for Washington to Take Up Epidemic Situation with Wallace; Six New Infections.

SACRAMENTO, April 17 (AP)—A committee representing California departed for Washington today to acquaint Secretary Wallace of the United States department of agriculture with the measures that have been taken to combat the foot and mouth disease which has resulted in eight counties in California being quarantined. The committee also will bring to Secretary Wallace's attention to embargoes which other states have placed on fruits, vegetables and other products of the soil.

The committee before leaving issued a statement that read in part: "Every precaution is being taken by state and federal officials of California to make sure that the foot and mouth disease will not spread to other territories."

"The study of this disease in foreign countries and during the five former outbreaks in the United States has definitely defined what are the dangerous carriers of the disease."

Want Modification.
"It is the advice of the state and federal officials that such commodities as fruit and vegetables and other similar products of the soil originating in infected areas should not be considered as carriers. The unreasonable embargo against various California products placed by other western states should be modified. We feel, though, that they are sincerely placed as a precautionary measure, the unreasonable nature of many of the regulations demands a misunderstanding and misinterpretation and lack of true comprehension of the nature of the foot and mouth disease."

Coyotes Poisoned.
Six new infections were reported from quarantined sections. Sixty thousand poisoned baits have been placed in Merced county and so far it is estimated that 1200 coyotes have been poisoned. It is believed the wild animals are currying the disease.

Automobile traffic into Yosemite national park with the exception of the stages, has been suspended as a precaution against the spread of the epidemic. Rail traffic is not affected.

ARIZONA REFUSES TO LIFT TRAFFIC EMBARGO

PHOENIX, Arizona, April 17 (AP)—Prompted by reports that nearly 1000 motorists were waiting in California cities across the state boundary for entry into Arizona, the state livestock sanitary board tonight reiterated previous declarations that the embargo on vehicular traffic from the neighboring state will remain effective indefinitely to prevent a spread of the foot and mouth disease.

Vanderlip in Limelight Again with Report on Scheme to Have Heney Prosecute Revenue Bureau Case

PHILADELPHIA, April 17 (AP)—Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, told the members of the City club today that he was instrumental in getting Francis J. Heney of California, to agree to conduct the senate investigation of the internal revenue bureau. He entitled his address: "The Steala City."

Taking up the internal revenue bureau investigation, Mr. Vanderlip said that after Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and a member of the investigating committee, had been advised by Governor Pinchot to obtain the services of Mr. Heney, he realized the importance of getting a man like the Californian and had his office communicate by long distance telephone with Mr. Heney at Los Angeles. Senator Couzens, he said, did not know Mr. Heney.

Mr. Heney's terms were high, Mr. Vanderlip declared, but he was told to take the next train for Washington. The research bureau had 20 cases for him to study when he reached Washington. Mr. Vanderlip said further that he took Mr. Heney to Senator Couzens who agreed to pay his fee if the committee wanted. The two democratic members agreed, Mr. Vanderlip said, to have the Californian man work for the committee.

Cabinet Members Hold
Favorable Opinions
on Business Outlook

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Secretary Mellon regards present business as in an abey, but considers the condition as not "highly consequential." It was said today at the treasury, where it was disclosed also that the general situation had been discussed at a recent cabinet meeting. Most of the cabinet members, it was said, hold the same view as the treasury head, who believes that there is sufficient new business originating to check the present tendency towards a lessening in activity.

The credit situation is regarded by Mr. Mellon as good and indications at the treasury point to the optimistic prevailing for loaning with the resolute rates of the federal reserve banks. The reserve board itself has only one or two members holding the view that changes in the discount rate are advisable.

Some of the cabinet members regard present business conditions as propositions in that the stocks held by most retailers are low and their replenishment is imminent.

The cabinet generally believes, it was stated, that the administration's efforts toward relieving agriculture have met with a degree of success and that the results will be much more apparent in two months. President Coolidge takes the attitude, it was understood, that the farm relief program has been directed properly, and his advisers insist that the returns to the farms this year would prove the wisdom of the course adopted.

DETAILS ASIATIC
COLONY SCHEME

Ratification of Colorado River Compact Would Bring Million Foreigners, Maxwell Says

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Possible development of an Asiatic colony of a million persons in northern Mexico as a result of ratification of the Colorado river compact was pictured today to the house irrigation committee by George H. Maxwell, executive director of the national reclamation service.

Ratification of the compact, Mr. Maxwell said, would assure northern Mexico of a constant water supply and pave the way for such a colony.

Under questioning by Representative Baker, democrat, California, Mr. Maxwell said a man named Chester Allison made a trip to Tokyo to confer with Japanese financiers in regard to promoting the colony. A group of Tokyo financiers, he added, returned with Mr. Allison with a view of acquiring the land, if an assurance could be obtained of an adequate supply of water from the river.

Negotiations, Mr. Maxwell said he understood, had progressed to the point where a contract has been made to sell the land if the water difficulties were adjusted.

The witnesses explained that a railroad was to be constructed from Mexico to the Gulf of California and added that this would not be built unless plans were being made to develop the land.

SAYS GASOLINE FUMES AND
SMOKING MAY CAUSE CANCER

HUFFALO, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—Constant exposure to gasoline fumes is one of the apparent causes of cancer, Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, of Newark, N. J., told the American Association for Cancer Research in convention here today. Dr. Hoffman mentioned overeating in general, over-consumption of meat and sugar, and excessive smoking at other probable causes.

"San Francisco," he said, "has the highest cancer death rate in the world, with 500 deaths reported in the past five years."

Two and twenty-five hundredths inches of rain fell within the specified period, but Hatfield gets nothing for anything above two inches.

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—The right to purchase wine for sacramental use at home may be claimed properly after tomorrow by the radio communicants of the West End Presbyterian church, R. Q. Mergler, chief of the federal prohibition enforcement bureau here, said tonight.

The pastor has authorized his radio communicants to purchase of the symbolic bread and wine at home as they listen to the services and to use grape juice in case no wine is available.

Dr. Tertius Van Dyke of the Park Avenue Presbyterian church declared today that the broadcasting of communion services is a "very serious and dangerous innovation, open to grave abuses."

Other Presbyterian clergymen called the proposal "startling" and "astounding."

