OPPOSITION TO
FARM AID BILL

Strenuous Opposition Greeted First Appearance of Special Relief Measure; Ladd in Charge of New Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Strenuous opposition today greeted the appearance in the senate of the first special farm relief measure—the Norbeck-Burnette bill proposing the loan of $75,000,000 to finance diversification. Declaring it was "paternalism run rampant," Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, said it was time to call a halt upon such measures.

We are proposing to loan this money," he said, "for the purpose of enabling the one-crop farmer to keep livestock on land now adaptable for grazing, or to raise other crops where the land will not produce but one. We have already gone the limit along this line."

Senator Fletcher's attitude was understood to be that of several other senators on the democratic side, and of some republicans. An effort of Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota, to end debate at 3 o'clock tomorrow was blocked by notification from several senators that they desired to discuss the measure.

Ladd in Charge.

The North Dakota senator, having reported the bill from the agricultural committee, assumed charge of it on the floor. He contended the government owed special consideration to the spring wheat farmers because of the trials they had suffered through the war-time propaganda, which at once increased production and decreased consumption. Every other class in the United States, he said, either by the tariff or through direct or indirect subsidy. Several amendments already have been proposed to the bill, which would increase the amount carried to $105,000,000. Among them is a provision offered by Senator Bureau, republican, New Mexico, which would add $20,000,000 for loans to banks in the northwest. Senator Fletcher said the purpose of this was to "holster bud-bank."

Would Center Control.

"The whole tendency," he said, "is toward further centralization of authority in the federal government. Can you imagine the secretary of agriculture supervising this fund? Agriculture taking some control of the farms he aids, or of the controller passing out this fund without retaining some control of those banks?"

"Of course, if the idea is to establish a good campaign fund, I have no doubt that fifty or a hundred million properly handled would be very effective."

Senator Bureau here interjected the

Special Jury Must

in Reign of Terror

Judge of Herrin's City Court Demands Faction Fight Be Terminated; Armed Troops Guard Court Room.

HERRIN, Ill., March 3 (AP)—Judge E. N. Bowen of the city court of Herrin, sworn in a special grand jury here today and charged it with the duty of finding out who called a "reign of terror" to Herrin. Steel helmeted troops stood guard at the door of the court room; barring the entrance with leveled bayonets, challenging every one who sought entrance and searching all comers for arms.

At the end of the first day of the inquiry Assistant State's Attorney Ray Hanson joined Judge Bowen in declaring the only hope for peace in Herrin lay with the grand jury and the prospect that it be permitted to conduct its inquiry unhampered by the factionalism that, the judge said, has changed this community again into an armed camp. "Find the master mind," Judge Bowen instructed, "find who plans this disorder. This must not be a whitewash process. No man must be protected because he belongs to any faction and as you know, there are two factions in this town. I do not want any brand, slightest suggestion to protect any man when it comes to investigating this, and it must not be."

OMAHA, March 3 (AP)—Continued rise of the Platte and Loup rivers at Schuyler, Neb., 60 miles west of Omaha, today resulted in the sending of an army bombing plane, piloted by Lieutenant John P. Whitley, to the scene, and the shipment of a carload of 300-pound bombs which the aviator will use to demolish piling ice should the situation assume more threatening proportions.

Five men are marooned on an island in the Loup river near Columbus, Neb., where they were spending Sunday. Breaking up of ice made return to the mainland impossible.

Their lives are not in danger, however, it was reported.

THOUSANDS GET
CASH REFUNDS

Total of More Than $123,000,000 Paid Back on Account of Illegal Tax Collections.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Refunds on tax payments totaling $123,000,000 were made by the treasury in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, according to a report sent to the house ways and means committee by the department.

The refunds, which were made to 263,329 persons, covered payments for several years and were made on account of illegal or erroneously collected taxes. The report showed that 152 persons had received more than $1,000 in reimbursements.

Among those receiving refunds were: Edward L. Doherty, Los Angeles, Cal., $10,039.04; Charles H. Crane, New York, $172,296.66; Cornelius Vanderbilt, New York, $577,169; Oliver Harriman, New York, $85,577.77; Joseph W. Hastings, New York, $20,000; Lewis Cass Lewis, Jr., executors of the estate of Oliver H. Payne, New York, $9,308; $48,000; Nellie Miller Nickel, San Francisco, $3,939.962; and John Hays Hammond, Washington, D. C., $5,129.42.

Tests Made by Federal Expert of Sausage That Caused Deaths Falls to Show Evidence of Bacteria.

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—Samples of the sausage which was believed to have been responsible for the death of five persons at Sterling, Colorado, a week ago, contained no sign of bacteria, the germ which it was believed caused the fatalities, Dr. C. J. Gelfer, professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago, announced tonight.

The announcement was made just before Dr. Gelfer, who is chief epidemiologist of the United States health service, left for Sterling, where he will attempt to determine the cause of the deaths.

Paid Up Insurance Plan Among Several Schemes Considered; Green Opposes Cash Payment.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The form of payment of a soldier bonus occupied the attention of spokesmen before the house ways and means committee today at the opening of a three-day session of public hearings.

Several propositions including a plan to limit the bonus entirely to paid up insurance policies for all veterans who served more than 60 days, were presented to the committee by members of the house who have introduced bills. The American Legion, through John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of its national legislative committee, declared a willingness to accept "whatever bonus legislation this congress enacts."

Oppose Insurance Plan.

Some opposition was voiced to the insurance proposition, advanced by Representative Fish of New York, and Andrews of Massachusetts, republicans. Representative Elmerberger, republican, California, urging the committee to report out a bill similar to the one voted by President Harding and accepted by the American Legion, expressed fear that new legislation would "muddy the water and hinder speedy action."

Not a word of opposition, either by committee members or those appearing before it, was expressed against the bonus legislation, most of the speakers devoting their time to outlining various proposed methods of bonus payments.

Against Paying Cash.

When Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat on the committee, who voted against the bonus bill last session, suggested he might favor it, providing payment of a straight out cash payment or insurance, Chairman Green warned that "such legislation might throw a monkey wrench into the full cash payment option which will be placed in the bill, contending that the revenue required would cut up all the government revenue collected for a year.

Advocates of the insurance provision argued that it would spread out

Prohibition Agents Brave Torpedo Fire and Drenching to Get Huge Stills.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Prohibition agents attacking a bootlegger's establishment today were met by torpedoes, gas and water defense but emerged as triumphant captors of a $50,000 radiating apparatus the daily output of which was estimated at 25,000 gallons. The operatives escaped.

Throwing front and rear doors open simultaneously, the raiders were met by a detonation; they drew their pistols, thinking they were fired upon. Investigation revealed that the "salute" came from railroad torpedoes fastened in the door to warn the workers.

Entering the room where the elaborate plant was concealed, the officers were drenched when cooling water overhead upset. But the quarry had escaped. The torpedoes had answered their purpose.

LEON OSBORNE

Father of Baby Marie Convicted of Battery; Will be Given Sentence at Once.

IDAHO FALLS, March 3 (AP)—Leon T. Osborne, 41, father of Baby Marie Osborne, juvenile motion picture star, was found guilty of committing a battery upon his daughter in a local hotel room here on the night of February 11 by a jury of six men late Saturday night who heard the evidence presented in plenary court here during the past four days. The jury was out over five hours.

Released last week when the state failed to convict the father of the juvenile star of violation of the state theatrical prohibition act, Osborne was immediately arrested on a charge of battery.

