Both Daugherty and Oil Investigations to Be Conducted at the Same Time; More Witnesses Are to Be Summoned

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—With the oil committee getting under way again after a three-day recess, the major line of senatorial inquiry will develop tomorrow into a double-barreled affair.

Both the Daugherty and oil inquiries will be on in full blast at the same time, something that has not happened in many years in proceedings of such spectacular character.

The oil investigators will go first into the records showing dealings in Sinclair oil stock by government officials after Teste Domes was leased to Harry P. Sinclair by Albert B. Fall, the secretary of the interior.

Will Call Accountant.

Louis D. Bond, an expert accountant of the federal trade commission, who has examined the books of brokerage firms to be called first and "it is understood he will report that he has found with transactions only by Attorney General Daugherty and Senator Elkins, republican, West Virginia, both of whom have issued public statements regarding their dealings.

Prince McKinley of Cleveland, Ohio, also is to be called tomorrow. He will be questioned regarding testimony of E. L. Doherty indicating that Fall had planned to borrow $100,000 from McKinley before the former secretary sought a loan from the California oil magnate.

The personnel of the oil committee was completed today with the election by the senate of Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, to succeed Senator Leont, republican, Wisconsin, who recently resigned both as chairman and a member of the committee because of ill health. Senator Leont expects to return this week from Southern Pines, N. C., where he has been recuperating.

Bergdoll Accepts
Legion's Bid to Come Back to U. S.

Convicted Draft Evader Agrees to Serve His Sentence in America; Veterans Want Case Straightened

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted during the war as a draft evader, has agreed to return to America to serve his sentence in a federal prison, it was announced tonight by Norman Hapgood, editor of Hearst's International Magazine.

Bergdoll will return at the invitation of the American Legion which, through John Quinn, national commander, issued a statement tonight declaring that the Legion had been accused of attempting to kidnap Bergdoll and it was time "to show the world" that the organization stood for law and order.

The Legion's offer was made by Leighton H. Blood, a member of the organization, who said he went to Germany to carry out a plan suggested by Garland W. Powell, national director of the Legion's Americanization commission, and Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant.

"My mission was to invite Bergdoll to come back to America with me of his own free will," said Blood.

As long as Bergdoll was in Germany the anti-German feeling in the Legion would be strengthened and would count in American politics. Therefore, if a plan could be worked out by which Bergdoll could be brought

At Celebration of
St. Patrick's Day

Annual Event Lacks Some Features Prevailing in Former Years; Saloons Close

DUBLIN, March 17 (AP)—St. Patrick's day, a public and bank holiday in Ireland, lacked some of the features of past years. There was no procession or demonstration by the Gaelic league, which formerly was a feature of the day.

Dublin was to a large extent dry. The saloons were not all closed, but the bar assistants' association appealed to all its members to refrain from work on the national feast day, so that virtually the only public houses open were those in which the owners with the assistance of their families, carried on the business.

COOLIDGE STIRS
SENATE DEBATE

Short Reception Given Passion Players Brings Explanation from White House

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—President Coolidge's action in cutting short Saturday a program of addresses at his reception to the Oberammergau passion players brought an explanation from the White House today and stirred up a debate in the senate.

In a letter to Anton Lang, the "Christus" of the players, Mr. Coolidge expressed pleasure that the visitors had come to the White House and set forth that the only reason for the incident was the fact that it is not permissible for the president to receive public addresses from people of other nations except through diplomatic channels.

The incident was taken up in the senate by Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, who said he regretted that the president "had not taken a broader and more humane view of the delegation's plea in behalf of suffering German children."

President Coolidge told the players in his letter that he wished to correct a "possible wrong impression," in regard to the incident, and reiterated his pleasure at seeing them; his appreciation of their work and his hope for the success of their visit to America.

American Fliers Get Away to Successful Start in 30,000 Mile Flight; All Nations Are Interested

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Cal., March 17 (AP)—Completing the first leg of their 30,000 mile flight around the world, the three army aviators, which left Clover field at 9:32 o'clock this morning, landed at Mather field at 2:05 p. m.

A group of six planes arrived at Mather field at 2:02 o'clock and Lieutenant Lowell Smith was the first of the world cruisers to land.

CLOVER FIELD, Santa Monica, Cal., March 17 (AP)—Airmen of the United States army started around the world from here today to chart the first globe-circling airway. Eyes of 23 nations will be upon the skies between now and August as the American aviators wing their way on the 30,000 mile voyage in an effort to accomplish that which recent attempts of the French and British airmen failed.

Crowds Cheered Start. The flight started at 9:32 o'clock this morning when, amidst acclamations of thousands, Major Frederick L. Martin, of Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., left the ground. His take-off was followed immediately by that of Lieutenant Lowell J. Smith of Los Angeles, and Lieutenant Leigh Wade of Camp Pendleton, Calif. A score of army and civilian airplanes followed as an escort and soon disappeared in the clouds to the northward where for more than two hours had raised doubts in the minds of flight commanders as to whether they should attempt to dart through them over the Tehachapi pass.

Philippines Lose Lives When Plantation Owners and Workers Meet in Battle

MANILA, March 17 (AP)—Seven persons, all Filipinos, were killed in a clash between landlords and tenants on a sugar plantation near Candaba, Pampanga province, said advices reached here today. A number of others were wounded.

The fight developed over deliveries of sugar cane. The tenants refused to deliver any more cane until they received payments claimed for deliveries already made and a quarrel ensued. Five of the tenants were shot and killed and two of the landlords were slashed to death with bolos.

Husband of Murdered Woman Says He Paid Mexican $150; Wife Killed While Praying

PUEBLO, Colo., March 17 (AP)—Mrs. Beila Janssen, whose body was found in a trunk at Ogden, Utah, Saturday, was slain as she knelt in prayer, Fred Janssen, her husband, told the Pueblo police here today. Janssen admitted he had hired a Mexican to kill her. Janssen was arrested at Eden, Colo., near here, early this afternoon. He was riding toward Pueblo in a taxicab he had hired in Colorado Springs this morning.

Mrs. Janssen was killed last Thursday night, Janssen said. Janssen declared to the police, they said, that he had hired his wife killed because "she planned to kill me." Janssen had in his possession his wife's wedding ring and the money she was using at her prayer when she was slain. He also had $1300 currency in his pockets.

Shows No Emotion. In his cell in the city jail, where he is being held pending arrival of Denver police authorities who will return him to that city, Janssen without any display of emotion related the details of his plans to reporters and police. Although denying any personal responsibility in the actual killing

WAGE LAST HOUR
FIGHT FOR CASH
BONUS PROPOSAL

Advocates of Payment Plan Bitterly Attack Insurance Measure; Bill Goes to Final Vote in House on Tuesday

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—Proponents of the new soldiers' bonus bill, which will be voted on tomorrow by the house, tonight confidently predicted its passage.

The measure, providing for paid-up 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation, nevertheless, came in for a bitter attack on the floor today by advocates of the full cash payment option.

