SENATORS PUSH DRIVE TO FORCE DAUGHERTY OUT

Efforts Are Renewed to Oust Attorney-General; Inquiry to Start; New Names in Committee Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Renewed efforts to bring about the resignation of Attorney General Daugherty are under consideration among some republicans.

Some of the party leaders who have participated in recent negotiations looking to his retirement are not satisfied with the arrangements which permits him to remain in the cabinet until the senate adjourns at his administration is concluded. This plan, they say, may mean an indefinite delay.

The statement of Mr. Daugherty before he left suddenly yesterday for Chicago was an evident disappointment to these senators. Although the general belief is that his resignation will be demanded at the conclusion of the senate inquiry it is argued by his critics that he ought not to be allowed to remain in office to influence the course of the investigation.

Plan to Start Inquiry

The resolution of inquiry is to be adopted tomorrow after a formal agreement entered into late today, giving it exclusive right of way.

It is the plan to begin the inquiry next week. Whether Mr. Daugherty will be present is uncertain, since he expects to go from Chicago to Florida. He has requested the privilege of being represented by counsel and senators have indicated that this probably will be granted, but there is no thought of delaying the hearing because of his absence from Washington.

How long the inquiry will take no one will predict, but it is the course of most congressional investigations it may take several months. It is this prospect which has led to renewed satisfaction with the plan to keep Mr. Daugherty in office until the hearings are concluded.

"PEACHES AND DUCKS"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Another engrossing chapter examined with mystery and personal emotion was added to the public record today by the senate oil investigators.

The characters in the story included such mysterious personages as "peaches," "peaches" and "peaches" referred to in code messages exchanged between Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, and his employees, during his visit to Florida.

Among the more striking passages in the chapter was a dramatic appearance of Chairman Lenroot on the floor to explain and defend his committee's course and to announce that he would be glad to be relieved of the pressing duties of the chairmanship.

Senators Involved

As the day's story was unfolded new names were brought into the inquiry, including those of Senators Curtis of Kansas, the assistant republican leader, and Underwood of Alabama, a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, whose influence was sought in an effort to keep McLean off the witness stand.

Additional witnesses were summoned among them A. C. McLean, attorney general in the Wilson administration, who acted for a time as counsel for McLean in communication with the oil committee. He will be heard tomorrow.

Graft Charged

As the investigators pushed their work forward, others in the senate held the ground for further excursions by them into the affairs of Dukeny and Sinclair, and for investigation of charges that millions of dollars of the profits of the companies have been diverted from the federal treasury.

From Senator Lenroot, the senate learned that the first of the court actions in the oil cases would be started "very, very soon," while Owen J. Roberts, of special counsel, stated later that unless unforeseen delay was encountered legal proceedings would be started early next week.

RETAINS COUNSEL

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty on leaving Chicago for Florida tonight, announced that he had retained George E. Chamberlain, former United States senator from Oregon, and Paul Howland, Cleveland attorney, to represent his personal interests in the senate oil investigation.

Absent-Minded Folks Perplex Carriers in City's Mail Service

Everything from Powder Puffs to Live Oats Gathered Daily from Letter Boxes

SPOKANE, Feb. 28 (AP)—Various residents of Spokane, some absent-minded, others temporarily preoccupied, furnish the humorous side to the daily work of Spokane mail carriers, according to John O. Wahlstrom, superintendent of city mail carriers. On an average of once a day, he estimates, articles ranging from groceries to money find their way into mail boxes scattered throughout the city.

"Most of these people are women who drop their purses into mail boxes instead of letters," Mr. Wahlstrom said. "One business man was on his way to the bank to deposit his daily receipts, amounting to about $500. When he observed a mail box he dropped the money and purses into it."

One carrier found a purse in a mail box containing only the owner's card. Upon being called, the woman assured the postal authorities that she had stolen the purse but that it was at her home and contained all of her money. An examination, however, proved that the purse was gone. It is believed to have been stolen and that the thief deposited it in the box.

Some time ago a cat was found in one of the parcels post boxes. According to Mr. Wahlstrom, articles found most frequently include lodge pins, powder puffs, handkerchiefs and groceries.

