G. O. P. Wants Action on Resolution for Income Rate Reduction; Opposition Develops; Bill Not Presented

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Endorsement by President Coolidge of the proposal to remove the provision for a 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes payable this year from the revenue bill and enact it in a joint resolution before March 15, when first installments are due, stirred up a new tax fight in the house.

Republican organization leaders indicated they would force action on the proposal, while opposition developed in the ranks of both parties.

Delay Feared

Democrats characterized the move as preliminary to a presidential veto of the revenue bill itself and many republicans expressed the fear that with this provision out of the bill it would be subject to delay in enactment.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, where the first action must be taken on the proposal, delayed presenting the resolution to the committee today and declared he had heard so much opposition he felt there was little hope of getting it through in time for the March 15 payments.

Advocates of the Mellon rates which were eliminated from the revenue bill by the house made known their intention, however, to force action, some frankly expressing hope that the reduction provision could be eliminated from the bill so that it would thus be left more open to veto.

Would Avoid Refunds

President Coolidge supported the argument of the treasury that such a provision would eliminate confusion resulting from refunds which would be necessary if the reduction were approved after the first installments have been paid.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee, which yesterday approved the first reduction proposal, got down to work on the revenue bill.

In order to permit further study of the income rate schedules, Chairman Smoot passed over these sections and took up the administrative features of the bill. Leaving for later consideration the house amendment to open tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees, the committee made no important changes in (Continued on Page 4, Col. 5.)

Strenuous Days Ahead for Two American Prelates Who Are to Be Elevated to Office of Cardinals

ROME, March 7 (AP)—Strenuous days lie ahead for Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein on their arrival in Rome for elevation to the cardinalate.

Numerous formalities are to be exchanged by the American prelates and the members of the sacred college, such as visits and receptions, prior to the secret consistory on March 24, when they will be elevated to the cardinalate, and the public consistory on March 27 when they will formally receive their red hats.

Then, after the last consistory, there is to be the ceremony of giving the new cardinals possession of their titular churches, which usually is an elaborate function attended by the prelates of the papal court, other high church dignitaries, the hundreds of Americans making up the American colony, and hordes of tourists who invade Rome on such occasions.

No hint has yet been made as to what churches are to be assigned to the cardinals. The announcement of these usually comes after the holding of the public consistory. Rome is preparing for a great influx of Americans for the coming ceremonies.

Son of General Subpoenaed by Senate Committee After Statement as to Proposal Submitted by Oil Men

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Leonard Wood, Jr., was subpoenaed by the senate oil committee tonight after publication of a statement in which he declared that certain oil interests had offered, for a consideration, to support his father, Major General Leonard Wood, for the republican presidential nomination in 1920.

According to the story told by Wood, the offer was made at the time of the deadlock in the Chicago convention, and was conditioned upon the appointment of the late Jake Hanson, then republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, to the post of secretary of the interior.

Others to Be Oiled.

Senator Walsh of Montana stated tonight that subpoenas also would be issued for Mrs. John W. Gorman, formerly Clara Smith Hanson, and Jake Hanson, Jr.

The subpoena for Wood's appearance before the committee is returnable Wednesday, March 12. Committee members indicated that his testimony might open up an entirely new field of inquiry.

Discussing here tonight the published statement in which he said he was told while attending the 1920 republican convention that the late Mr. Hanson had approached his father with an offer conditional on the former's appointment as secretary of the interior, Leonard Wood, Jr., said he had no knowledge of any details of the offer and may have involved all considerations.

FAIL TO ALTER
MCKENZIE BILL

Amendments to Measure on Behalf of Ford's Offer for Shoals Are Voted Down

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The house today voted down every effort to alter radically the McKenzie bill which would authorize acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muskegon Shoals.

Amendments were rejected by majorities so decisive that leaders generally predicted advocates of the Ford proposal not only would have the votes to pass the bill, probably tomorrow, but to maintain their outright defense against drastic changes in its provisions.

There is a probability that several important amendments will be adopted, but only those believed not to be distasteful to the Detroit manufacturer will be acceptable to supporters of the bill.

Among the amendments discarded today was one offered by Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, which proposed to limit Ford's lease to 50 years, and to place him under the jurisdiction of the federal water power act. This was rejected, 182 to 104. Democrats, who lined up solidly against it, had the support of about 40 republicans.

Another amendment thrown out, offered by Representative Williamson, republican, South Dakota, would have materially increased the amount of money Ford would be required to pay for Muskegon Shoals.

While there are indications that a number of amendments will be offered tomorrow those in charge of the McKenzie measure are determined to vote to a vote before the house adjourns for the week-end.

EXPECT RATIFICATION OF LIQUOR TREATY BY ENGLAND

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Ratification of the Anglo-American liquor treaty by the British parliament is expected any day by American officials here who have been keeping in close touch with the run-running question.

As soon as the budget is disposed of the liquor pact will be placed before the house of commons and no serious opposition to its passage is anticipated.

Premier MacDonald is wholeheartedly behind the proposed treaty.

HOUSE NOT UPSET BY LATEST LIQUOR STORY

Fall to Get Excited About Rumor Connecting Congressman with Bootlegger

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Although a bit upset over rumors reflecting on this and that member of congress, the house declined today to become excited over a story linking an unnamed representative with a bootlegger.

Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, demanded an investigation of the arrest, near the capital, of a man who was quoted as having told a policeman he was headed for the house office building to deliver a congressman the jug of liquor he was carrying.

Blanton declared such a story reflected on the entire membership of the house. When he added that he did not believe a single member of the house would buy liquor from a bootlegger, there was a roar of laughter.

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—An increase of 12 cents a bushel in the tariff rate on wheat was ordered today by President Coolidge.

Acting under the flexible provision of the tariff act and on the basis of the tariff commission's recent inquiry the president at the same time ordered an increase of 26 cents a hundred pounds in the duty on wheat flour and a decrease of 50 per cent in the ad valorem rate on mill feeds.

The new rate on wheat will be 42 (Continued on Page 4, Col. 6.)

House Waits in Vain for Justice Department to Reveal Names of Congressmen Under Suspicion of Improper Acts

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The house waited in vain today for information from the department of justice as to the identity of the two representatives charged in a Chicago grand jury's report with improper use of influence.

No reply to the resolution, adopted yesterday, directing the attorney-general to disclose the names, was received and there was no indication as to when it would be forthcoming.

Although declaring he had no official information that he was one of the men involved, Representative Langley, republican, of the Tenth Kentucky district, declared on the house floor that he knew reports were in circulation that he was one of the accused. Publication of his name in newspapers prompted him, he said, to speak without waiting for the department of justice reports. He declared unequivocally that he was guilty of no wrongdoing.

Several times during his brief speech, the Kentuckian, who is chairman of the public buildings committee, was applauded by his colleagues who rose to cheer him as he left the floor.

At the time Representative Zihlman, republican, Maryland, who also was mentioned in newspaper accounts as being one of the men referred to in the Chicago report, was not on the floor.

Mr. Zihlman declined to comment on the situation, other than to reiterate that he knew nothing of charges, but could prove his innocence if any were preferred. He is chairman of the labor committee.

In the event the names are furnished the house by the department of justice, leaders were understood today as to what course would be pursued.

Test Accomplished at Wright Field Sets Precedent; Keep Control by Instruments

DAYTON, O., March 7 (AP)—For the first time in history airships were guided from one point to another by means of radio. This was accomplished at Wright field yesterday when Captain W. H. Murphy, McCook field, and Lieutenant R. E. Hubbard of the post lighter than air section piloted the blimp OMA in a straight course by means of radio signals, it became known today.

The device was so arranged that if the balloon went higher than predetermined a dot-and-dash was caught in the receiving instrument. If it fell below its course, the signal was reversed.

Going straight just a dash was recorded.

CASE AGAINST
JUSTICE CHIEF
BECOMES CALM

Storm Expected on Return of Daugherty to Washington Fails to Break But Ominous Rumblings Are Heard

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The storm which had been expected to attend the return to the capital today of Attorney General Daugherty failed to break and outwardly tonight there was a dead calm in the controversy over his retention in the cabinet.

Underneath the calm, however, there were rumblings which were accentuated by further steps by the senate committee which expects early next week to begin its investigation of Mr. Daugherty's administration of the department of justice. The committee issued subpoenas to half a dozen witnesses, but in accordance with the policy previously decided upon, did not disclose the line of testimony expected from those who were called.

Daugherty Silent.

Mr. Daugherty was silent; the White House was silent and his critics in the senate produced no fresh attack to mark his return.

Arriving in the capital about half an hour before the Friday cabinet meeting, Mr. Daugherty went directly to the White House. All present at the cabinet meeting afterward agreed the controversy raging about the attorney general was not mentioned. He spent the remainder of the day studying precedents to determine whether the department of justice could legally meet the request of the house for the names of the two representatives charged by a Chicago grand jury with misuse of their influence.

Met by Agents.

The attorney general was met at the station by secret service agents of the department of justice and his only word to waiting newspaper men was that he was feeling better than he had in five years. He appeared in better health than when he left Washington suddenly and without warning a week ago Wednesday, and after the cabinet meeting, displayed little of the nervousness that had marked his last attendance at a cabinet session.

