Federation of Labor Enumerates Standards by Which Office Seekers Will be Judged in Coming Campaign

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor today enumerated the demands on which it will measure men, platforms and parties during the coming campaign.

First of all, it set forth, a "revival of the spirit of honesty, integrity and high-mindedness in public office" is necessary.

"Astounding revelations of the past few months," are referred to as proof of the need of a "great regeneration of American idealism" in public life.

Other things enumerated ideal with questions of labor welfare; taxation; the soldier's home; international relations; the power of the supreme court; immigration; abolishment of the railroad labor board, and the desire for world peace.

Signed by Gompers.

The declaration, which was made by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor non-partisan political campaign committee, was signed by Samuel Gompers, president; Frank L. Morrison, secretary; and James O. Connolly, head of the metal trades department.

It demanded to "protect the helpless," to "abolish special privilege and to free industry for the working out of its purely domestic problems," and "to make the government more responsive to the needs of the people and to deprive courts of the power to rule as well as to adjudicate."

"We need less than shall not in our law," it says. "We need more laws that help get things done and fewer laws that stop legitimate constructive effort." Asserting it to be the purpose of labor to carry forward the great victories of two years ago, the declaration says revelations that "stagger the imagination" have been witnessed and that representatives of reaction and special privilege have fought to protect the energies of the public welfare.

"More men must come into office," it continues, "who will serve the people faithfully and who will not be turned aside from the path of public duty."

Immigration Policy.
"Regardless of the outcome in connection with immigration legislation now before congress," the declaration says, "a policy of strict exclusion is imperative for many years to come. The more nearly the United States can come to absolute exclusion, the better shall we be able to maintain and improve American standards of living and of American lives and citizenship."

Favor Child Labor Law.

Upward Revision of Freight Rates Meets Objections

Witnesses at Interstate Hearing at Des Moines Attack Grain Rates From Northwest to Texas.

DES MOINES, May 6 (AP)—Claims that any upward revision of freight rates would seriously hamper agriculture and that the proposed cancellation of through rates on grain and substitution of combination rates would discriminate against certain markets, formed the chief opposition here today to grain rates from the northwest to Texas which was suspended April 4 last. The opposition was voiced at an interstate commerce commission hearing by representatives of the South Dakota railroad commission and the Sioux City, Iowa, chamber of commerce.

Half a dozen railroads offered evidence in support of the proposed rates and representatives of the Chicago Board of Trade and the Milwaukee chamber of commerce supported the contention of the carriers that an equalization of rates would benefit the grain producers as well as the dealers by increasing competition.

Today's hearing held before examiner William Duque marked the virtual close of the northwest grain rate case. Briefs may be submitted up to May 20 and a decision by the commission is expected in June.

Joke on Sanity Commission Proves Reporter's Theory

DES MOINES, May 6 (AP)—A hoax, conceived in the mind of a local newspaper reporter to test the theory that "any bright criminal could prove himself insane and thus escape punishment for his crime," proved successful today when John Duncan, the reporter, playing the part of the insane man, actually was judged insane by the same commission which declared him a "dangerous lunatic" and recommended him to the state hospital at Clarinda.

He was started for the hospital at noon. Efforts will be made soon to have him declared "sane." It is believed that the stunt was perpetrated as a newspaper feature. Details of the plot were made public before the reporter could write about his experiences.

JAP EXCLUSION BILL APPROVED

Conferees of Senate and House Agree on Provisions to Go in Effect July 1.

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—The provision of the immigration bill for Japanese exclusion was agreed upon by senate and house conferees tonight to be effective July 1, next, when other provisions of the bill become operative, and was met immediately with indications at the White House that the arrangement was satisfactory to President Coolidge.

In reaching this agreement the conferees adopted the effective date stipulated in the bill as passed by the house and received from the senate position calling for operation of the Asiatic exclusion section immediately the bill becomes law. It was evident, however, that in deference to the state they did not go as far as had been wished by the chief executive. Although just how long a delay had been desired by both the president and Secretary of State is not clear, that through diplomatic exchange less offense might be given Japan has never been authoritatively disclosed.

Whether the arrangement as now agreed upon by the conferees would constitute sufficient cause for a veto of the immigration bill was not disclosed at the White House, but it was evident that the president did not consider the two months remaining before July 1 at all sufficient time in which to negotiate with Japan.

The conferees at their meeting today disposed of all other disputed points so that the bill will be submitted tomorrow to the house and then to the senate.

DOHENY'S SON IS WITNESS IN SECRET GRILL

Heir of California Oil Magnate
Testifies Before Session of Grand Jury; Agree to His Return
Later

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Edward L. Doheny, Jr., counted upon as a principal witness for the government in the oil prosecutions, made a fleeting appearance today before the federal grand jury here investigating criminal charges growing out of the senate oil inquiry.

Summoned from Los Angeles for questioning about delivery by him of $100,000 in cash to Albert H. Fall here on November 20, 1923, the son of the California oil magnate who subsequently obtained lease from Fall for naval reserve No. 1, was in the grand jury room just eight minutes.

What occurred in that brief time naturally is a closely guarded secret.

Will Return.

Upon leaving the jury room Doheny regained his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, who agreed that he would return at the call of the special government counsel in the oil cases, Albee Dornier and Owen J. Roberts. Later Mr. Hogan had a conference with government counsel but no announcement was made.

So far as the evidence before the senate committee shows, there are only three persons competent to testify regarding the $100,000 loan. They are the Dohenys, father and son, and Fall.

The elder Doheny came voluntarily before the committee to tell of the transaction. His son never testified there, where Fall, when subpoenaed for questioning declined to answer upon the ground that his replies might tend to incriminate him.

Doheny's testimony was that he had agreed to make the loan to the former interior secretary if he did not obtain it from another source; that Fall finally called him upon the telephone at New York and asked that the transaction be completed. Edward L. Doheny, Jr., drew a check for $100,000 on his own account, had it cashed at Blair and company's New York bank and brought the money to Washington in a black satchel. Fall gave evidence of the debt by note, Doheny told the senate committee.

Two days before the money was delivered, Doheny wrote Fall from New York with reference to the first contract for naval fuel storage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, which was awarded to his Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company in the year following.

FORMER GOVERNOR WARREN T. M'ORAY of Indiana was found guilty and is now serving a 10-year penitentiary sentence for using the mails to defraud. Philip Snowden, one of the leading figures in the labor ministry in England, introduced the first labor budget in parliament. Considerable speculation has recently been made regarding the plans of Grover Cleveland Bergdoff of Philadelphia, notorious draft dodger, who has disappeared from his haunts in Eberbach, Germany. Mrs. Agnes Adlaw Pettit, beautiful former wife of Clement M. Pettit, son of Milwaukee's "salt king," answered the divorce decree he obtained in Milwaukee by filing suit in New York for separation and by suing her former father-in-law for alleged alienation of affections.

SUSPECT FALL'S SISTER AS BEING UNBALANCED

LOS ANGELES, May 6 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Petty, sister of Albert Fall, former secretary of the interior, at Washington, came before the county lunacy commission yesterday and was remanded to the custody of the county parole officer for observation, after which period officials said she probably would be confined in a sanatorium.