TRAIL MARKERS TO BE PLACED

Sculptor Finishes Work of Art to Be Located Along Famed Pioneer Highway

EUGENE, Ore., Feb. 28 (AP)—Avara Fairbanks, professor of sculpture at the University of Oregon, has just completed the official marker of the Old Oregon Trail, that historic path of the pioneers from the Missouri River to the Pacific coast. The marker is a sculpture relief three feet in diameter. It has been cast in plaster after more than a year's work on it, and has been submitted to the Old Oregon Trail association for approval.

The completed marker is to be cast in bronze, and although locations have not been determined, there will be a large number of them stretching along the trail back to the middle west. The design includes the pioneer explorer in front of which may be seen the heads of a woman and infant. The ox team pulls the wagon over the road, with a strong, bearded man guiding them near their heads and looking onward into the new land.

One significant feature of the design, below the words: "Old Oregon Trail," is the skull of an ox with its horns, indicative of the bones that strewn the way of the trail and its hardships.

Besides serving as a marker, the design is to be the emblem of the Oregon Trail association. It will be copyrighted and used on seals, stamps, photographs and postal cards to be sent out by the association.

SUSPECT TELLS MURDER STORY

Police Still at Sea as to Cause of Double Slaying in Chicago's Underworld

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—With William Engelke, Julian Kaufmann and Carl Hein all held on warrants charging murder or accessory to the fact, police today continued their attempts to solve the double slaying of John Duffy and his wife, Maybelle Exley Duffy.

Duffy was found last Saturday in a roundabout snow bank, three bullet holes in his head. His wife's body, a bullet hole in the temple, was found when police broke open their apartment that evening.

Engelke admitted, police say, that he was in the apartment two days before the bodies were found and that at that time Duffy shot his wife during a quarrel. Duffy forced Engelke to accompany him for more than a day after that, he said, but that they parted company to make plans to leave the city.

Kaufmann was implicated in the story. Engelke told the police, when he declared that Kaufmann furnished the automobile in which Duffy was to make his escape. Hein, a pal of Engelke's, is believed by police to know of both murders. Detectives declare that Engelke also knows more than he has told so far.

FIXING OF OIL PRICE CHARGED

Fifteen Companies Operating in Nebraska Named in Suit Filed by State Attorney

OMAHA, Feb. 28 (AP)—Fifteen oil companies operating in Nebraska, are charged with conspiracy to fix and control the price of gasoline and allied products in a suit filed today in the district court of Douglas county, Nebraska, by D. S. Spillman, attorney general of the state. The attorney general seeks to have the companies named in the suit, ousted from the state and forbidden to operate within its borders.

Companies against whom suit is brought include the Standard Oil company of Nebraska, United States Oil Works, Nicholas Oil corporation, Anderson-Johnson company, Nebraska-Louisiana Oil company, Steik Oil company, Omaha Refining company, Standard Oil company of Indiana, Sinclair Refining company, National Refining company, Manhattan Oil company, the Texas company, Tidal Refining company, Texas Oil company, and the Shuffer Oil and Refining company.

MORE WHEAT FOR ORIENT

Representatives of Shanghai Flour Mills and Exporters Assort U. S. Grain to Be in Big Demand

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Feb. 28 (AP)—That the orient will generally be compelled to import more wheat than ever before is the consensus of opinion of a group of Chinese and Japanese grain men studying conditions throughout the valley here.

The party, composed of representatives of two Shanghai flour mills and a number of Chinese and Japanese exporters, have been studying grain conditions in the northwest on the first stretch of a tour which will carry them into eastern states, it was reported.

According to one of the Shanghai representatives, nearly all flour made by his company is used to make noodles and very little is turned into bread. At the present time, he said, an investigation is under way to determine the cost of the production of wheat to see whether China cannot buy grain more cheaply than to produce it.

200 SKATERS RESCUED FROM ICE FLOE BLOWN TO SEA

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 28 (AP)—The remarkable rescue of 200 persons who, while skating, were carried out to sea on a large ice floe, is reported from a small town near here. While the skaters were enjoying the sport the wind loosened a large mass of ice from the harbor. The floe began to drift rapidly seaward with the helpless skaters.

While all harbor authorities were notified a steamship was dispatched and a number of fishing craft put to sea. The steamship caught up with the floe several miles from shore and took off 100 of the skaters, while the others were rescued by fishing craft.