In the course of the trial testimony which tended to show that Osborne had permitted a liquor party to be staged in his room at a local hotel during the course of which Marie was committed to be present for about two hours, and that after the party had

Bankers and Manufacturers Join Rail Men in Petition to Revise Charges in Effort to Meet Ocean Schedule.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Bankers and manufacturers from the middle west today added their voices to those of transcontinental railroad officials in asking the interstate commerce commission to permit a revision of rail rates, which would meet the lower freight rates between Atlantic and Pacific ports.

Today's hearing was a resumption of the series conducted in many cities, the last at Chicago. It is expected the New York session will conclude the commission's accumulation of evidence for and against rail rate reduction.

Witnesses were unanimous in declaring that the existing differential in rail and water rates was hurting the middle west and that the carriers should be permitted to reduce rates to halt the diversion of transcontinental freight to steamship companies operating in the Panama canal.

President Davies of the Chicago Association of Commerce summarized the testimony of other witnesses when he said:

"There is a constantly diminishing shipment of freight by rail from the middle west to the Pacific coast."

"If Panama canal transportation bursts mid-western railroads, thereby affecting manufacturers in the middle west, we should have an adjustment that would equalize the railroad, and the Panama canal."

Mr. Davies said he came here to help bring about direct rail transportation to the Pacific coast.

Among applications for permission to appear at the hearing is one filed by John E. Benton for the commissions of Idaho, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and New Mexico.

Will Seek All Facts Pertaining to Forbes' Allegations and Evidence Placed Before Chicago Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—Evidence that "two members of congress" improperly accepted money, laid before the Chicago grand jury that indicted Charles R. Forbes, will be inquired into by the senate veterans committee.

A telegram was sent tonight to the district attorney at Chicago requesting that he advise the committee as to this evidence and asking whether it indicated sufficient connection with the vet affairs bureau to come within the committee's jurisdiction.

A meeting of the committee was called for tomorrow to consider procedure.

Meet in Conference

The action taken today followed a conference between President Coolidge and Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee at which the grand jury's report was discussed. Whether immediate action is to be taken by the executive branch of the government upon matters discussed in its report other than the indictments handed down was not disclosed after the conference.

The special report of the grand jury announced that other sensational developments involving alleged graft had been developed before it in the course of the inquiry which led to the indictment of Forbes. These developments were not pursued, the grand jury reported, because they were not within its jurisdiction.

Graft Alleged

The jury stated that the developments included speculation by one or more officials of the government, involving the use of official information, the payment of certain sums of money to two members of congress and that such was collected by certain persons, not attorneys, for obtaining permits for intoxicating liquor.

The jury also said it had information indicating that files of one department were turned over to persons having no official connection with the department and that money was accepted by persons who were not attorneys to obtain clemency for prisoners, these persons having their efforts upon their intimacy with officials.

Defendants in Trial of Putsch Leaders Attempt to Place Blame on Their Three Principal Counsellors.

MUNICH, Bavaria, March 3 (AP)—The testimony of all the defendants in the treason trial in which General Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler are the chief figures, was completed this afternoon and the task of hearing 150 witnesses, including Dr. von Kahr, the former Bavarian dictator, and General von Lossow, commander of the retreating army, will begin tomorrow.

The substance of the defendants' testimony was designed to put the onus on Von Kahr, von Lossow and von Seiser, former chief of the state police, all having agreed to the putsch, but as having backed out at the last moment without giving Ludendorff and Hitler any hint of their intentions.

In other words, the defendants were all agreed that they had been doublecrossed by the three officials, with whom they had often conferred, and that the putsch had not succeeded, because it lacked their support, which they had promised. It appears from the court records that Von Kahr, von Lossow and von Seiser, that plans of revolt had been extensively organized and even had the support of the north German junkers, both withdrew about the time it started, when they realized that it was nothing more than a impulsive beer hall movement which could not succeed.

LATEST ENTRY NOT POPULAR WITH JOHNSON

Filing of Name of Hiram Johnson in Michigan Proves Puzzling Problem; California Senator Criticizes.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Campaign managers of President Coolidge are not responsible, William Butler, the president's personal representative in the campaign, declared, in a statement tonight, for the entrance in the Michigan presidential primary of a man named Hiram Johnson. The similarity of his name and his place on the primary ballot was criticized by Senator Johnson of California, candidate for the republican nomination, in a statement yesterday.

No authority was given any representative interested in the campaign of President Coolidge in connection with the filing of Mr. Johnson, said Mr. Butler. "As a matter of fact, but no one in Michigan in charge of its interests. We know nothing about the filing of Mr. Johnson or whether he actually has filed. There is no one in Michigan who is looked upon or has been designated as the manager for the Coolidge interests."

MAY WITHDRAW NAMES

LANSING, Mich., March 3 (AP)—Secretary of State Charles Deland decided tonight to order the names of Robert M. La Follette and Hiram Johnson, Sawinaw county farmer, stricken from the list of certified candidates for the Michigan presidential primary April 7, as soon as he hears from Johnson that he does not wish to be a contestant. He expects a letter from Johnson tomorrow. La Follette has already announced that his candidacy he withdraws.

State officials and republican leaders who have been active in the Coolidge campaign in Michigan today sided with Hiram W. Johnson of California, candidate for president in the primary here April 7, in denouncing the attempt to put the name of Hiram Johnson of Saginaw county on the ballot.

John Baird, state conservation commissioner, said he has been largely responsible for filing Johnson's petitions, was quoted from Benton Harbor today as saying that he did it to show the weakness of the present state law which permits anyone to file as a candidate for president who can obtain 100 signatures. He denied that he had any intention of impeding Hiram W. Johnson's candidacy.

Tennyson's Visit to Paris
In the letters and memoirs of Sir William Hardman just published under the title of "A Mid-Victorian Peep," there is a delightful story of an adventure of Tennyson in Paris. Tennyson could not speak French and his brother spoke it very badly. The story alleges that his brother, when going out, said to the waiter: "Prenez garde de ne pas laisser sortir le feu" (take care not to let the fire go out), pronouncing feu (meaning fire), like feu (meaning fool). When Tennyson himself came downstairs to go out for a walk the waiter barred his way, and when Tennyson stormed he called the other waiters, being confirmed in his opinion of the poet's insanity by Tennyson's eccentricities.

THIRD CABINET MAY BE FORMED

Friends Urge Theunis to Assemble New Staff; Interviews Belgium's King.

BRUSSELS, March 3 (AP)—M. Theunis, whose ministry resigned last week, after a defeat in the chamber on the Franco-Belgian economic convention, seemed likely tonight to agree to form his third cabinet, provided he gets certain assurances of support from the Flemish party.

His decision to re-enter the banking field is weakening under pressure from many sources that he remain in power to clean up the reputation problem. If he accomplishes the formation of a new cabinet it will be reduced to eight ministers.

The change in M. Theunis' attitude was noticeable after he had an interview with King Albert. In the course of the conversation they discussed the exchange of letters between Premier Poincare and MacDonald.

English Royal Coach at $38,000.

The English royal state coach, which is still in use on ceremonial occasions, is a magnificent vehicle of its kind, and, according to Horace Walpole, cost nearly $38,000, says the Detroit News. The use of coaches is a comparatively recent innovation, for as late as the reign of Queen Elizabeth the English royal family had to be content with a wagon, which was a sort of cart without springs, the body resting solidly on the axle. Before the invention of the coach the most aristocratic ladies were accustomed to ride on pillows fixed on the horse, usually behind some relative or servant.

