CITY EXTENDS WELCOME TO VISITING ELKS

Success Marks Opening Day of State Convention; Business Matters to be Acted Upon at Meeting Today.

ON PROGRAM FOR DAY AT ELKS' CONVENTION

- 10 a. m.—Convening of convention; report of committees; business session.
- 1:30 p. m.—Receiving of convention; election of officers; designating convention city.
- 3 p. m.—Adjournment.
- 5 p. m.—Bassett, Pocatello Bears vs. Twin Falls Blues.
- 9 p. m.—Dance.

Members of Elks' lodges throughout Idaho, including more than 300 delegates and convener visitors to whom Twin Falls as a whole extends cordial welcome, closed Wednesday evening with dancing at the Elks' club and at the Elks' hall, the first day of what is declared in all respects one of the most thoroughly successful annual meetings in the history of the Idaho Elks' association since its formation three years ago.

They will enter today upon transaction of the business of the convention, including receipt of committee reports, election of officers and designation of the next annual meeting place, all of which is to be finished for adjournment at 3 o'clock this afternoon to the Elks' hall, the principal feature of the day's entertainment program.

Good Fellowship Prevails.

Good fellowship is manifestly the predominant feature of the Elks' convocation and political considerations, usually associated with similar occasions, apparently cut small figure in the annual assemblage of Idaho's antlered herds. The name of only one candidate for the office of president of the association was mentioned informally up to Wednesday evening, and it was apparent that Clinton Hartson, past exalted ruler of the Boise lodge, would elect today without opposition, the fourth president of the state association.

Want 1925 Meet.

It was indicated that invitations would be extended by Caldwell and Burley to the association in selection of its next annual meeting place. Opening session of the convention on Wednesday was limited to the addresses of welcome delivered by James S. Keel, president of Twin Falls municipal commission, and Attorney W. Orr Chapman, in the absence of Mayor Shad L. Hodgins, who was unable to be present because of necessity for his attendance.

Scene at Cleveland Convention Rivals 1896 Demonstration

Boaring Multitude Surges About Municipal Hall; Sing Star Spangled Banner to Get Radicals to Rise.

CONVENTION HALL, Cleveland, June 11 (AP)—The cheering, shouting multitude that pranced and surged about convention hall tonight shouting for Coolidge, staged a scene the like of which has not been seen in a republican convention since 1896.

The LaFollette delegates from Wisconsin, refusing to join in the demonstration, remained silent while the howling throng roared and surged about them, calling upon them to join. Finally surrounded by groups of delegates singing the national anthem, The Star Spangled Banner, the LaFollette delegates were forced to the floor but only stood silently at attention and then sat down again.

Old timers, veterans of many a fight and demonstration in the heat and furor of a convention fight, compared the scene to that in the convention of 1896 when Senator Teller and his fellows of the Colorado delegation sat silently under the leer and abuse of delegates who urged the venerable senator to join in the majority in upholding the gold standard.

On that memorable occasion, which went down as one of the most famous of republican party history, Teller, broken-hearted and weeping, led his delegation from the hall, saying through his sobs:

"I part with you on a matter of principle.

Tonight's business was the reading and discussion of the platform. Charles E. Warren, chairman of the platform committee, ambassador to Mexico, former ambassador to Japan and general go-getter of the republican administration, presented the report of the resolutions committee, and with the effort on his part, started a boom for the vice presidential nomination. His friends in the convention said they expected him to show considerable strength among the paid delegates who did not know which way to turn.

BORAH SAYS HE WILL NOT ACCEPT THE NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—"I am not going to accept the nomination for vice president," Senator Borah declared here early today after being informed that republican leaders at Cleveland had agreed to him for the nomination.

The Idaho senator had nothing to add to this brief statement when awakened at his residence, and informed of the trend of events at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 12 (AP)—Declaration of Senator Borah of Idaho in Washington early today that he would not accept the republican vice presidential nomination, was met with this statement from Secretary Weeks:

"We have been assured directly by Senator Borah that he will accept the nomination."

HOOVER BOOM CALLED OFF

CLEVELAND, June 12 (AP)—The California delegation tonight decided to abide by the wishes of Secretary Hoover not to present his name to the convention for the vice presidential nomination.

VERDICT GIVES BOWMAN $26,004

Jury Assesses Damages Against Financial Backers of Livestock Feeders.

Verdict awarded $26,004 to R. A. Bowman by L. R. Adams and Tom Boech of Rupert and the Western Bond and Mortgage company of Portland, with the provision that judgment in this amount should be assessed against the bond and mortgage company, was returned last Wednesday afternoon by a jury in district court here at the close of a trial that was begun last Monday.

The verdict was returned by the jury after about five hours' deliberation. The verdict was signed by 10 out of 12 jurors.

The jury was discharged by Judge W. A. Babcock with the statement that this was the last case to be tried before a jury at the present term of court.

Jury Reduces Claims.

The verdict awarded to Bowman, plaintiff in this action, the exact amount of his claim for $2 a head for 13,002 sheep delivered by him in the fall of 1922 to Adams and Boech at Twin Falls under a feeder's contract, which amount, Bowman claimed, had been held back by Adams and Boech when they made payment on the basis of 5 cents a pound for the animals with the understanding that they should receive from Bowman 7 cents a pound for the animals when they should have been brought to the end of the feeding period. The verdict disregarded other items in Bowman's claim for damages amounting to approximately $50,000 and also denied the defendants' counterclaim for approximately $3000 representing profits which defendants claimed they would have made if Bowman had accepted the sheep when they were ready to deliver the animals.

The bond and mortgage company was involved as the financial backer of the defendant feeders in this deal.

Weights Dispute Causes Suit.

Evidence during the trial showed that the suit grew out of a dispute between Bowman and the feeders as to the manner of weighing the sheep when the feeders undertook to deliver them to him, and that the sheep eventually were sold by the feeders to other buyers on the market, the bond and mortgage company pending bond in court to permit of such sale.