Many were the questions directed at the attorney general on leaving the cabinet meeting, but he made a direct reply only to one which was an inquiry as to whether any change had occurred so far as he knew in his cabinet status.

"That is a question I hardly can answer," was the answer. "I don't know whether the situation in Washington has undergone any change while I have been away."

Change Expected.

All evidence continued to point to a change, but no outward moves were made during the day to support a feeling held by many of those in high official positions that Mr. Daugherty's stay (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1.)

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A new form of soldier bonus with paid-up life insurance as a principal provision was decided upon today by the house ways and means committee. Challenges Deputy to Engage in Duel

Launay's Remarks Ire Poincaré; Seconds Named But Reconsideration Prevents an Actual Engagement

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—Premier Poincaré today challenged Deputy de Launay to a duel because of remarks made by the deputy in the chamber of deputies. The seconds of the two men met later and decided that the remarks did not reflect on the honor of the premier and that, therefore, a duel was not justified. The belief was expressed by the seconds that the principals would accept their conclusions.

During the debate the premier understood M. de Launay to shout up at him, "You take up as your own such a felony!" when the premier referred to a story told in the chamber during Friday's heated session by Paul de Casagrande. The four seconds met immediately after the chamber adjourned and examined the stenographic record, which quoted M. de Launay as having said:

"You are wrong to take such notice of a felony; the joke has lasted long enough."

The seconds regarded this stenographer's notes as giving authentic version of the remarks of the deputy. They agreed that they did not constitute an insult, and that, therefore, a duel was not justified. They then suggested their decision to M. Poincaré and M. de Launay.

LINK DAUGHERTY WITH EFFORT TO PROTECT McLEAN

Washington Editor Testifies Attorney-General Assured Him That He Was "Attending to Things"

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Testimony directly linking Attorney-General Daugherty with the effort to prevent the recalling of Edward B. McLean to the witness stand was given today before the oil committee.

Ira E. Bennett, an editorial writer on the Washington Post, testified that the attorney-general had told him on the day McLean was summoned to Washington to tell the publisher "not to worry." Mr. Daugherty was quoted as saying that he was "attending to things."

Bennett also told the committee that Senator Curtis, Kansas, the assistant republican senator from Kansas, the man mentioned as the "principal" in one of the telegrams sent to McLean at Tulsa Beach.

Later Senator Curtis issued a statement, however, contradicting several points in that story and declaring he had not communicated with McLean agents which would make it possible for the mto refer to him as the "principal" or in any other way than in his own name.

Tomorrow the Kansas senator will take the witness stand to make his denial under oath. Bennett then will be recalled and asked for a further explanation.

Coolidge Not Involved

In his testimony today the witness insisted that the reference to the "principal" did not relate to President Coolidge as suggested by some democratic senators and it was announced at the White House that Mr. Coolidge did not recall any conference with Bennett since the oil issue became acute.

Throughout a long cross-examination repeated efforts were made to link up the "principal" with the White House where Bennett said he had attended a conference between the president and newspaper correspondents just before the message was sent.

The witness made varied explanations of other features of his direct testimony but he insisted to the end that the "principal" was Senator Curtis.

Conferences Not Secret

Bennett himself declared there was nothing to be concealed about his conferences with Senator Curtis and that there was no reason why the senator's name should not have been used in the message. He did not say that the Kansas senator had asked him to convey any message to McLean other than personal greetings.

Much of the questioning of Bennett the only witness of the day—revolved around a code message which he said he had directed be sent to McLean on February 14, a few hours before the formal subpoena for the publisher was issued by the committee. This message, decoded, said:

"Saw Wygo for nearly an hour. His direct message to you is: 'I am at WYGO elbow and standing at the guns. All that is possible to do will be done by us so you should worry delay selection prosecutor. Give WYHOL my love. I don't want WYHOL to be disturbed so long as I am on the job. You know what to depend upon. The fight is on me and I am ready for them and feeling fine.'"

(Signed) "COUNT."

Identifying himself as the "Count," Bennett first said that as nearly as he could remember his intent was to refer to Wilton J. Lambert, of counsel for McLean. He explained that the publisher had sent him a message to find out if Lambert was diligently and ably watching his affairs.

PRACTICAL BAKERS TO ATTEMPT TO MAKE BETTER BREAD

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—Bread is to be made more appetizing under plans of baking experts from all parts of the United States who will meet here for a three-day conference beginning March 17, under the auspices of the American Institute of Baking. It will be the first conference of its kind. Despite the fact that the bread of today is superior to that of a few years ago, statistics of the Wheat Council of the United States show that the per capita consumption of wheat annually is only 4.22 bushels now as compared with 5.06 bushels before the war.

More than 200 men who have actual charge of the production of bread in commercial baking plants will attend.

IRISH IN SCOTLAND INCREASE

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Within 50 years the working class population in industrial Scotland will be predominantly Irish if present conditions continue, said the Rev. Duncan Cameron at a meeting of the Society for Constructive Birth Control and Racial Progress recently.

At the present time, he said, there are between 600,000 and 700,000 Irish people in the industrial belt of Scotland, while the native population shows a tendency to decrease.

Former Miner Cares for King's Robes.

J. E. Davis

With the coming of the first labor ministry in Great Britain, many unique situations have arisen. One of the strangest is the appointment of John E. Davis, for 25 years an iron-ore miner, and now an official in the Ironfounders' Society, to be vice-chamberlain to the king. His duties consist of looking after the state robes, licensing plays, looking after the king's trumpeters and watching the king's messengers and sergeants-at-arms.

SCHOOLS NEED PARENTS' AID

Faculty Member Says Close Cooperation Is Necessary; Suggestions Helpful.

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—If the school is to accomplish anything more than the transmission of technical knowledge from one generation to another, the existing attitude of indifference toward the child's education must give way to the realization that the visit of the parent to the school is an opportunity, Mrs. Edith E. Bristol, dean of girls at Sordian high school, St. Louis, told members of the National Association of Deans of Women, in convention here recently.

"Educators alone cannot direct the mind of the child in the proper channels, technically and socially," Mrs. Bristol said. "We must realize that preoccupation with school affairs tend to keep us from envisaging the community which we serve. Our teaching of single subjects endangers the main object of education, rearing well informed and useful citizens to carry on the world's affairs. If we can see the futility of too much faith in our single handed methods, we shall make use of the criticisms expressed by parents, to build up a better mutual understanding and to encourage democratic participation in community life."

In discussing the duties of parents and teachers in relations to schools, Mrs. Bristol urged more visits by parents and an active interest in school life, both educationally and socially.

"The teachers need the suggestions furnished by the parents as much as the parents need them to give the child a technical education. The dean can be the connecting link between the teacher and the parent and on her depends the success of the school. To bring fruitful relations between the school and community, which result in raising the standards of civilization among the younger generation, is one of the many problems confronting educators."

"We have lost sight of the fact that without close co-operation between the school and community, the parent and the teacher, the best results cannot be obtained in advancing civilization."

"If a frequent interchange of opinions could take place between the schools and the community through participation on the part of students in a democratic management of school affairs and through a similar organization of parents and teachers, we should not be laboring under misunderstanding."

PREDICTS EXPANSION IN SOUTHERN STATES

Babson Believes Great Development Is in Store for South Central Area; New Orleans to Lead in Exports

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 7 (Special to The News)—The south will enjoy a tremendous development and expansion during the next 20 years, according to Roger W. Babson, statistician, who today issued the fifth section of his report on business and financial prospects which includes the findings of his recent tour of investigation. The immediate outlook for the states comprising the west central group of the south, however, are about average with that of the balance of the country, as indicated by Mr. Babson's statistics on the current outlook.

"The four principal products of this section," says the statistician, "are cotton, lumber, petroleum and cattle. It so happens that these are diversified to such an extent that they are almost never depressed at the same time. This season, for instance, producers of cotton have been very successful and have received high prices for a good average crop. The lumber business has been fairly prosperous and Louisiana leading in this field receives more income from lumber than from crops. The building boom has, of course, contributed and the tendency to move from congested city districts to suburbs, as made possible by the automobile, will stimulate residential building for years to come. Cotton and lumber than have prospered this year."

The petroleum industry, in which Oklahoma holds such a prominent place, however, has been considerably depressed due to over-production of southern California oil. Prices have fallen below operating costs and the oil section of the south has suffered. The fourth industry, the raising of cattle, has also been handicapped by the low prices offered for beef. This industry has not recovered from the sudden slump it suffered at the close of the year. Chickens, hogs, sheep and other small livestock are setting back onto a paying basis, but the cattle raiser is still suffering from a poor market. Eventually, of course, this situation will right itself and the cattle raisers of the southwest will again prosper."

Reforestation Work

Mr. Babson, in a further discussion of the lumber industry, describes the reforestation work being carried on in the vicinity of Bogalusa, Louisiana, by the Great Southern Lumber company. Here the pulp wood industry is being operated, not on the temporary basis of exploiting national resources, but on the permanent basis of growing pulp wood as other crops are grown.