Mrs. Petty was found acting strangely at Santa Monica, near here, and has been in the psychopathic ward of the general hospital.

Knowledge That Pays!

You gain a degree of satisfaction just in knowing things—what Einstein believes, how radium burns, which kings are still holding thrones. Yet such knowledge gives you little more than just that satisfaction.

By reading advertisements, you gain knowledge that pays . . . that pays you definitely in time, money, comfort and convenience.

Each day in these pages, advertisers tell you of products devised to make you happier. They seek to arouse you to improvements that will enrich your home, lessen your work.

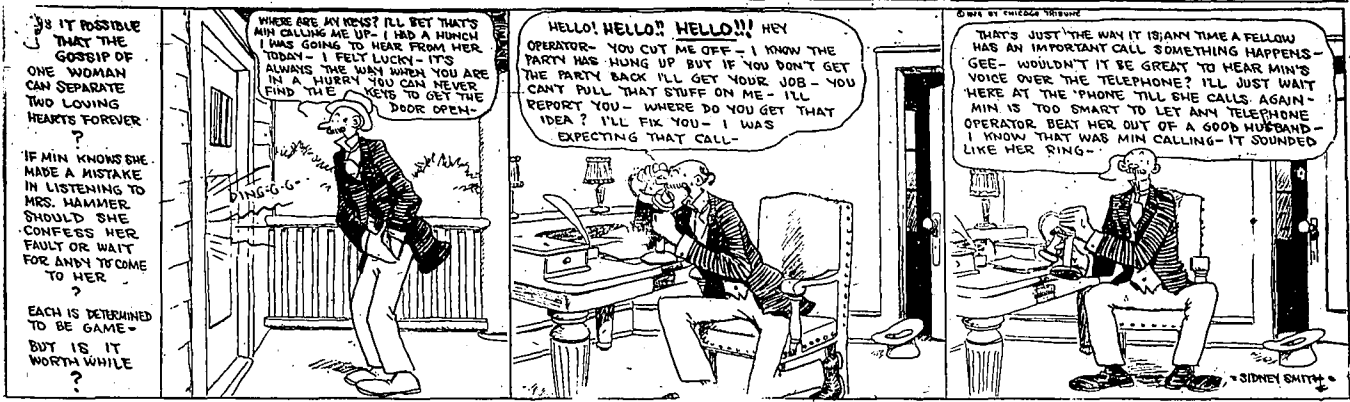

By reading the advertisements, you can know where to secure the best and most serviceable for you. You can avoid inferior goods and uncertain shopping. You can save.

THE GUMPS—THEY DON'T ANSWER

Republicans Seek to Rescue Revenue Bill; Amendments Opposed

Party Leaders in Senate Move to Bring Insurgents Back in to Line; Coolidge Objects to Changes

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Senate Republican organization leaders moved today to save as far as possible the principal features of the committee revenue bill in the light of word from President Coolidge that he disliked some of the proposed amendments as well as others already substituted in the measure.

Immediate attention was centered upon the tax schedule and agreement was reached at a conference of the party this morning to accept the house rates if necessary to gain a substitute for the democratic plan voted into the bill yesterday in place of the Mellon rates.

Republican spokesmen expressed confidence that the 37½ per cent maximum surtax rate in the house plan would win out against the democratic 40 per cent rate on the final showdown, which will come when the bill is up for passage.

Oppose Publicity
Two other problems faced the organization leaders, however. President Coolidge today let it be known he was strenuously opposed to the provision voted into the measure for full publicity of tax returns and to the proposed democratic substitute for the corporation tax as well as to the democratic income tax schedule.

It also was made plain at the White House that the president had not changed his stand of firm adherence to the Mellon plan without compromise on the main provisions, but at the same time that he would not indicate his attitude as to approval or disapproval of the bill until it came before him.

Expect Break
While republicans count on a break in the democratic ranks as well as support from some of the absentees of yesterday in gaining the house income rates, a conference has been called for tomorrow at which an attempt will be made to line up some of the party insurgents whose votes made possible the democratic victory. None of the insurgents were present at the party conference today.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, had undertaken to work out an agreement on farm legislation in view of the conflicting views on the McNary-Haugen bill, and it is understood that a proposal may be made whereby in return for support of the farm relief bill insurgent approval of a republican surtax schedule would be given.

Tests Show Fat Men Can Stand the Heat Better Than Others

Greater Loss of Weight Falls to Exhaust "Heavyweights" as Much as Lean Ones

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Fat men stand the heat better than lean ones, the bureau of mines has established through experiments in a specially constructed chamber at Pittsburgh.

The fat men, the bureau found, lost more weight when subjected to uncomfortably hot temperatures, but they were less exhausted when they were relieved. In a state of rest and in still air, the experiments disclosed the human body cannot endure indefinitely a temperature higher than 90 degrees Fahrenheit with 100 per cent relative humidity.

The American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers co-operated in the experiments which were designed to afford a study of conditions as they might affect miners.

Find your coffee taste

There's only one clue to your coffee taste—and that's you! You know what you like in coffee. You know when you get it. Your taste-nerves flash the message, "Here it is!" And you're coffee-contented. . . . But how often does that happen? How often do you get your exact coffee-taste? Isn't it mostly hit-or-miss?

That's what this chart is for—to help you trail down your coffee-taste. It is based on hundreds of tests made with M-J-B Coffee by people who admit they are "coffee cranks."

No matter what method of coffee-making you use—no matter how you like your coffee (strong or mild or half-way)—M-J-B can give you coffee-contentment. For M-J-B is the coffee of constant flavor. Make the test—and see!

PIRATES BLANK CHICAGO 2 TO 0

Kremer Holds Cubs to 2 Hits in Opening Game; Giants and Dodgers Both Win.

PITTSBURGH, May 6 (AP)—Ray Kremer, former Pacific coast player, held Chicago to two hits today and Pittsburgh defeated Chicago, 2 to 0, in the opening game of the series. Carey, substitute for Carey, who is ill, hit a single, a double and a triple in four times at bat.

The score: R. H. E.
Chicago 0 2 1
Pittsburgh 2 0 1

Batteries—Aldridge and Hartnett; Kremer and Gooch.

DODGERS GO INTO THIRD PLACE

BROOKLYN, May 6 (AP)—Brooklyn moved up into third place today by making it three straight with Boston, 3 to 0. It was a pitchers' battle between Ruetter and Barnes, featured by sharp fielding, up to the eighth, when Wheat came up with two on and lifted the ball over the right field fence for his fourth home run of the season. Four fast double plays by the Braves kept the Dodgers from scoring in the first seven innings; Ruetter allowed only six hits and had six strikeouts.

The score: R. H. E.
Boston 0 0 1
Brooklyn 3 0 2

Batteries—Barnes and O'Neil; Ruetter and Taylor.

GIANTS AGAIN LOSE TO PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, May 6 (AP)—Two home runs by "Cy" Williams and one by Ford were enough to give Philadelphia its second straight victory over New York today by a score of 5 to 3. Jimmy Ring, leading hurler of the locals, was in good form and although found for 11 hits kept them well scattered.