Plaintiff Bowman was represented in this case by Attorneys H. C. Hazel and S. L. Hodgins of Twin Falls, and W. E. Cameron and Paris Martin of Boise. Mr. Martin opened and Mr. Hodgins closed the argument for the plaintiff just before the case was submitted to the jury Wednesday. Homer C. Mills of Twin Falls opened, and John F. Reilly of Portland, closed the argument for the defendants.

ARRAIGNMENT OF YOUTHS DRAWS EXCITED CROWDS

Impetuous Throng Breaks Door of Courtroom to Get Glimpse of Two Held for Murder of Franks Lad.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Before an impetuous crowd that broke a courtroom door from its hinges in an effort to see the confessed kidnappers and slayers of 13-year-old Robert Franks, Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, millionaire's sons, today pleaded not guilty to charges of kidnapping for ransom, and murder and heard August 4 fixed as the date of their trial.

The youths were unabashed by the curious crowds mostly women, who pushed and scrambled to catch a glimpse of them.

Chief Justice John R. Caverly of the criminal court, who will preside at the trial, set July 21 as the time for arguing preliminary motions. Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney had asked that the date of trial be set for July 15, the earliest possible date under the law.

The defense attorneys, headed by Clarence Darrow, accepted the trial date without objection except to stipulate that they will ask for a continuance if unable to prepare for trial by that time.

Young Loeb, made his appearance in court to answer the two crimes, each punishable by death, on his nineteenth birthday. He had planned to sail for Europe today with Leopold. Standing near the boys when they faced the court was a brown-haired girl who smiled at them repeatedly. They did not glance at her. She is the girl who went to the state's attorney's office yesterday and asked to see the boys but left when asked her name.

She told an assistant state's attorney today that she is one of the girls with whom the youths said at first that they went auto riding the night of the slaying. The boys' alibi was broken down by their confessions, however, and the state attached little importance to the girl's statement. Jacob Frank, father of the slain boy, was also a spectator in the court. The grand jury which may still return a true bill against the youths, charging conspiracy to kidnap and murder, resumed its investigation shortly after the boys had been arraigned.

Warden Wesley Westbrook of the Cook county jail said that the two boys continue to receive scores of packages and letters through the mail daily practically none of which reaches them. The mail, he said, ranges from black and white pictures of girls and love letters.

BORAH AGREED UPON AS MAN FOR SECOND PLACE

FLIERS MAKE GOOD TIME

HONG KONG, June 11 (AP)—The American army around-the-world fliers who left here at 10:17 Tuesday morning arrived at Hualphong, French Indo-China at 4:43 this afternoon. They covered the 500 miles in six hours twenty eight minutes. They encountered strong southwesterly winds.

PARTY PLANKS ARE OPPOSED

Sharp Debate Centers on Several Points Included in Republican Platform.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—Sharp opposition to a number of the plank of the republican party platform worked out by leaders at their all-night conference developed today at the final meeting of the resolutions committee. As a result one plank was re-written and modifications were made in several others.

The world court, the Ku Klux Klan and the railroad question were the chief fighting points.

The world court plank as recommended by the draft committee was approved only after Congressman Warren had given his personal assurance that it had been written by President Coolidge himself.

Attempts to alter this provision were made by Senator Watson of Indiana and Imreid of Oklahoma.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was presented by R. B. Greger, national committeeman from Texas, who insisted on an unmistakable and vigorous declaration against that organization. He offered a sub-stronger in lieu than the constitutional guarantee provision submitted by the drafting committee, but lost his fight. It was currently reported that the vote was 18 to 17.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, former chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, forced a re-write of the plank dealing with railroads. He expressed dissatisfaction with its wording and it was necessary to apply two different sub-committees to work out sub-drafts before an agreement could be reached.

BOURBONS FAVOR BROWN

CONCORD, N. H., June 11 (AP)—The democratic state committee voted today to place the name of Governor Fred H. Brown in nomination for the presidency at the democratic national convention at New York.

Believe Idaho Senator Will Be Named; Party Platform Is Adopted

Early Morning Conference Results in Leaders' Decision to Recommend Senator's Nomination; Convention Rejects LaFollette Planks; Applause for Coolidge Features.

CLEVELAND, June 12 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho was agreed upon by administration leaders early this morning for the vice presidential nomination.

Word came from Washington that the Idaho senator would be satisfactory to President Coolidge and the conferees agreed to recommend his nomination to their delegations.

Present at the conference representing their state delegations were Secretary Mellon and Senators Reed and Pepper of Pennsylvania; C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president; Charles D. Miller and Theodore Roosevelt of New York, and William Butler of Massachusetts, president's campaign manager, and Frank B. Stearns of Boston, his friend and adviser.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY FORMED

Independent Is Name Selected; Will Choose Candidates Early Next Month.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 11 (AP)—Organization of a new political party, to be known as the national independent party, was effected at a meeting of voters from several states here today.

The executive committee of the party will meet here July 5 to choose a candidate for president and vice president of the United States, a statement said.

The executive committee is composed of Edwin L. Johnson and H. Earl Brown, Indiana; N. Nelson, Texas; James E. Miller and Lulu L. Kleinschmidt, Missouri; W. H. Garvey, Arkansas; Elva Kling, Iowa; D. R. Baldwin, Montana; Gladys McGuire, California; Silas N. Dunn, Colorado, and John Zahnd and Leonard C. Simmons, Indiana.

The party platform advocated government ownership of banks, outlawry of war, revision of electoral system of selecting national officers and election of federal judges for fixed terms.

CONVENTION HALL, Cleveland, June 11 (AP)—In a brief session marked with a prolonged demonstration for President Coolidge, the republican national convention tonight adopted its platform as reported by the committee and rejected the LaFollette planks presented by the Wisconsin delegation.

The chorus of "e's" from the Wisconsin representatives was put on the adoption were almost lost in the great convention hall which had not finished reverberating from a tornado of applause.

Charles B. Warren, chairman of the resolutions committee, read the platform as it finally was approved and moved its adoption.

Representative Joseph of Wisconsin presented the LaFollette platform and spoke in its support. Mr. Warren made no extended arguments against the LaFollette planks, merely reminding the convention that the platform as brought forward by the committee had been approved by every member except the member from Wisconsin, and that the committee's action might be considered a fair cross section of the sentiment of the convention.

