REPORT ROUSES ENTHUSIASM OF HIGH OFFICIALS

Washington Inclined to Be Optimistic Over Reparations Data; Hoover Points to Benefits; Draws Attention Abroad

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Official Washington, basing its impressions on still incomplete confirmation regarding the report of the two expert reparations committees in Paris, was inclined today to be optimistic regarding the irregular reception by the powers.

The belief was expressed privately by one cabinet officer that the plan on which it might agree and work out a peaceful adjustment of its most difficult problem, that of providing reparations from Germany. State department spokesmen emphasized again that the plans of the expert committees were not a governmental arrangement, and reiterated their inability to express any governmental approval of the committees' work. Rejoicing saying it was earnestly hoped the reports would lead to a solution of the reparations tangle, no comment of any kind was available.

Shows Advantages.
The only formal statement was issued by Secretary Hoover. He pointed out some of the advantages to American trade and farm production which would follow if the plans led to a settlement of European economic problems. In addition to these advantages it was pointed out in other quarters that a solution would aid the country by making it easier for the allied governments to repay the war time loans made by the United States.

ENGLAND ENTHUSIASTIC.
LONDON, April 9 (AP)—Taken at their face value the summaries of the Dawes report seem to British officials almost too good to be true. Foreign office spokesmen, however, are reticent in their comment all of which is speculative, they point out, is the report itself, inasmuch as the basis of its effectiveness depends solely upon the hypothesis that the finance and economic unity of the realm be restored free of control, except as especially provided for by the experts.

LOGAN IS PLEASED.
PARIS, April 9 (AP)—The report is like a breath of fresh air," was the comment of Colonel James A. Logan, the American official in charge of the reparations commission, on the work of the reparations experts.
Mr. Logan added he was glad to be an American and American money and computers General Dawes, Mr. Young and Mr. Robinson.

JANSSEN IS CONVICTED

DENVER, April 9 (AP)—Fred Janssen, who confessed that he killed his wife, stuffed her body in a trunk and shipped it to Ogden, Utah, where it was found March 15, was convicted of first degree murder here tonight. The jury deliberated only eight minutes and recommended that Janssen be sentenced to prison for life.

Comment Varies In Ger many on Report of Debt Committee

Government Officials Are Silent; Nationalist Paper Disappointed; Socialists Urgo Experts' Aims Must Be Met

BERLIN, April 9 (AP)—No comment on the report of the reparations experts committee was available from official quarters today and it was not expected that any would be forthcoming until the full text of the report was received.

The afternoon newspapers published copious excerpts from the report. The extreme nationalist Deutsche Zeitung is greatly disappointed. It characterizes General Dawes' letter as distinctly anti-German and pro-French.

The industrialists' organ, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, admits that a great attempt has been made in a businesslike manner to solve the fundamental problem of European politics, but it is doubtful whether it will be possible to raise in international loans under the conditions it is proposed to place on German economic life.

The Socialist Vorwaerts demands that the government do its utmost to attain the aims set forth by the experts.
Georg Bernhard, in the Voessische Zeitung, while admitting that Germany cannot reject the experts' program, says the impression prevails that the experts in their deliberations took politics into account much more than they are inclined to admit, because their conclusions read clearly those of the London program.

Soviet Rushes Army to Quell Rebellion in Turkestan Area

Revolting Troops Reported to Have Captured Part of Province; City Threatened

LONDON, April 9 (AP)—Turkestan, and the surrounding districts have revolted against Bolshevik rule, according to the Latvian telegraph agency, as quoted by the Daily Mail's Riga correspondent. The revolting troops are reported to have captured parts of the province of Pershanga and to be threatening the city of Khiva. The revolt is led by czarist officers, the troops are mostly fanatical Mohammedans and the rebellion is partly due to the anti-religious propaganda of the bolsheviks, the dispatch declares. The soviet is said to be rushing large forces to Turkestan.

COOLIDGE LEAD GAINS STEADILY

Gets Big Majority in Illinois Primary; Democrats Reject William G. McAdoo

CHICAGO, April 9 (AP)—One of the closest finishes ever witnessed in an Illinois primary race tonight promised to make history the deepest political struggle of Senator Modell McCormick and former Governor Charles S. Deneen for the republican nomination for United States senator.

President Coolidge continued to put up his advantage over Senator Johnson for the republican presidential preference with indications that his majority finally will mount to more than 100,000. Tonight 5668 precincts including Cook county, practically complete, gave him 419,836, and the Californian 22,922.

In the republican gubernatorial race which developed into the hottest state contest, Governor Len Small, although he ran virtually even in Cook county, had an advantage of more than 40,000 over his rival's strength, 457,000 precincts giving him 455,095, while Sukoonts polled 414,127. Governor Small's lead was expected by his supporters would be increased to more than 45,000 by downstate precincts yet to be reported.
William G. McAdoo, the only democratic presidential candidate entered, received more than 100,000 votes with half the state behind him but was rejected by Illinois democrats who picked an untrained delegation to the national convention in preference to a delegation pledged to the former secretary of the treasury.

FEW DEVELOPMENTS SHOW IN OIL LEASE SESSIONS

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Another brief and drab session was held today by the senate oil committee and at its conclusion adjournment was taken until Friday because of the difficulty in procuring attendance of witnesses.

William H. Miller of Columbus, Ohio, and J. F. Baughn, of Hartington, Neb., but formerly of Oklahoma, were examined with reference to reports of "deals" at the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920, but they shed little if any additional light on the subject.
Miller declared positively that the late Jake L. Hamon, republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, never had given him $25,000 or any other sum for the payment of the expenses of the Harding headquarters organization at Chicago.

BUILDING BOOM EXPECTED

CHICAGO, April 9 (AP)—Unprecedented building activity throughout the United States is pending, official building permit reports from 311 cities indicate, S. W. Strauss and company said in a statement tonight showing a total of $430,507,000 for the month of March. This is a gain of 3 per cent over last March, when permits increased 60 per cent over March, 1923, breaking the record for any previous March in the history of the country.

NO VOTE ON IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The senate failed again today to reach a vote on the question of Japanese exclusion, one of the two big fighting points in the immigration bill.
After four hours of debate, it was announced that the measure would be laid aside tomorrow for the consideration of the Norris super highway bill and the independence office appropriation bill.

STENOGRAPHER AGED MOTHER

WINTHROP, Iowa, April 9.—Crazed by brooding over involved business matters, the father of a young man's estate, Edwin McFarland, 45, today strangled his mother, aged 70, and his sister, 32, with ropes, then hanged himself in the kitchen of their home here.

