WEEKS CALLED IN WAR FRAUD INVESTIGATION

Secretary of War Asked by Senate Probers to Produce Pertinent Documents; Witness Tells of Aircraft Craft

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—The Senate Daugherty committee turned its inquiry today upon the war department and concluded that they were beginning Secretary Weeks to appear before it tomorrow with specified documents relating to departmental handling of the war fund cases.

The committee had listened to the story of Thomas F. Lane, a legal adviser to the army air service, who said he had been ordered a day or two ago to "carry away from the committee" and then had been dismissed from the service.

Lane said also that papers bearing upon his inquiry into war contracts, which he regarded as his own, were seized by Captain W. F. Voland, an assistant chief of the army air service, who turned them over to Secretary Weeks, he said, and the latter had sought an opinion as to their status from the judge advocate general.

Senator Wheeler, in the examination of Lane, Voland, Montana, the committee president, and other members, said he regarded Lane's papers as part of the official departmental files. He and turned them over to Secretary Weeks, he said, and the latter had sought an opinion as to their status from the judge advocate general.

House Leader Voices Praise for Coolidge and Shows Up Bourbons' Slanders and Abuse as Characteristics

PHILADELPHIA, April 3 (AP)—Voicing praise for President Coolidge and the republican party and condemnation for the democrats, Representative Longworth, republican leader in the house of representatives, declared here tonight before the republican women of Philadelphia he felt certain a "calm perusal of the record of the republican party during this administration will prove its title to another lease of powers."

Record Not Clean

"Judged by its conduct in the past few years it seems to me that the title of the democratic party to its emblem, the rooster, is not very thick. Of late, it has been revelling in abuse, calumny and slander of the dead as well as of the living, so its own ranks have proved to be less clean than those of the party it has been attacking. It seems to me that a fitting emblem for democracy in the next campaign would be a greater one."

Had Confidence in Coolidge

"It is characteristic of the stability of our government and a tribute to the wisdom of the best republican convention," continued the speaker, "that the accession of its choice for vice president to the presidency caused not a ripple on the waters. The people of this country have had confidence that confidence has increased as the days have gone by until the question of his practically unanimous nomination to the presidency has been practically ceased to be debatable."

Defends Stand

Commenting on the taxation and defending his stand in the house for a couple of years on the income tax rates raised in the Mellon bill, Mr. Longworth said:

"I submit to you whether stiff-necked opposition to the inevitable would not necessarily have brought chaos and disintegration of the republican ranks rather than 'good legislation' which has been passed by a republican majority in the house which, though small, will be cohesive and can be counted upon to act as a majority not only during this but the next session of congress."

The appropriation was made contingent upon the passage of a bill which will be introduced when the reservoir is completed.

EXPENSE BILLS AT BIG TOTAL

Pending Appropriations to Be Considered with Revenue Scheme, Smoot Says

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Announcement today by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee that some of the specific appropriation bills pending before congress would have to be considered in connection with tax reduction dealt a severe blow to chances of retention of some of the items in the revenue bill.

Among the bills requesting appropriations in the fiscal year 1925, which either have passed the senate or house or are being strongly advocated are: Pension, $75,000,000; bonus, $150,000,000; McNary-Haugen bill, $100,000,000 to $200,000,000; postal employees salary increases, $135,000,000; German food relief, $10,000,000; and good roads, $85,000,000.

WORK PUTS DATA IN NEW PLACE

California Man Named Reclamation Commissioner; Former Idaho Governor Will Head New Division of Finance

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Dr. Elwood Mead, irrigation engineer of Berkeley, Cal., was appointed by Secretary Work today to be commissioner of the bureau of reclamation.

Dr. Mead succeeds D. W. Davis, former governor of Idaho, who will become head of a new division of finance, created to separate the handling of receipts and disbursements of the engineering and agricultural divisions of the interior department.

The interior department, Dr. Work said, in announcing his appointment, has been granted leave of absence from the University of California where he is professor of agricultural economics, to take up his new duties.

Since last December Dr. Mead has been engaged with the advisory committee on reclamation which is working out a reorganization of the service and which is expected to report next week on a new policy to govern future reclamation projects.

Will Begin at Once. "Dr. Mead," said the interior secretary, "will take up his duties at once and put in operation the new policy developed by his committee and the secretary of the interior who will promulgate them as rapidly as practicable."