The score: R. H. E.
New York 4 11 0
Philadelphia 5 11 0

Batteries—Bentley, McQuillan and Snyder; Ring and Wilson.

NEW YORK WINS FROM PHILLIES

Dugan Features in Close Game; Boston Pounds Senators; St. Louis: Evens Series.

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—New York defeated Philadelphia here today in a well-played game, 3 to 2. Rommel and Hoyt were in splendid form and strong support.

New York's two runs in the fifth and the winning run in the eighth.

Perkins made an acrobatic catch of Dugan's foul in the eighth inning and turned a somersault into a concrete field box. Dugan was hit on the right temple by a pitched ball during batting practice. Both required medical attention.

The score: R. H. E.
New York 3 7 0
Philadelphia 2 10 0

Batteries—Rommel and Perkins; Hoyt and Schang.

WINS FOR RED SOX

BOSTON, May 6 (AP)—Pahr won his first game for the Red Sox today, 14 to 4. His mates pounded Washington pitching hard and getting nine runs off Marberry and McGrew in the eighth. Beckinbaugh was spiked in the second by Flanagan at second base and Blugoe finished the game at short. It was Boston's sixth straight win.

The score: R. H. E.
Washington 4 9 1
Boston 14 15 1

Batteries—Zahnizer, Marberry, McGrew and Ruel; Fuhr and O'Neill.

INDIANS DROP SECOND GAME

CLEVELAND, May 6 (AP)—St. Louis ended the series today, defeating Cleveland, 7 to 0. Danforth kept the Indians' hits scattered excepting in the fourth and ninth innings, in which of each they bunched three including two doubles, a triple and Summa's home run. Sisler scored in the first when he and McManus worked a double steal.

The score: R. H. E.
St. Louis 7 16 0
Cleveland 0 8 0

Batteries—Danforth and Severide.

STAR DANCES HER WAY INTO LEE DRAMA

Norma Talmadge dances her way into the action of "The Song of Love," her latest love drama, a stirring tale of Arabian desert romance. Norma's advent in the picture brings her for the first time with her new leading man, Joseph Schildkraut. The picture, a First National release, is shown at the Orpheum theater.

Norma plays the part of a tempestuous dancing girl whose uncle runs the gambling house and plots the overthrow of the French in Algiers. She falls in love with Schildkraut, a French spy, who in turn is in love with the wife of a government official.

For a week prior to the entrance of Miss Talmadge, scenes presenting the ever glamorous color of the Near East were taken. Reeling streets lined with haked mad houses, the bazars with their heaps of carpets, pottery and art work spilling out into the walks, camels solemnly plodding along, throngs of long-robed, half-whiskered natives, dusky dancings staring coquettishly from out the veils drawn up to their big dark eyes.

AN ALL-STAR CAST IN A KNOCKOUT STORY

Here's a cast that is nitar in every sense of the word—with three hand some leading men in one picture—and that's something.

Rod La Roque, Ricardo Cortez and Allan Simpson play principal supporting roles opposite Gloria Swanson in her new Paramount picture, "A Society Scandal," an Allan Dwan production, to be shown at the Idaho theater starting tomorrow.

Surely you remember La Roque in William de Mille's "Don't Call It Love," and in the other famous brothers "The Ten Commandments," and you recall Cortez in "The Call of the Canyon," "The Next Corner" and "The Sign of the Cross." Simpson, you will say, "Shame on you! Why he's the man who made the collar ad famous in "The Glimpses of the Moon" and with Bebe Daniels in "The Exciters."

And that's not half of it. Here's a few in the supporting cast which makes the leading players stop some to win the laurels. Mrs. Ida Waterman, a stage and screen actress of the old school; Thelma Morgan Converse, prominent society matron making a try of the picture game; Fraser Conlter, Yvonne Hughes, Catherine Proctor and a host of others. How'd that for a cast?

HOKIE'S LATEST

Jack Hoxie, one of screen's favorite gallopers in pictures of the old time west, appears in one of the swiftest westerns of the season today at the Idaho theater. The picture is "The Galloping Ace," adapted from the magazine story, "Hart Rock," by Jacques Farcot, Margaret Morris, Robert McKim, Frank Rice and other well known players support the star. Robert North Bradbury directed.

New Secretary of Navy Delivers His Opinions on Enforcement of Liquor Laws

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Joining of the question of states' rights and referendum of constitutional amendments as a "suggested" issue in the forthcoming presidential campaign is "inconsistent" and a "shrewd attempt to capitalize dissatisfaction with the prohibition amendment," Secretary Wilbur of the navy department declared in an address here yesterday.

"The democratic party," Secretary Wilbur said, "by the cry for states' rights and by force of the example of Governor Al Smith who, after repealing state enforcement act, is now calling for law enforcement by the federal authorities, may succeed in suggesting some degree of dampness to the voter who loves his toddy more than his country."

"The eighteenth amendment is not a party matter," Mr. Wilbur declared, because every state but one, "and that a republican state," has ratified it, and both "national parties in express and unequivocal terms have declared for enforcement, and must necessarily do so at their coming conventions."

"The adoption of the prohibition amendment," the secretary continued, "was an invasion of the states' well recognized rights, only possible by a constitutional amendment investing the federal government with powers theretofore in the state government. That this was a permissible form of amendment has been permanently settled by the supreme court of the United States after most careful consideration."

LEGISLATION WAITS; SENATORS IN WRANGLE

ical issue out of the matters disclosed by the investigations.

Denying that there was such an intention on the part of the democrats, Senator Robinson replied that if the "legislation that the country considered essential is completed we will adjourn for that national calamity—the republican convention."

After the debate had proceeded for seven hours it ended as suddenly as it had begun—and the resolution authorizing the internal revenue committee to employ counsel was adopted without a roll call.

This result had never been in doubt after Senator Watson early in the day had announced it was not his intention to press his resolution to discharge the investigating committee.

Amid a general hubbub on the floor two unsuccessful efforts were made to obtain a record vote on Senator Watson's resolution ordering the discharge of the committee.

Senator Watson was absent from the chamber at the time but returning directly moved that his resolution be laid aside indefinitely.

The motion prevailed without a record vote.

INCREASES LEAD.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 6 (AP)—President Coolidge increased his lead on Hiram Johnson for the republican presidential preference as additional returns from the Indiana primary were tabulated tonight. Two hundred and twenty-one of 3400 precincts gave Coolidge 16,491; Johnson 5299.

The Day in Washington

The senate engaged in a political debate involving the various investigations.

The house patents committee heard radio composers complaint of radio broadcasting.

Edward L. Doherty, Jr., was called before the federal grand jury investigating oil charges.

A house committee began investigating the bureau of engraving bond duplication charges.

Senate republican leaders agreed to seek a compromise upon the surtax rates in the revenue bill.

C. W. Middlekauff, assistant United States attorney at Chicago, testified before the Daugherty committee.

Speaker Gillette ruled the Barkley bill to abolish the railroad labor board must wait two weeks for action.