War veterans, particularly on the democratic side, assailed the measure as a "disappointing and brief" for its failure to provide the full cash option.

Green on Defense. Chairman Green of the ways and means committee which framed the bill, defended it, declaring he had been assured by American Legion officials of Iowa, his home state, that the insurance provision was satisfactory.

Under the agreement which the bill will be taken up tomorrow, debate will be limited and amendments prevented, although a two-thirds majority will be "necessary for adoption."

While the measure was assailed at length and by many speakers, the attack was directed more to the rule which prohibited amendments, many declaring they would like the opportunity to propose a full cash payment option which was defeated in committee by a vote of 12 to 12. Most of the speakers concluded with the remark they would support the measure tomorrow in the hope the senate would insert the full payment proposal.

Representative Chisholm, Illinois, a republican member of the ways and means committee, defended the measure, declaring it was up to the states to provide for the cash payments, if such were desired, and pointing out that many states had.

Representative Hawes, democrat, Missouri, in a denunciation of the insurance provision suggested the government might as well buy 4,000,000 coffee with 4,000,000 government lots and 4,000,000 tomatoes, a war aid so much more for hoariness and flowers."

"Why not issue a certificate which can hang in the home," Mr. Hawes added, "which will say when John Smith dies the nation's gratitude will be expressed by a fine funeral? Let John and his wife and children look at it every day and wonder whether smallpox, typhoid or kidney trouble will finally pull the lever that opens the coffers of a grateful nation."

The total of $377,848,840 augmented by payments in the mails and by others yet to be sent in is expected to amount to approximately $475,000,000 as compared with total payments of $465,772,015 received last year up to the end of March.

WORK DECLARES FOR DEVELOPING WESTERN RIVER

Sees Colorado Stream as "Local Menace" and Urges Definite Government Policy to Change It to an Asset.

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The Colorado river is a "local menace" and the government should determine at once a definite plan for its check and conversion into a national asset, Secretary Work declared today, in a report to congress.

The report was made in reply to requests for recommendations of the secretary on the River-Johnson bill pending in congress, and stated that the various sites and structures, proposed for development of the river would require an estimated expenditure of $700,000,000.

Demand Definite Policy.

"On the scope of this subject in many directions, its urgency in some, and its opportunities for developments, together demand the determination of a definite policy," the secretary said.

Accompanying the report was one compiled by the special committee of engineers appointed by Mr. Work to collect data on the subject prepared by the bureau of reclamation, geological survey and federal power commission. It contained no definite recommendations.

The proposed Boulder dam, the most important of all plans for utilizing the wasted energy of the river, with power plants and transmission lines and the all-American canal which would supply water to thousands of farmers in the Imperial and Coachella valleys in California, offer problems, the secretary said, "not to be passed upon by one man alone."

On the contrary, he added, they should challenge the judgment of the country's ablest engineers and be subject to deliberate review by the congress.

Cost $200,000,000.

Declaring the cost of the dam and its subsidiary features, including the irrigation canal, should be estimated at $200,000,000 providing a margin of safety for the government, the secretary suggested that "congress should itself appraise the necessity of an outlay of such magnitude and justify the financial obligation to be assumed by the government before beginning this project."

As to the Colorado river compact, the secretary said "the wisdom is doubted of the government's consenting to private enterprise, or itself proceeding with any structure on the river that contemplates a claim on a volume of stored water," before this pact is approved by all the states involved.

Many Problems.

Mr. Work stressed the necessity of thorough consideration by congress of every phase of the problem, including flood control, impounding of water for farming, storage for generating electricity, the all-American canal and the possibility of having to meet domestic water needs of California cities 250 miles away.

Flood control, considered for that purpose alone, the secretary said, "appears to be practicable" and would "involve the minimum expenditure to effect, of approximately $28,000,000."

Property.

Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable, is a positive good in the world. That some are rich shows that others may become rich—and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built.—Abraham Lincoln.

NAME RECEIVERS ON OIL LEASES

Defendant Company President and Another Received Approval of the Court.

LOS ANGELES, March 17 (AP)—The first day in the legal battle between the government of the United States and the Doherty interests over the Elk Hills naval reserve oil leases closed after two court sessions which resulted in the appointment of two receivers to preserve the status quo in the debated territory.

Rear Admiral Harry H. Rosenau was named at the suggestion of Allee Pomerehne, government counsel, and J. C. Anderson, president of the Pan-American Petroleum company, a defendant in the suit, was appointed by the court at the suggestion of Frederick R. Kellogg, general counsel for the oil company.

Mr. Pomerehne objected mildly to the appointment of a second receiver as "unnecessary," but agreed to waive his objection if the court thought it better to name Mr. Anderson. This concluded the morning session and at a brief session in the chambers in the afternoon the court named the two joint receivers, deferring for a few days the naming of a depository of the funds they will handle.

Government counsel announced that an expert was coming from Washington to go over the Elk Hills field and determine whether permit would be granted to drill wells to offset drainage from the outside.

THE GUMPS—THE TRUNK LINE

DEFINITE PLANS
OUT FOR THIRD PARTY CAMPAIGN

Friends of LaFollette Assert He Is Willing to Head Party Ticket; Old Party Leaders Fear Deadlock:

WASHINGTON, March 17, 1924.—Definite plans for a third party movement were disclosed here today by friends of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin. Supporters of the Wisconsin senator, who is confined to his home by illness, said he had indicated a willingness to head an "independent" ticket in the event the republican convention nominates President Coolidge and adopts what he may consider to be a reactionary or ultra-conservative platform. So far has the movement proceeded that investigation already has been conducted in the different states to ascertain feasible methods for placing a third party ticket, headed by LaFollette, upon the ballots next November.

Want Second Candidate.
Those behind the movement are now looking for a running mate for the Wisconsin senator and their choice seems to be Associate Justice Brandeis of the United States supreme court. The fact that democrats are under discussion for the second place is pointed out as indicating the non-partisan character of the movement. The name of Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, also has been urged for second place.

To Vote Peated.
Development of the third party movement of the old parties to calculate 1924, already is causing politicians of the two old parties to calculate its probable effect upon the fortunes of their tickets next November and much speculation is heard as to the likelihood of its throwing the presidential election into the hands of representatives through the failure of any of the candidates to obtain a majority of the electoral votes.

Democrats appear to be inclined to look upon it with more favor than the republicans, because of the belief that it will gain most strength in the middle west and northwest and draw most largely from the republican candidates. These prominent in the third party movement assert, however, that it will not draw especially upon any one of the old parties, but will obtain strength, particularly among the farmers and all other "progressive" ranks.

BOISE DEFEATS RUPERT QUINTET IN TITLE GAME

Final Contest Played in High School Basketball Tournament at Moscow Goes to Capital City, 28 to 10

Following list of state high school basketball champions in their respective states:

- Walla Walla, Washington.
- Medford, Oregon.
- Rock Springs, Wyoming.
- Hagerman, New Mexico.
- Latter Day Saints, Utah.
- Boise, Idaho.