"An examination of the failure statistics," continued Mr. Babson, "shows how these changes in sources of income effect conditions and general business in these states. In Texas there has been a decrease of 50 per cent in the number of failures compared with last year. Arkansas has enjoyed a decrease of 36 per cent in failures; Louisiana has fared best of all with a decrease of 56 per cent; while Oklahoma with its depressed oil industry has suffered an increase of failures of 108 per cent."

Best Sales Area

"It is apparent from this survey that the cotton-growing sections and the lumber regions enjoying an increased purchasing power should prove the best section for any sales effort. The increase of around 25 per cent in income from cotton is practically all profit. The Arkansas cotton crop, for instance, shows a gain of 30 per cent in value over last year; the Texas crop a gain of 28 per cent in value, and the Oklahoma crop a gain of 20 per cent in value. If it were not for the decline in the oil industry Oklahoma would be in wonderful shape today.

"The larger cities of this section which serve diversified areas always offer a good market for retail merchandise. The chief cities of Texas, for instance, should enjoy retail business at least 10 per cent ahead of last year during the remainder of 1924. The Louisiana cities may be expected to do a value of about 5 per cent greater than that of a year ago; while Oklahoma may show about the same percentage of loss."

Seaports Suffer

"The seaports of this section have suffered through the sluggishness in foreign trade. Indications at present point to a revival in exports from these ports. Considering the natural facilities of New Orleans and Galveston, they must sooner or later become leading seaports in international trade. During the past years the bulk of their trade has been handled during the four fall months with almost no tonnage during spring and summer. In years to come I prophesy gradual flattening of this curve which will tend to give these interests steady occupation the year round.

Normal Activity

"This group of states as a whole is running just about parallel to the average activity of the country, as reflected on the Babsonhart now at 2 per cent below normal. For the next 20 years, however, I predict a remarkable development. Bankers, manufacturers and merchants, who expect to continue in business, should give more attention to this rapidly growing section of the United States. Considering its diversified sources of income and its many natural advantages these four states of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas are just beginning to come into their own."

"The time will come," concluded Mr. Babson, "when Texas will have the largest population of any state in the country and New Orleans will rank first in exports. Wise are the northern manufacturers and jobbers who now lay their plans with this future in view."

THE GUMPS—HE WHO FIGHTS AND RUNS AWAY—

FEEDERS' DAY OF INTEREST TO STOCKMEN

Annual Event to Be Held at Caldwell Next Tuesday; Tests Reveal Best Methods of Feeding Farm Animals

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, March 7 (Special to The News)—Feeder's day, held annually at the Caldwell sub-station of the Idaho agricultural experiment station, is set for March 11 this year, according to an announcement by Prof. C. W. Hickman, head of the animal husbandry department of the college of agriculture.

Each year on feeder's day results of a 60-day experimental feeding test of cattle and sheep are announced to scores of farmers and sheepmen who gather in Caldwell from a wide area to profit by the experiments. Feeder's day arrangements are in charge of E. F. Rinehart, field animal husbandman of the university extension division.

Big Program

Examination of the steers and lambs in the feed lots will form the program for the morning of feeder's day. The big speaking and lecture program will be held in the Caldwell commercial club rooms in the afternoon.

Each year a variety of feed combinations are tried on the livestock in an effort to determine the most economical method of fattening. For 60 days they are fed, and careful records kept of the results. This is the fourth year of the steer feeding and the fifth year of the lamb feeding experiments, and so far the results have been unusually satisfactory.

Fifty head of steers were divided into five lots of 10 steers each. Each steer in the first lot was fed a daily ration of cut alfalfa hay and 10 pounds of barley; each in the second, alfalfa hay and 10 pounds of barley; in the third, alfalfa hay and 10 pounds of corn; in the fourth, alfalfa hay and 25 pounds of corn silage; and in the fifth, alfalfa hay, 15 pounds of corn silage and 10 pounds of barley.

Test on Lamb Feeding

Five hundred head of lambs were divided into seven lots of 70 lambs apiece. Each lamb in the first lot was fed daily barley, alfalfa hay and one pound of corn silage; in the second lot, barley, alfalfa hay and two pounds of corn silage; in the third, corn and alfalfa hay; in the fourth, wheat, oats and alfalfa hay; in the fifth, barley and alfalfa hay; in the sixth, barley and cut alfalfa hay; and in the seventh, barley and alfalfa hay.

STEEL CORPORATION NOT IN FAVOR OF RATE CUT

Attorney for U. S. Steel Firm Attacks Testimony Given by Witnesses at Commission Hearing

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Counsel for the United States Steel corporation yesterday denied before the interstate commerce commission the testimony of previous witnesses that the corporation favored a reduction of rail freight rates to the Pacific in competition with water rates via the Panama canal.

C. S. Besterling, attorney for United States Steel, specifically attacked the testimony of Robert Hula, who appeared last Monday in behalf of the Chicago Association of Commerce and several iron and steel industries in the Chicago district and argued for the rail rate reduction.

With Mr. Hula were several other witnesses, all of whom declared they spoke for subsidiaries of the steel corporation in the Chicago territory, as well as for other "independent" manufacturers.

Mr. Besterling announced today he had been empowered to correct the record of the interstate commerce commission in that respect. The United States Steel corporation as a unit was opposed to the rail rate cut, he asserted.

Objects to Newspaper Jibes; Prosecution Says Defense Attacks Are Humiliating

MYNICH, March 7 (AP)—The trial of former Field Marshal Ludendorff and others in connection with the "putsch" of last year was adjourned yesterday when the chief prosecutor announced his retirement from the case owing to the methods adopted by counsel for the defense, who he asserted were humiliating him by their attacks.

Ludendorff's attorney, Herr Langebrunne, also objected to the way in which the foreign newspapers have been "poking fun" at Ludendorff by referring to the "putsch" as a "beer hall revolution." Langebrunne said Ludendorff always had acted in a dignified manner. "He had the interest of the fatherland at heart," said the lawyer, who added that his client did not act in a cowardly manner the night of the "putsch," as had been reported abroad.

RUPERT TAKES LEADING PLACE IN HOOP MEET

Northsiders Defeat Burley, 13 to 11, and Albion by 20 to 9 Score; Filer-Carey Game Is Close One

FRIDAY'S RESULTS AT DISTRICT TOURNAMENT

Morning Games.
Rupert 13, Burley 11.
Albion 27, Gooding 18.
Afternoon Games.
Carey 26, Hagerman 17.
Filer 19, Twin Falls 10.
Evening Games.
Rupert 20, Albion 9.
Burley 9, Gooding 3.
Filer 10, Carey 18.

ALBION, March 7.—(Special to The News).—Rupert led in the district basketball tournament Friday evening without a defeat and with three victories to her credit. Burley, Albion and Filer are the other teams still in the running. Filer players barely saving themselves in the most hectic game of the tournament Friday evening when they won from Carey in the last minutes of play by two free throws.

Hagerman and Twin Falls were eliminated in the afternoon session and in the evening games Gooding and Carey made their exit. Disagreement figured Friday evening on the schedule for Saturday's games which will decide the team to go to Moscow to compete for state honors. The schedule arranged for the Burley and Rupert viewpoint for Saturday morning would place Albion and Burley in the first game with the second game of the morning session between Rupert and Filer, and the winners playing in the evening.

Filer Determined. Filer's stand on the proposition, however, was decided. "We play Albion tomorrow or we don't play," was Coach Demman's statement Friday evening. Rupert is equally set on the schedule previously advanced.

The schedule for tomorrow will be two morning games between these four schools and the afternoon session in the evening for the district championship except in the case Rupert should lose. In such event Rupert would play the winner of the other morning game to decide which of the two teams should play in the evening. No definite arrangement was agreed upon late Friday evening, however.

Slow Games. Friday morning's games were slow at first with the winners going to Rupert in a defensive game against the usually fast Burley five who lost by a 13-11 score. Canine and Bateman, as usual, predominated for the red and gray, while MacCall scored the deciding points for Rupert.

The second game of the morning session between Albion and Gooding resulted in a triumph over the north ers by a 27-18 score. This game took the other extreme of the first game and both teams tried desperately for points.

The afternoon session opened with a battle which resulted in the elimination of the Hagerman five. Carey won this battle by a score of 26-17.

Twin Eliminated. The feature of the afternoon was the battle between Twin Falls and Filer, and resulted in the elimination of the blue and white squad. Jenkins, as usual, bore the full brunt of the attack for the blue and white, while Lapp, who for the most part of the season has been unable to evade the "Meteors" guarding basket, for 10 of the 15 counts made for Filer. The final score read 10-10.

The evening session opened with the undefeated Rupert and Albion team taking the floor. And once more Rupert came through without a defeat, trimming the Albion quintet by a decisive score of 20-9.

The second game was an elimination game between the Burley quintet and the Gooding five, each accredited with a single win. Burley came through with a victorious score of 2-6 in a defensive game.

Filer and Carey. Filer and Carey also battled to see which would remain in the going, the light Carey quintet sweeping the Filerites off their feet in the first half to the surprise of the large crowd by a 12-6 score at the end of the period. Coach Demman's wildcats came back strong in the second period, but still were unable to keep the white headed Carey forward from making sensational shots from the center of the floor. Near the end of the period the score was at last tied and a fourth foul finally disqualified Carey, one of the Carey stars, and on the free throw that followed Love gave Filer a one-

LOCAL BOWLERS TO MEET CRACK IDAHO FALLS TEAM

Eight Make Trip to Eastern Town; Return Game Will Be Played in Twin Falls Following Week

Everything is set for a snappy tournament at Idaho Falls tonight with Twin Falls bowlers ready to even up the count much against them in the recent telegraphic meet held with the eastern bowlers.