President Coolidge let it be known that he regards as very undesirable certain amendments made to the tax bill by the senate.

Charges of serious deterioration in the navy, it was said at the White House are regarded as generally unfounded by President Coolidge.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democrat upon the foreign relations committee introduced a resolution for American adhesion to the world court.

Democratic senate leaders decided there was too much legislation undisposed of to determine whether they would agree to adjourn for the political conventions.

Japanese exclusion, effective July 1, was agreed upon by the senate and house conferees upon the immigration bill who completed agreement upon all other disputed points.

SOCIALISTS IN LEAD.

BERLIN, May 6 (AP)—Unless an official report of the ballots deprives the united socialist party of its present rank as numerically the strongest party in the new reichstag, President Ebert will in the next few days commission its leaders to proceed with the work of organizing a new coalition government.

TO EXPLORE AUSTRALIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6 (AP)—Viktor Stepanoff, the arctic explorer, left here today for an exploration trip to the interior of Australia, which he estimates will take four months.

SOUTHERNER DIES.

RICHMOND, Va., May 6 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Tabb Bolling Lee, daughter-in-law of General Robert E. Lee, who had been ill here for several days died late last night.

Not Envious.

"A self-made man is common enough, my dear, but we seldom, if ever, hear of a self-made woman," said the self-made (and self-satisfied) man. "Well, considering the sort of article the men who are in the self-making business usually turn out you can't expect women to take up that occupation," replied his wife.

Had Company.

Young Browns did not come straight home to his lodgings. Hence he did not come home straight. The towering form of his landlady loomed above him as he stammering, shoeless feet sought the steps. "Drunk again," she said, caustically. "Hoorsy!" he replied, cheerfully. "So'm L."

Social Zoology.

"Did you ever meet a real lounge lizard?" "Never," answered Miss Carey. "Those I've seen who were represented as such had dispositions and appetites that made them seem more like underized alligators."

Educator Classes Whipping as Evil in "Modern" Homes

ST. PAUL, May 6 (AP)—Modern parenthood has no place for that once popular standby—"spare the rod and spoil the child"—members of the congress of mothers and parent teacher associations were told here tonight.

Miss Abigail L. Marshall, educational director of the federation for child study, New York City, gave this information in her talk on "Education for Parenthood" at the association's annual convention.

"Whipping," she said, "is not tolerated in any school system that is up to date, yet it is still in use in many homes otherwise strictly modern. Teachers have been requested to learn other means of leading children towards more desirable conduct."

Individual expression of school children to keep their abilities was explained in an illustrated address by Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, research professor in educational psychology and director of the Iowa research station.

The members of the Twentieth Century club gave their thirteenth annual breakfast Tuesday, May 6 at the H. Masters, Clark Davis, Charles Casey, Perrine hotel. Covers were laid for 100 at long tables forming the letters "T" and "C". The decorations were beautiful, being carried out in pink and lavender.

Cut glass baskets held pink and lavender sweet peas and at intervals the center of the table were placed crystal candlesticks holding pink tapers. Lovely lavender May were sung with Mrs. W. A. Patrick at the piano. During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments, same color scheme was carried out in assisted by Mrs. W. S. Campbell and Mrs. Bert Magel.

The invocation was given by Mrs. J. D. Kautz. The program following was one of the most interesting ever given at a club breakfast. Mrs. A. L. Houghton was a charming toastmistress, and the toasts were given in a most pleasing manner and each one was a gem in itself. Mrs. Marshall Brown responded to "Mother and the son." Mrs. D. L. Alexander sang "When He Comes," the words and music being composed by Kennedy Packard, who was given an ovation at the conclusion "Beauty" was responded to by Mrs. L. H. Masters, and Mrs. W. H. Dwight sang "Joy of the Morning". Mrs. J. W. Chapman responded to the toast, "We Girls".

Mrs. W. Orr Chapman, the outgoing president, spoke on "Looking Backward," and in her usual pleasing manner thanked the members of the club for their co-operation and suggested several small changes that might be made for the good of the organization. She then presented the gavel to Mrs. P. W. McRoberts, the incoming president, who spoke of the coming year's work as being in the making and suggested that each member of the club become a member of at least one of the departments. She also said that "we get out of any organization what we put into it," and suggested some few changes that might be made. Mrs. McRoberts is always an interesting speaker and her talk on this occasion was no exception to the rule.

The program closed with a beautiful vocal duet by Mrs. D. L. Alexander and Mrs. O. P. Duvall entitled "Ida home," the words by Mrs. Augusta Packard and the music by Mr. Packard. Mrs. H. J. Youngs was chairman of the arrangements committee; Mrs. D. L. Alexander of the music, and members of the committee on decorations were Mesdames H. C. Gellert, I. H. Masters, Clark Davis, Charles Casey, Perrine hotel. Dick Brier, Alice Casey, P. J. Grossman, and Miss Birdie Pack.

Henry V. Walling Circle No. 16, Ladies of the G. B. R. met at the home of Mrs. D. D. Alvord Monday evening with the senior vice president, Mrs. Mary Y. Norton, in the chair. After initiation several patriotic songs were sung with Mrs. W. A. Patrick at the piano. During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments, same color scheme was carried out in assisted by Mrs. W. S. Campbell and Mrs. Bert Magel.

Belief Expressed by Arizona Convention Delegate That Former Governor's Name May Be Mentioned.

KINGMAN, Ariz., May 5 (AP)—Belief that the name of Thomas E. Campbell former governor of Arizona, will be placed before the republican national convention by the Arizona delegation as a candidate for the nomination for vice president was expressed here today by Robert B. Walton, a convention delegate from Arizona. Mr. Campbell served as president of the league of the southwest and was President Coolidge's choice as chairman of the reclamation fact finding committee, which recently made its report.

THE COST OF PROBES

The various investigations conducted by the present Congress have cost the country about one-third of a million dollars so far this year. There are some surprises in the way the money has been spent.

Contrary to a public impression, it has not been spent mostly on the probes figuring extensively in the news. The costliest inquiry has been one that most citizens have never heard of—the causes of the decline in production of gold and silver in this country. That had cost fifty-six thousand dollars up to the middle of April, with expenses continuing at the rate of four thousand, five hundred dollars a month. The next is the Veterans' Bureau probe, which cost forty-six thousand dollars up to the time mentioned. Then comes the Mayfield election contest, costing thirty-seven thousand dollars. All of these three have had comparatively little attention. The more spectacular oil probe has cost thirty-three thousand dollars and the Daugherty probe thirteen thousand dollars, with various other, famous or obscure, requiring smaller amounts.

It is a considerable sum of money, altogether, and none of it has probably been wasted. The main question, however, is not how much Congress is spending for such purposes but whether the purposes are justified and the inquiries are conducted wisely, with a view to improvement.

SCHOOL FOR DRIVERS

One activity of safety councils in some localities is the establishment of a class for automobile drivers. Such a scheme is open to all drivers of passenger automobiles. There is no charge to pupils. Men and women of different types and occupations are found enrolling in the classes. They are owners of every sort of car from the flivver to the luxurious and high-priced machine. Because the classes are not compulsory the large attendance is evidence of a genuine interest in safety through better driving.