ORDER GERMANY
TO SPEED WORK
ON REPARATIONS

Commission Issues "Get Busy" Instructions; Groundwork Is Being Laid for Quick Agreement on Incidental Points

PARIS, Sept. 17 (AP)—The reparations commission this afternoon virtually told Germany to get down to work preparatory to a blanket acceptance of the experts' report. Prior to this the commission decided unanimously to take note of Germany's reply adhering to the experts' reports and to approve the conclusions and adopt the methods proposed.

Need for speed was the outstanding feature of the commission's communication, which tells Germany to prepare enabling legislation for the commission to approve so that when the allied governments—as experts taken for granted—adopt the experts' reports the ground work of the structure which Brigadier General Davies, Owen D. Young and the other experts envisaged, will already be laid.

Put Out "Feelers."
Pending Germany's compliance with the reparations commission's demand feelers will be put forth from London, Paris and Brussels designed to bring the experts' project into concrete form as rapidly as possible, for obtaining the members of the reparations commission did not reach today's decision without the full approval of their governments.

The commission's aim as outlined by one of the members, is to get a general agreement on all non-controversial points of the plan before taking up debatable questions such as abandonment of economic exploitation of the Ruhr.

"Nothing appears to require immediate decisions by the reparations commission," is the view which has been met concerning the commission's intention respecting the gaps purposely left in the experts' findings.

Brands Lurid Story as Untrue; Sees Investigation Procedure
as Ridiculous

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 17 (AP)—Speaking on charges made by Gaston B. Means before the Daugherty investigation committee of the senate, A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian, tonight declared that "Gaston Means' lurid tale of a plot on the part of Attorney-General Daugherty to blackmail an into using my influence with congress on his behalf, is a tissue of falsehood from beginning to end. It is an amazing thing that a committee of the United States senate would allow itself to become the medium of broadcasting to the world false and ridiculous charges of a witness of the character of Gaston B. Means, designed to blacken the reputation of honest and conscientious public men."

Revel of the licensing system in effect during the war was predicted unless means of orderly marketing are devised promptly.

The subject was referred to the fruit and vegetable committee of the states concerned for future action.

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Another speech defending the Sinclair and Dehler naval oil reserve leases were delivered in the house today by Representative Winter, republican, Wyoming, who recently declared that he believed the best interests of the government were served, by the contracts.

Reiterating that the question of alleged fraud and corruption in connection with the leases must be determined by the courts, Mr. Winter said the time had come for good sense and sober judgment by the public and congress in determining whether the leases are good or bad.

Further study of various conditions surrounding the leases, the Wyoming member said, had convinced him that it was a "fortunate decision when Mr. Dehler's offer to turn back his lease on the California No. 1 reserve was not accepted and fortunate that no such proposition was made or entertained as to the Teapot Dome."

ACTIVITIES OF MONTANA SOLD UNDER INQUIRY

Witnesses in Wheeler Case Deny Specific Knowledge of Senator's Deals; Telegrams Read into Records

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Activities in Washington of Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, since his election to the United States senate, were explored today by a special senate committee with lawyers deriving specific knowledge of any irregular or illegal transaction on his part.

The committee received also copies of telegrams which the federal court in Montana has impounded in connection with the indictment of Senator Wheeler, charging him with accepting $1000 from a Montana client for appearing before the interior department in that cases in direct violation of a federal statute.

Discussed Permits.

These telegrams, produced voluntarily by Senator Wheeler and the client, Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil operator, showed that the senator had discussed a certain Campbell permit with the solicitor of the interior department and would arrange for a conference between Campbell and the solicitor.

Edwin S. Booth, who was then solicitor of the interior, and other witnesses denied that the incident mentioned in the telegrams constituted an appearance before the department within the meaning of the law. Campbell and others testified that the payments that had been made by the oil man to Senator Wheeler's law firm were for services rendered in Montana state court cases and that the senator in accepting that employment had specifically stated that he would not appear for Campbell in any federal matter because of his election to the senate.

Recites Incident.

Booth, who testified that he and Senator Wheeler had been close friends for many years, said that his Campbell permit discussion with the senator was incidental to a talk as to Campbell's financial difficulties which had nothing "to do with the government."

"Did Mr. Wheeler at any time appear before you in connection with any permits for lands for Mr. Campbell?" demanded Senator Hiram, republican, Idaho, the committee chairman.

"He did not," said Booth.

"Did he solicit your aid or help with reference to these assignments (set forth in the indictment) or anything connected with them?"

"No, sir."

Several Examined.

Before Booth was called, Campbell himself, James H. Baldwin, Wheeler's law partner, former Representative Elton Stout of Montana, and R. A. Hastie, Wheeler's secretary, were examined. Stout told of suggesting to Campbell employment of Wheeler in his Montana law suits.

Campbell said he wanted Wheeler because of his record in the state as a "fighting" lawyer.

INDICATIONS POINT TO EARLY VOTE ON SHOALS

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Indications pointed sharply today toward a vote on the Muscle Shoals issue in the senate before congress adjourns. Advocates of the House-Ford bill have been pressing the senate agricultural committee for a report on the bill, which has passed the house so that the senate may vote finally on the offer. Chairman Norris has taken the stand that all of the same half dozen bills for Muscle Shoals should be considered before any report is made.

HIGH OFFICIALS GIVE ATTENTION TO IMMIGRATION

White House and Senate Consider New Problem; Measure Being Perfected; Situation Seen as Less Critical

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—While the White House and state department considered the situation which has arisen from inclusion of a Japanese exclusion provision in the new immigration bill, the senate today progressed with its task of perfecting that measure to the point which warranted prediction of its passage tomorrow.

Two per cent upon the census of 1900 was approved by the senate as the basis of immigration apportionment, thus bringing it into agreement with the house bill in the section which was expected to produce most controversy in conference.

President Confers

As the measure approached a final vote, President Coolidge gave increasing attention to its provisions. He conferred during the morning with Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee and later with Secretary Hughes, but the impression was given that he was not yet prepared to decide whether to sign or veto the bill.