Two cars of the Twin Falls team members leave early this morning for the eastern town, those making the trip being Jack Trill, Bill Bailey, "Cah," "Toby," "Cah," "Cah," "Charlie," "Larson," "Bob," "Logan," "Mark," Murrough and Julien Roy. The meet will be held in the Colonial bowling alley with the Idaho Falls crack five, the two teams representing the leagues in the two towns. The Idaho Falls team has an imposing record, having defeated Salt Lake's crack team and they also have issued a challenge to the San Jose, California team, Pacific coast champions, who are playing exhibition games in their tour across the country to enter the national tourney.

Next Saturday the Idaho Falls men will come to Twin Falls for a return game.

FIRPO WALLOPS SPALLA ASLEEP

Italian Champion and South American Give Correct Imitation of Boxing Bout

BUENOS AIRES, March 7 (AP).—Luís Firpo tonight knocked out Erminio Spalla, the Italian heavyweight champion, in the fourth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout.

The European champion's hopes to meet Jack Dempsey were dashed when Firpo put over one of his famous rights to the jaw and laid him flat upon the canvas of the ring. Spalla put up a remarkably good fight against the Argentine. During the latter rounds, when Firpo was rushing, he successfully blocked many hard rights, any of which would have sent him down for the fatal count. The knockout was delivered when Spalla was against the ropes in his own corner.

TAYLOR WINS DECISION OVER FLYWEIGHT CHAMP

MILWAUKEE, March 7 (AP).—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., flyweight, won the newspapermen's decision over Pancho Villa, world's champion flyweight, in a 10-round contest here last night. The newspaper experts credited Taylor with eight of the 10 rounds.

ST. LOUIS TO BE HOST TO NATIONAL NET MEET

Fans at Home City of Dwight Davis Are Now Getting Ready to Entertain Tennis Experts Week of July 7

ST. LOUIS, March 7 (AP).—St. Louis, one of the most rapidly developing tennis centers in the country, will host this year for the first time to the national clay court championship tournament during the week of July 7. The tournament, held last year at Indianapolis, was awarded to the Missouri Valley Lawn Tennis association at the annual meeting of the United States L. T. A. in New York recently.

Municipal tennis has made unusual strides in St. Louis. It is the home of Dwight D. Davis, former president of the U. S. L. T. A., and one of the leading sponsors of the public park game, and was the scene last season of the first national municipal championship tournament.

The St. Louis district, with a 25-mile radius, includes a membership of 51 clubs and an approximate total of 43,000 racket wielders, of whom 31,715 played the game in the public parks during 1923. Eleven parks are equipped for the sport and represented in the Municipal Tennis association.

point head. Shinn repeated the act a few seconds later and the Filerites remained in the tournament. The game was fiercely contested throughout.

Four Teams Left. This leaves four teams still in the running with all eyes turned to Burley and Rupert as the final contestants for final honors. Albion at present is the "weak sister" of the tourney, staying in the going by virtue of drawing comparatively easy teams for opponents. Filer is also believed to have won little chance against either of the eastern teams of the district. The Burley-Rupert game Friday morning drew the largest crowd of the tournament, a mob which packed the gym to capacity.

LARSEN STICKS IN TOP PLACE

Drops One Point from Last Week's Standing; Laundry Leads Teams; Schedule Fixed

The bowling averages for the 18th week show a slight tendency to go down instead of up for the majority of the bowlers. Larsen still tops the list with 770 for an average, dropping one from his last week's standing.

An interesting note is the fact that but 11 of the bowlers of the league have not missed one of the 54 games played so far this year.

The team standing is where the big change occurred in the league during the past week. The Troy Laundry still heads the list in a tie with the Idaho Theatre, who have staged a remarkable rise in the past few weeks and forced the Times quintet into third place. The places have also tightened up, so that with the tournament down to the home stretch all of the teams are still in the running with the exception of the News and Golden Rule fives, who were definitely eliminated this week.

In the pin standing the Trojan Bowlers still lead with the Times second and the News quintet third, with the theatre men parking on their heels for third place.

The schedule for next week starts off with a bang with the following lineup:

Monday: Royal Bakery vs. Sugar Factory.
Tuesday: Idaho Theatre vs. Shoe Market.
Wednesday: News vs. Golden Rule.
Thursday: Troy Laundry vs. Times.

WOOD CALLED TO TELL OF OIL BRIBE OFFER

ests had made the offer, which I believe, had my father accepted, would have given him the expedition," Mr. Wood said. "I meant simply the personal interests of Mr. Hanson, who was of course, in a large way interested in oil. I was told that Mr. Hanson had approached my father with an offer during an adjournment of the convention after it reached a deadlock. I understood that it involved his appointment as interior secretary in case my father won the nomination and the election.

"I have no knowledge whatever that any oil considerations were involved in the offer, or that it was anything more than the personal act of Mr. Hanson alone.

"That my father turned down the offer, I do know. After he had done so reports were spread at the convention that General Wood had himself approached Mr. Hanson for delegate support, which the latter had refused. I recall distinctly that the reports made my father very angry.

"I regret exceedingly that so much publicity has been given to my statement about the matter but I was simply asked what I knew about it, and I told it.

"I have absolutely nothing to tell the senate oil committee about it which I have not already said."

INSURANCE IS BASIS OF NEW BONUS PLAN

trial approval. The old measure was vetoed by President Harding while President Coolidge also was declared against a soldier bonus.

Considerable support was given today to the motion of Representative Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, to make full cash payments an alternate option.

Work on Details

A plan advanced by Representative Bacharach, republican, New Jersey, will be used by a sub-committee in working out the definite form of the insurance provision. It provides for 20-year endowment policies to all veterans who served more than 90 days. By a vote of the full committee all veterans up to and including the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenants in the navy would be included in the benefits of the measure. This provision is the same as in the old bill.

Mr. Bacharach's plan would allow policies with values figured at $2.05 for each day of service. This would cost not more than $2,000,000,000, he said, with a maximum of $78,000,000 for any one of the 30 years.

Favor Old-Line Firms

Mr. Bacharach also said he would favor placing the administration of the scheme in the hands of old-line insurance firms. This, Mr. Bacharach argued, would relieve the government of further administrative costs.

Sub-committee hearings are planned at which insurance experts will be called. The final draft of the bill will then be written.

Representative Walsh, New York, and Andrew, Massachusetts, republicans, also have proposed insurance policy plans similar to that of Mr. Bacharach. Mr. Fish proposed a 20-year endowment plan with policies valued at $400 for each six months of service and $1,000 as a maximum.

Final action on the measure by the committee is not expected before the middle of next week.

REDS' MANAGER LOSES IN FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Pat Moran, Veteran of the Baseball World and Pilot of Cincinnati Team, Dies in Hospital in Florida

ORLANDO, Fla., March 7 (AP).—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, died in a hospital here at 6:07 o'clock tonight of acute nephritis, or Bright's disease. He died as he had lived—"playing the game"—stubbornly resisting heavy odds and fighting his last grim battle with the same determination he showed on the baseball diamond.

Hope for the manager's life was abandoned this morning and all efforts were directed toward keeping him alive until his family arrived. The end came peacefully. Jack Hendricks, life-long friend and assistant of the pilot, was also at the bedside, and Johnny Evers, who came here to be with his friend, left the man a short time before the end. According to attending physicians Moran's lungs gradually filled with poison, shutting off his breathing. His last words, addressed to Evers, were: "Hello, John, take me out of here." He then lost consciousness.

CINCINNATI, March 7 (AP).—Jack Hendricks succeeds Pat Moran as manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, it was announced here tonight following receipt of the news of the Red leader's death.

ORDER HIGHER RATE ON WHEAT TARIFF

cents per bushel as compared with the present rate of 50 cents; the new rate on flour will be $1.04 per hundred pounds as compared with 78 cents; the rate on mill feeds will be 7 1/2 per cent ad valorem as against 15 per cent.

Effective in 30 Days

The new rate as ordered by the president and set forth in a formal proclamation will become effective in 30 days.

The increases will become effective in time to be applied to the flood of Canadian wheat which descends on the United States about the middle of April each year with the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes. The advance in rates was sought to aid particularly the hard wheat growers of the northwest, but the resultant increase in the price of spring wheat is expected to be reflected in the market quotations on winter wheat raised in the middle western and other states.

Canada Chief Comptroller. The proclamation setting forth the new rates was accompanied by a White House statement saying that on the basis of the record of the tariff commission's investigation the president had found:

"That the principal competing country in the case of wheat, when flour and mill feeds is the Dominion of Canada.

"That in the case of wheat the difference in costs of production between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is 45 cents per bushel of 60 pounds.

"That in the case of flour, the difference in costs of production between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is $1.04 per 100 pounds. This consists of two elements, the one an amount designed to compensate the millers for the duty for which they must pay on wheat imported into the United States and the other to cover the difference in conversion costs in the two countries.