EXPECT JOHNSON WILL QUIT RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

Future Course of Westerner to Be Decided in Few Days After Conference; Recent Defeats Held Significant

CHICAGO, April 9 (AP)—The future course of Senator Hiram Johnson, candidate for the republican presidential nomination, will be decided upon by the senator within the next few days after conference with key men in several states.

While there is no confirmation of the suggestion that the Johnson candidacy will be withdrawn, those who have been active in the campaign in the middle west make no secret of the fact that the Johnson hopes received a severe blow in the Michigan, Nebraska and Illinois primaries.

That Senator Johnson staked great hopes on his chances in Illinois has long been conceded by his supporters, and his defeat yesterday, with the Coolidge victories in Michigan and Nebraska, are known to have created a new situation in the Johnson camp.

Uphill Battle
Supporters of the senator have acknowledged from the first that they were waging an uphill battle for the nomination, and the recent withdrawal of considerable financial support added to the primary results of the last three weeks, have brought about a situation calling for decisive action on the part of the senator.

Concern for the loyal friends and supporters throughout the country who have contributed considerable time and money to the individual state fights in behalf of Senator Johnson has prompted him to confer with his key men before finally deciding what will be the future course of his campaign.

ORDER HOODED MEN HELD ON CHARGES OF MURDER

EBENSBURG, Pa., April 9 (AP)—Denying an application for a writ of habeas corpus, Judge John A. Evans tonight ordered 25 hooded men, members of the Ku Klux Klan, held without bail for the June term of criminal court upon charges of murder and riot in connection with the fatal disorders at Lilly Saturday between townspeople and visiting klanmen.

EVERY GENERATION HAS ITS LITTLE GROUP THAT TRIES TO CHANGE THE COURSE OF THE WORLD

Utah-Idaho Dealers Charged with Fixing Prices Unlawfully

Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law Alleged in Complaint in Federal Court

SALT LAKE, April 9 (AP)—Violation of the Sherman anti-trust law through conspiracy to fix prices and regulate trade conditions is charged against the Utah-Idaho Wholesale Grocers association and 35 Utah jobbers and dealers who comprise that association, in a complaint in equity filed in the United States district court here today.

Injunctive relief pending ultimate dissolution of that organization and restraint of its present membership or any of their employees ever entering again into any similar combine is asked.

PALMER UNDER HOT CRITICISM

Senate Daugherty Committee Delves into Details of Magneto Case Allegations

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The senate Daugherty investigating committee spent the day delving principally into details of the celebrated Bosch magneto case. George W. Stock, accountant for the department of justice, described the Bosch company proceedings at length together with a related transaction of the alien property officer by A. Mitchell Palmer, in which Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh, director of sales for the property officer, was charged in 1922 with embezzlement by an indictment which as yet is unprosecuted.

Stock described Martin E. Kern of Altoona, Pa., as the "financier and felon and friend of Mr. Palmer," who procured the seizure of the German-owned Bosch magneto plant in 1918. He listed Kern as an untrustworthy character of the United States who served repeated terms upon conviction of crime between 1896 and 1906, and declared that notwithstanding "Kern and his associates made a million out of the Bosch Magnetos deal without putting up a red nickel."
The witness' knowledge of the transactions was derived he said from his long investigations for the department of justice.

First Day's Effort Ends With Half of Fund Safely Raised

Slightly in Excess of $8,000.00 Collected in Initial Effort to Gather Amount Required for Purchase of Utah Construction Right of Way; Work to Go Steadily Forward

ALL ARE INVITED TO ASSIST IN THE WORK

No attempt will be made to organize general solicitation among the farmers, according to those in charge of the work, although a cordial invitation is extended to all who can do so to contribute to the fund.
Local men whom the soliciting committees fail to reach are likewise urged to forward their checks in such amounts as they may elect in the interests of the project.

With a little over half—$8,240.77 to be exact—raised as a result of the first day's effort, all committees will take the field today, with renewed confidence in an effort to close up as rapidly as possible the work of gathering the fund of $15,000.00, which is Twin Falls' share of the $25,000.00 required for the right of way purchase from the Utah Construction company.

WOODMEN WANT DELEGATE AT YELLOWSTONE SESSION

Local Camp Gives Enthusiastic Endorsement to E. F. Prater's Candidacy; Initiates 25 New Members

Twin Falls camp, Woodmen of the World, at a meeting Wednesday evening, elected delegates to the district convention to be held in Blackfoot, May 7, and enthusiastically endorsed the candidacy of E. F. Prater, Twin Falls, for delegate to the head camp session to be held at Mammoth, Yellowstone park, next June. Dull camp previously had endorsed Mr. Prater's candidacy. Election by the district convention of delegates from a relatively small camp to the head camp session would bring distinction to the organization here.

Out of 55 applicants for membership signed up at that time in connection with the continuing membership campaign, 25 candidates were initiated at this meeting into membership in the local camp, and arrangements were made for another initiatory session to be held next Wednesday evening. Delegates elected to represent the local camp at the district convention were Harold Daly, A. D. Hellamy and E. F. Prater, with George Teis, N. O. Kenney and Phillip Fix as alternates.

While the amount raised on the first day of the drive is a disappointment to some, it is pointed out that considerable money will come in later as a direct result of the first day's work. This together with the funds which will be gathered today from persons and firms not seen yesterday will materially swell the total, it is believed, and hope is entertained that, with steady consistent effort during the balance of the week the entire sum required will be in the hands of the committee not later than Saturday.

All Urged to Help
It is strongly urged by those in charge of the drive that every effort be made to assist in raising the fund. While substantial sums are being received and will continue to be received from many quarters, it is the idea to spread collections over as wide a territory as possible and no amount (Continued on Page 4, Col. 3.)

Death Better Than Idleness, Governor Tells Executives

Representatives of Eleven Western States Gather at Salt Lake to Discuss Allocation of Industries in Prisons

SALT LAKE, April 9 (AP)—Representatives of 11 western states, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, New Mexico, Nevada, California and Oregon—were present today at a conference called to discuss the allocation of industries in prisons. The conference, which will come to a close tomorrow night, is meeting in the senate chamber at the state capitol and is under the auspices of the prison and prison labor association of the United States.

Governor Charles R. Mabey of Utah, was the principal speaker at today's meeting and he told the delegates that idleness was worse to condemn men to idleness than it is to send them to the gallows.

McBRIDE ELECTED.
INDIANAPOLIS, April 9 (AP)—The Rev. F. Scott McBride of Chicago, was elected general superintendent of the Anti-Slavery League of America at a meeting of the national board of directors of the organization tonight. The Rev. Mr. McBride, who at present is superintendent of the league in Indiana, succeeds Dr. Purley Baker, who died last week at Westerville, Ohio.

