has been exhausted.

The German financier expressed himself to friends as quite willing to cooperate in any way he could with the experts, and to tell them all he knows regarding the situation that will help them to reach a solution.

The assistant experts continued this afternoon discussing reparation documents of such material as may be useful to the experts during their conference with Dr. Schacht.

Taxicabs and Trucks Blamed for Majority of Fatal Accidents

Survey Indicates Cabs and Heavy Vehicles Caused 35 Per Cent of Deaths

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Taxicabs and motor trucks caused more of the 633 automobile fatalities in Chicago and Cook county in 1923 than did passenger automobiles, according to figures made public by the Chicago Motor club, which investigated that number of accidents.

The cabs and trucks, while forming only 17.7 per cent of the total vehicles involved, caused 35.5 per cent of the deaths, according to the figures.

According to these figures, one of every 52 taxicabs operated killed a person while one of every 306 trucks and one of every 615 passenger cars caused a fatality.

Coolidge's Speech to Circle Globe on Rotary Anniversary

President's Address Expected to Bear on Sixth Object of World Organization

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—A radio message by President Coolidge on Washington's birthday in honor of the birthday anniversary of the Rotary clubs, will be relayed around the world by the 3000 clubs of the organization in 28 countries, it was announced.

The president's speech, believed to be the first to be sent by radio around the globe, is expected to bear upon the sixth object of Rotary, which is in "the advancement, understanding, good will and international peace through world fellowship of business and professional men."

ENTER PROTESTS TO SCHEDULE OF RATE REVISIONS

Idaho Witnesses at Interstate Hearing at Boise Testify as to Effect of Discriminatory Charges

BOISE, Jan. 19 (AP)—Rate reductions on transcontinental railroads, which would allow manufacturers in Chicago and contiguous territory to ship to Pacific coast terminals at lower charges than intermediate territory, would be discriminatory, according to testimony given this morning at the rate hearing in the United States district court room, federal building, before M. A. Pattison, examiner for the interstate commerce commission.

The hearing adjourned earlier than was expected. Mr. Pattison and H. W. Prickett, attorney for the Intermediate Rate association, who examined the witnesses, remained over night in Boise and will leave Sunday for Spokane, where the next hearing will open Monday.

Towns in the Boise valley territory and other points in Idaho were represented by the association, of which Mr. Prickett is spokesman. While only three witnesses were examined Saturday, protests were placed in the records from Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Gooding, Nampa, Parma and Payette.

The witnesses called were George B. Graff, secretary of the Boise Chamber of Commerce; S. M. Coffin, chairman of the traffic department of the chamber, and S. L. Newton, rate expert of the Idaho state public utilities commission.

Witnesses presented figures to show that Boise would suffer immeasurably from any rate adjustment which would allow Portland or other coast terminals to receive shipments in any of the 40 or more commodities listed as lower rates than into Boise territory, and asserted that if the request of the railroads was granted it could be nothing more than discrimination. Mr. Coffin declared that such adjustment would have an effect of retarding the progress of the Boise territory, and place it in a position from which for 40 years the intermountain country had been struggling to free itself.

VOLCANO STILL ACTIVE.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 19 (AP)—Pavlof volcano, 10 miles from Bolkofsky, on the Alaskan peninsula, 650 miles southwest of this city, was still in eruption last night. The flames hurled from the crater were visible for miles away.

ESTIMATES OF COST OF WELLS-ROGERSON LINE GET OFFICIAL SANCTION

Last Obstacle in Way of Beginning Construction Removed by Approval of President Gray of Union Pacific

Estimates of expense in connection with the construction of the Wells-Rogerson railway have received the official o. k. of President Gray of the Union Pacific system, thus disposing of the last possible obstacle in the way of beginning of work as soon as weather conditions will permit.

This information was received from Oregon Short Line headquarters in Salt Lake by long-distance telephone Saturday. The estimates, it is said, were well within the appropriation set aside for the work some time ago and official sanction of the expenditure is regarded as constituting a virtual guarantee of the commencement of operations probably within the next 60 days.

Tunnel Is Cut Out

The exact route to be followed by the new line does away with the necessity of tunnel construction and is said to constitute the best and most feasible route available from the standpoint of quick construction. As an engineering and construction proposition it is said that it would be readily possible to build the entire line with terminal connections before October 1 of this year and it is now believed that every effort will be made to do this.

The contract for construction will probably be let within the next 60 days.

Many Airmen Offer to Make Long Trip

Captain Who Brought Giant Shenandoah Back from Wild Flight to Pilot Her on Northward Journey

LAKEHURST, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—Captain Anton Heinen, who commanded the navy airship Shenandoah on her storm-driven flight over New Jersey Wednesday night, undoubtedly will pilot her on the flight to the North Pole next summer, declared Captain P. R. McCrary of the naval air station today.

He added that it looked as if every man at the station wanted to make the polar trip and nearly all had posted their names on the station bulletin board for a chance.

MANY CHILDREN HURT IN CRASH

Total of 127 Persons Injured, Many Seriously, when Armory Balcony Collapses

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—One hundred and twenty-seven persons attending a public school entertainment in the Thirteenth Regiment armory in Brooklyn today were reported injured when a section of the balcony collapsed.

The police and hospital ambulance corps were forced to battle a way through the crowds of persons who packed the streets. Inside they found a frenzied crowd of youngsters crying hysterically. Twenty small boys were found unconscious and rushed to hospitals.

Police began clearing the armory of the children who had escaped injury and the doctors and nurses began giving first aid to those who had suffered minor cuts and bruises. There were more than 6,000 persons in the armory when the accident occurred.

Most of the victims were school children. Half of them, it was said, probably suffered serious injuries. A section of the balcony that fell was 100 feet long. Many of the children were caught in the wreckage and armory attendants and police worked madly to extricate them.

PAY TAXES TO OBREGON

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—American oil companies that operate in Mexico will pay the second January installment of production taxes, due Monday, to the Obregon government, according to information in oil circles.

The payment will amount to $600,000 somewhat less than the first payment this month, owing to the fact that several oil operators have been stopped by revolutionary forces under Adolfo de la Huerta.

ELECTION ACT HELD INVALID

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 19 (AP)—The act of the 1923 Alabama legislature providing for a presidential preferential primary election in Alabama is held by Attorney General Harwell G. Davis to be unconstitutional and void, according to ruling announced late today.

EXTREME VIEWS ARE VOICED AT UTAH HEARING

California and Washington Delegates Claim Their Projects in Good Shape; Shepherd Discusses Reclamation

SALT LAKE, Jan. 19 (AP)—With the Uncompahgre, Colorado, reclamation representatives exhorting that the government mark out all charges above the original estimate, the cost which the farmer supposed he would pay when he settled, and with the Orlando, California, and Yakima, Washington, delegates announcing that they were in good financial shape and against any indefinite moratorium or extension of paying period, the third day of the sessions of the federal reclamation fact finding commission brought out the extremes of proposed settlements.

The Uncompahgre people asserted that they had a contract with the government, the only such contract, it was maintained, which definitely placed the cost per acre to the settler at $25. The costs are now $76 and the government is insisting upon payment, in spite of the original contract, the delegates said.

