HARDING PLAN BASIS OF NEW COURT SCHEME

Senator Pepper Would Modify Proposal for Adherence to High Tribunal; Committee Expected to Take Action.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—A composite plan for adherence to the permanent court of international justice with reservations was laid before the senate today in a resolution drafted by Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, after two days of consultation with his colleagues in the foreign relations committee.

It was referred at once to the committee which is to continue in session tomorrow, probably with the Pepper proposal under discussion. It provides for modification of the proposal transmitted to the senate by President Harding in February, 1923, so as to transfer the election of judges from the council and assembly of the league of nations to similar bodies appointed by signatories to the court statute, and proposes also the summoning of a third Hague conference to clarify and codify international law.

At its meeting today the senate committee continued its general discussion of "underlying principles" without special reference to any of the formal plans before it. Those participating reported a strengthened conviction that the views of the various groups within the committee could be reconciled to permit the reporting of a compromise and suggestions of the form this might take coincided closely with the language of the Pepper proposal. The same subject was sought also in a resolution introduced during the day by Senator King, democrat, Utah, who proposed adherence to the Harding plan with definite amendments to protect the United States in the election of judges voting representation and the rendition of advisory opinions.

Senator Pepper said he was acting for himself alone, although he believed the proposal submitted today did, in fact, meet every phase of opinion in the committee.

MASONS ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL CONVOCATION

BOISE, Idaho, May 22 (AP)—Harry B. Wolfe, pastor of the First Baptist church, high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Idaho, presiding today at the closing session of the sixteenth annual convocation this afternoon in Masonic temple. Approximately 75 per cent of the 140 delegates who attended the convocation are prepared to remain over for the opening of the 21st annual convocation of the grand commandery of Knights Templar which will hold its meeting here by a parade at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning.

Fortieth was chosen as the city for the next annual gathering of the royal arch masons.

MELLON SCORES TAX REDUCTION BILL AS "UNFORTUNATE" MOVE

Administration Forces Clash on Revenue Measure; Coolidge Position Not Known; Many Believe He Will Sign It.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Administration forces clashed directly today on the pending tax reduction bill with President Coolidge's attitude still undetermined.

Secretary Mellon, high treasury official, said, considered the bill a "most unfortunate piece of legislation."

The treasury secretary conferred again with President Coolidge, who has strongly favored throughout the tax reduction plan proposed by the secretary.

At the same time, republican leaders in congress as well as spokesmen of almost every faction there, voiced increased enthusiasm for the measure as it was whipped into final shape and the conference report prepared for final approval. A majority expressed the hope and belief that President Coolidge would sign the bill in its present form.

Secretary Mellon, it is understood dislikes particularly the so-called "limited publicity" provision of the bill. These require that the name, address and amount of tax paid by all federal taxpayers be made public and that the hearings before the proposed board of tax appeals be open to the public. Another more serious complaint, although the treasury department is known to have several, is that the bill has carried reductions too far and deficit would result.

Volcano Eruptions Accompany Quakes; Three Explosions

Disturbances Again Recorded at Kiluea Crater; Rocks Thrown High in Air.

HILO, T. H., May 22 (AP)—Three explosions occurred today at the Kiluea volcano, which has been unusually active since early in the month. The latest one came at 2 o'clock this afternoon and lasted ten minutes. At that time an extremely heavy boulder was hurled about 1000 feet in the air to a distance of 600 feet. During this eruption the thunder and lightning was much more pronounced than heretofore.

There was one heavy and one small explosion at the crater early in the day, both following sharp earthquakes. In the heaviest one dust and rocks were thrown high into the air. Thunder and lightning accompanied the disturbances.

JURY PONDERES MUTUAL CASE

Verdict Not Reported Late Thursday Night as to Guilt or Innocence of Defendants.

Deliberations on the part of the jury continuing from 6 o'clock Thursday evening when it received the case had failed late Thursday night to bring an agreement as to the guilt or innocence of K. S. Peters, former manager, and Frank G. Leichter, former secretary of the Mutual Building and Loan association, on trial in district court here since Monday last week on charge of embezzlement of $18,442 of the association's funds.

Attorneys' presentation of the case in argument before the jury occupied practically the entire day. Homer C. Mills, attorney for Leichter, speaking for a little more than two hours, and Roy L. Black, former Idaho attorney general, and attorney for Peters, speaking a little less than two hours, while Frank L. Stephan, who invited the argument for the state, and Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor, who made the closing argument for the state, each confined his remarks to one hour's time.

Defense counsel argued that financial operations of the association under the administration of Peters and Leichter, involving the alleged overdraft in the account of Peters and Leichter, were regular and carried out with the cognizance and consent of the board of directors with the purpose of building up the association, and that dispute existed as to the balance as between the association and the defendants.

State's attorneys referred to testimony of directors and to written statement made by Leichter with evidence of the alleged overdraft in refutation of defense contention that the directors approved these operations. This statement was to the effect that Leichter had over drawn $14,000 and Peters $5000. These alleged overdrafts, state's attorneys argued, had been concealed in the association's books where they were listed as stock loans. Claim for credit to offset alleged overdrafts was not made by Peters and Leichter until some time after directors charged them with the alleged shortages.

NEW PROPOSALS OFFERED BY TETON COAL COMPANY

BOISE, Idaho, May 22 (AP)—Rejecting all proposals under which the Oregon Short Line railroad company agreed to repair the tracks and furnish transportation for the mines of the Teton Coal company, H. F. Nunnally and his colleagues, now in possession of the mines, today submitted to the public utilities commission a counter proposition, which, if the railroad company accepts, will permit coal to be moved from the mines.

Under the counter proposal submitted today the coal company agreed to furnish annually for five years, 20,000 tons of coal for shipment, unless prevented by fire, flood, war, riots, strikes, earthquakes, earthquakes, acts of God, unavoidable accidents and also including the failure, if any, of the railroad company to supply cars as requested.

MEXICAN BANDITS ACTIVE

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, May 22 (AP)—Mexican officials here tonight recounted unverified reports to the effect that 50 Chinese had been slain in clashes with bandits, declared in advance to be menacing ranch owners south of the international boundary. Minor attacks occurred in the vicinity of Nogales, according to officials, but they placed no credence in the report received at police headquarters that there had been bloodshed.

BOY HELD FOR RANSOM SLAIN BY KIDNAPERS

Finding of Body of Wealthy Chicago Man's Son Starts Great Man Hunt; Captors Murder When Plans Miscarry

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP)—Kidnaped and held for a $10,000 ransom and murdered when the kidnapers believed their plans were about to miscarry, the nude body of Robert Franks, 14-year-old son of Jacob Franks, millionaire Chicago manufacturer, was found in a swamp on the south side today with the head crushed and the body stripped of all means of identification.

At the time the body was found the parents, unaware of the fate of their son, were awaiting a visit from the kidnapers in order to turn over the money to them, having followed the instructions of the abductors to the letter, even refraining from notifying the police.

5000 Officers on Case.

Tonight one of the greatest man-hunts in Chicago's history was under way with more than 5000 police and detectives scouring the city in the search for the slayers. Despite the slim clue, it was reported that arrests were imminent.

A certain cunning was shown by the slayers, for after divesting the body of clothing they adjusted a pair of spectacles which were found in place when the body was discovered. This fact disarmed any suspicion of the Franks family that the body of the youth found crumpled into a culvert in a swamp was that of their son until hours after the body had been recovered when an uncle of the youth went to a morgue and made the identification. The father, still waiting for the abductors, refused to believe the slain boy was his own son until he had made a personal identification.