Widely different interpretations have been given by the senate and by those who conduct the country's foreign affairs to the intent of the Japanese note which preceded the senate's vote in favor of Japanese exclusion, and the opinion on both sides remains unmodified. When the note was delivered to Secretary Hughes and studied by other state department officials, its chief significance was felt by them to lie in its definition for the first time in succinct form of the exact meaning of the gentlemen's agreement. They did not regard it as containing any threat against this government. That opinion still prevails, despite the construction senate leaders have placed upon the phrase "grave consequences."

Supplies Definition

Members of the house and senate immigration committees had requested a definition of the gentlemen's agreement, and the state department felt that Ambassador Hanihara had supplied one which the two governments could accept.

TARIFF BOARD
DIVIDED OVER
NEW SCHEDULE

Coolidge Chose Lower of Two Suggested Sets of Figures in Proclaiming Increase; Internal Row Continues

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—President Coolidge chose the lower of two suggested import rates on wheat in his recent proclamation increasing the tariff from 30 to 42 cents a bushel, it was disclosed today when the tariff commission made public the full file of information turned over to the chief executive on the subject.

The report disclosed that the internal row which has kept the commission split for more than a year had resulted in the sending of two complete sets of data to the president in the wheat rate case. One proposed a rate of 45 cents, an increase of 15 cents a bushel, the maximum permitted under the law, while the other suggested the rate, which was accepted. The faction headed by Chairman Marvin, republican, with whom Commissioners Burgess, republican, Chase, democrat, joined, proposed the higher rate.

Fixed Flour Rate.
Vice-Chairman Culbertson, republican, and Commissioner Costigan, republican, and Lewis, democrat, held out for the rate of 42 cents. The president took not only the recommendations of the latter with respect to wheat but also their suggestions for a rate of $1.04 per hundred on wheat flour.

The commission split on another fashion on the proposal to reduce the rate on bran, shorts and mill feeds from 15 to 7 1/2 per cent ad valorem. On this rate application, Chairman Marvin broke away from the other five commissioners, informing the president in a supplemental statement that a reduction in the mill feeds duty "might have consequences difficult of appraisal."

Chairman Marvin and his colleagues argued for basing the new wheat rate on the 1923 production costs, while Mr. Culbertson, with Commissioners Costigan and Lewis, chose a three-year period—1921, 1922 and 1923—as the cost basis, which was subsequently accepted by the president.

Oppose One-Year Basis.
The controversy on this point was predicated on construction of the flexible provisions of the law, the group headed by the chairman insisting that it was the intent to adjust import charges on the basis of contemporaneous costs. Mr. Culbertson and his two supporters maintained that to establish the precedent of using data for a single year alone would result in an annual clamor for alteration of rates that could only be disturbing to business.

GOLD NUGGETS FOUND.
SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., April 17 (AP)—A number of pure gold nuggets, each about the size of a pea, have been hauled out of the 600-foot level of an oil well being drilled in a canyon near here. Geologists explain that the gold probably was carried down the prehistoric stream known to be flowing 200 feet under the surface. It is believed that this stream flowed on the surface before the upheaval of the earth's crust formed the San Bernado mountains.

U. S. Air Squadron to Continue World Journey Soon; Emergency Station Placed

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, April 17 (AP)—With elaborate preparations already made additional plans to facilitate the passage of an American army air squadron around the world were being pressed at Dutch Harbor (Unalakleet) tonight.

Snow was falling here, but reports received from Chignik, 400 miles eastward and the last stop of the expedition on the American continent, had indicated that three of the four planes engaged in the adventure would fly to Unalakleet soon. The world from Chignik was that Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, Lieutenant Erik Nelson and Lieutenant Leigh Wade, the first who reached that point while the commander, Major Frederick L. Marlin, was stopped at Kuskokwim, 120 miles further back on the route, by a leak in his crank-case, was "getting hard-baked on Alaska weather."

Twice these three aviators had made a day's stage with an Alaskan tempest rocking their machines and pounding hard Alaska snow into their eyes.

Lieutenant Clayton Bissell, advance officer for the flight, announced today that he would place an emergency station on Atka island, 350 miles beyond here and the next scheduled stop at once.

SERIES WITH POCATELLO TO OPEN THIS AFTERNOON

Coach Hutton and His Squad to Arrive Today; Visitors Expected to Be Hard-Hitting Aggregation

Coach Hutton will arrive with the Pocatello pill whackers on the noon train to meet the Bruins this afternoon for the first game of their scheduled three game series. The first game is called for 3:30 p. m.

Pocatello is reputed to have a hard hitting outfit which is rather weak in mound material, a fact which will tend to make the battle interesting, as the Bruins presumably have the opposite condition.

Garrity will probably be unable to play as the "Moose" is suffering from a sore arm which practically renders him unfit for service either Friday or Saturday.

Studies are another feature that will cripple the blue and white squad to the extent of two players, and will undoubtedly change the lineup to a small extent.

Either Hodgins or Jaraman will open the home side's attack against the Pocatello aggregation which has a great respect for past experiences for the Evans men's playing ability. Saturday's game is called for 10 o'clock a. m. and for 2 o'clock p. m. All games are to be played on the Lincoln lot, on Third avenue north.

FALLS PROJECT BILL ADVANCES

Legislation for Acquisition of Indian Lands on Reservoir Site Favored, Walters Is Told

Legislation providing for purchase of Indian bottom lands on the American Falls reservoir site, upon acquisition of which federal appropriation for the reservoir project has been contingent, is likely to be passed in the house of representatives within the next few days, according to assurances given by Representative Adamson T. Smith, author of the measure, to Judge E. A. Walters, while in Washington on a trip from which he returned Wednesday.

The measure already has passed both the house and the senate and has been referred to conference committee in the house where favorable action has been assured.

Official Washington is largely occupied with the "mix-up" and revelations of continuing investigations, Judge Walters said, and public interest is indicated by attendance crowding the senate galleries daily.

It is regarded in Washington as a foregone conclusion that President Coolidge will receive the republican nomination for president, Judge Walters said, while the democratic nomination affords opportunity for speculation.