TURK ASSEMBLY PASSES BILL TO DEPOSE CALIPH

Move to Oust Religious Head of Moslem World Eyed Seriously by England as Threat Against Rule.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 3 (AP)—The national assembly at Angora today passed a bill calling for the deposition of the caliph and the abolition of the caliphate.

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—The sponsoring by the Turkish government of the bill calling for the abolition of the caliphate and the suppression of religious instruction in Turkey, has been the cause of much speculation on the part of British officials regarding what will be the effect of these drastic measures in India and other Mohammedan countries.

The British have been unalterably opposed to doing away with the caliphate because the spiritual jurisdiction of the caliph extended, nominally, at least, over Great Britain's seventy million Moslem subjects in India.

With a view to maintaining quietude among this vast multitude, the British government, it became known today, will let Turkey severely alone during the radical transitions which the country is experiencing.

Judging from the past, however, observers here expressed the belief to-day that it would be too much to expect that Great Britain will escape severe criticism for whatever happens to Allah's earthly representative.

The Indian agitators, among whom the Moslems, under the leadership of the All brothers, are most aggressively radical, will, it is thought by the observers, seize upon every development in Turkey as an additional grievance against British rule in India.

With former Sultan Mohammed VII in exile and Abdul Medjid Effendi, the caliph, deposed, a new religious head for the Moslem world will, it is thought, be sought ultimately outside Turkey. The British government is said to be aware that King Hussein of the Hedjaz, who controls the sacred city of Mecca, desires to set himself up as caliph, of all the muslimans; but in competent quarters it was said today that it is unlikely for political and other reasons that Hussein will be selected.

Some persons favor the reinstatement of former Sultan Mohammed in power; but it is said to be generally felt that his age and his feeble physical condition disqualify him.

Mohammed Still Living. Mohammed is living in retirement in Switzerland with a young son and a small remnant of his harem. The answer of Afghanistan also has offered himself as a candidate for caliph, but, like Hussein, he is held, for political reasons, to be ineligible.

Every Moslem country feels it has a claim to the Ottoman throne, established more than 600 years ago by the house of Osman. But until something approaching unanimity on the question can be obtained from the various Mohammedan countries it is believed the British government will take no steps toward advising the nomination of a successor to the deposed caliph.

FLEET REACHES EASTERN PORT

Eleven U. S. Ships of Pacific Line Drop Anchor in Hudson for 10-Day Stay.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—For the next ten days New York will play host to a formidable division of Uncle Sam's marine police force—eleven ships of line, comprising the major part of the Pacific fleet. The ships dropped anchor in the Hudson river today after their winter maneuvers in southern waters.

Welcoming salutes were omitted by the forts on Governor's island because, it was explained, the fleet has on board so many admirals and vice admirals that the courtesy would have resembled a battle at sea.

Thousands lined the harbor shore at the Battery as the warships, led by the flagship Seattle, carrying Rear Admiral Conz, steamed in column formation to their anchorage off Riverside Drive.

While the vessels are here, the officers and men will be accorded the heartiest welcome the city can provide. Nearly one-half of the complement, of 15,000 men will have shore leave daily. A number of official and unofficial entertainments have been planned.

March 13 the ships will sail for Cuba where further maneuvers are scheduled to begin on March 18.

EXPERT STUDIES CODE MESSAGES SENT BY McLEAN

Senate Oil Investigating Committee Will Get Translations of Secret Communications for Use in Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, March 3—Official translation of the code messages found in the McLean telegram will be presented to the senate oil committee tomorrow by W. F. Friedman, cipher expert of the army signal corps.

Mr. Friedman, who assisted in decoding of a number of enemy messages during the war, has been at work on the telegrams for several days. Since he began his study Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, dominant figure in the pressing of the oil investigation, has obtained and turned over to him an old code of the department of justice, which was used in at least some of the messages.

Will Call Woman. After Mr. Friedman has presented his translations, the committee will call Mrs. Mary Duckstein, an operative of the justice department, for questioning concerning the cipher message she sent to her husband, W. O. Duckstein, one of McLean's confidential agents at Palm Beach. The message, said William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, had sent for Mrs. Duckstein and told her to say that "McLean investigation" was under way by agents of the bureau and that he regarded the information as important.

Burns to Take Stand. Burns will be placed on the stand after the questioning of Mrs. Duckstein is concluded. He will be asked not only about the "Mary" message, but also as to reports that the publisher of the Washington Post is in the role of special agents of his bureau at a salary of $1 a month and how employees of McLean came into possession of a copy of a code once used by the bureau of investigation.

It was learned today that in the batch of telegrams furnished to the committee last Saturday by the Western Union Telegraph company, is one sent by E. L. Doherty at Washington from Los Angeles. This message is in code and was received here on last January 29, the day the California oil magnate returned to Washington to deliver to the committee a mutilated copy of the note which he claimed was evidence of his unpaid loan of $100,000 to Albert H. Fall.

Suspect New Code. This message is signed "J. A. Y." and has been turned over to Mr. Friedman for translation. Examination of it led committee members to the conclusion that it was in a different code from that used in the McLean messages. After Burns has examined the committee will continue the questioning of McLean's employees as to the telegrams and the efforts made to keep the publisher off the witness stand after he had informed the committee that he loaned Fall $100,000.

Sarcenet Produced Sarcenet. The survivors of the Spanish Sarcenet were beaten back across the Mediterranean by Ferdinand and Isabella, but they left the sarcenet industry behind them. Their racial designation remained firmly fixed as a trademark to the cloth. The Sarcenet rule was a wondrous civilization, says the Detroit News. Among the articles of luxury they produced was the kind of thin silk cloth which the French manufacturers quickly adopted. From France the Huguenot weavers took the process of sarcenet making to England.

HIS firm sent him to see the E. & G. people to close a big order. The cost was considerable, but his firm decided to slip it over on competitors and get a man-to-man contact that would close the business.

When he was ushered into the buyer's office, that gentleman was just finishing a telephone conversation. He turned from the phone and said:

"Sorry, Mr. Hanes, you're just too late. That was the president of Blank and Company I was talking to. I've closed with him."

A dollar and fifty cent telephone call by the president secured the business over a very costly salesman's trip.

READY TO BEGIN DAUGHERTY CASE

Tentative Plans Are Arranged by Special Committee for Extensive Investigation.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Tentative plans for beginning the investigation of Attorney General Daugherty and the department of justice were made by the special senate committee today, but Chairman Brookhart said the actual hearing of witnesses probably would be delayed until next week.

The committee appointed Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of the investigation resolution, a subcommittee of one to determine the first subject of inquiry and when the hearings should open.

The committee meeting was today's only development. There was no discussion of the attorney general in the senate.

At the White House, it was said no communication had been received from Mr. Daugherty, although news dispatches from Miami had quoted him as expecting to send some messages to the president during the day.

The extent of participation by the attorney general in the inquiry was determined at today's meeting, the committee and will be communicated tomorrow in a letter from Chairman Brookhart to Mr. Daugherty's counsel, Paul Howard and former Senator Chamberlain of Oregon. Some of their requests as to procedure will be denied and others granted.

"FORTY AND EIGHT" TO HOLD CEREMONIAL HERE

Installation of Twin Falls Vulture and Reception of New Members Will Bring Assemblage of War Vets.

