BILL TO ABOLISH LABOR BOARD IS CAUSE OF TIUUP

House Adjourns Without Reaching Vote on Barkley Measure; Cannot Resume Consideration for Two Weeks.

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The house adjourned tonight without reaching a vote on the Barkley bill to abolish the national labor board. Consideration of the measure cannot be resumed before two weeks from today.

So determined was the opposition of republican leaders to the proposal that many democratic insurgents supporting it doubted whether the bill could be brought to a vote unless congress recessed in session through the summer.

The coalition which two weeks ago by petition took the bill from the commerce committee lost control of the situation long enough today for opponents to put through a motion to strike out the enacting clause, an action which would have the effect of killing the measure.

Much Time Taken. Representative Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, author of the measure, demanded another vote, but before it was taken four hours were consumed with a variety of roll calls forced by opponents.

In the end the friends of the bill succeeded in restoring the enacting clause by a vote of 185 to 160.

Mr. Barkley before proposing adjournment told the house it was apparent a final vote tonight was out of the question. He indicated he would attempt to call up the measure again on Monday, June 2, and said privately that if adjournment of congress prevents house action at this session, the fight to enact the bill will be resumed with increased vigor next December.

Mr. Barkley charged that opponents of the measure not only were determined that it should not pass, but were denying it "decent consideration."

Two of the present declared that if it is called up again they will seek to stave off a vote by offering a flood of amendments.

Aiding the republican organization in its ten hour fight against the bill today, Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, forced roll call after roll call during the night session by insisting on a quorum.

Experts Succeed in Sending Pictures Over the Telephone

Remarkable Feat Is Accomplished After Several Years' Efforts; Photographs Sent From Cleveland to New York.

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—Transmission of photographs from Cleveland to New York City over long distance telephone lines was accomplished today in a demonstration by laboratory experts of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

The method, achieved after several years work, was described by officials of the company as a "simple, rapid and accurate picture transmitting system." It will be installed on the company's various long distance lines, it was announced, in accordance with the demand which arises for this type of service.

Cleveland was selected as the place for the transmitting station so that pictures taken at the republican national convention might be transmitted to New York within a few minutes. Actual transmissions showed that photographs could be transmitted to New York and made ready for printing newspaper plates within ten minutes from the time the original photograph was placed on the transmitting machine. A photograph of a group of newspaper men taken in the Cleveland laboratory today was transmitted to New York in four and a half minutes, excluding the time required in developing the original in Cleveland and the few minutes required in developing the print in New York.

The pictures transmitted today were five inches by seven inches in size. Messages in handwriting also were transmitted, the copy received being a facsimile of the original message.

Collision of Traction Cars Results in Deaths; Woman Dies From Shock.

ROANOKE, Ind., May 19 (AP)—Six persons are dead and a score injured as the result of a collision between two traction cars of the Indiana Service corporation here tonight. Four of the persons were killed outright, one died in a Huntington hospital a few hours after the accident and another died of shock while searching the debris for relatives who believed on the ill-fated car.

Mrs. Katherine Overly was waiting at a station for relatives when word was received there of the wreck. Believing they were on one of the ill-fated cars she rushed to the scene of the accident in an automobile. On viewing the wreck she was overcome and died before medical aid could be summoned.

CONTEST LOOMS AT IDAHO MEET

Opposition to Wilson as Bourbon's Choice Develops Previous to State Sessions.

ST. MARIES, Idaho, May 19 (AP)—The matter of instructed delegates for William G. McAdoo for tomorrow's Idaho democratic state convention was apparently overshadowed tonight in minds of delegates already here by selection of national committeemen.

Ed. B. Coeur d'Alene, incumbent and candidate for reelection, is in a Portland hospital recovering from an operation. Mrs. Elder is here in personal charge of his campaign. She said tonight she is certain of 55 to 60 votes out of 96 in tomorrow's convention. As her Wilson's place, a new nomination fight before the issues are considered with apparent hope for avoiding possible complications. Mrs. Teresa Graham of Coeur d'Alene, national committeewoman, is also a candidate for reelection and no opposition has manifested itself to her selection.

While sentiment on presidential nominations seemed favorable to McAdoo, considerable opposition was voiced to instructing the state delegation to the New York convention for him. This sentiment favored a delegation which would be free to switch to some other candidate if McAdoo was unable to swing the nomination in early ballots. McAdoo's interests are in the hands of H. B. Merritt, democratic county chairman of Spokane county, Wash., who said McAdoo telegraphed him to attend the convention for that purpose. He said he felt sure of an instructed delegation although he was not able to state definitely what support he could count on in tomorrow's convention.

Idaho has eight votes in the national convention and indications were that 16 delegates will be elected with a half vote each. Those named as possible selections include:

Judge Is Jailed With Bailiff For Carrying Pistol

Arizona Jurist Taken into Custody and Lodged in Bastille; Will Answer in Court.

FLORENCE, Ariz., May 19 (AP)—Arrested today on a warrant charging him with carrying a concealed weapon Judge Stephen H. Abbey of the Pinal county superior court tonight was held a prisoner in the county jail here.

The jurist was taken into custody by officers near the court house. He was armed with a pistol when the arrest was made, according to county Attorney E. P. Patterson. G. M. Allen, a bailiff in Judge Abbey's court, also was lodged in jail following his arrest on a warrant charging him with carrying a pistol.

EVIDENCE IN WHEELER CASE IS SUFFICIENT

Indictment in Montana of Man Who Prosecuted in Daugherty Investigation Declared Fully Justified by Facts.

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The indictment of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, by a federal grand jury in his own state was justified by the evidence, Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, a member of the special senate investigating committee, asserted in a minority report read today to the senate.

Declaring that the guilt or innocence of the prosecutor of the Daugherty committee was a question solely for the courts to determine, Senator Sterling said his report was limited to the question of justification. He added that Senator Wheeler's charge that the indictment was the result of a "frame up" by his political enemies had failed "entirely of proof."

The reading of the report brought sharp replies from both Chairman Borah and Senator Cawaway, democrat, Arkansas, of the investigating committee. Senator Borah said that when more time was available he would review the evidence in detail and will then disclose that Mr. Wheeler never at any time violated the letter or the spirit of the law. Senator Wheeler is charged in the indictment with having accepted a fee from Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator for the prosecution of oil lands permits before the interior department. Four members of the committee in a majority report filed last week by Senator Borah held that the charge was not sustained by the evidence and that the employment was to represent Campbell in the Montana state courts.

Indictment Justified. Senator Sterling in his minority views, contended however that the testimony of W. W. Rhea and H. C. Glasco, former business associates of Campbell, together with the documentary evidence furnished by the department of justice at the request of the committee, seemed to make it clear that the grand jury at Great Falls was justified in returning the indictment.