Old Guard Control Seen.
"It is the general impression in Washington," Judge Walters said, "that McAdoo is out of the race and that while he may muster strength in the west and some of the southern states, he will be unable to win over the rule requiring two-thirds vote for the nomination. It seems to be conceded that the eastern 'old guard' democracy will be in control at the New York convention and that Senator Ball-

EVANS' FRIENDS SIGN PETITIONS

Movement Is Launched for Retention of Popular Athletics Director in Schools Here

Retention of Clinton W. Evans, since 1918 director of athletics and coach in Twin Falls schools, as a member of the high school faculty next year is urged in petitions addressed to the board of education and placed in circulation here Thursday afternoon. Mr. Evans recently advised the board that he did not desire to be considered an applicant for reelection and that he did not expect to be in Twin Falls next year. His friends express the opinion that he may be persuaded to remain if favorable action is taken by the board on the petitions which are being signed by residents, taxpayers and patrons of the district.

Appreciation of Mr. Evans' services as a member of the high school faculty is thus expressed in the petition: "By persistent effort and clean endeavor he has greatly elevated athletic competition in the public schools of our community and has heretofore wielded and is now wielding an invaluable influence upon the student body of our schools."

It is urged by the petitioners that the board "undertake to engage Mr. Evans for the coming school year at a salary at least equal to the salary paid by the district during the current year."

N. F. F. Club Gives Gleam Ball

The Laverne pavilion was the scene Thursday evening of an elaborate party given by the younger set of Twin Falls when the local chapter of the National Flapper Flack entertained a large number of young people at a Gleam ball.

Subdued lights against a background of solid black which completely covered the sides of the room combined with light shades of the girls' dresses, gave the Japanese effect desired for the occasion.

During the evening favors in the form of cigarette holders for the boys and vanity cases to the girls were given the guests. Oriental refreshments were served later in the evening.

Donell's orchestra furnished the music for the affair.

lie officials. "The reason no indictment was found in the Bosch Magneto case was not the fantastic and absurd plot of blackmail that Means describes, but because there was no evidence of wrongdoing. In fact, the case was presented to two grand juries, one in Washington and one in New York, when the department offered all of the evidence that vindictive and prejudiced agents of the Germans were able to produce and both grand juries refused to indict. Nothing even amounting to a technical irregularity could be shown."

CONTRIVERSY OVER DEBT IS PUT UP TO JURYMEN

Defendants' Claim for Credit for Disputed Payments Brings Suit Involving Buhl Men Before Court

Questions at issue in the case of James and Ira Patton against Raymond and J. J. Rugg, a suit for recovery on a series of promissory notes aggregating $2040 were given to the jury for determination at the conclusion of a trial opening almost all day Thursday in district court here.

Liability for payment of the notes which were executed in October, 1920, in payment for dairy cattle and dairy supplies, was disputed by Raymond Duce and his father J. J. Rugg, who signed the notes as surety, but they claimed as an offset an alleged payment of $25 for which they testified they had not been given credit by the Pattons.

Litigants on either side of the case are residents of Buhl. Plaintiffs Patton were represented by Attorney T. K. Hackman, and defendants Rugg by Attorney J. W. Taylor.

The jury was instructed to send the verdict and return it into court this morning in the event an agreement were reached before that time.

Trial in the case of L. L. Walker against the Idaho Lumber company, involving claim in connection with the marketing of an onion crop, was set for trial in district court today. Plaintiff Walker is represented by Attorney Homer C. Mills, and the defendant company by Hedgie, Stephan and North.

TROOPS TO BE CALLED AS BORDER TROUBLE LOOMS

Governor of Arizona Seeks to Place Guardsmen on Duty when Motorists Threaten to Break Across the Line

TUCSON, Arizona, April 17 (AP)—Over long distance telephone, about midnight, Governor Hunt, at Florence, told the Arizona Daily Star that he was attempting to get in touch with General Charles W. Harris at Tempe, and instruct him to have one company of Arizona national guard prepared for immediate transportation to Yuma.

His action was taken after officials enforcing the fast and month quarantine at the border city had advised him that between 500 and 600 motorists on the California side of the line had had a mass meeting and notified them that they were "coming through" in the morning despite the governor's quarantine order forbidding it.

"Make-It-Right"

MAKE-IT-RIGHT—one of the principles and ideals inseparably associated with the name of the C. C. Anderson Company Golden Rule Stores—is the principle of a SQUARE DEAL.

MAKE-IT-RIGHT means that "YOU above all else must be satisfied"—that you must be satisfied before we are—it's an assurance in advance that every purchase made from the Golden Rule will be exactly as represented and that it must meet with your satisfaction. If it does not—we will see to it that you are SATISFIED.

THE GOLDEN RULE rejected that cold, hard, fast old rule of law of "caveat emptor"—"let the buyer beware," and it did this at the time of its foundation in Boise 28 years ago. Yes, 28 years ago the Golden Rule pioneered on the Make-It-Right principle and the CASH WAY.

"NO REFUNDS"—"No exchanges"—"Every Sale Final"—are terms unknown in Golden Rule merchandising. It refuses to regard any sale as final until the stamp of finality is placed upon it by the customer who is satisfied.

WHY NOT?

Newspapers, it would appear, are not to themselves natural monopolies, yet they are anti-public service institutions and as such The Twin Falls
News expects to apply to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for permission to raise the rates at which it shall sell its product to a point which will result of an annual earning, based upon the value of its plant, of seven and a half per cent. This step may be a little unusual but it is not without precedent, of a sort.

In the event of a controversy arising between the Commission and The News as to what constitutes a fair valuation of the News plant, The News will claim the privilege of hiring and calling into its service newspaper plant experts from over the country together with such legal talent as may seem advisable, such expense to be included within the schedule of necessary operating expenses.

Should it seem necessary, in order to maintain its position before the Commission, for The News to incur a fixed annual expense for the services of rate and legal experts in the public utility field, this fixed expense shall become a part of the operating expense of the plant. If the people to whom The News sells its goods shall enter an appearance before the Commission by way of protest against the earning of the interest rate of seven and a half per cent, they may take up a collection among themselves to defray the cost of such protest, it being especially understood that no part of the cost of such showing shall be in any manner chargeable to the Public Utilities Commission.