Reparations Experts Submit Their Report On German Finances

League of Nations to Play Part in Collection of War Debts Under Dawes Recommendation; Country Must Be Made Economically Sound; Ruhr Issue Not Settled

PARIS, April 9 (AP)—The report of the experts who have been engaged for the past three months in the task of ascertaining Germany's capacity to pay reparations was handed to the reparation commission today. The two committees under the chairmanship of Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes and Benjamin McKenna, respectively, have gone deeply into the intricacies of the many problems connected with reparations, and as mentioned in the covering letter, they approached the task "as business men anxious to obtain effective results."

The league of nations is drawn into the reparations problem by the Dawes report, while an unofficial representative of the United States is stated for an important role in the execution of the experts' plan. An American member of the general board of control for the proposed new gold bank of issue is quite likely to fill the important post of "commissioner." His duties will be to decide when Germany's capacity to pay has been reached, while the league financial committee will be asked to arbitrate if the commissioner's decision in applying the "index of prosperity" are disputed by either Germany or the allies.

Politics Omitted.

A business matter devoid of politics is how the experts describe the task they have just completed. They interpreted the object of their work as leading to the collection of the debt, rather than to the application of penalties, with a purely economic solution in view.

Recognition of obligation of Germany to pay and declaring that she has resources with which to pay, the experts insist that if Germany does pay she must have her hands free to exploit her economic resources.

The experts carefully omit in their report mention of the Ruhr, but make it plain that the French and Belgians must satisfy themselves by finding resources in the Ruhr, if they see fit. They must take their hands off the Ruhr and Rhineland railroads and the Ruhr industries.

Sound Money.

The first prerequisite to the payment of reparations, the experts assert, is sound money in Germany. They propose to this end the establishment of all information the committee rejected the method of making a detailed inquiry of bankers and business men throughout the world as to specific and confidential transactions on the part of Germany.

"(b) Instead it adopted the following method: (1) The committee estimated the total value of German capital abroad at the outbreak of the war. (2) It is estimated the today reduction thereof during the war as a result of losses through depletion in value of advances by Germany to her allies, loss by sequestration of property in allied and associated countries and loss through depletion in value of securities. (3) It estimated the total accretions to German foreign assets during the war as a result of sales of adverse trade balance during that period, sales of gold and profits realized from territories occupied by Germany.

Estimate Holdings.

"(c) The foregoing calculation resulted in an estimate of German foreign holdings at the time of the armistice.

"(d) Since that date until December 31, 1923, methods of increase of foreign holdings have been as follows: (1) Chiefly the direct sale of paper marks and bank credit; (2) the sale of goods, real estate, precious metals; (3) interest on accumulations, loans, expenditures, foreign money expended by armies of occupation in Germany; (4) remittances from Germany abroad, earnings of transportation companies for transportation of foreign goods, insurance profits, etc.

Causes of Decline.

"(e) The causes of decline since the armistice have been as follows: (1) Purchase of imported goods; (2) cash payments to the allies under the treaty of Versailles; (3) German tourist expenditures; (4) interest on German securities held abroad.

"(f) In making all computations the committee has not relied on estimates of German imports and exports but has revealed the commodities on the basis of current world prices at pertinent dates.

"(g) The result of all the foregoing calculations gives German foreign holdings as of December 31, 1923.

"(h) Estimated figures.

"(i) Agents abroad in 1914 belonging to German nationals residing in Germany estimated at 28 milliard gold marks.

War Exploitation.

"(j) The war period. (1) Depletion of German assets abroad; non-payment of interest due and liquidation of securities. (2) Estimated figures. (3) The committee to consider the means of estimating the amount of German exported capital and bringing it back to Germany, held 38 meetings in Paris and Berlin. It adopted the date of December 31, 1923 as that to which its estimates relate. It is not possible to fix precise figures but the committee has laid down maximum and minimum limits between which the actual amount is to be found.

Project Inquiry Plan.

"(Section 1)—Method of work.

"(Section 2)—While availing themselves of

tion of between 9 and 10 milliard gold marks. Savings from German shipping, insurance, etc., greatly reduced. (2) Principal cause of increased assets: (a) Sales of mark credit, bank balances and paper marks resulted in profits of between 7.6 and 8.7 milliard gold marks. (b) German marks purchased by citizens of various countries and more than a million individual accounts were found in German banks. (c) Sales of gold aggregated 1.5 milliard gold marks. (d) Sale of German real property and securities to foreigners approximated one and a half milliard gold marks.

Foreign Assets.

"Section three. Conclusions as to amount of German foreign-held assets.

"(a) Committee estimates that German capital abroad of every kind whether liquid or in permanent investments was not less on December 31, 1923, than 5.7 milliard gold marks, and it thinks the middle figure of 6.75 milliard gold marks is the approximate total. This figure by comparison with 1914 estimate of German-foreign holdings shows a reduction of 21 milliard gold marks.

"(b) In addition to the foregoing, foreign currency now in Germany approximates 1,200,000,000 gold marks.

"(c) It must be remembered that foreigners hold property in Germany which has a counterbalancing effect and the committee estimates the value of such property as from one to one and one-half milliard gold marks.

"Section four. Conclusions as to means of bringing exported capital back to Germany.

"(a) Flight of capital was a result to the main of the usual economic factors, namely, the failure to balance the budget, inflation and the raising of large national loans, but it was accentuated by the attitude of the German people toward the payment of Germany's war creditors, and was marked by ingenious devices to evade restrictive legislation. It was also influenced by the action of speculators and timid investors.

"(b) Neither legal enactments nor severe penalties hampered the flight of capital or resulted in the disclosure of assets abroad. Under the economic conditions above stated this demonstrates the ineffectiveness of restrictive legislation and the committee feels that it would have been ineffective whether or not the laws had been fully enforced.

Must Stop Inflation.

"(c) The only way to prevent exodus of capital and encourage return is to eradicate fundamental causes—Inflation must be permanently stopped; the budget must be balanced and bank deposits on a sound basis established.

"(d) The committee knows the conclusions of the first committee of experts and if effect is given to their recommendations, it thinks that a considerable part of German assets abroad

Poor Persons Get Square Deal in "Bill-Jim" Court

Humor, Tragedy and Pathos Pass Daily in California Tribunal Where Small Claims Are Quickly Adjusted

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9 (AP)—Legal "hokuspokus" has been eliminated in San Francisco's small claim court, "where the poor man gets justice," according to Presiding Judge A. T. Barnett of the local justice court.