Applicants are taught not only operation but construction of motor cars (illustrated with motion pictures), traffic regulations, safety rules and so on. They may ask as many questions as they want.

There is a growing feeling in many communities that drivers' licenses should be granted only after strict examinations of the driver's ability. Where such a rule is already effective, the results in safer driving are apparent. But even where compulsory examinations are not yet required, such a voluntary school for drivers is exceedingly useful.

MUSIC AND PUGILISM

Americans smile at the news of immense sums being paid for tickets to the first production of Boito's posthumous opera, "Nerone," in Milan. Seats are said to have been resold for as much as eight thousand lire, which is about three hundred, sixty dollars. "Ahl Those excitable Italians!" we say.

But almost any sporting writer can tell of Americans paying as much, or more, for seats at a champion prize fight. Perhaps the Italians smile at that.

It is merely a question of what people choose to get excited about. Americans get very excited about pugilism and politics. A popular New York critic was remarking, only a little while ago that he hopes some-

ON THE RIVER BANK

By DADDY

CHAPTER III.

Balky Sam's Catch.

BALKY SAM had a fine laugh at Daddy Dog. Daddy Dog had Gabeed with his tail and had caught Grumpy Dog Fish. And Grumpy Dog Fish had dragged him into the river from which Balky Sam had rescued him.

"Hee-haw! Hee-haw! Hee-haw! That is a fine joke on you," brayed Balky Sam. "I'd like to see anyone pull me into the river. Hee-haw! Hee-haw!"

Balky Sam frisked his line sharply throwing his fish line and hook back into the water. But Daddy Dog had had enough of fishing with his tail, so he sat on the bank watching Jack, Janet and Balky Sam.

"Hee-haw! Hee-haw! I'd like to see anyone pull me into the river," repeated Balky Sam, frisking his tail again, and then something very exciting happened.

Old Snapper Turtle was browsing around at the bottom of the river. He happened along just as Balky Sam frisked his tail. The frisking of the tail jerked the hook on the fish line, right in front of old Snapper Turtle's nose. "But annoyed Snapper Turtle and he snapped at the hook. The hook caught in his mouth.

My! Then there was a row! Snapper Turtle tried to tear the hook loose. Balky Sam felt the tug of the line, and flinched his tail like a fish pole. But old Snapper Turtle was too large to be pulled out that way. He gave a strong jerk that pinched Balky Sam's tail.

Balky Sam kicked, as a way with moles when they are annoyed. Then, Balky Sam leaped forward. He gave the fish line a mighty yank. The yank brought old Snapper Turtle to the surface of the water. Another jump Balky Sam jerked old Snapper Turtle into the air. A third leap and Snapper Turtle hit a log and bounced like a rubber ball. The bounce shook loose the hook in Snapper Turtle's mouth.

But Snapper Turtle was still angry. So when he banged against something soft his jaws closed down with a snap. It happened that the something soft was Balky Sam's tail. Snapper Turtle bit Balky Sam's tail fastened on to that ear as grimly as though he were a bulldog.

"Hee-haw!" brayed Balky Sam, but he was not laughing this time. "Hee-haw! Let go my ear!" Old Snapper time to see them get excited about art.

By the way, the very highest price paid for a box at that Italian opera was paid by an American. So there is hope. Maybe he will do his best to put a premium on musical interests when he gets back home.

THE OLDEST HORSE

"Clover," the oldest horse in the world, and as far as anyone knows, the oldest horse there ever was, is dead. He died at his home in Catawissa, Pa., at the ripe age of fifty-three. There is little question about it, for he was originally a race horse and his record from colthood is well established.

This is comparable to a human being living for one hundred fifty or two hundred years. An average horse is said to be past his usefulness at twelve or fifteen, and twenty-five years is a rare age for a horse. Clover remained useful, for driving and light work, until fifty.

"How did he do it?" The same question arises to the reader's lip as when the death of a human being passing the century-mark and still in command of his faculties.

It was largely congenial vigor, no doubt, as in remarkable instances of human longevity. But there were other important factors under control. Clover did not literally live up to his name. He lived the simple life. He had excellent food, but plain, pure and in moderate quantities, at regular times. He was kept clean and given pure water and pure air. There was horse sense in all that, which might have a wide application to higher species of life.

Horn of Ripon

Ripon, England, keeps up a custom 1,000 years old. Every night a "wake man," attired in official costume, appears before the mayor's house and blows three solemn notes on the "horn of Ripon."

Spectacles Old

Spectacles have been invented during the thirteenth century. Some authorities attribute them to Alessandro di Spina, a Florentine monk; others to Roger Bacon.

Clara Barton's First Patient

The first patient of Clara Barton, the famous nurse, was her brother, whom she nursed when she was thirteen years old.

Snapper Turtle was angry.

Turtle hung right on, for that was the way of Snapper Turtle.

"Hee-haw! Ouch!" brayed Balky Sam. The weight of the turtle pulled Balky Sam's head to one side, and he turned about just as though he were a bird and someone was pulling on the rein.

All this time Balky Sam was galloping, and as he turned under the weight of the turtle he came to the bank of the river. Over the bank he went before he could stop himself, down the steep, slippery slide, and kerplunk into the water.

"How-how!" barked Daddy Dog in glee. "How-how! Hot Hot Balky Sam! I thought no one could pull you into the river.

But Balky Sam did not feel like laughing. Snapper Turtle was biting his ear and trying to draw his head under water. And Snapper Turtle was so large he gave Balky Sam a ducking.

"Hee-haw! Help! I am drowning! Gurgling-gurgling," gasped Balky Sam as his head went under.

Now Daddy Dog saw Balky Sam was in trouble. So Daddy Dog leaped into the stream and grabbed old Snapper Turtle by the tail. That made Snapper Turtle let go of Balky Sam's ear and Balky Sam lurched away and got to land as fast as he could. Snapper Turtle reached around to grab Daddy Dog but Daddy Dog was too wise to get caught. He let go Snapper Turtle's tail and followed Balky Sam to the shore.

"How-how! I guess we are even now," he laughed. And Balky Sam agreed they were.

(Tomorrow will be told the story of a tug of war on the river bank.)

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By MRS. HUGH MCKAY

My husband is an amateur plumber. Very amateur. The only way in which he resembles a plumber is in the length of time it takes him to get a job done.

But he likes to try his hand at mending leaky pipes and replacing worn-out washers and all that kind of thing.

By the time he gets through with his "repairs" and has to call in a real plumber to fix things up, the bill is generally about three times what it would have been if he'd just kept his hands off.

But his confidence never seems the least bit shaken by these incidents. The next time I tell him that he'd better get a man to repair a stopped-up pipe he'll say:

"What? I never heard of such extravagance; getting a plumber for a little job like that! I'll do it myself."

And then he proceeds to flood the kitchen at a total cost of not less than $15.85.

Tomorrow: "Every once in a while my wife makes up her mind that we'll have to move."

"I'm banking for action."

Sighing it, he directed the servant to give it to San Juan. The Chinaman entered a room on the left and closed the door behind him. Fifty minutes passed before the servant reappeared and beckoned for Dinadale to approach.