A division of finance has been created in the bureau intended to separate the handling of receipts and disbursements from the engineering and agricultural divisions. Our twenty-five millions in accounts are now classed as deferred, doubtful and bad. A system will be made to develop a program that will recoup these losses if possible and which will minimize these losses in the future."

"It will," he said, "involve a frontier diversity of duties making it advisable to minimize these losses in the future. The advisory committee which has made an intensive six months' study of reclamation to insure the application of adjustments suggested in this report."

Mr. Davis has been commissioner of the bureau less than a year having been appointed to the post June 15 last. On that date Secretary Work abolished the office of director of reclamation, then headed by Arthur J. Davis, who had been with the reclamation department since its inception, and in its place created the position of commissioner of reclamation. D. W. Davis, before being made commissioner had served as special assistant secretary of the interior for about three months.

The reorganization at the time provoked unfavorable comment from several sources. "The secretary in a statement issued a month before the change, said: 'We are going to put this branch of the interior department on a business basis.'"

BOBAH TALKED FOR CHAIRMAN AT CLEVELAND

Coolidge Men Feel Sufficient Delegates Soon to Be Named to Vote for President; Discuss Convention

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Managers of the campaign of President Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination, feeling that by the end of April enough delegates will have been chosen and instructed to insure his election are turning their attention somewhat to convention and after convention activities.

William M. Butler, chief of the Coolidge campaign managers, arrived in Washington today for a series of conferences with the president and Frank W. Stearns, James B. Reynolds and others of the campaign staff. Among the matters to be decided soon is the selection of a man to put Mr. Coolidge's name before the Cleveland convention.

The nominating speech for a candidate is usually made by a member of the delegation from the candidate's home state and if this custom is followed Senator Lodge, the republican leader of the senate, or Speaker Gillett probably will be chosen.

Will Write No Platforms.

One of those in attendance at the conference declared today the convention had no intention of writing a platform. If it appears certain when the convention meets that Mr. Coolidge is to be the nominee, his views as to a platform, however, will undoubtedly have considerable weight.

The convention's committee on arrangements, headed by David W. Mulvane, national committeeman from Kansas, and consisting of more than a dozen other national committeemen will meet in Cleveland April 20 to go over arrangement matters and possibly to agree on a recommendation as to temporary chairman and other convention officers.

The managers of the Coolidge campaign are known to be turning over in their minds a number of possible temporary chairmen and the list includes Senator Bufah of Idaho, Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, former Governor Lowden of Illinois, Governor Greenback of Minnesota, Governor Hyde of Missouri and for Senator Beveridge of Indiana.

IOWA DEMOCRATS ADJOURN

DAVENPORT, Iowa, April 3.—State democratic convention adjourned at 5:30 this evening, after considering a proposal that it endorse a presidential candidate. No such proposal was made from the floor as had been predicted by number of party leaders, but many of the prominent party workers declared the Iowa delegation selected to go to the New York convention would be William M. McKelvin. The delegation was instructed to vote as a unit in the national convention.

Golden Rule MERCANTILE COMPANY

Bargain Day—Every Day
Clothing Is Comfortable Only when You Cannot Feel It

Women's need in underwear has always been and always will be—proper covering, attractive appearance and perfect comfort.

And until Anna Meridio developed a new idea in underwear construction, women thought they were getting covering, style and comfort.

First studying the needs of women, Anna Meridio worked out a simple principle by which bloomers and undergarments would meet every requirement of style, comfort and refinement.

She started with the obvious fact that when the body is bent the line of the back is longer than when erect.

Look for the Pleats
Then came the idea to place and hold the material where it is needed and eliminate it where not needed. The material is held at the point of the hip by pleats in a patented construction.

No Reinforcement
The patented construction provides for the widest lateral movement without any strain whatever. Therefore, reinforcement is not necessary.

Will Not Pull Up at the Knee
KICKERNICK PATENTED BLOOMERS never pull up at the knee. No matter what you do—step up—sit on your foot—play tennis—ride a horse—the bloomer will stay right in place.

Wear Them with Any Gown
In the erect position the pleats hold the material close to the figure, preventing all bulging, blousing in front or bunching between the legs.