Will Vote Today.

The platform out of the way in record time, the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to

Colorado Woman Leads in Voting of Federation

Early Returns Indicate Montana Resident Defeated by Two to One in Club Election at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP)—Mrs. John D. Sherman of Boise, Pa., Colorado, defeated Mrs. William T. Fehman of Glendive, Montana, by a two to one vote in today's balloting for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, according to returns obtained at convention headquarters tonight.

The race, second vice presidency, the only other office for which more than one candidate contested none of the aspirants gained a majority of votes cast and another election will be necessary.

Balloting closed at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, with the extreme and keen rivalry between the supporters of the two candidates for the presidency remaining until the final vote was cast. Tonight both camps are predicting victory.

The report of the committee on outside advertising, urging restriction of billboards along public highways, precipitated one of the liveliest battles on the convention floor.

BOISE WINS POLO TITLE

BOISE, June 11 (AP)—Boise's polo team added fresh laurels to its already long string when it won the championship of the northwest by defeating Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, here this afternoon, winding up the annual polo classic. Boise came through the tournament with a perfect record while each other team lost at least two games.

Republicans' Position on Important Affairs Is Given in Platform

Many Accomplishments Listed Under G. O. P. Regime; Demand Rigid Economy in Government; Would Reduce Taxes Further; Pledge Favorable Action on Agriculture.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—The following is the principal part of the text of the republican platform as presented by the subcommittee to the full resolutions committee at the national convention here today:

"We, the delegates of the republican party in national convention assembled, bow our heads in reverent memory of Warren G. Harding.

"As delegates of the republican party we share in the national tragedy arising that in the great emergency created by the death of our great leader there stood forth fully equipped to be his successor and whom we had nominated as vice president Coolidge, who as vice president and president by his every act has justified the faith and confidence which he has won from the nation.

Situation in 1921.

"When the republican administration took control of the government in 1921 there were four and a half million unemployed; industry and commerce were stagnant; agriculture was prostrated; business was paralyzed; government bonds were selling below their par value.

"Pence was delayed; misunderstanding and friction characterized our relations abroad. There was a lack of faith in the administration of government resulting in a growing feeling of distrust in the very principles upon which our institutions are founded.

"Today industry and commerce are active; public and private credits are sound; we have made peace; we have taken the first step toward peace; we have strengthened our friendship with the world powers; our relations with the rest of the world are on a firmer basis; our position was never better understood; our foreign policy never more definitely consistent. The tasks to which we have put our hands are completed. Time has been too short for the generation of all the life we received as a heritage from the last democratic administration and the notable accomplishments under republican rule warrant us in appealing to the country with entire confidence.

Public Economy.

"We demand and the people of the United States have a right to demand, rigid economy in government. The policy of strict economy enforced by the republican administration since 1921 has made possible a reduction in taxation and has enabled the government to reduce the public debt by two and a half billion dollars. This policy vigorously enforced, has resulted in a progressive reduction of public expenditures until they are now one billion dollars per annum less than in 1921. The tax burdens of the people have been reduced to the extent of $1,250,000,000 per annum. Government securities have been increased in value more than three billion dollars. Deficits have been converted into surpluses. The budget system has been firmly established and the number of federal employees has been reduced more than one hundred thousand. We commend the firm insistence of President Coolidge upon rigid government economy and pledge him our earnest support to this end.

Finance and Taxation.

"We believe that the achievement of the republican administration in reducing taxation by $1,250,000,000 per annum; reducing the public debt by $2,432,000,000; installing a budget system; reducing the public expenditures from five billion five hundred million dollars per annum to approximately $3,400,000,000 per annum, thus reducing the ordinary expenditures of the government to substantially a pre-war basis and the complete restoration of public credit; the payment or refunding of seven and a half billions of public obligations without disturbance of credit or industry—all during the short period of three years—constitute a record unsurpassed in the history of public finance.

"The tariff protection to our industry works for increased consumption of domestic agricultural products by an employed population instead of one unable to purchase the necessities of life. Without the strict maintenance of the tariff principle our farmers will need always to compete with cheap lands and cheap labor abroad and with lower standards of living.

"The enormous value of the protective principle has once more been demonstrated by the emergency tariff act of 1921, and the tariff act of 1922.

"We assert our belief in the elastic provision adopted by congress in the tariff act of 1922 providing for a method of readjusting the tariff rates and the classifications in order to meet changing economic conditions when such changed conditions are brought to the attention of the president by complaint or application.

"We pledge ourselves to the progressive reduction of taxes of all the people as rapidly as may be done with disregard for the essential expenditures of the government administered with rigid economy and to place our tax system on a sound peace basis.

"We endorse the plan of President Coolidge to call in November a national conference of federal and state officials for the development of the effective method of lightening the tax burden of our citizens and adjusting questions of taxation as between national and state government.

Reorganization of Departments.

"We favor a comprehensive reorganization of the executive departments and bureaus along the line of the plan recently submitted by a joint committee of the congress which has the unified support of President Coolidge.

"Improvement in the enforcement of sources is one of the most solemn responsibilities of government. There is an obligation which cannot be ignored and which demands that the federal government shall as far as it lies in its power give to the people and the states the benefit of its counsel.

"The welfare activities of the government connected with the various departments are already numerous and important, but of constant vigilance which is essential to effective action. To meet these demands we approve the suggestion for the creation of a cabinet post of education and relief.

Universal Mobilization.

"We believe that in time of war the nation should draft for its defense not only its citizens but also every resource which may contribute to success. The country demands that should the United States ever again be called upon to defend itself by arms the president be empowered to draft such material required, and to stabilize the prices of services and essential commodities, whether used in actual warfare or private activities.

Orderly Government.

"The republican party reaffirms its devotion to orderly government under the guarantees embodied in the constitution of the United States. We recognize the duty of constant vigilance to preserve at all times a clean and honest government and to bring to the bar of justice every defiler of the public service in or out of office.

"Admitting the deep humiliation which all good citizens share, that our public life should have harbored some dishonest men, we assert that these undesirable do not represent the standard of our national integrity.