All subscribers, advertisers and buyers of printing shall be given a discount of ten per cent upon ten-year contracts, bills payable monthly, such contracts to be of a kind which will render it absolutely impossible for the customer to patronize any other printing and publishing plant during the life of the contract but which shall not contain any guarantee against an increase in the price of the product at any time The News may obtain permission from the Commission to raise any or all of its various rates.

As before stated, The News is not a monopoly, but on the broad principle laid down by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Idaho, in dealing with the Idaho Power Company, that that certain industry is entitled to this earnings upon an agreed valuation of its plant and equipment, it would seem that other lines of business might reasonably look for a share in the benefits, in principle.

This is exactly the privilege which is now enjoyed by the Idaho Power Company under and by virtue of the authority of the Public Utilities Commission.

Those who feel that such an arrangement is perfectly right, just and proper should at least agree with the proposition that it would be a good thing for other businesses as well.

NATIONAL AND STATE TAXES

The federal government is far from being the only tax-oppressor. North Dakota last year paid one million, five hundred seven thousand dollars in national taxes and thirty million, nine hundred thirty-two thousand dollars in state taxes. South Dakota paid two million, sixty-five thousand dollars in national taxes and thirty-two million, three hundred eighty-eight thousand dollars in state taxes.

These cases are extreme, but there are several others almost as remarkable. New Mexico paid one million, sixteen thousand dollars in national taxes and eleven million, seven hun-

THE WEATHER MAN'S JOKE

By DADDY

When Jack, Janet and the birds play spring picnic, the Weather Man plays a joke on them by sending a snowstorm. But Jack and Janet fool the Weather Man by turning the spring picnic into a snow picnic.

CHAPTER V.

Hailing Snowballs.

JACK and Janet had a good laugh at the time of circulation from whom full information as to circulation may be obtained upon request. Details of information supplied locally upon request.

"We will show you how to fight a snow storm," said Jack. "We will begin to pick off snowballs and to throw them at Purple Martha, Blue Jay, Brown Thrush and the other birds. We also throw snowballs at Janet who threw them back at him."

The children thought it fine fun to fight a snowball battle, particularly as the snowballs were not hard enough to hurt. But the birds did not like that kind of a battle. They flew away screaming and shrieking to hide in the trees.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! This is fun," laughed Janet. "But it would be more fun if the birds could throw snowballs back at us," declared Jack. "We are so large, it is not fair for us to throw at them."

"Yes, that would be more fun," agreed Janet. "Just then Jack yelled: 'Ouch!' Something had hit him on the top of the head. Jack looked up and a big soft snowball hit him in the eye. Jack ducked his head quickly, and another snowball hit him in the back of the neck, some of the snow dropping down inside his collar.

Janet looked at Jack in astonishment. She couldn't understand at first what was the matter with him. Then a snowball hit her on the top of the head. "Ouch!" she screamed, and looked up. Squash! Another soft snowball landed in her eye. And a third hit her in the neck as she ducked as Jack had done.

"Jin-a-jin-ee! It is hailing snowballs!" yelled Jack. "Run for the shed!" Jack and Janet started for the shed, but as they did so they heard dozed sixty-six thousand dollars in state taxes. Arizona one million, six hundred sixty-six thousand dollars and twenty million, four hundred thirty-two thousand dollars, respectively.

Texas seventeen million dollars and one hundred twenty-eight million, four hundred thirty-nine thousand dollars.
Mississippi three million, seven hundred sixty-eight thousand dollars and thirty-seven million, five hundred ninety-three thousand dollars.

It is mainly in the Northwest and Southwest that these evidences are found of enormous state expenditure, though some of the extreme southern states are close competitors. The northern and eastern states, on the whole, seem more conservative in state taxation. In most of the states the ratio of state taxes to national taxes runs about two to one. New York has the unique distinction of paying heavier taxes to Washington than to Albany.
The most obvious thing about a comparison like this is that while the federal government has been subjected to a powerful and incessant demand for tax reduction, such a demand is needed more, and might accomplish more, if directed at the state governments.

Taxicab Driver Proves Chivalry Is Not Dead

"Don't owe me money, lady—it's so long since I have been a hero," said a taxicab driver, proving thereby that chivalry has not died.

The girl was dressed to impress a possible employer at the end of each best. She was here, job-hunting, and a sudden rainstorm let her warren in an office building on a Fifth avenue corner. Taxicabs of all colors, all of them comfortably filled, were skidding past, and for half an hour the girl watched them greedily. Finally an empty cab came along. She dashed in and it hurried in without a word of warning, says the New York Sun and Globe.

"Get up; get up, miss," said the driver, beginning to look frightened.

"I've got to take this cab around to the garage."

"I can't get up," said the girl.

"You'll have to get out, the driver sternly. "I can't stay here all night—that car is telling me to move on now."

"Now, man to man," said the girl, looking at him out of black-rimmed Irish eyes, "do you want me to get this taxi back?"

He looked at the eyes and then at the hat. It was a pink silk hat, and, like the clouds, it had a silver lining.

"No miss, I don't," he answered.

"Tell you what I can do—I'll take you as far as I'm going and get you another cab here."

He drove off and then threw the meter hailing bird voices above them.

"Cheer! cheer! We have won the snow fight. We have made Jack and Janet run."

Jack stopped running and hobbler his hand over his eye to protect them from more snowballs. He looked up.
Then he knew where the hail of snowballs had come from. The birds had made snowballs and were trying to throw them had carried them up into the air and dropped them on Jack and Janet. And they had been good marksmen for every snowball had hit.

"Cheer! cheer! Jack!" screamed the birds. But now that Jack knew where the snowballs were coming from he did not run. He stayed to fight.
He tried to throw balls up into the air to hit the birds, but he found they were very good at dodging. But when the birds came down to get more snowballs he found it easy to keep them dodging.

The battle raged merrily until Jack and the birds were all tired out.
They Blue Jay gave a cry of dismay.
"Say! Say! It is raining!" the screamed. "Our fine snow will melt and run away."

And it was raining Jack and Janet ran for the shed to get in out of it.
"Come here!" they cried to the birds. "Get in out of the rain."

(But even the rain can't spoil their fun as will be told in the next chapter.)

Breakfast in Paris Is Not Substantial Meal

The most difficult thing to find in Paris, aside from a clean theatrical performance, is a substantial breakfast.