SEEK BOUT FOR ST. PAUL MAN

Agree to Match Winner of Carpenter-Tunney Fight Against Tommy Gibbons

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—The claims of rival promoters for the services of Georges Carpentier, who plans a comeback in the United States this summer, virtually were selected today when an agreement was reached to have the winner of the proposed match between the Frenchman and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, meet Tom Gibbons, Et. Paul light heavyweight.

This agreement, which is expected to be closed definitely tomorrow, was reached at a conference between Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, who holds Carpentier's contract to a bout in New York or New Jersey in June, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor, Mich., promoter, who sought to match Carpentier and Gibbons on July 4 at Detroit, Chicago or Michigan City, Ind.

No promoter has been obtained for the Tunney-Carpentier battle, but it is understood Tex Rickard is ready to promote the bout early in June at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City.

SOVIET CENSORSHIP

Much has been said, by friends of the Russian Soviet government, regarding its educational work. The Lenin regime did indeed embark upon a remarkable program for making knowledge accessible to the Russian people. But recent information shows that it never got very far.

Of the four thousand literary works which were to be published, in cheap editions of one hundred thousand each, only one hundred ever saw the light. Publication stopped then for lack of funds. That fact alone would not condemn the Soviet leaders, but rather might arouse sympathy for them. The main trouble has been the remarkable system of censorship which came to take the place of the original educational plan.

The Soviet government soon changed its mind about making all kinds of literature accessible to everybody, and prepared and enforced an "Index Prohibitorius" and an "Index Expurcatorius" along lines very hard for a free American mind to understand. Everything incultating religion was banned, including the four Gospels, the Koran and the Hebrew Talmud. The works of many great philosophers were likewise banned, among them those of Kant, Descartes, Plato and Herbert Spencer. Modern psychology suffered, with the exclusion of even our own wholesome and instructive William James, Carlyle, Kropotkin, Masterpiece, Tolstoy and scores of other writers were banished because their liberalism was considered dangerous. Economic works differing from the Bolshevik or Soviet viewpoint went, of course. The censors eventually excluded from the public libraries and schools the writings of the early days of the Bolshevik regime, including publications up to the year 1920, as touching upon questions otherwise solved by the Soviet authority. No evidence was to be left of Soviet inconsistency.

This intellectual freedom appears to have been as effectively limited in Russia as economic and political freedom. Such a situation, of course, cannot last. No great, energetic, creative race is going to let itself be bottled up mentally and spiritually very long by any narrow-minded group of political bosses.

What is useless to you may be valuable to others—advertise it in the classified columns.

SPRING FUN

CHAPTER V.

FANGS, the Wolf, was prowling in the Great Woods. Usually he kept far away from Birdland, having a hankering for the deepest part of the summer woods.

But Fangs, the Wolf, had wandered far from his usual haunts tonight. He was much nearer the village than he ordinarily came. And Fangs was hungry. He meant to catch a warm meal before starting for his distant home.

Jack and Janet were on their way to Birdland to visit their feathered friends.

He was going to get that cat now!

But Blue Jay stopped them. "Say, say! There is a wolf in the woods. You had better climb a tree!" screamed Blue Jay.

Jack and Janet did not need a second warning. They climbed at once into a pine tree whose low branches made a fine "What shall we do?" whispered Janet to Jack. "Supposing that wolf stays in Birdland all day. We will not dare to slip down from this tree to get home. He would chase us on each side."

Jack agreed with this. They were in a rather awkward fix.

"Cat Bird was perched on a twig overhead."

"Tweet Tweet! Do you want to see me get that wolf away?" sang Cat Bird.

"That was just what Jack and Janet did want to see, but they did not want much hope that Cat Bird could get Fangs, the Wolf, away. He seemed much too small for a job like that."

"Tweet-tweet! I am a witty bird," said Cat Bird. "I'll use my wits to get Fangs, the Wolf, away. Watch me!"

Cat Bird flew off and was gone some time. While he was gone Fangs, the Wolf, came sniffing around. He found the tracks of Jack and Janet. He followed the tracks to the tree. He looked up and saw Jack and Janet sitting safely in the branches.

"W-a-a-a-a! Children! I scolded Fangs the Wolf. 'I can't find anything else to eat. I'll wait until they get sleepy and fall out of the tree. Then I'll eat them!'"