SEN. W. W. HARRELD
SEN. WALTER EDGE

BY LAST MINUTE SWITCHING OF their votes, U. S. Senators Walter Edge of New Jersey, and J. W. Harreld of Oklahoma, gave President Coolidge the necessary one-third of the senate to sustain his veto of the Bursum pension bill, the final vote being 28 to 53.

Morse interests here today at a loss of approximately $150,000. The flames, spreading rapidly by the wind, soon enveloped the entire properties of the company.

Pumping engines from surrounding towns and fireboats were unable to do more than assist in saving the fleet of Moshulu steamers and a fleet of small craft.

THAW SET FREE BY JURY ACTION

Slayer of Stanford White at Liberty After 17 Years' Imprisonment.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19 (AP)—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, is free tonight after 17 years of intermittent confinement in jails and asylums. After withdrawing of a motion for retrial filed by his divorced wife, Evelyn Nesbit, Common Pleas Judge Monaghan tonight entered judgment on the verdict of the jury which declared him sane, directed that he be given his liberty unconditionally and that his property be restored to him by the trustees of his estate.

Thaw, who is visiting his mother in Pittsburgh, was immediately notified of the court's action. He had been on parole from the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases since the jury adjourned him sane on April 22. A hospital attendant accompanied him to Pittsburgh.

Former Judge John M. Patterson, Thaw's counsel, said tonight that Thaw would voluntarily appear in New York to answer charges pending against him for an alleged beating administered to Frederick Stamp, Jr., of Kansas City, in 1917. A suit for damages brought by Stamp's father has been settled out of court.

American Aviators Make Long Jump to Japanese Territory, Completing World Conquest of the Air.

MINATO, Japan, May 20 (AP)—The three United States army airplanes arrived here from Yotorufu island on their flight around the world.

The arrival at Minato from Yotorufu, about 354 miles by air, of the American army fliers marks the complete conquests of the earth's circumference by air. Americans, Britons and Portuguese have flown across the Atlantic, British aviators have flown from England to Singapore and the Americas have made the flight across southern Asia and up the China coast to Japan, while Japanese and Americans have crossed their own countries.

To Make Short Stop.

From Minato, where the Americans are expected to stop but briefly, the next leg of the trip is about 350 miles down the Pacific coast of Japan's main island, to Kasmigaura, where the Japanese navy has its principal aviation station. Kasmigaura is about 50 miles from Tokio, and the aviators are expected to make the railway trip to the capital.

The next hop is about 350 miles to Koshimoto, next to the last stopping place in Japan. The last stop of the fliers in Nippon is on the southern island of Kiyushu, at Kagoshima. From this point the airmen will attempt the 500-mile jump to Shanghai.

WINS REPRIEVE.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., May 19 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Tratch, originally sentenced to be hanged tomorrow for the murder of her husband last fall at Fleh Crook, Sask., has been reprieved, according to official word received here today. Her sentence was commuted to life imprisonment at the Kingston, Ont., penitentiary.

Senate Action on World Court Plan to be Considered

Coolidge and G. O. P. Leaders to Discuss Course as to America's Membership; Many Schemes Submitted.

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The question as to whether senate action on American world court membership should be attempted before adjournment of congress will be considered at conferences to be held within a few days between President Coolidge and the republican leaders of the senate.

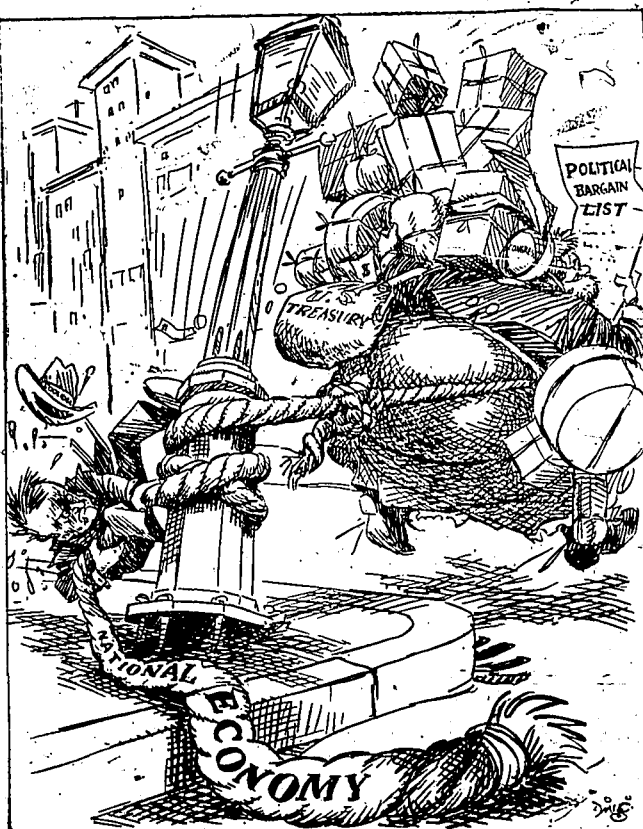

Interest in the whole question of American world court membership has been revived by the recent presentation of a new world court plan by Chairman Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee. Letters and telegrams bearing on the question have been pouring into senators' offices from peace societies and church organizations and Chairman Lodge has called a meeting of the foreign relations committee for Wednesday to consider the various world court plans submitted.

Three distinct plans are before the foreign relations committee and Senator Pepper, Pennsylvania, a republican member, is understood to be preparing a fourth designed as a compromise. The proposal for conditional American adherence to the existing permanent court of international justice, as made by President Harding and endorsed by President Coolidge has been before the committee for more than a year, and in addition to the plan for a wholly new court there is pending a proposal by Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking democratic member of the committee.

SOLDIER BONUS BILL IS PASSED OVER VETO

Fight of Ex-Service Men Ends in Complete Success With Passage of Measure in Senate by Two-Thirds Vote.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The soldiers' bonus bill finally has become law.

The measure which has been the subject of a fight between congress and two successive presidents, was repassed today by the senate over President Coolidge's veto by a vote of 59 to 26. This was a margin of two votes more than the necessary two-thirds majority as compared with the 52 votes there were to spare when the veto was overridden in house last Saturday.

President Coolidge made a futile last minute effort to have his veto sustained in the senate, calling to the White House for a breakfast conference with the senate republicans. The bill was repassed by a vote of 59 to 26. All except Senator Colt were at the White House conference. The others attending the conference were Cameron, Arundel, Harrell, Oklahoma, and Hale, Vermont.

Delay Vainly Sought.

The last move of the administration was to seek delay in the vote until Saturday. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, asking for a delay until to defer action until that time. The senate was in no mood for delay, however, and as Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, objected there were immediate cries for a vote and "Four" from both sides of the chamber.

Senator Curtis, Kansas, assistant republican leader, who had charge of the bill, moved for a vote and was joined by Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the democratic leader, in suggesting that debate was unnecessary.

Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, and other administration leaders joined with Senator Curtis in voting against the president. The roll call follows:

To override the veto:
Republicans—Bridges, Brookhart, Harrell, Cameron, Capper, Cummins, Curtis, Dale, Ekins, Foss, Frazier, Gooding, Hale, Harrell, Howell, Johnson of California, Jones of Washington, Ladd, Leonard, McNary, McNary, Beck, Norris, Odell, Shortridge, Spencer, Stanfield, Warren and Willis—30.

Democrats—Adams, Ashurst, Broussard, Caraway, Copeland, Hill, Ferris, Fletcher, George, Gerry, Harris, Heflin, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Pittman, Ralston, Robinson, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Trammell, Walsh of Montana and Wheeler—27.

Farmer-labor—Johnson of Minnesota, Shipstead—2.

Total, 59.

Against overriding the veto:
Republicans—Hull, Borah, Colt, Edge, Ernst, Fernald, Greene, Keyes, McKim, Moore, Pepper, Phillips, Reed of Pennsylvania, Smead, Sterling, Wadsworth and Welch—17.

Democrats—Bayard, Bruce, Dial, Edwards, Glass, King, Shields, Swanson and Underwood—9.

Five Change Minds

Five senators who voted for passage of the bill when it was before the senate first this season, supported the veto today. They were: Col. Rhode Island; Keyes, Kansas; McKim, Illinois; Phillips, Colorado; and Sterling, South Dakota, all republicans.

Of the eleven senators about nine were announced as in favor of the bonus and one against. Only one pair had been arranged, Senator Randall against with Senators Harrison and Stephens for.

Four republicans and three democrats absent and unpaired—Watson, McCormick, LaFollette, Cozunce, Stanley, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Reed of Missouri, all favored passage of the bill.

Senator Owen, democrat, Oklahoma, the other absentee, voted for the bill on its original passage but there was no announcement as to his attitude with respect to overriding the veto.

White House officials in discussing the senate action emphasized that the Mellon tax rejection program was predicated upon the assumption that there would be no bonus legislation. While they refused to say directly they put the impression that congress having decided on a bonus, hope of material tax reduction must be abandoned.

New Taxes Promised

Secretary Mellon was not prepared to discuss the effect of the bonus upon the treasury's financial program but he said that "sooner or later there must be provision for payment and it can not only be paid but it can be paid in a way that will not be a burden upon the treasury."

The treasury secretary conferred with President Coolidge after the senate acted, but neither he nor White House officials would disclose the subject matter of the conference.

Mr. Mellon also declined to comment on suggestions by some treasury officials that the treasury could not do otherwise than recommend a veto of the pending tax legislation as a result of the passage of the bonus.

Mr. Mellon said he could make no intelligent statement concerning the whole situation until he received from his assistants information now in preparation concerning the effect bonus payments will have on future fiscal operations of the government.

Estimates Run High

The cost of the bonus has been variously estimated at from 2,550,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

MAIN DETAILS OF BONUS BILL

Over Three Million Veterans Will Be Entitled to Insurance Policies Under Terms of Measure.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—It is estimated that 3,038,283 veterans will be entitled to the insurance policies provided by the soldier bonus bill enacted into law today. The 3,038,283 will be paid cash of $50 or less. The bill also provides for payment to dependents of deceased veterans of the amount of adjusted compensation to which they should be entitled.

Adjusted service compensation is figured on the basis of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The first sixty days cannot be counted. Also a maximum of 500 days would be allowed.

All veterans up to and including the rank of captain of the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy are eligible for the bonus.

It is estimated that the average insurance policy will be valued at $902 while the maximum value of the policy would be about $1900 for overseas service and $1500 for home service.

The value of the policy would be the equivalent of the amount which the adjusted service credit plus 25 per cent would purchase at regular insurance prices based on four per cent interest compounded annually. To determine the latter compilation a table of factors has been compiled by experts. Multiplication of the proper factor by the amount of adjusted service compensation due the veteran plus 25 per cent would give the face value of the insurance certificate. Each certificate of course would vary according to the length of service of the veteran and his age at the date of issuance of the policy. The policies would be dated next January 1.

The table of factors follows:

If the veteran served in both the army and navy the application should be sent to the department under which he last served.

Women who served as yeomen in the navy and marine corps also were included in the bill as eligible to receive its benefits. Drilling Holes in Glass.

Holes may be drilled in glass in the following manner: Dip a pointed, three-cornered file in pure turpentine. Put the point of the file where the hole is to be drilled and twist the file first in one direction and then in the opposite direction, bearing down lightly on it. Turn the handle of the file around slightly in the hand and twist it a number of times. You may find it necessary to dip the file in turpentine again before the hole can be drilled entirely through the glass. After the hole is drilled, it can be smoothed with emery cloth.

STUDEBAKER SPECIAL IN 500-MILE EVENT

Veteran Speedways and Dirt Track Star to Pilot Well Known Entry in Coming Classic at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 19.—Earl Cooper, a veteran automobile racing driver, when many of the present generation of speedpilots were in swaddling clothes, has arrived here with his Studebaker Special as his mount in the Twelfth International 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 30.

In the days of yesteryear—when Johnny Aiken, Oil Anderson, Tom Dooney, Darle Rosta and Barney Oldfield were the stars in automobile racing's electric lights—Cooper was a star of the first magnitude.

He was a first-placer in the sizzling road races as well as on specially constructed speedways. Then he went into retirement and followed the more prosaic existence of a business man on the Pacific coast.

Suddenly he announced his return to the track. That was two years ago. He jumped into Joe Thomas' car the day of the Fresno, Cal., race after Thomas was stricken with appendicitis and had to submit to a trackside operation.

Cooper drove the car into first place, giving the group of spectators that had come to the top during his retirement a lesson in the art of getting around a speed bowl a required number of times in the shortest period.

He was second in the Fourth of July race at Kansas City, last year, and second at Beverly Hills, Los Angeles, in 1922. Cooper's best run at Indianapolis was in 1915 when he ran fourth. In 1914 he was the road race champ.

Cooper is of the studious, mechanical type, who keeps a detailed series of charts and notes on the actions of his racing car. These should be invaluable to the Studebaker corporation, under whose banner Cooper is racing.

Cooper was officially welcomed on his arrival here by Mayor Lew Shank. His blue speed creation is attracting much attention.

However, Dutton, also of the older school of mechanics, is with Cooper this year, assisting the racing driver in preparing his car for the 500-mile race.

Army School of Business

The supply officers of the United States army make annual expenditures of public funds amounting to many millions of dollars in times of peace and billions in time of war. That they may perform this important service with the greatest efficiency an army school of business has been proposed by the assistant secretary of war, Col. Dwight F. Davis.

WOULD PREPARE FOR WELCOME OF TOURIST GUEST

Agricultural Commissioner Offers Suggestions for Engaging Visitor's Interest in State's Opportunities.