MOSCOW, Idaho, March 17 (AP)—Boise high school basketball squad annexed the state interscholastic title this afternoon by defeating the Rupert high school, 28 to 10, in the closing game of the interscholastic tournament at Moscow. The game was conceded one of the fastest ever seen on the varsity floor.

Although the Rupert five fought desperately they were completely swept off the floor by the whirlwind attack of the Boise squad and were unable to cope with the intricate maze of team work and machine precision in basket shooting that the Braves unleashed at the starter's whistle.

The first half ended 11 to 1 for Boise.

Rupert tightened in the second half and opened with a rally which threatened to cut Boise's lead. The Braves checked the surge and closed the third quarter with an 11-point lead and the score stood at 17 to 6.

Score at Will.

Boise scored at will during the last period.

At the close of the frame the first and second all-state teams were announced. Players on the first team were presented with gold basketballs as a reward for their prowess.

The first team was composed of: Beyer of Boise and Burghar of Rupert; forwards: Stowell of Ribby, center: Captain Theron Robinson of Boise and Estes of Moscow, guards.

The second team was chosen as follows: Beyer of Boise, forward: Edmund of Kellogg, forwards: Silverthorn of Boise, center: Campbell of Hilly, and Hull of Kellogg, guards. J. Allen Brown, Ray Nellig and David McMillan, Idaho coaches, picked the teams.

The ambassadors of other nations then drew names from the cup in alphabetical order and completed the first drawing ever to be held at the White House for the great international tennis match.

TROJANS DEFEAT SUGAR FACTORY

Laundry Five Strengthen Claim on Bowling Title with Straight Wins

Everything points to the Troy Laundry's taking the bowling title for the third successive year following its victory Monday evening over the men from the sugar factory.

Errors predominated and cut scores to the lowest marks in weeks for both teams. The factory bowlers succeeded in making 33 errors and 10 splits out of a possible 150, while the Trojans were content with 12 of the errors and 22 splits. However, the cleaners were careful with the splits and picked up a third of the odd pins while their opponents were not so fortunate.

Another feature for the sugar factory was that none of the squad rose above the 500 mark, Evans making their high score with 476. The cleaners were lucky to get three men above on the bowling demonstrated and Cubit took the honors with 535. Bailey and Tritt as usual came through with the other 500 scores.

Total pins were 2504 for the Troy and 2325 for the factory, and averages for the two teams stand at 167 for the Trojans and 155 for the factory.

Monday's performance places the Troy once more secure for at least a tie for first place for the remainder of the week and places the sugar factory definitely out of the running for league honors. Next week the Trojans meet the Golden Rule to definitely decide the bowling title which appears to be waiting for the laundry for the third year in succession, from the present outlook.

The Score		Total
Troy Laundry:
Bailey	175	176
Cubit	147	168
King	171	150
Tritt	152	162
Cubit	192	162

Sugar Factory:

MINING ENGINEER FINDS HERD OF MOUNTAIN SHEEP IN NEVADA

TORONTO, Nev., March 17 (AP)—A herd of 70 mountain sheep was discovered recently by F. M. Rapp, a mining engineer, while prospecting in the Silver Peak range. While it was known that mountain sheep inhabited this territory it was not believed they were numerous.

Contrary to popular belief, Rapp said they take to sheer cliffs only when danger threatens. At other times they range the greater slopes of the higher mountains. Plans are being made to bring an expert hunter to Nevada next summer to exterminate the cougar, the greatest enemy of the mountain sheep.

Paddock Free to Try for Place on Olympic Team; Suspension Is Cancelled

BOSTON, March 17 (AP)—Charles W. Paddock, the California sprinter, by a vote of four to one of a special committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, is free to try for place on the American Olympic team. President William C. Prout, of the A. A. U., today announced Paddock's reinstatement after a suspension for several months because of his competitions abroad.

"Personally," said Mr. Prout, "I am very much pleased that the A. A. U. in the Paddock matter has taken the position that it has always taken in such matters and that is a big, broad, fair position. The Paddock matter has been given a great deal more attention than the ordinary case that comes before the A. A. U. for decision, due to the fact that Paddock was used without his knowledge as an instrument to demonstrate what some people hoped was the fact that the position of the A. A. U. during the various controversies that have raged during the past two years has demonstrated that its position is stronger today than ever before."

"AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW"

In co-operation with the Endeavor society of Buhl the First Christian church society of Twin Falls will present its play, "At the End of the Rainbow" at the Cozy theater at Buhl next Monday night, March 21.

The play will be presented in Twin Falls the following Thursday evening, March 27, at the Lavinger theater. The Endeavorers have been rehearsing for the past two weeks and, according to their director, the play moves with the precision of a "regular" traveling company. The play abounds in clever situations and scenes and the remaining time for rehearsals will be devoted to the action and business required to make the scenes even more realistic.

About 30 persons, including the musicians and director, will make the trip to Buhl.

STIRRING DRAMA IN "THE ETERNAL CITY"

A youth fighting desperately to bring to ruin the woman he loved—unaware of her identity.

That is the strange situation about which the story of "The Eternal City," which will be at the Orpheum Thursday, revolves. It is the center of one of the most gripping stories ever written, and is from the pen of that master novelist, Hall Caine.

George Fitzmaurice produced the story in Italy, with a cast that includes five players of stellar rank—Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Richard Bennett, and Montagu Love. This First National picture has been pronounced the masterpiece of the decade.

Bert Lytell is cast as the youth, David Rossie, with Miss La Marr carrying the role of Donna Roma.

RENO, Nev., March 17 (AP)—It is planned to have a faculty vocational committee at the University of Nevada to conduct psychological tests with a view of suggesting to students the vocations for which they seem best fitted.

Freshmen students then will be offered the course of studies considered most helpful to the business or profession favored. The plan was proposed by Dr. J. R. Young, professor of psychology.

DAUGHERTY FIGHTS FOES WITH BLACKMAIL CHARGE

divorced wife of Jess W. Smith, has offered to turn over her papers and documents for $150,000 and leave the country and that when that sum was refused she offered to take $50,000.

Offers Proof.

These negotiations, which the attorney general said he would prove by the open he named and whom he asked to be present as witnesses, took place in Cleveland on February 21, 1924, he said. Miss Stinson herself and A. L. Pink of Buffalo, the attorney general charged, sought the meeting which culminated with a conference between Mr. Ungerleider, Miss Stinson and Pink.

When Ungerleider, speaking for himself, told the others he declined to enter into negotiations, the attorney said his witnesses would prove Miss Stinson and Pink, announced their purpose to go to New York to sue the papers and documents to others.

Corroborating in many particulars the previous testimony of Gustav B. Munn and Fred C. Quimby, Holdridge related a circumstantial story of his investigation of the alleged arrangement by which the fight films were exhibited in 1921.