PLAN CONTESTS IN EGG LAYING

First Event of Its Kind in Idaho to Start November 1; Will Boost Poultry Industry

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Feb. 28 (Special to The News)—Idaho's first annual egg-laying contest, to start November 1, is being planned by the university, through its agricultural college, to be held at the agricultural experiment station at Caldwell.

Present plans call for 50 entries of 12 birds each, making a total of 600 birds. These hens will be kept at the station for a year and careful records made of their laying.

By trap-neeting it is proposed to determine which individuals and which varieties lay the greatest number of eggs during the different months and during the year. Records will be kept of the size of eggs and the feed consumed. At the end of each month reports will be sent to the newspapers and to the exhibitors, giving full records regarding the eggs laid by the individual birds and the feed consumed. At the end of each month reports will be sent to the newspapers and to the exhibitors, giving full records regarding the eggs laid by the individual birds and the feed consumed. At the end of each month reports will be sent to the newspapers and to the exhibitors, giving full records regarding the eggs laid by the individual birds and the feed consumed.

All Are Eligible
"Any poultryman in the world will be eligible to compete in this contest," says Prof. R. T. Parkhurst, head of the university department of poultry husbandry.

The records secured in this contest will be very helpful to the poultrymen who send in the different hens, as the records will enable them to start with a small flock of tested hens and to build from it a very successful and profitable flock. The individual is stimulated to better breeding each year not only in quantity but also in quality of production.

"At a contest that started last year entries came from seven states besides the one in which the contest was located. This gives the individual poultryman who enters his birds an opportunity to compare them with those from other states. If he finds his birds inferior, he strives next time to select and breed for superiority. His birds are tested in the contest in endeavors to keep them the best by still more attention to breeding.

"The extent to which these contests have stimulated better breeding is indicated by the actual results in a Canadian contest that has been running only four years. The first year average was 120 eggs per fowl. This gradually increased until last year it was 143 eggs.

Hens Should Be Tested
"Similar contests held elsewhere have served a useful purpose in the upbuilding of the poultry industry in communities where they have been held. The poultrymen and the farmers are inspired by the records made in the contests to maintain records of all the hens they keep. The poultrymen soon learn that hens should be tested as accurately and as carefully as dairy cows, and they are inspired to keep only productive and profitable flocks. There is usually considerable difference between the production of the average hen on the farm or in the commercial flock and that obtained in the egg-laying contest. This will serve to increase the production of the flocks of the state by stimulating more interest in better methods of management as recommended by the experiment station and extension workers of the university.

Many Contests
"There are now about 30 egg-laying contests in the United States and 12 in Canada. These contests have taught poultrymen that the breeding of poultry requires the same amount of care and skill that is required in the breeding of productive dairy cows. They have shown that hens that produce the greatest number of eggs come from excellent strains that have been carefully bred for years.

"The purpose of establishing an egg-laying contest is to advance the poultry interests of Idaho. It is believed that a considerable interest will be created among the poultry keepers of the state and that more attention will be paid to the use of pure bred poultry on the farm and better breeding and feeding methods. If this can be attained, the efforts to establish this contest will be repaid.

Possible Possibilities
"The proposed egg-laying contest has the following possibilities:
"The reports of the contest will be printed in newspapers and in poultry journals all over America and in foreign countries.
"Numerous persons will read about this contest and will visit it in person.
"To the poultry breeder it means that the thousands of dollars which now go to neighboring states for

THE NEW BEET CONTRACT

The Amalgamated Sugar company of Twin Falls is holding to ten thousand acres he planted to beets this year, and in view of the more liberal contract, which is offered to growers it is not unreasonable to expect a heavy increase over last year.

There is no question as to the advantage to growers in a cash crop such as beets, but in the past the farmers have not been satisfied with the price paid and, notwithstanding the fact that some growers made good money on the crop, a good many took down little if any profit on their year's work.

The new contract should make a big difference and especially should it operate to the advantage of the man with the small acreage planted, but if the Amalgamated Sugar company really wants to co-operate with the grower clear down the line it will proceed to advise a plan whereby the crop is paid for upon presentation of the scale ticket.

If this were done it would prove a real advantage to beet-growers and would probably go farther towards the creating of good will between the factory and the farmers than any other single departure which could be thought of.

