Labor Board Takes Jurisdiction of Wage Dispute; Brotherhood Heads Claim Traffic Will Not Be Stopped.

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP)—The United States railroad labor board assumed jurisdiction today over the wage question which was considered in conferences with the firm's and engineers' committees representing virtually all class one carriers operating west of Chicago. The concerted conferences terminated yesterday. Representatives of the employees declared that it signified their intention to return to their former policy of negotiating by individual systems.

David B. Robertson, grand president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and Harry P. Dougherty, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, were on record as saying that no interruption of traffic was threatened and that separate negotiations by systems were to be resumed forthwith.

The action of the board was in response to an appeal made by W. M. Jeffers of Omaha, chairman of the western general managers conference committee. Mr. Jeffers asked the board to take jurisdiction now or be prepared to take jurisdiction later to avert possible interruption of traffic. The board is empowered to assume jurisdiction when interruption of traffic is threatened.

MAN OF MANY ALIASES IS HELD FOR ROBBERY

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Henry Edlman, an Englishman of a half dozen aliases and a suspect of several of the city's most sensational unsolved crimes, was in custody tonight on an alleged confession that he dragged Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of the playwright, and robbed her of $9000 worth of gems at the Hotel Alhambra last Monday night.

Witnesses were summoned to his cell tonight to see if they could identify Edlman as a participant in the drug, robbery and murder of Dorothy King Keenan, and of Louise D. Lawson. Police declared they also had clues linking him with a Broadway shop silk robbery two weeks ago.

Foley Is Elected To Succeed Murphy
as Tammany Chief

Only Two of 70 on Executive Committee Vote Against Surrogate; New Leader Is Contrasted with His Predecessor.

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Surrogate James A. Foley tonight was elected successor to the late Charles F. Murphy, as leader of Tammany hall. Only two of the 70 members of Tammany's executive committee voted against him.

Tammany men say Surrogate Foley is a model of the "new era" type of politician which the hall has been moulting in recent years.

His predecessors were mostly men of humble pretensions and low environment; men born in the city's teeming tenement and waterfront districts who, by sheer force of physical prowess and inherent political acumen, fought their way to place and power.

The new chieftain is 42 years old, a graduate of the local public schools, and with honors of the College of the City of New York and the New York Law school. At the age of 25 he entered politics and straightaway was elected to the assembly. Six years later he was elevated to the state senate where he remained until, in 1910, he was elected to the surrogate's bench by a plurality of 15,000 when every other democrat on the ticket went down to defeat.

His record of legislative achievements covers a wide field. He sponsored in the senate the first comprehensive bill providing a living wage for women.

in 1923 Placed at

Decrease of $41,000 Under Previous Year Shown in Report to Commission.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 14 (AP)—The net income of the Oregon Short Line railroad for 1923 was $5,467,440, or a decrease of $41,000 compared with the preceding year, according to the annual report filed today with the state public utilities commission. Of the earnings $4,000,000 was paid as the regular four per cent dividend on capital stock, and $17,750.59 was applied to sinking and other reserve funds. The balance of $1,451,689.91 was transferred to the profit and loss account. At the beginning of the year, there was $12,630,753.81 in this account, and the balance after reserve and disbursements had been made was $14,509,978.75.

SENATE PROBE

Borah Committee Finds Montana Senator Did Not Accept Money for Influence in Obtaining Federal Oil Permits.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, is "wholly exonerated" in a majority report filed today in the senate by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman of the special committee which investigated charges that Senator Wheeler accepted a fee from Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil operator, to prosecute oil land claims before the interior department after his election to the senate.

The vote in the committee was four to one. Senators Borah and McNary, republican, Oregon, and Swanson, Virginia, and Canby, Arkansas, demerits signed the majority report, but Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, reserved the right to submit separate views. He expects to do this within the next few days, and, meantime, said he did not assume to pass upon either the guilt or innocence of Senator Wheeler.

The charges investigated by the committee previously had been made the basis for an indictment returned against Senator Wheeler by a federal grand jury in his home state. There was no mention of that indictment in the report, nor was there reference to the activities in Montana of Blair Conn, who testified he had been sent there by Secretary Lockwood of the republican national committee, and had gathered information which was used in obtaining the indictment against Wheeler.

The majority report held that the committee was authorized to inquire into the sole question of whether Senator Wheeler agreed to receive or had in claims before a government department in violation of the statute. The majority found that he "neither received nor accepted nor agreed to receive or accept any compensation whatever, directly or indirectly, for any service rendered or to be rendered, to any person, either by himself or another," in relation to any proceedings before any department of the federal government.

DISCUSS CAMPAIGN PROBE

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Details of campaign expenditures were considered today by the senate Mayfield committee. The exact form in which the matter is to be presented is yet to be determined, but an official investigation may be proposed. Should this course be taken there were indications that a general inquiry, such as that which preceded the 1922 national political conventions, would not be unlikely.

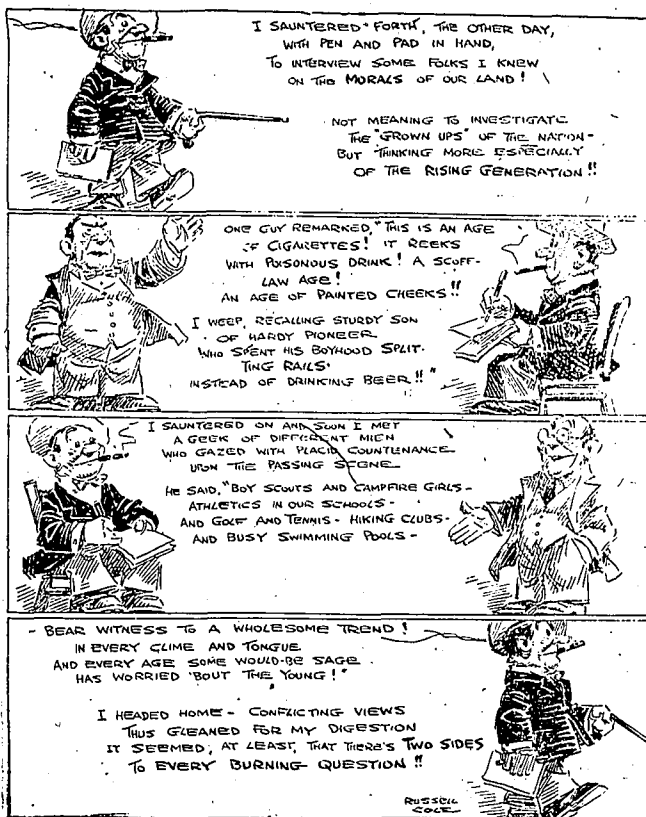

LANGLEY REPORT IS READY

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The report of the house committee authorized and with honors of the College of the City of New York and the New York Law school. At the age of 25 he entered politics and straightaway was elected to the assembly. Six years later he was elevated to the state senate where he remained until, in 1910, he was elected to the surrogate's bench by a plurality of 15,000 when every other democrat on the ticket went down to defeat.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Director Mead of the reclamation service told the house irrigation committee today that water charges to settlers in irrigation districts should be based on crops rather than the cost of supplying the water.