Munn in Star Role.

Munn, correspondent of Edward B. McLean's Cincinnati Enquirer at New York, again emerged from behind the scenes in a stellar role, relating numerous conferences in his investigation of the Munn and others in the transaction. Holdridge quoted Munn as the principal author of damaging charges against Attorney General Daugherty and also William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation.

Chief among the statements recited to Holdridge to Munn and which held to be finally settled in June, 1923, to Burns, concerning the fight film affair, were:

The alleged statement by Mr. Daugherty that: "If you put this across you ought to get a big cut, not less than 50 per cent."

The alleged statement by Mr. Daugherty to Munn that he should take the fight film to Alfred R. Union, a local lawyer previously identified as a participant in the transaction.

Another alleged statement by Mr. Daugherty that the law prohibited only transportation and not exhibition of films.

"Soul Saving Sheba" Defies Law

MISS SHEBA CRAWFORD.

Miss Sheba Crawford, Atlanta, Ga., girl who was known in New York as the "Soul Saving Sheba," when, as a captain in the Salvation Army she attracted such throngs in the gay white way by her preaching that she was arrested, left the Salvation Army because of the attending publicity. But she seems to be meeting with the same difficulties in Florida also in the North, ministerial association, having twice defied them when they tried to prevent her holding a revival there in an open tent.

Famed Men in History Were Slow to Advance in School

Napoleon Said to Have Been One of the Most Stupid in His Classes; Many Others Were Classed as Duffers

HEIDELBERG, March 17 (AP)—German historians delving into the distant past have compiled a list of some of the "Peck's Bad Boys" and the "Tom Sawyers" of Europe who became world figures in achievements of various kinds and especially on the battlefield.

Napoleon stands first, not that he was a particularly bad boy, but because of his campaigns and accomplishments which brought him everlasting fame. Napoleon, it is recorded, was always a constant source of annoyance to his teachers, and when he was a military academy student he was known as one of the most stupid young men in his or any of the other classes.

Napoleon Stupid.

One of Napoleon's opponents in war in later years the Duke of Wellington, was known as a lousy youngster, and in his school days his thoughts always appeared to be pre-occupied with matters other than books or study. General Blucher was another who, according to German custom, was known as a "fat place" pupil, one of the class relegated to the rear seats in the school room because of their unwillingness to learn. Blucher hated to apply himself, in the class room, and was particularly adverse to learning his A B C's. It was years even before he was able to write his own name.

Darwin Slow to Learn.

Charles Darwin never cared much for his school room tasks, "but always appeared more interested in birds and animals and things in the great outdoors" and was known among the other youngsters as having a weakness for chasing every cat or dog in sight. Isaac Newton was another "last place" pupil. Nelson, the British naval hero, while not exactly a bad boy in school, is listed as having no talents at all, and even below the average in his classes. Oliver Goldsmith did not like school at all, and Lord Robert Clive, statesman and general, as a boy was the despair of all his teachers. After he had been expelled from four schools, his father in desperation sent him on a long cruise to the East where eventually he founded the empire of British India.

To the chemical world of Germany the name of Von Liebig ranks with that of Thomas Edison and electricity in America. Most of the school days of Von Liebig were spent in the back seats, and this has been one of the favorite subjects of the German school children for several generations.

HUGHES ANSWERS WITNESS.

BERGDOLL ACCEPTS BID TO RETURN TO AMERICA

back to America it would help everybody.

Blood said he was violating no confidence in giving a summary of the terms made to Bergdoll. "Here it is," Blood said. "Bergdoll must come back. He must serve his sentence. The American Legion is not so much interested in Bergdoll as in the men who helped him escape from America. They want him clean break and fresh start. A clean breast and tell who the enemies in their own camp are. Then let him do his bit in prison. After that give him his money and let him go his way." Mr. Hingwood said Bergdoll had sold his automobile and other properties in Germany and even selected the ship on which he wished to return to America.

"GROVER IS COMING HOME"

PHILADELPHIA, March 17 (AP)—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover Bergdoll, said tonight she expected her son to return to America shortly and that she planned to see President Coolidge in his behalf. "In all his letters," said Mrs. Bergdoll, "Grover expresses a desire to come home, and I think he will very soon. But they are having a lot of trouble now, and I think the president may not have time to talk about Grover returning. When they are through investigating I will surely see him."

U. S. AVIATORS FINISH FIRST LAP OF JOURNEY

either at Portland or Seattle.

America's attempt to map the first world airway will be carried out in a series of flights ranging from 135 miles to 800 miles. The first jump was from Clover field to Mather field, Sacramento. The second, scheduled for tomorrow, will be from Sacramento to Vancouver Barracks, Wash., across the river from Portland, Ore. Wednesday the world cruisers are scheduled to fly to Seattle when pontoons will be installed for marine landings until the fliers reach Ocala, Fla.

The beginning of the flight, expected by many to be but a simple dash of four and one-half hours of ideal weather conditions, proved to be a beginning of the many problems that the intercontinental flight will be called on to solve in the journey.

Weather Unfavorable.

Light rains fell here and a wall of clouds settled upon the Tehachapi. Reports from valley points indicated the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys were blanketed by clouds. Lieutenant Smith, pilot of the world flight, and one of the best known aviators on the Pacific coast, familiar with conditions in this area, said that the flight in the valley after making the Tehachapi pass should be under the ceiling of the clouds. If the cruisers were forced to a high altitude, over the clouds at 10,000 feet, it would make it necessary to return to Santa Monica, he said.

"I have 100 gallons of gasoline, enough to get back," he told Major Martin.

"Well, let's go, and come back if we have to," the major replied heartily, thus deciding the first problem.

The weather broke favorably and the aviators were able to get over the mountains under the clouds.

Long Journey Ahead.

The aviators plan to leave Seattle this month on a pontoon boat, through Alaska and Japan make it to Chicago, off island of Atsu, end of the first division, April 11.

The second division of the flight over Japan will come to an end at Kage-shima, Japan, near Nagasaki, April 26. The third division extends along the Chinese coast to Canton, India, at which arrival scheduled May 28. Pontoons will be replaced at Calcutta by wheel landing gears through the fourth division, arriving at San Stefano, Turkey, June 19. Then through the fifth division the aviators will fly over the Balkans to Vienna, Austria, down through France and London, England, arriving July 1. The sixth division is over Ireland, Greenland, down the Canadian coast to Washington, arriving August 10. Then the final leg will be across the United States to Claver field.

GRAIN SUPPLIES CHANGE

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat—Decreased 750,000. Corn—Increased 2,504,000. Oats—Increased 40,000. Rye—Increased 320,000. Barley—Decreased 30,000.

FIND ANCIENT TRIBE

CHICAGO, March 17 (AP)—An ancient civilization, cut off for centuries from other neighboring tribes, because of practice of magic and supposed supernatural powers, has been discovered in Colombia, South America, by J. A. De Mason, assistant curator of the Field museum of natural history here.