Young Franks was last seen alive yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when he left several companions after umpiring a ball game at the Harvard school, a private institution, in an exclusive south side residential district, where he was a pupil. He told companions that he was going home and that this is the last time he was seen alive by those who knew him.

Wilbur Estimates U. S. Navy Second to Great Britain's

Secretary Files Lengthy Report in Answer to Briton's Request for Statement.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Supporting the contention that the American navy, while stronger than Japan's, is not on a par with Great Britain's, Secretary Wilbur in a lengthy report transmitted today to the house naval committee, declared the comparative fighting strength of the three navies appeared to be five-four-three.

The report was in response to a resolution by Representative Britton, Illinois, ranking republican on the committee, which asked whether the 5-4-3 ratio fixed by the Washington arms conference was being maintained as far as the United States is concerned, and for detailed information regarding the strength of the American navy.

CONFIRM FOUR TO LOAN BOARD

Harding Appointees for Federal Plagues Are Approved by Senate Action.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The senate in executive session tonight confirmed the nominations of L. J. Pettijohn of Kansas, Elmer S. Lander of Ohio, M. L. Corey of Nebraska, and R. E. Jones of Pennsylvania to be members of the federal farm loan board.

President Harding a year ago gave the four recess appointments and upon convening of congress last December President Coolidge sent their names to the senate.

The selections were opposed by some farm organizations and the fight against them was led by Senator Howland, republican, Nebraska, who after the senate banking committee had reported them favorably, brought his fight to the floor.

During two days the Nebraska senator waged his battle on the floor, criticizing the board and its methods, his statements being answered by both republican and democratic members of the committee. Late today the senate went into executive session on the question and after a session of two and one-half hours confirmed the nominations. The vote was not announced.

HOUSE AGAIN DEBATES McNARY-HAUGEN BILL; VOTE MAY BE DELAYED

Party Lines Disregarded as Measure is Alternately Endorsed and Assailed; Opponents Indicate Flood of Amendments Will Be Proposed, Calling for Material Changes.

LIQUOR TREATY GOES IN EFFECT

President's Act Puts Rum Pact With England in Force; Effective for One Year Terms.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—A formal proclamation putting into effect the new liquor treaty with Great Britain was issued today by President Coolidge after exchange of ratifications with Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Howard representing their respective governments. The proclamation is in the form of a public announcement of the treaty which it sets out in full.

By the terms of the treaty it will remain in force one year from this date and if no notice is served during that year of a desire to modify the pact it will continue in force for another year and so on automatically year by year until either side desires to modify it.

The primary purpose of the treaty is to curb illicit liquor traffic along the American coast and at the same time to remove the annoyance to British vessels due to the application of American prohibition enforcement statutes to sealed stores of liquors aboard those vessels while in American waters.

To accomplish its purpose the treaty provides that ships under the British flag suspected of liquor smuggling may be searched and seized up to the distance from the American coast that "can be traversed in one hour," by the suspected vessel.

WOULD CANCEL SURCHARGE.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The Pullman surcharge authorized by the interstate commerce commission in 1920 would be abolished under an amendment to the act which the senate approved tonight by the senate. It now goes to the house.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Party lines were disregarded in the house today when debate was resumed on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, the measure being alternately endorsed and assailed for eight hours.

With time for general debate still remaining, reading of the bill, with amendments in order, probably will not be taken up before next Saturday and a vote, leaders said, appeared unlikely before next Tuesday. Opponents have indicated that a flood of amendments will be proposed, some designed to alter the bill materially, and several members have announced a purpose to offer substitutes.

Debate today covered nearly every provision of the bill. Its supporters and opponents about equally divided their numbers. Leading off, Representative Hubey, democrat, Missouri, a member of the agriculture committee which reported the measure, warmly endorsed the bill, and urged members not to make up their minds on the proposal until its merits had been considered from every angle.

Representative Sumners, republican, Washington, and Representative Sinclair, republican, North Dakota, supported the bill, saying that the measure was the best that could be enacted at the present time.

Representative Hill, democrat, Washington, took exception to the tariff provisions in the bill, saying it would be unfair and unconstitutional to establish tariffs to the profit of some sections of the country and to the discriminatory disadvantages of others.

Senators Fail to Vote on Adoption of Wheeler Report

Debate Continues for Three Hours Without Decision; Borah Will Urge Action.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—For three hours more today the senate debated but failed to reach a vote upon the motion to adopt the majority reports of its investigating committee exonerating Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, of the charge of accepting a fee after his election to the senate to prosecute oil land matters before the interior department.

With only one or two more addresses in prospect, Chairman Borah expects to obtain senate action before adjournment tomorrow. Thus far in the discussion only Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, has argued against senate action in advance of Senator Wheeler's trial in Montana and the signers of the majority report predict its adoption by an overwhelming majority.

OLE HANSON, FORMER MAYOR OF SEATTLE, ACQUITTED OF THEFT

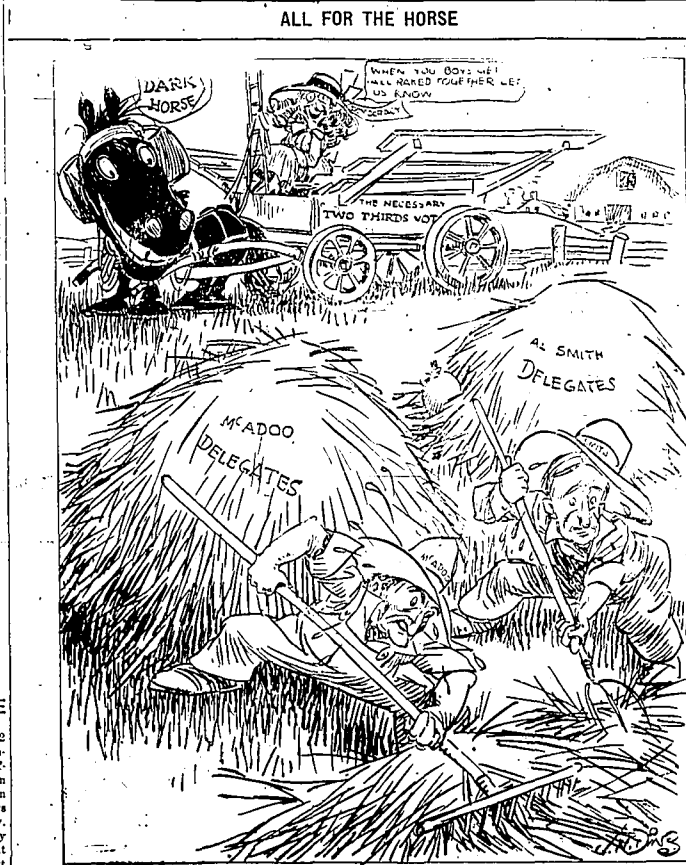

Justice of the Peace Is Convinced Former Coast City Executive Not Guilty of "Stealing Own Property."

PASADENA, Cal., May 22 (AP)—Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, Wash., lecturer and prominent citizen of Los Angeles, was freed of a charge of horse stealing when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Morton here on the complaint of Clarence W. Basten, Sierra Madre. The judge ruled that a man can not steal his own property, after Hanson, to the satisfaction of the court, proved ownership of the horse.

Basten told the court that when he got a warrant for the former mayor's arrest he thought it was a waste to enable him to regain possession of the horse which was stolen from Hanson a year ago and later was purchased by Basten after several changes of ownership. The case was dismissed for lack of evidence on motion of a deputy district attorney. Hanson took possession of the horse when he recognized it as his and was recovering through Sierra Madre last Saturday.

RADLEY ELECTED.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 22 (AP)—The Rev. Brenton T. Radley, executive secretary of the Indian conference movement of California, India, was the fourth of five bishops to be elected by the Methodist general conference this afternoon on the sixth ballot.