He endorsed the report of Secretary Work's fact finding commission and urged passage of a bill proposed by Chairman Smith to carry out the commission's recommendations.

EXPECT ORCHARD-BOISE
ROAD TO OPEN IN FALL

SALT LAKE, May 14 (AP)—In addition to the Hogenson-Wells branch, now under construction, which will give the southern Idaho counties an outlet to the Pacific coast, it is expected that the Orchard-Boise road will be ready for operation about the latter part of September, according to General Manager H. V. Platt of the Oregon Short Line. Excellent progress is being made on the roadbed and the tracklayers are following closely behind the grading crews.

A feature of the construction of the road is the boring of a tunnel 550 feet long about ten miles from Boise. The grading crews have made their way more than two-thirds of the distance through the mountain and no difficulties of any consequence have been encountered. The tracklayers are expected to catch up with the grading crew about the latter part of July. The opening of the Orchard-Boise section will mean much to the Idaho capital in its development and will aid greatly in the marketing of its products of that region to both eastern and western markets.

KLAN OFFICIAL CLAIMS

ATLANTA, Ga., May 14 (AP)—Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia, declared in a signed statement issued here today that "the statement issued by the Underwood committee in Washington was inspired by an effort to divert attention from their candidates' wet record and obscure the real issue of the campaign." "The real issue of the campaign for the democratic presidential nomination is the prohibition question," the statement said.

Situation Rapidly Growing Serious in Pend d'Oreille and Flathead Districts; Flames Spread in Kootenai area.

MISROULA, Mont., May 14 (AP)—With receipt of reports of two large fires in the Flathead forest and of four configurations hitherto not reported from the Pend d'Oreille forest, the fire situation for district No. 1 became more serious today.

A complete report of the Pend d'Oreille forest fires was received in a letter this afternoon giving the status of eight of these in the forest, and one of 600 acres in private timber. They all were reported spreading before a high wind in dry territory.

Seven new fires broke out in the Kootenai forest Tuesday, reports to-day say, two of these being large and dangerous and consuming valuable timber. One 600-acre blaze is cutting its way through the Callahan creek timber which was recently purchased by a Sand Point lumber company.

On the north fork of the Yaak river another fire has covered 200 acres of virgin timber in that section of the Kootenai. Thirty men are fighting this blaze, while 125 men, 65 of whom belong to the forest service, are battling the Callahan creek fire. In the Pend d'Oreille territory, a 600-acre fire is burning a valuable stand of privately owned timber of the Bonners Ferry Lumber company at Leona. This blaze, while it is outside the national forest, is threatening a fine stand of timber on the federal reserve. A large force of men has been put to work combating the flames.

DEATH OF SUN IS CONFIRMED

Capital of Canton Expected to Change Hands as Result of Passing of Famed Leader.

HONG KONG, May 15 (AP)—With the death of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the visionary leader of the reconstituted south China government, which was confirmed yesterday, the capital of Canton is expected to pass into the hands of the Peking government whose forces for the past year have been battling the troops of the "constitutional" president.

While Dr. Sun surrounded himself with a number of loyal and efficient generals and governmental leaders, it is not considered likely that any of his associates will be able to wield sufficient influence to prevent a collapse of the southern regime. Few, if any statesmen, past or present, have known more ups and downs more victories and defeats, more loyalty and more treachery than Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first provisional president of China, frequently called "the Father of the Republic" and often referred to as the "George Washington of the Far East."

The name of Dr. Sun first began to appear in newspapers of the western world back in the late 80's, when his vigorous pronouncements against his arch-enemies, the dynastic Manchus, attracted some slight attention. He was then living in the Hawaiian Islands with his widowed mother, who had migrated to Honolulu with her husband, an agent of a Christian mission, when Sun Yat Sen was an infant. Since 1895, however, when he essayed the first of his many revolutions, his name has become almost as well known to the Occident as it is to the 400 million Chinese nationals on behalf of whom he spent a lifetime of unremitting hardship and constant danger.

UTAH MAN SUICIDES

SALT LAKE CITY, May 14 (AP)—Samuel E. Williams, 68, retired farmer at the rear of his home here today, Williams had placed an old coat and pillow on the floor and stretched himself upon them before he fired the fatal shot. Williams was to have been married in a few days and he is believed to have suicided because his coming marriage would have left his sister alone.

RAIL RATES SUBJECTED

Senator Gooding's Long and Short Haul Plan Is Topic for Long Discussion in Senate; Transportation Act Argued.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Transportation rates questions came to the front today in both ends of the capitol. The senate devoted its entire session to debating the proposed modification of the long and short haul action of the interstate commerce act, while in the house the rate making sections of the transportation act came under attack. Continued discussion in the senate for the second day of the proposal to attach the Gooding long and short haul bill to the pending army appropriation measure as a "rider" brought an open charge of a filibuster and when a recess was taken proponents of the legislation refused to enter into any agreement to limit the debate. "Suggested" as an amendment to the army bill, the Gooding proposal has not been offered as such, it was charged, because it would at once be subject to a point of order as general legislation, a question which would be determined under the rules without debate.

Seeks Signatures.

In the house Representative Shaubert, democrat, Nebraska, continued his efforts to obtain signatures to his petition seeking discharge of the commerce committee from further consideration of the Huddleston bill which would repeal the rate making section of the transportation act asserting its passage would result in freight charges being reduced one billion dollars a year. Tonight he had obtained 27 signatures of the 150 required to make the petition effective.

Representative Lee, democrat, Alabama, opposing discharge of the committee, contended freight rates were now relatively lower than general commodity prices when compared with pre-war levels and Representative Hoch, republican, Kansas, said the rate making section had been "grossly misrepresented" by those seeking its elimination.