"The government at Washington is served today by thousands of earnest, conscientious, faithful officials and employees in every department.

"It is a grave wrong against these patriotic men and women to strive indiscriminately to besmirch the names of the innocent and undermine the confidence of the people in the government under which they live. It is over a graver wrong when this is done for partisan purposes or for selfish exploitation.

Immigration and Naturalization.

"We favor the adoption of methods which will exercise a helpful influence among the foreign-born population and provide for the education of the alien in our language, customs, ideals and standards of life. We favor the improvement of naturalization laws.

Reclamation.

"The federal reclamation of the arid and semi-arid lands in the west have been the subject of intense study in the department of the interior during the past year. No policies and methods of operation have been adopted which tend to insure the successful accomplishment of the objects sought. The completion of this reorganization plan in the interests of farmers and of all the people ultimately.

Agriculture.

"In dealing with agriculture the republican party recognized that we are faced with a fundamental national problem and that the prosperity and welfare of the nation as a whole is dependent upon the prosperity and welfare of our agricultural population.

"We recognize our agricultural activities are still struggling with adverse conditions that have been brought about distress. We pledge the party to take whatever steps may be necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor which was destroyed by the democratic party through an unfortunate administration of legislation passed as wartime measures.

"We affirm that under the republican administration the problems of the farmer have received more consideration than ever before both by definite executive action and by congressional action not only in the field of general legislation but also in the enactment of laws to meet emergency situations.

"We promise every assistance in the reorganization of the market system on sounder and more economical lines and where diversification is needed government assistance during the period of transition. Vigorous efforts of this administration towards broadening our exports market will be continued. The republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industry to assure its prosperity and success.

Highways.

"The federal aid to road act adopted by the republican congress in 1921, has been of untimely value to the development of the highway system of several states and of the nation. We pledge a continuation of this policy of federal co-operation with the states in highway building.

Railroads.

"The people demand and are entitled to have prompt and efficient transportation at the lowest rates consistent with good service and a reasonable return upon the value of the property devoted to public service.

"We believe that the American people demand, and we favor a careful and scientific readjustment of railroad rate schedules with a view to the encouragement of agriculture and basic industries, without impairment of railroad service.

"The present laws regulating railroads which were enacted to meet post-war conditions should be modified from time to time as experience shows the necessity therefor.

Government Control.

"The prosperity of the nation rests on the vigor of private initiative which has bred a spirit of independence and self-reliance. The republican party stands now as always, against all attempts to put the government into business.

World War Veterans.

"The republican party pledges a continually and increasing solicitude for all those suffering any disability as a result of service to the United States in time of war.

"We pledge ourselves to meet the problem which the future will affect the care of our wounded and disabled in a spirit of liberality, and with that thoughtful consideration which will enable the government to give to the individual veteran that full measure of care gained by an effective administration machinery to which his patriotic services and sacrifices entitle him.

Conservation.

"We believe in the development, effective and efficient, whether of oil, timber, coal or water power, resources of this government, only as needed and only after the public needs have become a matter of public record, controlled with a scrupulous regard and over-vigilant safeguards against waste, separation and monopoly.

Education and Relief.

"The conservation of human re-

HEALTH OFFICERS OF WORLD TO UNITE IN ONE SOCIETY

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—There is soon to be organized an international health society, as a result of the recent interchange of public health officers who have visited this country to study English public health methods.

A provisional committee, composed of doctors from Great Britain, Russia, France, Germany, Poland, Italy and Ecuador has been elected to draw up the constitution. The society will have its headquarters at Geneva and all public health officers who have already taken part in league interchange—340 from 43 different countries—will be invited to become original members.

Many of these doctors have not so far been interested in the work of the league of nations, but their society will have as its principal object the development of the league's health organization. The members of the new society will also exchange information on preventive medicine and all matters of public health.

GERMANY OFFERS GOOD MARKET FOR AMERICAN AUTOMOBILES

BERLIN, June 11 (AP)—Prospects for American automobiles in Germany are excellent and especially in the medium priced cars may a substantial business be looked for, says a trade report of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany. Auto trucks also will find a good market here, the report avers.

High priced passenger cars will meet the competition of German manufacturers, according to the chamber, so it appears that cars selling below $1000 will be mostly in demand.

standards of life. We favor the improvement of naturalization laws.

No policies and methods of operation have been adopted which tend to insure the successful accomplishment of the objects sought. 'ENJOY ARDEN' PROVISION IN NEW CERCH MARRIAGE LAWS

PEABODY, June 10 (AP)—The newly formulated bill regulating marriage in Czechoslovakia contains an "Enjoy Arden" clause. It provides that, in the event of the return of a husband thought dead after the woman has remarried, he has no legal rights that can affect the new marriage.

The conditions that prevailed throughout Europe in the period just after the war, when the return of men missing or reported dead to find remarried wives, was an ordinary affair, probably inspired the law.

Otherwise the marriage act as framed follows those of most countries. Both civil and religious ceremonies are recognized. The marriageable age for males is fixed at 18 and for females 16.

WOMEN WATCH WEIGHT

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 11 (AP)—Women weight themselves more frequently than men, the New Castle city council has discovered. Penny weight machines maintained by the city disclosed this fact when the receipts were counted. Machines located where women use them showed nearly four times as much income as those more available for the use of men.

Hen Cannot Steal

The District court at Chelsea, Mass., ruled that a hen cannot steal and therefore is not amenable to the law. Lady Camille, a hen in a poultry show, was haled into court on charges of larceny for plucking a diamond from a ring on the finger of George A. Hennessey. The court said that Hennessey had no redress against John Strom, the owner of the hen, nor against Lady Camille, who was ordered restored to her coop in the chicken show.—Pathfinder.

SHEPPARD TAKES 10-ROUND BOUT FROM IDAHO MAN

Potter No Match for Salt Lake Heavyweight; Feature Event of Elks' Program Draws Big Crowd; Hanna Wins.