The court was established two and a half years ago through action of the California legislature. It was intended to afford individuals unacquainted with legal maneuvering an opportunity to collect small but just debts. It is not necessary to have a lawyer to appear in this court. All cases are for damages involving less than $300.

"Bill-Jim Court"

"It is called by many the 'Bill-Jim' court," said Judge Barnett, "because Bill and Jim come here, present their cases and have them settled without delay, great expense or legal technicalities."

Since the court was established it has heard more than 5000 "Bill-Jim" cases. Cases that never would get into other courts because of the expense of hiring lawyers, filing fees, etc., enter here because these things are eliminated. This informal tribunal has become so popular that five judges spend three days a week handling small claim cases.

Many Emotions

Every human emotion comes before this court. Honor, passion, envy and greed pass in review. Judge Barnett described the case as follows:

"Recently there was a case that brought both tears and smiles. An old street sweeper was in court. He had paid $35 for a set of false teeth, which he claimed did not fit, and he wanted his money back from the dentist. He brought the teeth with him. He took them from his pocket and bit-titters and guffaws from court officials and spectators. He proved they did not fit. It seemed funny to the audience and to me also, but only for a moment.

"The old man told me the money was the last of his savings and that he and his wife had made many sacrifices of actual necessities to buy these teeth. The wife was present. This was tragedy for them."

"Better return the money," I told the dentist. He did.

"That old couple left the court-room arm in arm, happy. They did not leave until they had thanked me many times. That one case would prove the value of this court. The money involved was little, but it meant more to this old couple than great sums would to our wealthy citizens."

"It has been noted that in 99 cases out of 100 there are no appeals from decisions of the small claim court."

COUZENS HIRES LEGAL EXPERT TO HEAD PROBE

Michigan Senator to Pay Expenses of California Man as Special Counsel in Internal Revenue Bureau Inquiry

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—The senate special committee investigating the internal revenue bureau was shattered today when Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, was joined by committee democrats in a successful effort to employ Francis J. Heney of California, as special counsel to conduct the committee inquiry.

The resolution went through, three to two, despite the reluctance of Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman, and Senator Ernst, republican, Kentucky, that the appointment of Heney, famous for many years as a public prosecutor, meant "another senate muckraking" expedition, and Senator Ernst's declaration that it was aimed by Senator Couzens at Secretary Mellon because the secretary had "spanked" the senator in their recent tax controversy.

Senators King of Utah and Jones of New Mexico, were the democrats who voted with Senator Couzens. It developed in the committee discussion that the first suggestion for a committee counsel had come to Senator Couzens from Senator Jones when he had observed, Senator Couzens said, "me floundering around here," and getting nowhere with the inquiry.

When it was brought out that Senator Couzens, one of the richest men in the senate, proposed to pay all Heney's expenses with the investigation, Senator Ernst sharply questioned propriety of that action. Senator Jones defended Senator Couzens' action and Senator King appeared to take the same view.

Black War Bonnet Gets Farm His Father Owned

Title to a tract of land, composed of 100 acres, homesteaded by his father, Black War Bonnet, in 1878, has been given to Joseph War Bonnet, a Sioux Indian of the Ogallala band, through a decision of the Department of the Interior. Originally, it was unsurveyed land, and Black War Bonnet settled on the 100 acres, making improvements costing over $200, and also occupied the tract continuously for three years, thus entitling him to ownership. In 1879 he received a certificate giving him complete possession of the piece of land, upon which he continued to reside with his family until his death in 1882. In the same year he died, leaving his wife and two children. The wife and the other child have since died, leaving Joseph War Bonnet the only surviving heir.

For many years Joseph War Bonnet has been making efforts to obtain possession of the 100 acres of land homesteaded by his father, but because it was withdrawn from the public domain by an executive order and for other reasons his petitions have been denied by officials of the general land office.

Joseph War Bonnet in 1921 made an appeal from all these adverse decisions to the secretary of the interior, and final action was postponed pending the examination of witnesses and the securing of accurate description of the land. Several hearings have been held in the case during the past two years, with the result that a final decision was issued, giving the heir full ownership and possession of the land homesteaded by his father many years ago.

The case is referred to as one where "long-delayed justice to a red man" has been effected.—Department of the Interior Bulletin.

Pin in Candle Meant Right to Have Hearing

There was an old French peasant custom which held the wisdom of Solomon. This law was called "The Pin in the Candle," interpreted by the English as "The Right to Be Heard."

In the old days if a man and his wife disagreed, the official to whom an appeal was made put two pins in a lighted tallow candle, equal spaces apart. The husband was allowed to talk until the flame burned down to his pin, and then he had to listen while his wife talked, until the flame reached her pin.

This law passed into oblivion long since, but its influence became a part of the family life of France. It is a tradition—particularly among the peasants—when a family dispute arises and one member proclaims a scolding or complaint for the rest of the family to say: "It is now mother's pin in the candle," or "It is now father's pin in the candle!"

So simple a legend as this has brought peace to a multitude of people. How many of us might apply to our daily living and hear both sides of the story!—Delineator.

ERADICATE OLD ORCHARDS

MISSOULA, Mont., April 9 (AP)—Eradication of abandoned and neglected orchards throughout the Bitter Root and Missoula valleys began today in earnest to protect producing tracts, which are to be continued this year, according to W. Shovel, state horticulturist.

Last year 1000 acres of fruit trees were pulled up and destroyed on tracts belonging mostly to absentee owners. These trees for years have been a menace by virtue of being breeding places for insect pests.

GOOD FISHING TO BE ASSURED

Federal Forester Promises to Assist in Keeping Up Work of Planting in Streams

ODEN, April 9 (Special to The News).—Through the cooperation between the state fish and game department, bureau of fisheries and the forest service in an extensive program of fish planting, the wonderful fishing streams of the national forests of the intermountain region will continue to be kept well stocked for fishermen if it is possible to be so, promises R. M. Rutledge, district forester of the intermountain district.

Last year a total of nearly 5,000,000 game fish were planted in streams within the reach of forests of the intermountain region. Approximately 2,500,000 in Idaho, over 330,000 in Nevada, over 1,500,000 in Utah and over 700,000 in Wyoming.

Rutledge trout, native trout, eastern brook trout and German brown trout together with landlocked salmon imported from Maine, are represented in this list.

At the same time 7,000,000 chinook salmon were also planted in the streams of the Salmon national forest, not with the intention of increasing game fish in that region, but primarily for the salmon industry on the Pacific coast.

The rainbow trout were the most popular fish handled for nearly 2,500,000 of these were distributed. The eastern brook trout came next with about 1,500,000, while the native trout total a little less than 1,000,000.