Favors Gooding Bill

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, led the transportation bloc on the floor of the senate in the fight for the Gooding proposal, which would modify the long and short haul clause, especially by restricting exceptions which may be made, notably in the matter of railroads meeting water competition.

Chairman Warren of the appropriations committee, asserted the senate "must fish or cut bait." Only two of the routine supply bills have passed all legislative stages, he said, and the rapidly decreasing time at the disposal of congress was lending to a "jam."

Rockwell Believes

Campaign Manager Says His Forces Will Not Oppose Motion by Brennan for Abolition of Two-Thirds Rule.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14 (AP)—If a motion is offered in the democratic national convention by George E. Brennan, Illinois democratic leader, for the abolition of the two-thirds rule in the national meeting it will be unsupported by the McAdoo forces, David Ladd Rockwell, national McAdoo campaign manager said in a statement here tonight.

The statement commenting upon the outcome of the Kentucky democratic convention today concluded thus: "Before leaving Kentucky I wish to notice a statement by Mr. George E. Brennan, speaking for the McAdoo opposition in Illinois, that he, Mr. Brennan, is prepared to move at New York the abolition of the two-thirds rule and nomination by a majority."

"If Mr. Brennan makes such a motion the McAdoo men will certainly not oppose it."

"The Kentucky democratic convention insures the nomination of Mr. McAdoo for president."

"In Kentucky, the native state of Mr. Underwood, the name of Mr. Underwood was not presented to the convention, and Mr. McAdoo was nominated by acclamation."

PARTY LEADERS WOULD ADJOURN EARLY IN JUNE

Organization in Both Houses
Striving to Call off Sessions
in Time for Conventions;
Much Work Remains.

WASHINGTON, May 14, 1924.—Adjournment of congress July 1 is the goal toward which the democratic and republican organizations in both the house and senate are striving. President Coolidge was told today by a group of house leaders. They expressed confidence that the legislative program would be in shape to permit a get-away deadline in mid-June, particularly in the senate, that this is a remote possibility.

During a White House conference Representative Garner, the democratic leader, and Representative Garner, Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, agreed to do their utmost to bring about adjournment before the June political conventions. Their views on the wisdom of such a policy coincided with those previously expressed by President Coolidge and Representative Longworth, the republican leader, who participated with several other house republicans in the discussion.

The president was informed that senate leaders, democratic as well as republican, were in sympathy with the June 7 adjournment program and were hopeful that it could be carried through. It was admitted, however, that demand is growing for action on certain legislative proposals and that a last minute hitch in plans might keep congress in session through most, if not all, the summer.

On the floor of the senate today several senators declared that Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals must be put to a vote before the close of the session, while Chairman Norris of the senate agriculture committee asserted he saw little prospect of a windup early in June. Chairman Warren of the senate appropriation committee, trying a speeding up of the legislative program, suggested that congress either "fish or cut bait."

Tentative plans of house republican leaders for the remainder of the session call for action on a variety of miscellaneous bills and for action on the McNary-Haugen farm bill and the postal safety measure, and the McAden bill, to amend the national bank and federal reserve acts.

The McNary-Haugen bill will be given right of way either the last of this week or early next week, with probably three days devoted to general debate.

Several additional days, it is agreed, will be required for consideration of the measure under the five-minute rule with amendments in order.

EX-SENATOR ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE of Indiana, mentioned as the republican vice-presidential candidate, is a guest at the White House. Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, democrat of Texas, was the target for a chair and a book when he engaged in a fight with Congressman William C. Hammer, democrat of North Carolina. Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, "little mother" of the Volunteers of America, of which her husband is head, went to her summer home on Fire Island, 80 miles from New York, to write a lecture on prison reform. Recording times left her boat high on the beach. She set signals of distress, and coast guardsmen, believing they had found a run runner's nest, burst in on her with drawn pistols. Embarrassed, they took her to the mainland, while her husband was organizing a searching party. "Babe" Adams, for 16 years the pitching ace of the Pittsburgh Pirates, broke down in the middle of a game on Forbes Field, and will never pitch again.

"POODLES" HANFORD IS ROMEO AND BUFFALO BILL

"Poodles" Hanford, as a combination Romeo and Buffalo Bill, is providing laughter in wholesale lots in his new Educational Theatre comedy, "The New Sheriff," at the Idaho theatre this week.

"The New Sheriff" is a "western" where the men are all "hard boiled." "Poodles" is the new sheriff in the town, and from tending blue novels, imagines himself a great lover and a great sheriff. His romantic disposition gets him into trouble when he tries to surround the Mexican beauty of the town with a trombone.

"Poodles" is best known as the famous clown of the New York Hippodrome, where for years he was a stellar attraction. However, he does not appear in the familiar grotesque make-up of a clown. He is an expert horse man and his clowning at the Hippodrome was done as a bare-back rider. He is, in addition, a dancer, tight-rope walker and juggler, and a pantomimist of rare ability.

IMMIGRANT BILL WINS MAJORITY

Measure Fixing July 1 as Effective Date to be Ready for Signature This Week.

WASHINGTON, May 14, 1924.—President Coolidge was informed authoritatively today that the immigration bill, fixing July 1, 1924, as the effective date of Japanese exclusion, in all probability would be ready for his signature before the end of this week.

Leaders of both parties in the house were understood to have reported at a White House conference that so large a majority of that body were in favor of the conference report as now drawn that when it was presented tomorrow the opposition would be no more than perfunctory. At the same time the president was told the report would be presented to the senate as soon as acted upon at the other end of the capitol and that the outlook was for immediate adoption.

The White House conference was attended by Representatives Longworth, Ohio, and Garrett, Tennessee, the republican and democratic leaders; Chairman Snell of the rules committee, and Representative Garner, Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee.

While the legislative situation generally was discussed the president was understood to emphasize his continued interest in the immigration problem, his inquiries being directed toward determining beyond question the impossibility of further efforts to obtain a compromise on the exclusion date meeting with success in the house.

COOLIDGE BUSY ON BONUS BILL
VETO MESSAGE

No Attempt Being Made to Conceal President's Intentions of Opposing Soldier Measure; Expect Action Soon.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—President Coolidge today began preparation of the message he will send to the house in explanation of his veto of the soldier bonus bill.