San Juan Joe and three men were seated at a table. A glance told Dinadale two things: it was a case of tight end razor, for each of the strangers wore the facial brand of the professional gambler. San Juan rose up, shook hands cordially. He was no longer the philosophical traveling companion but an opponent. He greeted Dinadale with a few laconic words, and added:

"Your message says you're running for action."

"Feed sort of hungry for it," confessed Dinadale.

"We'll try to accommodate you. This is 'French Curry,' this is Blitz, this is 'The George,' Gentlemen, this is Pete Dinadale. You know what he's after," San Juan introduced. Then to Dinadale:

"We're playing a bit stiff," and he pulled up a chair for him. "It's the only way," agreed Dinadale as he seated himself and briefly studied the impassive faces of the strangers. French Curry held his gaze the longest. The man was dying of consumption and had death written in his sunken cheeks. He was notorious for his malignance and would get to his death and a painless grave venomous to his last breath. He lived only for the night and the table. Deprived of cards and his day was done.

"What are we playing for?" he asked, his voice scarcely audible, and to show he was in proper form he dropped a heavy bag on the table.

Dinadale drew a little package of greenbacks from an inside pocket, as fresh looking as if direct from the government press, and placed it before him. The quartet finished their hawk gaze over the unconcealed sight of paper money, and French Curry's bloodless lips drew back like a famished animal's.

"There's three thousand in that heap. Call it table stakes and make it brief," said Dinadale.

The four nodded their approval and reinforced their table cash. No further talk was indulged in, pantomime and chips sufficing. Dinadale played a winner at the first, then began to meet with reverses. French Curry's lips became fixed in a snarl of triumph as he won the first hand, then French Curry, and his breath became choked and disagreeable to hear. At midnight the last of Dinadale's table stakes were swept away by Curry.

"That lets me out for the evening," said Dinadale, rising. "Enjoyed myself very much. Suppose I can have my revenge."

"That's what we're here for," said San Juan Joe, beginning to discard the cold department of the table.

He called the hallway and after refreshments had been served told Dinadale:

"I'd like to have a word with you in private. You gentlemen will excuse me."

Passing down the hall he led Dinadale into a room next to the kitchen. Pushing forward a chair he genially said:

"I'm mighty glad you dropped in, Dinadale. I've been expecting you for two days. If you hadn't, that up to night I should have sent you a message." He paused as if undecided just how he would proceed.

"Play," prompted Dinadale.

"It would be awkward to say it if he didn't rode through the canyon together. You know there's talk being made about you since I saw you last? I'm afraid, Pete, that Kitty is getting in her work. She isn't called the 'Schemer' for nothing."

"You're breaking bad news, eh?"

"Let's hope it hasn't reached the point where we must call it 'bad.' But it might be a lot better. That little devil has started talk about you, and others are passing it on. You came here without even a pack animal. You're connected with no outfit. You don't seem keen to get into business, or do any prospecting. You're well heeled with guns and money. And you arrive in a way that makes you a marked man."

"The hour is late for me, Joe," yawned Dinadale. "Get down to cases."

"You tipped me off to tell the crowd about the Ogallala holdup, and the crowd knew you passed the word. They had heard of it. Then the story came that you arrived and inside an hour is blowing about the robbery to the men at the F. X. L. He tells them that the robbers got a large amount of new greenbacks."

Dinadale blew a ring of smoke and quietly remarked:

"And on top of tipping you about the holdup I gave some greenbacks to Little Carl. Understand, Joe, as well as if you talked a month. Folks are wondering. Greenbacks did it. Well, what comes next? You wouldn't tell me this unless you had something to add."

"French Curry will try for another game tonight and, failing, he'll blow some of his money on Kitty's place. Before morning the town will be telling how you lost an enormous amount of money—in new paper money. Well, here is the true word. Get an outfit and go prospecting at once. Make believe you're a miner. With so many strangers floating in and out and a weekly absence may see the loose talk forgotten. Old Pyrites starts in a day or so on one of his foot trips. Why not go along with him? I'll pretend I'm tired of grub-staking him and you can take my place and let on you believe all my yarns."

"That's. That might be good medicine. Will he agree?"

"He'd take a grubstake from the devil and old Satan for a pard if no other way was open to him. Where are you stopping?"

"Red Rock. Chicken fixings and four dollars."

The gambler smiled whimsically and applauded:

"Good nerve. Need any money?"

"You didn't clean me, Joe." And Dinadale upped his breast pocket.

"The man Curry did something I didn't like in picking a chip from the floor. I felt I was your guest. As I quit before going to a showdown with him. Then again the fellow is three-fourths dead already."

"Dinadale, I like you. Curry seldom is awkward. But you're after my own style. So you don't need money. Breast pocket. Must be more greenbacks."

"Easier to pack than dust."

San Juan's black eyes sparkled in keen appreciation of the other's bearing. "Words aren't necessary between us, Pete. If it wasn't for that woman! It's in the cards that I'll make a fool of myself. I'll have a talk with Mayor Farman. Accidental-like, I'll find out if Kitty has passed a hand word to him, or the city councilmen. Will Hill's death may be the situation."

"But folks are saying the gamblers planned that. I'm done out of three thousand my first game in town. Can't brand me as much of a gambler."

"I drop," surrendered San Juan.

"But I feel that you and I ought to have another talk—one that might lead to you getting some work—highly paid work."

"The only kind that would interest me, Joe. I'll think over the prospecting proposition. Perhaps I've made a mistake in being too free with greenbacks and not going to work. But we can have a talk."

"You'll make no mistake in listening to my next talk. It's work that'll suit you."

This ended their conversation. Each had refused to speak plainly, yet each was working toward the point where he could talk plainly. San Juan returned to the card room and Dinadale passed out into the big tent.

Keeping close to the canvas wall he avoided the congregation around the different games and galloped the open space. He glanced over the assembly and finally focused his gaze on the bar. Then he advanced to the side of Horace Webb and invited:

"Have another little touch of trouble?"

"Who the hell are you?" violently growled Webb. It was plain he had entered the dangerous stage in his drinks.

"I'm the galoot that's just been done for three thousand in greenbacks and yet to something left for the bottle," Dinadale murmured.

Webb's drunken malice slowly died out and he stared thoughtfully at Dinadale. "Huh. I'll drink with you," he mumbled.

After bolting his drink Webb slyly remarked:

"You take a likely lot of paper money round with you, don't you?"

"Always like to be well heeled—with money and guns."

Webb tugged at his mustache and furtively studied Dinadale's profile.

"Have another," he grunted.

"Thanks. But not tonight. We'll make it on demand. I must be going."

As he strode to the exit he could feel Webb's gaze boring into his back. As he stepped into the darkness of the street he heard Webb's arm and caused his own hand to close on a gun. Two round yellow eyes were blazing at him. The voice of Scissors addressed him, and he knew the eyes belonged to the big owl.

"Got my two ounces," exultingly whispered Scissors. "That settles me some. The Ogallala gang is in the tent tonight."