This program of planting will be continued indefinitely and will continue to make the fishing waters of the national forests a mecca for sportsmen who delight in that pastime. Large numbers of fish also have been planted in other waters outside of the national forests, of course, but generally throughout the entire intermountain region the best and most famous fishing streams rise within the borders of the national forests.

Says Many Are Buried Alive

On the theory that electrocution does not permanently kill all victims, Professor Jellinek, head of the Vienna Electro Pathological Institute, has recently startled the medical and electrical world by announcing that, in his opinion, many victims of electrocutions have been buried alive. He maintains that electric shock only drives the victim into a trance and that hope of saving them should not be abandoned until physical decay starts. He believes that hundreds have been buried alive, whereas if they had been worked over for a day or more they would have been revived.

Human Hair Cloth

Tons of human hair are being used now in making a strong cloth. A Southern factory is supplying the demand of cottonseed oil mills for a fabric that will resist for a time at least a pressure of 4,000 to 4,500 pounds in a square inch. Only that made from hair is strong enough. When the price of canvas hair became prohibitive experiments were begun with human hair, with the result that special hair-weaving machines were devised and a source of supply of human hair was located in China.

Going America One Better

China's newest department store in Hankow is to have a theater, a concert hall and other entertainments alongside the bargain counters for the amusement of its shoppers. The Wing On company, conductor of department stores in Shanghai and Hongkong, has required about two acres of land on the main street of Hankow for the erection of the several buildings.

Death-Defying Stunts in the Air Daily Duties of "Heavenly Twins"

PHILADELPHIA, April 9 (AP)—Leaping 1,000 feet or more to earth at the end of a swaying parachute that may be either good or defective is the perilous business of "Lucy" and "Philbert," the "heavenly twins" of the naval air service.

The twins claim a certain portion of the naval aircraft factory at the Philadelphia navy yard as their birthplace. For their life is not only a series of ups and downs, but full of many striking incidents, especially when parachutes fail to open.

Named by the air sailors, the twins are singularly unattractive in appearance. Their chances for winning beauty contests are nil for their countenances, when gray from birth, are kept that way by the hazardous nature of their duties.

Made in the semblance of human form, "Lucy" and "Philbert" weigh respectively 180 and 300 pounds each. They work in the summer flying costume of the air force, but their constitution is said by the sailors to consist mainly of coiled rope covered with canvas, with enough buckshot in their chests to bring them to the specified weights required for parachute-testing dummies.

Castilla, Father of Mexico. The title of "Father of Mexican Independence" was given to Miguel Hidalgo Castilla, a Mexican priest who lived from 1753-1811. He started a movement for independence which cost him his life. Some years later he was exalted as a saint and the newborn republic erected a magnificent statue to him.

Royal Observatory. The Royal Observatory of England was located at Greenwich and was one of the great institutions of its kind at the time that the world was finding itself from a geographical standpoint. Great Britain was also coming into a maritime dominance. For these reasons Greenwich came to be the basic meridian.

SALISBURY GETS WARDEN'S WORK

Official Long Identified with State Fish and Game Department Is Assigned Here

John Salisbury, who has been identified for several years with the Idaho fish and game department and who is now assistant chief deputy game warden working in the vicinity of Payette, was Wednesday designated by R. E. Thomas, state game warden, to succeed H. C. VanAusdalen, resigned, as deputy game warden in this district comprising Twin Falls, Gooding, Jerome and Cassia counties.

Designation of Mr. Salisbury to be game warden in this district came as a result of a conference held here Wednesday by Mr. Thomas with representatives of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association and a number of citizens of Twin Falls, Buhl and Piler. It is expected that Mr. Salisbury will arrive here the last of this week to enter on his work here.

Selection of Mr. Salisbury for the place met with general approval of the conference. Several persons participating were acquainted with Mr. Salisbury, who has visited this region occasionally during the past several years in his capacity as assistant in George Tonkin, federal game warden.

SPORTSMEN Pledge Support

Pledge of co-operation and support to the new game warden was given for the fish and game association by its President, W. K. Frisbie.

"Mr. Salisbury is widely known among sportsmen of Idaho as one of the most capable and efficient men in his field of duty," Mr. Frisbie said. "While our association has given its endorsement to another candidate for the place, I believe that the membership generally is well satisfied with the appointment of Mr. Salisbury and considers his choice a fortunate one for the district, and will give to him a full measure of support and co-operation."

The champion now has a lead of 1,000 to 440 with but one more block to play.

STINKER IS ILL

WHEELER CASE TO BE SIFTED BY COMMITTEE

Senate Orders Investigation of Indictment of Montana Senator; District Attorney Says Evidence Is Correct

WASHINGTON, April 9 (AP)—Immediate investigation of charges which led to the indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, by a federal grand jury in his own state yesterday was ordered by the senate.

Action came after an impassioned address by the prosecutor of the Daugherty committee, delivered before a crowded chamber and galleries and expressions of confidence by his colleagues. Senator Wheeler denounced charges brought against him as false and the indictment as a deliberate "frame-up." He assured the senate there was not a scintilla of evidence to support them and defied his enemies to produce such evidence.

Then striking back vigorously, the Montana senator declared he was not to be intimidated; that he had fought corruption during a stormy political career in his own state and would continue to fight it in Washington, regardless of his own personal fortunes. Announcing that he sought no sympathy from his colleagues and was perfectly able to make his own fight, Senator Wheeler pleaded with the senate to put an end to what he characterized as a "frame-up."

"The Meanest Man in the World" is the feature that will be shown on the screen of the Orpheum theater beginning today.

This has been classed as one of the outstanding pictures of the season. A cast of players rarely seen in a single production provide the reels of comedy situations that seldom are found in one production.

"This is the film adaptation of the famous stage play in which George M. Cohan personally appeared for a solid year in New York. The author, Augustin MacFague, obtained the idea for the footlight presentation from the playlet of Gertrude S. Ruckay. This was regarded as one of the best performances that Cohan ever appeared in and on the screen with Bert Lyell handling the role made famous by Cohan, the film production is scheduled for an equally successful run."

IT'S DIFFERENT

Those who have professed to believe that the raising of the fifteen thousand dollars required for railroad purposes could be accomplished in a day are called upon to revise their judgment in the light of the first day's showing—and the task is not a pleasant one.

The fact of the matter is, it is going to take hard and unrelenting toil to accomplish the goal
by the end of the week, and even then it will be possible only with the cooperation and aid of every citizen of the community.

Time was when fifteen thousand dollars could have been raised in Twin Falls in half a day for a purpose such as the present one. But that day is not now.

But the thing can be done.
Not many turn-downs are being reported by the committees and in a majority of these cases it is only the ability which is lacking—
the will to be there if the funds were available.