Prominent among the suggested remedies which were under discussion today was one of a supervised land settlement, with limited financial assistance from some form of government agency, presented by Dr. Elwood Mead, commission member, in discussion of the Yakima project. This would involve a certain amount of elimination among the prospected settlers that only the right kind be chosen. Credit would be extended to such up to a limited amount, at a comparatively low rate of interest. Expert agricultural advice would be provided by the agency making the loans and such supervision of the results and the individual would minimize the chances of financial difficulties.

Shepherd Talks.

Others of the larger aspects of the problem before the fact finding commission were discussed during the day by R. E. Shepherd, manager of the Jerome, Idaho, project, and president of the Western States Reclamation association, who gave facts, which in his opinion prove the immense success of reclamation as a whole.

Ralph Kauffman of the Kittitas unit of the Yakima project, under construction, presented some figures of successful farming and stated that "overcapitalization" was one of several causes for the present condition—causes over which the reclamation service had no control. He strongly urged against any definite moratorium or indefinite extension of the payment period.

Rail Act Under Fire.

The transportation act came under fire during the day, when H. M. Gilbert of the Tieton district of the Yakima project, asked that the act be amended in such a way that the railroads might come to realize their partnership with the producer of freight. He mentioned that his freight bill on apples from 157 acres of orchard land last year ran $300 an acre, and that, counting interest, he would be "in

Actress Wins in Battle to Save Husband's Life

Nell Shipman Wages Successful Fight Against Dangers of North Idaho Cold to Bring Director to Hospital

SPOKANE, Jan. 19 (AP)—Miss Nell Shipman, motion picture actress, and her husband and manager, Bert Van Tuyle, were resting here today from a battle through 25 miles of ice and snow from their camp in northern Idaho to the stage line. Van Tuyle was taken to a hospital here to undergo amputation of his right foot, seriously infected by gangrene.

Miss Shipman described how she placed her husband, out of his head from the pain of his foot, on a dog sled Tuesday morning and started on alone with him for Coolin, Idaho, terminus of the stage line. In his delirium Van Tuyle left the sled at times, she said, while they were crossing the treacherous ice of Priest lake, and walked, upon his injured foot.

She tugged at the heavy sled, unassisted, and lifted it over holes in the ice. Several times she fell into the icy water above her knees and once was forced to halt and rub her frozen feet with snow.

At times they were compelled to leave the lake and make their way through four or five feet of snow. Tuesday night they reached a ranch house, where a motorboat was obtained and dragged to open water, and the trip almost to Coolin was accomplished next day by breaking a way through the ice.

The last three miles she pushed ahead on foot, and a sled was sent back for the rest of the party. Van Tuyle is conscious and said to be resting easier. Miss Shipman was declared to be bordering on collapse.

FEDERAL GROUP SEEKE MEANS OF EASING CREDITS

Survey of Three States by Salt Lake Bonding House Brings Belief that Financial Troubles Largely Over

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The government took a further step today toward alleviating the stringent credit situation among banks of the northwest, the president designating four officials to study the problem at first hand. A statement from the office of Comptroller Dawes of the currency announcing the step said:

"At the suggestion of the president, Mr. Dawes, comptroller of the currency; George R. James and J. H. Cunningham, members of the federal reserve board, and Eugene Meyer, jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, are going to Chicago with the view of studying the western banking situation more closely."

The officials will leave tomorrow and their plans call for a series of conferences in Chicago Monday, after which means of dealing further with the situation will be worked out. It is probable some of them will visit other middle western cities for conferences with bankers and bankers in an effort to gather such extra funds to meet requirements of the small banks throughout the Dakotas, Montana and Nebraska.

Ample Funds Available

Officials here declared they could not yet say how much money would be required, but assurance was given that ample funds would be made available. It was suggested in some quarters that the war finance corporation might underwrite much of the paper held by the smaller banks whose reserves have been strained recently and who, it is believed, need only the promise of new credit sources to tide them over.

The whole problem was gone over by President Coolidge again today. He conferred first with Secretary Mellon and later with members of the congressional delegations from North and South Dakota. Mr. Mellon was said afterward to feel that the condition could be met without further failures among the banks in the section where credit conditions are most serious.

Banks to Lend Aid

Banks in Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City and Omaha are expected to lend aid if necessary. Some of them already have taken steps to protect interests they have in the areas affected. It is believed the administration's principal hope is for the metropolitan banks to carry the larger burden in the program of saving the small banks, hundreds of which are scattered throughout the northwest where credit conditions are a cause of concern.

'ENEMY' WINS IN ARMY AND NAVY 'BATTLE'

Weaknesses in National Defense System Shown Up in Practice Warfare Maneuvers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Joint maneuvers of the army and navy in the canal zone and adjacent waters are believed by Secretary Weeks and war department staff experts to have resulted in failure of the Pacific fleet to pass through Panama in the face of theoretical enemy forces and rescue the ships of the Atlantic fleet engaged in Atlantic coast waters by other enemy war craft.

Secretary Weeks said today in a statement issued at the department that, although the umpires at the maneuvers had not announced their conclusions, "it appears from available information that the juncture of our Atlantic and Pacific fleets has been theoretically prevented."

ENDORSE McADOO

McAdoo for president of the United States as the nominee of the democratic party and voted to place an instructed delegation on the ballot at the coming presidential primary election in California.

RUHR STATES TO BE CHANGED TO FORMER STATUS

Border Areas to Be Designated as "Foreign Countries"; Wire Rates to Be Fixed

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP)—Beginning tomorrow the Ruhr and Rhineland occupied territories will be restored to the rank of "foreign countries."

Their relations with the French government-owned telegraph systems and the rates between Paris and Essen, Paris and Duesseldorf, Mayence and other points in those territories, will be fixed according to the existing international agreements between France and Germany, with pro rata division of the earnings between the French and German lines.

Since the occupation of the Ruhr points in the Ruhr and Rhineland have been treated by the telegraph systems as integral parts of France. A government circular announced the change is due to the return of the German operators to work.

JOHNSON RAPS WORLD COURT

Alleges Plan Is Futile; Again Voices Objection to Sale of Arms to Mexico

EVANSTON, Ind., Jan. 19 (AP)—The foreign policy of the Coolidge administration was attacked from two angles by Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California here tonight. He not only reiterated his opposition to the world court and the league of nations, with or without reservations, but he subjected strenuously to the selling of arms and ammunition by the United States government to the Obregon government of Mexico.

"Our action in Mexico is immoral, if not illegal," Senator Johnson said.

"Without invidious intent but as indicating a different philosophy of government, I have characterized the present administration as 'reactionary'" he added.

He turned his heavy guns on the world court, which, he said, was in reality no court at all, but in the language of President Coolidge "was merely a convenient instrument of adjustment to which we would go but to which we could not be brought."

"It is then equally a convenient instrument to which other nations may go, but to which they could not be brought. It is the confession that it can do nothing except by consent. It can sweetly request a wrongdoer to come before it, but the wrongdoer may refuse to come."

They will set out 150,000 grafts of choice varieties of apples as soon as the season permits. Mr. Newton and Mr. Fugate are both experienced fruit growers and irrigators.