Installation in Twin Falls next Wednesday of a vulture of La Societe 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, an organization of American Legion members popularly known as the "Forty and Eight," is expected to bring here no less than 75 members and candidates for membership representing a dozen towns of this region. About 15 candidates are to be initiated into membership on this occasion, it is announced.

The festivities will begin in the afternoon with a street parade, followed by a banquet at the Rogerson hotel and an evening meeting.

Headquarters of the organization in this region is to be established in Twin Falls with the installation of the vulture here, in accordance with decision reached at a recent meeting of members held recently in Jerome.

The society takes its name from the inscription put upon boxes on French railroads during the world war to indicate that each car so marked should accommodate 40 men and eight horses.

POULTRYMEN OF COUNTY KEEN FOR ORGANIZATION

R. E. Brossard, Agricultural Agent, Tells Kiwanis Club Egg Producers Enthusiastic Over Marketing Agency

Poultrymen of Twin Falls county are exceedingly enthusiastic with organization of a county unit of the Southeast Idaho branch of the Idaho Oregon Egg Producers' association, through which it is believed eggs will be marketed to advantage to the producers with consequent stimulus to the industry in this region. R. E. Brossard, county agricultural agent, told members of the Kiwanis club at a regular luncheon meeting Monday at the Rogerson hotel. Mr. Brossard was introduced by H. J. Youngs, chairman of a special committee for the club.

I. H. Masters, who returned late last week from several weeks' trip to California, spoke briefly on his observations there, and mentioned meeting C. N. Beatty, who is now engaged in the real estate business there, and Harold Beatty, who has devised a method for increasing the number of orange trees that may be planted on a given area.

VOICES CORDIAL PRAISE OF IDAHO'S UNIVERSITY

Dr. F. F. McAttee, Returning From Beside of Son Stricken on Campus, Says Institution Does Great Work.

Dr. F. F. McAttee, who returned Monday from Moscow where he spent some ten days as a result of the serious illness of his son Frayne, reports the latter out of danger and now making good progress towards recovery notwithstanding the fact that for four days following an operation for appendicitis his life was despaired of. A few days ago the patient was sufficiently recovered to permit of his removal from the hospital to the university infirmary and his complete recovery is now regarded as merely a matter of time.

Dr. McAttee speaks in the highest terms of the University of Idaho and the conditions which he found there and declares that if these Idaho men with sons of university age could spend a few days in Moscow and watch the operation of the school for a time there would be fewer Idaho lads attending out of state schools.

"The thing which impressed me most," said Dr. McAttee yesterday, "was the spirit of the institution. From the president clear down through the faculty to the youngest first-year man, fellowship in the best sense of the word finds its highest expression. The entire atmosphere is one of cheeriness, yet there is no lack of discipline, no indication of slackness in any line. The whole plant is apparently manned and inhabited by a group of men and women drawn together for a common purpose and determined to take full advantage of the opportunity. The whole town seems to partake of the same spirit and the many contacts offered me by the faculty and the business men of Moscow during my visit will certainly be long remembered."

"The University of Idaho is, I believe, one of the best schools in the country, while in certain of its courses, forestry for instance, it ranks among the very first. Idaho people have a right to be proud of their university, the only pity being that many of them are not familiar with the splendid work which the school is really doing."

remark that "the senator certainly does not want to leave the idea that any administration would capitalize the miseries of the farmers," and Senator Fletcher replied he had "merely suggested that in passing."

Senator Johnson, farmer-labor, Minnesota, said the "chambers of commerce were too strong for the farmers who tried to carry out their co-operative organizations" when the Florida senator suggested this was the logical solution of their difficulties.

Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, also took exception to the arguments advanced by Senator Fletcher. The credit facilities requested, he said, were actually provided "in a large measure from the farmers' deposits."

DISCUSS FORM OF BILL FOR SOLDIER BONUS

The necessary government payments systematically over a period of years and thus might eliminate the opposition President Coolidge has expressed toward bonus legislation. They also declared the immediate need for economic aid had passed in most instances and that former service men would best be taken care of by the insurance policies and the government at the same time could best dispose of its "obligation thereby."

Poll Is Outed

Mr. Taylor said a recent poll of 10,784 members of the American Legion had shown that about 66 per cent, or 7292, had indicated they would prefer the insurance option; 30 per cent or 3233, the farm or home aid, and four per cent or 419, vocational training. The latter two options are carried in the bill vetoed by President Harding and re-introduced in substance by Representative McKee, republican, Illinois. Eleven per cent of those who favored the insurance policy provision, Mr. Taylor stated, they would take advantage of the borrowing privilege.

Osborne will be sentenced tomorrow morning. The extreme penalty for battery is a fine of $250 or six months in jail, or both, the judge said.

MARY PICKFORD IN "ROSITA"

FILM COMPANY'S JUST WHILE ON LOCATION

An interesting comparison may be drawn between traveling theatrical companies and motion picture companies, when a photography production unit is compelled to leave the studio and go on "location."

The average dramatic company on the road totals a personnel of about 15 persons, including actors, stage hands, managers, etc., and a musical extravaganza company of proportions carries a total of about 60. A motion picture company, on the other hand, often totals hundreds.

During the filming of Mary Pickford's production, "Rosita," a United Artists' release, now at the Idaho theatre, it was necessary for the company to travel to San Diego to film exteriors. While only four of the principals—Irène Rich, Holbrook Blinn, Charles Belcher and Miss Pickford—were concerned in the scenes to be taken, a staff of 42 persons were necessary in the making of these exteriors, which meant that 46 people traveled to San Diego.

This constitutes an enormous expense, as the expenses of the entire company are fully paid, while away from the studio, which is not the rule with theatrical companies, the manager must only allow railroad transportation to be paid to the personnel at their attractions.

NOTED FILM STAR MOURNS PASSING OF FIRE HORSE

One of the things that greatly touched Alice Calhoun, Vitaphone star, during the making of "The Midnight Alarm," a special which will be exhibited at the Orpheum theatre today, was the passing of the fire horse. Only one horse company was available in Los Angeles at the making of the fire scenes for the picture and this company was to be replaced by automobiles within a few days after completion of the film.

"Replacement of the fire horse," commented Miss Calhoun, "will take much of the romance which was hitherto attached to fire fighting away."

The great faithfulness of the animal and the love of the firemen for them has for the past century been the outstanding gladiator of that service. It is regrettable that progress has sent the fire horse into disarray.

NEW LIGHT ON POWER COSTS

Local Attorney Offers Explanation of Effect of New Schedule on Consumers' Bills

Electricity for lighting purposes will be somewhat less as will cooking rates in this section under the new schedule of rates, a copy of which has been received by Attorney E. M. Sweeley, who conducted the case of Southern Idaho Light and Power Users' association before the Idaho Public utilities commission which closed last week with the adoption of the new schedule.

The rate for cooking will also be somewhat lower, according to Mr. Sweeley, while that for water heating will be higher, as will the rate current for power purposes, although, under contract, this increase will be small. The minimum rate for water heating will be $3.50 a month as against $2 under the old rate. Current for air heating purposes under the new rates after the close of the present season, also moves upward.

"It is impossible to determine the exact effect of the new rate schedules adopted by the public utilities commission," said Mr. Sweeley Monday. "The reason for this is found in the situation the commission had to deal with. The power companies out of which the Idaho Power company was formed in 1916 had each put into effect their own rates. As a result, when these were continued by the Idaho Power company, rates for the same class and kind of service were quite different in the different districts. The commission felt that this condition should be changed, and rates for the same kind of service made uniform.