While no official announcement has been made that Mr. Coolidge will veto the measure, persons close to the executive have made no attempt to conceal his intentions. The fact that he began preparation today of a message to the house, was considered positive proof of his decision to return the measure without his signature.

The president's message may be sent to the house tomorrow or it may be delayed until Friday. The ten day period during which the executive may act on the bill will expire midnight Friday.

The message is expected to be somewhat similar to that sent to the senate by Mr. Coolidge in vetoing the Bureau pension bill, in that it probably will cite the drain the measure would impose on the treasury. Director Lord of the budget in a report submitted to the president along with reports from the treasury department and the veterans' bureau is understood to have presented an estimate that the bill would cost $152,000,000 the first year $134,000,000 for cash and insurance payments and $6,700,000 for administration.

The treasury in its report is understood to have presented an estimate as to the total cost of the measure, figuring this cost at $6,700,000,000 over a 90-year period. The veterans' bureau report dealt merely with administrative provisions of the measure.

TWO BASEBALL GAMES TODAY

High School Team to Meet Caldwell Nine; Cosgriff's Men Play Factory Outfit.

Coach Ray Berry and eleven members of the Caldwell baseball team arrived Wednesday for their scheduled two-day skirmish with the Bruins.

On the ill-fated trip in which the Bruins lost three games of the four played last week, Caldwell and Twin Fall divided honors, each winning a game by a single point, insuring fast games for the next two days when the superiority of the two outfits will be decided.

Final workouts have been held and the blue and white squad finishes its season with these two games.

In the city league an opening game is also scheduled for the other ball park.

The sugar factory team, after winning a five-inning session at Hansen last Saturday, will meet Cosgriff's nine for a six- or seven-inning game at 6 o'clock this evening.

For the batteries on the sugar factory team, Cole and Silvers have proved to be a good combination, while Phil Pix, Carlos Linville and Richardson are probable batteries for the league team which will make its first appearance in the new suits which are creating favorable comment.

With the arrival of the pitcher from Salt Lake, for whose service Manager Cosgriff has arranged with the Seattle club of the Coast league for the summer, the local club will get its season started, it is thought, about May 30.

In spite of the large turnouts, much of the real material for the team will be dependent upon the university players who will be in Twin Falls for the summer months.

JUNIOR HIGH BEATS JEROME

Two Misplays Lose Close Game for Northsiders; Final Score Is Three to Two.

"Red" Taylor, catcher for the Jerome junior high school baseball team, threw wild twice in the third inning allowing three local runners to cross the plate for the only runs for the Twin Falls team in a game in which the northsiders outlit and generally outplayed the home team on Lincoln field Wednesday afternoon before a small crowd.

Rich started the game in the box for Twin Falls and performed in a creditable manner for five innings, fanning eight Jeromes and allowing but five hits. Frazzelle took the box and was successful in holding the northsiders to five hits, a run and five strikeouts.

In the eighth, with three hits in a row, none down and the bases loaded, he pitched himself out of a bad hole by striking out three in succession, allowing but one run in the inning.

Lawrence for the visitors pitched the full route in a big league manner, not allowing a hit for the first four innings and but three in the entire game. Eight strikeouts are accredited to the visiting twirler in addition to a neat hit and a run.

While all of the hits for Jerome were singles they came scattered and consequently earned but two runs. Alvy Knight poked out a two-bagger in the sixth inning.

The feature play of the game for Twin Falls was a neat double in the second inning when Andrews popped a hot one to Wiscar at short, who threw Dallas, Jerome runner, out at second, and Haynes, Twin Falls second baseman, completed the play to Knight at first.

In the seventh Lawrence extracted himself from a hole equal to the one that Frazzelle wriggled out of in the eighth when two errors and a walk filled the bases for Twin Falls, but cool headwork on the part of the visiting pitcher caught two men at the plate.

Mrs. D. E. Regan presented her music pupils of the senior high school in a fine program of musical selections on Tuesday evening at the Parish hall. Instrumental duets were given by Viola and Beulah Selek, Vaine and Elmer Rowberry, Ruth and Lawrence Turner, Florence and Helen Jacky, Ruth Bowen and Vera Wynn and Irene and Zola Bawlsby. Piano solos were played by Floyd Holmquist, Irene Bawlsby, Rita Steele, Thelma Erickson, Bertha McCleary, Dahl Beckwith, Phyllis Hoggan, Nellie Galloway, Viola Selek, Thelma McKinney, Vera Wynn, Mary Ray, Lawrence Turner, Raymond Baldwin, Mary Virginia Hart and Ruth Snowhill.

There also was a reading by Miss Dorothy Barger, a vocal solo by Miss Marie Brady of Filer, a musical reading by Miss Cora Jensen and two numbers by a stringed quartet composed of Miss Terese Pfeiffaut, Felix Adrians, Zebras Smith and Mrs. Regan.

The M. S. S. club was pleasantly entertained by Mrs. David Brown and Mrs. C. W. Griggs at the home of the former in the Reed apartments Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the singing of "America," and roll call was responded to with quotations in honor of "Mothers' day." After a brief business session the following program was given: Vocal solos "Little Mother of Mine" and "Little Dutch Garden," by Mrs. Glen Sturdevant with piano accompaniment by Mrs. C. H. Stinson; a paper, "The Origin of Mothers' Day," by Mrs. Hamilton. The Altis string quartet gave three numbers, "Serenade," by Drigo, "Whispering Flowers" and "La Sereneta," all of which were greatly enjoyed.

A paper by Mrs. C. R. Shipman on "Mother" was read by Mrs. C. L. Bawlsby. A guessing contest was then enjoyed with Mrs. Concanen winning the favor. The program closed with a piano solo played by Ruth Griggs. Delicious refreshments were then served to 23 members and the following guests, Mesdames Stinson, Snook, Stover, Berg, Sturdevant, Shotwell and Ray Brown. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Audra Griggs and Fay Hertz.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The board of directors of the Rural Federated clubs will meet on Saturday May 17, at 2 o'clock, in the Business Women's club rooms. A good attendance is desired.

Cross-Examination by Counsel For Peters and Lechleiter Involves Resummary of figures

Defense counsel in the trial of K. S. Peters, former manager, and Frank G. Lechleiter, former secretary of the Mutual Building and Loan association, charged with embezzlement of $18,442 of the association's funds, early Wednesday afternoon began cross examination of Edwin A. Wilson, Twin Falls accountant, whose testimony for the state relative to the financial affairs of the association has occupied most of the three days since the trial in the case was opened Monday in district court here.