Robert Rogerson, the owner of the new Hotel Nordling, has contracted with Meyer & Co. for the furnishing of the hotel and grill room. The contract represents an outlay of approximately $20,000, which will place the Nordling on an equality with the finest hotels in the west. The hotel will be managed by H. A. Moore, formerly chief clerk at the Hotel Perrine. William A. Ring will have charge of the grill room.

A. P. Senior, C. F. Gloystein and J. A. Waters have been appointed a committee to sell stock in the new fair grounds association, which will be incorporated for $25,000. Lot 10, in block 100, the last lot in the Twin Falls townsite owned by the company, was sold yesterday to Carl J. Hahn.

The abominable condition of the city streets has led to the public discussion of a proposal to pave Shoshone street from the depot to the park, and Main avenue for two blocks on each side of Shoshone street. The question was brought up at the Commercial club meeting on Wednesday evening and will be revived at the council meeting on Monday night.

The amount of bail, originally set at $10,000, was cut yesterday by Justice J. Walter Hanby to $5,000, and was still further pared today on recommendation of the district attorney's office.

The Cost of a Car

is no measure of its value

These are the things to consider

THE cost of a car depends in large part on volume and efficiency. It is no criterion of value.

Studebaker builds 150,000 fine cars yearly. All of them are Sixes. The main costs are divided by that enormous output. Thus at prices of $975 and up we offer the utmost in quality. We offer maximum values.

Don't judge these cars by prices. Under other conditions they might cost twice as much, yet offer less than these.

Some major costs

Quality cars require costly facilities. Studebaker has $50,000,000 invested in modern plants and equipment. $8,000,000 in drop forge plants alone. $10,000,000 in body plants, to carry out the Studebaker standards.

There are 12,500 up-to-date machines employed to build these cars. Some are enormously expensive.

Few outputs justify such facilities. Then parts must be bought outside, and profits paid to others.

* * *

Studebaker engineering costs $500,000 per year. That to us is $3.33 per car.

Our Department of Research and Experiment employs 125 skilled men. It makes 500,000 tests per year to maintain our standards.

Our Bureau of Methods and Standards fixes the requirements for every part and detail. 12,000 inspections are necessary for each car to insure against flaws and mistakes. We employ 1,000 men to make them.

Cars like the Studebakers cannot be built without such facilities, such research, such care. Yet enormous output alone makes them possible at Studebaker prices.

The best we know

Studebakers represent the best we know. And with our army of engineers, with our wealth of experience, we probably know what is best.

We use 35 formulas for steels. Each is best suited to certain parts, as proved by years of tests.

On some steels we pay the makers a bonus of 15% to get them exactly right. There is no room to excel us there.

* * *

We machine the entire surface of each crank shaft, as was done on Liberty Airplane Motors. That extra cost is heavy. But thus we get that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

We use more Timken bearings than any other car which costs under $5,600. They cost considerably more than ball bearings.

These facts apply to all Studebakers, of all styles and sizes. The materials used in all chasses are alike.

Beauty—Luxury—Finish

The Studebaker coach work has been famous for decades. No one can excel it.

The finish is produced by 26 operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

Open cars have real leather cushions. They cost, over imitation leather, about $25 per car.

No closed cars could be more luxurious. That lining of Chase Mohair is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. A velour lining would save about two-thirds that cost—up to $100 per car.

Note how every detail denotes infinite care. That, as you know, is expensive.

Note the completeness of our larger models. The nickel-plated bumpers, extra disc wheels with cord tires, a steel trunk, a courtesy light. These are sare extras, even on the costliest cars.

Nothing is stinted

Compare part by part with any rival cars. Studebaker will show you some scores of advantages.

Then consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this name has stood for quality. When people rode in carriages, Studebaker built the best. Now those same traditions are applied to motor cars alone.

Consider Studebaker records. Mark how these cars in service have multiplied demand, until people last year paid $200,000,000. for Studebaker cars.

* * *

Consider their service records. One Studebaker car, built in 1918, has run 475,000 miles. It is still in active service. It lately made a mid-winter trip from Los Angeles to New York. That means 80 years of average service, of 6,000 miles per year.

What more can you dream of in a motor car than the Studebakers offer?

Just Go and See

Studebaker is today the leader in the fine-car field.

Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other concern in the world.

Buyers of fine cars last year spent over $200,000,000 for Studebaker models.

The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years—as people found them out.

Then go see them. Compare them with any car you will. Don't spend $1,000 or over without knowing what Studebaker offers. You owe that to yourself.

WOULD REPLACE PANAMA CANAL WITH STRAITS

French General-Editor-Engineer Urges Plan to Widen Waterway into Sea Level Lane without Expense to U. S.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19 (AP)—Declaring that the Panama lock canal is now potentially obsolete because of its limited capacity and the possibility of the destruction of its locks, dams and electric stations by earthquake or artillery fire, Lieutenant Colonel Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the French editor-soldier-engineer, tonight proposed the immediate building of a new sea level canal paralleling the present canal.

His plan was detailed in an address before the Cincinnati Commercial club before which 23 years ago, at the height of the controversy over whether a lock or sea level canal should be dug through the isthmus, he appeared as a strong advocate of the less costly lock system.

"The traffic in the Panama canal is bound to be, within 20 years from now, of such huge dimensions," he told the commercial club members, "as to exclude and impediment to the constant passage of ships and any limit to the number of these daily passages.

"Prosperity Is Reward."

"The magnificent display of gorgeous prosperity shown by the canal is a personal reward and vindication," he said in outlining his plan of a straight 1000 feet wide, 50 feet deep channel between Panama and Colon. He declared that such a canal could be built without asking a cent of the $1,000,000,000 needed from the American treasury. "All will be paid in advance by the canal itself," he declared. His proposal included the using of the present canal in the building of the new canal.

The speaker pointed out that the present canal depends to a large extent upon a goodly amount of rainfall for the feeding of its locks and dams. He insisted that the canal must be fed the unlimited quantity of sea water that could be contained in a sea level cut if it is to be made efficient for forthcoming increased traffic. He stated that there is no difference between the sea levels of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and that a sea level canal would not cause the "two oceans to generate terrible currents which will prevent all navigation," despite some authorities to the contrary.

Such a new sea level canal is a necessity if communication is to be maintained between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, Colonel Bunau-Varilla insisted.

Farmer Congratulates Detweiler Coal Co.

We couldn't buy coal for $8.50 yet,
If it hadn't been for our Farmer Friend "Det."
He sold it for less than the trust,
Now it's Det they are trying to bust.
So here's to Det, our patronage and thanks,
The man who is not afraid of trusts and banks.
So it's Spring Canyon Coal by Jove,
The only kind that's fit to go in a stove.
Det is a fellow you can not bluff,
He is made out of the right kind of stuff.
He is like a diamond in the rough.
He is getting old but he is awfully tough.—adv.

HEADACHE.

Headache, from the standpoint of a patient, may be divided into three causes:

1st. Occasional headaches, due to some trivial disorder which need not cause any particular alarm.

2nd. The regular recurrence of headaches of short duration. These should be investigated and the cause found, if possible. Some are hereditary, others are due to periodical changes in normal functioning of the organs.

3rd. The continuous headache, growing steadily worse. This type is, of course, most important of all and most alive is due to serious disease, most often in the brain; sometimes, however, in the sinuses connected with the nose. Disease here can produce the same type of headache.