No Increase in Irrigation.
"The leveling to accomplish this standardization will, in a general way, cause a slight reduction in lighting costs to the larger customers in the eastern districts, including Twin Falls. Cooking costs will be slightly less. Municipal lighting costs will remain the same. Irrigation costs will remain the same. Other power costs will be either less or more, depending upon the kind of service, and the amount, and upon some changes which will be made in the method of use, at his advantage. Water heating costs will be sharply increased after the next two months, the minimum being set at $3.50 per month, with the service on a meter basis at 6 cents per kWh. This will mean that the customer will have to cut his service off for an average of more than four hours per day to stay within the minimum where he has a heater of one kilowatt capacity.

"There will be no discount for prompt payment. Instead, a penalty is provided of ten per cent where payment is not made on or before ten days from the date of the bill.

Air Heating Higher.
"Air heating costs will remain the same for the rest of this season. Some increase is provided for the next season, the cost then will be for six months' service the same as is charged for seven months' service now.

"It ought to be generally understood that the rates as now set will doubtless require adjustment. The commission has provided for a report to be made by the power company each month so that it can be advised of results. It should also be favored by reports from customers, so that adjustments when made may be equitable. The task of finding and fixing the proper level of rates for each class of electrical service is a very difficult one for the commission, and it is entitled to and should have the help and co-operation of every customer.

"The new schedule will be available at the offices of the power company in printed form within a short time. The customers should inform themselves in detail of the provisions affecting their services in which they are interested, and should carefully compare the bills they will receive with those they have been receiving for the service."

Club Girls Stage Interesting Plays

Dramatic Offering Builds Summer Camp Fund and Success Encourages New Endeavors

A representative audience witnessed the two one-act plays given Monday evening by the Blue Triangle club to swell the camp fund for the girls who will attend the summer camp at Payette lakes.

The first play, "Her First Assignment," was a particularly clever little comedy in which the lead was taken by Mary Newman in an ingenious role calling for rather difficult acting. Martha Farrar in the part of a society matron was also well cast as was Ayleen Booth in her part of an impressionist who appeared at the wrong time for the comfort of the heroine.

The leads were well supported by the rest of the cast and Miss Jane Hall who took the part of Jacinth Carlyle on three hours notice today when it was discovered that Lolita Stephen, originally cast for the part, was ill, is deserving of special mention of the manner in which she adapted herself to the part upon such notice. The stage settings and arrangements were also an attractive part of the scheme which carried the play, they were largely due to the work of James Deany and Ellsworth McRoberts who aided the girls in the capacity of managers for the production.

The second play was another one-act sketch somewhat shorter than the first in which the foibles of two old ladies figured to the delight of the audience. These two comic parts were difficult and well handled by Rosa Duke and Marjorie Knefel, aided by Margaret Seilley and Mary Virginia Hart.

Both plays were presented under direction of Mrs. H. C. Reynolds.

The cast for the first play follows:

Mrs. Alice Gordon Sterling..... Martha Farrar Wilburta Gordon..... Mary Newman
Mrs. Craig Winter..... Marjorie Knefel
Mrs. Harrison Fallinboe..... Lola Lee

Ayleen Booth
Mrs. Rosemary Stevens..... Norma Leas
Frances Kidder..... Jane Hall
Jacinth Carlyle..... Edna White
Madge Hastings..... Audrie Brannin
Mary Stoddard..... Marjorie Wiles
Jessie, the maid..... Beth Bowen

The high school orchestra furnished music for the occasion and Miss Jerome Krivanek entertained the audience with two vocal solos: "In the Garden of My Heart," and "Up There."

The proceeds of the play will be used by the Blue Triangle club to expand sending 10 delegates from the local high school to the girls' reserve summer camp at Payette lakes this summer. The local club sent 10 delegates last year at a cost of $250 and an attempt is being made by the organization to send as large a delegation this year. The proceeds of this and possibly another play to be given before school is out will be used for this purpose.

THE UNCONQUERABLE ROBBER

It is impossible to read the story of a certain young criminal in Washington, without a certain feeling of admiration, in spite of his reprehensible behavior.

A colored youth was found robbing
a drug store early in the morning.
When two policemen closed in on him, he started talking to an imaginary companion, thereby causing the officers to draw back and call for help. When their reinforcements arrived, they gassed the robber, but he still showed fight. Then they shot him and when that failed to subdue him, they knocked him senseless with a blackjack.

After they had shoved the helpless prisoner into a patrol wagon and seen him safely started for the hospital,
they turned back to capture the
"other fellow." Whereupon the prisoner in the wagon slipped out,
caught a passing taxi and disappeared.

That young man is wasting his talents. His resourcefulness and courage deserve a better fate than a jail cell, if he could only be brought to see the error of his ways. What a soldier he would have made! Or an Indian fighter in pioneer days.

And the world still has plenty of tasks,
pioneering, exploring and otherwise,
that would make of such a lad a hero
instead of a felon, if he were only started right.

OFFICIAL CITIZENSHIP

With state primaries coming on pace and with a national election looming only eight months ahead, it is perhaps timely to remind citizens
of their obligations.

In one community which has recently had its first registration for approaching primaries, it was found that, although registration was somewhat heavier than usual, there were still about 20,000 eligible citizens who failed to register. Comparatively few of that number could plead excuse from the city or disability, which are the only legitimate excuses for not participating in public elections.

A local paper, commenting on the situation in that community, says that the one who fails to register and vote "has not even made himself an official citizen by placing his name on the public roster. In the sense of real citizenship he does not belong.
He is an outsider. He might as well live in the most obscure corner of the world."

No one has a right to pride himself on his United States citizenship or to complain about the way he is treated at the hands of incompetent officials, who have done nothing more than to be born an American. Citizenship has to be practiced and lived,
to be genuine.

CONSERVATION

It will be unfortunate if the wide-spreading scandal connected with the naval oil leases should be allowed to obscure the main issue. Scandal alone is not important, save as it calls attention to important things. Punishment of guilty persons is not of final importance. The important thing underlying all this mess, and brought in to prominence by it, is the old question of conserving the nation's public resources.

That question was regarded as settled after Theodore Roosevelt had awakened the country to the need of conservation. Yet there came the Ballinger episode, only a little later,
to show the need of eternal vigilance.
Then a few more years of comparative safety for the public domain seem to have given the public and the government a notion that conservation

THE ONE GOOD SPARROW

By DADDY

Jack and Janet took a way to get rid of the sparrows they have caught in the barn. Jack suggests that they sell the sparrows.

CHAPTER II

Sparrows for Sale.
JANET and Judge Old agreed with Jack that it would be a fine thing to sell the English sparrows they had caught in the barn.

Jack made a cage by nailing a screen
over one end of a large box. He cut a hole in the screen for a door. The next thing was to get the sparrows
out of the traps into the cage.
Jack knew that if he lifted the traps
the sparrows would rush out and fly away. Indeed, he could hear the sparrows planning that very thing as they chattered among themselves.

"Jack is building a cage," chattered Pussy Sparrow. "If he tries to get us into it, let us fly away. We will fool him."

So Jack made up his mind to fool
the sparrows instead of letting them fool him. He got an old blanket and fastened one end to the screen just over the cage. Then he took the other end of the blanket over one of the traps.
It covered the trap like a tent, and made the inside all dark.