Questions propounded by Homer G. Mills of defense counsel, required, Mr. Wilson stated, a new summarizing of figures contained in the audit he had made of the association's books and records, and recess was taken at 1:30 o'clock to give time for this work.

At 4:30 o'clock the work had not been completed and the jury was excused at that hour until 9 o'clock this morning.

PROSPECTS ARE PLEASING

A talk on Rotary ideals by Judge E. A. Walters for the benefit of Dan Cavanaugh, recently elected to membership, featured the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the club held Wednesday.

A number of visitors from outside points were present, including one or two from Boise both of whom in brief talks touched upon the splendid prospects of the Twin Falls country and offered congratulations to southern Idaho in connection with the announcement of the letting of the contract for the grading of the new Wells-Rogerson line.

Virgil Laird and J. H. Barker, members of the Buhl club, were in attendance. Joe Madson, a former member, also was on hand. C. E. Booth, president-elect, served as chairman.

BOB AND CURFEW

Towns with a curfew ordinance are confronted with a new difficulty, as is reported, as a result of bobbed hair. Grandmother and flapper granddaughter look so much alike that the officers engaged in enforcing the law find themselves in embarrassing positions when they try to observe curfew.

Obviously it is too late to use this fact as an argument against the shear of feminine locks. Can't it be the lessons about turning back the tide have been learned more or less thoroughly. On the other hand, it seems a pity to use this as an argument against curfew laws where the latter are useful or necessary.

But why worry? It is only a matter of time and adjustment. When there are none but bobbed heads among the ladies of the land, of all the ages that ladies attain, then things will assume their normal order again and it will be possible once more for the casual observer to distinguish, by other signs, between the high school miss and her mother or grandmother.

AMERICAN PLACE NAMES

The public in general approved of the Senate's action to drop the name Mount Blainer and restore the old name Mount Tacoma to the famous peak overlooking Puget Sound. The former name had no significance, while the latter was given to the mountain by the Indians before the white men went into that region.

Another resolution subsequently introduced in Congress and proposing to change all foreign names on the map of the United States has nothing to commend it. Instead of carrying further the fundamental principle back of the change in the mountain's name it does just the opposite. If all the British, French, German, Spanish and Dutch names were wiped out, to be replaced by strictly modern American names, there would be lost hundreds of historical, romantic and descriptive place names with their rich associations. Foreign though these names may seem, they are as American as any arbitrarily chosen substitute names could possibly be, because they have come down to us from the earliest days of our history.

It is a false Americanism that would not permit the continuance of old historical names like New Orleans, Santa Fe, Marquette, Georgia, Carolina and so on. Anyone who knows something of the discovery, settlement, exploration and development of this great country surely can have no resentment against the names which mark that progress by recalling the men and peoples that contributed to it.

A WELL-READING CITY

There's something queer about the monthly reading reports from the public library of Kansas City. It begins to look as if that thriving community has set its heart on becoming the reading capital of the United States.

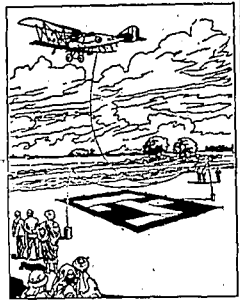

Month by month it reports that more books are being borrowed from the library and its branches. Records of previous years are recklessly smashed. The winter months are supposed to be good reading periods for any public library, so a high mark in books is used then seemed quite natural. But spring has come with its outdoor lure and still readers' consumption of the printed word grows apace. In April this year they read six thousand, four hundred twenty-four more books than in April, 1923.

As a substitute for gasoline, "naxelite," a vegetable extract, first made in South Africa, is said to produce more power to the gallon when used as a motor fuel. It is claimed that a fire fired by it can be easily extinguished by water, making it an aid to safety.

Indoor Golf "Green" Returns Ball After Putt

To aid golf players to attain accuracy in putting, an indoor "green" that directs the pellet back to the starting point has been invented by a western man. The toy can also be used as a pastime for any number of persons, and may be set up

The observer picks up the line by means of a hook dangled from the craft and the message is delivered as directed.

Skunk is Friend of Farmer, Not Hen-Roost Robber

Next to the muskrat, the skunk is now the most important fur-bearing animal in the United States. In 1923, only 18,255 pelts of this little animal were sent to market. Then the supply began to increase until the record number of 1,921,000 pelts were gathered in 1924. Occasionally, the average price was as high as $12, but in 1922, the top figure was $5.00. Commercially considered, according to government figures, the skins of skunks mean a total business of about $5,000,000 a year in this country. Experts of the agriculture department declared

There's one point, however, one which it would be at least interesting to have statistics. Do Kansas Citians buy books for their own homes as eagerly as they borrow them? And do New Yorkers buy as few books as they take from the public library?

Westerners Are Ugly in Eyes of Japanese

It has happened more than once that a Japanese baby has howled and shrieked in terror at the sight of a beautiful, fair-haired, blue-eyed girl. This may strike you as comic or tragic, but it is a fact. Japanese standards of feminine beauty are different from ours.

A Japanese beauty must have straight, black hair. Should she have the slightest tendency to wave, she will take endless trouble to straighten it out—as much trouble, in fact, as an American girl would take to produce the opposite effect.
Her face should be narrow and long; her forehead high and narrow at the middle, but wider and lower at the sides, so that it corresponds as nearly as possible to the outline of Fuji, the mountain beloved by Japanese artists.
Her eyes, of course, must be long and narrow, slanting upward at the corners; the eyebrows mere shadows; and high above the eyes; her complexion ivory-white with little or no color.
The Japanese girl carries her head and shoulders slightly forward, and inclines her neck forward to face the world. She walks with short, quick steps, her toes turned in and her feet hardly lifted from the ground. To walk otherwise would be to offend the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Heart Is Injured by America's Swift Pace

More deaths occur in America from various diseases of the heart than from any other cause, says the New York Times. A few years ago tuberculosis headed the list, but while the number of deaths from this cause have been reduced, those from heart trouble of various kinds have increased.