BOISE, May 19.—The northwest will receive more tourist travel this year than it has for several years past according to information received by M. A. Means, Idaho commissioner of agriculture. With a view to improving the opportunity thus afforded for upbuilding of the state, the commissioner has issued the following statement containing a number of definite suggestions for enlisting the interest of Idaho's visitors in Idaho's opportunities:

The tourists after arriving in the parks of different towns and cities are tired, they have their own cars loaded down, and do not care to drive out alone to see the surrounding country, because they think they have had enough driving. Every community should have an organization, especially the real estate men, and find out every day the people in the parks that are seeking homes. I would suggest that every morning at 9:30 that one or two representatives of the organizations go to the parks, visit the people who are camped there to find out the home-seekers, and if one who would like to take an auto trip, which should be furnished by the organization. They should be shown the points of interest, dairy herds, poultry flocks, bar fruit orchards, our grain fields, alfalfa, corn, sugar beets, and other crops that are grown from our splendid producing lands. By so doing we will probably relieve many men of a part of their holdings of Idaho land, who have become involved during the speculative period, and place two or three citizens where they were but one.

Not Boom Work.

This, in my mind, would not be boom work, but practical, constructive work. The people who are seeking homes can be honestly pointed to the most productive soil that you will find in any part of the American continent. To people who wish to build homes we certainly can point out that Idaho has a fine climate in her valleys that will maintain health and give happiness the year round. It has its mines, its great timber belts, its lakes and swift running mountain streams that furnish natural roadways for business, pleasure and recreation.

Selling people Idaho lands at the present prices will show them a profit on their investment for several years to come. Therefore, you will have in locating these people, satisfied investors who are the greatest drawing cards that any state can have.

Through Speculative Period.
We have gone through a speculative period from boom land sales, which has resulted in some good. We have developed in our state such splendid schools, roads and other improvements that in the next decade the people will not necessarily have to be called upon to do so extensively. Nature has in a special manner blessed Idaho with fertile soil, all for the delight and accommodation of its inhabitants. Let us increase our population along sound economic lines.

We have spent in the last year many thousands of dollars through our commercial clubs and other organizations in advertising the state, and many people of the older states are interested in the opportunities which Idaho offers. The safe investment can always be made when prices are at the bottom, and this is the strongest argument for people to avail themselves of the present opportunities.

This will be a splendid advertisement for Idaho. People passing on in their travels into other states, and camping in tourist parks will spread this information which is given them by a wonderful Idaho citizen, as not alone a wonderful state for opportunities, but they will tell others that Idaho has an interesting and live people who invite others to help develop its resources.

BABIES AND ANGELS.

God tempers the winds to the shorn lambs, and the angels attend babies with especial solicitude.

Have you ever noticed what tumbles and bumps babies may sustain without apparent injury? We try to explain it by saying that the baby's flesh is soft and yielding. When bumped the flesh seems to squash in and splash up again and no bones broken. We often expect it to squash like Humpty Dumpty. But, fortunately we may trust a little of the care of the baby to guardian angels or something.

You see, all "necient" things are unusually active, and being active may readjust themselves to accidental changes quickly. We say, for instance, that a fresh chemical is more active than a stale one is. The tissue cells of the baby are fresh—sometimes they seem too fresh. Hence they are very active. Think what valiant deeds the foetal cells can do in the nine months of prenatal life. They encompass and condense within the period of gestation the history of man's entire evolutionary development. Aeon of time are traversed; remotest experiences of animated nature are enserled and unrolled.

And when the baby is born these cells are still on the job. They are tremendously active during the first years of the baby's life. They have to be. First of all, the baby is not fully formed at birth. Parts have still to be constructed. Weight and firmness and "efficiency" have to be attained. So that the baby changes more—develops and grows more during the first year or so than he does during the next 80 years of life—if he should live that long. This means that the baby has activities that the adult does not have. It means that his powers of recuperation are greater. It means that resistance to disease, which is usually feeble in the adult, especially the aged adult, is superlative. His "vital organs" seem all out of proportion to the rest of his makeup. He seems "all belly and no legs."

And his glands are superlative. His tonsils and adenoids, neck glands and other lymphatics are valiantly striving to meet the requirements of his new world existence. His thymus gland is very large at birth—often it is much too large. And the baby's liver makes you think of the dog-fish, whose liver is one-third of the fish. The baby is often thought of as an inert and help less lump of flesh; but he is a human dynamo for animal functioning.

And, so, these few remarks are going back to the same hole they came out of. Namely, we say, with safety, trust the angels somewhat in the raising of babies. We may, with safety, "kiss the bump and make it well"—a bump that would send you or me to the hospital. We need not go into hysterics when the baby swallows his penny. Let it pass. Give the angels a chance and the baby his fling. Give scope to his desire for experiment and adventure. When coming back from some of his adventures he may not look as pretty but he will know more.

A Delightful Effect for Children's Clothes

THERE is nothing that produces such a delightful effect as Linit, or gives such a soft, pliable finish.

Linit makes even ordinary cotton fabrics look and feel like linen. That is why all modern mothers starch with Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Because Linit remains thin and free-running like water, it penetrates every thread of the fabric and helps strengthen it, thus preventing wear and increasing the life of the material.

Important to You

USE Linit according to directions, and, unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like. This is why Linit goes much farther than the old-fashioned kinds of starch—and why it is easier to iron with Linit.

Go to your grocer, ask for a 10c package of Linit, and begin to use it for all fabrics. If Linit is not the most remarkable starch you ever used—your money will be refunded.

SPORTSMEN FOR MORE PARTRIDGE JUNIORS CLOSE WITH VICTORY

Association Members Declare Anderson's Cub Team Trims for Concentration of Effort in Game Bird Propagation.

Members of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association at a monthly meeting Monday evening in the chambers of commerce offices expressed agreement that it is inadvisable to concentrate effort toward increasing the numbers of Hagerman partridge inasmuch as this region took three years ago by the association, rather than to attempt to bring in other types of game birds.

Anderson's junior high school team concluded their season in winning form last Saturday when they trimmed the Castleford team in a return game by a score of 6 to 1.

The rough field at the west end closed did not deter the junior high team which found conditions much to their liking as they have been practicing on a field as rough all spring.

Twin Falls threatened to shut Castleford out in the first game when they held their opponents scoreless until the ninth inning when an error at second base let in the lone tally for Castleford.

Francis pitched the whole game for Twin Falls and allowed but four hits, striking out 12 men, receiving excellent support by Garvey, catcher, and the Twin Falls infield. After short stop for the only hit down the shortstop in real form, Friday, June 1.

Haynes' home run in the second inning was another feature.

First game commenced the season with the junior high team and Coach Anderson promised another championship team with the same material next year to work with.

grounds Sunday afternoon with a 2-1 score.