It is important to ascertain the cause of the headache. Unfortunately, this is not frequently done.

Most headaches of classes one and two are treated by the patient himself. In the first type, this is probably not dangerous, but in the second the repeated warnings should be heeded. The first type is due to various toxic causes, such as foul air, poisonous gases, some like shown drug, the use and abuse of alcohol and tobacco—and frequently the cause is constipation or the absorption of pus from a boil.

It must be borne in mind, however that occasional headaches may be evidence of serious kidney disease, diabetes or gout, so that if we have occasional headaches of increasing frequency, they should be regarded of the same import as those of the second group.

This second group may be produced by abnormally low or high blood pressure, excessive mental or eye strain, habitual constipation—these always call for a careful investigation of the source of the trouble.

Finally comes the third type, which is due to organic disease of the brain, either due to inflammation of the covering of the brain, or disease of the organ itself, the most important of which is brain tumor. A persistent headache, growing worse, especially if it is associated with failing eyesight, is of very grave significance. Attention should be given, as it is then only that it is possible to give relief.

Let us, then, regard headache as a symptom that always has a certain significance, and that it is always worth while to find the cause. The usual remedies for headache give temporary relief by hiding the symptoms. To be satisfied with this is the same sort of satisfaction that an ostrich gets when he sticks his head in the sand.

WOULD SET ASIDE DAYS FOR UPLAND SHOOTING

Radical Changes in State and County Game Laws of Washington Favored by Sportsmen at Spokane

SPOKANE, Jan. 19 (AP)—Radical changes in state and county game laws to eliminate midweek shooting of all upland and migratory birds were urged in a resolution recently passed by the Spokane County Sportsmen's association. The action was taken, it was announced, in an effort to help stay the rapid decrease of native pheasant, grouse, ducks and geese.

Members of the association were generally in favor of the proposition which would bar shooting on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and it was believed that such a law would be easier to enforce than an act providing for a reduced bag limit.

It is the belief of local sportsmen that the provision will be passed by the next session of legislature.

Convention to Be "Biggest Attraction" Bourbons Ever Staged, Leaders Assert

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Declaring they had laid the foundation for the most successful democratic national convention in history, party leaders today turned over to the local citizens non-partisan committee the job completing preliminary arrangements for the big June session.

"It's going to be the biggest attraction we ever staged—the biggest show ever pulled in Madison Square Garden," said Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee.

Mr. Hull will depart tomorrow after two days spent with the party's subcommittee in locating headquarters, negotiating accommodations for delegates, inspecting Madison Square Garden, budgeting finances and linking the national organization with the local citizens group of convention sponsors.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the sub-committee, will remain here with George F. Mara, assistant to Mr. Hull, who next Wednesday will open offices adjoining Tex Rickard's, in the famous Garden tower where Stanford White was slain by Harry K. Thaw in 1906.

Law's Arm Shortens Young Adventurers' Trip to California

Twin Falls Lads, 12 and 16, Provided with Light Lunch, Taken off Train at Kimberly

California was deprived of two prospective residents Saturday when John R. Ault, county probation officer, overhauled an eastbound freight train at Kimberly and took from a refrigerator car two Twin Falls lads, aged respectively 12 and 16 years, who had set out that morning unbeknownst to their parents, on adventurous trip to the golden state.

The lads expressed disappointment over frustration of their plans, but readily accompanied the officer back to Twin Falls where waiting parents sought in vain for the answer to the problems of why boys leave home. In this case it appeared that the lads had been actuated only by the spirit of adventure and intriguing prospect of life in California.

In answer to the officer's query as to how they expected to make their way without money on the long trip they had undertaken, the lads declared that they had partaken of a substantial breakfast of cookies before they started out, and that they had taken a lunch along. While they explained, a biscuit fell out of the pocket of an overcoat worn by one of the lads, and was promptly retrieved from the floor by the young adventurer.

Theatres

A male quartette which is declared worth going miles to hear is scheduled to appear here next Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Twin Falls Lyceum course.

No form of musical entertainment is more generally enjoyed than a good male quartet. The El Day Quartet is a superb singing group—a high-grade vocal organization that ranks with any of the finest quartettes on the concert and lyceum stage today.

Each member of this company is a vocalist of experience in recital fields. Each has attained prominence as a soloist—this being a primary requirement. Then they were chosen with the idea of as near a perfect blending of voices as could be obtained. The result is a perfectly balanced group of four extraordinarily fine voices.

Dan Baker, the manager and first tenor of the El Day Quartet, was formerly a member of the faculty of the Louisville Conservatory of Music. His voice is of fine quality and wide range and he has splendid control. Julius Nicknus, second bass, has been soloist with the Third Presbyterian church in Chicago and has done extensive recital work in that city.

Ord Bohannon will be remembered as one of "The Bohannons," known all over the United States and Canada and with the army of occupation in Germany and Luxembourg. His robust tenor voice has had the training of some of Europe's finest teachers. In addition to his vocal successes he has won fame as a character delineator, in talking impersonations as well as dialect songs. Alex Callam, baritone, is also piano accompanist, and through his artistry and his genial personality is popular with every audience.

The program includes a fine selection of compositions by Salter, Bartlett Buck, Sullivan and Wagner, a group of North American folk songs and solo numbers by members of the quartet.

A delightful evening is in store for those who hear the El Day Singers, for they satisfy as very few quartets do.

MELLON SWINGS AT SUBSTITUTE TAX RATE PLAN

Scheme Advanced by Democrats Branded as "Political, Nothing Else"; Says Garner Seeks Popularity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Secretary Mellon fired a broadside at the democratic tax reduction plan tonight as the house ways and means committee concluded its public hearings on tax revision and prepared to start work Monday on new rate schedules. The secretary branded the plan advanced for the democrats by Representative Garner of Texas as a substitute for his own program of tax reduction, as "political and nothing else."

At the same time house democrats served notice that they would accept no compromise on their plan in the committee and would carry the fight to the floor where republicans have admitted they are on the defensive because of recent changes in house rules.

Speaking of the proposals for higher surtaxes and lower normal rates than those carried in the treasury bill, Mr. Mellon said "high surtaxes are war taxes . . . and such taxation should cease." He charged that continuation of the higher surtaxes meant retention of high war living costs, "which everyone pays." In a comparison of Mr. Garner's program with the treasury's plan, the secretary said: "His is a makeshift; the treasury plan is the result of experience and study."

"Seeks Popularity"

"The Garner plan," Mr. Mellon continued, "seeks popularity by offering a small direct saving to the most taxpayers; the treasury bill is fair to all classes. His is not intended to be effective on the economic side of taxation; the treasury bill is designed to free capital and to benefit not only the individuals who pay taxes direct, but every person in the country who must pay these taxes in every purchase. It is the difference between a political method of handling tax reduction and a business method."

Meanwhile lines were being formed in the senate which indicated a renewed fight on the surtax rates of the treasury secretary. While Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, renewed his campaign against Mr. Mellon's surtax rate proposals in another letter to the secretary, Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, and a former secretary of the treasury, predicted that congress would accept the principle of the Mellon plan as to a maximum surtax rate of 25 per cent. He declared, however, "it was altogether unreasonable to imagine that congress should feel obliged to accept a treasury plan of taxation without any change whatsoever."