One can go out on the streets of Paris even in the morning, when the noise of the wooden shoe is heard in the land and the asphalt of the newly washed boulevards reflects the trig figures of the midwives hastening to their daily eleven hours of work, and hunt diligently until ten o'clock without finding any establishment that dispenses anything more satisfying than a cup of aromatic coffee and a few buns resembling the shoe of an underized horse.

"Ah, madame! Have you of the eggs?" It is a necessity that one devours three eggs.

"What, m'sieu, three eggs? Zut, then, m'sieu! For what reason would three eggs dwell in this establishment?
No egg has been demanded here since the time of the trial of that poor Dreyfus, when eggs were thrown by many wicked persons. M'sieu is an original, perhaps. Three eggs?
Heaven!"

"Then possibly madame possesses a small sausage or a morsel of bacon, with which she could succor the starving?"

"But no, m'sieu! No man requires such things for breakfast! Is it that m'sieu forgot to devour his dinner last night, yes?"

And m'sieu either satisfies the wild demands of his stomach with the universal horseshoe-shaped bun and a cup of coffee that could double for dishwater and, decide the most experienced dishwasher, or goes without food until the restaurants open for business later in the day.—Kenneth L. Roberts in the Saturday Evening Post.

World's Highest Phone Station on Monte Rosa

It appears that the highest telephone station in the world is that of the meteorological observatory on top of Monte Rosa, the Alps, at a height of 15,400 feet. Since the station is occupied only for a short period each year, the poles carrying the telephone wire at the center of the end of each season and re-erected when this is required.

It is interesting to know that the unusual conditions of weather which are met with in the mountain region do not hinder, but on the other hand, really favor the operation of the telephone line. Short poles are used and at the center of each span the wire touches the snow, but as the snow is quite dry it is a good insulator and no leakage troubles are found.

Indeed, the hind section of the line, from the Col du Lys to the peak, is simply laid across the snow without the use of any other support. Where the poles are used, to prevent any breakage of the wire, owing to movements of the glacier, the line is carried through rings on the poles and is not attached fast to the insulators.

The line crosses two valleys, each about 3,500 feet wide, and naturally they must be crossed by a single span.
But the death of the wire, as the great that the sag of the wires is of no importance.—Washington Star.

CHAPTER XXIX

Solomon's Last Fight.

Meanwhile, Margaret and her mother had come up the river in a hurry to the house of the latter. Jack had gone out on a tour of inspection. He had left headquarters after the noon meal with a curious message in his pocket and a feeling of great relief.
The message had been delivered to him by the mother of a captain in one of the regiments. She said that it had been given to her by a man whose she did not know. Jack had been busy until she had gone away. It was an astounding and most welcome message in the flowing script of a rapid penman, but clearly legible. It was without date and very brief. These were the cheering words in it:

"My dear friend: I have good news from down the river. The dancer is passed."
HENRY THORNHILL.

Jack being out of camp, Margaret had found Solomon and Mrs. Arnold.
He had been looking toward the south end he had gone out on the south road with the young lady and her mother and Mrs. Arnold.

Jack was riding into camp from an outpost of the army. The day was in its twilight. He had been riding fast.
He pulled up his horse as he approached a sentry post. Three figures were standing in the dusty road.

"Halt! Who comes there?" one of them came out.

It was the voice of Margaret. It

THEY DISMOUNTED AT ARNOLD'S PORCH.

challenge was more like a phrase of music than a demand. He dismounted.

"I am one of the great army of lovers," said he.

"Advance and give the countersign," she commanded.

A moment he held her in his embrace and whispered: "I love you."

"The countersign is correct, but before I let you pass, give me one more look into your heart."

"As many as you like—but why?"

"So I may be sure that you do not blame England for the folly of her king."

"I swear it."

"Then I shall enlist with you against the tyrant. He has never been my king."

Lady Clara stood with Mrs. Arnold near the lovers.

"I too demand the countersign," said the latter.

"And much goes with it," said the young man as he kissed her, and then he embraced the mother of his sweetheart and added:

"I hope that you are also to enlist with us."

"No, I am to leave my little rebel with you and return to New York."

"Will you give me a ride?" Margaret asked her lover. "I'll get on behind you."

Solomon took off the saddle and tightened the blanket girth.

"That, isn't over clean, but now ye kin look ride," said he.

So the two were riding, she in front, as they had ridden long before through the shady, mallow-bush in Troyon county.

He had visited the forts and batteries.
He had communicated with every outpost. His plans were complete. About midnight, when he and Solomon were lying down to rest, two horsemen came up the road at a gallop and stopped at his door. They were aides of Washington. They reported that the general was spending the night at the house of Henry Jasper, near the fort, and would reach camp about noon next day.

"Thank God for that news," said the young man. "Solomon, I think that we can sleep better tonight."

Jack was awake for an hour thinking of the great happiness which had fallen in the midst of his troubles and of Thornhill and his message. He heard the two aides going to their quarters. Then a deep silence fell upon the camp, broken only by the rumble of distant thunder in the mountains and the feet of someone pacing up and down between his hut and the house of the general. He put on his long coat and slippers and went out of doors.

"Who's there?" he demanded.

"Arnold," was the answer. "Taking a little walk before I turn in."

There was a weary, pathetic note of trouble in that voice, long remembered by the young man, who immediately returned to his bed. He knew not that those restless feet were the comfort of a soldier's sleep. He felt a homely and friendly affection. The sympathetic look in her eyes and all her babble about the coming marriage were torture to him. He could not endure it. Worst of all, he was in a way where there was no comfort.

He must go on. He had begun to know that he was suspected. The conduct of the scout, Solomon Hinkus, had suggested that he knew what was passing. Arnold had seen the aides of Washington as they came in. The other scout, Henry Thornhill, had dreaded to stand before him. Compared to the torture now beginning for this man, the fate of Bill Scott on Rock creek in the wilderness, had been a mere trifle.

Soon after sunrise came a solitary horseman, weary by long travel, with a message from Colonel Jameson to Arnold. A man had been captured near the river. He had important documents on his person. He had confessed that he was Adjutant General Andre of Sir Henry Clinton's army.
The worst had come to pass. Now treason! disgrace! the ghastly!