Committees must remain on the job until the job is finished and new recruits must be set to work
if such a step is necessary.
Twin Falls cannot, and must not, fail.

AMERICAN STABILITY

With a national election coming on,
it is perhaps timely to repeat
a story recently told by a university professor. A number of years ago he had as his guest an eminent citizen from one of the South American countries much given to revolutions.
The guest was a little embarrassed by the many questions Americans asked him concerning the instability of government in his native land. But it was during a presidential campaign in this country, and as he followed the newspaper comment and the heated discussions at social gatherings, and listened to some of the campaign
speeches, he began to smile complacently
to himself.

"At last," he thought, "this nation
is going to have trouble over its election, and possibly a revolution. Whoever wins, there is bound to be trouble
where so much intense feeling exists."

Election day came and went with no rioting or bloodshed. The next morning, along with election returns, the South American read in the paper the telegram of congratulation sent to the victorious President-elect by the defeated candidate. The people had spoken—through a majority of voters—and the losing minority had such complete confidence in popular government that it acquiesced in the election verdict without a second thought.

One of the reasons why Americans retain their faith in democracy is that,
in spite of isolated cases of betrayal,
the whole process is really carried on with such a preponderance of honesty. When the public gives as much intelligence to its voting as it gives honesty, there will be more efficiency
and responsibility in our government,
in addition to stability.

FOOLISH OR WISE PATRIOTISM

Considerable distress and alarm have been felt and expressed in some places lately because there seems to be an organized effort to interest people in peace. To be peaceable at home and among one's neighbors seems to be paraphrasing. To be a citizen of a peace-loving nation seems also to be worthy. But to strive actively to bring about international peace, to teach peace in the schools or to talk
it in the churches seems to be a dangerous business and to class one im-

FISHING
By DADDY

DREAM—GREEN MONKEYS
Jack and Janet had a fishing trip with King Fisher. They use hooks and lines, and he uses his hook, diving after the fish. King Fisher claims the children are scaring the fish away.

CHAPTER IV.

KING FISHER watched enviously
as Jack and Janet pulled perch after perch from the lake with their hooks and lines.

"But I told you that our way of fishing was best," cried Jack. King Fisher frowned.

"My way of fishing is best," he insisted, "but the fish are hiding away down deep, so I can't see where to dive after them."

"Our hooks and lines are finding them," laughed Janet. "We are winning the fishing race."

"Because you are scaring the fish
away," rumbled King Fisher.

But Jack and Janet were not scaring the fish. They were catching them. The fish were not hiding away down deep,
but something else was frightening the perch.

The perch had been playing around under the surface when King Fisher had caught the first one of them, and then of a sudden they had seen an awful form sweeping down upon them—a monster fish with terrible jaws filled with rows of sharp teeth.

"Plee!" shrieked the frightened
perch to each other. "Plee from Giant Musk-ellunge!"

And the perch fled as fast as they could, hiding in holes and under rocks where Giant Musk-ellunge could not get them. But poor Peter Perch had not time to hide. He was taken by the tail into a biting down in the lake.

He was caught in the snap of the terrible jaws, and that was the last of Peter Perch.

One perch was not enough to satisfy Giant Musk-ellunge's appetite. He sailed back and forth through the water looking for more perch. And the frightened perch kept close to their hiding places until he should go away.

But while the perch were waiting the hooks of Jack and Janet came dangling down in front of them. The frightened perch kept close to their hiding places until he should go away.

rushed out to grab those wig-worms, intending to dash right back into hiding.

But when they grabbed the worms
they found themselves grabbed by the hooks, and up they came to be added to the string of Jack and Janet.

That is why King Fisher couldn't see any perch swimming about below
him. That is why Jack and Janet, fishing deep, were able to catch hundreds and venturesome perch.

King Fisher, not knowing this, was much disgusted at catching any fish. He was hungry, too, for he had given his one perch to his mate.

Jack and Janet laughed at King Fisher. They were beating him in the fishing race. At the same time, he looked so forlorn they felt sorry for him.

"Here, take all of our fish you want to eat," cried Jack. "You don't need to go hungry while two such good fishers are here to catch fish for you."

King Fisher frowned, but he flew down and picked out a nice looking fish. As he sat on the limb of the tree eating the fish he happened to look into the water.

"Battley-rattley-rattle!" he rapped out. "I see a fish. But it is too big a fish for me to catch. It is Giant Musk-ellunge. Now I know why all the perch are hiding."

(In the next chapter Jack and Janet try to see Giant Mus-
k-ellunge and get into trouble.)

CHAPTER XXV

The Horse of Destiny.

In Boston harbor, Jack learned of the evacuation of Philadelphia by the British and was transferred to a Yankee ship putting out to sea on its way to that city. There he found the romantic Arnold, crippled by his wounds, living in the blue mansion created by William Penn. He had a young daughter of one of the richer families, for his second wife, and was in command of the city.
Colonel Irons, having delivered the letters to the treasurer of the United States, reported at Arnold's office. It was near midnight and the general had not arrived. The young man sat down to wait and was the great soldier drove up with his splendid coach and pair. His young wife sat beside him.
He had little time for talk. He was on his way to breakfast. Jack presented his compliments and the good things which he had brought from the Old Country. Arnold listened as if he were hearing the price of codfish and hams.

The young man was shocked by the coolness of the commandant. The former felt as if a pall of icy water had been thrown upon him
when Arnold answered:

"Now that they have money I hope they will pay their debt to me."
This kind of talk Jack had not heard before. He resented it, but answered calmly: "A war and an army is a great extravagance for a young nation that has not yet learned the imperial art of gathering taxes.
Many of us are going unpaid, but if we get liberty it will be worth all it costs."

"That sounds well, but there are some of us who are also in need of justice," Arnold answered as he turned away.

"General, you who have not been disarmed by force will never, I am sure, surrender to discouragement," said Jack.

The fiery Arnold turned suddenly and lifting his cane in a threatening manner said in a loud voice:
"Would you reprimand me—you
d-d upstart?"

"General, you may strike me, if you will, but I cannot help saying, that we

Young men must look to you older ones for a good example."

Very calmly and politely the young man spoke these words. He towered above the man Arnold in spirit and stature. The latter did not commit the folly of striking him, but with a look of scorn ordered him to leave the office.

Jack obeyed the order and went at once to call upon his old friend, Governor Reed. He told the governor of his falling out with the major general.

"Arnold is a sordid, selfish man and a source of great danger to our cause," said the governor. "He is vain
and loves display, and is living far beyond his means. To maintain his extravagance he has resorted to privateering and speculation, and none of it has been successful. He is deeply involved in debt. It is charged that he has used his military authority for private gain. He was tried by a court-martial, but escaped with only a reprimand from the commander in chief. He is thick with the Tories.
He is the type of man who would sell his master for thirty pieces of silver."