WANTS TEETH IN LAW ON RAISING CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Contributions to Party Interests Under Fire in Senate; Lodge Favors Stronger Federal Legislation.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Campaign contributions with particular reference to methods of a "Calvin Coolidge" club in Massachusetts, were subjected to a heated debate in the senate late yesterday with Senator Lodge, republican, Massachusetts, the father of an attack from the democratic side. The discussion was precipitated by a resolution offered by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, asking prompt action by the senate committee on privileges and elections in the direction of legislation which would provide a corrupt practice law applicable to the election of senators. In connection with the resolution he presented correspondence from Mayor Curley of Boston protesting against methods which it was alleged had been taken by a republican "Calvin Coolidge" club in that state to raise campaign funds.

Lodge Replies.
Representing the language used by Mayor Curley, Senator Lodge said the letter "consists chiefly of a violent and personal attack upon the chairman of the national republican committee, Mr. Butler, and on the president of the United States, who are not involved in this movement to raise campaign funds."

Asserting that the election laws of Massachusetts were elaborate and thorough, Senator Lodge stated that he would like to see the laws of the United States bearing on campaign contributions strengthened.

"I think it ought to be done now, while elections are coming on," he said, "and the stronger we can make the laws the better."

There are no corrupt practice laws referring the election of senators although such measures have been pending before the senate privileges and election committee for a long time. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts declared, Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, chairman of the committee, agreed with Senator Walsh that there should be some legislation on the subject speedily enacted.

One on the Pawnbroker
He stood, apparently deep in thought, under the three golden balls which hung above the doorway of the shop.

Presently resolution came to him; he crossed the threshold and inquired of the proprietor: "How much will you give me for this coat?"

"A shilling," retorted the pawnbroker, eyeing the shabby garment with undiluted contempt.

"Oh, make it 2 shillings," exclaimed the seedy one. "Hang it all, this coat's worth 5 bob if it's worth a penny!"

"My friend," said the pawnbroker, "I wouldn't give you 2 shillings for two overcoats like that—no, certainly I couldn't."

"Come, come!" replied the seedy one, persuasively. "Would you take a shilling for it if the coat were yours?"

"Yes, and thank I'd done well!"

"Ah, then, that's right. Here's your bob. I found the coat outside and brought it in to see how much it was really worth."—Toronto Globe.

There Only Six Nights

There being a Shakespearean repertoire company in town, a Liverpool manager told his secretary to book a couple of seats.

"I'll telephone my wife," said the merchant, "and leave a memorandum on my desk as to what she wants to see."

A little later the secretary found the memorandum. It read: "Two tickets for Twelfth Night."

The next morning the secretary reported: "I couldn't get the tickets you specified, sir. The company will only be in town six nights."

LADY MARGARET SACKVILLE.

ACCORDING TO TEASDUP GOSSIP in London, Lady Margaret Sackville, daughter of the late Earl de la Warr, is to become the bride of Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's first Labor premier, who is a widower with two grown daughters. Lady Margaret is the aunt of the present Earl de la Warr.

Blood Stain Lasts Ages.

How long will a blood stain last? A British scientist has discovered the fossil remains of a mammoth buried untold ages ago. The sand under the fossil was stained black and was cemented together with iron, forming a dark patch which did not extend far beyond the limits of the bone. He suggests that life stains were due to iron in blood which oozed out of the meat and bone of the defunct mammoth.

Many Honest Citizens Have Criminal Faces

Have you a criminal face? Of course you haven't, you exclaim indignantly. Yet thousands of absolutely respectable, law-abiding citizens have developed, or are developing criminal faces, remarks London Answers.

How? Because, with defective eyesight, they shirk wearing glasses. Blurred glasses, anyone with impaired vision across his or her eyes up and peers. That's to get a focus; but the effect is to create an appearance of furtiveness, and it depends on the build of a face whether the furtiveness increases to an appearance of craftiness and cunning. Again, there are thousands of quite sweet-tempered folk who look ill-tempered. Vertical lines run up their forehead as the result of "screwing" their eyes. This is a "cross" face made.

He who argued that what a man's face characterizes and not what he seems to be, is what counts. But that applies only to those who know him. When we meet a stranger our first judgment of him, our decision whether we shall like him or not, depends to a very great extent on his facial appearance.

That is not to say that plumpness, or even ugliness, if not of the repellent type, will make us give an adverse verdict, for charm of manner or speech may frequently cancel these things.

But if the stranger looks at us furtively, just because he ought to be wearing glasses and isn't, or because of the same omission, looks ill-tempered, what then? We don't take to him. Our judgment is wrong, of course; but he has asked for it.

The very obvious moral is—if you need glasses, get them and wear them. In these days we cannot afford to handicap ourselves by letting our faces be our misfortune. What we look like does really count.

Denizens of the Deep Have Some Human Ways

Fish stories are important items of human experience, and the teeming life of the sea has ups and downs to match any fortune of the land. Young oysters, we are told, settle down to work after forty-eight hours of making a splash in their world.

Some become pearl manufacturers, and others just hang around the bars—plain old snarks. Starfish sometimes eat oyster communities and work the old shell game. Well, the oysters have made their beds—let them lie in them. And there are the limpets. They prowl around at night, but always in the morning they manage to find their own flats on the old home rock, and so save their faces in the eyes of the community. Ah, those sly, frolicking limpets.

And what armories of teeth—whelks have from 220 to 250 each, winkles 3,500, and the umbrella shell about 750,000 to the set. What a time there must be when the little umbrella shells are teething. Whelks, moan!

Life at the bottom of the sea is a pretty serious business—Nation's Business.

Why the Modern Housewife Starches With Linit

ONCE you try Linit, the remarkable starch discovery, you, like thousands of other modern housewives, will never go back to the old-fashioned method of using ordinary starch.

You will be delighted with the wonderful lustre your curtains and all household fabrics have after being starched with Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Linit penetrates the fabric, prolongs its life, and gives a soft, pliable finish that makes even ordinary cotton goods look and feel like linen.

This remarkable starch is made by an improved process that keeps it fluid after it cools.

Use Linit according to directions and, unlike other starches, you will not find Linit thick or jelly-like. This is one reason why Linit goes much farther than the old-fashioned kinds of starch and is easier to iron with.

LINIT comes too at all Grocers. Get a package and begin the modern way of starching your fabrics. You will never go back to the old-fashioned starching.

Win From Washington Places Them in Tie with Boston for Second Place.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—St. Louis advanced to a tie with Boston for second place by taking the final of the two game series with Washington today, 3 to 1. Wingerd, although unsteady, outpitched Zachary, proving effective in pinches.

The score: R. H. E.
St. Louis..... 3 9 0
Washington..... 1 9 1
Batteries—Wingerd and Severide; Zachary, Zahniser and Ruel.

BALLY BEATS BRAVES

BOSTON, May 22 (AP)—After winning five straight Boston lost to Detroit today. The score was 6 to 5. Detroit made three runs in the ninth on doubles by Haney, Hellmuth and Pratt, with a pass to Cobb and Ezzel's fourth error of the game. None of the visitors' six runs was earned.

The score: R. H. E.
Detroit..... 6 11 2
Boston..... 5 8 5
Batteries—Stoner, Pillette, Holloway and Basler; Fuhr and Pielich.

YANKS & INDIANS 3

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—The New York Yankees and Cleveland resumed their series here today after a three day intermission, the Yankees winning 6 to 3. Meusel's home run in the third with two on base proved the winning hit for New York. Ward hit his third home run in the last three games, while Burns' homer accounted for two of Cleveland's runs on Hoyt. Burns hit safely in his twenty-first consecutive game.