"The differences in costs of production of mill feeds between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is $0.003 per 100 pounds."

The increase in the rate on flour also applies to similar wheat products. The mill feeds classification includes bran, shorts and other by-products obtained in the milling of wheat.

MEANS AND TWO OTHERS NAMED IN INDICTMENT

Three Prominent Persons Cited by Federal Grand Jury for Attempt to Bribe Attorney-General for $65,000

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted three persons for obstructing justice and attempting for a price of $65,000, to bribe United States Attorney General Daugherty and other government prosecutors to protect men who since have been sentenced for using the mails in a fraud which netted $175,000.

Those indicted were Thomas B. Feltner, head of a well known law firm, president of the Georgia society, and defense counsel in several big bootleg liquor cases; Gaston Means, former agent of the department of justice, and Elmer Jarnecke, secretary to Means.

Means, Jarnecke and nine others were indicted last October for using the mails to defraud and engaging in a conspiracy through which 512 cases and 12,000 barrels of whiskey were removed from licensed distillers and diverted into bootleg channels. Feltner is Means' attorney in this case.

Charge $65,000 Graft.

Today's indictments charge the trio with having received $65,000 from officers of the Crager System, incorporated, and the Glass Casket company of Alton, Ill., of whom 17 since have been sentenced for obtaining $175,000 in an alleged fake stock promotion.

Those besides Attorney General Daugherty who have been charged are United States District Attorney Howard and his two assistants, John H. Clark, Jr., and Peter J. McCoy. The chief complaints against the indicted trio were Samuel Safir and others of the Crager System, and the Glass Casket company, who were sentenced to terms ranging from a year and one-half years in federal and county institutions. Safir has not been sent to prison and his conviction is under appeal.

Made Promises.

In addition to promising Safir and others immunity from prosecution, Feltner, Means and Jarnecke were charged with having promised to obtain from Attorney General Daugherty a letter stating that the stock brokers arrested was an error; to obtain for Safir et al. certain business records the government officials had seized; and to enable the brokers to continue selling stock through the mails without further molestation.

It is charged that Feltner, Means and Jarnecke represented to their alleged victims, that Feltner "had considerable influence and control" over the actions and conduct of the attorney general of the United States and his subordinates in the New York district; and that the defendants also conspired to report that Feltner was a secret partner in the practice of law with the attorney general, and that Means was an officer and employee of the government occupying a position of importance in the department of justice.

CASE AGAINST JUSTICE CHIEF BECOMES CALM

tlement may be expected soon.

The appearance of the agents investigating Daugherty went to Dave Oershon, San Diego, Cal.; Emil Kosterlitzky, Los Angeles; Forest C. Pondstone, New Orleans; Charles Brennan, Dallas, and William Wiseman and B. C. Baldwin, San Antonio. The notice to appear were sent at the request of Senator Wheeler, demagogue, Montana, the official prosecutor of the committee.

WHISKEY GIVING WAY TO MILK AS GLASGOW WORKMEN'S DRINK

GLASGOW, March 7 (AP)—Milk is taking the place of whiskey as a workmen's beverage to such an extent that Glasgow publicans are generally transferring to the milk business. The principal reason for the change is said to be the high price of whiskey, workmen being unable to afford 16 pence for a drink.

Some years ago publicans paid from $50,000 to $100,000 for the "good will" of a licensed house and now they find these values have fallen. Hence, small milk shops are being opened to take the place of the abandoned licensed places.

EPIDEMIC SPREADS

OAKLAND, Cal., March 7 (AP)—The foot and mouth epidemic in central California has leaped a 12-mile gap in lower Alameda county and has attacked a herd of 36 cattle on the Thompson and Alder ranch, one of the biggest holdings in the county. It is reported by the experts in charge of the campaign against the epidemic. Two cattle in the herd were found to be infected and were isolated. The number of infected herds was given as 67 today, and 9,458 animals were said to be either infected or in immediate danger of contracting the disease. Thirty-nine of the infected herds have been slaughtered.

Britten Probes Oil Scandal With Pertinent Questioning

Illinois Congressman Seeks to Clear Atmosphere and Bring Out Elemental Factors in Situation Seen as Menace to Confidence in Present Form of Government

With the avowed intention "to clear the atmosphere surrounding the oil scandals and bring out the really good side of the national calamity, which would surely destroy confidence in our present form of government," Representative Fred Britten, Illinois, has introduced in the house of representatives a resolution containing a series of 23 questions bearing upon elemental factors in the situation.

The hearings before the committee on naval affairs, Britten said, "have convinced me that both Secretary Daniels and Secretary Denby were headed in the same direction for the protection of navy oil; and the fact that Daniels and John Barton Payne, then secretary of the interior, leased without advertisement the drilling of new wells in the naval reserve is the best evidence that this was then considered to be the only method of conservation."

"To Clarify the Air."

The resolution was referred to the naval affairs committee and if adopted will be answered by Secretary Denby. The questions propounded were as follows:

"Is it a fact that the then secretary of the navy, the Hon. Joseph Daniels, sent similar letters to the chairman of the committee on naval affairs of the senate and of the house of representatives, dated respectively, March 29, 1920, and March 5, 1920, stating:

"(A) It therefore becomes imperative when viewed from an economic standpoint only that machinery be provided whereby wells may be drilled for protection against drainage from adjacent lands, or to supply oil for the government's need.

"(B) And that excess oil from protective wells may be sold at storage provided for excess oil if considered advisable.

Did Daniels Urge Measures?

"Is it a fact that the above referred to letters Secretary Daniels suggested legislation as follows:

"That the secretary of the navy is directed to take possession of all properties within the naval petroleum reserve as or may become vested in the United States; to conserve, develop, use and operate the same in his discretion, directly or by contract, lease or otherwise, and to use, store, exchange, refine, sell or otherwise dispose of the oil and gas products thereof, and those from all royalties oil for the benefit of the United States.

"Is it a fact that language practically as suggested by these two letters were enacted into law on June 4, 1920?

"Is it a fact that had it been the policy of Secretary Daniels at the time these letters were written to retain the oil in the naval petroleum reserves in the ground, no legislation of this character was necessary?

Did Payne Release Lands?

"Is it not a fact that Secretary Daniels approved the leasing without public advertisement by John Barton Payne, then secretary of the interior, and drilling of new wells on naval oil reserves?

"Is it a fact that it has been the practice for many years for one executive department to perform services for another executive department, and that this practice has been recognized by the congress in the act of May 29, 1920, providing that the funds of one department for which the services are performed may be placed subject to the requisition of the department performing the service?

"Is it a fact that at the time the administration and conservations of the naval oil reserves were transferred to the interior department that department had under lease or permit over 3,500,000 acres of public oil lands and has now under lease or permit over 17,500,000 acres of such land, while the total acreage of the naval oil reserves being operated is less than 52,000 acres?

Did Five Firms Offer Bids?

"Is it a fact that proposals from three companies were entertained for leasing the Teapot Dome reserve and that five companies were asked to bid on royalty oil from the California naval reserve?

"Is it a fact that the government received over $3,000,000 premium on its royalty oil from the Salt Creek district in 1923 as a result of the competition promoted by the leasing of Teapot Dome naval reserve?

"Is it a fact that under its contract for the leasing of Teapot Dome naval reserve the navy received for 1923 41 cents more per barrel for its royalty oil than the selling price of all other producers in that district?

Is There a Cash Profit?

FORMER ENVOY ROUSES BRITONS

Geddes Takes Stand for Prohibition in Address at Meeting of Anglo-American Society

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Sir Auckland Geddes, whom the pilgrims returned last night in honor of his return from Washington, kept his word when he gave upon departing from New York, that he would continue as official ambassador of the American people on this side of the Atlantic, by a remarkable speech, which for candor and frankness has rarely been surpassed at a meeting of the Anglo-American society.

The former British ambassador had barely started his reply to toast by Lord Desborough, John Robert Clynes and former Premier Baldwin, before he roused the distinguished gathering of King George's subjects by saying:

"I don't think the people of England recognize amid the mass of stories of violation of the prohibition laws of the United States how strong the feeling of the best minds of the best people of America is on the subject of prohibition. Given the American problem, given the American climate, I think that if I were an American I would be a prohibitionist."

"Fortunately I am not given the American climate," he added.

The former ambassador resumed in serious vein, however, saying that seldom had there been a more humiliating position for any British ambassador than to go week after week to see the secretary of state for the purpose of requesting "the release of this, that or the other despicable British or alleged British schooner engaged in handling stuff which anybody should have been ashamed of."

Sir Auckland continued for nearly an hour his efforts to dispel many of Britain's popular illusions of the people on the other side of the Atlantic.

SOCIETY

Edited by Mrs. E. B. Williams Telephone 306 Legion Auxiliary

In Session

The American Legion auxiliary met in regular session Thursday evening in the Business Women's club room.

After the transaction of business a delightful program was given, consisting of the following numbers: Piano solo by Miss Ella Peairs, a reading by Miss Cora Jensen, saxophone solo by Harry Puffer accompanied on the piano by Miss Peairs, and a vocal solo by Miss Cora Jensen.