Couzens Challenges Mellon

Senator Couzens challenged Mr. Mellon to inform the country how much he would benefit personally from the reduction of income surtaxes which he has proposed in his plan.

The Michigan senator denied that all of his capital was in tax-exempt securities, explaining that he had millions of dollars invested in buildings, real estate and building operations. He asked if that this were not more productive than money invested in "distilleries and breweries."

IDAHO BANK PROSPECTS DECLARED FIRST CLASS

Survey of Three States by Salt Lake Bonding House Brings Belief that Financial Troubles Largely Over

A degree of financial recovery in southern Idaho which is characterized as remarkable is described in a recent survey made by the Palmer Bond and Mortgage company of Salt Lake, during which investigations were made in Utah, Idaho and Montana.

The survey in full follows:

In order to obtain first hand information on which to base a judgment as to actual financial and business conditions in the intermountain region, we have recently completed a survey of the states of Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming and Montana. Information has been collected from various sources including reports of our traveling representatives, replies to letters and questionnaires sent out to bankers and others in different sections, and reports by organizations in different lines, such as mining, manufacturing and jobbing. An effort was made, not to collect detailed statistics, but to secure an approximate knowledge of fundamental conditions in agriculture, livestock raising, mining, manufacturing, merchandising and banking.

Federal Reserve Liquidation.

On the whole, reports received have been almost surprisingly encouraging. Perhaps the most outstanding example of improved conditions is shown by the index of rediscounts and loans at the Salt Lake branch of the federal reserve bank, serving the territory including Utah, southern Idaho and eastern Nevada. During the strained conditions this item reaching a peak of approximately $44,000,000 in September, 1920, compared with deposits of about $6,500,000. The year 1924 starts out with total rediscounts and loans around $8,000,000, and deposits of approximately $9,000,000. The members banks therefore, have reduced their indebtedness to the federal reserve about 80 per cent with an increase in deposits of over 38 per cent.

While there have been some bank failures, mostly of small institutions, in Utah, Idaho and Montana during the past year, the banking situation generally is reported sound. The early months of the year are seasonally periods of easy money in this section. January of 1924 finds this condition true to a greater degree than for several years, and with a large number of banks the problem this year will be to find safe, profitable employment for their funds.

Southern Idaho Recovering.

Territorially, probably the most striking feature is the remarkable recovery of southern Idaho. This is primarily an agricultural and stock raising section and it suffered especially severely during the readjustment period as a result of over extension, inflation, "frozen assets" and the ills attendant on deflation, liquidation and general return to something approaching normalcy. Reports received by us from different sections of southern Idaho indicate liquidation by farmers of store bills at the close of the year to have been 25 per cent to 100 per cent, and of bank loans, 40 per cent to 75 per cent. Here, as well as in the agricultural sections of Utah, the improved condition is attributed largely to better crop diversification, milking of more cows, raising of more poultry and more sugar beets, in all of which still greater growth is predicted for 1924.

At this time two interesting letters were read, one from the veterans' hospital at Boise, thanking the organization for the gifts sent at Christmas time, and one from Governor Moore replying to resolutions from the club commending him for his action taken in regard to the pardoning of war prisoners. During the social hour refreshments were served.

The Royal Neighbors held their regular meeting Friday evening with more than 50 members in attendance. Seventeen candidates were voted on, and plans were made for the entertainment of the supreme oracle's visit in March. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Little Miss Marjorie Jane Halpin was hostess at a doll party Saturday afternoon celebrating her fourth birthday. The children enjoyed the hours from 2 to 4:30 in the play room of the Halpin home. At that time they were called to the dining room where a dainty luncheon was served.

The centerpiece for the table was a huge birthday cake lighted with four candles. Each child also had an individual birthday cake lighted with four tiny candles.

A rainbow color scheme was carried out in candles and table linen. Place cards were decorated in child designs and each little guest was decorated in child designs and each little guest was the recipient of a doll favor. Marjorie Jane received many lovely gifts.

The W. C. T. U. meeting Friday with Mrs. Charles W. Rouk, enjoyed a program under the leadership of Mrs. Albert Esling on the subject of "A Square Deal for the Eighteenth Amendment." Two musical numbers were given. Mrs. W. Monteath was given a vote of appreciation and a purse of $5 for her services in Americanization work. It was voted to send a night letter to President Coolidge urging him to ignore solicitation to commute sentence on Idaho offenders against the eighteenth amendment.

BIBLE READING TAKES FORM OF MARATHON EVENT

Iowa Lawyers, Teachers, Business Men Spend 17 Hours in Study of King James Version

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Jan. 19 (AP)—Lawyers, teachers and business men participated here today in the marathon reading of the King James version of the New Testament at the Broadway Methodist church, sponsored by the pastor, the Rev. R. Burton Sheppard.

Sixty-four men and women took part, each reading for 15 minutes, beginning about 6 o'clock this morning and concluding, without intermission, shortly before 11 o'clock tonight.

Upon a bulletin board outside the church the progress of the reading was posted at intervals. The reading began in a small Sunday school room, changed to the basement of the church building and finally to the main auditorium, and was listened to by an ever-changing crowd of auditors.

THE COST OF DISTRIBUTION

A party of one hundred fifty farmers attending a banquet in Imbler, Oregon, at which the dishes were nearly all home products they had raised themselves, found that the cost of the meal, including both the price paid the farmer and the expense of preparing the food, was sixteen cents a plate. Computed at current prices in Portland restaurants, it would have been $1.55 a plate.

It is a startling difference, suggesting that farmers have real cause for feeling aggrieved. Yet they are likely to overlook certain other facts bearing on the situation.

It is said that the retail price of the average manufactured article in this country is four times the price of manufacture. This, here also, there is usually an enormous "spread" between the producer and the consumer. And in the case of factory products as well as farm products, when inquiry is made, almost everybody involved makes a plausible defense and passes the buck to somebody else.

The manufacturer may not suffer so much as the farmer, because he usually has more control over the price received for his products. Yet there are manufacturers going to the wall every day, to match the foreclosing of farm mortgages.

On the whole, it is the ultimate consumer who is the chief victim. And he is the victim not of any deliberate and wicked conspiracy, but of a blundering system which makes the distribution of products cost two or three times as much as it ought to cost, whether those products be crops or manufactured goods.

LUDENDORFF ON TRIAL

At last one of the "big war criminals" is on trial. General Ludendorff has been brought before a German court in Berlin, along with Adolf Hitler, on a charge of "high treason." If adjudged guilty he may suffer death.

His alleged treason, however, is against the German government, in connection with his attempt to start a revolution in Bavaria a few months ago. It has nothing to do with whatever treason he and his associates committed against European civilization by launching the World War in nineteen hundred fourteen and prosecuting it without any regard for the accepted rules of warfare.

It is useless, and possibly mischievous, to harp on that moldered string. The solemn agreement reached by the Allies at Versailles, to punish the men who started so wicked awar, and thus deter unscrupulous militarists from following their example in the future, has come to nothing. Germany, agreeing to see to the punishment herself in order to avoid the humiliation of surrendering the guilty leaders to the Allies, made a bluff at trying a few inconspicuous offenders against the rules of warfare, and freed them or inflicted absurdly inadequate penalties, then dropped the matter. The Allies, after a series of half-hearted protests, dropped it likewise.