As Fangs, the Wolf, said this a faint cry came from the bushes nearby. "Me-ow! Me-ow!" It was the cry of a cat.

Fangs, the Wolf, turned that way eagerly.

"Is that Bob Cat?" he snarled. If it were Bob Cat, Fangs did not want anything to do with him, for Bob Cat was known to have very sharp claws and to be one of the fiercest fighters in the woods.

"Me-ow! Me-ow!" came the cry again, Fangs, the Wolf, grumbled. "That isn't Bob Cat," said he. "That is a house cat. It will make a sweet, tender meal for me."

"Me-ow! Me-ow!" The cry was going away. Jack and Janet saw Cat Bird flutter through the bushes. They saw Fangs, the Wolf, sneaking forward. He sneaked on after the cat he thought was there. Jack and Janet could not see any cat, but they did see Cat Bird. But they looked very sharply and finally they did see what appeared to be a cat's tail, waving over the top of a small hill. Fangs, the Wolf, also saw the waving tail. He thought he was near his warm meal. He crept toward the tail. When he got close, he leaped forward. He expected to grab the cat to which the tail belonged. But Fangs, the Wolf, grabbed no cat. The tail was just a piece of willow stalk put there by Cat Bird. And instead of pouncing upon a soft kitten, Fangs, the Wolf, found he had

"Matrimonial Making"

By MRS. HUGH McKAY

My husband has his friends call me up to let me know that he's been detained, but is on his way home.

It seems to think that if he does this every time he's late I should be waiting for him with open arms.

He comes in the door smiling pleasantly and asking:

"Got my message, did you? I just thought I'd send you word that I'd be right along."

When a man's late for dinner it seems to me that the least he can do is to show a little decent penitence; this air of self-confident innocence that Hugh adopts is just a little more than I can stand.

"Yes, I got your message," I tell him, "but it wasn't necessary for your friend Tom Waters, to tell me over the phone that you were a trifle late, but could be expected at any minute. I might have guessed that if I'd tried hard enough."

And then he looks hurt and unfairly treated—and all the other things that a man likes to seem after he's done something to annoy his wife!

Tomorrow: "My wife spends all day Sunday washing her hair."

been tricked into springing into a thorny briar heap. The thorns of the briar pricked and tore him. He was badly scratched before he got out.

But further in the woods he heard again, "Me-ow! Me-ow!" the call of a cat. Smirring and angry, Fangs, the Wolf went after that sound. He was going to get that cat now if he had to chase it for miles. And chase it for miles he did. Soon Blue Jay came chattering to Jack and Janet.

"Say! Say! Cat Bird says you can go home now!" he screamed. He has led the foolish wolf for miles and miles away by meowing like a cat. The wolf doesn't know yet that he is chasing a bird.

Which was a fine joke on Fangs, the Wolf.

WARNING NOTE SOUNDED HERE BY OFFICIALS

Idaho Agricultural Commissioner and State Veterinarian Urge United Stand Against Menace of Animal Plague

Announcement of new and closer restrictions to be made effective within a few days in the Idaho quarantine against the foot and mouth disease and a plea for the closest cooperation on the part of farmers, merchants, business men, civic organizations and all citizens in the effort to prevent the spread of the epidemic in this state from California, were made here Thursday by M. A. Means, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. W. R. Smith, state veterinarian.

Commissioner Means and Dr. Smith are returning to Boise from Salt Lake where they participated in the conferences Tuesday and Wednesday at livestock men and state officials for the formation of uniform quarantine regulations for western states.

Costs California Millions.

In requesting cooperation toward keeping out of Idaho the plague that has already cost the state of California and states of the west several millions of dollars, Mr. Means said:

"The average person does not realize the seriousness of the disease, the amount of damage already inflicted or the astonishing ease by which the foot and mouth disease is spread."

"Idaho's animal industry represents a total of about $20,000,000. There are about 200,000 worth of lambs to be shorn this spring. In addition there is a vast amount of dairy and beef animals, and hogs. If the disease breaks out in Idaho and the state is quarantined against outgoing shipments one can readily see what the result would be."

Infection Is Elusive.