Ed Sheppard of Salt Lake, Utah heavyweight champion, won a judges' decision over Henry Potter of Idaho, Idaho, in a scheduled 10-round bout presented at the main event of the boxing exhibition staged as a feature of the Idaho Elks' association convention entertainment program at the longue ball grounds Wednesday before a comfortable crowd.

The semi-finals between Bert Dolano of Twin Falls and "Pip" Hanna of Pocatello, both in the light-weight class, was a short-lived affair. Hanna completely outclassed his opponent from the first and in the second round of the scheduled six rounds he sent a left and right hook to the head that made Dolano take the count.

"Battling Luke" Hull of Crooksville, Mo., won a decision in the first preliminary of the afternoon against Toughy (Tuffy) Schell of Sacramento, Cal., in a four-round bout. The first round between this pair was more or less of a disappointment to the fans, and the bout was won and lost by both in the course of the battle, Schell staying down long enough for the count in the second round, but the referee forgot about counting so the bout continued in the third when Hull brought Schell to his knees and then punched him while Referee Tobler was counting the Sacramento fighter out. However, the decision failed to please the fans and the two fought a fourth round with Hull getting the decision.

As a third preliminary, two bantam weights, "Smitty" Smith, a local school boy, and "Katie" Wilson, manager for Sheppard, staged a four-round exhibition which pleased the crowd.

Issues "Challenges."
Previous to the main bout, Doctor Snook, timekeeper for the events, made an announcement of a "challenge" received just before the bout from D. E. Sullivan, who all thought absent for the day's festivities, presented his share of the amusement with a telegram which read:

"I heroby challenge winner of feather or-wight contest today to a finish fight. No decision, loser take all, 50 foot ring, 60 ounce gloves. I am in the pick of condition. Signed 'Sully.' C. D. Thomas introduced Potter, who entered the ring first, as the heavy-weight champion of Idaho, weighing 161 pounds. A few minutes later he introduced Ed Sheppard, who entered the ring at 161 pounds as the champion of Utah. "Dick" Tobler, referee, spoke to the men and the battle started.

Sheppard Leads.
Sheppard took the aggressive from the start and for the first two rounds Potter, fighting a defensive battle, was able to hold his own. In the third round Sheppard drew blood and Potter gave some signs of weakening. The fourth round went to Potter with a comeback to Sheppard's offensive. In the fifth and sixth Sheppard again was the aggressor, smashing out rights and lefts in an effort to put Potter on the floor, but the Idaho man was capable of taking punishment and doggedly held off an attack until the seventh round, when a furious attack drove him through the ropes. He came back in the eighth and ninth, however, and the pace set by Sheppard in the earlier rounds began to tell on his wind. Sheppard continued to reduce Potter's space to a mere or less bloody proposition in the final rounds, easily getting the decision of both judges, one of whom gave Potter but three of the ten rounds and the other who gave Sheppard six with the remaining four called as draws.

sightseeing. They will go from here to Yellowstone park.
A. E. Herren from Phoenix, Ariz., stopped off a short time on his way to Coitack.

The tourists are getting more numerous every day. During the month of May the average number in the park was a fraction over nine. For the first ten days in June the average is almost fourteen.

There are still some people who object to a charge being made for parking privilege, but the most bitter opponents are residents of Twin Falls, and not the tourists. Several travelers have said that they would not stay in a free camp.

THE LIVING RAIN; WHAT IT MEANS

'Tow city folks realize how serious was the drought that was broken by the recent rains. In some sections the beet seed had not sprouted. It is reported that in other sections the beet fields were plowed up. The range on which cattle and sheep graze was burning. There was a feeling of gloom on the part of farmers and stockmen and on the part of business men in town who were familiar with the condition.

And then came the saving rains. Reports are to the effect that the rain was general in Utah and southern Idaho. Cities can not prosper unless farming sections prosper, for most of our wealth comes out of the ground.

EVER STRETCH A DOLLAR BILL?

Ever take a dollar bill in your hands and try to stretch it? If it's a new bill, it won't stretch a bit, and if it's an old one maybe it will budge a fractional part of an inch. But it goes right back into place again. It won't stay stretched.

There's another way you can stretch a dollar bill, however. And make it stay stretched. Positively! Often you can stretch it to cover a territory usually covered by two one dollar bills. By shopping around in this great store—by sojourning in Adventure Land where value and quality do a little act all of their own—that always wins the audience's applause.

For be it known that there are many bargains that are never advertised. There are many short lines of merchandise that are never shown in the windows. There is always being thrown on the tables of all sections merchandise that is left over—and always it is picked up by prudent shoppers.

Some women are good shoppers—most women are; but there is a class who buy without investigating. While we are glad, of course, to have customers buy promptly, still as a matter of fact we'll admit that it pays to shop around. Be free to shop around on every floor of the store. Whether you buy or not—it is a pleasant thing to do. Incidentally, it's the only way we know of to make a dollar bill stretch.

Stout Women Are Interested

A contrivance has been created for the reduction of the lines of an over-large figure. Although it has been shown here for the first time within a month, already the sale is very large.

It is a hip-confiner of pure gum that is worn next to the skin; at once the figure is improved and gradually reduced. Ask to see the hip-reducer at the Corset section.

They are the parent store at Ogden, the store at Pocatello, one at Twin Falls, Idaho, one at Idaho Falls, one at Burley, and one at Rupert. "DEFENSIVE WAR"

It is reassuring to find certain large groups of citizens, in urging that war be "outlawed," and voicing their horror of all warfare, declare at the same time that "of course they would fight in a defensive war."

Nearly everybody, possessed of any physical courage or moral responsibility, would do that—granted that there was no question about the "defensive" nature of the war. But there is the real question. What is a "defensive war?"

History shows that almost without exception, wars are considered defensive by both sides. It was so in the World war. The defensive case of France and Belgium seems simple enough, for they were suddenly attacked and it became a question of self-preservation. The case of Great Britain and America, and various other Allies was not quite so clear, yet their fighting is generally explained as defensive, on the ground that Germany aimed at them indirectly, and would have attacked them eventually. But the Germans themselves have always maintained that their attack on their neighbors was defensive, because if they had not attacked when they did, the neighbors would have attacked them sooner or later.