Mrs. C. H. Kregel, Mrs. A. Dorman Johnson and Mrs. Sidney H. Graves were hostesses for the evening and served daily refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. H. W. Clouchek Is Hostess

Mrs. H. W. Clouchek was hostess to the drama and literature department of the Twentieth Century club on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. H. C. Reynolds gave the program. This was composed of a talk on "Max Reinhardt" and "Norman Bel Geddes," noted play writers, followed by a play, "Joint Owners in Spain," written by Alice Brown, and cleverly given by Mrs. Reynolds. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Entertains Wednesday Bridge Club

Mrs. R. R. Spafford entertained the Wednesday Bridge club Friday afternoon. Prize for high score was won by Mrs. L. C. Closs and consolation by Mrs. L. T. Wright. Twelve members were present.

Mrs. E. M. Wolfe Presides

The Catholic Women's League met Thursday afternoon in the Business Women's club room. The chairman, Mrs. E. M. Wolfe, presided over the meeting, which was confined to business of importance.

Mrs. Wolfe read a report of the Americanization work compiled by Miss Skelton, who expressed herself well pleased with the co-operation shown by the foreign students with their teachers and the results attained.

After a general discussion the meeting adjourned, the next regular session to be held in two weeks.

A PROBE FOR EVERYBODY

A prominent minister, while considering the immediate offenders in the scandals now being aired at Washington, tells the public some rather harsh truths. He is not greatly impressed with the superior virtues of citizens who are content to point a scornful finger at the culprit. It is the aggregate of virtuous citizens, he insists, who are really responsible.

"We are too busy making money to bother much about government. We are resentful of government interference, and we are content not to interfere in government ourselves, so that the high privilege and grave responsibility of guarding and guiding the lives of one hundred million people are left in the hands of professional polititicians as a rule, very ordinary people
who are in politics only for gain.

"We blame failure of democracy
upon the bosses and party machines.
We thus absolve ourselves. We forget that this is a democracy and that these men are in power as long as we permit them to remain. As long as we shall be content to seek abolition by pointing the finger of condemnation, we shall continue to be betrayed.

"When the gifted and competent among the people stand office and when the whole people is indifferent to all except the spectacular, then democracy
must fall in the hands of the exploiter and the marauder."

Here is a fine opportunity for every citizen to conduct a little inquiry of his own, summoning himself before the bar of his own conscience to see whether he has done his public duty.

THE DAVES PLAN

The report of the Daves committee
on German reparation debts accepted before it is submitted. Everything known regarding the plan seems to recommend it, not to one interested party or another, but to all.

Andre Tardieu, an able French publicist, predicts that the plan will be accepted because "the English are tired of unemployment, the French of financial difficulties, the Germans of multiform bankruptcy and the Americans of European anarchy." That is a keen view of the situation. The minor allied creditors may be expected to tag along with France, if she accepts.

America may be expected to back
her approval with a loan; but the impression grows that, if she does, in this case it will not be throwing good money after bad but an act comparable to buying fertilizer in order to raise
a good crop from soil now unproductive. In other words, it should make possible the payment of money due from Germany and her creditors which we are now unable to collect, and should promote profitable trade with all Europe.

SILVER FOR RUSSIA

The Russian cloud has a silver lining. Russia, in its efforts to get away from its worthless paper currency, is going on a silver barge and has started collecting silver rubles.

This means real progress for a nation
that was determined, a few years ago,
to "abolish all money." The Soviet government apparently, in its series
of forced compromises with capitalism,
has decided upon silver as only half way to a gold basis and therefore only half as evil. And inasmuch as silver has real though fluctuating value, there should be a steady flow of Russian finance now and new life in Russian industry and commerce as soon as enough silver is provided to make a suitable volume of currency.

Here is where America comes in.
Russia has some silver, but America has more. Silver was, a short time ago, a drug on the market. It started looking up when bullion was demanded

THE ONE GOOD SPARROW

By DADDY

Jack and Janet catch a flock of sparrows and get rid of them when a tramp steals them to make a sparrow pie. Only one sparrow has been spared—a sparrow the children have given to a pale little girl.

CHAPTER VI.

The Singing Sparrow.

AFTER the tramp had eaten the sparrow pie and gotten the stomach
ache because of his greediness, Jack
and Janet started for home.

"Those mad sparrows certainly came to a bad end," said Janet.

"All except the gentle-looking sparrow we gave to the pale little girl,"
said Jack.

Janet's face grew sober.

"I'm worried over that sparrow,"
said she.

"Why are you worried?" asked Jack.

"Because I am afraid the pale little girl will be disappointed," answered Janet. "I am sure she wanted a singing bird and we gave her just a chirping sparrow. Every one knows sparrows have poor voices."

Jack nodded his head. "That is so.
Perhaps we had better go to the home
of the pale little girl and take back
the sparrow."

Janet agreed that might be the best thing to do.

When they came to the cottage of
the pale little girl they heard laughing and sweet twittering inside. They looked at each other in surprise. The pale little girl came out another bird," whispered Janet. "Do you hear her laughing and the bird twitter-
ing?"

Yes, Jack could hear them plainly.

Jack knocked at the door. The little girl opened it. Her face was all smiles.

"Oh, here are the boy and girl who brought me my lovely bird," she cried. "I told you I would pay you in smiles and now I have more smiles than I ever have had because my bird has made me so happy."

Jack looked into the battered cage
where the little girl kept her bird.

Home.

There was the gentle-looking sparrow.
But it was a much different sparrow
from the forlorn bird that had sat by itself in a corner of the big sparrow
cage. Now it was a joyful sparrow,
with sparkling eyes and uplifted head.
And strange of all, it was not chirping loudly like most sparrows do—it was actually singing. Its song was tiny but glad.

"My gracious, how did you learn to sing?" cried Janet in astonishment.

"By listening to my heart," twittered the sparrow. "All my life I have wanted to sing like the canaries, and I have tried to imitate them. When the other sparrows were shrilling and scooting at each other, making their voices harsh, I kept silent, saving my voice for pleasant things. And now I am so happy with this pale little girl
that joyful song just bubbled out of my throat. I am sure that with her to cheer me, I'll become as pleasant a singer as any bird in the woods."

"I am sure you will too," said
Janet.

As Jack and Janet went home they talked the matter over.

"This just shows that one can be good even though one is a sparrow,"
said Jack.

"It proves that if one is good one
can make oneself and others happy,
even though one is a sparrow," added
Janet.

Which was very, very true.

Breakfast Food
"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife is beginning to say that she doesn't have a thing to wear this spring.

And, according to her, when summer comes—she'll be even worse off. Not a rag to her name.

I always expect this sort of propaganda about now. It's a publicity campaign that prepares the way
for a lot of big buying later.

To hear her say you might think that she didn't have two closets full of summer clothes that look just as new
as if they'd been bought yesterday.

But if I suggest that she might possibly get a little more wear out of some of the dresses that she simply had to get last year, she dismisses the matter by sniffling and saying:

"Those old things! You must want me to go around looking like something out of the family album!"

Along about the 1st of April the bills
will be fluttering in.

Tomorrow: "My husband hates
to be disturbed during office hours."

Fragrant Musk Plant
Is Losing Its Scent

Why has the fragrant musk lost its scent? This is the question which many English florists and gardeners
have been asking and wondering for 30 years. Formerly this little flower was among the most fragrant in the botanical records. It was originally found by David Douglas in 1826 growing on the banks of the Columbia river, and was exported to various parts of the world from there. When discovered it was sweetly scented. In 1837 the musk was hybridized in England, and although much larger flowers were produced by this artificial method of culture, the flower was often devoid of fragrance. One theory is that the loss of scent dates from this time.

Only in one instance has an odor
been recently ascribed to the English musk, and that was in 1917, when the earl of Waldegrave sent a few rare
specimens to the Royal Horticultural society in London. Although only seven years have elapsed since the earl made his report, the same plants,
unmolested and untransplanted, have already lost their scent.

In addition to the hybridization
theory of the loss of the musk's fragrance other ideas have been advanced to account for the discrepancy. One said that the human sense of smell is no longer so acute as formerly and cannot register the flower's odor. Another theory is that the leaves of the musk 50 years ago were very hairy,
but after transplantation in alien countries the hairs were lost and with them the scent.

The idea most endorsed by the English botanists, however, is that the essential oils, confining to the flower's
fragrance, have been lost in the process of acclimatization.

"I expected it," said Preston. "So I have waited here for your ship. It that mongrel chap on the Star who got a tarring from Binkus and his landlady. He saw Binkus on your deck,
and I did, and I knew it was his purpose.
So I am here to do what I can to help
you. I cannot forget that you two men saved my life. Are there any papers on your person which are likely to make him trouble?"

"No," said Jack, thinking of the letter lying safely in his own pocket.

"That's the important thing," Preston resumed. "Binkus is a famous scout who is known to be anti-British.
Such a man coming here is supposed to be carrying papers. Between ourselves, they would arrest him on any pretext. You leave this matter in my hands. If he has no papers he'll be coming on in a day or two."

"I'd like to go with you to find him," said Jack.

"Better not," Preston answered with a smile.

"Why?"