London's Underground River.

London has several underground rivers, one of them being known as the Tigris. This is supposed to have been a ditch, widened by Canute, to enable the Danish vessels to sail round the fortifications of the Thames.

Good and Bad.

Jud Tunkins says good singers usually have to be coaxed to make "em start and bad ones have to be threatened to make "em stop.

Beware the Flapper.

Just when a young man begins to think a great deal of himself as he climbs the ladder of success, a young flapper comes along, smiles implicitly, he proposes and he becomes a failure.

NEW AIRSHIP TO BE READY SOON

RS-1 to be Delivered to U. S. Army June 1; Is Three Times Larger Than Any Other.

DAYTON, O., March 17 (AP)—The airship RS-1 which, when completed, will be more than three times as large as any semi-rigid balloon now in the army service, will be delivered at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., June 1. Shortly thereafter the balloon will be taken to McCook Field for trials.

The RS-1, of 720,000 cubic feet gas capacity, will have as one of its new features the aerial hook which was developed at McCook Field. This hook is fixed under the bag and will permit of an airplane, to which a corresponding device is attached, to hook onto the balloon and ride with it. The plane can leave at the will of the pilot.

This operation proved a success with smaller devices several months ago when the Sperry messenger plane attached itself to a smaller balloon, rode for a while, and then landed in the field independent of the balloon.

In time of war, it is believed a great gas bag could have a large number of small fighting planes over enemy territory. The planes then could do their work and return to the balloon for ferry back to a central station. The idea is novel, but a practical, army official says, because small fighting planes have only a limited cruising radius occasioned by the small amount of gasoline they are capable of carrying.

The RS-1 will be housed at Scott Field because there is no army hangar elsewhere capable of housing it, but the tests will be conducted largely at Wilbur Wright Field.

ing and packing of the body in the trunk Janssen confessed making all of the preparations for the slaying before to the paying of an unidentified Mexican $150 to "do the job."

"Bella was kneeling in the kitchen in prayer when the Mexican killed her," Janssen declared. "She was undressed, wearing only her night clothing, a kimono and a pair of house slippers. She knelt beside a chair and said her prayers every night before she went to bed."

"She was kneeling beside a chair in the kitchen when I entered the room and passed her, after going out to a nearby bed and getting some rest. In the shed I had conferred with the Mexican and told him everything was all right. The Mexican followed me up the stairs leading into our part of the house and I went on into another room. I waited in another room for the Mexican to kill her."

"I knew I had killed her," she threatened to kill me. "If I didn't have her killed, she would have killed me."

"The Mexican left about 10:35 o'clock. He called me out on the back porch, but I didn't see my wife. She had been put into the trunk. It was out on the porch. I paid the Mexican $150. It was in two bills. There was one for $100 and one for $50. After I paid him he didn't say anything but just put the money in his pocket and went downstairs. I went into the house and I guess I cleaned up things. Then I went to bed and stayed there until the next morning."

POLICE DOUBT STORY

DENVER, March 17 (AP)—Denver police tonight began a search for Mexican described by Fred Janssen at Pueblo today to question him about the confession made by Janssen that he had hired a Mexican to slay his wife.

Denver police were inclined to doubt Janssen's story regarding the employment of the Mexican.

Janssen will be returned here tomorrow morning. About the same time the body of Mrs. Janssen and the trunk in which the body was shipped from Denver to Ogden, Utah, will arrive here.

A WAR FOR ENERGY
If Nikola Tesla has really discovered
a way, as he says he has, to send a current of electric power into the earth and have it tapped without loss
by anyone, anywhere, who has the
"key," some interesting situations
will soon arise.
It seems to be merely a question
of "tuning in" to that flowing energy as radio fans tune into broadcast concerts. All that will be needed will be a suitable receiving set
and a knowledge of the wave-length.
Can Tesla control those? He may have difficulty in doing it, when once
he starts his energy-broadcasting generator, in spite of patent laws and accret formulas. For if energy-broadcasting were once available in the earth, in large quantities, to be tapped by anyone possessing the secret,
the secret would hardly be kept long.
In the present state of electrical knowledge and the universal quest for sources of power.
It would be a great thing, surely,
for any corporation to possess such a secret. It would be a great thing for any nation. An aggressive nation, by monopolizing it and using it to the full, for transportation, manufacture
and military operations, might dominate the world with it, in peace or
war. It would make the power of Niagara falls or Muscle Shoals instantly available in any part of the earth for railroad train, ocean freighter, war-
ship or fighting plane.
A world war might be fought for such a prize, if any single nation tried to bottle it up. It would be too big and dangerous a power unless available to all civilized nations.

UNOLE SAM'S SUMMER CAMPS
Certain organizations are promoting
a scheme for advertising the citizen's summer military training camps. They plan a roll a huge leather bag from city to city to call the attention of all who behold to the opportunity.
Uncle Sam offers the young men of the country.
There is no harm in such an advertising scheme, but the government
training camps should not need it.
Widespread publication of the time
and places for these camps ought to be sufficient to bring to them the thousands of young men they can accommodate.
The camps mean one month of outdoor life with a sane amount of discipline, instruction in citizenship, as well as in military tactics, physical education and opportunity for healthful recreation and organized athletics. All of this is free to the country's young men between 17 and 24
years of age.
Some of the camps have been filled
to capacity in previous summers, while others have not held their quotas. This year all the camps are equipped to take care of more men than before.
Advancing spring awakens vacation
thoughts, and these camps offer a better vacation, than many of the el-egible men could obtain for themselves
otherwise.

AERIAL CIRCUMNAVIGATORS
Although the flight of American army aviators around the world is not
a spectacular stunt like the "hops"
across the Atlantic, it is of very great interest. It has a definite purpose—
to prove the utility of airplanes for long-distance travel. If it is successful it will place the United States
ahead in aerial achievement.
A great deal of the time the fliers
will be out of touch with the rest of the civilized world. They are not trying for speed records and will make

THE HOMESICK BIRDS

By DADDY

Gobby Gander, a wild goose,
brings word to Jack, Janet and Judge Owl that the singing birds
are not coming north in the spring
time as usual, having decided to stay in the south all the year around.

CHAPTER II
The High-Up Wind.

"How silly of the singing birds
not to come north to spend the summer in the beautiful woods," said Jack. Gobby Gander, the wild goose, came and told the children and Judge Owl the sad news that the birds
had decided to stay all the year around
in the south, under the hot sun.

"Yes, it is silly!" he agreed. "That is what I told them. They always have a happy time in the north, making fun, building their nests and making noise. I told them that they were to have wings so they could spend the summer in the lively, breezy north,
and the winter in the sunny south.
But they would not listen to me. Canning food had made them think they would save themselves a lot of work
flying so many miles."

"I go to the south and bring them back," said Jack.
"How will you get to the south?"
asked Janet. "It costs a lot of money
to ride on trains."