Arnold was sitting at breakfast. He arose, put the message in his pocket and went to the room. The voluntary lay down the river awaiting orders. The traitor walked hurriedly to the boat landing. Solomon was there. It had been his custom when in camp to go down to the landing every morning with his spy glass and survey the river. Only one boatman was at the dock.

"Colonel Hinkus will you help him take him down to the British ship?" Arnold asked. "I have an engagement with his commander and am half an hour late."

Solomon had had much curiosity about that ship. He wished to see the man who had gone into the bush and then Smith's sketch Arnold.

"Sure!" Arnold answered.

They got into a small barge with the general in the cushioned rear seat, his flag in hand.

They came up to the Vulture and made fast at its landing stage where an officer waited to receive the general. The latter addressed to the deck in a moment a voice called from above.

"General Arnold's boatman may come aboard."

A British warship was a thing of great interest to Solomon. Once aboard he began to look about him at the shining guns and their gear and the tackle and the men. He looked for Arnold, but he was not in sight.

And the great ship on the deck, Solomon saw the Tory desper-ado "Stops," one time of the Ohio river country, with his black pipe in his mouth. Slops paused in his handling and rearing to shake a fist at Solomon. They were heaving the anchor. The sails were running up.
The ship had begun to move. What was the meaning of this? Solomon stepped to the ship's side. The stair had been hove up and made fast. The barge was not to be seen.

"They will put you all ashore below," an officer said to him.

Solomon knew too much about Arnold to like the look of this. The officer went forward. Solomon stepped to the opening in the deck rail, not yet closed, through which he had come aboard. While he was looking down at the water, some ten feet below, a group of soldiers came to fill in. His arm was roughly seized. Solomon stepped back. Before him stood the man Slops. An insulting word from the latter, a quick blow from Solomon, and Slops went through the gate out into the air and downward. The scout knew it was no time to tarry.

"A night hawk couldn't dive no guarantee that I done," were his words to the man who had seized him.
He was speaking of that half second of the twenty-fourth of September, 1780. His brief account of it was carefully put down by an officer: "I struck not twenty feet from Slops, which I seen him 'comin' up when I took water. This 'ere of slop that had overhauled us goin' down were nigh.

Breakfast Food

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife takes part in amateur theatricals.

That would be fine and I'd be glad to see her enjoying herself, if only she'd leave me out of it.

But no sooner said she start rehearsing for a play (and I might say in this connection that she's been in practically every amateur production during the last five years) than I have to begin my part and putting in my evenings as her private director.

A lot of men like Helms and Griffith make money out of this sort of thing, and I wouldn't mind working at it myself. But as a pastime, after a day in the office, it simply doesn't exist.

There's no fun in my trying to read or do anything else when my wife is getting ready for a new play. How can I concentrate on anything when she's walking up and down the room, singing?

"Only a year ago you told me you'd follow me to the end of the world—and now—now—"

Sunday I'm going to put up a sign over my front door: "The McKay School of Dramatics—Open Evenings."

Tomorrow: "My husband reads detective stories."

Hadn't no more'n come up than I felt Slop's knife rip into my leg. I never had no practice in that 'ere knife work.

"Taint for decent folks, but my ol' Dan Skinner is allus on my bell. He'd chase the weapons out so I fetched 'er with 'em if I could. We fit a militant thar in the water. All the while he had that d—n black pipe in his mouth.

I were backed up a leetle, but he got
a big leak in him an' all of a sudden he wasn't there. He'd gone. I struck out with 'em Dan Skinner twixt my teeth. Then I see your line and begin your front door: "The McKay
School of Dramatics—Open Evenings."

"Way below Stony Point an' a fair wind in her sails," the skipper answered.

"Bound for New York," said Solomon sorrowfully. "They'd a took me
with 'em if I could. We fit a militant thar in the water. All the while he had that d—n black pipe in his mouth.

I were backed up a leetle, but he got
a big leak in him an' all of a sudden
he wasn't there. He'd gone. I struck out with 'em Dan Skinner twixt my teeth. Then I see your line and
begin your front door: "The McKay
School of Dramatics—Open Evenings."

"Washington has gone up the river," said he.

"Then take me to quarters soon as ye kin. I'll give ye ten pounds, good English gold. My God, boys! My ol' hide is leakin' bad."

He turned to the man who had been washing his face with the water.

"Soldier me up best ye kin. I got to last till I see the Father."

Solomon and other men in the old army had often used the word "Father" in speaking of the commander in chief. It served as no other comfort, to express their affection for him.

The word was unfortunate and the slang "mum" it difficult to reach the landing near headquarters. After some delay Solomon jumped overboard and swam ashore.

What follows he could not have told.
Washington was standing with his orderly in the little dooryard at headquarters as Solomon came staggering up the slope at a run and threw his body, bleeding from a dozen wounds, at the feet of his beloved chief.

"Oh, my Father!" he cried in a broken voice and with tears streaming down his cheeks. "Arnold has sold America!" all its folks an' gone down the river."

Washington knelt beside him and felt his bloody garments.

"The colonel is wounded," he said to his orderly. "Go for help."

The scout, weak from the loss of blood, tried to regale his feet but failed. He lay back and whispered:

"I guess the sap has all oozed out of me but I had enough."

In a Washington one of those who put him on a stretcher and carried him to the hospital.

When he was lying on his bed and

STEPS TAKEN TO APPRAISE NEVADA LAND

Arthur J. Peavey and L. T. Wright Leave for Wells on Request of H. V. Platt; Railroad Situation Moves Along

In pursuance of instructions from Chief Engineer Armstrong of the Oregon Short Line, confirmed by H. V. Platt, Arthur J. Peavey and L. T. Wright will leave this morning for Wells, Nevada, to assist in the appraisal of the lands owned by the Central Pacific out of Wells which are traversed by the new railroad.

The Twin Falls men will be joined at Wells by E. P. Gray of Contact, and T. O. Holt, chief of way engineers of the short line. The price decided upon by the appraisers will be at once submitted to President Gray of the Union Pacific by whom the matter of the purchase will be taken up with President Scoville of the Central Pacific. Mr. Platt's telegram indicates that as soon as an appraisal is reached a cash sum to cover the purchase of the lands will be deposited so that such work as may be undertaken may not be interfered with by possible delay in closing the actual purchase.