Usually there are reasons why this cannot be done, but none have appeared to date.

BUSINESS THIS YEAR

A business man insists that the tradition of a presidential year being a bad year for business is "only a fable." His contention is upheld by figures indicating that, over a long period, there have been more prosperous presidential years than dull ones.

There is no visible reason why this year should be an exception. Conditions at present are unusually good.
Nearly everybody who wants work has employment at good wages. There is no over-supply of goods, and the demand is at least up to the average, calling for the steady operation of industries on a profitable basis. Prices are good. There is plenty of capital and credit. Building continues strong.
There is no sign of a slump in the automobile industry. Steel is cheerful.
The prospect of lower taxes is acting as a business stimulant even before enactment of tax-revision.

Of politics there is plenty, but political obstacles to business progress may be safely discounted, if tax reduction is accomplished and Congress refrains from extravagance.

JUDGE OWL'S LETTER
BY DADDY

(The Saucy Sparrows plan to steal the nests of the summer birds. Judge Owl seeks to catch and punish the Sparrows. He stuffs sticks into the door of their refuge under the barn eaves and then the Sparrows strangely disappear.)

CHAPTER V.
Teasing Judge Owl.
JUDGE OWL was puzzled by the disappearance of the Saucy Sparrows.
"Who! I guess I have scared them away," he hooted to Jack and Janet.
"I don't mind that if they will only stay away from the nests of Birdland."
"Who! Who! I'll have to go back to my job of catching mice and rats in the barn, no good night!"

Judge Owl went into the barn and Jack and Janet galloped home for supper and sleep.
But bright and early the next day they were back at the barn. They wanted to see if the Sparrows had returned. They found an excited chattering and hooting in the barn.

"Yes, the Sparrows are back," shouted Jack. "Do you hear them in the barn?"
The children opened the door and went into the barn. And there they believed lively doings. Sparrows were everywhere, doing Judge Owl. There were so many of them that Judge Owl could not chase them all. When he chased one group of them, another group would dart into the line. Judge Owl had more than he could do trying to protect the grain and catch the sparrows. As for the sparrows, they were chattering with joy. It was the funniest thing Judge Owl had got a meal of grain besides.

"What's the matter, Judge Owl?" cried Jack. "How did the Sparrows get in here?"
"Who! Who! They came in here through knot holes when I stuffed the hole in the eaves with sticks and straw," hooted Judge Owl, sitting down to rest a moment. "I made a big mistake in not leaving them alone when they were outside."
"Cheer! Cheer! We are glad you did not leave us alone," jeered Pecky Sparrow.

"When you shut us out of our refuge in the eaves, we found the barn, warm inside of the barn, where we are safe from the storm and have plenty of food. Here we will stay until spring comes, and then we will steal the nests of the summer birds!"
"Who! Will you, now?" hooted Judge Owl angrily. He darted after Pecky Sparrow, who dodged this way and that, in spite of his size, Judge Owl could fly fast. He chased Pecky Sparrow so hard that finally Pecky Sparrow darted into a narrow space on the inside of the eaves. Judge Owl was too large to squeeze in after him and so Pecky Sparrow jeered and mucked him. The other Sparrows did the same and poor Judge Owl was helpless.

"Cheer! Cheer! We will go into partnership with the mice and rats," chattered Pecky Sparrow. "We will keep you chasing us all day and the mice and rats will keep you chasing them all night. Between the two gangs you will get no sleep. You will grow weary and weak and will not be strong enough to catch any of us."
That threat surely did seem to put Judge Owl in a bad fix.
"Who! What shall I do?"
he hooted to Jack and Janet. But Jack already had a plan to help him.

(What that plan is will be told in the next chapter.)

DRAMA AND CLOTHES

Writing to a dramatic reviewer, a first-nighter wonders why it has never occurred to the critic what an important part clothes play in the theatre.

"A well-dressed audience," he argues, encourages actors and dramatists to greater and finer effort. If George Cohan, for instance, knew that he was writing a play that his drama was invariably to be presented before men and women in evening clothes, don't you think his work would be a little more and therefore a little better? And isn't it true that if the actors in any drama saw before them an immaculately dressed assemblage instead of the usual motley crowd in paper and salt business suits and brown woolens, they would do less mugging and horsing and play up to their audience instead of playing down at it?"