"Because I suspect you have the papers. They'll get you, too, if they learn you are his friend. Keep away from him. Sit quietly here in the inn until the post chaise starts for Canterbury. Don't let anyone pick a quarrel with you, and remember this is all in the confidence of friends."

"I thank you and my heart is in every word," said Jack as he pressed
the hand of the captain. "After all,
friendship is a thing above politics—
even the politics of these bitter days."

He sat down with a sense of relief
and spent the rest of the afternoon
reading the London papers, although he longed to go and look at the fortress of Deal Castle. He had to sit at five and wait on the mail carriage,
with his box and bag, an hour later.
The rain was rough and muddy, with deep holes in it. At one point the chaise rattled and bumped over a paved field. Before dark he saw a man hanging in a gibbet by the roadside. At ten o'clock they passed the huge gate of Canterbury and drew up at an inn called the King's Head. The landlord and two waiters attended for orders. He had some supper and went to bed. Awakened at 5 a. m. by the sound of a lullie, he arose and dressed hurriedly and found the post chaise waiting. They went on the King's road from Canterbury and a mile out into the country to a big white gate in the dim light of dawn.

A young man clapped his mouth to
the window and shouted:

"Sixpence, yer honor!"

It was a real turnpike and Jack stuck his head out of the window for a look at it. They stopped for breakfast and then the young man and went on through Sittingbourne, Faver-ham, Rochester and the lovely valley
of the River Medway, of which Jack had read.

At every stop it amused him to hear
the words "chaise an pair," flying forth to waiter and waiter to hostler and hostler in the wink of an eye.

Jack spent the night at the Rose in Dartford and went on next morning
over Gadshill and Shooter's Hill and Blackheath. Then the Thames and Greenwich and Deptford, from which he could see the crowds and domes and towers of the big city. A little past two o'clock he came to London
Bridge and was set down at the Spread Eagle, where he paid a shilling a mile
for his passage and ate his dinner.

Such, in those days, was the crossing and the trip up to London, as Jack describes it in his letters.

CHAPTER V

London and the Philosopher.

The air and prodigious reach of London had appalled the young man.
The thought thrilled him that somewhere in the great crowd, of which he was now a part, were the two human beings he had come over to see.

He put on his best clothes and with the letter which had been carefully
treasured—under his pillow at night
and planned to, his pocket lying through the day—set out in a cab for the lodgings of Doctor Franklin.

Through the maze of streets where people were "thick as the brush in the forests of Tryon county," he proceeded until after a journey of some thirty minutes, the cab stopped at the home
of the famous American on Bloomsbury square. Doctor Franklin was in and would see him presently, so the liveried servant informed the young man after his card had been taken to the doctor's office. He was shown into a reception room and asked to wait, where others were waiting. An hour passed and the day was growing dark when all the callers save Jack entered. Jack remembered the strong well-knit frame and kindly gray eyes
of the philosopher. His thick hair, hanging below his collar, was now white. He was very grand in a suit of black Manchester velvet with white silk stockings and bright silver buckles

on his shoes. There was a gentle dignity in his face when he took the boy's hand and said with a smile:

"You are so big, Jack. You have built six foot two inch man of that small man I knew in Albany and well dressed, too—great thighs, heavy
shoulders, a mustache, a noble brow,
and shall I say the eye of Mars? It's a wonder what time and meat and
bread and potatoes and air can accomplish. But perhaps industry and good reading have done some work on the job."

Jack blushed and answered: "It would be hard to fix the blame."

Franklin put his hand on the young man's shoulder and said:

"She is a lovely girl, Jack. You have excellent good taste. I congratulate you. She is a fine girl, with the background of good character and she is alive with the spirit of the New World. I have given her no chance to forget you if that had been possible.
Since I became the agent in England
of yourself and sundry American property, I have met her often, but never
without longing for the gift of youth.
How is my family?"

"They are well. I bring you letters."

"Come up to my office and we'll give an hour to the news."

When they were seated before the grate fire in the large, pleasant room
above stairs, where the doctor looked out upon the square, the young man
said:

"First I shall give you, sir, a letter
from Major Washington. It was entrusted to a friend of mine who came on the same ship with me. He was arrested in Deal, but, fortunately, the letter was in his pocket."

"Arrested? Why?"

"I think, sir, the charge was that he had helped to (in) and feathery a British subject."

"Penitents and far are poor arguments," the Doctor remarked as he broke the seal of the letter.

It was a long letter and Franklin
sat for near half an hour thoughtfully reading and rereading it. By and by he folded and put it into his pocket,
saying as he did so: "An angry man
cannot even trust himself."

"I sent some letters to America on condition
that they should be read by a committee of good men and returned to me
in absolute confidence and returned to me.
Certain members of that committee
had so much guile that they had been found that they had been seriously dissatisfied. The contents of these letters are now probably known
to you."

"Are they the Hutchinson, Rogers
and Oliver letters?"

"The same."

"I think they are known to every body in America that reads. We are induced that these letters were born and raised among us should have said that a colony ought not to enjoy all the liberties of a parent state and that we should be subjected to coercive measures. They had expressed no such opinion save in these private letters. It looked like a base effort to curry favor with the English government."

"Yes, they were overworking the curry comb," said Franklin. "I had been protesting against an armed force in Boston. The government declared that our own best people were in favor of it. I, knowing better, defied the government. To prove their claim, a distinguished baronet put the letters in my hands. He gave me leave to send them to America on condition that they should not be published. Of course, they proved nothing but the treachery of Hutchinson, Rogers and Oliver. Now I seem to be tarnished by the same stick."

Jack told him of his prospects and especially of the generosity of his friend Solomon Binkus and of the plight the latter was in.

"He must be a remarkable man,"
said Franklin. "With Preston's help
he will be set on his feet in London
day or so. If necessary you and I will go down there. We shall not neglect
him. Have you any dinner clothes?
They will be important to you."

"I thought, sir, that I should best wait until I had arrived here."

"You thought wisely. I shall introduce you to my friends. These will go to him at once and get one suit for dinner and perhaps two for the street.
It costs money to be a gentleman
here. It's a fine art. While you are in London you'll have to get the uniform
and fall in line and go through the evolutions or you will be a 'North American savage.' You shall meet Hares in my house as soon as your clothes are ready. Ask the tailor to hurry up. You must be finished by Wednesday noon. You had better have lodgings near me. I will attend to that for you."

The Doctor sat down and wrote on a piece of paper. "These will provide for cloth, linen, leather and hat,"
he said. "Let the bills be sent to me.
Then you'll not be cheated. Come in tomorrow at half after two."

Jack bade the Doctor good night
and drove to The Spread Eagle where,
before he went to bed, he wrote to his parents and a long letter to the Penny Press. He described his journey and his arrival subsequently as the facts are here recorded. Next morning he ordered every detail in his
"uniform" for morning and evening
wear and returning again to the inn
found Solomon waiting in the lobby.

"Here I be," said the scout and trapper.

"What happened to you?"

"Sarched an' shored me into a dark hole in the wall. Ye know, Jack,
with you an' me, it allus 'pears to be workin'."

Cruel Punishments of Pupils in Other Days

All the youngsters, whatever others
may do, will approve the dunnage of the school teacher who dished a six-year-old boy as a punishment, says
Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The "cruel and unusual," so to speak, has almost vanished from the public schools.

Dr. J. George Becht, our Pennsylvania state superintendent, can recall
when that was not the case.

The little gray schoolhouse—it rarely could afford to be painted red or any other color—was then heated by a big square stove which burned cord wood.

One mode of punishment was to make a boy stand upon a piece of wood
on the corner, which acted like balancing and soon became a torture.

That was less punishment, however,
than another often adopted. A boy or girl was made to hold a heavy book
with outstretched arm.

Try that and see how heavy even
the lightest-weight novel becomes in
time.

One form of school punishment has not changed.

It is a common practice in Philadelphia to "keep in" boys and girls
after school hours.

Wearing the "foolscap" or standing in the corner, which used to be used still occasionally used as a corrective measure.

Doctor Becht can also remember when it was not uncommon for a teacher to compel a boy to bend over
and keep his hands on the floor—a torture thought out by a real genius for a punishment.

At that time a man would attain a reputation for severity of discipline
which would make him famous, or rather infamous, over an entire county.

Method Devised to Detect Renewed Eggs

A new deception practiced on the consumers of eggs is now attracting considerable interest from the United States Department of Agriculture
which, by the authority of the food
and drug act, insists that the product of the hen when taken from the nest must be fresh and not merely look the part
if it is to enter into interstate commerce. Large quantities of eggs are now preserved by first dipping in hot oil to seal the pores in the shells and are then immediately placed in cold storage. This is in violation of the practice, but recently it has been found that a number of egg concerns
have been treating these eggs on removal from storage so as to give them
the appearance of having been laid late.

The treatment to remove the telltale
oil gloss consists in "manicuring" the shells with a blast of fine sand or in treating them with a bath in an alkali solution, after which they are dried
and rubbed with French chalk or talc.

Chemists of the department have devised a method for detecting eggs
which have been treated with oil and then subjected to the restoration process.