"A single case of infection would be sufficient to affect the entire state. Merchants can be of great assistance in preventing the disease by making sure if they will burn all boxes and packing in shipments of food, vegetables or merchandise from California, as the disease is known to be carried in some instances by these mediums."

"Sheep men should be extremely careful in employing shearers and laborers and to have them disinfected their clothes and all instruments used. In fact, everyone can assist in protecting the animal industry of the state by observing stringent preventive measures."

The Idaho department of agriculture is employing every precaution against possibility of an outbreak of the malady in this state, Mr. Means said.

The manner in which the disease has been spread has been puzzling in many instances, Dr. Smith stated. In one case it occurred in Merced county, California, and almost simultaneously in another county 200 miles distant. It has already cost the state of California more than $1,000,000 in indemnities for losses, and the Idaho department has already paid the government the same amount.

Wipes Out Big Herd.

Dr. Smith described a case in one of the infected districts where 2,000 head of valuable cattle were driven alongside a trench a mile long, the animals shot and their bodies thrown in the trench and buried.

Both of the Idaho executives were pleased with results obtained at the Salt Lake conference.

Officers and members of the American Legion Women's auxiliary of Kimberly, were guests of the Twin Falls auxiliary at a meeting and social session Thursday evening in the Business Wings club rooms. J. Woods. The committee in charge of the entertainment was composed of Mrs. J. L. Hodgkin, Mrs. L. Friedman, Mrs. Patrick Wynn and Miss Bertie Pink.

YOUTH CONFESSES FORGERY.

William Hansing, 19, pleaded guilty before Judge G. B. Duval probate court Thursday to charge of forging the name of his uncle, A. Hansing, to two checks drawn in sums of $12 and $20, and was held to the action of the district court. The youth was returned here Wednesday in custody of Deputy Sheriff E. F. Prater from Perry, Oklahoma, where he went to his parents' home after commission of the offense.

Symphony Concert Displays Artistry

Second Annual Offering of Twin Falls Organization Evidences Exceptional Ability

The Twin Falls Symphony orchestra appeared Thursday evening at the Orpheum in their second annual concert under the direction of Gustav G. Florin, presenting a program of classical numbers which evidenced exceptional musical ability and splendid training. The first portion of the program was made up of the eight numbers of the difficult Nutsacker Suite from Tchaikowsky, and the closing group of the program, consisting of Liszt's Ninth Hungarian Rhapsody, which was followed by Sunset Land, by Kawelo, and the final number, selections from the Four Seasons, by Vivaldi.

Especially interesting was the group of three selections by the junior orchestra. The 15 young violinists played in perfect accord, handling their instruments with a precision worthy of much older musicians.

The tenor soloist, John W. Summers of Salt Lake, is an artist of rare ability and it is seldom that Twin Falls is privileged to hear a singer with so beautiful a voice and such refined artistry. He sang two groups of three numbers each, responding to the enthusiastic applause which greeted each number, with "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia," and "Sweet Alice, Bon Bon."

Mrs. P. L. Alexander played the piano accompaniment.

The personnel of the orchestra: First violins—Vern Studebaker, Clifford Bauer, Lillian Redman, Luther Pierce, Lucian Brown, Clifford Meager, Kenneth Bondal, Faye Young, Theres P'edant, Dorothy Carman, Dorothy Neely, Nellie Nelson, Donald McClaffin.

Smith, Alverna Stinson; bass, Willard Lund.

Explains to Women How to Keep Off the Shelf

MADAME IDA CHERNOFF

Who visits Twin Falls to fill a lecture engagement at the Idaho Theatre.

Looking a picture of health and correct living, Madame Ida Chernoff stepped from the train here Thursday to fulfill her lecture engagements at the Idaho theater on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Madame Chernoff is an advocate of beauty in women, not only while they are in their teens, but at all times, and she offers in person the best of all evidence of the soundness of her teachings.

"The woman of today need not buy her complexion in a store—but she can get it in her own face, but she can't take the trouble, need grow old. Exercise, care of the skin and proper living will keep any woman looking young."

Physical fitness is given much attention by Madame Chernoff, so, too, is the matter of proper attention to diet. Good health, she says, is the only permanent foundation upon which to build beauty.

Madame Chernoff may be heard twice in Twin Falls. Her lectures are delivered under the auspices of the Schramm-Johnson Drug company.