"It doesn't cost me money," hooted Gobby Gander. "I ride on the wings of the wind. I will tell you how to go to the south. I will give you a bit of my own wing to give me, giving me the cookey you intended to eat your self, so I will be good to you. Pluck two black feathers out of my tail, one
for you and one for Janet. Sit on them and they will bear you to the south."

Wondering what magic might be in the black feathers, Jack plucked them from Gobby Gander's tail. He gave one to Janet, and the other he placed on the ground, sitting upon it. Janet followed his example, sitting on the feather he had given her.

"Hootle! Hootle! Gooey gooke!"
hooted Gobby Gander as if working
a spell. Pluck high! Pluck low! Quickly!
Away you go!"

landings wherever and whenever the flight commander considers it advisable. It is possible that the trip will be made without encountering actual peril. On the other hand, the whole trip may have to be faced at any time.
Coolness and skill and courage
are required of the men making the flight.

A great deal, too, depends on their ability to keep fairly close to their schedule. As planned their flight is expected to take them through known danger zones within given periods, so that they can, everything progressing
normally, avoid seasons of bad weather
in certain localities.

The whole country wishes these pioneers well in their adventure and hopes that they may be heard from happily in Japan on April 27, in Calcutta on May 28, in Turkey on June 29, in London on July 1 and in Boston on August 2.

KANSAS CITY DOCTOR
INVENTS NEW TRUES
New Discovery Heals Rupture Without
an Operation

A new discovery which experts
agree has no equal for curative effects
in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, 3081 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and holds
a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces,
has no hard gouging pads, no elastic
belts, no straps, no steel bands, and
is comfortable as a light garment.
It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief,
comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial
to any reader of The News who writes
him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good
without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him
today—only.

Just the Other Way.
A small boy was brought by his father to Washington and taken to visit congress.

He was always interested in the chaplains, and always opened the sessions with prayer. Both in the senate and the house he had observed
this procedure.

Finally he asked: "Papa, why does
the minister come in every day and pray for congress?"

"You're it—a wrong son," replied his father. "The minister comes in every day, looks over congress, and
then prays for the country."

What is useless to you may be valuable to others—advertise it in the classified columns.

Wondering what magic might be in the black feather.

As Jack and Janet stared at Gobby
Gander, suddenly they felt themselves shrinking to doll size. And as they shrank the feathers grew until they reached the size of airplanes.

A gust of wind plucked the feathers
up, blowing them high into the air.
The feathers, carrying Jack and Janet,
were carried along on the breeze.

This was very fine and Jack and Janet thrilled with delight. But soon Jack noticed with alarm that they were going north instead of south.

"Stay up!" cried Jack to Gobby Gander, who had flapped into the air
after them. "The wind is blowing us
the wrong way."

"Hootle! Hootle!" laughed Gobby
Gander. "High up in the air is a wind blowing to the south. Catch hold of my legs and I will tow you up a bit."

"They caught hold of the webbed feet
of Gobby Gander, who stretched out to them, and he flew upward. Soon
they were out of the balmy breeze
blowing from the south, and found themselves in a brisk, cool gale blowing
from the north.

"Gobby! Gobby! Gobby Gander!"
cried Jack and Janet. "Gobby! Gobby!"
cried Jack and Janet, as the high up gale from the north
carried them swiftly toward the south.

(What they find in the south
will be told in tomorrow's chapter.)

Breakfast Food

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife makes me the butt of the amusing anecdotes she tells her friends.

"I didn't be at all surprised to know that most of the people we go around with look on me as some sort of a character out of a funny moving picture. My belated best friend
to give that impression.

Whenever we're at a party, and I hear a burst of merriment from the other end of the room, I can be pretty sure that she is telling a group of friends about the time I thought of I heard a burglar and fell down the back stairs looking for him.

Or else it's the one about the occasion when I couldn't start the car
and had to get a mechanic from the garage to tell me that the brakes were
on.

All of these stories go over big.
There are always shrieks of laughter,
and my wife has acquired a wonderful reputation for "always seeing the funny side of things."

But she ought to look on the serious side once in a while, too. Then she could see that all she needs is a few drawing lessons—and she could make a living
for us with us with her great comic strip. "The Dilemmas of Hugh McKay."

Tomorrow: "My husband calls
me 'darling' when he's being particularly annoying."

Watt the Fly

Electricity is tugied to a new use.
Sentence of death has been passed on the all too common household fly by electrical engineers. A contrance has been designed to receive current from the ordinary lamp socket. It is to be batted and affixed to a wall or some other place where flies gather. Only a fraction of a watt is required for a fatal shock, the engineers say.

A new device for fly extermination
means a new slogan: "Watt the fly!"
It is in character with the reported progress, eh, watt?—The Nation's Business.

Diplomatic Reply

The true citizen shook his portrait
in the photographer's face.
"Do I look like this picture? The thing's an outrage! Why, you've given me an awful snarl! and the look of a prizefighting bully! Now, answer me, and no nonsense about it! Do you call that a good likeness?"

The photographer scanned the print,
then looked at the customer. "The answer," he said, "is in the negative."

And the customer went away with a look of deep thought on his face.

"And I suppose you will send me for the adventure."
"You will send yourself when the consequences have arrived. They will be sure to give you a spanking. The deed is done, and well done. On the whole
I think it has been good for the cause,
but bad for you."

"Why?"
"You may have to run out of England to save your neck and the face of the king. He was there, I believe?"
Yes, sir.

"The wound caught an infection. Intense fever and swelling have set in.
I helped Sir John Velling to amputate the arm this afternoon, but even that may not save the patient. Here is a storm to warn the wandering linnet
of the ship's gun tomorrow evening. Get ready to take it. In that case your marriage will have to be delayed. Rush men are often compelled to live on hope and die fasting."

"With Sir Benjamin, the deluded help instead of a hindrance,"
said the young man. "My stubborn
soul has been the great obstacle."
Then he told of his interview with Sir Benjamin Hare.

Franklin put his hand on Jack's
shoulder and said with a smile:
"My son, I love you. I could wish you to be no different. Cheer up. Time will lay the rust, and perhaps sooner
than you think."

"I hope to see Margaret tomorrow
morning."
"Ah, then, what Grecian arts of soft persuasion?" Franklin quoted. "I hope that she, too, will follow the great
star of the West."

"I hope so, but I greatly fear that my meeting will be prevented."

CHAPTER XI
The Departure.

That evening Jack received a brief
note from Franklin. It said: "I have learned that you are very ill. I think you would be better get out of England for fear of what may come. A trial would be sure to cause your dismissal in high places. Can I give you assistance?"

Jack returned this note by the same
messenger.
"Thanks, good friend, I shall go
as soon as my business is finished, which I hope may be tomorrow."