One of the most recent applications
of electricity to agriculture is the device which will brand various kinds of fruits and nuts with the grower's trade mark. It operates on current obtained from an ordinary electric line socket and is set next to the grading belt in the packing shed. The product to be marked rolls from the belt onto a miniature escalator which carries it over electrically-heated disks. These are kept at a temperature
that they will melt the natural wax
in the peel of the fruit and thus imprint the desired trade mark. The electrical fruit brander is now being used on oranges, water melons, apples
and peaches to prevent substitution of inferior products for advertised brands.

Nothing Serious

A budding doctor gave a youth some excellent crimson lozenges and told him to chew them for the purpose of relieving a cough. In the afternoon
he called and administered a gargle.
The result startled him.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed, "You are bleeding internally!"

He was so agitated that the patient
had to laugh. Upon recovering he explained: "That wasn't blood, doctor;
just the crimson lozenge."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

All It Was Worth

A Scotsman who had just been married asked the person what was the fee.

"Well," was the reply, "there is no fixed fee. Pay what you think it is worth."

Whereupon the bridegroom handed him one shilling. The parson took it,
glanced at the bride, and handed back
fourpence change.

Fell Into a Trap

"So the fine little baby is a girl?"
beamed the doctor, as he walked round
the baby shower.

The proud father assented.

"And this other one—is it of the contrary sex?"

"His wife's eyes were upon him, but
with no thought of the wrath to come
he replied, blithely:

"Yes, sir; she is a girl, too."

Made a Difference

"A man is never older than he feels,"
declared the ancient bean, bravely.

"Now I feel as fresh as a two-year-old."

"Horse or egg?" asked the sweet young thing brightly.

SUPREME COURT DENIES FRANCE CLAIM TO BAIL

Decision Upholds Trial Judge in Refusing to Admit Convicted Man to Liberty Pending Appeal

Application of Glenn France for admission to bail on writ of habeas corpus for release from the Twin Falls county jail has been denied by Idaho's supreme court, in a decision rendered by Justice William A. Lee, with Justices Hodge and McCall concurring, according to word from the clerk of the court received here Friday by J. W. Taylor, prosecuting attorney, and W. P. Gaultie, counsel for France.

Under the decision, France is remanded to the custody of the sheriff pending his appeal to the supreme court following his conviction in district court here last December on a charge of issuing a fictitious check for $12.50 and sentence to term of one to 14 years in the state penitentiary imposed by Judge W. A. Haddock. Application of France for release on bail pending his appeal was denied by Justice Haddock on the grounds that France was a persistent law violator.

Attorneys Press Contention

Attorneys for France contended that the trial judge was wrong when he took into consideration the former offense of their client and refused to let him out of jail. In this regard the supreme court's opinion says:

"None of the fundamental rights of a person who has been convicted of a crime are violated by refusing him bail pending an appeal to this court, if his record is such that it may be reasonably anticipated that he will continue a career of crime until he is actually incarcerated in prison. We think courts may consider the record of the offender in the present case, and the offenses in determining whether or not he should be admitted to bail."

Hearing before the supreme court on the application of France for release under writ of habeas corpus was held several weeks ago. In connection with this hearing the present case was referred to the court by the prosecuting attorney that France is a persistent law violator most of his offenses being the passing of worthless checks.

MOCK TRIAL FEATURE OF CHURCH PROGRAM

Elaborate Burlesque Is Staged by Presbyterian Men's Club at Assembly for Members of Congregation

Members of the congregation of the Presbyterian church were entertained last evening of the Presbyterian Men's club at a social assembly which was featured by an elaborate mock trial of a breach of promise suit involving prominent members of the congregation as litigants, witnesses and court officials.

With M. J. Sweeney presiding on the bench and a jury of 12 men and women, burlesque claim for damages was urged by Mrs. G. M. Simpson, who took the part of the plaintiff, by E. V. Larson, against determined opposition on the part of E. P. Dunlap, represented by O. W. Witham. Testimony on the part of several persons called as witnesses was contradictory and mirth provoking in the extreme. W. E. Nixon served as bailiff; Stuart H. Taylor as clerk of the court, and J. H. Barnes as court reporter.

Refreshments were served in the close of the entertainment program by members of the men's club.

NEW COMPASS.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, March 7 (AP)—An instrument known as the "sun compass" has been constructed at the design of Captain Roal Amundsen, for use on his trans-polar flight. It will supplement the ordinary compass, which is unreliable in the region of the pole.

SUBMIT BANK BILL

BERLIN, March 7 (AP)—Doctor Stresemann, foreign minister, introduced in the Reichstag yesterday a bill for the re-establishment of a gold note bank would be submitted to the house before its dissolution, but that the government was not in the least thinking of internationalizing Germany's finances.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR ANSWERS FINAL SUMMONS

Captain John F. Harvey, 87, Dies Following Operation for Relief from Affliction of Long Standing

John F. Harvey, veteran of the civil war in which he was commissioned as captain, died Friday morning at the county general hospital in his eighty-seventh year, following an operation for relief from an affliction of several years standing. Captain Harvey had been a resident of Twin Falls for about two years, coming here from Oklahoma. He is survived by a sister and nephew in Worland, Wyoming, and several other nephews and nieces, including Omar, Ralph, John, Frank and W. H. Maxwell, of Twin Falls, with whom he made his home during the past several months.

He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic in Anadarko, Oklahoma, and of the Odd Fellows order.

The body was taken to the J. E. McCall mortuary, where J. W. Taylor, prosecuting attorney, and W. P. Gaultie, counsel for France, are present.

GOVERNMENT IN GRAVE DANGER

Twin Falls Mayor Tells Impressions of Oil Scandal Developments in National Capital

Official Washington is in a turmoil over kaleidoscopic developments in the continuing naval reserve oil lease disclosures, with representatives of the minority party in congress making the most of their present opportunity for partisan advantage and political considerations occupying attention pretty generally to the detriment of ordinary functions of the national legislative body, according to Shad L. Hodge, Twin Falls mayor, who with Mrs. Hodge returned Friday from a visit to the national capital, where Mr. Hodge appeared on a legal mission before the supreme court.

The great danger growing out of the oil scandal, in Mr. Hodge's opinion, is that popular confidence in the present form of government in the United States may be shaken, and undermined. Considerations of temporary political advantage pall into insignificance beside this menace which, Mr. Hodge stated, is regarded in many quarters as being very real.

Tide Against Daugherty

Republican leaders are outspoken in their approval of the manner in which President Coolidge is dealing with the situation, Mr. Hodge said, but there is strong sentiment for Attorney General Daugherty's retirement from the cabinet.

"Unless Daugherty resigns or gives definite assurance of his intention to resign," Mr. Hodge said, "it seems probable that he will be impeached."

President Coolidge is practically certain to receive the republican nomination for the presidency unless opposition of the administration should be successful in native and persistent attempts to "smear him with the oil scandal," Mr. Hodge stated.

William G. McAdoo is regarded in Washington as being practically eliminated from the race for the presidential nomination on the democratic ticket, and Senator Ralston of Indiana seems to be favored among leaders of the party in the national capital.

"I would," Mr. Hodge said, "that one democratic senator—said in this regard, 'We would not be foolish enough to nominate McAdoo and then have republicans all over the country pointing to our candidate as 'Dohney's attorney.'"

Congressmen Plan Homecoming

Members of Idaho's congressional delegation expect adjournment of congress in time to permit their attending the republican national convention in Cleveland next June, and will return to Idaho following the convention, Mr. Hodge stated.

Congressional approval of the appropriation for the American Falls reservoir project is practically certain, Mr. Hodge said.

On their return trip Mr. and Mrs. Hodge visited relatives in Frederick, Maryland, and St. Louis, and stopped in Denver where Mr. Hodge had legal business.

RAG TIME BAND CHURCH LEADER WILL PLAY HERE IN TWIN FALLS

Important Announcement by "Smile and Style" Show Committees Adds New Interest

Arrangements have been completed for the "only appearance between New York and San Francisco" of "Alexander's Rag Time Band," as a feature attraction of the Smile and Style show, in which the Twentieth Century club and Twin Falls business men are co-operating to be presented next Wednesday and Thursday in the Idaho theater, it was announced Friday evening on behalf of committees in charge of arrangements for the event.

"Plans for the Twentieth Century show, are progressing in fine shape," the announcement said. "The twelve long, tall brown ladies, the inattentive and the end-men are just about ready with the newest jokes, stories and songs, and a real minstrel in every particular is promised as the first part of the offering."

"This, with the arrangements completed for the famous rag time band to appear with them, will assure for the third annual fashion show a novel and entertaining opening to put the audience in just the proper mood for the rest of the entertainment."

FRUIT GROWERS TO PLAN WAR ON ORCHARD PESTS

State Horticultural Director and Inspector to Attend and Address Meeting Here to Discuss Problems

Orchard problems with reference especially to methods of combating leaf roller, which is reported to be making inroads into orchards of this region, will be given consideration at a meeting of fruit growers of this region to be held under auspices of the Twin Falls Horticultural society at 8 o'clock next Wednesday evening in the Parish hall here.

M. L. Dunn, director of the state horticultural department, and Harry Sablin, chief horticultural inspector, will attend and address the meeting, according to announcement made Friday.