"You'd better keep that talk to yourself," shortly warned Dinadale. "And keep away from that man Webb. He's feeling ugly."

"Oh, I know when to catch him. Scissors knows when to get him. He's weak-witted when old Sittin' Bull here is around. You men can tell by his eyes whether to go ahead or draw back."

"He's telling you now to shut off that talk about train robbers being in town," Dinadale sternly warned him. "That talk is poor medicine."

As he walked away he could hear Scissors chuckling and mumbling.

CHAPTER V

A Bad Break for Dinadale.

In a dark room at the back of a Chinese washhouse several men sat in stence, waiting. Then the Mongolian stationed outside the door raised a voice and was answered briefly in Chinese. The group in the room straightened to attention. Some crossed the room and drew the inside bolt. The door opened, but even had there been a light the inmates of the room would have beheld a figure as heavily muffled as a body-recognition. As it was, no man could see his neighbor.

"Who comes?" softly demanded the man who had admitted the other man.

"The one who always comes last. Number One."

"We are ready for your talk," announced the first speaker, returning to his chair.

"How are you known?" asked Number One.

"The one who always comes first to the meeting place. Number Two."

"Whom have you admitted?"

"Three, Four and Six."

"Five?"

"Unreliable tonight. Drink."

"Unreliable tonight, from drink, he will be on the ground and more important lights," said Number One.

"He should be dropped from the rolls even as we have threatened to drop him twice before this. He might send us all to the noose. How do you vote?"

There was a slight pause, then in sequence the different voices called out:

"Two."

"Three."

"Four."

"Six."

"One. It is unanimous. How shall it be best done? He must have no chance."

"If it can be left for me, Number Two, to arrange."

"It is left for you to arrange within forty-eight hours," ruled Number One.

"Now let us finish quickly. None of us is satisfied with the results. Only fifteen have been taken from the staves within the last six weeks. Passengers have been warned at Cheyenne and Sidney to bring but little money in on their persons. The horse-ranch, even, is better paying. There is but one job in the hills that is worth while—one of the treasure-hunts. One could capture numbers at least two hundred thousand dollars, perhaps two hundred and fifty thousand. And the time soon comes when it will be useless to try for such a prize."

"Then let's get the next one to go out. He's a dead oven and all that try a tall load," eagerly said Number Two.

"First, we've got to have more men," croaked a harsh voice. "We ain't strong enough to handle twelve guards and get away with the bullion."

"Number Three, you speak only a bare word. You mean the leader we've got enough men. It's too late to take in new hands. But we can't handle a dozen until we plan to place our men to the best advantage. Then it will be simple. We must have at least two of our men among the guards, thus cutting the number down to ten."

"Two of the regular guards will get through just before the coach makes the trip. Two of our men must at once ask for jobs as guards. The time will be too short for the management to hesitate. Number Three will be one of them. Number Four must be the other man. In brief the plan is this:

"The day and spot being known, Number Three must ride ahead with the advance guard. Number Four must be one of the eight riding beside the coach. When Number Three gets up to the coach he should be out of sight of the coach, as the ambush will be beyond a bend in the road. He will strike his man down. We in ambush will pull the fellow out of the road and take care of his horse. Number Three will ride back a bit and signal to the guard of the coach to join him. If more than one rides up, all the better. This guard, or guards, must be disposed of quietly as was the first. We in ambush will help, using the noose if possible. Their horses must not be frightened and must be secured. The guard of the coach will have cut down the number of guards to eight, with but seven by the coach, one of these being Number Four. Number Three will wait opposite the ambush until the coach comes up. He and Number Four will take the guard of the coach and shoot them with four six-guns. We in ambush will instantly take a hand and secure the six. Three and Four will then gallop back to meet the two rear guards and take them by surprise. I already have a safe cache for the bullion. This is the plan in outline. Any suggestions or questions?"

"The only drawback is that Three and Four will be marked men," spoke up Number Two.

"Bad for us on the inside less we settle the hash of the ten," grumbled Number Three.

"That's the way to go. I too strong," protested Number Four, with a shiver in his voice.

Number One sharply said:

"Both Three and Four are already wanted for murder. One in Idaho; the other in Nevada. Yet they live here in Paradise and money and about the only ones we can trust."

"We will wait. The hills game is nearly played out. Let others stay and pick up the crumbs and a rope."

"Seems as if I was getting the hot end of the poker," growled Number Three.

"I might as well sentence me to death and be done with it," bitterly complained Number Four.

"Rewards are offered for both of you and you haven't done a scaffold-dance yet," grimly replied the leader.

"A swift horse, a change of stamping grounds, a new name, and with forty six-guns to blow you'd be fools to be caught. But if either of you refuse to play the part I pick for you, say so now."

VETERANS VOTE TO BUILD TRAIL TO TWIN FALLS

American Legion Post Adopts Plan to Make Scenic Cataract Accessible to Visitors; Takes Stand on Memorial Day.

Twin falls, the Snake river cataract from which the city of Twin Falls takes its name, which heretofore has been accessible only at the end of a long and difficult descent of canyon walls, will be brought within easy reach of visitors by means of a trail to be built by Twin Falls post of the American Legion, decision to this effect being reached at a meeting of the world war veterans' organization Tuesday evening. Building of the trail will involve construction of four short flights of stairs and a bridge about 12 feet in length, according to report made by Dr. F. C. Beebe for the committee named some weeks ago by the legion post to inquire into the feasibility of the undertaking. Appropriation of funds sufficient to cover the estimated cost of the material required was voted by the post and members volunteered their services in active construction of the trail.

Protest against celebrating Memorial day "with baseball games, track meets or other amusements of that nature," was voiced in resolutions adopted by the legion post at this meeting which also pledged the post to put forth its efforts "to the end that Memorial day be observed in Twin Falls only in a manner appropriate to the purpose for which it was established, namely, that of reverence of the memory of all departed veterans."

Looking toward observance of Memorial day, the meeting authorized the appointment of a committee composed of Paul R. Taber, Eugene Osterlander and John C. Harvey to confer with the Memorial day committee recently named by Dan McCook post, Grand Army of the Republic, with view to offering assistance and cooperation in carrying out plans for the occasion.

Plans Impressive Tribute. On its own account the legion post endorsed suggestion that a white cross, illuminated by searchlights, be erected on the eve of Memorial day at the intersection of principal Twin Falls streets, and that the cross, standing there as a memorial to the nation's hero dead, be guarded throughout the night until the hours of the Memorial day procession by sentries. Dr. W. F. Passer and A. Wilton Peck were named as a committee to arrange for this contribution to the observance of the day.

Dr. F. C. Beebe was elected chairman of the post to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Dr. E. S. Milford, submitted at the time of his removal from Twin Falls. The high school "pep" band, marching into the hall at the conclusion of the business session, furnished a novel entertainment program for which arrangements were made by former members of the marine corps.

CARLSON GETS JUDGMENT

Decree of Foreclosure Issues in Connection of Suit Involving Purchasers Claim for Damages.