The game started well enough but soon resolved into a bitter battle, the Kimberly outfit outlasting the Burley aggregation which held the lead until the fifth inning when Burley was knocked from the box by Kimberly who captured the lead safely for good.

Next week's return game is scheduled to be played on Kimberly's grounds.

Next to be played is the permanent.

At Los Angeles, R. H. E. Portland 1, Los Angeles 2, 10-11. Batters—Winters, Rasmussen and Dwyer. Root and Gillies.

No other games scheduled.

POCATELLO PITCHERS WIN CONTEST AGAINST BUHL

Inability to hit Aldred and Phillips, Pocatello pitchers, cost Buhl an 8 to 0 defeat when the Pocatelloans invaded Ferris field Sunday afternoon for the opening of the Buhl season.

A large crowd packed the Buhl grandstands and interest in the Buhl club indicates that the west end club will be strengthened by their next game.

Faux, Buhl southpaw, was battered for 11 hits during the game when the opposing twirlers let but two hits get by in the shutout victory.

Fieldster, center fielder for the visitors, led the batting honors for the afternoon with three hits in five trips to the plate, being followed by Liday, third sacker, who got two nice drives.

The score: R. H. E. Pocatello 001 102 400—8 11 2 Buhl 000 000 000—0 2 5

HANSEN TEAM TRIMS EDEN

An entirely different team than that which faced the sugar-factory Saturday represented Hansen and took the long side of a 10 to 5 score from Eden Sunday.

"B" Putzier, a former Twin Falls high school player, and Beney, with Edgar Mussell of Twin Falls, bailed out but performed in the battery for Hansen.

Eden players found hard going against the Hansens and they promise to have a strengthened team when they meet next Sunday for a return game at Eden. Mussell batting 1,000, four hits in four trips to the plate, was one of the features of the game.

THREE GAMES SCHEDULED ON OPENING BILL

Twin Falls City Team to Begin Season with Contests Against Pocatello; Local Players Getting into Shape.

Twin Falls will open its baseball season with a three game series May 20, 31 and June 1 with the Pocatello nine which shut out Buhl's touted team with an 8 to 0 victory Sunday on Ferris field at Buhl.

Manager Coggriff has definitely stated the Pocatello games following their showing against the west end team for an opener, and other games are to be scheduled soon.

The whole team is rounding itself out now and there seems to be every reason to believe that the Magic City team will be a first rate ball club.

Thursday, or Friday at the latest two additions are to be made to the pitching staff when Ouse of Salt Lake arrives for practice. He is the player the Athletic club of the Coast league is farming out to the Magic City for his season.

Conger, another twirler of the northern Utah leagues, who pitched for Merome when the north side team defeated Emmett in a two game series.

Another pitcher who will arrive the last of the week, according to Manager Coggriff. The two newcomers are addition to Fox and Liday, with Richardson and Ed Mussell for backstops, form an enviable battery.

The probabilities seem to point to the infield shaping around Watson at the third base and Phil Fox is a likely member for the middle. But the other two places are problematical.

A college player from St. Mary's college, in California, is expected soon to fill the shortstop berth which is apparently open since now that Klefner and Myers, University of Idaho stars, will not play with the Twin Falls club because and that Lebrun of Pocatello Tech will not be available.

The new player is said to be above the average and with Jim Sealey and Bill Bailey to compete with for shortstop and second base will form a tight infield. Sealey will pitch the first game and will be in uniform for the second game of the season.

Lavell Darnall and others who are making regular appearance at practice are to be given a job in the gardening positions.

The scores were as follows:

THE FAKE THAT NEVER DIES

A thoroughly vicious thing is the so-called newspaper circulation contest, and yet, year after year at intervals of about a month, The News receives applications from this, that or the other agency offering to make us rich for life by means of one of these "contest".

The ground plan is always the same but the matter is dressed up in various and interesting disguises. As presented, it is no wonder that publishers of a certain type continue to swallow the bait, and yet five minutes study of any single contest plan ever devised should be enough to convince a ten-year-old schoolboy that there can be no such thing as a winner. A contest has this peculiarity. Everybody loses—the solicitor, the publisher and, as a rule, the subscriber. There is one exception to this. The man who sells the prizes, if he properly sources himself, comes out ahead. Nobody else does, barring, of course, the promoter. Some day the Federal government will probably put a stop to the "contest" graft. The thing is of no aid whatever to publishers, unless the publisher be upon his last legs financially, and even then the relief is but temporary. It is absolutely demoralizing to the bulk of the contestants.

Yet there is a market for the wares of the professional contest promoter. Any publisher weak enough to listen to these gentry can pull off a "contest" any time he sees fit.

TAX LEGISLATION

From the various disputes about tax legislation rapidly approaching completion in Congress emerges the fact that Congress, after all, has a right to enact any kind of tax law it sees fit to enact. Also the fact that if the people do not like it, they have a simple remedy in their hands in the fall election.

The main thing has been to lower taxes. The compromise bill being whipped into shape by the House and Senate conference committee may be a little lower than is wise. It may be too low, at any rate, to meet new, unbudgeted appropriations that Congress is making. But as far as the tax rates go, this is an error in the right direction.

The public will rejoice to have its income taxes lowered and its nuisance taxes removed, even though it may mean a temporary deficit. And it may do Congress itself good to incur a deficit. When the fact becomes apparent to everybody that the new rates are not going to meet expenditures, Congress will face the alternative of raising rates again, or else avoiding extravagant expenditures, and fearing public displeasure, it may choose the latter remedy.

If legislating a deficit will make Congress frugal, and lead to respect for budgets, on with the deficit!

THE CALL OF THE CIRCUS

President Coolidge tells how his grandfather once rode on horseback sixty-five miles over the Vermont mountains to see a circus. His father seldom missed a circus anywhere within a day's travel. And the son himself is a chip of the ancestral block. He saw his first circus when he was six years old, at Ludlow, Vt., and his last in Washington, D. C., the other day.

He remembers, as a boy, seeing old Adam Forepaugh himself, second to Batnum in circus annals, selling tickets from his wagon for his one-ring show. He remembers with keen pleasure the big Barnum & Bailey circus that used to come to Batland, and how he would get up at three o'clock in the morning and drive over the hills to get there early and see the big tent go up.

Love for the circus is in the blood of boys and Presidents alike. The circus is surely the great American entertainment—the thing that rises to most minds when the word "show" is pronounced—greater than baseball, because it appeals to all ages and both sexes. The man or woman who no longer loves a circus is no longer alive, and should take a few normal kids and have a new birth next time the big show comes to town.