The score: R. H. E.
Cleveland..... 3 8 1
New York..... 6 7 1
Batteries—Edwards, Smith, Shaute and Myatt; Hoyt and Hofmann.

WHITE SOX TAKE FINAL GAME

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP)—Chicago won the final game of the series with Philadelphia today, 3 to 2, giving the White Sox an even break on the two games.

Thurston and Burns staged a thrilling hurling duel for eight innings, the latter giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The score: R. H. E.
Chicago..... 3 8 1
Philadelphia..... 2 6 1
Batteries—Thurston and Schalk; Burns, Gray and Perkins.

One of Quilliver's islands. Lepota was an imaginary serial island, mentioned in Quilliver's Travels. It contained 10,000 acres and was inhabited by a set of dreamy philosophers, who occupied themselves with music and mathematics. Owing to their habitual absent-mindedness, these sages employed attendants, known as "flappers," to rouse them from their reveries by flapping them on the mouth and ears with blown bladders, whenever their attention was to be withdrawn from "high things" and bestowed upon mundane affairs.

UTAH TWIRLER ON HAND; KLEFFNER TO JOIN TEAM

Prospects for the Twin Falls city baseball team are improving steadily. With the arrival of Kellar, the Salt Lake pitcher, on Thursday and the announcement that Oswald, Coggriff's addition from the Seattle club, will arrive today, in addition to the news that Kleffner will join the club the first week in June with Jim Seilley, the outlook is promising to say the least.

A brisk workout was held Thursday evening on the grounds with one of the largest turnouts of the season. A rough infield prevented handling of the ball and made hot grounders peculiarly elusive, but it is hoped that by the last of the month or the first week in June at the latest the entire squad will be working as a well-oiled machine.

To date the three-day series with the Peacocks club for the last of the month are the only games scheduled but more are promised within a short time by Manager Coggriff.

Ingenious Band saw.

There is in use an ingenious sort of band saw for cutting work, such as cutting trees and sawing other wood. The saw, instead of being a continuous ribbonlike blade, is made up of links, like those of the driving chain of a bicycle. On their outer side they have teeth of extremely hard steel. The endless chain is supported on four ball-bearing sprockets, which are mounted in a light metal frame. A horse power benzine motor drives it.

Perfumed Opiate Used by Addicts in London

The narcotic squad of the London police department is reported to be excited over the recent discovery of a perfumed opiate which officials believe is being used by the drug trafficker to lure the unwitting into the drug habit. While investigating conditions in the night clubs—particularly those of a lower category which are associated with the cocaine traffic—the police officers discovered the perfumed opiate. The officials believe the importers of the odorous drug—it is distinctly foreign to England—reserve it especially for the novice in drug using. It is generally known that the first taste of drugs sometimes produces anything but the desired effect, and it is just this effect, one of nausea and vertigo, which the police believe the perfumed alkaloid is intended to offset, remarks the New York Times.

Experiments with the recovered perfumed opiate showed it to be a powerful stimulant to the digestive system. All that is needed is to allow the vapors to float across the nostrils of the intended victim. One of the morbidly curious, who was not a veteran drug addict, explained the procedure of the drug dealer in popularizing his exotic concoction. She said that she had entered a drug rendezvous look on. A woman presently approached her after she had experienced the pleasant odors of the strange essence and remarked about the perfume. The visitor said she liked it, whereupon the woman told her where it could be bought. Thinking she had purchased a rare essence, the visitor lifted the stopper of a vial once, twice and then succumbed to a coma. This ended, but she craved again for the perfume. While analysts were yet to reveal the composition of the alkaloid, its symptoms are very similar to those of heroin. It is described as a rich and languorous transparent doid of heavy but not sticky odor.

How Can the Infant Cry So Loud and Long?

In meditating the other day on one of the most familiar lines of Tennyson, "An infant crying in the night," I decided that insufficient attention had been given to it by physiologists, phonologists, music teachers, elocutionists, singers and public speakers. For these men and women who are fortunate enough to possess a Marlon Crawford's human singer's throat of iron, do not dare to shout and shriek continuously for the space of two hours; whilst the average adult, if he roared for 15 minutes, would probably be hoarse for two days, and might seriously, perhaps permanently, injure his vocal chords.

Yet a tender infant, with a throat as soft as water, can yell all night fortissimo, and not only do himself no injury, but in the morning be fresh as a foxhound, and not only be able, but quite willing, even eager, to continue.

What is the secret of the baby's voice production? It seems to be a matter worth serious investigation. In emission of tone the infant unconsciously has a system that makes the Italian appear crude. If singing masters could discover what it is, and teach it, all present methods of vocal study would be revolutionized.—William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's Magazine.

"Let the Kiddies Kum"

Too Trusting

After affecting an entrance into the bank the burglar found his way to the strong room. When the light from his lantern fell on the door he saw the sign: "Save your dynamite. The safe is not locked. Turn the knob and open." For a moment he hesitated. "Anyhow, there's no harm in trying it. If it really is open," he grasped the knob and turned it.

Instantly the office was flooded with light, an alarm bell rang loudly, an electric shock rendered him helpless, while a panel in the wall opened and out rushed a bulldog which seized him.

An hour later, when the cell door closed on him, he sighed: "I know what's wrong with me. I'm too trusting. I have too much faith in human nature."

The Thinness of Terence

Two Irishmen met after a year's separation and were exchanging gossip.

"And how is Terence O'Toole these days?" asked the first.

"Mike shook his head dolefully.

"Ah, Tim, it's a dyin' man Terence is."

"Dyln'! And phwat makes ye think that, Mike?"

"Why, he's gettin' so thin! Now, you're thin, Tim, and I'm awfully thin, but sure poor Terence is thinner than both of us put together."—Everybody's Magazine.

It Happened in 79

A party of tourists was about to be steered through the ruins of Pompeii. The guide began his lecture by saying:

"Pompeii was destroyed by eruption in 79."

"Oh!" exclaimed the lady from the Middle West. "Just eight years after the Chicago fire!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Call the Police

"John!" screamed Mrs. Peckmoore in the stillness of the night, as somebody stumbled on the stairs. "Is that you?"

"No, dear," called back Mr. Peckmoore, a trifle unsteadily. "I'm a burglar. Call the police."

TOM MIX GIVES HIS FANS STUNT TREAT

"Eyes of the Forest," with Tom Mix, opened at the Orpheum Theatre last night and the intrepid, athletic star gave his fans something to talk about. Tom kept his audience almost breathless in a series of thrilling episodes that were unlike anything else attempted. Riding at a break neck clip, he leaps from Tony to an airplane which swoops down from overhead. Dare-devil fans have gasped more hadders of air-planes before, but Mix leaps into the air, clutching the axle of the landing wheels of the plane, which is traveling, we should judge, eighty miles an hour, and is lifted a thousand feet as if on a trapeze.

The story of "Eyes of the Forest," written by Shannon Fife, is a vivid one, dealing with the forest air rangers of California.

LOYD'S BASHFULNESS

"CAUSE OF RIOTOUS FUN"

The dictionary gives the definition of bashfulness as "shrinking modesty." In the definition, after viewing Harold Lloyd's latest, "Girl Shy," at the Idaho theatre last night, is that bashfulness is decidedly a subject for expansive laughter. When Lloyd is seen as a boy scared to death of the female sex, he makes the part one of riotous mirth.

Lloyd is indeed one comedian whose pictures are under a delight to see, for the reviewer and the audience never know what to expect of him in advance. "Girl Shy" will remain at the Idaho theatre the balance of the week, and it is one of the few pictures that can be recommended heartily to those who like to "shut in" for their entertainment. For it is certainly a gnom-chaser de luxe.