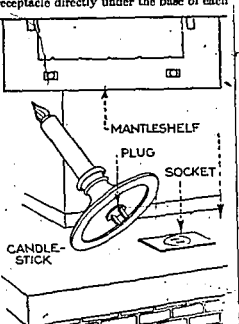

The decrease in the ravages of tuberculosis is explained by the great educational campaigns carried on throughout the country for combating the evil and to improved sanitary conditions.
The increase in heart troubles is attributed largely to the increasing pace of modern life in America. A decade ago the death rate from tuberculosis was 150.2 per 100,000. At that time the death rate from heart troubles was 140.9. A recent survey showed that while the rate for tuberculosis has been reduced to 115.2, the rate for heart disease has jumped to 141.9.
The highest fatality from heart disease has been found in Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in the order named. The lowest death rate is reported in Montana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Nebraska. It is increasing in New York.

Wiring Mantel Candlesticks

The appearance of electrically lighted candlesticks on the mantelshelf of a fireplace is usually marred by the lamp cord that connects the candlesticks to a nearby socket or receptacle. This cord can be eliminated entirely by wiring the mantelshelf in a slightly different form than usual. This is done by providing a flush receptacle directly under the base of each candlestick and wiring the candlestick as shown in the illustration, providing it with a cap to fit the receptacle. A hole is drilled in the center of the base to receive the cap, which is first wired and pulled up into position by drawing the wires through the candlestick, and the other ends are then connected to the socket terminals.

CHAPTER IV. The Stretching Worm.

JACK and Janet watched Cockey Robin getting dinner for his family. He hopped across the grass, stopping down and then, with his head held on one side to listen, he plunged his beak into the soft earth, bringing up a wriggling worm.

"How in the world do you know a worm is there when you stick your bill into the ground?" asked Janet.

"Cheep! That is easy," replied Cockey Robin. "I hear him."

Jack and Janet put their ears down to the grass. They listened for worms but they couldn't hear a thing.

"Cheep! You must have very small ears," declared Cockey Robin. "I can hear a worm right where you have been listening."

"He stuck his beak confidently into the ground, and sure enough, he brought up a worm. 'I heard him as plain as plain could be.'"

"Isn't that wonderful?" exclaimed Janet admiringly.

"To be sure it is wonderful," boasted Cockey Robin. "But then I am very old Cockey Robin. I have been a very wonderful worm catcher. No worm can fool me."

Saying this, Cockey Robin picked up the last worm he had caught and flew away to feed his family of babies.

Jack did not like to hear folks boast. He shook his head as Cockey Robin flew away.

"I would like to see some worm fool him," said Jack. "Then Cockey Robin would not boast so much." As Jack said this he happened to put his hand into his pocket. There he found a rubber band his father had given him.

Jack pulled it out and looked at it. As he looked he began to grin.

"Ha, I know a worm that can fool Cockey Robin," said he. "We will have some fun."

Jack took the band and fastened it to a short stick he found on the ground. He poked the stick into the ground until it was out of sight. He covered the other end of the band with earth, until only one little tip could be seen.

"Here comes Cockey Robin," whispered Janet.

Jack bent over, pretending he was listening.

"Cheep! Cheep! What are you doing?" asked Cockey Robin.

"Hush—hush!" warned Jack. "There is a very large worm hidden here."

"Cheep! Let me listen. I know all about worms," said Cockey Robin. Jack moved near. Cockey Robin listened with his head on one side.

"Ha, ha, ha! We thought you knew all about worms!"

"Cheep! I can't!" He started to say he couldn't hear a thing. Then his bright eyes caught sight of the tip of the rubber band. It looked just like a worm. Cockey Robin was surprised. He wondered if his ears had fooled him. He quit chirping in a hurry. Down went his beak. He grabbed the supposed worm. He began to pull. The rubber band stretched and stretched. Cockey Robin braced himself and pulled until he was sitting on his tail.

Then Cockey Robin let go to get a fresh hold. The rubber band snapped back almost out of sight. Again Cockey Robin grabbed it. Again he pulled, again the rubber stretched, again Cockey Robin let go to get a better hold, again the rubber band snapped back. Jack and Janet laughed.

A third time Cockey Robin tried it and the same thing happened over and over. A fourth time, and now Cockey Robin did not let go. He walked backward tugging at the supposed worm and the worm stretched and stretched and stretched until the pull was so hard that Cockey Robin scarcely could keep his feet. But Cockey Robin was gone. He braved and tugged hard and never let go.

The strain was so great the peg began to loosen in the ground. Of a sudden out it came, snapping toward Cockey Robin. Cockey Robin tumbled over in astonishment. The stick hit him on the back. Cockey Robin let go. There was the little rubber band on the ground.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Jack and Janet. "We thought you knew all about worms! There is one you didn't know about."

(How Cockey Robin gets even with Jack and Janet for their joke will be told in the next chapter.)

Pay Gravel

By HUGH PENDEXTER

He left his pan and pick while he reconnoitered the top of the ridge. He reached the crest only to discover another and higher ridge ahead. He descended into the shallow valley, between the two and followed it down for a fourth of a mile, proceeding slowly and watching for Indian signs. He was surprised and keenly interested in turning a wooded bend to behold a long log cabin ahead. Beyond it were half a dozen open sheds and a rough corral. He could detect no signs of life about the place. With a shrug of his shoulders he boldly advanced, telling himself:

"If any one is there he must have seen me. I'm a lost prospector, trying to find old Iron Pyrites."

The cabin door was closed and, what was unusual, blankets were hung over the small windows. These were tacked, glass, but were partly blocked by strips of timber. He first examined the sheds and corrals. None contained horses.

"They're ready to cure for a heap of them when put to it," he thought as he advanced to the door and rapped smartly. As he had expected there was no response. There was a hole for a hatchcock, but no handle, the thing was visible. He tried the door and felt the bar resist the pressure.

"But they got in some way," he pondered. He stepped back and examined the windows and then returned to the door. Then he snuffed at the awful simplicity of it. The hole in the door was never used for the hatchcock, but merely to discourage a trespasser. At one side of the door and concealed by a strip of hanging bark was the thing. He seized it and tugged sharply. The bar rose inside and the door swung open.

Six rough hunks were on each of the side walls. The chimney and fireplace were at the farther end with several kettles and frying pans. Near the door was a table. This arrangement made it necessary to bring the food the entire length of the room, a very unnecessary inconvenience, he decided.