Then Jack lifted the side of the trap next to the door. The sparrows, seeing the light inside the cage, thought they had a chance to escape. They rushed out of the dark trap and through the door of the cage.

"Cheer, cheer! We are free," cried Pussy Sparrow. But he quickly found he had been fooled. He had just gone from one trap into another.

While the sparrows from the first
trap were flying around in the cage, trying to find a way out, Jack moved
the cage over to another trap, covering it with the blanket. He lifted the side of the cage, the sparrows within saw the light and rushed out, to find themselves prisoners in the cage.

"The same thing was done with all six traps. Every sparrow in them was fooled into flying toward the light."

was assured forever. The sudden discovery recently of the alienation of some of the most essential public resources has been now and pungent proof that public property has to be safeguarded even more zealously than private property.

After the oil leases, there should be a new lease of life for conservation.
It should apply not only to petroleum
but to forests, coal, waterpower and all other vital possessions of the nation.

This does not mean shutting the door against all private acquisition and exploitation of natural resources. There must be more or less of that, right along. It merely means the application to public conservation of principles of honesty and thrift already laid down by far-sighted custodians of the public domain and acquiesced in by responsible and patriotic private interests.

THE HONEST MOTORIST

An Ohio motorist has attracted attention by writing to the city hall explaining that he smashed a sign post, in an unavoidable skill, and telling the public service director, to send him a bill at once if there are any damages to pay.

The incident becomes notable from the rarity of such actions. The average motorist would not only have ignored the damage to the sign post but would have wanted to sue the city for having a slippery street and having a post in the way when he skidded. The service director's secretary, realizing this weakness of motorists, marked the letter
"Referred to Mr. Diogenes."

Yet why should it be so exceptional? A little more consideration on the part of motorists for public property, public rights and public rules
would be a strategic policy, benefiting nobody more than the motorist himself.

Guarding Our Animals

The vigilance of the United States Department of Agriculture was impressed upon Thomas A. Fife, of Mishawaka, Ind., when two deer shipped to him from Canada were recently held up in Detroit by a United States game warden. The warden is now in the lack of a certificate from a Canadian official veterinarian. Government regulations covering such shipment require that the animals be accompanied by a certificate stating that the area
from which they come is free from contagious diseases and has been so for a period of 60 days immediately preceding the importation. The certificate must be signed by a veterinarian of the Canadian government.

Terms of Endearment

It's too bad that so many women are slaves to the habit of terms of endearment which convey neither meaning nor sense.

"I want a bird!"

which simply meant that they did want Jack wanted them to do—just change
from the trap to the cage.

When the sparrows all were in the cage Jack closed and fastened the door and put the cage on a sled. Then he and Janet set out to sell them.

"Birds for sale!" cried Jack, as he and Janet drew the sled through the village. "Who wants to buy a bird?"

A woman came to the door of her home.

"I want a bird," she called out.

"Are they fine singing canaries?"

"At that the sparrows in the cage set up a loud hubbub.

"Cheer! Cheer! Canaries, indeed!
We are finer singers than canaries," they babbled. And they really thought they were finer singers than canaries,
which only show what vain, impudent sparrows they were.

But the woman heard their racket
and threw up her hands in disgust.
"Sparrows!" she shouted. "Who ever heard of anyone buying snags, untidy sparrows! Take them away!"

And the woman slammed the door as she flounced into the house.

(How Jack and Janet make one queer sale will be told in the next chapter.)

Breakfast Food

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife plays cards as though she were playing chess.

In fact, when she gets to figuring out a really hard hand she's made a chess tournament look like a basketball game.

"It always takes her a little longer
than anyone else to arrange her cards.
And then she has to stop to think—
and hesitate—and change her mind before she decides what to bid.

But she doesn't really strike her belabored stride until she begins to play her hand. Then the other people at the table get to wishing that they'd brought along a good book.

"I hope you all won't mind if I think back a moment," she says and goes into a trance that looks as though it might be permanent.

Talk about slow motion picture!
She's a good player, there's no doubt about that. The only trouble is that she does too much playing in one spot.

South African Women

Wear Smart Millinery

An interesting word picture of millinery modes in South Africa is given in a bulletin of the Royal Millinery Association of America by Miss Ann Adams. Among other things, she tells of the use of ostrich feathers by "smart" women there, some of these plumes running nearly a yard in length.
"Milliners in Cape Town and Kimberley," she writes, "are not content with writing. They also take the greatest possible pains to suit the features of their clientele, and build the hats accordingly. No one seems to wear a home-made hat, as there is no attempt to instruct the amateur to make her own cap. The result is that the great multitude of an afternoon gathering is surprisingly smart."

"Shapes are identical under the shadow of Table Mountain with those worn in New York, but they seem more lightly wired and of a softer buckram.
Just now, in the height of their summer, very light colors are worn. These are usually faced with dark silk, or even velvet, which serves to give a little shade in the glaring sunshine.

"The South Africans believe in supporting home industries, so that really magnificent ostrich plumes, at least 3-4 inches long, adorn the more 'dressy' hats. They circle the crown completely and drop down the right side. Each feuc and tip of these plumes must be perfect and the long blades sewed or arranged by a master hand. No apprentice can manage them. With specially designed hats nothing can achieve more battery than the plumes, which is so popular. Horsehair or very light-weight straw is the material of their foundation."

The husband and father of the two ladies had reached the fort only an hour or so ahead of the mounted party and preparations were being made for an expedition to cut off the retreat of the Indians. He was known to most of his friends in America only as Col.
Benjamin Hare—a royal commissioner who had come to the colonies to inspect and report upon the defenses of his majesty. He wore the uniform of a colonel of the King's guard. There is an old letter of John Irons which says that he was a splendid figure of a man, tall and well proportioned and about forty, with dark eyes, his hair
and mustache just beginning to show gray.

"I shall not try here to measure my gratitude," he said to Mr. Irons. "I will tell you tomorrow."

"You owe me nothing," Irons answered. "The rescue of your wife and daughter is due to the resourceful and famous scout—Solomon Binkus."

"Dear old rough-hunked hickory
man!" the colonel exclaimed. "I hope to see him soon."

He went at once with his wife and daughter to the fort. That evening he satisfied himself as to the character and standing of John Irons, learning that he was a patriot of large influence and considerable means.

The latter family and that of Peter Bones were well quartered in tents
with a half of the Twenty-ninth regiment at Fort Stanwix. Next morning
Jack went to breakfast with Colonel Hare and his wife and daughter in their rooms, after which the colonel invited the boy to take a walk with him
out to the little settlement of Mill River. Jack, being a general, was rather shy, declaring himself and the colonel presently remarked:

"You and my daughter seem to have got well acquainted."

"Yes, sir; but not as well as I could wish," Jack answered. "Our journey ended too soon. I love your daughter, and I hope she will let me tell her
and ask her to be my wife sometime."

"You are both too young," said the colonel. "Besides you have known each other not quite three days and I have known you not as many hours. We are deeply grateful to you, but it is better for you and for her that this matter should not be hurried. After a year has passed, if you think you still care to see each other, I will ask you to come to England. I think you are a fine, manly, brave chap, but really you will admit that I have a right to know you better before my daughter marries."

Jack freely admitted that the request was well founded, albeit he declared, frankly, that he would like to be acquainted with as soon as possible.

"I must take the first ship back to England," said the colonel. "You and your daughter are a matter of this kind there should be no haste. If your affection is real, it will be none
the worse for a little keeping."