Mrs. J. W. Porter was hostess to the Entre Nous club Thursday afternoon. Bridge was played at two tables and Mrs. W. J. Lloyd was awarded the prize for high score and Mrs. G. B. Halpin low. A delicious two-course luncheon was served at the conclusion of the games. Each guest was presented with yellow roses as favors and a color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the luncheon. The house was beautifully decorated with the flowers of the season. Mesdames L. T. Moore and Albert Putzier were club guests.

The Ninth Avenue club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. D. G. McCullay at her home on Ninth avenue east. Roll call was answered with the usual current events and the program was in charge of Mrs. McCullay. The remainder of the afternoon was spent socially and delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. E. B. Johnson, Mrs. B. A. Heitter and Mrs. Hardin were guests of the club and 12 members were in attendance.

Mrs. William Woldke was hostess to the Highland View club Wednesday afternoon. The usual business session was held with the president, Mrs. Floyd Randy in the chair. Roll call was answered with quotations on various subjects. At the close of a pleasant social afternoon the hostess served dainty refreshments to the two guests Mrs. Dean and Miss Edna Carter, and the 13 club members who were present. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Floyd Randy's on June 4.

The Episcopal met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Robertson Thursday afternoon. There was a short business session after which the time was spent with sewing. Dainty refreshments were served late in the afternoon. The next meeting will be on May 29 at the home of Mrs. S. P. Newman and will be the last meeting until the first Thursday in September.

TOURIST PARK NOTES

The occupants of the tourist park are like any small community, having its social gatherings, its small talk and sometimes a little gossip. There are little flashes of humor, and cases which make one sad. According to statement of one recent guest, he took an active part in all the important battles of the world war. He was in the navy, in the infantry and after the armistice he served in the cavalry in Germany. He was hit by 18 shrapnel balls, gassed, had four automobiles which he was driving for a general blown up, fortunately not hurting the general, but rendering our hero unconscious for several weeks. He was taken out of the hospital to be buried, but he induced the attendants to believe that he was still alive, so they put him back and took his bedfellow instead. When he looked at the dead man he was shocked to find that was his brother that had not seen for a long time.

After the war he was employed as a guard in West Virginia during the coal miners strike. While on duty there a miner shot at him in the dark and cut the strap that held his pistol holster and it fell to the ground. He did not tell us whether he stopped to pick it up, but judging from other things that he said, we are inclined to believe that he did some tall running, that is if he was there at all.

Mrs. Maude Sweet and son Glenn who have been spending some time in southern California and Oregon, are returning to their home in Watertown, South Dakota.

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Achatz and little son, G. M. Metc, and Albert Achatz from Alamosa, Colorado are wandering over the country with no place in view. They say they have no idea where they will go after leaving Boise.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Modern Yeomen will meet Friday at 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows hall. There will be initiation. The men will serve refreshments.

The drama and literature department of the Twentieth Century club will meet at the home of Mrs. S. C. Wyatt, 151

Third avenue north this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

SUPREME COURT MAJORITIES

The annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce demands the proposal to require more than a mere majority of the Supreme Court to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional.

This is a natural position for the chamber to take. Yet it seems doubtful whether it represents a careful and dispassionate view of the situation.

Conservatives and Americans are normally conservatives—do not like to tamper with such a great, vital and highly respected branch of government as the Supreme Court—lest the authority of that body be weakened and the foundations of government shaken. Yet as matters stand, the authority of the Supreme Court has been weakened by the very fact that its numerous decisions by a mere five-to-four vote and its occasional reversals of previous case decisions, have somewhat weakened confidence in it.

A public which is accustomed to regarding the unanimous agreement of twelve men as necessary for a jury verdict naturally comes to have less absolute faith in a judicial decision which four judges out of nine say is bad law. Many perfectly respectable people find nothing really "radical" in suggesting that it would promote public confidence in the court and make our governmental system more stable if a high enough majority were required—such as six or seven judges out of nine—to guard against the insinuations of chance or prejudice which always follow close decisions, especially in constitutional matters involving human rights.

PRIZE ANSWERS

The man who suggested the winning name for the new magazine, "Liberty," won twenty thousand dollars. That fact in itself is intriguing. It isn't every day that a citizen gets twenty thousand dollars for one word. Of interest, too, is the vast amount of competition the winner was up against. There were some one million, three hundred ninety-five thousand suggestions to choose from, and the contestants ran the gamut from the humble person that George Ellwell, well-known commercial artist, to the Queen of Rumania.

The most interesting fact, however, to a commercial generation, is the process by which Mr. Ellwell attained his goal. He simply made a business of it, and systematized that business far beyond the wont of ordinary business men. In this competition he was not content with sifting a few likely-looking offerings, in his own head, and submitting what seemed to be the best of them. He sent in three thousand and seventeen names for the magazine.

The more you ponder that fact, the more the thing will grow in your mind. Three thousand and seventeen suggestions for one prize! What a Herculean labor! What careful elaboration and systematization must have been required to think up so many suggestions and record them accurately without repetition! Yet the reward was big enough to pay for the trouble.

It is plain to see that a new industry is developing in this country. It is the industry of contesting for prizes offered by newspapers, magazines and public and private organizations. Somebody or other is always wanting a name or a slogan or a solution, and prizes rise steadily in value. The Ellwell method is contagious. We shall soon have a lot of professionals making a good living at it.

My husband takes it into his head every so often to lunch through our storeroom.

He suddenly remembers an old book or an old pair of fishing boots, or an old shaving mirror that he was very fond of—and decides that he simply must find it.

The fact that I am quite certain that it has been given or thrown away long ago never deters him in the least. He's always sure that he can put his hands right on it, once he starts looking. And so he goes up to my next storeroom and begins opening boxes and moving trunks around and generally upsetting everything.

After he's put in about a half hour's search the place looks like a rummage sale that accidentally stepped in front of a cyclone.

And then he comes downstairs again, disgusted and complaining because I never keep anything in order so that he can find what he wants when he wants it.

It's the little things like this that take the joy out of housekeeping.

tries to obtain more gold, the problem of the United States is to get rid of its gold. The accumulation of that metal in American banks has become a menace, as leading financiers privately admit without qualification, though they hesitate to make public statements to that effect.

More than half of the world's free gold has flowed here. Federal Reserve vaults have more than twice the gold they need for ample security. Billions of gold are lying idle that ought to be earning interest, if nothing more. Financiers fear to let it into circulation for fear of dangerous inflation. And Europe is starving for it.

Here is the crux of the situation. Gold starvation has driven Europe from the gold basis. Even England is seriously short of gold. The United States is the only important country in the world remaining on a genuine gold basis, with gold, silver and paper exchangeable at par.

The fear in the heart of every intelligent American banker is that if present tendencies continue, with foreign gold draining into this country and none flowing back, Europe eventually, and possibly the rest of the world with it, will be driven to abandon all pretense of a gold basis. And if the rest of the nations stopped using gold for money, either actually or theoretically, where could that leave the United States? Clogged with gold, yet holding an empty money bag. Our gold would become worthless except for commercial purposes. That would mean huge financial disaster.

No wonder, then, that the Federal Advisory Council is urging the Federal Reserve Board to change its policy and make it possible to export gold. The idea is to start with the use of its gold resources to get Germany back on a gold basis, and then, little by little, provide a new gold foundation for the rest of Europe. There will be protests against such a policy—but not from financial experts.

CLOVER

CLOVER—Louis Reinken, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Reinken, is recovering from effects of a broken arm, sustained recently when he fell from the steps at the Reinken home.

The following were Sunday dinner guests at the P. Matthiessen home: Mr. and Mrs. Emil and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ehlers and families of Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. A. Jagers, Mr. and Mrs. A. List and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kaster.