Not a doubt of it in the world, when you think it over! Why has this patent remedy been neglected, in all the frenzied efforts made of late to uplift the drama? Just put audiences into evening clothes, and presto! There will be a new race of Shakespeares, and Molières and the stage will be demanded at least up to the average, deluged with Iago's, Barretts, Irvings, Mansfields, Modjeskas, Marlowes, dusties on a profitable basis. Prices Hampdens and Barrymores.

A sneaking suspicion that this may be merely subtle "dress-up week" propaganda on the part of the clothing industry should be dismissed as unworthy. Is it not true, in addition to the facts set forth above, that dressing for a show would probably rest the tired business man as much as the show itself? At any rate, it always seems to rest the tired housewife, no matter how much work it is to get into her evening dress.

RADIO IN EUROPE DEMANDS

KNOWLEDGE OF MANY TONGUES

CROYDON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Unless an international convention is drawn up making a standard language for wireless speech with aircraft, the wireless operator at this station in a few years will have to know seven or eight languages.

At present he communicates with the French liners in French. The Belgian, Dutch and German machines have no wireless, but when they are so fitted, and the Italian, Spanish and Czechoslovakian fly machines to London, the operators' English and French will be only of limited use.

"The white man done as he was told.
I spoke English an' mebbe them two Injuns didn't understand me. We'll never know. Ol' Red Snout leered over to pick up his gun, an' he'd made up his mind to fight. Jack grabbed him. He were stout as a lion an' two-way from the boy an' started to pullin' a long knife out o' his bootleg.
Jack didn't give him time. They had it hammer an' tongs. Red Snout were a regular fightin' man. He jest stuck that 'ere stump in the ground an' braced ag'in it an' kep' a-shakin' an' pullin' with his club come an' yellin'.

an' cussin' like a fend o' hell. He knocked the boy down an' I reckon he'd 'a' mellered his head proper if he'd 'a' been spryer on his pins. But Jack sprung up like he were made o' Inj rubber. The bull dog devil had drawed his long knife. Jack were smart. He hopped behind a tree.
Buckeye, who hadn't no gun, was jumpin' fer cover. The peg-leg cuss swore a blue streak an' dung the knife at him. It went clear through his bod-an' he fell on his face an' me standin' thar lookin' my gun. I didn't know but he'd lick us all. But Jack had jumped on him fore he got holt o' the knife ag'in.

"I thought sure he'd floor the boy an' me not quite loaded, but Jack were spry as a rat terrier. He dodged an' rushed in an' grabbed holt o' the club an' fetched the cuss a whack in the paunch with his bare fist; an' ol' Red Snout went down like a steer under the ax.

"Look out! there's 'other man comin'," the young wimmen hollered.
"She needsn't 'a' tuk the trouble
'cause afore she spoke I were lookin' at him through the sight o' my ol' Marier, which I'd managed to get it loaded ag'in. He were runnin' towards me. He tuk jest one more step, if I don't make no mistake.

"The ol' brute that Jack had knocked down quivered an' lay still an' milt an' when he come to, we turned him around an' started him toward Canada an' tol' him to keep agoin'!
When he were 'bout ten rods off, I put a bullet in his ol' wooden leg fer to hurry him along. So the wust wustiller that ever trod dirt got away from us with only a sore belly, we never knowin' who he was. I dah-dah! but the cuss, but as 'twere, we had considerable trouble on our hands. Right erway we heard two guys go off over by the house. I knewed that our firm had prob'ly wroke some o' the sleepers. We pounded the ground an' got thar as quick as we could. The two wimmen wait' fur behind. They didn't calculate to lose us—you hear to me. Two young braves had sprung up an' been told to lie down ag'in. But the English language ain't no help to an Injun under them circumstances. They don't understan' it an' thar ain't no time when ignorance is more costly. They was some others awake, but they had learnt suthin'. They was keepin' quiet, an' I ax to 'em:

"If ye lay still ye'll be safe. We won't do ye a bit o' harm. You've got in bad company, but ye ain't done badder but staid a pair o' wimmen.
If ye behave proper from now on, ye'll be sent him."