Consider also the question of fighting for the defense of another nation, as the British and Americans professed to be doing while the World war was in progress. Would that be ruled out by the outlaws of offensive fighting?

Specifically, would the reformers in question have fought in our own Mexican war, or in our Spanish war, one of which has often been called a war of conquest and the other of which was entered upon in a spirit of pure altruism?

All this is said not in antagonism to any genuine peace movement, but in emphasis of the fact that the whole question of war and peace is badly confused and demands clear thinking and precise speaking.

A STANDARDIZED WORLD

Henry Ford reports that he has now produced ten million cars of his standard model. More impressive still is the recorded increase in the rate of production. Starting in 1903, it took the Ford Motor company seven years to turn out the first million cars. It turned out the last million in one hundred thirty-two working days.

Millions of cars exactly alike! That is the most notable example of the whole industrial tendency nowadays.
Standardization is the big thing. Every product must be made according to a standard type, for quantity production.

This is good economically. It simplifies manufacture and makes things cheap, thus broadcasting comforts and conveniences.
In other ways it is not so good.
Even Ford owners get tired occasionally of seeing so many Fords on the street. Uniformity palls, whether it be uniformity of automobiles, phonographs, clothes, rocking chairs or tablecloths. The mind craves variety and individuality in things as in people.
Imagine all our pictures and statues standardized! Art fights for its life against uniformity. And art simply grows out of human nature. Therefore it is a foregone conclusion that civilized life is not going to be standardized altogether. There will be a revolt, sooner or later, and a movement back to variety and individuality.
People can afford to indulge their

MY HUSBAND DOES IN CHURCH.

That's the only thing that reconciles me to the fact that he never goes more than once a month. If he'd only keep away, I know I'd adopt strict rules of attendance for him.

But by the time the service is about fifteen minutes under way, Hugh begins to close his eyes. By nudging I can keep him fairly alert for fifteen minutes more. But after that it's a losing fight.

I generally have to wake him up for the hymn after the sermon. And then he's not at all likely to ask me to take me home and tell me that he hasn't been asleep at all.

I know that half the congregation was seen him snoring, and I'm always embarrassed to walk out of church with him.

Especially when he asks all of the people we meet if they didn't think the sermon was splendid.

personal preferences better, too, after a generation or two of great economies through standardization.

"TOO HAPPY"

There is an eloquent sermon in the suicide of the New York boy who killed himself in Quebec because he had everything he wanted. People have always smiled at the Gilbert-Sullivan song which runs:

"Oh don't the day seem dark and long
When all goes right and nothing goes wrong!"

And in life extremely flat
With nothing whatever to grumble at?

That seemed "more" whimsical fancy. Yet here is the young man found lying beside his limousine with a bullet wound in his head and a note pinned to his coat, saying:

I wish it to be known that I committed suicide because I was too happy. I always got what I wanted in my life. My parents are millionaires, realized all I wished, I do not find life good enough to remain in it.

No the person who gets everything he wants is unhappy! Tell that to the steungling lad in his poverty, to encourage him. Life grows uninteresting if everything comes easily. The road ahead becomes uninviting. There is no more adventure and life should be a glorious adventure.

Civil Improvement Is Object of "Rotarians"

The Rotarians are members of the Rotary club, which was formed in Chicago in 1906 by four men—a coal dealer, mining operator, merchant tailor and lawyer. "Rotary" was chosen for the name of the club because the members met in "rotation" at their places of business. Civil improvement was the object of the club and the motto adopted is: "Service above self—life profits most who serves best." Other clubs were soon organized in other cities and in 1910 the convention was held in Chicago at which a national association of Rotary clubs was formed. Two years later order to include clubs from foreign countries the association was made international. At the beginning of 1923 the membership of the association totaled over $3,000. Membership in a local club is restricted to one man from each business or profession.
A new club must start with not less than 15 or more than 25 members. The clubs are grouped in districts, each district electing a governor to represent the district at the international board, which meets in Chicago every 90 days. The Rotarian, a monthly published at Chicago, is the official publication of the organization.

Keeps Absolute Check on Time Taken for Operation

Modern efficiency methods as applied in factories and shops often make it necessary to study the time required for different operations in the manufacture of certain products. For this work it is absolutely necessary to have a stop watch. The conventional stop watch, however, leaves much to be desired, for the reason that, while it gives the time elapsed for a certain operation, it is necessary to indulge in a considerable calculation for determining the output per hour.
Now a time-study watch has been evolved for the purpose of eliminating all computation and making it possible for an observer to read from the dial the quantity desired. The circumference of the dial of the time divides into 100 parts, as in the well-known decimal dial, but instead of these divisions being numbered in the ordinary manner they are marked with figures which indicate the number of operations per hour, when the time of a single operation is represented by the elapsed time. In this little party very short operations ten operations instead of one can be timed.

A MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GEORGIE FROG'S PARTY

There was great excitement in the pond for the Green Frogs were going to have a party.

Georgie Frog was to be the host and he had asked everyone to come.

"We're going to see who can jump
the highest," he
had told his guests.

They certainly made a splendid
jumps and the
young Green Frogs screamed
with excitement
as is their way
while the older
frogs spoke or
even shouted in
lower toned voices as was their way.

And then some arrived late at the party. They had just been moulting their skins but they had moulting them out of the water.

"We all moulting our skins," they said, and all the other frogs nodded.

"Had we been in the water when we were moulting we would have let the skins float away from us."

"But as they couldn't float away on land we ate them."

They seemed to be easily understood by the other frogs for once again they all blinked their eyes and nodded.

They were all ready for the feast
now. And such a feast as it was.

Water beetles and dragon flies and other goodies according to the frogs were thoroughly enjoyed.

And then after the banquet Georgie Green Frog sat upon a stump and made a speech.

"Frog friends," he began, and then
he cleared his throat.

All of the frogs looked at Georgie.
He was pleased to have their attention.

"There was a time," said Georgie,
"when I was a foolish young frog. I thought I would like to go with those bigger than frogs."

"It showed my foolishness and my ignorance, to be a green frog in like a green frog. A green frog is like a bull frog in taking time to become perfect."