RED CROSS LIFE SAVERS

One of the finest domestic activities of the American Red Cross is its development of a national life-saving corps among private citizens. Whenever swimming is taught nowadays the Red Cross offers to everybody the opportunity to qualify for the life-saving corps. Instruction is given and followed by rigid tests. When the tests are successfully passed, the qualified applicant receives membership in the national life-saving corps and one more swimmer is added to the growing list of those who know how to rescue persons from drowning.

In a great many cities where there are public swimming pools and where high school pupils are taught swimming, the life-saving work is developing rapidly. Ambitious youngsters love to learn to swim and dive and they are eager to be able to pass the life-saving tests. The national corps already numbers more than forty-five thousand members and will have many more when the summer camping season is over.

Here is a fine, constructive piece of work. Drownings at bathing beaches and summer camps have been all too frequent in the past. With the life-saving work growing apace in this country, it is essential that more people understand not only how to protect themselves, but how to help others. Every additional Boy Scout and Camp Fire Girl who learns early how to swim and dive and how to rescue others in the water is helping to make the rivers and swimming holes and lakes safer for everybody.

THE STRONG YOUNG MAN

BY DADDY

Daddy Dog finds in the woods a pair of glasses, which he calls "the eyes of fear," because they make a rat look like a panther and a caterpillar like a dragon. Jack put them on and sees coming an awful giant with a cruel ax.

CHAPTER II.
The Mighty Ax.

JACK pushed Janet and Daddy Dog into a hollow tree and crowded in after them.

"Keep quiet!" he warned. "Don't let the awful giant with the mighty ax see you."

Janet and Daddy Dog crouched down and scarcely breathed. They were astonished at what Jack told them—that there was an awful giant in the woods.

"They had not heard of any giants being about."

Jack peeked out through the dark glasses—the same glasses Daddy Dog had worn when he thought the rat was a panther and the same glasses Janet had worn when she thought a caterpillar a dragon.

"He is coming this way," whispered Jack. "Now he has stopped beside a tree. He is looking at the bark."

"Is he a very awful giant?" whispered Janet.

"The awfullest giant I ever saw," whispered Jack. "He could cut a whole sheep or a pig or a dog at one bite."

"Woof!" growled Daddy Dog. "He must be the awfullest kind of an awful giant!"

"Hush-sh-sh!" warned Jack. "He is going to cut a tree down."

Whack! The sound of the mighty ax crashing into the trunk of a tree came to the ears of the children.

Whack! Thwack! Whack! Thwack! The blows fell evenly and resoundingly. The forest echoed with them.

Whack! Thwack! And then came a louder sound. A long crash—boom! A smashing of a tree limb against tree limb and a terrific crash—boom!

The giant had laid low a lovely tree. What a powerful giant. The children cowering in their hiding places, shivered and shook.

"Hush!" warned Jack again, after peeking out. "He is coming this way!"

Jack jerked his head back. They heard footsteps. The footsteps stopped beside the tree.

"I wish I were a giant."

"Hut!" spoke a voice. "This tree is dead. I'll cut it down."

The children lay silent, wondering what was going to happen.

Whang! The mighty ax cut into the tree, jarring the trunk and showering the children with dust.

"Oh-oh!" shrieked Janet.

"Hey, what's that?" yelled a startled voice.

The giant stepped around the tree and saw the children cowering in the hollow opening.

Jack looked up at him through his large. The giant seemed terribly large. But Jack, though afraid, was not a coward.

"Run," he whispered to Janet. "I'll fight this awful giant. That will give you time to get away."

But Janet did not run. Instead she began to laugh.

"Giant!" she cried. "Hut! Hut! That is a joke on you Jack. Take off the glasses that make you see with the eyes of fear."

Jack, astonished at these words, snatched off his dark glasses. Instantly the awful giant vanished. In his place stood Hut, the wood chopper, grinning down at him.

"It was the glasses that fooled me," said Jack. "These are very strange glasses. They made Daddy Dog see a panther and Janet see a dragon, and me see a giant."

Hut stretched out his hand. "Let me look through them," said he. "I'll bet I'll not see anything that will scare me."

(But Hut does get a scare when he looks through the strange dark glasses, as will be told tomorrow.)

"Shame for two young fellows to spill blood," protested Pyrites. "Let every one be happy."

Dinsdale voted for peace by saying: "Don't take my talk too seriously. You're a stranger to me. I was only doing what you probably would have done. If the house will join me?"

The house advanced as a man. "I'm called Pete Dinsdale by those who know me the longest," he continued as he and the stranger followed the crowd to the bar. "Those who know me the least call me 'greenback man.'"

"My Black Hills handle is 'Easy.' 'Easy come, easy go,' you know. I'm glad you don't stress that. I'd have to kill you then. I'm a while with a gun."

"So am I," heartily retorted Dinsdale. "I never met up with as good a gun fighter as I am. Lucky both of us prefer whiskey. One or both would sure be killed. If you're broke I'll stake you."

"Thanks. I'm nearly broke, but not enough so to take from the man who won from me. When we meet again I'm coming after your hide. I don't want any favors standing between us. Where'll I find you when I get released?"

"Deadwood City. San Juan Joe's place. Come down heavy loaded."

Their glasses traveled to them over the heads of the first crowd. While he was drinking Dinsdale was conscious of someone tugging his arm, turned impatiently and looked down into Scissors' innocuous face.

"No pictures now, old man," he curtly said. "But I'm remembering you did me a favor. I owe you a rich stake. I'll settle later."

"San Juan said to give it to you the first time I caught you alone. Guess you won't ever be alone, and I've been waiting here away from my business for two days," whispered Scissors.

"All right. Hand over."

"It's in your right-hand pocket. With that Scissors backed away. Taking advantage of the boisterous merchant Dinsdale fell back a few steps and pulled a gun from his coat pocket. He opened it and read: "Everything o. k. Come back with Scissors. Job ready very soon.—S. J. J."

Dinsdale got Pyrites by the collar and dragged him to the outside.

"Are you too drunk to understand plain English?" he asked.

"I'm sober enough to locate two-ounce diggings within fifty rods of here blindfolded," proudly assured the prospect.

Dinsdale growled in disgust.

"See here. Try to remember this when you wake up tomorrow morning. I'm off for Deadwood City. Word from San Juan Joe. I make you a present of the grub-stake. Lay off that whiskey!"

"Lord! I hate to have you go! Stay till tomorrow and we boys will have some fun tonight. That new cuss knows the same old songs that I do—"

There was an old woman, had three sons—

"Drop it! Listen to me carefully. Sober up. Keep your mouth shut. The man who calls himself 'Easy' isn't as easy as he pretends. I'm positive he's the man I cracked over the head with my gun barrel up on the divide."

CHAPTER VIII

The Trap at Mato Tipi.

Dinsdale was very curious for the latest news from Deadwood City, but Scissors' glibness ahead until they were clear of the town and defeated all attempts at conversation. When the picture-man slackened his pace it was to ask:

"You are still carrying considerable money with you?"