Just before the young man went to bed a brief note arrived from Sir Benjamin. It read:
"Dearest Jack. My father has learned of our meeting yesterday, and
of how it came about. He is angry.
He forbids another meeting. I shall not submit to his tyranny. We must assert our rights like good Americans.
I have a plan. You will learn of it
when we meet tomorrow at eleven.
Do not send an answer. Lovingly,
MARGARET."

Jack felt little, and in the morning
awaited with keen impatience the hour
of his appointment.

On his way to the place he heard a newsboy shouting the word "duel" and
"Yankee," followed by the suggestive
statement: "Bloody murder in high life."

Evidently, then, some one had died of his wounds. He saw people standing in groups and reading the paper. He began to share the nervousness of Preston and the wise, far-seeing Franklin.
He jumped into a cab and was at the corner some minutes ahead of time.
Precisely at eleven he saw the coach draw near. He hurried to its side. The footman dismounted and opened the door. Inside he saw, not Margaret, but the lady of the hidden face. "You are
to get in, sir, and make a little journey
with the madame," said the footman.

Jack got into the coach. It drew closed, the horses started with a jump
and he was on his way whither he knew not. He felt that he knew the reason for the rapid pace at which the horses had begun to travel.

"If you do not mind, sir, we will not
lift the shades," said the veiled lady,
as the coach started. "We shall see Margaret soon."

She had a colorless, cold voice and what was then known in London as the "patience manner." Her tone and silence seemed to say: "Please remember this is all a matter of business
and not a highly agreeable business to
me."

"Where is Margaret?" he asked.
"A long way from here. We shall meet her at the Ship and Anchor in Graveyard. She will be making the journey by another road."

She had answered in a voice as cold
as ice and in the manner of one who had been through a rough day.

"Where is Graveyard?"
"On the Thames near the sea," she answered briskly, as if in pity of his ignorance.

He saw the plan now—as admirable plan. This was to meet near the port of sailing and be married and go aboard the ship and away. It was the plan of Margaret and much better than any he could have made. For he knew little of London and its ports.

"Should I not take my baggage with
me?"
"There is not time for that," the veiled lady answered. "We must make haste. I have some clothes for you in a bag."

She pointed to a leather case under the front seat.
From that time forward they rode
in a silence broken only by the creaking of the coach and the sound of the horses' hoofs. Darkness had fallen when they reached the little city of Graveyard. The Ship and Anchor stood by the water's edge.

"You will please wait here," said
the veiled lady in a colder voice than
she had used before. "The coach
drew up at the inn door. I shall see if she has come."

The strange companion entered the
inn and returned presently, saying:
"She has not yet arrived. Delayed
by the fog. We will have our dinner,
you please."

From this point the scene at the inn is described in the diary of the American.

"She drew off her hat and veil and a young woman about twenty-eight years
of age and of astonishing beauty stood before me."

"There, now, I am out of business,"
she remarked in a pleasant voice as she sat down at the table which had been spread before the fireplace. "I will do my best to be a companion to you until Margaret arrives."

"She looked into my eyes and smiled. Her shawl of ice had fallen from her."

"The waiter came with a tray containing soup, glasses and a bottle of sherry. We sat down at the table and our waiter filled two glasses with the sherry."

"Thank you, but self-denial is an other duty of mine," she remarked
when I offered her a glass of the wine.
"I live in a thrifty world and drinkwater. I live in a merry world and keep a stern face. It is a vile world
and yet I am unimpaired."

"I drank my glass of wine and had begun to eat my soup when a strange feeling came over me. My stomach
seemed to be sinking through the table.
The wait and fireplace were receding
into dim distance. I knew then that I had tasted the cup of Glee. My hands fell through my lap and suddenly the day ended. It was like seeing off the sunset. The light faded.
There is nothing more to be said of
it because my brain had ceased to receive and record impressions. I was
as totally out of business as a man in his grave. When I came to, I was in a berth on the ship King William bound for New York. As soon as I knew my situation, I said: 'I have been tricked. My clothes had been removed and were lying on a chair near me.
My watch and money were undisturbed.
I had a severe pain in my head. I dressed and went up on deck. The captain was there."

"You must have had a night of it in Graveyard," said the captain, who had been waiting for me. "You were all alone. Where am I going? I asked."
"To New York," he answered with a laugh. "You must have had a long sleep. How much is the fare?"

"Young man, the need of concern
over your trip is the captain. 'You have been paid in full. I saw them take a letter in your pocket. Have you read it?"

Jack found the letter and read it.
"Dear Sir—When you see this you will be well out of danger and, I hope,
none the worse for your disposition. This from one who admires
your skill and courage and who advises you to keep out of England for at least a year."

"A WELL WISHER."
He looked back over the stern of the ship. The shore had fallen out of sight. The sky was clear. The sun shining. The wind was blowing from the east.

He stood for a long time looking toward the land he had left.
"Oh, ye wings of the wind! take my love to her and give her news of me and bid her to be steadfast in her faith and hope," he whispered.

CHAPTER XII
The Girl He Left Behind Him.

After Jack had been whirled out of London, Franklin called at his lodgings and learned that he had not been seen for a day. The wise philosopher entertained no doubt that the young man had taken the advice given him.
A report had been running through the clubs of London that Lionel Clarke had succeeded. In fact he had had a bad turn, but had rallied. Jack must have heard the false report and taken ship
suddenly.

Doctor Franklin went that day to the meeting of the privy council, whither
he had been sternly summoned for examination in the matter of the letters of Hutchinson et al. For an hour
he had stood unmoved in the witness seat, his face as cold as ice, his eyes as hard as steel, his hands as firm
as iron. He had been a terror to all the judges, against all traditions of decorum in the high courts of Britain,
laughed at the cleverness of the assault. That was the speech of which Charles James Fox declared that "no man had ever made a better
oratory which he had been in England, since it had cost the kingdom its colonies."

Marriage Kept Secret for Thirty-Seven Years

The secret of a wedding which took place 37 years ago has been revealed
since the death at his home in South
Shields, England, of Cleveland Mas-termann, a cousin of the bishop of Durham of Plymouth.

Mastermann's will was proved recently. He left an estate of the gross
value of more than $50,000.

Among the bequests was one of $75,
000 in trust for life, his wife and furniture and the income from two houses
to his housekeeper, Mrs. Martha Mary Ann Brown. It has now become known that Mastermann was actually Mastermann's wife, says the London Mail.

The marriage took place at the Car-
dle register office May 4, 1886. Mrs.
Mastermann always called herself Mrs.
Brown and Mr. Mastermann always referred to her as his housekeeper. The marriage was a very happy one. A son, George, was born to the couple. The person has been in the secret, Mrs.
Mastermann's niece, Anne Rebecca
Turner, who was one of the witnesses
at the wedding.

Mastermann was eighty-two years old
when he died and his wife is eighty.