Elko County Contributions.

Word reached Twin Falls Thursday to the effect that the county commissioners of Elko county had appropriated $1000 to be used in the purchase of right of way and terminal lands in Nevada, in and out of Twin Falls. Estimates of the value of all land required for railroad purposes in Nevada, aside from the Utah Construction company properties, ran from $2500 to $10000.

No confirmation has been received as to the rumored action of the Nevada county commissioners but it is known that such action has been under consideration there for some weeks past.

The foregoing information was given on the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce following a joint committee meeting of the chamber members of the board and the members of the railroad committee. Chairman Sweeley read the telegrams referred to and announced the arrangements for the committee's leaving this morning. Cash actually on hand as a result of the recent drive was reported by the finance committee as amounting to $1625.25, although the total amount of pledges and collections was placed at $17,304.65.

Much Land Under Option.

Information was given at a meeting to the effect that options have been obtained covering all pieces of Nevada land required with the exception of two, and one small piece of land, the owner of which has not been located, and the other a part of the Wood's ranch out from Wells, which is cut almost through the center by the new line. In the latter case the owner has asked for $5000 for a right of way and the Nevada committee has offered $750. It is believed that action to condemn will be necessary and the Oregon Short Line legal department has been asked to begin proceedings.

Chairman Sweeley stated that a number of letters and telegrams had been exchanged between himself and the Oregon Short Line and Utah Construction company, as well as with members of the Nevada committee and that the whole matter was progressing smoothly and favorably.

It is anticipated that the entire right of way matter will be straightened out upon the return of the Twin Falls committee and that little will be opened and construction work commence on the line within the next several days.

MILNER DISTRICT DENIES JENSEN'S DAMAGE CLAIM

Asserts Complainant Was Not Owner of Land Entitled to Water Last Year; Rejects Kidd's Claim

Neil Jensen of Murlough, was not last year the owner of any land, to which the Milner Low Lift Irrigation district was under obligations to supply irrigation water, and both answers were signed by Edgar W. Mooreman, secretary of the district board of directors.

In an answer filed Thursday by the Milner district in a suit instituted by R. L. Kidd, denial is made by the district of any liability for payment on account of wages or salary to Kidd, who is suing for $800, alleging failure of the district to comply with provisions of an employment contract under which he claims he was to have received $150 per month and other compensation for work for the district during the irrigation season of last year.

The district is represented in both of these actions by the law firm of Sweeley and Gray, and both answers were signed by Edgar W. Mooreman, secretary of the district board of directors.

Eastern Men Here to View Irrigation

Twin Falls Country Shown as Pro-eminent Example of Successful Reclamation

Twin Falls country, as a prominent example of successful reclamation, is being visited today by Judge W. K. Whitfield of St. Louis, and Walter C. Hayes of Chicago, who are the guests of S. H. Hays, James B. Hays, T. L. Martin and Walter Abbs of Boise. The party arrived here Thursday evening at the end of an automobile trip from Idaho.

Observations on the trip were pronounced a revelation by Judge Whitfield, whose impressions of Idaho had been confirmed almost entirely theretofore to view of the system as seen on a railway trip through sagebrush wastes across the state.

While the present visit of the eastern men is for the purpose of familiarizing them with reclamation enterprises of the state, it is not associated, it was stated by S. H. Hays, with the plan for reclamation of the Boise Mountain Home project of 400,000 acres by means of water to be diverted from Stanley basin through a tunnel 25 miles long.

Mr. Hays is one of the foremost advocates of this plan, which has been coming into increased favor among authorities by whom it has been considered, while his wife, James B. Hays, a civil engineer, has had an important part in investigation leading to adoption of the present plan.

TWIN FALLS GIRL WILL COMPETE FOR HONORS

Miss Martha Parrar, student of the Twin Falls high school, will represent our county at Idaho's annual convention of the state declamatory contest this afternoon in the Boise high school auditorium when approximately 20 high school students from all over the state will gather to vie for honors in the three departments—humorous, dramatic and oratorical.

Miss Parrar, accompanied by Miss E. L. Bailey, head of the public speaking department of the high school, left for Boise where she is scheduled to speak during the afternoon session of the contest which will be conducted both during the afternoon and evening.

Miss Parrar won the right to compete in the state meet several weeks ago at the district contest at Albion where she was the only contestant from the subdivision to win a first place. Miss Parrar's reading is "Dolly of the Circus."

MOVING SHOP FIXTURES.

Charles Dunn, formerly a resident of Twin Falls, and now proprietor of a butcher shop in Jarldale, Nevada, is removing fixtures from the American market here to Jarldale.

SUGGESTS PLAN TO LOWER RISK

Twin Falls Man Points Out Dangers of Foot and Mouth Infection from Birds

That the constant arrival of migratory ducks in Twin Falls county waters constitutes an ever present means of carrying the infection of the foot and mouth disease to these parts is the statement of Alan G. Fisher of the Fisher Drug company.

"Large numbers of ducks are coming in all the time from California," said Mr. Fisher yesterday, "and these are followed, as is always the case, by flocks of crows which prey upon the eggs and upon the young ducks. Undoubtedly foot and mouth infection may be transmitted in this manner and where stock are fed from running streams or from canals there is constant risk of infection from this source."

"While very little is known of the living organism or germ of the foot and mouth disease, it is established that birds and water carry it. Fortunately there is every reason to suppose that the same treatment for water in tanks and cisterns which has proved efficacious against typhoid and other germs would destroy the foot and mouth disease germ. Stockmen for years have used chlorinated lime in their cisterns and stock tanks and if this plan were generally followed it would be a sensible precaution. There is no particular expense incurred. Twenty-five cents worth of chlorinated lime is sufficient to treat 12,000 gallons of water.

"Its use is just another precautionary measure which should not be neglected."

Fair Weather for Arbor Day Promised

Fair weather will attend tree planting operations in connection with observance today of Arbor Day in Twin Falls county, according to forecast announced last evening by the weather bureau.