"About thirty-five hundred more than I had when I left Deadwood. Took that money from the fellow with the byzant head. I'm remembering that I owe you a prize for tipping the deck."

"I wasn't thinking of that. I knew you'd treat me all right. Any one could have tipped the deck, but the waken which is better than a common man," gravelly Scissors. "I've learned things from being around gambling places. Only a road agent, or a gambler would bet so much money on one card like that man did."

"I bet like he did," reminded Dinsdale, his eyes glistening.

"You're no road agent," promptly declared Scissors. "You haven't partners up here. You may be a train robber. It's no business of mine if you're one or the other. But that man bet there was a man in Deadwood. A man who ran as fast as he did wouldn't hang around Rapid City, drinking Calvin's whiskey and singing

Breakfast Food
"Matrimonially Speaking"
By Hugh McKay.

My wife makes me take care of her flower beds.

I used to be a man who enjoyed coming home from work every evening and who looked forward to the week end.

These days I put down my pen and pencil at the office at 5 o'clock and then I go home and take up my spade and watering can. What kind of a life is that, I'd like to know?

My wife's one thought these days is whether her roses and peonies and gladioli and carnations are getting plenty of fresh air and moisture.

Every evening when I settle down on the front porch for a quiet smoke she comes running from her flower beds to tell me that her sweet williams look as though they'd drop at any minute and that the hydrangeas are beginning to show signs of being hungry. Or that it's time to put in some new plants, or something annoying like that.

Right now the only flower I have any feeling for at all is the bachelor's button.

Tomorrow: "My husband's friends drop in and spend the evening talking business."

his foolish songs. Not being a gambler, or a miner, he must be an agent, as a matter of fact is his business, he won't knuckle down to losing so much money, nor letting you get away with what was your own. If I was a card man I'd bet he'd be held up (inside the next ten miles).

Dinsdale was frankly concerned, although he tapped his guns and grimly declared:

"Let them come. You just lay low and when they heave in sight leave it to me to receive them."

"My old pal would know better than to make such talk," He'd know the agents would never give you a chance to pull a gun. The man with the sore head will tell his mates—and he has men within call—that I'll be dangerous to give you a show. We're fools to be following this road to be overtaken. Your horse is tired. Mine isn't much good. They've got the best horse in the state. This man is sure they're probably pounding after us taking it easy so's not to overtake us till we're quite a few miles from Rapid City."

Dinsdale glanced over the winding back trail, then pleased his companion by saying:

"I'm not a fool even if I do wear two belt-guns. We'll swing one side if you think best. I have quite a lot of money on me in greenbacks and a decent pot of gold. What's more, San Juan Joe is in a hurry to see me on a business deal. I can run just as smart as you can fight."

"Good! Now you make a medicine talk," cried Scissors; and within the next quarter of a mile they turned down a narrow gorge that ran east.

They followed this for less than two miles and then swung back until they were moving parallel to the stage road and separated from it by a long ridge. Pointing to the ridge Scissors announced:

"From the top of that one can look down on the stage road. If we had time to spare we could get up there and shoot the overhauled man and his friends as they pass."

"We'll make time. I'd like to be sure if that Mr. Easy's game," declared Dinsdale.

Scissors turned in toward the ridge and galloped to a clump of spruce and secured his horse. Dinsdale did likewise. As they neared the crest Scissors directed:

"Take off your hat and play Indian. Just below us the road narrows. Stage drivers call it the 'bottle.' Maybe Scissors' horse had time to catch his friends alone. Maybe they're taking it comfortable and planning to jump us after we've camped. We'll see."

They cautiously lifted their heads and pulled aside the grass. They watched for a minute and then beheld some objects rapidly advancing along the middle distance. They were horsemen and riding furiously. Dinsdale counted six. From their elevated position it was impossible to distinguish one from another except the man who rode next to the leader. He wore something he called his head.

"My debt to you increases, Scissors," muttered Dinsdale. "The second man was Easy, and he's after my money. The way they're traveling shows they're keen to have it over with as soon as possible."

"I'm not a fool," Scissors' eyes were wakened. My pictures are wakened. But the picture I see inside my head are taken waken—now, mysterious and wonderful. I dream of hawks, which is very lucky," proudly retorted Scissors. "Now we must get back to the horses and ride fast. For there's another horse ahead and it's possible Scissors' horse began to suspect we're off the road and ride toward the gorge to head us off. I shall feel better when we're beyond it."

The gorge was reached and passed with no signs of the hard-riding horsemen. Scissors' simple face was very grave and he was studying the surroundings sharply.

"You seem to know lots about Indians," complimented Dinsdale, now throwing off his own abstraction.

"My mind is half red," murmured Scissors.

"Do you see anything to put you on edge?"

ASKS COURT TO ADVISE VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

Defense Attacks State's Evidence and Seeks Dismissal of Case Against Men Accused of Embezzlement.

Motion to strike from the record all of the testimony adduced by the state and for a directed verdict of not guilty in the case of K. S. Peters, former manager, and Frank G. Lechleiter, former secretary of the Mutual Building and Loan association charged with embezzlement of $18,442 of its funds, were presented by Homer C. Mills of defense counsel, when state's attorneys rested their case Monday afternoon at the close of the eighth day of the trial in district court here. Judge W. A. Babcock presiding, heard attorneys' argument on the motions and reserved his decision until tomorrow.

Motion to strike testimony was urged on ground of its alleged variance from the charge contained in the information that a definite and specific sum of money had been received by the defendants in a lump sum, whereas, according to defense counsel, "the testimony shows that the state's series of amounts aggregating $50,183.10, and that the balance alleged to be due these defendants over the earnings credited on the books makes up the amount set up in the information."

Seeks Contract Omissions.
In support of the motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty, defense counsel argued that receipt by the defendants of any amount, from the association's funds within the limits of their earnings under contract provisions constituted no crime for the reason that the contract, both written and oral, contained no provision as to "who should pay the defendants, when or how much they should be paid or whether they were entitled to any advance payments."

In argument on the motions Frank L. Stephan for state's counsel, declared that it would have been impossible for the state to have set forth any particular transaction as a basis for the embezzlement charge, and that the alleged crime consisted in abstraction of various amounts at various times from the association's funds. Statement made by Mr. Lechleiter for the association in reports to the state commissioner of finance that payment of commissions to stockholders out of the earnings of the association was allowed by Peters and Lechleiter under their contract with the association, the state contended, was proof of acceptance of the contract provisions by the defendants and served to prevent their calling the contract in question in this action.