Filled in one corner near the fireplace were seven saddles. Four of these did not look as if they had ever been used. The axes in the fireplace were cold and no fire could have burned there for twenty-four hours. Tiptoeing back to the door he pushed over the awkward position of the table. His wonderment further increased when he discovered each of the four legs was bolted to the floor. Ironmongery was easily procured by Deadwood City and they built towns, but why any one should bolt a table to the floor and screw to this isolated spot and make a rough slab table secure to the door was a problem that challenged his imagination.

He took hold of the table and lifted. It did not give. He glided to the side farthest from the door and repeated his experiment. With a gasp he saw the table jumped back and the table banged down in place again. He had lifted a section of the floor along with the table. Returning to the side next to the door he reached across and once more lifted and pulled. The table slipped back and forth. He was called to, and effectively coaxed, a large trapdoor. When he finished the door stood upright at right angles with the floor and the table rested on its side.

Darting to one of the curtained windows he pulled back the covering and briefly surveyed the course he had taken in coming down the sloping valley. He took the same precaution at a window on the opposite side. No one was in sight in either direction. From the door he looked across to the rocky rim of the lesser ridge. It was covered with pines. To examine the valley, he decided it would be necessary for him to leave the cabin.

The owners of the place would be sore to approach from either up or down the valley. Reaching to the open trapdoor, he struck a storm-match and held it below the floor. There was a rude cellar formed by a natural depression or hole. It was about six feet deep beneath the opening and had been shaped with a spade on the sides, but the bottom of it seemed to be solid rock. The floor of the match also revealed a hard-packed box filled with packages down up in bagging and blankets. Dropping to the floor beneath he caught up the first package and held it in the faint light streaming through the trap and deftly untied the cord. It contained twenty watches, ranging from a lady's timepiece to a massive gold-repeater.

"Agents have been swamping jewelry for horses, or else one gang is working both branches of the business," he told himself as he carefully retied the package.

The next package, much smaller

Breakfast Food "Matrimonially Speaking"

By MRS. HUGH MCKAY

My husband calls up from the office and gives me errands to do. Sometimes he forgets some very important papers and wants to know if I can "run downtown" with them.

Or maybe he'll want to take his suit to the tailor's to be pressed, and he phones to find out if I'll "just slip around with it" before lunch.

Every time I hear the phone ring in the morning I wonder what it is that he's forgotten to attend to now.

I'm willing to be obliging, and all that, but I'm beginning to feel that they haven't even tried to remember things before he starts off to work. It's so much easier to get me to do them later.

All in all, I figure that I've done the telegraph companies out of about $50 that they might have earned if Hugh hadn't used me for his messenger boy instead.

Tomorrow: "My wife insists that I try all the queer breakfast foods she discovers."

than the first, held nothing but finger rings. The third package was rich with gold-dust and nuggets. What remained he examined by the sense of touch and by weighing them in his hands. All contained jewelry or nuggets.

Replacing the loot in its box he pursued his quest eagerly but found nothing. He was lifting his hands to catch the edge of the trap when the cabin door banged open. His fingers were yanked back to pull his two revolvers.

A newcomer stepped short on he-liding the revolving table. Dinsdale shuffled about and grumbled half aloud. "That you, Rusty?" demanded the man above.

"Erhm. Come down here," growled Dinsdale.

The man walked around the table and across the room, lowered himself through the opening. As his feet touched the ground and as his hands were falling to his side Dinsdale brought the barrel of the heavy Colt down on his head. The fellow collapsed and remained motionless. Dinsdale stepped to the front of the trap and drew himself up through the opening and tipped the trapdoor back in place.

"That makes it awkward," he muttered as he stepped to the open door and peered up and down the valley. The north's last of summer and his readiness to accept an intruder as a member of the gang indicated that some one known as "Insty" was expected to be in the cabin; therefore, Rusty must be in the immediate neighborhood and likely to appear at any moment. While it was possible to discover no body of men approaching the cabin it was disquieting to observe there were no horses in sight.

The man in the cellar had arrived on foot; and he must have come from the nearby wood or else he would have been seen from one of the two windows before Dinsdale ventured through the trapdoor. It was possible that he and his friend Rusty had been together and had separated when near the cabin. This would permit the second man to be in the woods opposite the door.

Dinsdale ran to the nearest point of the growth despite the possibility that Rusty might be waiting to receive him. Nor did he breathe freely until he plunged into cover. Soon he was back at the camp and Pyrites was demanding:

"Where is he, in here or been?"

"I've been in a long narrow valley between this and the next ridge," wearily replied Dinsdale. "And I had an adventure I never looked for." Forthwith he recited his experience in the cabin and his assault on the man in the cellar.

"Now you've gone and done it!" growled Pyrites, rubbing to the bureau. "Strike that tent and help me pack. Good lord, of all the bad luck! I panned the dirt you left—'I was all pay gravel once it can be hydraulicked."

And you have to stick your nose in stranger's business and let them know you are by hitting one of them over the head? What made you go into that cabin where you must have known you wasn't wanted?"

"Curiosity, I reckon," sighed Dinsdale, turning to help with the packing. "Once I was in I took the heat out of getting out. The man I cracked over the head never saw me."

"But if he's come to, or his mates have come along, they'll scatter and you'll find this camp," wrathfully declared Pyrites. "We ain't got a single minute to lose."

"Going to give the valley a wide berth and strike the divide above or below them?" asked Dinsdale.

"Strike the divide nothing!" snorted Pyrites. "We're going to make tracks back to the Rapid and follow it down to Rapid City as fast as we can hoof it. I only hope none of them are in Rapid City to see us come in."

"If my little adventure stops us from prospecting on the divide I don't know as I care how soon we meet them," sullenly retorted Dinsdale.

DELAY RULE TO LIMIT USE OF RIVER'S FLOW

Committee of Nine in Special Session Here Disposes Ways and Means of Meeting Season of Water Shortage.

Snake river water users, through their committee of nine in charge of operations and study of Snake river water at a special meeting convened here Wednesday for consideration of problems incident to the present season of water shortage, decided for the present against restricting water users to use of actual amounts of water to which they are entitled under decrees of filing rights. It was the consensus of opinion that such regulation should be deferred for a few days until it was determined whether the river flow has reached its peak for the season. Under regulation of this nature at this time, it would be necessary to release from storage reservoirs sufficient water to maintain normal flow and it was recognized by holders of storage water rights that advantage that might be gained by them by such regulation at this time might be obtained at cost of education in state supply that would be even more valuable later in the season.