"This is alarming," said Jack.
"My boy an ill wind is blowing on us," the governor went on. "We have all the many Arnolds in our midst.
Our currency has depreciated until forty shillings will not buy what one would have bought before the war.
The profit makers are rolling in luxury, and the poor army starves. The honest and patriotic are impoverished while those who practice fraud and Toryism are getting rich."

Depressed by this report of conditions in America Jack set out for Washington's headquarters on the Hudson. Never had the posture of American affairs looked so hopeless.
The governor had sold him a young mare with a white star in her forehead and a short, white stocking on her left fore leg, known in good time
as the horse of destiny.

When he had crossed the King's ferry the mare went lame. A little beyond the crossing he met a mule on his own gelding. Jack stopped him to get information about the roads in the north.

"That's a good-looking mare," the man remarked.

"And she is better than she looks," Jack answered. "But she has thrown a show and gone lame."

"I'll trade even, and give you a sound horse," the man proposed.

"What is your name and where do you live?" Jack inquired.

"My name is Paulding and I live at Tarrytown in the neutral territory."

"I accepted his offer not knowing that a third party was looking on and laying a deeper plan than either of us were able to penetrate," Jack used to say of that deal.

He approached the little house in which the commander in chief was quartered with a feeling of dread, fearing the effect of late developments on his spirit.

The young man wrote to Margaret in care of Franklin this account of the day which followed his return to camp:

"Thank God! I saw on the face of our commander the same old look of unshaken confidence. I knew that he could see his way and what a sense of rest came of that knowledge!

More than was told me we are indebted to the calm and masterful face of Washington. It holds up the heart of the army in all discouragements. His faith is established. He is not afraid of evil tidings. This great, god-like personality of his has put me on my feet again. It was in need of it, for a different kind of man, of the name of Arnold, had nearly floundered me."

"Sit down here and tell me all about Franklin," he said with a smile.
I told him what was going on in Paris and especially of the work of our great minister to the court of Louis XVI.

"He heard me with deep interest and when I had finished arose and gave me
his hand saying:

"Colonel, again you have won my gratitude. We must keep our courage."
"I told him of my unhappy meeting with Arnold."

"The man has his faults—he is very human, but he has been a good soldier," Washington answered.

"Solomon came into camp that evening. He was so glad to see me that he could only wring my hand and utter exclamations:

"How is the girl?" he asked presently.

"I told him of our meeting in Passy and of my fear that we should not meet again."

"Woman is a man of faith. He never falters."

"He said to me: 'Don't worry. That gal has got a backbone. She ain't no rye straw.' She's again to think it over."

"Neither spoke for a time. We sat
by an open fire in front of his tent as the night fell. Solomon was filling his pipe. He swallowed and his right eye began to tingle. I knew that some highly important theme would presently open the door of his intellect and come out.

"Jack, I been over to Albany," he said. "Had a long visit with Mandy.
They ain't no likelier women in Amer-iky. I'll bet a pint o' powder on a fish hook on that. Ye kin look fer 'em till yer eyes run but ye'll be obliged to give up."

"He lighted his pipe and smoked a few whiffs and added: 'Kilt seventy pale o' socks for my regiment this fall.'"

Breakfast Food
"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife plays the phonograph when I'm trying to read.

I'll agree with anybody that music is all right in its place. But that place isn't about three feet from my right ear while I'm trying to make head or tail out of the day's political news.

Then when I begin to feel that, if music hath charms, they're beginning to lose their hold on me.

I tell my wife this—and ask her if she'd mind shutting off the noise for a while.

Her quick retort to this is to ask me if I think I'm in a public library where everybody has to go around on tiptoes saying "shush."

And she generally adds that if I'm going to sit around all evening and never say a word, she simply has to depend on the phonograph to break the silence.

And then she puts on "Come On,
You Black-Eyed Baby"—and I leave the room—and we're off on a pleasant evening.

How many kinds of automobile insurance do you carry?

UNDOUBTEDLY you are protected against fire and theft. Possibly you also carry a fair amount of "liability and property damage." Very likely you stop right there and drive along with a comfortable, "peace-of-mind" feeling.

Why not go a little further this year? How about "life" insurance for your motor? The policy is a simple one—inexpensive—and pays surprisingly good dividends.

What is the policy?—Consistent use of the correct grade of POLARINE and periodic draining of the crank-case—at least every 500 miles.

The Cost?—About a quarter of a cent per mile for the average car.

The Dividends?—Saving a lot of avoidable repair bills that result from improper lubrication.

The Polarine Chart will show you the correct grade to use in your car this winter.

FIRE DESTROYS RURAL DISTRICT SCHOOL HOUSE

Only Few Books Saved from Flames that Wipe Out Building
Serving Forty Pupils at Shamrock

Shamrock district school house, a two-room frame building, about six and one-half miles southeast of here, was destroyed by fire at about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. The fire is believed to have been caused by overheating of the furnace in which a fire had been kindled shortly before the building was closed wrapped in flames. Everything in the building was destroyed with the exception of a few books and a bookcase which were rescued by nearby residents who hurried to the scene when they saw the roof in flames and smoke rolling out of the basement, and entered the blazing building at considerable risk to personal safety.

Value of the building is estimated at $1500. The loss will be offset by insurance in the sum of $2500. The fire was discovered at about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday evening to determine a cause of action. Possibility of the election of a new board at the district school election next month was taken into consideration.

Forty Pupils Affected
The school has an enrollment of about 40 pupils, none of whom were on the grounds when the building burned.

Fire was kindled in the school house furnace Wednesday morning by a girl pupil of the eighth grade who lives near the school house and who has been making this early this spring when the teachers, Mrs. Matilda Johnson and Mrs. Henry Nussmecker, began traveling to and from their work in the school, spending nights at the homes in Twin Falls. The girl returned to her home after kindling the fire in the furnace, as had been her custom, and no one was in the building when the fire started.

O. M. Better, a member of the district board of trustees and one of the first persons on the ground after the building was discovered in flames, said Wednesday evening that when he first observed the fire the roof was in flames while the walls remained standing. In view of this circumstance, it was considered probable that the fire had started from a spark lodging on the shingles and fanned into flames by wind.

The building was one of the oldest school houses in the Twin Falls region, having been erected about 12 years ago. It had been remodelled and newly furnished recently.

Bailey Lee in district court at Jerome, of writs ordering the Salmon River Canal company to deliver two and three-fourths acre foot of water to lands owned by J. R. Diebolt and A. E. It is understood that the canal company will appeal to the supreme court from the writs.