A number of friends enjoyed a party at the R. Jagers home Sunday evening. Most of the farmers are irrigating their ground and preparing it to plant beans. They expect to put them in earlier this year. It is noticeable that the water has been cut down some.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hahn and family returned home last week after an overland trip to various points in Nebraska. They were gone four weeks.

The Clover public school will close Friday and the parochial school the following Wednesday.

Mrs. W. Beckie entertained a number of relatives Wednesday evening, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of her father, Mr. Klunder.

THE STRONG YOUNG MAN

BY DADDY

Daddy Dog finds dark glasses which make a rat look like a panther, a caterpillar like a dragon, a young man like a giant and a lovely girl like a witch.

CHAPTER V.

Toodles in the Flood.

THE lovely young girl walked away with her head up in the air. Hal, the woodpecker, looked after her with worried eyes.

"She is very beautiful and I love her," he murmured. "She calls me a monster and scorns me."

Jack and Janet felt sorry for Hal, the woodpecker.

"She called you a monster because she was looking at you through the dark glasses," said Janet. "They made her see you with eyes of fear. She would not scorn you if she saw you as we do."

Hal cheered up a bit at that. "Do you think so?" said he. "I would give my life to serve her."

Just then there came a loud shriek from the direction where the lovely girl had gone. Mixed with the shriek was the frenzied yelping of a dog.

"Kl-y! Kl-y!"

Hal ran toward the place whence the sounds were coming. At his heels were Jack, Janet and Daddy Dog. They came to the bank of the river. On the bank was the lovely girl wearing her hands and shrieking for help. In the stream, paddling about frantically in a circle and yelping at the top of his voice was Toodles, the little white dog. He was wearing the dark glasses which made him see with eyes of fear.

In the grass sat a green frog, gurgling and gulping, when he heard, "Croak! I scared the dog!" croaked the frog. "I made him jump into the river."

Then Jack and Janet knew what had happened. The little dog wearing the dark glasses, had seen the frog which then looked to him as big as a kangaroo. No wonder Toodles had jumped into the river.

And now the river, seen through the dark glasses, looked to Toodles as big as a flood. He did not dare come to shore for fear of the frog and he did not dare swim out further for the glasses made the flood look terribly broad.

"Kl-y! Kl-y!" he yelped. "Save me! Save me!"

The lovely girl on the bank was yelling the same thing, though she did not say "Kl-y! Kl-y!" She screamed: "Oh-ee! Save my poor little dog!"

When Hal ran up the lovely girl turned to him. "Oh, save my dog. You are big and strong. Jump in and rescue him!"

But Hal did not jump in. He turned to a sapling that grew along the bank and slashed it with his ax.

"Are you an coward?" shrieked the lovely girl. "Why don't you jump into the creek and save my dog?"

Still Hal did not jump into the creek. He sat the sapling down and hacked off the branches. Then he poked the sapling out toward Toodles. It looked very large through the dark glasses and Toodles yelped the louder.

"You are a cruel monster," shrieked the lovely girl to Hal. "Instead of saving my dog you are torturing him. Why don't you jump in after him?"

Hal did not answer. Just then he got the sapling under Toodles, and lifted him up, dangling him toward shore. Toodles struggled so hard he fell off the sapling. But now he was so near shore that Hal reached out and grabbed him by the tail, pulling him to the bank. Toodles yelped as though he were being killed. The dark glasses made him afraid of Hal and afraid of that awful frog. Hal threw Toodles up on the bank, the glasses flew off. Then Toodles saw he was safe and had nothing to fear.

But the eyes of the lovely girl were flashing.

"You are cruel to pull my dog's tail," she cried at Hal. "You are cowardly not to jump in after him."

"Your dog is safe and unharmed," muttered Hal. "I would have been foolish to jump into the river and get myself all wet to save a dog that can swim as well as I can." Hal turned on his heel and strode away.

(In the next chapter Hal shows that he is not a coward, but very brave.)

"I've seen her on the street with Mrs. Colt. She never goes out alone. That makes me remember something else—Kitty the Schenker went to the Colt house. The widow sent her out dying. They say Kitty was mad enough to chew up a harness. I'd forgotten all about that."

"So?" grunted Dinsdale. "How much more have you forgotten?"

"I don't know," was the frank reply. "Probably a lot. Since I became waken I've forgotten lots of foolish stuff."

"Please don't forget we're going back to Deadwood city. When do we strike for the gold?"

"We're wide of the stage road, and better so," readily replied Scissors. "Those men on horseback will string out and trail alone in twos and threes right into the gulch. Some of them will even risk riding into the town. Each one will be watching out for you. If we follow the middle branch of this creek to its head we'll be only a few miles south of Deadwood. There's an old trail that we can take."

"Listen, Scissors, I'm not afraid of those horse thieves trying any game close to Deadwood. Let's take the most direct way to town. I'm keen to get back."

Scissors grinned cunningly. "Strike right out and have you get into a fight?" he said. "You'd say you'd killed a horse thief. How would you prove it? The town would say you're a natural-born gun fighter and always looking for trouble. They'd remember you left a dead man behind when you lit out with Pyrites. It would never do to mark your return with another dead man. Sam June Joe said—just remember it this minute—that you couldn't stand having another killing to your credit till the first one is forgotten. He has lots of influence in town, but he can't see it all up on one man."

"Dinsdale took a few farewell puffs at his pipe and knocked out the heel, and surrendered.

"I'm not looking for trouble. I'm ready for the middle fork of this creek. We'll make town as soon as possible and without making the eagle scream."

"That's my notion," heartily endorsed Scissors. "Turning in? Think I'll sit up a while and think things out. I don't sleep well. Too many dreams. Some are bad. Price a man pays for being waken."

Nor did Dinsdale rest well that night. He dreamed of Lottie Carl being in the power of Kitty the Schenker, Mayor Farum suddenly turning into a savage, of Sam June being killed in a fight. He was up early and wondering what could be the matter with his nerves. He walked some distance from the camp in the hope that exercise would clear away his feeling of depression. He found where some one had dug into the earth, and, being ignorant of geology, was much surprised to discover fish spines and a coiled cephalopod in the broken formation. He carried his discoveries back to display to Scissors. The picture-man was setting out the last of their meat. Finishing his task he explained:

"Elder Indians, while hunting for a new medicine, or the men with the 'seventy-four expedition did it. The expedition quit the hills along about here, for they visited Bear butte. We can visit the butte, too. If you care to, it's only five miles from here and but a short distance beyond the middle fork, where we're bound for. Won't take more than thirty minutes to climb it. From the top we can see all over creation. If Easy and his friends are between us and Deadwood they'll be sure to have a camp and show a smoke."

The central mass of Mato Tipl, rising abruptly from the plains to a height of twelve hundred feet, presented a singular appearance and one that appealed strongly to Dinsdale's love for the unusual. Already it had a distinct personality for him, an atmosphere resting on legends and the beliefs of the red men. On being questioned Scissors said it was difficult to climb unless one followed paths from the northwest or southeast sides.

"Do you want to visit the top?" asked Dinsdale.

"Only for the sake of looking for a hostile smoke. If alone I'd want to go, as it was there, at the top of Mato Tipl, that I gave the Ogala Teton the slip. I went with a band to place small rocks in the trees in memory of the dead. I came down the southeast slope in the dark."

"An hour or two won't make any difference. We'll climb it and have a look around," agreed Dinsdale.

Secretly pleased at this decision Scissors brought up the horses and a short ride brought them to the middle fork of the creek. Splashing through the shallow waters Scissors and the way toward the southeast slope. As they advanced the mystery place became even more interesting. Dinsdale was surprised to discover he was anticipating pleasure from the trip.