Upon findings made by a jury in district court here, Judge W. A. Buley has rendered judgment for $25,073.38, including $1000 attorney's fees, to Alfred Carlson from H. W. Leveke, holding that Carlson is entitled to foreclosure under mortgage which he sold to Leveke in 1919, and allowing Carlson full amount of Carl's claim of $29,380.52 in addition to taxes and water maintenance charges assessed against the property and paid by Carlson, less $7,000 damages awarded to Leveke by the jury.

The court holds that the defendant Leveke was guilty of laches in not suing upon claim either for damages or for cancellation or rescission of the contract with the plaintiff, Carlson. Leveke had based his defense in the action on the claim that he had been induced by Carlson to purchase along with the farm property, a herd of dairy cattle which were diseased.

RAIDERS FIND BURIED LIQUOR

Discovery of Immense Caches at Twin Springs Basis of Charges Against Dawson's.

Federal government agents, accompanied by Twin Falls county and city authorities, early Tuesday morning descended upon the Twin Springs roadhouse on the Contract road a short distance across the state border in Nevada, confiscated approximately 130 gallons of moonshine liquor and 138 bottles of home brewed beer and collected other evidence on the basis of which federal warrants have been issued for the arrest of Paul and Celia Dawson, proprietors of the resort, according to statements given out Tuesday evening at the sheriff's office and police headquarters here.

Celia Dawson, said to be the owner of record of the Twin Springs property, while Paul Dawson's name appears over the door, is the proprietor of the Weaver rooms in Twin Falls, for which municipal license recently was revoked following a raid made by government agents and the police resulting in the seizure of a quantity of liquor and the arrest of several of the patrons. It is reported that Paul Dawson's name appears over the door, is the proprietor of the Weaver rooms in Twin Falls, for which municipal license recently was revoked following a raid made by government agents and the police resulting in the seizure of a quantity of liquor and the arrest of several of the patrons.

Caches Give Up Liquor

Liquor seized by the authorities at Twin Springs Tuesday was found buried in several caches within a short distance of the resort, both in Idaho and Nevada territories. Discovery of the caches was made after search of the premises had disclosed no contraband alcoholics except a few bottles of home brewed beer. A considerable proportion of the confiscated liquor value of which is estimated at about $7000 is reported to have been destroyed on the premises at the time.

None of the inmates of the resort except the cook, was awake when the authorities arrived on the scene at about 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the end of two-hour motor ride from Twin Falls. The search of the buildings was completed before the other inmates were awakened. The Dawsons are said to have spent most of the time during the past three weeks at the Twin Springs resort, which was to have been opened April 19, and for which the Nevada license is reported to have been received Monday. The property was owned and operated a number of years ago by the Williams family.

Celia Dawson, about two years ago, was convicted in the district court here and paid a fine for illegal possession of liquor, and appeal by Paul Dawson from conviction on a similar charge has been pending before the supreme court for about two years.

FACILITIES AT TOURIST PARK FULLFILL NEED

Department Chairman Reports Two to Nine Parties Camp Here Daily; Broadcasting Station Proposed.

Automobile tourists passing through Twin Falls in increasing numbers since the opening of the tourist park May 1, have found accommodations in the park in numbers ranging from one to nine parties each day during the past five days, according to report made to directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce at a regular meeting Tuesday evening by R. C. Letech, chairman of the tourist park department. Two attendants have been employed at the park and new office quarters have been provided, Mr. Letech reported. Recommendation to the Twin Falls highway district that it proceed at once with construction of a gravel road leading from Godwin over the Shoshone street bridge into Twin Falls was contained in a resolution offered by Dr. J. L. Alexander, and adopted by the directors.

Would Use Air

Possibilities of obtaining for southern Idaho valuable publicity through the agency of a radio broadcasting station established here were presented for consideration of the directors by P. C. Meredith of Buhl, and a committee was appointed to inquire into the probable cost of establishing such a station and to ascertain the measures of cooperation that the several communities and counties of this region would give in the enterprise. Members of this committee were P. C. Meredith, J. S. Keel, A. J. Peavey, C. A. Robinson.

In Field for Dairyman

The directors authorized appointment of a committee to carry into execution plans for looking up support for the lately organized Twin Falls County Cooperative Dairyman's association through furnishing one-half the amount of collateral security required for financing the association's initial operating expenses. Decision to extend this cooperation to the association was reached at a prior meeting at which the association's directors explained their plans and objectives.

Application made by Jacob Schaeffer of the U. S. Meat company, for cooperation and support in his plans for establishing a packing plant here was presented to the directors and referred to C. W. Simpson, chairman of the industries department, for further consideration.

APPLE CROP HIT HARD BY FROST

Inspector H. T. Blake Estimates Surviving Production in This District 25 Per Cent Normal.

Frost Monday night caused destruction of approximately 50 per cent of Twin Falls district's apple crop that according to estimates made Tuesday evening by H. T. Blake, deputy state horticultural inspector.

Prior to this frost Mr. Blake had announced his opinion as a result of extensive investigation that the fruit crop of this district had been cut approximately 50 per cent as a result of freezing. Delicious apples, he said, were particularly hard hit; about 25 per cent of the Jonathan production had survived and Rome Beauties were unharmed. Orchards on high ground were reported to be worst damaged.

Spray Season at Hand

Attention of fruit growers was called by Mr. Blake to the fact that the season for calyx spray is at hand, and in this connection reference was made to a statement issued last Saturday by M. L. Dean, director of the state bureau of plant industry. This is the most important of all sprays for codling moth control. It is generally considered that more than one half of the total of worms entering the apple through the calyx.

There is only one way to stop these worms and that is by a thorough calyx spray, applied as soon as the petals have dropped and before the cups have begun to close.

It is necessary to use more spray for this application than for the cover sprays because every calyx cup should be filled. The fruit is so small at this time that it is difficult to do it unless all parts of the tree are thoroughly sprayed so as to be sure that every apple is covered.

The recent heavy frosts have destroyed much blossoms and some growers are beginning about applying the calyx spray, feeling that they have not enough fruit to pay for the application. Before deciding, however, to spray, should take a holder and carefully examine the tops of the trees, because often when an examination from the ground indicates no crop or a small one, in the tops of the trees a fairly good crop of fruit, though the grower wishes he had sprayed last 'too late'—the calyx worms are in and the crop seriously injured or ruined.

IRWIN'S COWS LEADERS IN TEST ASSOCIATION

Carl D. Irwin's herd of 17 Jersey cows lead the Pioneer Cow Testing association herds with production of 10274 pounds of milk and 18.7 pounds of butterfat for the month of April, according to the report of A. H. Koster, official tester for the association. Mr. Irwin's grade Jersey "Wonder" produced 1425 pounds of milk and 28.1 pounds of butterfat for the month, and led the individual production record for the month.

L. J. Tackelack had second high herd of 21 Holsteins with a production of 10281 pounds of milk and 40.2 pounds of butterfat, and second high grade in a grade Holstein with 1773 pounds of milk and 65.6 pounds of butterfat. Two hundred and sixty-nine cows, tested during the month, produced an average of 8227 pounds of milk and 24.1 pounds of butterfat. Of these 80 were cows that produced more than 40 pounds of butterfat.