"A green frog does not become a regular frog until two or three seasons have passed."

"But I was young and foolish and I'm sorry for what I did."

"You will grow old and tears in the eyes of Georgie Green Frog."

It made him so sad to think that at one time he had not thought the frogs were good enough for him.

But the other frogs admired Georgie because he had had the good sense to see that snobbishness was only foolish.

"We like you all the better for your mistakes, Georgie," they cried. "You're so human a frog
if we may use
that expression."

And Georgie
smiled.

"I hope you will let me give a party for you again, Frog friends. And permit me to say once more that I am delighted to have been your host."

And all the frogs said:
"Georgie-a-room, Georgie-a-room, Georgie is a good sort. Yes, Georgie Green Frog is a good sort, and we're for him!"

Soundproof Booths

Soundproof telephone booths are constructed by various firms, and owing to the principle involved in their makeup it is said that not the least sound can escape from them while the telephone is being used.

The walls of the booth are built of five layers of thin wood, with the grain crossed each time, and the layers are glued together, the whole then being covered with a special soundproof compound.

Inasmuch as the whole is made in six dismountable panels a booth can be set up in a short time and panels are not too large to be taken in through an ordinary door. Insulated openings are left in the partitions beforehand, so that there is no need of boring holes to install telephone or electric light wires.

Fire Done Away With.

The four new ocean-going dredges designed by the United States Engineering Corps to clean American harbors of sand and silt are said to be the only human habitations since the dawn of civilization in which fire in some form is not used or needed.

Each vessel is 235 feet long and is propelled by electric power from generators driven by oil engines. All control is direct from the bridge, without reference to the engine-room.

Fifty-six electric motors operate the dredging machinery and do all the work of the ship from weighing the anchor to driving the electric fans that ventilate the crew's quarters.

Lighting Bore Iron

During an electrical storm in Ohio an official of a lumber company sitting in his office was startled by a loud report like the discharge of a gun, and looking up at the ceiling, noticed a blino. On examination he found that there was a hole large enough to insert his little finger in the iron gas pipe. The lightning had come in over the electric wires, jumped off on to the gas pipe, which they crossed at right angles, bored through the iron and ignited the escaping gas.

The Last Straw

Mr. Busman was exasperated with the telephone. Ten times that morning he had tried to get a number and each time something had prevented him from speaking. At last he got through.

"Hello!" he said. "Is Mr. X there?"
"Yes," replied a voice, "Do you want to speak to him?"

That was the last straw. Back went the reply in icy tones: "Oh, no! I merely rang him up to hand him a cigarette."

Home of the Brave

"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the answerer,
"proves that America is fast becoming the land of the free."

"Yes," said his friend, "and the continuance of the marriage rates shows that it is still the home of the brave."

Prehistoric Boat

A boat eleven feet long and three feet wide, hollowed out of the trunk of an oak tree, has been found in the sand at Humber, Ferry marches, in England. It is estimated by experts to be 5,000 years old.

At Rapid City fresh horses were sent. The coming of the coach was but little interest. It carried much wealth, securely guarded. The agents wanted none of that game. But the town was most anxious to learn the latest Indian news, as extravagant stories of danger had been relayed by volunteers and irresponsible misad-venturers.

The guards were eagerly questioned. Was Crazy Horse camping on the Belle Fourche? Had Sitting Bull cut off the Blamark and Fort Pierre trails with a force of six thousand braves? Was there any truth in the report that the bulk of Crook's command had suffered the fate of Custer's five companies? On receiving reassuring answers some persisted in believing the sending out of the gold, evidenced a fear of an early attack. One man bitterly complained:

"They'll take after the dust under your feet, but they don't fix it so the women and children will be safe.
Gold's more precious than human life."

"We've got to be in Sidney in fifty hours. So long," shouted the driver as the last trace was secured; and the long and arduous journey of the leaders and the coach plunged ahead.

With the Spring creek crossing ahead the road grew more in closer.
Horse-thieves were reputed to have their headquarters somewhere on the divide between the Spring and Rapid,
and while it was not generally believed that the horse-thieves and road-agents belonged to the same band it would be easy for lawless men to desert one vocation for another when a quarter of a million dollars was involved.

Dinsdale had hung back with the main body, but after the first two miles he gave Hornsabout Webb a signal to follow him and galloped on in advance. Webb pounded after him and was riding by his side when the two turned a wooded bend and were lost to view. Roberts heard Dinsdale call out sharply and sprang to follow to investigate. He found Dinsdale afloat and trying to lift Webb back on his horse.

"Nas stumbled and threw him.
Never tried to save himself. Landed like a bag of meal, right on his head."

"Leave him lay till the coach comes up and we'll stick him inside. He'll be a guard!" growled Roberts.

They had gone too far to take him back to Rapid City and, failing to find a camp of miners on Spring or Battle creeks, it would be necessary to take him through to Custer City on French creek. The man was unconscious but breathing in a stertorous manner.
Roberts examined him and pronounced it to be a fracture on top of his head.
Dinsdale was more optimistic and said
the skull was not broken.

Disposing of him they resumed their way, Roberts now riding ahead with Dinsdale. Heretofore Roberts had done most of the talking. Now Dins-dale gestured for him to pay sharp attention and began to talk. Roberts was powerless for several minutes to do anything when his companion began again. Again Dinsdale spoke, and curtly and incisively.

"That's all. Don't ask any questions. Ride back. Soon we'll come to a spring across the road."

Following his horse Roberts galloped back to the coach. Dinsdale disappeared and walked on the right of his horse, his eyes searching the road ahead. A quarter of a mile brought him to a spring rising across the road. He slipped his gun to the bush growth just beyond him and came to a stop. From behind him came the faint throb of racing hoofs, each moment growing more audible.

A masked figure leaped from the bushes ahead and gently called out:
"D—n you, Dinsdale! You're betrayed us."