They dismounted at a stretch of scrub-spruce at the base of the butte and Dinsdale was astounded at the abrupt change in his companion's deportment. It was as if the influence of Mato Tipl, the Grizzly Bear lodge, had reached down and gripped the picture-man and had stripped him of reason.

From his pocket he produced the string of horsemen, cut out at the fork of the creek, and, singing in the Teton dialect, proceeded to detach the foremost rider and pin the long strip and the single picture around Dinsdale's hat.

"What the devil!" sharply demanded Dinsdale, submitting to the decoration because of his surprise.

"Don't do anything. Don't look. Don't say anything. Don't touch a gun. We've run into a trap," whispered Scissors.

"Indians!" muttered Dinsdale, standing motionless.

"In the scrub just beyond the mouth of the path. They'll riddle us if we try to mount. Do as I do and show no fear when they break cover."

He knelt and began picking up small rocks, searching for those round and unweathered. Dinsdale dropped down beside him and blindly imitated his example. And as he picked up the stones Scissors sang in English the song he had sung in the Teton:

From everywhere they come flying,
From the north the wind is blowing in
Whistling, whistling, they come, they come,
From everywhere they come.

SHOWERS TEND TO CUT QUOTATIONS ON WHEAT

Closing Prices Unsettled: Gossip of possible defeat of McNary-Haugen Bill Draws Attention

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP)—Showers in northwest Kansas tended to ease down the wheat market today after an advance due largely to reports that crop weather was injuring the wheat crop of Kansas and of Texas and Nebraska as well. Wheat closing prices were unsettled at 1-3/4 cent lower to 1-1/4 cent gain, July $1.07 3/8 to 1.07 1/2, and September $1.08 3/8. Corn finished a shade to 7-8 up, oats unchanged to a shade higher, and provisions a shade to 10c off.

Only in the last half of the day that wheat traders gave much attention to indications of rain in the west and southwest. On the contrary the earlier trade appeared to be governed chiefly by reports that the Kansas crop in particular was going backward, that a large amount of Kansas wheat was heading short and that without general rain soon part of the territory affected would make only half a crop. Considerable enlargement of buying together with moderate upturns in price resulted, but profit-taking on the part of holders formed the rule later, especially after word came of sprinkles in Kansas.

Gossip that likelihood of defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill had increased received a good deal of notice among wheat traders during the last half of the day. Such a prospect was generally construed as bearish, but some leaders took a different opposite view, that broader markets and higher prices would result. Meanwhile, export buying at Winnipeg was apparently somewhat less energetic than has recently been the case.

Corn maintained strength despite reports that more corn was to be brought to Chicago from Duluth. Bulling factors were low temperatures and talk of much replanting needed. Oats derived a little firmness from news.

Declines in the hog market made provisions somewhat easier.

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Stock prices displayed moderate strength in today's market in further reflection of favorable developments on pending tax legislation. A wave of selling took place around midday on reports that Secretary Mellon was expected to file a tax bill, as agreed upon by house and senate conferees, but this was overcome and closing prices showed net gains ranging from small fractions to two points.

Unofficial assurance that congress will adjourn on June 7 also was regarded as a bull factor on the theory that it would remove much of the uncertainty that has heretofore hinged around the plans of congress. Trade news, as a rule, was unfavorable, the principal items being a report that steel production was now around 60 per cent capacity, and an increase of 27,500 barrels daily in domestic crude oil output for last week.

Call money ruled at 3 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper markets continued quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchanges opened steady and then turned reactionary on quiet trading. Dollar sterling fell back nearly two cents to 84 3/4 and French francs dropped about 20 points to just below 5 3/8 cents. Brazilian milreis also established a new low record for the year at 10.50 cents.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, May 22 (AP)—The wool market here continued somewhat depressed. A small amount is moving but prices are very irregular. Sales depend much on individual requirements. Buying, however, in territory sections of the west appears to be extending into new territory daily, with 40 to 42 cents about the average range and the tendency seems to be upward.

Inviting Crime

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Juniors," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table.

Mrs. Burton unwrapped it. "Why, George!" she exclaimed. "A dog collar of all things!"

"Yes, and I gave $3.50 for it," Mr. Burton related.

"Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs. Burton.

"Yes, but you don't mind if I don't mind. You'd always said you had no use on earth for Juniors' dog and you wish somebody would steal it!"

"Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on it some one will be sure to steal it now!"

Right, Anyhow

There was worthy public official who had a goodly fund of common sense, but no great amount of book learning. He had never had a chance to acquire the name. Being called upon to address a class gathering, he spoke repeatedly of the university alumnus.

"What does he mean?" whispered one of the audience.

"He means the alumnus."

"Well, he knows they are good metal, anyhow."

His Phantom Fight

"What made you think this gentleman was drunk?" asked the judge.

"Well, yer honor, 'e was 'aving a bit of a fight with his bootlegger."

"But that doesn't prove he was drunk, officer."

"No, but there wasn't any bootlegger there, yer honor."—Everybody's Magazine.

Gland Patient Wins Race

With awe and to their amazement onlookers saw a 73-year-old runner dash across the line winner of a 50-yard running race in the sensational time of 6 seconds, just 4-5 of a second short of the world's record. This almost unbelievable incident occurred at the annual field meet held at one of California's state institutions.

It was another victory for Science proving again that youthful vigor, stamina, ambition and power may be restored by reviving the vital glands of the body, for the winner of the race was a gland patient.

Many leading citizens are now hopelessly looking to a rejuvenation of health and strength through the nourishment of vital glands in accordance with well known scientific principles.

"Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions, if changed by age or disease, by means of extracts obtained from similar organs of healthy young animals."

Science has now prepared such a treatment in convenient, compact tablet form—Glandogen—which combines the healthy glands of young animals with other efficacious ingredients. Hundreds of keen-eyed, vigorous men and women are today taking Glandogen.

OFFERS HINTS FOR CONSERVING WATER SUPPLY

Twin Falls County Agricultural Agent Points Out Necessity for Careful Use of Available Supply and Gives Advice.

Necessity for conservation of every bit of irrigation water available this season is pointed out by R. E. Branson, Twin Falls county agricultural agent, in a statement issued Thursday in which he offers several suggestions for making most advantageous use of water. The statement is as follows:

"The pertinent question in everyone's mind at the present time is: Will we have water to mature all our crops on the tract this year? It is needless to say that we are certainly going to have a short water year, yet just how short it will be nobody seems to know and to predict right now that an such and such a date a certain per cent of water will be necessary would be quite foolish. As much depends on the weather, whether we will receive any rain or not, the condition of the snow in the water sheds, and other factors. At the present time men are making a trip up the river into the mountains to ascertain just the condition of things there and we should have some first hand information by the first of the week.

It is true that the water used on the tract ordinarily comes from the natural flow of water of the river, the storage water only being used at the peak of the season when large heads are necessary to finish irrigating any particular crop. Up to the present time there is no storage water available for the farmers on this tract from the Jackson lake reservoir.

According to reports made by Clinton E. Norquest, meteorologist for the state, all the water sheds are below normal as to the supply of snow and water in the runoff cannot be as great through the season.

For this reason the conservation of every available bit of water is absolutely important. R. L. Spangler, assistant extension agronomist, University of Idaho, has made some timely suggestions along this line, as follows:

Out Off Losses.

A great amount of water is needlessly wasted every season in Idaho. Evaporation is the greatest source of loss. Evaporation losses are greatest within 48 hours after water is applied to the land. Investigations at Gooding and Twin Falls indicate that out of two or three feet each season six to nine inches are lost from surface evaporation. Power irrigation and the application of water in deep furrows help to control evaporation. Keeping an efficient shut much on the surface, however, is most important. Cultivate as soon as possible after irrigating or after a rain.