It is just as well, when everything is considered. There is enough bitterness left by the war, without executing notable Germans and thus making them martyrs in the eyes of their fellow-countrymen, whatever their guilt may be. It is Christian forgiveness that Europe needs more than anything else. The Berlin court will probably reach this conclusion with regard to Ludendorff in the present case.

The Bok peace plan is taken with unusual seriousness because the author got a good price for it. If anybody were paid one million dollars for a peace plan, the world might adopt it.

THE SNOW MEN

By DADDY

CHAPTER I.
Winter Fun.

THE noon sun of a January day had melted the snow so Jack and Janet could roll it into round, white balls.

"Let us make a snow man," cried Jack.

And so they did. They rolled small balls, and built up the legs of the snow man. They rolled a little larger ball for the head. And they rolled a great fat ball for the body.

They put a broomstick up through the legs and body and perched the head on top of that. Next they fashioned eyes out of pieces of coal, a nose out of a yellow carrot and a mouth out of red tissue paper.

The children turned the corners of the mouth up, so the snow man had a very jolly look. He seemed to smile at them as they perched an old hat on the top of his head.

—Had a very jolly look.

"Ha! Ha! Isn't he a happy snow man!" shouted Jack.

"I think he would be happier if he had a wife," replied Janet.

"Let us make him a wife," said Jack. So the two went to work rolling more snowballs to make a snow woman.

They made the snow woman the same as they made the snow man, except that they shaped a skirt of snow, and they gave her hair of hay. Her mouth, too, they turned up, giving her a smile as jolly as that of the snow man.

"The snow man does seem happier now that he has a wife," remarked Jack, standing back and looking at the two white figures.

"They are such jolly-looking folks I wish they would become alive and play with us," said Janet.

"Folks live when their hearts beat," said Jack. "Perhaps if we gave hearts to our snow man and his wife they would become alive."

"Let us do it," said Janet; "but what shall we use for hearts?"

Each of the children had a fine red apple, which they were saving for a mid-afternoon lunch. These apples looked something like hearts.

"We can use our apples," said Jack. "They are nice and red and will make good hearts."

Janet agreed. So they dug a little hole in the breast of the snow man and packed Jack's red apple into it. Then they dug a little hole in the breast of the snow woman and packed Janet's apple there. They smoothed over the openings, and the snow man and snow woman looked just the same as before.

"Ho! Ho! What a funny snow man and snow woman," jeered a rough voice. "I can make a bigger snow man than that."

They looked around, and there stood Bobby Bully. "I'll show you what a big snow man I can make," shouted Bobby Bully.

With that Bobby Bully went to work rolling snowballs. Soon he had made a much larger snow man than that of Jack and Janet. But it was a very ugly snow man, with a great, coarse head, mean eyes made of stones and a turned-down, scowling mouth made of dirt.

"There! Isn't that a big snow man!" boasted Bobby Bully.

"Yes," Jack agreed. "It is a big snow man but he hasn't a nice red apple for a heart, as our snow man and snow woman have."

"Ho! That is easy to fix," said Bobby Bully. "I picked this rotten apple off a tree in the orchard. I was going to throw it at Johnny Smith, but I'll give it to my scowling snow man for a heart."

And so he did. But after the snow man got the rotten apple heart he scowled just as fiercely as he had done before.

(The queer effect the apple hearts have on the snow-folks will be told in the next chapter.)

Breakfast Food

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By MRS. HUGH McKAY

My husband is very noisy when he gets up in the morning.

He goes on the theory that once he's awake, everybody ought to be. He's worse than any alarm clock, because there doesn't seem to be any way to turn him off.

He's no sooner out of bed than he bangs down the windows and marches around the room, gathering up his clothes.

And then, just to make sure that no one else in the house could possibly get any more rest, he begins to sing.

Such bright, cheery songs—in such a terrible baritone voice! I may be getting old and nervous, but I simply can't stand anything but the best of music before breakfast.

Another pleasant feature of Hugh's arising is that he can never find any clean shirts or socks or collars, and he has to ask me about them. I really can't stand being asked a lot of question before breakfast any more, either.

Altogether, 7:45:48 just about the zero hour around our house.

Gradually the bones grew larger until Winton was stumbling on that uneven floor. It was one of those death places of the wild beasts of the veld, often described but seldom encountered. It was a natural resting-place for the antelope and creatures of prey, which, feeling the approach of death, drank their last drink at the spring and turned aside among the cliffs to die unmolested. It had been used for [illegible] generations. Winston saw [illegible] long thighbones of the giraffe, exceeding the height of a man, though the beast had long since been driven northward. There were the skulls and horns of springbuk, koodoo, hartebeeste and gnu, with their varying forms and spirals. Gaunt ribs stood out like the framework of old, rotting boats; teeth gaped in skulls, and in one lonely place, in a cluster of grass, an aged hyena, whose last hunting was done, crouched, belly flat against the ground, with open chops, and snarled in its decrepitude.

Winton hurried on, trying to make the end of the valley, where he thought some pass might exist, before darkness held him a prisoner. He had nearly crossed this desolate region when he caught sight of a tiny twinkle of red light on the cliff above him.

He stopped, hardly able to believe it true. Another light appeared. Then came a series. Winton realized that these were sparks blown from a campfire upon the summit.

His heart began to thump wildly. He stumbled forward over the bones. Darkness had fallen by the time he reached the narrow trail at the valley's end, and he had many narrow escapes among the boulders with which the way was strewn. On each side of him the cliff rose vertically, and the pass itself, hardly wide enough to permit a horse to ascend, seemed like a fissure in the mountain side made by some natural cleavage of the rocks.

He had ascended to within a few feet of the summit when some instinct halted him abruptly. Then a sudden drift of smoke toward him showed him that the camp-fire was just at the crest. The sound of voices reached his ears.

Crawling slowly forward upon his stomach, and pulling himself to the level top of the mountain, Winton peered out from behind the cover of a mimosa tree, and saw a party of yellow Hottentots seated about the blaze.

There were six or eight of them, and behind the fire was a tent, which Winton knew concealed De Witt.

The fear that Sheila was there, in the man's power, tempted Winton to rush forward. He had to use all his judgment to give no sign of his presence as he crouched [illegible] behind the little tree at the edge of the precipice.

Some movement must have alarmed one of the Hottentots, for he leaped to his feet with a guttural exclamation and hurled his knobkerrie toward the spot where Winton lay. It was fortunate that the party had no dogs with them. The missile, whirring past Winton's head, crashed against a boulder and dropped to the valley below, striking from rock to rock in the course of its descent.

The native, who had advanced to recover his weapon, stopped as the sound of the fall showed that it was irrecoverable, and went back to the fire.

Winton's fingers relaxed on his revolver butt. Another instant and he would have fired—and lost Sheila irretrievably.

He lay flat in the grass, watching the light of the fire play upon the fierce faces about it. Already the moon was rising. He could neither advance nor retire without immediate discovery. Desperate plans chased each other through his head in swift succession.

Each turned upon the feasibility of a rush, the snatching up of a spear after he had fired his remaining bullets, and a hopeless fight with the object of at least killing De Witt. Each plan was hopeless; but then everything else was hopeless.