FIGURES READY FOR GUIDANCE OF TAX UNITS

County Auditor's Office Completes Compilation of Assessed Property Valuations and Revenues from 1923 Levies

Records of 1923 property valuations have been completed in the county auditor's office to be delivered to officials of various taxing units within the county for their guidance in laying tax levies of the current year. The records show the assessed valuation of real and personal property within the county amounting to $27,747,449.17. The amount of revenue derived by the state and county and each taxing unit under its 1923 tax levies also is set forth on these records.

Basis Only Approximate

Under Idaho law these records must be delivered to the officials of each taxing unit by the second Monday of March. With these records as a basis each taxing unit is expected to complete and report to the auditor's office not later than the second Monday of next September, its tax levies for the current year. Taxes under these levies will be due and collectible next December.

The valuations shown on these records are only approximate, since the actual valuations upon which tax levies for the current year will be laid are now being compiled by the auditor's office and must be submitted to both county and state boards of equalization before they are finally determined late next fall.

Taxing units to which the records as to property valuation and tax revenues are to be delivered by the auditor's office include municipalities, school and highway districts.

DATE FOR HEARING SET IN INEBRIETY CASE

Former Officials of Mutual Building and Loan Association to Stand Preliminary Examination Monday

Preliminary hearing in probate court here in the case of P. G. Lecheiter, former manager, and P. G. Lecheiter, former secretary of the Mutual Building and Loan association, charged with embezzling approximately $16,000 of the association's funds, was postponed to Monday next, it was announced Thursday. Both Peters and Lecheiter have entered pleas of not guilty and have indicated a bond in the sum of $1000 each. In the prosecution of the action, prosecuting attorney J. W. Taylor will be assisted by Frank L. Stephens, former prosecuting attorney, Roy L. Black, Pocatello, formerly Idaho attorney general, is attorney for Peters, and Homer C. Mills is attorney for Lecheiter.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, over better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, W. E. Johnson, 161 North Union Ave., Portland, Ore., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency and without expenditure of money, make $250 to $500 per month.

President Sends Name of Successful Applicant for Post-office to Senate for Approval

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Postmasters nominated by President Coolidge today include W. McRoberts, of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Arthur B. Bean, of Pocatello, Idaho.

Confirmation by the senate of the nomination of P. W. McRoberts is expected within a few days. Thereafter a bond must be executed and delivered by the appointee, and such bond must be approved before the postmaster's commission is issued. With the issuance of the commission, a date is to be fixed for transfer of the office by the appointee to his successor. The whole transaction is expected to occupy not more than two or three weeks.

TAKES STEPS TO APPEAL ROSEWORTH LAND ACTION

Farm Development Company Files Undertaking and Preceipe as Date for Brackett's Decision Nears

Likelihood of an appeal to the state supreme court in the suit instituted by the Idaho Farm Development company against Governor Brackett, administrator of the estate of Ira Brackett, and others, to condemn lands required for building of the Roseworth reservoir, was given Thursday in the filing by attorneys for the company of an undertaking for costs on appeal in the sum of $500 and preceipe directing preparation of a transcript of records in the case.

Under provisions of an alternative judgment rendered February 12 by Judge W. A. Babcock, Brackett and his associates were given 30 days to accept an award of approximately $44,000, which was about $15,000 less than the amount given them by verdict returned by a jury in a recent term of district court here. If the reduced amount is not accepted, the court ruled the company's motion for a new trial will be granted.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL GETS DAWSON CASE RECORDS

Delay in Hearing on Appeal from Judgment on Obstruction of Dry Law Violation Charged to Reporter

Hearing before Idaho's supreme court in the case of Paul Dawson, Twin Falls, in this district court here about two years ago, on charge of violation of the prohibition laws, has not been pending before the tribunal for that length of time. It is now being received Thursday by prosecuting attorney J. W. Taylor from J. L. Boone, assistant attorney general, who stated that the appeal was filed in the supreme court on February 15, 1924, and the "delay is due undoubtedly to the time taken in preparation of the reporters' transcript. Assurance was given by the assistant attorney general that effort would be put forth to expedite an early hearing in the case, although doubt was expressed whether it would be reached before June or July, next.