Charges False Report Made.
Evidence that false reports had been made by Mr. Lechleiter for the association to the state commissioner of finance was introduced by the state Monday by means of testimony of H. C. Edmunds, accountant employed by the Edwin A. Wilson company, which was retained by the association's directors to audit the association's books after their discovery of the alleged shortage. The testimony was to the effect that these reports, except that one made in June, 1923, showed that the balance alleged to have been owed by Peters and Lechleiter to the association had been carried as stock loans or real estate loans. O. J. Johnson, president, and James S. Hall, secretary of the association, were called again to the witness stand by the state to testify in this regard. The state rested its case at about 4 o'clock. Argument on motions offered by defense counsel occupied more than an hour's time.

In support of motion for instructed verdict defense counsel recited the following reasons:

1. That the evidence affirmatively discloses the defendants were placed in charge of this business under a specific contract to promote and conduct the business for a period of ten years; as a part of the contract they were to receive certain compensation without any agreement as to when it should be paid, without any agreement as to drawing money on the contract in advance and without any agreement as to who should pay them; and that the testimony shows, by each of the directors that the purpose of committing them to pay themselves, as well as the other bills of the company, was known to each director, authorized by them, and that they never at any time did allow, authorize or direct the payment of any sum due the defendants under the contract in question.

2. As to the defendant K. S. Peters, there is no testimony in the record to show that he was in fact, overdrawn at the time this information was filed or at the time he was discharged from the company, or had any knowledge of such an overdraft, or that he had any knowledge of the books or records of the company or participated in making any entries in reports in the books of the company or reports to the directors.

3. That the evidence discloses affirmatively that, under the terms and conditions of the contract, it is im-

Mysterious Honking of Horn Is Foe to Neighborhood Sleep

Three Families at Least on Seventh Avenue East Disturbed by Strange Occurrence

The story of an auto horn attached to a car in a Seventh avenue east garage and which honked away merrily all night at half-hour intervals is being told with glee by one of the principals in the case. At least three families lost the best part of a night's sleep Saturday night and the amount of mystery in the case has not been solved yet.

The family of Dr. R. A. Butcliffe were the first victims. When the first blast awoke the doctor from a sound sleep he is said to have bounded blithely out of bed, grabbed a gun and made for his garage. The horn stopped before he got there, and the doctor went back to bed. Scarcely had slumber overtaken him when the silence of the night was again shattered, and again Dr. Butcliffe awoke. This time it didn't stop and by following the trail he finally arrived at the garage where he found the car. He discovered the horn, or thought he did, and again sought his downy couch—and a little later the horn roared forth with renewed energy and again the weary doctor dragged himself forth.

About this time R. L. Spafford, another neighbor, got up to get away from the honking. He found the music in the intervals of brief snatches of sleep and consoling himself with the reflection that whoever it was that wanted to get somebody up for a fishing trip would soon succeed. By this time day was beginning to dawn and the honking had stopped. The telephone bell rang and Spafford went to the instrument. Dr. Butcliffe had waked Shenberger with the request that he muzzie the horn on his car in the interests of peace and harmony in the neighborhood, only to be told that the horn had been moved to the garage. Shenberger's garage, but Spafford, the two men having exchanged car housing facilities while the Shenberger car was being painted in the Spafford garage.

Mr. Shenberger wanted help. He expressed a natural reluctance at being compelled to find a friend's auto reliable, but he wanted the noise stopped, no matter what the cost and in politics but firm language he laid the matter before the car's owner. Mr. Spafford, having "lost" interest in further sleep, was glad to place himself at the disposal of the doctor and within a few minutes the frazzled horn was squelched for good and all.

But there are three men who have learned much about auto horns. None of the three will argue for a minute that a horn on an auto is not a good thing, but the same taken there isn't one of them whose temperature didn't go up at least half a degree all day Sunday whenever the honk of a Claxon smote the atmosphere in his neighborhood.

No explanation is given as to the extraordinary actions of the horn in question. All three who were the first but the why and the wherefore are offered by none of them.

possible to determine the exact amount due and owing from the corporation to these defendants, or the exact amount due and owing from these defendants to the corporation, or either of them, without taking into consideration an accounting between the parties, the value of the contract in the future, the loss of the amount due at the present time, and that all of these matters are for determination in a civil litigation.

4. That the testimony shows the property to have been taken openly and avowedly under an honest claim of title, and that such taking and claim were well known to the directors; that there is no evidence to show any criminal intent in this case at the time or times at which the money or checks were taken, but, on the contrary, the evidence affirmatively establishes that no such intent existed; that the evidence does not disclose the taking of any specific amount at any definite time or times or in a particular manner.

5. That the testimony discloses that the relation of debtor and creditor existed between the defendants and the company, and that the question as to a balance, if any, was a disputed question of fact.

Boyd pleaded guilty on arraignment in probate court and is held under bond to answer to the charge in district court.

VARIED PROGRAM HOLDS INTEREST OF COMMISSION

City Executives Talk of Cost of Keeping Up Ditch, Removal of Garbage and Oil Firms' Application; Bills Allowed.

Cost of maintenance of the cross-city irrigation ditch proposed alterations to the driveway of the Continental Oil company's service station on Main avenue east near the Kimberly road and the removal of garbage were among the principal questions discussed by the city commission at the regular weekly meeting Monday evening.

Action was not taken on the proposal of a previous meeting for the development of a system whereby the municipal meat and dairy inspection department could be made self-sustaining. City Clerk J. L. Moo reported that, in conference with Dr. W. C. McPherson, meat and dairy inspector, a tentative schedule of inspection fees had been discussed.

Commissioner S. S. All raised the question as to cost of maintaining the irrigation ditch crossing the city and serving land both inside and outside the city limits. The cost is now being met by funds from the waterworks department, according to City Clerk J. L. Moo. The commission decided to give the matter further consideration.

Request Not Granted.

Formal application was filed by the Continental Oil company for permission to build a driveway with exit and entrance on Main avenue east at its service station at the east end of the avenue. The application was denied. Commissioner J. S. Keel's motion to grant the permit failing for lack of a second. This application for the permit was filed by Attorney J. W. Porter and representatives of the company also appeared before the commission which gave the matter considerable thought before putting it to a vote.

Discussion of the matter led to the employment in removal of the city's garbage, occupied the greater part of the session last evening. In expressing his views on the subject Mayor Shad L. Hodgins opposed the adoption of the contract plan and expressed a preference for allowing the residents to attend to the matter individually. Commissioner Keel argued in favor of the contract system, with the successful bidder for the work being placed under a bond to insure proper efficiency.

Offer Estimates.

A communication was received from the designers of the filtration plant now used by the city offering to furnish estimates on any needed improvement to the plant. The city clerk was instructed to reply to the effect that a check in the canal at the plant is the only improvement in which the commissioners are interested at present.

Bills against the present fiscal year's appropriations were allowed as follows: General fund, $125.17; waterworks fund, $732.27; and sprinkling fund, $134.85, and $1003 against the 1923 sprinkling fund.

The commission postponed action on the application of Pedro Rosas and N. G. Cruz to operate pool tables.