As the fellow spoke up went his gun and as it exploded two shots from the bushes roared out. The horse went down, shot through the head. Around upon Dinsdale, his right arm helpless.
He began firing with his left hand and the man in the road swayed wildly, but doggedly continued working the trigger although his head went wild of the mark. As he collapsed a muffled scream rang out from the bushes, a howl of rage rather than pain, and there was a crashing in the underbrush as men hastily rode away. Roberts dashed up with half of the guard, shooting into the woods at random. Three men ran to the prostrate man and pulled off his mask.
Dinsdale forced himself to look. It was the man known as Easy, and a red welt showed through the clipped hair where Dinsdale had struck him down in the cellar of the horse thief's rendezvous.

"And Joe said his name was Roach.
Roach of Crook City," cried Dinsdale with a hysterical laugh. He grabbed a horse by the bridle and crawled into the saddle.

"Stop! Don't let him go! He's hurt!" howled Roberts, and he made a dash to seize the bridle. But the horse jumped ahead and tore down the road.

As Dinsdale swooped around the next bend he glimpsed a figure crashing into cover on his right, and he knew the fugitives had crossed the road and were making for their hiding places on the divide. He sent his horse through the alders and hazel and gained the foot of a long slope where the growth was pine and spruce and more open. One horseman was riding into a dry gulley. Another had elected to take a trail leading along the south bank of the gulley. As the man in the gulley was the easier to follow Dinsdale turned his attention to him.

He heard the sound of another horseman crashing through the growth to the north of him and from the rapidity of his advance it was obvious he thought the alders and hazel were giving the slope. This puzzled Dinsdale, as he did not believe any of the guard had had time to get above him.

As he drove his mount into the gulley he gave a last look for the newcomer. Then the bank of the dry water course shut off all view except that of the alders and the stinging thrust of rifle bullets from the divide south bank warned him of a double danger. A bit of smoke on top of the bank revealed the source of the shot, but the marksmen, or of the quarry ahead, Dinsdale had yet had no glance at them. He swung in toward the south bank to get under cover and a second shot whistled close to his head.

His horse scrambled desperately over the rough footing, making slow progress; then a gun cracked ahead and Dinsdale owed his life to the tough bough that deflected the bullet. Slipping from his horse Dinsdale ran in under the bank and, shielded from the man above, began working forward.

The firing from the bank continued,
and Dinsdale was puzzled until he heard answering shots from behind him. He glanced back, but could see no one, and decided the man he had been tracking down the slope must be one of the guards, miraculously arrived to aid him.

In district court at the trial of a suit in which he was an attorney. In response to the welcoming address, A. M. Peterson of Pocatello, president of the state association, referred to his former residence in Twin Falls when he was one of the "Homestead Twenty," a notable historic organization composed of the pioneer citizens of Twin Falls.

G. W. Edgington of Idaho Falls, district deputy grand exalted ruler, and C. L. Stewart of Boise, past president of the state association, who also were to have responded to the welcoming address, were unable to be present, and letters of regret were also read from James G. McFarland, grand exalted ruler, and R. E. Evans of Tacoma, member of the Elks' general welfare committee.

The convention session recessed after the appointment of a credentials committee composed of W. A. Baker, Idaho Falls; J. F. Garvin, Blackfoot; A. J. Pierce, Pocatello; H. R. Grant, Twin Falls; C. R. Kollenborn, Nampa; S. E. Boice, Caldwell; Fred Roseno, Boise, and P. B. Parks, Barley.

Festivities of the afternoon were featured by one of the largest parades in Twin Falls' history, in which hundreds of Elks passed in review before throngs of friendly spectators lining the streets on the line of march.

The national emblem and the Elks' banner were borne at the head of the procession. Thereafter came members Twin Falls police and Twin Falls municipal officials in cars. Then came officers of the Twin Falls lodge on foot, the Twin Falls band and more than 200 members of the Twin Falls lodge.

Pocatello's Royal Italian band led the second section of the parade, in which members of visiting delegations and Boise lodge's famous drill team in imposing uniforms were included.

Handsomely decorated floats built for the Twin Falls lodge and two business houses, Straus and Glander and the Idaho Department store, concluded the second section of the parade in the wake of which many citizens in automobiles covered the line of march.

Pocatello's band, on the street in front of the Elks' club immediately after the parade, gave a concert which local handsomeness pronounced the best concert, without exception, ever given in Twin Falls.

While many of the convention visitors repaired later in the afternoon to the hall park to witness the boxing exhibition, visiting ladies were honored guests at a reception given at the Elks' club which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion.

In the evening a large crowd witnessed Boise's drill teams almost faultless execution of complicated drill movements presented on the street in front of the Elks' club.

Dancing for members of the order and their ladies continued until midnight in the Elks' lodge room and at Danefeland, both halls being beautifully decorated with the colors of the order for the occasion.

Edited by Mrs. E. R. Williams Telephone 396

At the regular business meeting of the Pythian Sisters Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: M. E. C. Pearl Woodhead; E. S. Beatrice Higbee; E. J. Victoria Anderson; manager, Olive Westfall; M. of R. and C. Mabel Halpin; M. of S. Birdie Sundholtz; president, Birdie Foster; guard, Mrs. Minnie Griffin. After the business session the lodge members were entertained by Mrs. F. H. Higbee, Mrs. Frank Ham and Mrs. W. O. Griffin, who had arranged a novel program. Sides were chosen and a bird contest enjoyed, the losing side to entertain the winners. The judges were unable to decide which side won so the entire company adjourned to the Poppy for refreshments. The hall was artistically decorated with roses.

Mrs. R. B. Spafford was hostess to the Wednesday Bridge club this week. Honors for high score were won by Mrs. Jack Thorp.

The Unity club gave their annual children's party Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Carlson. There was a very delightful program by the children after which games on the lawn moved to pass the time most enjoyably. Late in the afternoon ice cream and cake were served. There was a large attendance of members, guests and children.

The M. S. S. club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. H. Shipman. On account of the illness of the president, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. C. W. Griggs and opened with the singing of America, followed by the usual business session. There was much discussion as to whether the club should meet once or twice a month during the summer months and the vote was almost unanimous to continue as usual twice a month. With the Jantzen, women nowadays can swim. Our stock offers you a wide selection of color combinations. We have suits for men, women and children.