THEFT OF TYPEWRITER ATTRIBUTED TO BOYS

An Underwood typewriter was taken by burglars, who, Wednesday night, entered the office of O. J. Johnson, 225 Third street south, according to report made Thursday to police headquarters. BOURBONS TALK LIVE QUESTIONS

Tax Reduction Measures and Oil Lease Probe Figure with Tribute to Dead Leader

Two outstanding developments of current political significance, federal tax reduction measures and investigation of leasing of naval oil reserves, discussed at a joint meeting Thursday evening of the Junior club and Democratic Women's club, and resolutions of sorrow and respect occasioned by the death of the late Woodrow Wilson were passed by the meeting after Dr. W. F. Pike, state senator from Twin Falls county, spoke extolling the character, ideals and achievements of the distinguished former president. The meeting was presided over by Thomas M. Robertson, former democratic state commissioner. About 100 men and women attended.

Oil lease investigations were discussed by Miss Ada Winkler, who saw as an outcome of the continuing inquiry a definite alignment of public opinion in favor of the policy of conservation of natural resources.

Contrasts Tax Plans

T. J. Lloyd, Twin Falls, member of the Idaho house of representatives, discussed federal tax reduction measures, analyzing and contrasting the proposals of the Mellon plan and those of the plan put forward by democratic leaders.

The principal difference between the two proposals, Mr. Lloyd said, is that the Mellon plan attempts to benefit persons who pay taxes on larger incomes in the hope that such benefits will result to the disadvantage of the ultimate consumer; while the democratic plan would take more in taxes from persons best able to pay and less from those less able to pay.

Only three income taxpayers in Idaho would be benefited more by the Mellon plan than by the democratic plan, Mr. Lloyd asserted. He credited Secretary Mellon with honesty of purpose and regarded the Mellon plan as a product of his environment, but denied that advantages claimed would result from adoption of the plan.

Woodrow Wilson was characterized by Dr. Pike as "the greatest figure in world history that American soil ever produced," and as one of the few in history who has been privileged to "stand at the crossroads of civilization and point out the path which the world should follow."

Sees Wilson as Martyr

Tracing Wilson's career to its apparent zenith at the moment of the allied victory, Dr. Pike declared that in that hour "two as a nation turned our backs on our duty; burned our bridges and left Europe to her fate and in so doing tied an economic millstone about our own necks."

"Wilson fell," the speaker declared, "fired in the back from behind his own lines, a victim of racial hatred, slander and political chicanery. But," he said, "Wilson never lost faith in the ultimate recovery by the American people of their own soul."

"Whether Wilson was right in this detail or that, or whether his detractors were right," Dr. Pike declared, "history will take little notice, but history will remember that unlike his maligners, his name is inextricably associated with a great cause—one of the greatest since the dawn of the Christian era and that he has planted an ideal of human unity which can never be uprooted."

Returns from Coast—Mrs. I. B. Perrine returned Thursday from a visit of several weeks in Los Angeles and vicinity. While away she saw several former Twin Falls people, among them Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hart, who are now located in Los Angeles, where Mr. Hart is engaged in manufacturing and where they have a beautiful home.

GREENS HEARING POSTPONED

On motion of defense counsel Thursday, hearing in probate court in the case of Fred Green, charged with larceny of harness alleged to have been taken about February 2 from Bingham county, Idaho, was postponed to Saturday. Similar postponement also was arranged for a hearing in district court on the prosecuting attorney's application for revocation of parole to which Green was admitted last fall when he pleaded guilty to charge of burglarizing a chicken-house and was sentenced to serve one to 15 years in the state prison.

DISTRICT COURT NEARS CLOSING TRIAL OF TERM

Case of G. E. Jones Against J. S. Russell Seems Likely to Be Unclouded on Third Day

Trial in district court here in the suit of Charles E. Jones against James R. Russell, which began Wednesday afternoon, is expected to be concluded today, and jurors not on the panel in this case were excused, Tuesday by Judge W. A. Babcock until Monday morning, when the suit of Alfred Carlson against H. W. Leveke, the last action remaining on the calendar for trial at the present term, probably will begin. A new term of district court here is scheduled to open March 10.

Principals in the suit of Jones against Russell occupied the witness stand throughout the day. Thursday, and Mr. Russell was submitting to cross examination when the evening recess was taken.

Four claims for about $700 growing out of purchase and feeding of a band of sheep, and Russell's counterclaim for about $7500 on account of fees alleged to have been delivered by Jones to a local bank and now held by Russell, are involved in this action.