Solomon Binkus and Peter and Israel and John Bones and some settlers
north of Horse valley arrived next day with the captured Indians, who, under the young man's escort, were sent on to the Great Father at Johnson castle.

Colonel Hare was astonished that neither Solomon Binkus nor John Irons nor his son would accept any gift
for the great service they had done
him.

"I owe you more than I can ever
pay," he said to the faithful Binkus.
"Nothing would not be good enough for your reward."

Solomon stepped close to the great
man and said in a low tone:
"Then young 'uns has grooved kind o' loveless an' I wouldn't wonder. I can't say only one thing. Don't make no mistake about this 'ere boy. In the bush he have a way o' pickin' out men ye can't do no more. So don't make no mistake about him. He ain't no humblebuck now. I calculate there ain't no better, man-thinner, nowhere—
sir, not nowhere in this world—call it king or lord or duke or any name ye like. So, sir, if ye feel like doin' him 'ere for me—which I don't expect it, when I done what I did—I'll say he good to the boy. You'd never have to be 'shamed o' him."

"He's a likely lad," said Colonel Hare. "And I am rather impressed by your words, although they present a view that is new to me. We shall be returning to my home in a few days
and will presently forget each other, but if not, and he becomes a good man—
as good a man as his father—let us say—and she should wish to marry him, I would gladly put her hand in

At Fort Stanwix, John Irons sold his farm and house and stock to Peter Bones and decided to move his family to Albany, where he could educate his children. Both he and his wife had grown weary of the loneliness of the back country, and the peril from which they had been delivered was a deciding factor. So it happened that the Irons family and Solomon went to Albany by bateau with the Hares. It was a delightful trip in good autumn weather, in which Colonel Hare has acknowledged that both he and his wife acquired a deep respect "for these sneaky, wise, upright Americans, some of whom are as well learned, I should say, as most men you would meet in London."

CHAPTER II

Sowing the Dragon's Teeth.

That winter the Irons family and Solomon Binkus went often to the meetings of the Sons of Liberty. One purpose of this organization was to educate people to manufacture their own necessities and thus avoid buying the products of Great Britain. Factories were busy making looms and spinning wheels; skilled men and women taught the arts of spinning, weaving and tailoring. The slogan
"Home made or nothing," traveled far and wide.

Late in February Jack Irons and Solomon Binkus went east as delegates to a large meeting of the Sons of Liberty in Springfield. They traveled on

THEY TRAVELED ON SNOW-SHOES

snowshoes, and by stage, finding the bitterness of the people growing more intense as they proceeded. They found many women using thorns instead of pins and knitting one pair of stockings with the ravelings of another. They were also dressing up their silk gowns and spinning the finest into gloves with cotton. All this was to avoid buying goods sent over from Great Britain.

The meeting over, Jack and Solomon went on by stage to Boston for a look at the big city.

They arrived there on the fifth of March a little after dark. The moon was shining. A snow flurry had whitened the streets. The air was still and cold. They had their suppers at the Ship and Anchor. While they were eating they heard that a company of British soldiers who were encamped near the Presbyterian meeting-house had beaten their drums on Sunday so that no worshiper could hear the praying.

"And the worst of it is we are compelled to furnish them food and quarters while they insult and annoy us," said a minister who sat at the table.
After supper Jack and Solomon went out for a walk. They heard violent talk among people gathered at the street corners. They soon overtook a noisy crowd of boys and young men carrying clubs. In front of Murray's barracks, where the Twenty-ninth regiment was quartered, there was a chut-tering crowd of men and boys. Some of them were brooding and cursing at two sentinels. The streets were lighted by oil lamps and by candles in the windows of the houses.

In Cornhill they came upon a larger and more violent assemblage of the same kind. They made their way through it and saw beyond a captain,
a corporal and six private soldiers
standing face to face with the crowd.
Men were jeering at them; boys burning abusive epithets. The boys, as they are apt to do, reflected, with some exaggeration, the passions of their elders. It was a crowd of rough fellows—mostly wharfmen and sailors.

Solomon sensed the danger in the situation. He and Jack went out to the jeering mob. Then suddenly a thing happened which may have saved one or both their lives. The captain drew his sword and flashed a dark light
upon Solomon and called out:

"Hollo, Binkus! What the—do you want?"

"Preston?" Solomon asked.

"Preston! Cat's blood and runpo-der! What's the matter?"

Preston, an old comrade of Solomon,
said to him:

"Go around to headquarters and tell them we are out off by a mob and in a bad way. Tell them to be careful. I don't want to get hurt or do any hurting."

Jack and Solomon passed through the guard and hurried on. Then there were hisses and cries of "Torries! Rotten Torries!" As the two went on they heard missiles falling behind them
and among the soldiers.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT SCORES UP; CORN VALUES DECLINE

Talk of Advance in Tariff and of Export Finance Plan Have Bullish Effect; Provisions Vary.

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—Wheat scored a moderate uptick in price today chiefly owing to talk about an advance in the wheat tariff and of farm products from this country to Germany and Austria. The closing quotations were unsettled 1-4 to 1-2 to 1-2 1/2 higher, May $1.11 1/2 to 1.11 5/8, and July $1.11 3/8 to 1.11 3/4 to 1-2. Corn showed 3-8 to 5-8 to 3-4 to 1-2, with 1-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions varying from two cents decline to an equal gain.

Attention to reports that immediate action by the president increasing the import duty on wheat and flour was likely gave the wheat market an upward tendency at the start and continued to act as a bullish influence throughout the day. There was no noticeable absence of selling pressure except on decided bulges in price. Such selling was assumed to be of a profit taking character and was largely offset by broadening out of new purchases for commission houses. Part of this new buying appeared to be the result from incorrect reports that the house and senate agricultural committees had approved a proposal to return to foreign claimants $150,000,000 on condition that the money be used to buy foodstuffs and other commodities in the United States.

Liberal receipts of corn had a bearish effect on values of corn and notwithstanding predictions that the movement of corn would be greatly curtailed before the end of this week, a large increase of the visible supply of corn led to considerable selling. On the declines, however, the demand for corn became active and general.

Higher quotations on hogs upheld the provision market.

COUNCIL CALLS FOR TIGHTENING OF QUARANTINE

Municipal Administration Requests County Authorities to Investigate Health Conditions Here.

Dissatisfaction with enforcement here of measures for safeguarding public health, expressed by Commissioner S. S. Allen at a regular meeting of Twin Falls municipal commission Monday evening led to the adoption by the commission of a resolution requesting the county commissioners to investigate health conditions in Twin Falls with a view to enforcing more stringent quarantine regulations in cases of contagious diseases.

Commissioner Allen, who at a previous meeting of the commission, had voiced criticism of the manner in which county authorities dealt with the measles epidemic, told the municipal commission Monday evening that the nearest fever had appeared recently in Twin Falls and that the heaviest quarantine enforcement was inadequate.

Adoption of the resolution addressed to the county commissioners was voted on motion of Commissioner W. T. Leslie, following brief discussion.

For Change in Garbage Handling

Disposition of at least some of the members of the commission to change the manner of garbage disposal was indicated in statements Monday evening of Commissioner Allen who suggested that the commission consider re-establishment of the municipal garbage hauling plant at the beginning of the next fiscal year, and of Commissioner J. S. Keel, who declared his opinion that something in this regard should be done and that the present method, which was adopted by the former administration, in "costing the people too much, than they had to pay when garbage was hauled at the city's expense."