The minutes seemed lengthening into hours. At last Winton's plans had simmered down to this: he would not risk discovery until he was assured that Sheila was in imminent danger. For the present she was probably safe. He felt sure she was not in De Witt's tent. Where, then, was she?

As his eyes traveled from spot to spot they lit upon a recess in a wall of rock at the summit of the mountain. The leaping flames of the fire illuminated the interior of what seemed a little cave. And somehow Winton sensed that Sheila was within that.

It was some thirty yards away, and he saw little chance of reaching it unobserved. There was a fringe of grass through which he might crawl for the greater part of the journey, but for the last few feet he would have to traverse bare rock, within a few feet of the fire. Yet he began his task, and it was infinitely arduous and slow. It was a matter of inch-long movements—first of one arm, then of the other, then of the corresponding lower limbs. The dry blades of grass crackled under the slightest movement.

The natives were dozing over the fire. Winton had gone perhaps six feet when one of the Hottentots raised himself suddenly to a kneeling position and thrust out his head toward him, peering intently through the grass. Winton, perfectly motionless, stared for at least five minutes into the yellow face within a few feet of his own. The man knelt like a statue, the eyeballs gleaming in the moonlight, the fingers encircling the spear-shaft.

Suddenly the sight faded. The moonlight was cut off abruptly, plunging the land into immediate darkness. Then a few drops of rain began to fall. In half a minute a torrent was descending.

It was the characteristic beginning of one of the seasonal thunderstorms. As Winton crouched near the cave, preparing to cross the open space, there came a flash of lightning that made the world as bright as day. It showed him the form of the Hottentot, motionless where he had been watching, the fingers still about the spear. But it showed him another sight that drove the blood from his heart.

He saw De Witt crossing from the tent to the cave.

Predictions Indicate Larger Movement of Corn Crop in Near Future; Wheat and Oats Easier

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—Grain prices weakened a bit today, owing more or less to corn selling based on predictions that a larger movement of the corn crop would take place in the near future. Corn and wheat closed unsettled, corn at 1-4 to 3-8 to 5-8 to 3-4 net decline, May 78 1-8 to 78 1-4c, with wheat unchanged to 1-4c lower, May $1.08 1-8 to 1.08 1-4, and July $1.06 3-4, oats 1-4 to 3-8 to 3-8c off and provisions 2 to 20 to 22c down.

At today's inside prices corn showed a setback of about 2 cents a bushel as compared with the week's highest level. The fact that St. Louis reported 100,000 bushels bought in the country and that advices from some other leading centers west apparently indicated more disposition to sell on the part of farmers, gave some emphasis to forecasts of enlarged receipts. Besides, weather conditions were favorable. Rural offerings to Chicago, however, remained very small and on the downward turn in prices here is became evident that there were numerous standing orders out to buy at around 78c for May delivery. This steadied values and led to a little rally at the last.

Wheat and oats were easier, with corn. The northwest was a fair seller of wheat here, with bearish talk current about large stocks of Canadian wheat and as to prospective liberal shipments from Argentina. In addition, cable messages from France were shown offering to resell wheat for February, March or April shipment at below the present cost of replacing. On the other hand, domestic receipts of wheat were meager, about one-third as much as for the corresponding time last year.

Losses which were shown in the provision market were associated with unsteadiness of hog values and with a decline in lard quotations at Liverpool.

DUMB-BELLS

UTILITY ISSUES STRONG

Strength of Equipment Stocks Is Also Feature of Brief and Irregular Trading on Eastern Exchange

Total stock sales 412,500 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 96.58; gain .31. High, 1923, 105.38; low, 85.76.

Twenty railroads averaged 83.55; net loss, .04. High, 1923, 90.51; low, 79.53.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Strength of the equipment and public utility issues featured today's brief and irregular stock market, price fluctuations in other groups showing a rather uncertain trend.

General Electric was the outstanding individual feature, climbing more than five points to 204 7-8, the highest price since 1902, and then yielding slightly on profit taking. New York Airbrake and Wastinghouse Air Brake closed 1 1-2 and 1 point higher, respectively. In the public utility group good buying was noted in Brooklyn Union Gas, Brooklyn Edison, Interborough Rapid Transit and Manhattan certificates, all of which closed 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final prices.

Wall street heard rumors during the day that the directors of the United States Steel corporation would declare an extra dividend of 3-4 of 1 per cent at the meeting January 29, thereby placing the stock definitely on a 6 per cent basis, but these lacked official confirmation.

With the exception of Associated and Tidewater, which moved up about a point each, oil shares failed to make much response to the further increase in mid-continent crude oil prices and additional announcements of higher gasoline prices.

Phillips Petroleum turned heavy on the announcement of a new stock offering, going as low as 31 3-8 and closing half a point higher for a net loss of 1 3-8 on the day.

Foreign exchange trading here continued to be influenced largely by that of London, where a heavy tone prevailed. Demand sterling sold around $4.23 1-2, and French francs were quoted just above 4.51c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged today. Holders were asking 6.65c for Cubas, duty paid, but buyers seemed unwilling to pay more than 6.53c, and no actual business was reported.

Trading in raw sugar futures was of an evening up character and prices moved within a very narrow range. Final prices were two points higher on January and unchanged on later months, January 4.85, March 4.75, May 4.85, July 4.89.

The demand for refined sugar continued of fair proportions at unchanged prices which ranged from $8.25 to $8.60 for fine granulated.

Refined futures nominal.

Trains Pick Up Water In Motion.

Fast trains do take water while in motion. There is a long trough between the rails at certain places along the track, and there is a small spout under the tender which slopes to the front. The fireman lowers this when an engine approaches a water trough and the water is forced by the speed of the train up the spout and into the tank.

Fearful Strain.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—adv.

Evolution of Smokeless Powder.

A German discovered gun cotton, which is used in every kind of smokeless powder. An Austrian discovered a means of rendering it available, called colloiding. And a Frenchman is the father of modern nitro-cellulose dense powder.—Sportsman's Digest.

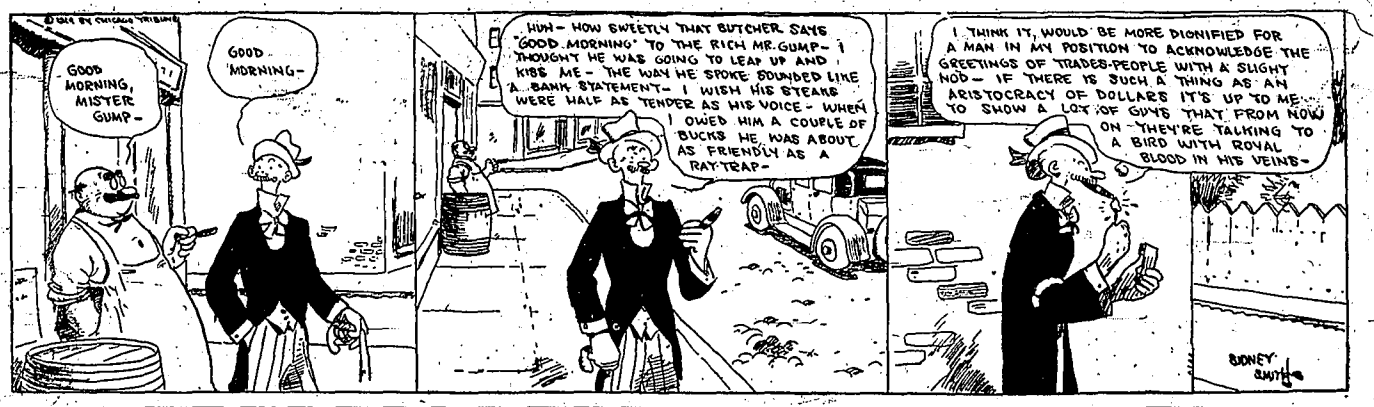
THE GUMPS—TIMES HAVE CHANGED



EARLY WORK ON HANSEN-BURLEY ROAD PROMISED

Federal and State Highway Engineers Inspect Route Chosen to Bridge Unimproved Gap on Old Oregon Trail