Appreciation of the seriousness of the situation throughout the Snake river valley this season was evidenced throughout the deliberations of the committee which is composed of representatives of water users of district number 30, extending from the point where Snake river enters the state to include territory served with water diverted at Miller dam.

Various suggestions were advanced for making the best possible use of the available supply in the interests of all the district's water users. In this connection F. A. Miller of St. Anthony, suggested as an alternative for proposed plan of lagging distribution of water, that a trade might be effected to mutual advantage between water users of the Twin Falls projects and those of the North Fork. Three canal systems on the North Fork, he suggested, may be in position to divert for users lower down the stream a total of 1500 second feet of water beginning late in July.

Reports made and statistics quoted in the course of the committee's session indicated that the situation this season may be more serious than in 1919, the year of the last water shortage. Stored water in Jackson lake on May 3, last, amounted to 325,000 acre feet, according to figures verified at this meeting by E. B. Darlington of Burley, reclamation service engineer, whereas Jackson lake storage on the corresponding date of 1919 amounted to 630,000 acre feet. Precipitation is about the same for both years.

Water delivery to the Twin Falls North Side project at the present time, according to R. E. Shippard of Jerome, is less than 50 per cent of normal for this season, while Minidoka projects are maintaining normal deliveries by means of heavy draft on waters of Lake Wolcott.

Delivery through the Twin Falls canal system yesterday was 90 per cent of normal for this season and today, according to Manager Burton Smith, the delivery will be reduced to between 60 and 70 per cent of normal. This reduction, however, he stated, probably will be for only a day or two, at the end of which time larger deliveries may be resumed.

Protest was made at the committee's meeting by Mr. Shepherd against use by the Idaho Power company of floodings on its dam at American Falls to divert water through the turbines of its new plant there. Effect of such diversion, it was asserted, was to cause fluctuation in the flow of the stream interfering with measurement of water to headgates below. The committee decided that the situation complained of did not constitute a serious interference in the normal flow of the stream.

The committee authorized dispatch of a letter of protest to the Miller Low Lift irrigation district against its diversion of 100 second feet of water at Miller to its own lands. Such diversion on the part of the district, the committee declared, is wholly without justification.

Miss Janet Worthman Brings Interesting Story to State Association Meeting.

Miss Janet Worthman, one of four public health nurses endowed by the late Jane A. Dolano, formerly a director of the American Red Cross, for service in isolated regions of the United States, told members and guests of the Idaho Graduate Nurses association at a banquet meeting in the Rogers hotel here Wednesday evening, something of her work in Valley county, Idaho, where she was recently assigned.

The banquet followed a regular business meeting of the association held in the afternoon in the Business Women's club rooms and attended by about 40 members and visitors representing Boise, Gooding, Shoshone, Buhl and other southern Idaho cities. Mrs. R. A. Haller of Twin Falls, and Miss Reichert of Idaho, were elected delegates to represent the Idaho association at the national convention to be held in Detroit next month, and an announcement was made that the Northwest section of the national association will hold its annual meeting at Twin Falls in June of next year.

Dr. W. F. Burke of Twin Falls, addressed the nurses at their luncheon session, and the Rev. A. G. Pearson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, spoke at the banquet meeting.

SCHOOLS' WORK AND LIMITATION TOLD ASSEMBLY

Parent-Teacher Association Convention Hears Inspirational Talks at Close of Second Day's Sessions.

Assertion by Miss Elizabeth Rasmus of Boise, Idaho superintendent of public instruction, of present need for co-operation of home and school in attainment of the modern ideal of training for service, and challenge made by Mrs. M. J. Sweely of Twin Falls, president of the Western Federation of Women's clubs, to citizenship of the west to educate and take care of western boys and girls "if the west is to become the great west it can be," were outstanding features of an evening meeting that marked the close here Wednesday of the second day sessions of the nineteenth annual convention of the Idaho Parent-Teacher Association.

The convention will be brought to a close following receipt of the report of the resolutions committee and further reports of local associations.

UNANIMOUS ELECTION.
With only one candidate placed in nomination for each of the offices to be filled at this time, election of officers was effected yesterday under suspension of rules. Mrs. C. E. B. Roberts of Gooding, being chosen as president to succeed Mrs. S. J. Brown of Boise, who has served as head of the state organization for four years, and other officers being elected as follows: First vice president, Mrs. C. H. Boyd, Pocatello; second vice president, Mrs. Frank Beach, Burley; vice president at large, Mrs. J. Kohl, Boise; treasurer, Mrs. M. H. Verman, Idaho Falls.

CURRICULUM "THIS IN SPOTS."
Speaking on "Home and School," Miss Rasmus Wednesday traced development of the American school system social and economic evolution resulting from and attributed to development of machinery and factories the shifting of responsibility for training from the home to schools. "Formerly," she said, "schools undertook only cultural training, and daily tasks in the home or apprenticeships supplied the training that now has been assumed by the schools to such an extent that curricula have been broadened and broadened till they have become thin in spots."

Education has not changed, Miss Rasmus said, but the means of gaining education have changed. The school system, she explained, is only a part of the educational system, since education implies "our contact with the entire world and the schools bring in only a little."

Pays Respects to Supervision.
"It is no wonder that the schools have been taxed to keep up," Mrs. Sweely declared, pointing out that "the past 50 years have witnessed greater material progress and more phenomenal happenings in scientific research than in hundreds of years before."

No one dares forecast the development of the next five years in any line," she asserted, declaring it a duty and privilege to assist in preparation of boys and girls of today for the tasks of the future.

In the course of her address, Mrs. Sweely paid her respects to modern tendency toward supervision as well in governmental affairs as in the schools. "If supervisors are a help," she said, "let's keep them, but let's do a bit of supervising ourselves. If conditions in our schools are faulty, we are to blame because we are not living up to our responsibilities. We should select our boards of education with the same care we give other serious affairs of life."

LITTLE FOLKS STAGE GAZETTE.
The evening session was opened with a cantata, "Milk Fairies," presented by Twin Falls school pupils. Musical numbers included selections by a quartet composed of Miss Edna Graham, Mrs. G. C. Wiley, Mrs. Westcott and Mrs. Nunnemaker, with accompaniment by Mrs. Benson.

General convention sessions Wednesday were given over largely to round table discussions on organization and efficiency, led by Mrs. Boyd; home service by Mrs. H. H. Rankin of Ashton; education by Mrs. J. E. Browning of Idaho Falls; health by Mrs. G. E. Duke