California Now Shows Whaling to Tourists

There is a general belief, cultivated by motion pictures and fiction, that whales are peculiar to the Arctic circle, inseparably associated with ice
bergs, Eskimos, polar bears, igloos,
scurvy and huge men so bewildered
as to resemble water spaniels. All of which is "old stuff" for now that California has come into the tourist business seriously and wholeheartedly,
whaling is merely a weekend party, a sort of "roughing it" work in conjunction with the trout-baiting course, says
George Reed in the Elks Magazine, according to the Detroit News.

At Trinidad, a point of land jutting
into the Pacific near the California-Oregon line, there is a whaling station
of such proportions and activity that it can be snuffed for 50 miles on a calm
day, while, when the wind is right, distance San Francisco grabs for its handkerchief. Three boats, mostly manned
by Norse, Danes and Swedes, ply up and down the coast, and six whales a day is the average catch.

A Bad State.
After awhile, a state of constant indignation, first about one thing and then another, assuming ludicrous even to the individual case, if he has a sense of humor.

COUNCIL GIVES CONSIDERATION TO POWER RATE

Mayor Explains Utilities Commission Stands Ready to Adjust Inequalities Under New Schedule

Informal discussion of electric power and lighting rates and desirability of issuing regulations for Twin Falls, Idaho, prominently in the deliberations of the municipal commission at a regular meeting Monday evening, which had before it only a small group of the business, including approval of the financial statement prepared by the city clerk and approval of claims amounting to $779.55.

In the course of the discussion relative to power and lighting rates, Mayor Shad L. Hodgins, who is a member of the Northern Idaho Power and Light Users' association, presented a letter received from the commission in which the commission stated its conclusions reached at a recent conference in Boise with members of the public utilities commission in regard to the new schedule of power and light rates.

Remedy at Hand.
In permitting the new schedule of light and power rates to become effective, Mayor Hodgins said, the commission has not issued a permanent order approving the schedule, but occupies the position of permitting the rates to be put into effect with a view to determining whether they are good or bad, while standing ready to correct inequalities that may be demonstrated. The commission retains the right to alter the rates at any time if it should be demonstrated that they are oppressive or result in the collection of more than authorized revenues.

The subject was introduced by Commissioner Allen, who proposed that the commission in the city's annual expenditure for street lighting, declaring that it seemed to be favored by popular sentiment and offering to test this sentiment by circulating a petition in the business district for discontinuing use of cluster lights installed about two years ago.

Asserting that electric lighting charges here are higher than in other regions where electric power is generated by steam, J. S. Keel, commissioner of finance, declared that he was not so much concerned about lighting rates as he was about the training lower rates for electric power.

"If we are going to build a town here, as we hope and expect to, we must have lower power rates," he declared.

Mayor Hodgins announced that a complete schedule of new rates to be applied to the power rates furnished to him through the power users' association, would be placed on file in the city clerk's office for the convenience of interested persons.

Seeks Views on Zoning.
Co-operation of all Twin Falls citizens in the zoning regulations adaptable to this city, according to the opinion expressed by members of the commission when the subject again was brought into the deliberations by Commissioner Keel.

A beginning in this direction was made some months ago, it was recalled, when the chamber of commerce appointed a committee to inquire into the matter and co-operate with the municipal authorities.

Women of the Twentieth century club also have given attention to the subject, and have recently invited Mayor Hodgins, Commissioner Keel and other members of the administration to discuss the matter at their meeting to day.

Petition for elimination from the sprinkling district north from the airport park grounds will be given consideration in connection with a hearing on the intentional ordinance creating the sprinkling district, J. C. Bates was told by the commissioners.

Permit to operate the Twin Falls rooms was granted to Tom Kato on recommendation of the police chief.

Short Line is Willing to Begin Court Action

Condemnation of Right of Way Through Properties of Utah Construction Company May Be Commenced

If certain formalities are complied with, including the posting of an amount of money deemed sufficient to take care of all costs of action, the Oregon Short Line, through its legal department will begin steps looking to the instituting of a suit to condemn a right of way through the properties of the Utah Construction company.

This is the gist of a letter received by Chairman Hawley from George H. Smith of the Short Line legal department Monday.

The filing of a good deed of information by the local committee will be necessary before the actual beginning of such action, the gathering of a suit of which may occupy some time.

The following statement was issued by Chairman Hawley Monday afternoon.

"The committee is actively continuing negotiations with the proper parties to ascertain definitely just what is expected of the public in regard to obtaining a right of way and just as soon as the result of the conference and communications is known full information will be given out. There is reason to expect that the uncertainties in the situation will be removed at an early date. The members of the committee are confident in the confidence in the good faith of the railroad company and entertain no doubt that all difficulties will be removed so as to insure the building of the road this season. An important step in that direction is the action of the company in complying with the request of the committee and directing the suit to be immediately instituted proceedings to secure the right of way by condemnation."

CANDIDATE FOR GAME WARDEN'S JOB INDORSED

Fish and Game Association Anticipates Resignation and Declares for George E. Reynolds for Appointment to Post

In anticipation of the resignation of H. C. VanAusdell, Twin Falls, chief deputy state game warden, which, officials of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association said, will be submitted April 1, 25 members of the association at a monthly meeting Monday evening in the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce offices, endorsed candidacy of George E. Reynolds, Twin Falls, for appointment to the place.

The meeting also authorized the appointment of a committee to assist in obtaining the appointment for Mr. Reynolds.

Enrollment of at least 500 members in the association was suggested as the goal for a membership drive which, it was proposed, should be launched here today. Call was made for volunteers to assist in the drive, but definite arrangements for this undertaking were not completed at this meeting. The association's present membership, it was stated, comprises about 150 persons.

Would Feed Ducks Here

With a view to providing winter feeding grounds here for wild duck, the meeting authorized expenditure of $10 for purchase of seed of wild rice, wild celery, duck potatoes, to be planted this spring at four places in this region as an experiment upon the results of which further work in this direction is to be done.

Members of the association, individually, declared war on magpies, which, it was reported constitute a menace of increasing seriousness to the propagation of game birds. It was suggested that each hunter in the field attempt to reduce the number of the marauding birds. It was reported that there is available between $1,000 and $12,000 of state funds for purchase of poison to be used in extermination of magpies. The meeting, however, did not authorize application for any portion of this fund to be expended here.

Boy Scouts to Co-operate

In the experiment with regard to providing feeding grounds for wild duck, as well as in waging war on the magpies, it was stated, boy scout organizations will co-operate with the sportsmen.

It was decided that a banquet should be served in connection with the next monthly meeting of the association, and appointment of a committee was authorized to fix the date and make arrangements for the event.

"Replies made by members of Idaho's congressional delegation to the request of a committee previously named by the association for support in congress for legislation to provide for refuge grounds for migratory game birds were read to the association members at this meeting.

The meeting was presided over by W. R. Priebe, president of the association.

Rather than sacrifice their own luxurious locks, two young men students of the high school here paid fines of $10 each and thus fulfilled requirements of judgment pronounced by Probate Judge O. P. Duval when they were haled into court on complaint of a half dozen ladies who testified that the accused youths had forcibly administered hair cuts to them.