Blue Lakes boulevard, between Fifth and Seventh avenues east, will be gravelled as a result of favorable action taken by the municipal commission Monday evening upon a petition presented by W. J. Minick asking that the city grade this portion of the thoroughfare and furnish gravel for intersections, the balance of the gravel required being furnished by abutting property owners whose names appeared on the petition.

Action on this petition was in conformity with a policy adopted by the commission of co-operating in this manner in graveling streets to the extent that municipal funds for this purpose were available.

Traffic Rules Bring Revenue.

The commission at its meeting Monday evening received the monthly reports of the city treasurer and of the chief of police.

Out of a total of 48 arrests made during the month of February, 25 reports of the police, 27 involved violation of traffic ordinances, five in the amount of $494 were imposed during the month by the police magistrate. Seven meals were served in the city jail. Five automobiles were reported stolen and an equal number was recovered. Fifteen bicycles were reported stolen and 14 were recovered. The commission authorized issuance of warrants in payment of claims in the sum of $45,593.52, including approximately $38,000 on account of retirement of local improvement district bonds and bond interest payment.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH CALLS NEW MINISTER TO PULPIT

Rev. O. D. Harris of Milton, Oregon, Chosen as Successor to Dr. W. W. Burks Completing Three Years Work.

Selection of the Rev. O. D. Harris, of Milton, Oregon, to be minister of the First Christian church here, succeeding Dr. W. W. Burks, whose resignation effective April 1 was submitted to the church board two months ago, was announced Sunday. Mr. Harris, who has not previously visited Twin Falls, will take up the work here to which Mr. Burks devoted the past three years following his call to the local pulpit from Beatrice, Nebraska.

Dr. and Mrs. Burks expect to spend the summer with their son Joe, on their fruit farm at Walla Walla, Washington, where they made their home for seven years before Dr. Burks accepted the call to the Nebraska church and expect to spend next winter either in California or on the Atlantic coast in the hope of benefiting Dr. Burks' health.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Fiery Cross Display Defeated by Rancher

No Claimants for Timbers Bolted Together and Swathed in Oil-Soaked Wrapping.

What may have been designed to serve as a "fiery cross," comprising crossed 2x4-inch timbers swathed in oil-soaked burlap, is now in the possession of L. R. Arrington, who discovered it just as it was burning in flames about 8 o'clock at the edge of a plum orchard on an acreage tract just inside Twin Falls municipal boundaries and across the road from the northwest corner of the highway district quarry site Saturday night.

Police officers who were summoned by Mr. Arrington found footprints of five or six men but no other clue to the identity of the owners of the property. The structure stood about 30 feet high and the cross bar was about 12 feet in length. It was bolted to a 2x6-inch timber which served as its base. It was located so that if it had been permitted to burn the blaze would have been plainly visible from every point on Main avenue, the police said.

When he discovered the smoldering structure among his plum trees, Mr. Arrington proceeded to loosen the guy wires which were fastened to trees and put out the blaze when it toppled to the ground. Mr. Arrington was not interrupted in his fire fighting operations, although it is believed that the person or persons who had applied the torch could not have been far distant.

The Rev. W. W. Burks, minister of the Christian church, who is said to be the only member of Ku Klux Klan hereabouts whose identity as a member has been made public, said Monday evening in response to inquiry that he knew nothing personally about the attempted firing of the structure south of town Saturday evening, but that regulations of the reorganized Ku Klux Klan provide for a display of a "fiery cross" on the first day of each month in every locality where there is a local organization.

GRENZ LEASE ON LIBERTY FORFEIT

Court Revokes Parole and Orders Sentence of Imprisonment Put Into Effect.

Parole under which Fred Grenz, Twin Falls, has been at liberty since last fall when he pleaded guilty to charge of burglarizing a chickenhouse and was sentenced to serve one to 15 years in the state prison, was revoked by Judge W. C. Babcock at the conclusion of a hearing in district court here Monday on the prosecuting attorney's application for such revocation.

Testifying at the hearing in his own behalf, Grenz denied any part in the theft of a set of harness to which Earl Watson previously had pleaded guilty, and in which Grenz was named as an accessory by the prosecuting attorney. Testimony of several other witnesses also was heard in Grenz' behalf.

H. D. Wall of Blackfoot, owner of the stolen harness, and Watson, who admitted stealing it and bringing it in company with Grenz, in Grenz' car to Twin Falls, were called as witnesses by the prosecuting attorney.

Shortly before the hearing in district court Judge D. P. Duvall in probate court pronounced judgment on a verdict returned Saturday by a jury finding Grenz guilty of larceny of this harness. Under this judgment Grenz was required to pay $100 fine and costs.

As a result of the revocation of his parole, the original sentence becomes effective and Grenz must serve from one to 15 years in the state prison.

AUDITOR TRACES MUTUALS FUNDS

Delves Into Financial Operations of Building and Loan in Embezzlement Case.

Funds of the Mutual Building and Loan association in the sum of $53,739.91 were credited to the accounts of K. S. Peters and Frank G. Lechleiter during the period they served as manager and secretary, respectively, of the association from January, 1920, to November, 1923, according to evidence introduced at the preliminary examination in probate court here Monday afternoon. Re-direct examination of Edwin A. Wilson, accountant and principal witness for the prosecution, had not been completed by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor when the evening recess was taken. The first witness called by the prosecution was James S. Hall, acting secretary of the association, who identified Lechleiter and other books offered in evidence.

The examination, which Homer C. Mills, of defense counsel had stated would occupy three or four days, was begun Monday afternoon. Re-direct examination of Edwin A. Wilson, accountant and principal witness for the prosecution, had not been completed by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor when the evening recess was taken. The first witness called by the prosecution was James S. Hall, acting secretary of the association, who identified Lechleiter and other books offered in evidence.

Defense Attorney in Hospital.

Cross examination of the prosecution's witnesses was conducted Monday by Mr. Mills, attorney for Lechleiter, who appeared also as attorney for Peters, because of the inability of Roy L. Black, former Idaho attorney general, to attend. Mr. Black, it was announced is a patient in a hospital at Pocatello, following an operation for gall stones, which he underwent last Friday. Frank L. Stephan, former prosecuting attorney, is associated with Mr. Taylor in the prosecution of this case.

The amount with which Peters and Lechleiter were credited during the time they served as officials of the association was given in the testimony of Mr. Wilson who lately completed an audit of the association's books and on whose findings the embezzlement charge is based.

According to the association's books, Peters, Mr. Wilson said, received $37,040.15, and Lechleiter $2709.75, under their contract, which provided that they should receive $2 per share for all shares of the association's stock sold and 1 per cent of loans made by the association.

The books, Mr. Wilson said, showed at the time the audit was made that Peters and Lechleiter had received $18,442 more than they were entitled to under their contract. Of this amount Peters was said to have received $1843.51 and Lechleiter $13,598.17.

Indicates Defense Theory.

In direct examination of the accountant, Mr. Mills referred to this $18,442 as a "balance in favor of the association." The line of defense counsel's questioning seemed to indicate that Peters and Lechleiter would stand on their contract which was for 10 years' term; and that if at the time the audit was made, and they had received more than they had actually earned, it was a justifiable overdraw.

In reply to Mr. Mills' questions, Mr. Wilson said that the association's board of directors rarely authorized payment of bills that had not been approved previously either by Peters or Lechleiter, and that intervals of several months had elapsed between meetings of the board.