SUIT INVOLVES EXCLUDED LAND

Territory Cut Off of Salmon River Project Not Yet
Restored to Public Domain

Restoration to the public domain of lands excluded from the Salmon River irrigation project by the "Whifflet cut," has been deferred, pending termination of certain litigation affecting the premises, and consequently is not open to nonresident entry under provisions of legislation sponsored by Representative Addison T. Smith, granting 90 days preference right of entry in favor of persons who have made entry on such lands under the Carey act.

Information to this effect is contained in a communication from William Spry, commissioner of the general land office, received in response to inquiry by Mr. Smith. A copy of the commissioner's letter was received here Wednesday.

As regards the Salmon River tract, the commissioner's letter says: "No lands have as yet been restored therefrom to the public domain, and consequently no nonresident entries have been made for any of said tract under the preference right accorded by the statute. A relinquishment of a portion of the segregation has been filed by the state of Idaho, but its acceptance and the restoration of the lands have been deferred pending termination of certain litigation affecting the premises. At present this is awaiting receipt of information which is recently requested of the state commissioner of reclamation as to the status of this litigation."

FEW REACTORS IN HEADS HERE

First Results of Tests in Drive
Against Tuberculosis in Cattle
Made Public

Twelve tubercular cattle have been discovered in 19 herds of a total of 2672 animals comprising 285 herds in Twin Falls county, as a result of tests made during the past few weeks by deputy state veterinarians in connection with the county-wide area drive against tuberculosis, according to report made public here Wednesday evening by Dr. W. A. Sullivan, deputy state veterinarian in charge of federal bureau of animal industry activities in Idaho.

Tests made thus far in connection with the drive have been confined to the territory comprised in the school districts of Twin Falls, Piler and Buhl. It is estimated that there are 30,000 cattle in the county to be tested in the course of the area drive which is to be conducted by federal and state veterinarians co-operating under agreement with the board of county commissioners.

DREAD SCOURGE A REAL MENACE TO THIS STATE

Local Men Describe Ravages of Foot and Mouth Disease and Urge Action to Protect Idaho
Interests

The menace of the foot and mouth disease among livestock to the people of the state of Idaho was the subject of two brief addresses at the Wednesday meeting of the Rotary club when Sam Kayler and Donald McLean discussed the effect of an outbreak here upon the livestock and other interests. Mr. Kayler, who has kept closely in touch with developments in California, emphasized the need of the strictest kind of quarantine regulations touching goods of all kinds coming here from California. He gave an interesting description of the ravages of the disease, the germ of which he declared had never been isolated. Only split-foot animals were affected, he said, a peculiar instance of this being in the case of an outbreak of the disease in an eastern stockyard which destroyed practically all the hogs in the pens with the exception of a shipment of half-foot hogs, not one of which was touched by the disease.

The infection, according to Mr. Kayler, may be transmitted in straw packing, excrement, or animals, such as dogs, upon bedding or clothing of tourists. He described steps taken to prevent infection in Arizona, where every road from California is guarded and travelers by auto subjected to rigorous disinfection and concluded by urging the very closest attention to shipments of goods, automobiles, or even in the dumping bedding or clothing of tourists. He described steps taken to prevent infection in Arizona, where every road from California is guarded and travelers by auto subjected to rigorous disinfection and concluded by urging the very closest attention to shipments of goods, automobiles, or even in the dumping bedding or clothing of tourists.

Mr. McLean stated that the Idaho lamb crop this year would bring about $10,000,000 into the state and the wool crop about the same amount, making a total of $20,000,000, practically every dollar of which would be lost to Idaho if the scourge were gained a foothold upon the Idaho range. He described a recent conference in Salt Lake held in the interests of protection of the American range, and stated that since the holding of the conference the disease had made its appearance in Colorado. He urged strict quarantine regulations and rigid inspection of all goods, including livestock, coming into the state from the coast.

Efforts Augmented.
Efforts of local veterinarians in this undertaking have been augmented the week with the arrival here of Dr. E. E. Ellis and Dr. W. E. Neary, federal veterinarians, and Dr. William Nye, state veterinarian, from Pocatello county, where an area drive is being completed.

Dr. Sullivan was here Wednesday in conference with R. E. Bressard, county agricultural agent, relative to arrangements for continuation of the drive in this county. He expects to return next week in company with Dr. Wendell R. Smith, director of the state bureau of animal industry, to remain here throughout the course of the 1924, City Tower Greenhouses, Twin Falls, Idaho.—adv.

Temperature Record Shows Lower Range

Mercury's descent Tuesday night was halted at the frost line, minimum temperature for the 24-hour period ending Wednesday evening being shown at 32 above, a decline of nine degrees under the low mark of the preceding day, according to the government weather observer's station here. Wednesday's high mark was recorded at 65 above, a decline of two degrees. Increasing wind velocity was a feature of the day's weather, sunshines prevailing throughout the day.

JURY RECEIVES FARM SALE SUIT

Answers to Interrogatories to Form Basis of Fact for Court's Award

Three-day trial in district court here in the case of A. Carlson against H. W. Levecke and others, came to an end late Wednesday afternoon when the jury was given a series of interrogatories relating to questions of fact at issue in the case, upon the answers to which the court will base his decision and judgment. Under instructions given by the court, the jury was to seal and deliver to its foreman its answers to the interrogatories provided agreement was reached prior to opening of court this morning. Answers to all of the questions propounded.

Invoked Fraud Charge.
The suit which was instituted by Carlson to foreclose a mortgage executed by Levecke in connection with Levecke's purchase in 1919 of Carlson's 50-acre farm and herd of dairy cattle in the vicinity of Buhl, involved also Levecke's claim that the contract for sale of the property was fraudulent for the reason that Carlson had made misrepresentation as to the health of the cattle. Several of the animals, Levecke alleged, were condemned as being tubercular and destroyed after they came into his possession. Purchase price of the farm was approximately $50,000, of which amount Levecke had paid about one-half.

Additional testimony on behalf of the defendant Levecke was introduced Wednesday after rebuttal testimony for the plaintiff Carlson was closed. Witnesses included three veterinarians who testified as to the condition of the cattle in question, Dr. W. A. Sullivan, Boise, federal veterinarian, appearing as a witness for the defendant, and Dr. H. R. Groome, deputy state veterinarian, and Dr. W. A. Pabon, being witnesses for the plaintiff.

The case for the plaintiff Carlson was conducted by Attorney T. K. Hackman, the defendants being represented by Attorney J. W. Taylor and James W. Porter of the firm of Porter and Witham.