Highway construction to bridge a gap of about 23 miles on the Old Oregon Trail between gravel road west of Burley and pavement at Hansen probably will be submitted for contractors' bids soon after February 1, according to statement made here Saturday evening by A. N. Ashline, Shoshone, division engineer for the state highway department. Bids will be invited in accordance with a schedule previously announced by the director of highways, permitting contractors to submit bids on any one or more of the three parts into which the project will be divided for the purpose. Construction work, it is expected, will begin early in the spring.

Mr. Ashline was here Saturday in company with E. E. Kidder, Oregon federal highway engineer, and A. W. Belt, Boise, who is to be resident engineer for the state highway department in charge of the construction of the Murtaugh-Burley road. They went over the route of the new road Saturday, traveling as far east as Burley.

Follows Rimrock

The route selected for the road, Mr. Ashline stated, parallels the rimrock of Snake river canyon from a point directly east of the canal bridge east of Bickel to an intersection with a north and south road almost a half mile west of Murtaugh. It continues on this north and south road to a corner on which is situated a L. D. S. church, from which point it continues eastward to Burley.

This route avoids three right-angle turns that would be involved if the route were made through Murtaugh, and shortens the length of the road by approximately one-half mile.

It is proposed, in connection with maintenance operations this year, to improve roads leading into Murtaugh from the state highway both from the west and south.

REPRESENTS TWIN FALLS

Twin Falls' people and chamber of commerce were represented in the hearing before the interstate commerce commission in Boise Saturday on the railroads' application for permit to reduce long haul freight rates, by the state public utilities commission.

Request that the state commission appear for Twin Falls in the hearing was contained in a letter addressed by Shad L. Hodgin, chairman of the chamber of commerce utilities department, to the commission, in which it was asked that the commission take necessary steps to prevent carrying into effect the request being made by the railroads which will allow them to put into effect freight rates to terminal points which are lesser in cost than to intermediate points like our own city."

HERD DISTRICT FORMED WITHOUT OPPOSITION

No opposition developed at a hearing Saturday before the board of county commissioners on a petition for formation of a herd district with boundaries conforming in general to those of the Milner Low Lift irrigation district, and the board, Saturday afternoon, issued an order for formation of the district. Arguments for formation of the district were presented at the hearing by Henry Ross, Ulana Briggs, E. W. Moorman and David Moyes, all of Murtaugh.

OFFICIAL BONDS ON FILE

Directors of American Falls Reservoir and Milner Irrigation Districts Furnish Required Security

Official bonds furnished by lately elected directors of the American Falls Reservoir district and of the Milner Low Lift irrigation district, were approved Saturday by Probate Judge O. P. Duvall and filed in the office of the county recorder.

Bonds, each in the sum of $500, were furnished by the seven directors of the reservoir district as follows: R. E. Shepherd, W. F. Alworth, W. H. Spence, J. H. Barker, H. K. Wiley, A. F. McCloud and F. E. Sayre.

Directors of the Milner irrigation district who furnished bonds each in the sum of $1000, were Glenn Briggs, E. W. Moorman and David G. Moyes.

NINETEEN CASES ON CRIMES LIST

Criminal Docket for Coming Term of Court Contains Seven Felonies; 12 Misdemeanors

Nineteen cases appear on the criminal docket which will be taken up at the opening of the district court term here Monday, Judge W. A. Babcock, presiding. Informations in 17 of these cases were filed Saturday in the office of the clerk of the court by the prosecuting attorney's office, additional cases being those of David Litvin, who was twice tried during the last court term on charges of receiving stolen automobiles, and of L. M. VanEaton, Rock Creek, appealing from judgment on conviction in the probate court on a charge of reckless driving.

Because of the probable absence of Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor when the court term opens Monday, it was indicated Saturday that arraignment in criminal cases would be postponed to later in the week. Mr. Taylor is expected to present argument Monday in a case pending before the state supreme court in Boise.

Charged With Felony.

Seven of the cases on the criminal docket are listed as felonies, the others arising, for the most part from alleged violations of the prohibition laws, and are listed as misdemeanors.

Cases in which felony is charged include those of:

David Litvin, charged with receiving stolen automobiles.

Anton Fierro, charged with robbery of $65 from Joe Arguedo, November 11.

Fred Brandes, charged with arson in the second degree, involving an alleged attempt to burn the plant of the Twin Falls Vinegar and Cider Words, December 7.

Thomas Jensen, charged with grand larceny of 83 sheep pelts from the Twin Falls Feeder company, December 9.

Jose Tula, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon LeRoy Skeen, December 24.

Juan Cabrera, charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon Manuel Moreno, January 2.

Joe Nebel, charged with kidnaping Vernona Darling, December 2.

Illegal sale of liquor is charged on two counts against Arthur Johnson, and illegal possession of liquor is charged against Jose Arguedo and Frank Guillen, John Harms and Harry McMillan, H. B. Lue, Frank Berra, Ira Turner, Clyde C. Hallenberger and May Brown.

Misdemeanor List.

Cases in which misdemeanor is charged include those of Louis R. Calcote and Robert Campbell, charged with bringing lambs into Idaho without the certificate of a federal inspector and failure to dip.

WRITES MOST POLICIES.

E. B. Shepard of Buhl, field assistant in this territory for the Equitable Life Assurance society has been notified that during 1923 he wrote the largest number of policies of any Equitable agent in the west and the second largest in the entire country.

HUGE INCREASE IN VOLUME OF FREIGHT SHOWN

Records of Short Line Offices Here Show 1109 More Carloads of Freight Handled in 1923 than in 1922

An increase of 1109 carloads of freight handled through Oregon Short Line freight offices here during the year just closed as compared with the amount of freight handled here during 1922 is shown by comparative figures taken from records of the offices.

The increase in the number of carloads of freight received was 606, and in the number of cars forwarded from here, 503.

One of the most significant facts disclosed by the comparative figures was the increase in the number of carloads of automobiles received here, the records showing a total of 102 carloads of automobiles received during 1923, as compared with a total of 37 during the preceding year.

Substantial increases were noted in receipts here of beans, beets, merchandise, oil and miscellaneous, under which heading are included most shipments of household goods or immigrants' moveables. Farm products received here were consigned from near-by points for which Twin Falls is a primary destination, or, in the case of beets, for conversion here into sugar.