Transmission losses from seepage sometimes run as high as 20 to 30 per cent. Ten per cent is a fair average. Reduce this waste by removing trash, weeds and any other obstruction that may prevent the maximum flow of the stream. The shortage now confronting us should be an incentive to every farmer to clean the laterals several times during the season.

Surface waste is a big item this year. Flooding of roadsides and filling waste ditches should not be allowed. Cross ditching to catch surface waste and re-use of water should be the rule on every farm. Close supervision of irrigation water is the important thing this year.

Use larger heads with shorter runs, with quick cultivation.

Deep percolation losses are usually very great. The length of the run has much to do with this loss. On many Idaho soils the usual 24-hour run wastes water. We have many soils that are only two to five feet deep. Only a few hours are needed for water to percolate to this depth. If irrigation is kept up after the saturation point is reached water gets away from plants as gravitational water.

Roots do not feed deeply. Most crops are able to take water from the first six feet of soil at the most. Why, then, is it necessary to saturate a soil to greater depth? At the best only a part of such water may later be brought within range of the roots by capillarity, but the loss from runoff exceeds this many times. Why not apply two 12-hour runs at different times rather than one 24-hour run? To reduce percolation losses use larger heads, and cut down the length of the run, both as to distance and time. To control evaporation cultivate quickly and immediately after surface dries.

DENIES ROAD LAW VIOLATION

Lee Hunt of Twin Falls, pleaded not guilty on arraignment Thursday before Judge O. P. Duvall in probate court here, on charge of violating the state road laws preferred by the prosecuting attorney's office at the instance of D. H. Woodman. Preliminary hearing in the case was set for Monday next.

SOUTH LINE BUILDERS ESTABLISH FIRST CAMP

Force of Workmen and 80 Horses Take up Position 10 Miles South of Rogerson.

The first of a series of railroad construction camps to be established at intervals of 10 miles along the route of the Rogerson-Wells line, was established Thursday by a force of workmen with 80 horses at a point 10 miles south of Rogerson, according to announcement made here Thursday by A. Bowman, superintendent for the Utah Construction Company.

Lumber for construction of engineering headquarters at San Jacinto was delivered to the building site Thursday, Mr. Bowman stated.

PREDICTS NEW DEPARTMENT TO HEAD SCHOOLS

Dr. Goshen Stresses Psycho-Analysis in Address at Commencement Exercises; 108 Graduates Get Diplomas.

A new department, that of psycho-analysis, will be placed at the head of the public school system within the next 20 years, to determine what pupils are best fitted for in their life work, Dr. Elmer L. Goshen, minister of the First Congregational church of Salt Lake, declared in a commencement address delivered here Thursday evening before Twin Falls high school's graduating class of 108 members and an audience of relatives and friends of the graduates that filled the Lavering theater to capacity.

Introduced by Superintendent M. C. Mitchell as "one of the most active thinkers and one of the most fearless speakers of the present day," Dr. Goshen, in the course of his address "Success for the Youth of Today," made effective use of constructive criticism in a searching examination of the public school system; commencing with "the cause of the present situation," with universal laws, called for conservation to "the cause of justice and the cause of righteousness that will place the stars of the American flag up and against the stars of the eternal firmament" and urged recognition and repayment by the young men attending the school to parental sacrifice in their behalf.

"No Need to Fail"

"There is no need to fail in the work and program of life today," the speaker declared. "They want to know what they can do and how to do it; they can know it, and they are entitled to it."

"The most costly thing we have today from the standpoint of dollars invested in it is the public school system. The public school system is the most inefficient thing we have in it; and the fault is ours. We pay too little attention to the curriculum, and too little attention to the election of school boards. The schools are rendered inefficient by too many non-essentials. They will become great when everything is taken away from them except the fundamentals, so that their graduates possess an efficient knowledge of the essentials—mathematics, history and the rudiments of science."

Turning to the graduates, Dr. Goshen said: "Believe nothing, accept nothing, become indoctrinated with nothing that does not square absolutely with the universal laws written upon the face of the universe. Persons are not much different by birth nor in brain power. Education implies a leading out and development of powers already within ourselves."

"Trust to the power of your own soul; distrust any man or institution that makes you distrust your own best self—God, the good, the just."

Dr. Goshen referred in introduction remarks to previous visits here and to profound spiritual reaction to natural monuments and phenomena of this region.

Members of the graduating class grouped on the stage were revealed at the opening of the exercises by means of gradually brightening lights following the lifting of the overhead stage lights illuminated numerals "24" in the class colors of red and white, the central figure of the decorative scheme.

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER, actress, announced in Los Angeles, that she is soon to marry a British army officer in China. She declined to give his name, declaring she had "lost a couple that way." Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Canada, is leading the attack on the right of Chicago to take so much water from Lake Michigan for the sanitary district of Chicago, said to be an encroachment on the rights of Canada and the State of New York. It is estimated the diverted water causes a loss of 500,000 electric horsepower. The Duchess of Westminster, wife of England's richest peer, is said to be seeking a divorce in London because her husband refused her permission to use his London palace for a charity ball. Edward Payson Weston, 86-year-old world famous pedestrian, was shot in the leg and seriously beaten by a mob in his lonely home near Kingston, N. Y. Mystery surrounded the attack.

Public schools, briefly referred to objectives of his administration and expressed appreciation of support given him. He referred to the economic policy in pursuance of which he said "headway has been made toward solution of pressing problems," and to the organization of the school system effected three years ago "in line with the latest and best principles of psychology and the highest principles of education." He reiterated and said that it is not abandoned except after careful study of the subject.

McClain Pays Tribute

Tribute to Mr. Mitchell and to Miss Elizabeth M. Shattell, supervisor of grades, and Mrs. Rose Murray North, principal of the junior high school, who also will retire from service in Twin Falls schools, this year, was paid by C. E. McClain, president of the board of education, by whom diplomas were presented to members of the graduating class, each of whom was introduced by Mr. Mitchell as he or she stepped forward to receive the certificate of graduation.

Invocation at the opening of the exercises was offered by the Rev. L. V. Nissen, of Ascension Church, Episcopalian, who also pronounced the benediction at its close.

The high school orchestra, including three members of the graduating class, under direction of J. T. Bainbridge, played selections from Verdi's Rigoletto to an ovation and as a later number of the program, played selection from Verdi's A. H. Trovatore.

Mrs. D. L. Alexander sang a group of songs composed of "The Magnificent Waltz" by Arditti and "The Love with the Delicate Air" by Arne.

Mercury Contracts Its Range for Day

Narrower range of temperature was shown Thursday by records of the government observer's station here, high mark for the day being recorded at 80 above, a decline of four degrees under the maximum of the preceding day, and low at 53, and advance of nine degrees. Indications of rain Wednesday night remained unfulfilled beyond a sprinkle that merely freshened sidewalks.

WIN TYPEWRITERS BY SPEED AND ACCURACY

Paul Rowan and Miss Aluta Larson of Twin Falls High School, Capture Remington Awards.

Paul Rowan, member of the Twin Falls high school graduating class, and Miss Aluta Larson, student instructor, won Remington portable typewriter in a contest held Thursday afternoon in the high school commercial department. Each of the successful contestants wrote 60 words per minute without error for 10 minutes period, making a total of 600 words without an error in the 10 minutes' period. Both had qualified for participation in the contest by winning gold medals in a contest on a 35-word basis held last February. Similar contest have been held in five Idaho high schools, and this is the first reported winning of typewriters.
